There haue ben many notabell men heretofore, which haue written very excellente thinges of the vse of the Olde Testament, stopping their mouthes, which say yͭ those bokes were written onely to the Iewes, and that they conteine nothing els but certaine hystories of old thinges, moreouer that there is nothing to be sought in them but allegories. These men are vtterly deceiued, wheras Christ and the Apostles so often hath moniched to ouer see the bokes of Moses and the Prophetes. For of me, sayth Christ in the .v. of Iohn, hath Moses written: & Paul in the .i. to the Romaines, teacheth that the Gospell was promised of God in the Scriptures. Therfore the reding of the old Testament is not to be despised, but with all diligence to be folowed, wherof the Apostles, yea, & Christ himself hath brought witnesse of their doctrine, and with authoritie of it haue confirmed the very Gospel. For what is yͤ Gospell els, but a maner of open preaching of sayinges and promyses of the olde Testament, the which be fulfilled by Christ: For thus also thought the best learned men of the Iewes, yͭ the Prophetes chefly spake of the tymes of Meschia. Therefore the bokes of the old Testament are much to be regarded bicause they be as it were a maner of foundation, wherunto the new Testament doth cleaue and leane, out of the which certayne argumentes of the new Testamēt may be taken. For there is nothing shewed in the new Testament, the which was not shadowed before in the figures of Moses law, and forspoken in the reuelations of the Prophetes, some things euen euidently expressed. Which maner of thinges are these that there be not many Gods, that there is but one God, the calling of the Heathen, that Christ by miracle was to be borne of a virgin, that the clennesse of the heart was to be required, of the circumcision of the fleshe. That Christ should take away the synnes of vs all. &c. There were agayne other thyngs so obscurely shadowed, that except they had bene opened of Christe, or of holy men, no man might haue vnderstande them, as for example, who could haue vnderstande, that the brasen serpent hanged vpon the tree, did prefigure Christ crucified: except the Lord himselfe had vouchsaued to expounde it, and so likewise of diuerse other thynges.

¶ A note to knowe what is meant by certaine diuersitie of letters and markes that we haue set in the Byble.

Ye shal finde certaine wordes and sentences within apparentes of a smaller letter than the text is which signifieth that it is founde more in the common translation than eyther is founde in the Ebrew or in the Greke which wordes and sentences we haue added not onely to manifest thesame vnto you but to satisfie and content those that hath missed such sentences in the bybles and newe Testamentes here before set forth. Also ye shall fynde certayne starres and flowres set within the text which signifieth that there you shoulde loke in the margent what profit or Euangelist writeth to affirme the sayd places of the Scriptures. Thus I thought good gentle reader to admonish thee of for the better vnderstanding of thesame.

For two sondry sortes of people, it semeth much necessarie that some t...g be sayd in the entry of thys boke by the way of a preface or prologue, wherby hereafter, it may be both the better accepted of them which hitherto could not well beare it: and also the better used of them which heretofore haue misused it. For truely some there are that be to slowe, and nede the spurre: some other seme to quicke, and nede more of the brydell. Some lose their game by short shoting, some by ouershoting some walke to much on the left hand, some to much on the ryght. In the former sort be al they ẏ refuse to reade, or to heare red the Scripture in the vulgare tong much worse they that also let or discourage the other from ẏ reading or hearing therof. In the latter sort be they, which by their inordinate reading, vndescrete speaking, contentions, disputing, or otherwise, by their licentious liuing, slaunder & hynder the word of god, most of al other, wherof they would seme to be greatest furtherers. These two sortes albeit they be most far vnlike the one to the other, yet they both deserue in effect like reproche. Neither can I wel tel whither of them I may iudge the more offender, hym that doth obstinatly refuse so Godly and goodly knowledge: or hym that so vngodly & so vngoodly doth abuse thesame. And as touching the former, I would maruayle much that any man should be so mad, as to refuse in darkenesse, light: in hōger, foode: in colde, fyre: for the word of god is light *Lucerna pedibus meis, verbum tuum Psa. cxix fode, *Non in solo pane uiuit homo, sed in omni verbo dei. Fyer. Ignem ueni mittere in ter- o.
ram & quid uolo nisi ut ardeat? I would meruayle (I say at thys) saue that I consider Mat. iiii. how much custome and vsage may do. So that if there were a people as some wryte, a. de Cymeriis, which neuer saw the Sunne, by reason that they be sytuated farr toward Luca. xii. g.
the North poole, and be enclosed and ouershadowed wyth hye mountaynes: it is credible and like enough, that if by the power and will of God, the mountaynes should sinke down and geue place, that the light of the Sunne might haue entraunce to thē: at the first, some of them would be offended therewith. And ẏ old Prouerbe affirmeth, that after tillage of corne was first found: many delited more to fede of mast and acornes, wherwith they had ben accustomed, thē to eate bread made of good corne. Such is the nature of custome, that it caunseth vs to beare all thinges wel & easily, wherwith we haue bene accustomed, and to be offended with all thinges therunto cōtrary. And therfore, I can well thinke them worthy pardon, which at the comming abrode of Scripture douted and drewe backe. But such as will persist still in their wilfulnesse I must nedes iudge not onely foolishe, frowarde and obstinate: but also peuishe, peruerse and indurate. And yet, if the matter should be tryed by custome, we might also allege custome for the readyng of the Scripture in the vulgare tong, and prescrybe ẏ more auncient custome. For it is not much aboue one hūdreth yeare ago, since Scripture hath not bene accustomed to be red in the vulgare tonge within this realme, and many hundred yeares before ẏ, it was translated & red in the Saxones tonge, which at ẏ tyme was our mothers tonge, wherof there remaine yet diuerse copyes founde lately in olde abbeys, of such antique maners of writing and speaking, that fewe men now ben able to reade and vnderstande them. And when this lāguage waxed old and out of commen vsage, bicause folke should not lacke the fruite of reading, it was again translated into the newer langage. Wherof yet also many copyes remayne & be daily founde. But now to let passe custome, and to weye as wise men euer should, the thing in his own nature. Let vs here discusse, what it auayleth Scripture to be had and red of the lay and vulgare people? And to this question I intende here to say nothyng: but that was spoken and wrytten by the noble doctoure and most morall diuine. S. John Chrisostome, in his thirde sermon de Lazaro, albeit, I wil be some thing shorter, and gather the matter into fewer wordes and lesse roume than he doth there: bicause S. Chrisostome.
I would not be tedious. He exhorteth there his audiēce, ẏ euery man should reade by himselfe at home in ẏ meane dayes & tyme, betwene sermon & sermon: to the intente they might both more profoundly fix in their mindes and memories ẏ he had sayd before vpon such textes, wherupon he had already preached and also ẏ they might haue their mindes the more ready & better prepared to receyue and perceyue that which he should say frō thēceforth in his sermōs, vpon such textes, as he had not yet declared & preached vpon: therfore sayth he there: My comen vsage is to geue you warning before, what matter I intende after to entreate vpō, that you your selues in the meane dales may take the boke in hand, reade, wey and perceiue the sum and effect of ÿ matter: and mark what hath ben declared, and what remaineth yet to be declared: so that therby your mind may be ÿ more furnished, to heare the rest, that shalbe sayd. And ÿ I exhort you (sayth he) and euer haue, and will exhort you, that you (not onely here in the church) geue eare to that, that is sayd by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in your houses, ye apply your selues frō time to time to ÿ readig of holy Scriptures: which thing also I neuer lin to beate into the eares of them that be my familiers, and with whom I haue priuate acquaintaunce and conuersation. Let no man make excuse and say: (sayth he) I am busied about matters of the commen wealth, I beare this office or that, I am a craftes man, I must apply mine occupation, I haue a wife, my children must be fed, my houseshold must I prouide for. Briefly I am a man of the world, it is not for me to reade the Scriptures, that belongeth to them ÿ haue bidden ÿ world fare well: which liue in solitarinesse and contemplation, and haue bene brought vp, and continually nosilled in learning & religion. To this answering: what sayest thou man (sayth he) is it not for thee to study and to reade the Scripture: bicause thou art encombred and distract with cures and businesse? So much the more it is behouefull for thee to haue defence of Scriptures: how much thou art the more distressed in worldly daungers: They that be free and farr from trouble and entermedling of worldly thinges, liue in sauegarde and tranquilitie, and in the calme or within a sure hauē. Thou art in the midst of the sea of worldly wickednesse, and therfore thou nedest the more of ghostly succor and comfort: they sit farr from the strokes of battaile and farr out of gun shote, and therfore they be but seldome wounded: thou that stādest in the fore front of the host, and niest to thine enemies, must nedes take now and then many strokes, and be greuously wounded. And therfore thou hast more nede to haue thy remedes and medecines at hand. Thy wife prouoketh thee to anger, thy childe geueth thee occasion to take sorow and pensiuenesse, thine enemies lie in waite for thee, thy frend (as thou takest him) somtime enuieth thee: thy neighbor misreporteth thee, or picketh quarels against the, thy mate or partener vndermineth the, thy lord, iudge or iustice threteneth thee, pouertie is painefull vnto thee, the losse of thy deare & welbeloued causeth thee to mourne. Prosperitie exalteth thee, aduersitie bringeth thee low. Briefly, so diuerse and so manifolde occasions of cares, tribulations & tēptations beset thee and besege thee round about. Where canst thou haue armour or fortresse against thine assautes? Where canst thou haue salues for thy sores, but of holy Scripture? Thy flesh must nedes be prone and subiect to fleshly lustes, which daily walkest and art conuersaunt among women, seest their bewties set forth to ÿ eie, hearest their nise and wanton wordes, smellest their balme, ciuit and muske, with many other lyke prouocations & stiringes, except ÿ hast in a readinesse wherto to suppresse & auoide thē which can not els where be had, but only out of the holy Scriptures. Let vs reade & seke al remedies ÿ we can, & al shalbe litle enough. How shal we thē do, if we suffer & take daily woūdes, & when we haue done, wil sit stil & serch for no medecines? Doest thou not mark, & cōsider how ÿ smith, mason, or carpēter, or any other handy craftes mā, what nede soeuer he be in, what other shift so euer he make, he wil not sel, nor lay to pledge ÿ toles of his occupation, for thē how should he worke his feate or get his liuing therby? Of like minde & affectiō ought we to be towardes holy Scripture, for as mallets, hāmers, sawes, chesils, axes, & hatchets be the toles of their occupation: So be the bokes of the Prophetes, & Apostles & al holy writers inspired by the holy ghost the instrumentes of our saluatiō. Wherfore let vs not sticke to bye & prouide vs ÿ Bible, ÿ is to say, the bokes of holy Scripture. And let vs thinke ÿ to be a better Iuel in our house then either gold or siluer. For like as theues bene lothe to assault an house, where they know to be good armoure & artillary, so wheresoeuer these holy & ghostly bokes bene occupied, there nether ÿ deuil, nor none of his angels dare come nere. And they ÿ occupy them bene in much sauegarde, & haue a great consolation, and bene the readier vnto all goodnesse, ÿ slower to all euil: and if they haue done any thing amisse anone euē by the sight of the bokes their cōsciences ben admonished, & they waxē sory and ashamed of ÿ facte. Peraduenture they wil say vnto me: how & if we vnderstand not ÿ we reade, ÿ is cōteined in ÿ bokes. What then? Suppose, thou vnderstande not the depe and profounde misteries of Scriptures, yet can it not be, but that much fruit and holinesse must come & growe vnto thee by ẏ reading: for it cannot be ẏ ẏ shouldest be ignorant in all thinges a lyke. For the holy ghost hath so ordered and attempred the Scriptures, ẏ in thē aswel publicans, fishers, and shepheardes may find their edification, as great doctours their erudition: for those bokes were not made to vain glory, like as were the writinges of ẏ gentile Philosophers & rethoritians, to the intent the makers should be had in admiration for their hie stiles and obscure maner a writing, wherof nothing can be vnderstāde without a master or an expositour. But ẏ Apostles and Prophetes wrote their bokes so, that their special intēt & purpose might be vnderstande & perceaued of euery reader, which was nothing, but the edificatiō of amendement of the life of thē that readeth or heareth it. Who is it, ẏ reading or hearing read in the Gospell, Blessed are they ẏ be meke. Blessed are they that be mercifull. Blessed are they that be of cleane heart: & such other lyke places, can perceiue nothing, except he haue a master to teach him what it meaneth? Likewise, the signes & miracles with al other histories of ẏ doinges of Christ or his Apostles, who is there, of so simple wit, and capacity, but he may be able to perceiue & vnderstande thē? These be but excuses & clokes for the rayne, & keuerynges of their own ydell slouthfulnesse: I can not vnderstande it. What meruayle? How shouldest thou vnderstāde, if ẏ wilt not reade, nor loke vpon it? take the bokes into thine handes, reade the whole story, & ẏ thou vnderstandest kepe it wel in memory: ẏ thou vnderstandest not, reade it againe, & againe: if thou cā nether so come by it, counsayle w some other ẏ is better learned. Go to thy curate & Preacher, shew thy selfe to be desirous to know and learne. And I dout not but god seing thy diligēce & readinesse (if no man els teache thee) wil himselfe vouchsafe with his holy spyrit to illuminate thee, & to open vnto thee ẏ which was locked from thee. Remembre the Eunuchus of Candace Quene of Ethiopie, which albeit he was a mā of a wilde and barbarous country, and one occupied with worldly cures and businesse yet riding in hys charet, he was reading the Scripture. Nowe consider, if thys man passing in his iorney, was so diligent as to reade the Scripture, what thinkest thou of like was he wont to do sitting at home? Againe he that letteth not to reade, albeit he did not vnderstande, what dyd he then, trowest thou: after that when he had learned and had gotten vnderstandyng? For that thou mayest wel knowe that he vnderstode not what he read: herken what Philip there sayth vnto hym. Vnderstandest thou what thou readest? And he nothyng ashamed to confesse hys ignoraunce, answered: How should I vnderstande hauing no body to shew me the way? Loe when he lacked one to shew hym the way and to expounde to hym the Scriptures, yet dyd he reade: and therfore God the rather prouided for hym a guide of the way that taught hym to vnderstande it. God perceiued hys willing and toward mind: and therfore he sent him a teacher by and by. Therfore let no man be negligent about his own health and saluation: though thou haue not Philip alwayes when thou wouldest, the holy ghost, which then moued and styrred vp Philip, wilbe ready and not fayle thee if thou doe thy diligence accordingly: All these thinges be wrytten vnto vs for our edification and amendment, which be borne towardes the latter ende of the world. The readyng of Scriptures is a great and stronge bulwarke or fortresse agaynst synne: the ignorāce of the same is a greater ruyne and destruction of them that wyl not know it. That is the thing that bryngeth in heresy, that is it, that causeth all corrupte and peruerse liuing: that is it, that bryngeth all thynges out of good order. Hitherto all that I haue sayd I haue taken and gathered out of the foresayd Sermon of thys holy doctour. S. John Chrysostome. Now if I should in lyke maner bryng forth, what the selfe same doctoure speaketh in other places and what other doctours and wryters say, concernyng the same purpose, I myght seme to you to wryte another Byble, rather than to make a preface to the Bible. Wherfore in fewe wordes to comprehende the largenesse and vtilitie of the Scripture, how it conteineth fruitfull instruction and erudition for euery man, if any thyng be necessary to be learned: of ẏ holy Scripture we may learne it. If falshod shalbe reproued, therof we may gather wherwythal. If any thyng be to be corrected and amended, if there nede any exhortation or consolation of the Scripture we may well learne. In the Scriptures be the fat pastures of the soule, there is no venymouse meate, no vnholsome thyng, they be the very dayntie and pure fedyng. He that is ignoraunte, shall fynde there what he should learne. He that is a peruerſe ſinner, ſhal there finde his damnation to make him to tremble for feare. He that laboureth to ſerue God ſhal finde there his glory, and the promiſſions of eternal life, exhorting him more diligently to labor. Herein may Prynces learne how to gouerne their ſubiectes. Subiectes obedience, loue & drede to their Princes. Huſbandes, how they ſhould behaue them unto their wiues: how to educate their children & ſeruaũtes. And contrary the wiues, children, and ſeruauntes may know their duty, to their huſbandes, parentes, and maſters. Here may al maner of perſõs, men, wemen, yonge, old learned, unlearned, riche, poore, prieſtes, laymen, lordes, ladyes, offycers, tenauntes, & meane men, virgins, wiues, wydowes, lawers, marchauntes, artificers, huſbandmẽ, and al maner of perſons of what eſtate or condition ſo euer they be, may in this boke learne all thynges what they ought to beleue, what they ought to do, and what they ſhould not do, aſwel concerning almightie God as alſo concerning themſelues and all

The concluſion. other. Briefly to the reading of the Scripture none can be enemy, but that eyther be ſo ſicke, that they loue not to heare of any medecine: or els that be ſo ignoraunte, that they know not Scripture to be the moſt healthful medecine. Therefore as touching thys former part. I wil here conclude and take it as a concluſion: ſufficiẽtly determine and appoint, that it is conuenient and good, the Scripture to be red of all ſortes and kindes of people & in the vulgare tong without further allegations or probatiõs for theſame, which ſhal not nede, ſince ÿ this one place of John Chriſoſtome is ynough &

The kinges highneſſe hath alowed the Scrypture as neceſſary for vs. ſufficient to perſwade al them that be not frowardly & peruerſly ſet in their owne wilful opiniõ, ſpecially now that ÿ kinges highnes being ſupreme head next vnder Chriſt of this churche of England hath approued with his royal aſſẽt the ſetting forth herof, which onely to all true and obedient ſubiectes ought to be a ſufficient reaſon, for the alowance of ÿ ſame, wout farther delay, reclamation, or reſiſtaunce, althoughe there were no preface nor other reaſon herein expreſſed. Therfore now to come to ÿ ſecond and latter part of my purpoſe, here is nothing ſo good in this world, but it may be abu

There is nothyng but it may be abuſed. ſed, & turned frõ hurtfull & holſome, to hurtful & noyſome. What is there aboue, better thã the ſũne, the moone, the ſtarres? Yet was there ÿ toke occaſiõ by the great beawty and vertue of them to diſhonor god, & to defyle themſelues with ydolatry, geuing the honour of the liuing God & creator of all thynges, to ſuch thynges as he had created. What is there here beneth, better thã fyer, water, meates, drynkes, metals of golde, ſiluer, yron and ſtele? Yet we ſee daily great harme and much miſchiefe, done by euery one of theſe, aſwel for lacke of wiſdom & prouidence of them that ſuffer euill, as by the malice of them that worketh the euill. Thus to them that be euil of themſelues euery thing ſetteth forwarde & increaſeth their euill, be it of his own nature a thyng neuer ſo good lyke as contrarily, to them that ſtudieth & endeuoreth thẽſelues to goodneſſe, euery thyng preuayleth them, & profiteth vnto good: be it of his own nature a thyng neuer ſo bad: As S. Paul ſayd. Hiis qui diligunt deum, omnia cooperantur in bonum, euen as out of moſt venimouſe wormes is made triacle, the moſt ſoueraigne medecine for ÿ preſeruatiõ of mannes health in tyme of dãger. Wherfore I would aduiſe you all, ÿ come to the reading or hearing of thys boke, which is the worde of God, the moſt precious Juell, and moſt holy relique, that remayneth vpon earth, that ye bryng wt you the feare of God, & that ye do it with all due reuerence, & vſe your knowledge therof, not to vainglory of friuolouſe diſputation: but to the honor of God, encreaſe of vertue, & edification both of your ſelues and other. And to the intent that my wordes may be the more regarded, I will vſe in thys part the authoritie of S. Gregory Nazian-

S. Gregorye Nazianzene. zene, like as in the other I did of S. John Chryſoſtome. It appeareth ÿ in hys tyme there were ſome (as I feare me, there be alſo nowe at theſe dayes a greate numbre) which were ydel babblers, and talkers of the Scripture out of ſeaſon, and al good order, and without any increaſe of vertue, or example of good liuing: to them he writeth all his firſt boke, de theologia. Wherfore I ſhall brefly gather the hole effect, and recite it here vnto you. There be ſome (ſayth he) whoſe not onely eares and tonges, but alſo their fyſtes be whetted and ready bent all to contentiõ and vnprofitable diſputation, whom I would wyſhe as they be vehement and earneſt to reaſon the matter with tong: ſo they were already & practiue to do good dedes. But forſmuch as they ſubuerting the order of al godlyneſſe, haue reſpect only to this thing, how they may bind and loſe ſubtyle queſtions, ſo that now euery market place, euery alehouſe & tauerne euery feaſthouſe: brefly euery company of men, euery aſſembly of wemẽ is filled with

suche talke. Since the matter is so (saith he) and that our faith and holy religyon of Christ beginneth to waxe nothing els, but as it wer a sophistrie or a talking craft, I can no lesse doe but saye some thyng thereunto. It is not fitte (sayth he) for euerye man to dyspute the high questions of Diuinitie, neyther is it to be done at all tymes neyther in euery audience must we discusse euery doubt, but we must know when, to whom, and howe farre we ought to enter into suche matters. First it is not for euery man: but it is for suche as be of exact and exquisite iudgementes, and suche as haue spent their time before in study and contemplation and suche as before haue clensed themselues aswell in soule as body: or at the least, endeuoured themselues to be made cleane. For it is daungerous (sayth he) for the vncleane to touche that thyng, that is most cleane: lyke as the sore eye taketh harme by lookyng vpon the Sunne. Secondarily, not at all tymes, but when we be reposed, and at rest from all outward dregs and trouble, and when that our heades bene not entombred with other worldlye and wandering ymaginations, as yf a man should mingle balme and dirt together. For he that shall iudge and determine suche matters and doubtes of scriptures, muste take his time, when he may apply his wittes thereunto, that he may therby the better see, and discerne what is trueth.

Thirdly where, and in what audience. There and among those that haue been studious to learne: and not among such as haue pleasure to trifle, with such matters, as with other thynges of pastime, which repute for their chief delicates, the disputatiō of high questions, to shewe their wittes, learnyng and eloquence in reasoning of hyghe matters. Fourthly, it is to be considered howe farre to wade in suche matters of difficultie. No further (sayth he) but as euery mannes owne capacitie wyl serue hym: and again no further than the weakenesse or intelligence of the other audience may bear. For like as to great noyse hurteth the eare, to muche meate hurteth the mannes body, heauy burthens hurte the bearers of them, to much rayn doth more hurt thā good to the grouād: briefly, in all thinges to muche is noyous: euen so weake wyttes and weake consciences may soone be oppressed with ouer hard questions. I say not this to diswade men from the knowledge of God, and readyng or studying of ẏ scripture. For I say: that it is as necessary for the lyfe of mans soule, as for the body to breath. And if it were possible so to lyue, I would thinke it good for a man to spende all his lyfe in that, and to doe none other thyng. I commende the lawe which biddeth to meditate & study the scriptures alwayes, both night and day: and sermons and preachinges to be made both mornyng, noone and euentyde. And God to be lauded & blessed in al times to bedward, from bed, in our iourneys, and all our other workes: I forbydde not to read, but I forbid to reason. Neyther forbyd I to reason so farre as is good & godlye. But I allow not that is done out of seasō, and out of measure and good order. A man may eate to muche of hony be it neuer so swete, and there is tyme for euery thyng, and that thyng that is good is not good, if it be vngodly done. Euen as a floure in winter is out of season, and as a womans apparell becommeth not a man: neyther contrarily, ẏ mans the womā, neither is weping cōuenient at a bridale, neither laughing at a burial. Now if we can obserue and kepe ẏ is comely & timely, in all other thyngs, shal not we then the rather do the same in the holy scriptures? Let vs not runne forth as it were wild horses, that can suffer neyther bridle in their mouthes, nor sitter on theyr backes. Let vs kepe vs in our boundes, and neither let vs goe to farre on thone syde, lest we returne into Egipt, neither to far ouer the other, lest ye be caried away to Babilon. Let vs not sing the song of our lord in a straunge lande, ẏ is to saye: let vs not dispute the word of God at al aduentures, aswell where it is not to bee reasoned, as where it is: and aswel in the eares of them that be not fit therfore, as of them that be. If we can in no wyse forbeare, but that we must nedes dispute, let vs forbeare thus much at the least, to do it out of time, and place conuenient: And let vs entreat of those thynges which be holy, holily: and vpon those thinges that be mistical mistically: & not to vtter the deuine misteries in the eares vnworthy to heare them, but let vs knowe what is comely as well in our silence and talking, as in our garmentes wearyng, in our feding, in our gesture, in our goinges, in all our other behauing. This contention and debates about scriptures and doubtes therof (specially when suche as doe pretende to be the fauourers and studentes therof, cannot agre within themselues) doth moste hurte to oure selues, and to the furtheryng of the cause and quarelles that we would haue furthered aboue all other thinges. And we in this (sayth he) be not unlike to them that beyng mad, set theyr own houses on fyre, and that slay theyr owne chyldrē, or beat theyr own parentes. I maruail much (saith he) to recount whereof commeth al this desyre of vain glory, whereof commeth all this tongitche, that we haue so muche delite to talke and clatter. And wherein is our communication? Not in the commendations of uertuous and good dedes of hospitalitie, of loue betwene christian brother and brother, of loue betwene man and wyfe, of vyrginitie and chastitie, and of almes towarde the poore. Not in Psalmes & godly songes, not in lamenting for our sinnes not in repressing the affections of the body, not in prayers to God. We talke of scrypture, but in the meane tyme we subdue not our flesh by fastyng, wakyng, & weppyng, we make not this life a meditation of death, we do not strive to be lordes ouer our appetites and affections. We go not about to pul downe our proude and hygh myndes, to abate our fumish and rancorous stomakes, to restrain our lustes and bodily delectations, our undiscrete sorowes, our lasciuious myrth, our inordinate looking, our insatiable hearing of vanities, our speaking without measure, our inconuenīēt thoughts and briefly to refourme our lyfe and maners: but al our holines consisteth in talking. And we pardon eche other frō al good liuyng, so ȳ we may stick fast together in argumentation, as though there wer no mo waies to heauen but this alone, ȳ way of speculation and knowledge (as they take it) but in very dede it is rather the way of superfluous contention and sophistication. Hitherto haue I recited the mynde of Gregorye Nazianzene: in that booke which I spake of before. The same author sayth also in an other place, that the learnyng of a Christen man ought to begin of the feare of god to ende in matters of hye speculation: and not contrarily to begin with speculation, and to ende in feare. For speculation (sayth he) other hye cunning or knowledge, if it be not staied with the bridle of feare to offende God is daungerous, and ynough to tumble a man headlong downe the hill. Therfore saith he: the feare of god must be ȳ fyrst beginning, and as it wer an. A. B. C. or an introduction to al them that shal enter into the very true and most fruitful knowledge of holy scriptures. Where as is the feare of God, there is (sayth he) the kepyng of the commaundementes: and where as is the keping of the commaundementes, there is the clensing of ȳ flesh: which flesh is a cloud before the soules eye, and suffreth it not purely to see the beame of the heauenly lyght. Where as is the clensyng of the flesh, there is the illumination of the holy ghost, ȳ end of all our desyres, and the very lyghte whereby the veritie of scriptures is seen and perceiued. This is the minde and almost the wordes of Gregory Nazianzene doctour of the Greke churche, of whom Saínct Jerome saith: that unto his time, the Latin church had no writer able to be compared, & to make an euen matche with him. Therfore to conclude this latter part, euery man that commeth to the readyng of this holy booke, ought to bryng with him first and formost this feare of almighty God, & then nex a firme and a stable purpose to refourme his owne selfe accordyng thereunto, and so to continue, procede and prosper from time to time, shewyng himself to be a sober & fruitfull hearer and learner: which if he do, he shal proue at ȳ length wel able to teach though not with his mouth, yet with his liuyng and good example, which is sure the moste lyuely, and effectuous fourme and maner of teachyng. He that otherwyse intermedleth with this booke let him be assured, that once he shall make a count therefore when he shall haue sayd to him as it is written in the Prophete Dauid. Peccatori dicit deus. &c. Unto the ungodly said God: why doest thou preache my lawes, and takest my testament in thy mouth: Wheras thou hatest to be refourmed, and hast bene partaker with aduouterers. Thou hast let thy mouth speake wickednesse, & with thy tong thou hast set forth disceit. Thou sattest and spakest against thy brother, and hast slaundred thyne owne mothers sonne. These thinges hast thou done and I helde my tong, and thou thoughtest (wickedly) that I am euen such a one as thy selfe. But I wyll proue thee and set before thee the thyngs that thou hast done. O consider this ye that forget God, lest I plucke you away, & there be none to deliuer you. Whoso offerth me thanks and praise, he honoureth me: and to hym that ordreth his conuersation ryghte: wyll I shew the saluation of God.

¶ A description and successe of the Kynges of Juda and Jerusalem, declaryng when and under what kinges euery Prophete liued. And what notable thinges happened in their times, translated out of the Hebrewe.

DAuid reigned ouer Israel the.iii.C.xxix.yere of their entring into ye land, which was the.iiii.C.yere of their passing out from Egipt, & the.ii.M.viii.C.lxxviii.yere after the creation of the world: & he reigned.xl.yere and begat Salomon. Salomon built the temple. And in his daies, Jonathan Iddo and Ahiia Silonites wer Prophetes. And his sonne Rehebeã reigned after him.xvii.yere. Semaiahu Iddo Prophecying. And after him Abiahu his sonne reigned.iii.yere, & Iddo was the Prophete. Asa his sonne raigned after him.xli.yere. Asariahu ye sone of Odad, Hanani the Sear, and Jehu the sonne of Hanani Prophecying. After him reigned his sonne Josaphat.xx.yere. Jehu the sonne of Hanani, Obadia, Micha, Jehiel the sonne of Zachary, and Eleazar the sonne of his uncle Prophecying. Jozam his sonne succeded him in his kingdome & reigned.viii.yere, and ye Prophete was Elisa. After him reigned Ahaziahu his sonne one yere, and Elisa was the Prophet. After this, Athalia the mother of Azahia did rise and destroied the kinges stocke, & ther was none left, but the litle childe Joas: and Athalia reigned. vi.yere, and they killed her. And Joas reigned.xl.yere. After him reigned his sone Amaziahu.xxix.yere. The Prophetes were Amos and Amazia brethren, & Amos the father of Esaie. After hym reigned Uziahu his sonne.lii.yere. The Prophetes were Hosea Amos and Esay. His sonne Jonathan reigned after him.xvi.yere. The Prophetes wer Hosea, Esay, Amos and Uziahu and Micha Morasthites. Then his sonne Ahas reigned after him.xvi. yere. And Hosea, Esay, Amos, Micha, and Odad did Prophecie. His sonne Ezechias reigned after him.xxix.yere. Hosea, Esay. Amos and Micha were Prophetes. Whom succeded Manasse reigning.lv.yere. Johell, Nahum, and Habacuck wer ye Prophets. After him reigned Amõ his sonne.ii.yere, and Hozai was Prophete, whose sone Josiahu reigned after him.xxxi.yere. The Prophetes were Zephania, Jeremy & Holda; Jehoahaz his sone reigned after him.iii.monethes and Jeremy was Prophet. Whose brother Jehoakim reigned after him.xi.yere. Jeremy and Uzia wer Prophetes. The iii.yere of his reigne Nabuchadnezer king of Babilon tooke him captiue, & he died in his prison, that it might be fulfilled which was saide: the Buriall of an asse shall bee buried. And he transposed Jerusalem & all the gouernours, & tooke captiue.vii.M.of Beniamins, & the other tribes, which wer all valiant men of war. After him reygned his sonne Jehoachin thre monethes and.x.dayes, Jeremy Prophecying, and Nabuchadnezer king of Babell caried him awaie prisoner, and.xviii.thousand with him and made Ezechia the brother of his father, the sonne of Josiahu king, which reigned. xi yere, Jeremy and Ezechiell Prophecying. The fifth yere of his reigne ye host of Babilon came against Jerusalem, and in the.xi.yere of his reigne the citie was taken captiue, and Jury was altered from her lande: this was the eighte hundred and iii.yere of their entring into the lande: and the thre thousande thre hundred and.viii. yere of the creation of the world. And there was nowe left of Dauids stocke but onely Jechoniah whiche begatte Salathiell, Malkirã, Pedaiã and Gemariam. Nabuchadnezer reigned until the.xxxvii.yere of the transmigration of kyng Jehokim and Euilmedorach his sonne reygned thre and twenty yere, and the first yere of his reign he brought Jehoacin oute of prison, and after this died in Babell after the death of Ezekia. Moreouer, Belchezer reigned thre yere, and Salathiel died: and after hym his sonne Zerobabell reigned, that was the.lii.yere of the destruction of the Temple and the.lxx.yere of the dominion of Babilon. While Darius Medo reigned the Chaldees kyngdome was destroyed, and Zerobabell ascended into Jerusalem ye firste yere of Chores kyng of the Persians, & the transmigration with him. Then was Jehosua the sonne of Jezozadac the great priest, and Haggai, Zacharia & Esdra were Prophetes. But Ahasuerus reigning, did let the worke of the house of the tabernacle and endeuoured to subuert Israel. But the holy which is blessed, delivered the world bothe

of hym and also of Haman. The .xviii. yere of the Medians, whiche was the .lxx. yere of the destruction of the temple Ezra the Scribe ascended into Jerusalem & the other transmigration with him, and he built the wall of Jerusalem and restored the house of the tabernacle: and Zorobabel returned vnto Babel and died there. After him reigned his sonne Mesullam, and in his dayes the kyngdome of Grece had the dominion. The .lii. yere of the Medians and Persians, died Haggai, Zachari, and Malachi, and at that tyme ceased prophecying in Israell. This is the yere from the creation of the world .iii.M.iiii.C.& .iiii. From hencefoorth geue thyne eare and hearken ye wordes of wise men. Alexander Macedo king of Grece reygned .xii. yere & died at Mesullam and after him reigned his sonne Hanania. The .Cxl. yere of the Grecians dyed Hanania and Mathathia the sonne of Johatha being the sonne of Simeon. And after hym reigned his sonne Berechia. In his time was Seluchus and Antiochus whiche built Antiochia and Ptolome which writ Pentatuchon, (that is the .v. bokes of Moses.) The hundred .lxx. yere of the Grecians, Berechia died. After him reigned his sonne Hasadia. In his dayes there was a great trouble against Israel, that was in ye time of Nichanor king of Grece the children of Hasmomin which wer called the Machabites, stepping forth, kylled hym and al his host. This was .Clxv. yere of the Grecians. And Johanan the sonne of Simon the sonne of Mathathia, the sonne of Hasmoni reigned .xxxv. yere. And when Hasadia was dead, after him raigned Jesaia and Janai the sonne of Johanan the great priest reigned .xxvii. yere. And when Janai was dead, Aristibolus his sone stode vp after hym, and reigned .xiii. yere & was slain. After hym reigned Antigonus his sonne .xxvi. yere, and was slain the .Ciii. yere of the raigne of the stocke of the Machabites. After him reigned Herode the sonne of Antypater seruaunt of the Machabites, which making an insurrection kylled all that wer of his masters stocke, and continued .xl. yere. After him Agrippas the sonne of Herod reigned, and again after him reigned his sonne Munabas. The .Ciii. yere of the Romayns reigne which was .iiii.C.xl. yere of the temple built vp, & the .iii.M.v.C.lviii. yere from the creation of the world came Vespasian and destroyed the temple, and caried Israel and many of the stocke of Dauid and Jehuda into Spayne.

¶ The. i. Chapter.

¶ How heauen and earth, the light, the firmamēt, the Sunne, the Moone, the sterres, and all beastes, foules and fishes in the sea, were made by the word of God. And how man was also created.

Psa. cii. d. Jere. x. b. Eccle. xviii. a. iiii. Esd. vi. c. Heb. i. c. xi. a.

IN the beginning* God created heauē and earth. The earth was void and empty, & darknesse was vpon the face of the depe, and the spirit of God moued vpon the face of the waters. And God sayd: let there be made lighte, and there was light made. And God saw the light that it was good. And God made a diuision betwene the light and darknesse. And God called the light, day: and the darknesse called he, night. And the euening and the morning was made one day. And God sayd: let there be a firmament betwene the waters, & let it make a diuision betwene waters & waters. And God made the firmament, and set a diuision betwene the waters which were vnder the firmament, and the waters that were aboue the firmamēt. And it was so. And God called the firmament heauen. The euening also and the morning was made the secōd day. And God sayd: *let the waters vnder heauen be gathered together into one place, that the drye land may be sene. And so it came to passe. And God called the dry lande, earth: and the gatherig together of waters called he the Seas. And God sawe that it was good. And God said: let the earth bring forth grene hearbe, which may engender sede: and fruitfull tree, yelding frute after his kinde, whose sede may be in it self vpon the earth. And it came to passe. And ẏ earth brought forth grene hearb, making sede after his kinde and tree yelding fruite, whose sede was in it self after his kind. And god saw that it was good. The euening also and the morning was made the third day. And God sayd: *let there be made lightes in the firmament of heauen, and let them make a difference betwene ẏ day and the night, and let them be vnto signes, and vnto appointed seasons, and vnto dayes and vnto yeres.

Pr. viii. d. Job. xxvi. c.

Psalm. cxxxvi. a. iiii. Esd. vi. d.

And let them be vnto lightes in the firmament of heauen, that they may geue light vpon the earth. And so it came to passe. And God made *two great lightes: a greater light to rule the day, and a lesse lighte to rule the night. (And he made) sterres also. And God set them in the firmament of heauen that they might geue light vpō the earth, and that they might rule the day and the night, and to make a difference betwene the lighte and the darknesse. And god saw ẏ it was good. The euening also and the morning was made the fourth day. And God sayd: *let the waters bring forth mouing creature that hath life, and foule that may flye vpon the earth in the face of the firmament of heauen. And God created great whales, and euery liuing and mouing creature, which the waters brought forth after their kind: and euery fethered foule after their kind. And God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, sayeng: grow and increase, and fill the waters of the sea, and let fethered foules be multiplied in the earth. The euēing also and the morning was made ẏ fifth day. And God said: let the earth bring forth liuing creature after his kinde: catell, worme and beast of the earth after his kind, and so it came to passe. And God made ẏ beast of the earth after his kinde, and cattell after their kinde, and euery thing that crepeth vpon the earth after his kinde. And God sawe that it was good. And God sayd, let vs make man in our image after our likenesse, and let them haue rule of the fish of the sea, and foule of the ayre, and cattell, and all the earth, and of euery crepig thing that crepeth vpon the earth. And so God created man in his own image, in the *image of God created he him *male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God sayd vnto them: grow and encrease, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and haue *dominion of the fish of the sea, and foule of the ayre, and of euery liuing thing that moueth vpō ẏ earth. And God sayd: behold, I haue geuen you euery hearbe [illegible] sede, which is in the vpper face of all the earth: and euery tree in the which is the fruit of tree, [illegible] sowith sede, that they may be [illegible] you. The halowing of the Sabboth day. The foure floudes of Paradise. The setting in of man in Paradise. The tree of knowlege is forbidden him. How Adam named all creatures. The creation of Eua. The institution of mariage.

A The heauens also and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. And in the seuenth day God ended his worke which he had made.*
Ex.xx.b. In the seuenth day also he rested from al He.iiii.b. his worke, which he had made. And God blessed the seuenth day, and sanctified it, bicause that in it he had rested frō all his worke, which God ordeined to make.
These are the generations of the hea-uens and of the earth when they were created, in the day when the Lorde God made the earth and the heauēs, and eue-ry plant of the field, before it was in the earth: and euery herbe of the fielde, before it grew. For the Lord God had not caused it to raine vpon the earth, neither was there a man to till the ground. And there went vp a mist from of the earth, and watered the whole face of ye groūd.

Pro.iii.c so, and the tree of knowlege of good and Apo.ii.b. of euell, was in the middes of the gardē.
And out of Eden there went forth a ri-uer to water the garden. And from thēce it was deuided, & became into.iiii. heds.
Eccle. The name of one is *Pison: Thesame is xxiiii.c it that compasseth the whole land of Ha-uilah, where there is gold. And the gold of that lād is good. There is also Bdelliū, and the Onix stone. The name of the second riuer, is Gihon: thesame is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia.
The name of the third riuer is Hidekel, and it goeth toward ye East side of Assi-C ria. And the fourth riuer is Euphrates.
The Lord God also toke Adam, and put him into the garden of Eden that he might dresse and kepe it. And the Lorde God commaūded Adam, sayeng: Eating thou shalt eate of euery tree of ye garden.
But as touching the tree of knowlege of good and euell, thou shalt not eate of it.
Els, in what day soeuer thou eatest ther-of, thou shalt dye the death.
And againe the Lord God sayd: it is not good that Adam should be alone: I will make him an helpe, which may be presēt with him. And so out of the groūd shope the Lord God euery beast of the field, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man, that he might see how he would cal it. For likewise as man himself named euery liuing thing, euen so was the name therof.
Man himself therefore named the names vnto all cattel, and foule of the ayre and to euery beast of the field. And for man found he not an helpe, that might be present with him. The Lord God also caused a slumber to fall vpon Adam, and D he slept. And he toke one of hys ribbes, and closed vp the fleshe in stede thereof.
And the ribbe which the Lord God had taken frō man, *made he a woman, and brought her vnto man. And man sayd: This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh. She shalbe called woman, bicause she was taken out of man. For Ge.xvii.a

The.iii.Chapter.

The serpent deceiueth the woman. The serpent, the woman, and the man are cursed, and driuen out of Paradise. Christ our Sauior is promised.

But the Serpent was subtiller than euery beast of the fielde, A which the Lord God made. And he sayd vnto the woman: yea, hath the Lord God sayd, ye shal not eate of euery tree of the garden? And the woman sayd vnto the serpent: we eate of the fruit of the tree of the garden, but as for the fruit of ye tree which is in the middes of the garden, God hath sayd: ye shal not eate of it, neither shall ye touche it, least ii.Cor.xi happly ye dye. And the serpent *said vnto the woman: ye shall not dye the death, but God doth knowe, that thesame day that ye eate therof, your eyes shalbe opened, & ye shalbe euen as Gods, knowing good and euell. And so the *woman (see- Ec.xxv.d ing that thesame tree was good to eate,
and

and lusty to the eyes, and that thesame tree was pleasant to get wysedome) take of the fruit therof, and did eate, and gaue vnto her husband being with her, which B did eate also. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked: and they sowed figg leaues together, and made themselues aprons.

And they heard the voice of the Lorde God walking in the garden in the coole of the day. And Adam and his wife hid themselues from the presence of the lord God among the trees of the garden. And the Lord God called Adam, and sayd vnto him: where art thou? which sayd: I heard thy voice in the garden, and was afraid, bicause I was naked, and hid my self. And he sayd: Who tolde thee, that thou wast naked? hast thou not eaten of thesame tree, cōcerning the which I commaunded thee, that thou shouldest not eate of it? And Adam sayd: The woman whō thou gauest to be with me, she gaue me of the tree, and I did eate. And the C Lord God sayd vnto the woman: why hast thou done this? And the womā sayd: yōder serpēt begiled me, and I did eate.
And the Lord God sayd vnto the serpent bicause thou hast done this, thou art cursed aboue al catel, and aboue euery beast of the field. Upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eate all the dayes of thy life. I will also put enmitie betwene thee and the woman, betwene thy sede ol. ii. c. and her sede. *The same shal tread down thy head, and thou shalt tread vpon his heele.

But vnto the woman he sayd: In multiplying, will I multiplie thy sorow, and thy conceiuing: In sorowe shalte thou bring forth children, and thy lust shall perteine to thy husband, and he shal haue the rule of thee. Unto Adam he sayd: because thou hast herkened vnto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree (cōcerning the which I commaunded thee, sayeng: Thou shalt not eate of it) cursed D is the ground for thy sake. In sorow shalt thou eate of it all the dayes of thy life.
Thorne also and thistle shall it cause to grow vnto thee, and thou shalt eate the herbe of the felde. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou eate bread, til thou be turned againe into the ground, for out of it ob. wast thou taken, in as much as thou* xiiii.b. art dust, and into dust shalt thou be turned againe. And Adam called his wiues name Heua, because she was the mother of all liuing. Unto thesame Adam also, and to his wife, did the Lord God make lethren garmentes, and clothed them.
And the Lord God sayd: Beholde, yonder man hath ben euen as one of vs, that he might know good and euell. And nowe least happly he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eate, and liue for euer. And the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to dresse the ground that he was takē out of. And so he droue out man, and at the east side of the garden of Eden, he set Cherubins and the glistering flame of a shaking swearde, to kepe the way of the tree of life.

And the Lord set a marke vpon Cain: lest any man finding him, should kil him. And Cain went out from the presence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land of Nod, eastward from Eden. Cain also knew his wife, which conceiued and bare Henoch: and building a citie, he called the name of thesame citie after the name of his sonne Henoch. Unto ÿ same Henoch was borne Irad. Irad begat Mehuiael, & Mehuiael begat Methusaell. Methusaell begat Lamech. And Lamech toke vnto him two wiues: The name of ÿ one was Ada, and the name of the other was zilla.

D And Ada begat Iabal, which was the father of such as dwell in the tentes, and of such as haue catell. His brothers name was Thuball, which was the father of such as handle harpe & organe. And zilla also begat Thubalcain, which wrought cūningly euery craft of brasse & of yron. The sister of Thubalcain, was Naema. And Lamech sayd vnto his wiues, Ada and zilla: heare my voice ye wiues of Lamech, herken vnto my speche: I haue slaine a man to the wounding of my self, and a yōg man to mine own punishmēt. Yf Cain shalbe auēged seuenfolde, truly Lamech seuentie times and seuen times. Adam knew his wife again, & she bare a sonne & called his name Seth. For God (sayd she) hath apointed me another sede in stede of Habell, whom Cain slew. And vnto thesame Seth also there was borne a sonne, and he called his name Enos. Then began they to make inuocation in the name of the Lord.

A This is the boke of the generations of Adam. In the day ÿ God created man, in ÿ likenesse of God made he him. Male and female created he thē, and blessed them, & called their name Adam, in the day of their creation. And Adam liued an hundreth and thirtie yeres, and begat a sonne in his owne likenesse after his image, and called his name Seth. Al the dayes of Adam (after he had begotten *Seth) were eight hundreth yeres, and 1. Pa. he begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes that Adam liued, were nine hundreth and thirtie yeres, and he died. Seth liued an hundred and fiue yeres, and begat Enos. And Seth liued (after he begat Enos) eight hundreth yeres and seuen yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Seth were nine hundreth and. xii. yeres: And he dyed. Enos liued nintie yeres, and begat Kenan, and Enos liued (after he begat Kenan,) eight hundreth, and fiftene yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And al the dayes of Enos wer nine hundreth and fiue yeres. And he died. Kenan B liued seuentie yeres, and begat Mahelaleel. And Kenan liued (after he begatt Mahelaleel) eight hundreth yeres and fortie yeres, and begat sōnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Kenan were. ix. hundreth yeres and. x. yeres, and he died. Mahelaleel liued sixtie yeres & v. yeres and begat Iared. And againe, Mahelaleel liued (after he begat Iared) viii. C and thirty yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Mahelaleel were. viii. hundreth ninety and. v. yeres. And he died. Iared liued an hundreth and sixtie and ii. yeres, and begatt Henoch. And Iared liued (after he begat Henoch) viii. hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Iared were. ix. hundreth and sixtie and ii. yeres. And he died. Henoch liued sixtie and. v. yeres, and begat Mathusalah. C And Henoch * walked with God after he begat Mathusalah. iii. hundreth yeres, Eccle. xliiii. c. and begat sonnes and daughters. And Hebr. xi. all the dayes of Henoch were. iii. hūdreth sixtie and. v. yeres. And Henoch * walked Gene. xvii. a. with god, and he was * no more seen, for God toke him alway. And again Mathusalah liued (after he begat Lamech,) vii. hundreth yeres, and eighty and. ii. yeres, and begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Mathusalah were. ix. hundred yeres, and sixtie and. ix. yeres. And he died. Lamech liued an hūdred yeres and eightie and. ii. yeres, and D begat a sonne, and called his name Noah, sayeng: This same shall comforte vs as concerning our worke and sorowe of our hands, from of the earth, which God cursed.

cursed. And Lamech liued (after he begat Noah) .v. hundred yeres and ninetie and .v. yeres, and begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Lamech were .vii. hundred yeres, and seuentie and .vii. yeres. And he died. Noah was .v. hun-

I will destroy them with y earth. Make his kinde: two of euery one shal come vnto the, that thou mayest kepe them aliue.

And take thou with thee of al meate that thee, that it may be meate for thee and them. Noah therefore did according vnto all that God commaunded him, euen so did he.

The .vii. Chapter.

his kinde, and al catell after their kinde. yea, and euery worme that crepeth vpon the earth after his kinde, and euery byrd after his kinde, and euery flying and fe-the Arke went on the vpper face of the waters. And the waters preuailed excedingly vpon the earth, and all the hilles B that are vnder the whole heauen, were couered. Fiftene cubites vpwarde did the waters preuaile, so that the mountaines were couered. And al flesh dyed that moued vpon the earth, in foule, in cattell, in beast, and in euery worme that crepeth vpon the earth, yea, and euery man also.

Whatsoeuer was (in whose nostrels the breath of life did breathe,) al these in the Arke. But the waters preuailed vpō the earth, an hundred and fiftie dayes.

The. viii. Chapter.

¶ After the sending out of the Rauen and the doue, Noah goeth forth of the Arke, and offreth Sacrifice. The naturall corruption of mannes hart.

A And God remēbred Noah and eue-ry beast, and all the cattell that was with him in the Arke. And God made a winde to passe vpon the earth, and the waters ceassed. The fountaines also of the depe, and the widowes of heauen were stopped, and the raine frō heauen was restrayned. And the waters from the earth were returned, going and comming againe. And after the ende of the hundreth and fiftieth day, the waters were abated. And in the seuenth moneth, in the seuenteenth day of the mo-neth, the Arke rested vpon the mountai-nes of Armenia. And the waters truely were going and decreasing vntill the tenth moneth: For in the tenth moneth, and in the first day of the same moneth, were the toppes of the mountaines sene.
And after the ende of the fortieth day, it happened that Noah opened the wyn-dow of the Arke which he had made. And he sent forth a Rauen, which went out going forth and returning againe, vntill the waters were dryed vp vpon ye earth.
And again he sēt forth a doue from him, B that he might see if the waters wer abated from the vpper face of the grounde.
And the doue founde no rest for the sole of her foote, and she returned vnto hym againe into the Arke: for the waters wer in the vpper face of the whole earth.
And he when he had put forth his hande, toke her: and pulled her into him into the Arke. And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and proceding further, he sent forth the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to him in the euentide, and lo in her mouth was an oliue leafe that she had pluct: wherby Noah did knowe that the waters were abated vpon the earth.
And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and sent forth the doue, which proceded not to returne vnto him any more. And it came C to passe in the sixe hundreth and one yere, in the first moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, the waters were dryed vp from the earth. And Noah remoued the couering of the Arke, and loked, and beholde, the vpper face of the grounde was dryed vp. And in the seconde moneth, in the seuen and twentie day of the moneth, was the earth dryed.
And God spake vnto Noah, sayeng: Go forth of the Arke, thou and thy wife gender in the earth, and bring forth fruit

and

.i.c.b. and *encrease vpon earth. And so Noah iii.a. came forth, and his sonnes, his wife, and D his sonnes wiues with him. Euery beast also, and euery worme, euery foule, and whatsoeuer crepeth vpon the earth (after their kindes) went out of the Arke.

And Noah bulded an alter vnto the .xi.a. Lord, and toke of euery cleane beast, and of euery cleane foule, and offred sacrifices in the alter. And the Lord smelled a swete (or quiet) sauor. And the lorde sayd in his hart: I will not procede to curse the grounde any more for mannes sake, for the imagination of mannes .vi.a. hart is euell, euen from his youth. Neither wil I adde to smite any more euery thing liuing, as I haue done. Yet therefore shall not sowing time and haruest, colde and heate, Sommer and winter, day and night ceasse, all the dayes of the earth.

The.ix. Chapter.

¶ God blesseth Noah and his sonnes. He forbiddeth to eate the blood of beastes, and to shed mannes blood. The law of the swearde. He maketh a couenant that he will destroy the world no more by water, and geueth the raynebowe for a token and confirmation of the same. Noah is dronken. Ham vncouereth him, and getteth his curse.

A AND God * blessed Noah and his
.i.c.b. sonnes, and sayd vnto them: Bring viii.d. ye forth fruit, and multiplie, and replenishe the earth. The feare of you and the drede of you shalbe vpon euery beast of the earth, and vpon euery foule of the ayre, in al such as ye earth bringeth forth, and in all the fishes of the sea.

Into your hande are they deliuered.
Euery thing that moueth it self, and that liueth, shalbe meate for you: Euen as the grene hearbe haue I geuē you al things.
But * fleshe in the life therof, and in the
.vii.c blood therof, shall ye not eate. Els your .xvii.d. blood of your liues will I require. From the hande of euery beast wil I require it and from the hande of man. From the hand of mannes brother will I require Mathew. the life of man. Whoso* shedeth mannes .xxvi.e. blood, by mā shall his blood be shed. For Ap.xiii.c. in the image of God did God make man.
But bring you forth fruit and multiply: Gender ye in the earth, and encrease therein.

B God spake also vnto Noah and to his sōnes with him, saying: Behold, I set vp Ge.vi.d. my * couenant with you, and with your sede after you, and with euery liuing creture that is with you, both in foule and catell, and in euery beast of ye earth which is with you, of all that go out of ye Arke, according vnto euery liuing thing of the earth. But my couenāt wil I make with you, that from * hencefor th euery fleshe Esay.
be not rooted out with the waters of a liiii.c. floude, neither shall there be a floude to destroy ye earth any more. And God sayd: This is the token of the couenant which I geue betwene me and you, and euery liuig creature that is with you, into perpetuall generations. I haue set my bow in the cloud, and it shalbe for a token be-twene me and the earth. And it shal come to passe, that when I bring a cloud vpon the earth, the bow also shalbe seen in the same cloud. And I will think vpon my C couenant which is betwene me and you, and euery liuing creature in al flesh, and it shal no more come to passe, that * wa- Ec.xliiii. ters make a floud to destroy al flesh. But c. the bow shalbe in the same cloude, and I will loke vpon it, that I may think vpon the euerlasting couenant betwene God, and euery liuing creature, in al flesh that is vpon earth. And God sayd vnto Noah: This is the token of the couenant which I haue made betwene me and all flesh that is vpon earth.

The sonnes of Noah going forth of the Arke, were Sem, Ham, and Iaphet.
And Ham truely is ye father of Canaan.
These are the three sonnes of Noah, and of them was the whole earth ouerspred.
Noah also began to be an husbandman, and planted a vineyard. And he drinking of the wine was dronken, and vncouered within his tent,

And Ham the father of Canaan seing D the nakednesse of his father, told his two brethrē without. And Sem and Iaphet, they two, taking a garment, layd it vpon their shoulders: and comming backward couered the naked priuities of their father: namely, their faces being turned away, least they should see their fathers priuities.

And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his yonger sonne had done vnto him. And he sayd: Cursed be Cana-an, a seruant of seruantes shall he be vnto his brethren. He sayd moreouer: Blessed be the lord God of Sem, and Cana-an shalbe his seruant. God shal enlarge Iaphet, and he shall dwell in the tentes of Sem, and Canaan shalbe their seruāt Noah liued after the floud, three hūdreth and fiftie yeres. And al the dayes of Noah, were nine hundred and fiftie yeres.

And he died.

The.x. Chapter.

¶ The genealogie of Japhet, Sem, and Ham.

A These are the generations of the sonnes of Noah, Sem, Ham, and Japhet: And vnto them were children borne after the floud. The children i.Pa.i.a. of * Japhet: Gomer and Magog, and Madai, and Jauan, and Thuball, Mesech, and Theras. The children of Gomer: Askenas, and Riphat, and Thogarma. The children of Jauan: Elisa and Tharsis, Chithim, and Donanim. Of these were the Iles of the Gẽtiles deuided in their landes, euery man after hys tong, and after his kinredes, in their nations. The children of Ham: Chus, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan. And the children of Chus: Seba and Hauila, and Sabtha, and Rahma, and Sabthecha. The children of Rahma: Scheba B i.Pa.i.a. and Dedam. Chus also begat * Nimrod. Thesame begã to be mightie in ẏ earth. For he was a mightie hunter before the Lord. Wherfore it is sayd: Euẽ as Nimrod the mightie hunter before the Lord.
Ge.xi.b. The beginning of his kingdome was * Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Chalne, in the lande of Sinhar. Out of that Jona.i.d. land came Assur, and builded * Niniue, and the stretes of the citie, and Calah. Resen also betwene Niniue and Calah, and it is a great citie.

Mizraim begat Ludim, and Enamim and Leabim, and Nephthuhim, Pathrusim also and Casluhim, out of whõ came Philistiim and Capthorim. Canaan be-
C gat zidon his first borne sonne, and Heth and Jebusi, & Emori, and Girgosi, Hahiui also and Haarki, and Hassini, and Aruadi, and zemori, and Hemathi: And afterwarde were the kinredes of the Cananites spred abrode. The border of the Cananites was from zidon, as thou cõmest to Gerar, vntil Gasan, and as thou goest vnto Sodoma, and Gomorra, and Adama, and zeboim, euen vnto Lesa. These are the children of Ham, in their kinredes, in their tonges, countreyes, and in their nations.

Unto Sem also the father of all the children of Eber, (and elder brother of Japhet) there were children borne. The children of Sem: Elam, and Assur, Arphachsad and Lud, and Aram. The children of Aram: Uz and Hull, Gether and Mas. * Arphachsad begat Selah, and i.Pa.
Selah begat Eber. Unto Eber also were borne two sonnes: The name of the one was Peleg, for in his dayes was ẏ earth deuided. And his brothers name was Jaketan. Jaketan begat Almodad and Saleph, Hazarmauet and Jerah, and Hodoran, and Usall, and Dickla, Oball also and Abimeal, and Seba, and Ophir and Hauila, and Jobab. All these wer the children of Jaketan. And their dwelling was from Mesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mount of the East. These are the children of Sem after their kinredes and tonges in their landes and nations. And so these are the kinredes of the children of Noah, after their generations in their peoples, and of these were the nations deuided in the earth after the floud.

The.xi. Chapter.

¶ The building of the towre of Babell. The confusion of tonges. The generation of Sem, the sõne of Noah, vntill Abram, which goeth with Lot vnto Haran.

All ẏ whole earth was of one language and like of one A speche. And it happened whẽ they went forth frõ the East they foũd a plain in the land of Sinhar, and there they abode. And they sayd euery one to his neighbor: Come, let vs prepare bricke, and burne them in the fyre. And they had bricke for stone, and slime they had in stede of morter. And they sayd: Go to, let vs builde vs a citie and a towre, whose top may reach vnto heauen: and let vs make vs a name lest happly we be scattered abrode into the vpper face of the whole earth. But the Lord came down, to see the citie and tower which the children of men builded. B

And the Lord sayd: Beholde, the people is one, and they haue all one language, and this they begin to do, neither will it be restrayned from them, whatsoeuer they haue imagined to do. Come on, let vs go down, & confoũd their language, that euery one perceiue not his neighbours speche. And so the Lord scattered them from that place into the vpper face of all the earth. And they left of to builde the citie. And therefore is the name of it called * Babel, bicause the Lord did there Confusion. Gen.x.b. confounde the language of all the earth. And from thence did the Lord scatter them abrode vpõ the face of al the earth. These are ẏ generations of Sem: Sem was an hundreth yere old, and begat Arphachphachsad two yere after the floud. And Sem liued (after he begat Arphachsad) fiue hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Arphachsad liued fiue C and thirtie yeres, and begat Salah. And Arphacsad liued (after he begat Salah) foure hundreth and thre yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Salah liued thirtie yeres, and begat Eber. And Sa-lah liued (after he begat Eber) foure hũdred and thre yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Eber liued foure and thirtie yeres, and begat Peleg. And Eber liued (after he begat Peleg) foure hũ-dreth and thirtie yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Peleg liued thirtie yeres, and begat Regu. And Peleg liued (after he begat Regu) two hundreth and nine yeres, and and begat sonnes and daughters. Regu liued two and thirtie yeres, and begat Serug. And Regu liued (after he begat Serug) two hundreth and seuen yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Se-rug liued thirtie yeres, and begat Nahor And Serug liued (after he begat Nahor) D two hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And Nahor liued nine and twentie yeres, and begat Terah.
And Nahor liued (after he begat Terah) an hundreth and ninetene yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Terah liued seuentie yeres, and begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran. These are Pa.i.b. the generations of * Terah: Terah be[illegible]asu. gat Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Ha[illegible]iiii.a. ran begat Lot. And Haran died in the presence of Terah his father, in ẏ land of his natiuitie, euen in Ur of the Caldees. Abram and Nahor toke them wiues: The name of Abrams wife was Sarai, and the name of Nahors wife was Milca, the daughter of Haran: the father of Milca, and the father of Jisca.
[illegible]e.xii.c. But * Sarai was baren, and had no [illegible]osu. childe. And Terah toke Abram * hys [illegible]iiii.a. sonne, and Lot the sonne of Haran, his [illegible]Es.ix.b sonnes sonne, and Sarai his daughter in law, his sonne Abrams wife: And they departed together from Ur of the Caldees, that they might go into the land of Canaan, and they came vnto Haran, and dwelt there. And ẏ dayes of Terah were two hundreth and fiue yeres, and Terah dyed in Haran.

The.xii.Chapter.

¶ Abram is blessed of God, and goeth with Lot vnto the lande of Canaan, which God promised to geue vnto him and his sede. Abram goeth into Egipt, and causeth Sarai his wife to call her self his sister, for whom Pharao is plaged.

A And the Lord sayd vnto Abram: * A Get thee out of thy countrey, and Ac.vii.a. out of thy natiõ, and from thy fa- Heb.xi.c. thers house, vnto a land that I wil shew thee. And I will make of the a great people, and will * blesse thee, and make thy Gene. name great, that thou mayest be euen a xviii.a.& blessing. I wil also blesse them that blesse xxii.c. thee, and curse them that curse thee, and Act.iii.b. in thee shall all the kinredes of the earth be blessed. And so Abram departed, euen as the Lord spake vnto him; and Lot went with him. And Abraham was se- B uenty and fiue yeres old, when he departed out of Haran. And Abram toke Sarai his wife, and Lot his brothers sonne, and all their * substance that they had in possessiõ, and the soules that they had be- Gene. gotten in Haran. And they departed, that xiii.a. they might come into the land of Cana- &.xiiii.c. an: And into the land of Canaan they came. Abram passed through the lãd vnto the place of Sichem, and vnto the plain of Moreth: And the Cananite was then in the lãd. And the Lord appearing vnto Abram, sayd: Unto thy * sede wil I geue this land. And there builded he an Gene. altare vnto the Lord, euen where he had xiii.b. appered vnto him. And remouing thence xvii.b. vnto a mountaine that was Eastwarde &.xvii.b. from Bethell, he pitched his tent, hauing C Bethell on the west syde, and Hai on the East. And he building an altare vnto the Deuter.
Lord, did call on the name of the Lord. xxxiiii.b.
And Abram wẽt forth going and departing toward the south. But there was a derth in that land, and therfore went Abram downe into Egipt that he might sogeorne there, for there was a sore derth in the land. And it happened when he was come nere to enter into Egipt, he sayd vnto Sarai his wife: Beholde, I know that thou art a fayre woman to loke vpon. Therfore shal it come to passe that when the Egiptians see thee, they shall say: She is his wife. And they shal kyll me, but they shall saue thee aliue.
Say (I pray thee) that * thou art my sister, that I may fare well for thy sake, Gene. and that my soule may liue through thy xx.a.b. occasion. And so it happened, when Abram was come into Egipt, the Egipti-ans behelde the woman, for she was D very faire. The Princes also of Pharao saw her, and commẽded her before Pharao, and the woman was takẽ into Pha-raos house. And he truely entreated Abram well for her sake, and he had shepe and oxen and he asses, men seruãtes, and mayde seruantes, she asses, and camels.

And the Lorde smote Pharao, and his house, with great plages, bicause of Sarai Abrams wife. And Pharao calling Abrã, sayd: Why hast thou done this vnto me? Why diddest thou not tell me, that she was thy wife?
Now therfore behold, there is thy wife, take her, and go thy way. And Pharao gaue the men commaundement, concerning him: and they conueyed hym forth, and his wife, and all that he had.

The.xiii. Chapter.

¶ Abram and Lot depart out of Egipt. And Abram deuideth his lande and cattell with Lot his brothers sonne. Here againe is promysed to Abram the lande of Canaan.

A Ge.xii.b. And so Abram gat him vp out of Egipt, he and his wife, and *all that he had, and Lot with him, toward the south. And Abram was very riche in catel, in siluer and gold. And he wẽt forth on his iourney from the south toward Bethel, vnto the place where his tẽt had been at the beginning, betwene Bethell and Hai: Euen vnto the place of the * al-Ge.xii.c. tare which he had made there at the first, and there Abram called on ÿ name of the Lord. Lot also which went with Abram, had shepe, catel and tentes: and the land was not able to receiue thẽ ÿ they might Gene. xxxvi.b. dwel together, for ÿ *substãce of their riches was great, and they could not dwell B together. And there fell a strife betwene the herdmẽ of Abrams catel, and ÿ herd-men of Lots catel. Moreouer the * Ca-Ge.xii.b. nanites and ÿ Pheresites dwelled at that time in the land. Then sayd Abram vnto Lot: Let there be no strife (I pray thee) Ge.xxv.a betwene thee and me, and *betwene my herdmen and thine, for we be brethren.
Iere.xl.a Is not all the * whole land before thee?
Depart I pray thee fro me. If thou wilt take the left hand, I wil goe to the right: or if thou depart to the right hand, I will go to the left. And so Lot lifting vp his eyes, behelde al the countrey of Iordane, which was a plenteous countrey of water euery where, before ÿ Lord destroyed Sodome and Gomorra, euen as ÿ garden of the Lorde, like the land of Egipt, as thou commest vnto zoar.

Then Lot chose al the plaine countrey C of Iordan, and toke his iorney from the East. And so departed the one brother from the other. Abram dwelled in ÿ land of Canaan, and Lot abode in the cities of the plaine, and tented vntill Sodome.
But *the men of Sodome were wicked Ez.xvi. and exceding sinners before ÿ Lord. And the Lord sayd vnto Abram, after that Lot was departed from him: Lift vp thine eyes now, and loke from the place where thou art, northward, southward, eastward, and westward, for al *the land Ge.xii. which thou seest, will I geue vnto thee xvii.b. and to thy sede for euer. And I wil make xxvi.a. thy sede, as the dust of the earth: so that if Ac.vii.
a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy sede also be numbred. Arise and walke about in the lande, after the length of it, and after the bredth thereof, for I will geue it vnto thee. And Abram taking down his tent, came and dwelled in the okegroue of Mamre, namely in Hebrõ, and builded there an altare vnto the Lord.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

¶ Lot is taken prisoner. The victory of Abram of the Sodomites. Lot is deliuered by Abrã. Melchizedech offereth giftes vnto Abram. Abram payeth tithes vnto Melchizedech. Abram holdeth nothing of the king of Sodomes goodes.

And it chaunced in the dayes of Amraphell king of Sinhar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Kedorlaomor king of Elam, A Thideal king of the nations, and they made warre with Bera king of Sodome, and with Birsa king of Gomorra, and with Sineab kĩg of Adama, and with Semeabar king of zeboim, and with the king of Bela. The same is zoar.
Al these were ioyned together in the vale of Siddim where the salt sea is. For.xii. yere were they subiect to king Kedorlaomor, and in the thirtene yere rebelled.
But in the fourtene yere came Kedorlao mor, and the kinges that were with him and smote the giantes in Astaroth, Kar-naim, and the Susims in Ham, and the Emims in the plaine of Kiriathim, & the Horims in mount Seir, vnto the playne of Pharan, which bordreth vpon the wil-dernesse. And they returnig came to En-Mispat, which is Kades, and smote al the countrey of the Amalechites, and also the B Amorites that dwelt in Hazezon Tha-mar.
And there went out the king of So-dome, and the king of Gomorra, and
the

the king of Adama, and the king of Zeboim, and the king of Bela, which is Zo-ar. And they stroke battaile with them in the vale of Siddim, that is to say, with Kedorlaomor the king of Elam, & with Thideall king of the nations, and with Amraphell king of Sinhar, and with Arioch king of Ellasar: foure kinges a-gainste fiue. And that vale of Siddim was full of slime pittes.
And the king of Sodome and Gomor-ra fled, and fell there. And they that remained, fled to the mountaine. And they taking all the goodes of Sodome and Gomorra, and al their vitals, went their way. And they carryed away Lot also, Abrams brothers sonne, and his good (for he dwelled at Sodome) & departed.
And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrue which dwel-C led in the oke groue of *Mamre þ Amoxiii.d rite, brother of Escol, and brother of Aner which were confederate with Abram.
When Abram heard that his brother was taken, he harnessed his freshe yong men, borne in his own house, three hundred and eightene, and followed on them vntill Dan: And he was set in araye vpon them by night, he and his seruantes, and smote them, and pursued them vnto Hoba, which lieth on the left hande of Damascus, and recouered all the goods, and also brought again his brother Lot, and his goodes, the wemen also and the people. After that he returned againe frō the slaughter of Kedorlaomor, and of the kinges that were with him, came þ king of Sodom forth to mete him in the plain D valley which is the kinges dale. And * Melchizedech king of Salem brought forth bread and wine. For he was the Priest of the most highest God, and blesvii.a. sed him sayeng: Blessed be Abram vnto the hyghe God, possessor of heauen and earth. And blessed be the hie God whiche hath deliuered thine enemies into thy hande. And Abram gaue him tithes of all.
And the king of Sodome sayd vnto Abram: geue me the soules, and take the goodes to thy self. And Abram answered the king of Sodome: I haue lifte vp my hand vnto the Lord the hye God possessor of heauen and earth, that I will not take of all that is thine, so much as a threde or shoelachet, least thou shouldest say, I haue made Abram rich. Saue only that which the yong men haue eaten, and the partes of the men which went with me, Aner Escol, and Mamre, which shall take their partes.

The .xv. Chapter.

¶ The land of Canaan is yet againe promised to Abram. God promiseth him sede, he beleueth and is iustified. The prophecy of the bondage wherein the children of Israell should be vnder Pharao, and of their deliuerance from the same.

AFter these thinges were done, the A worde of the lord came vnto Abram in a visiō, sayeng: Feare not Abram I am thy defence, and thy rewarde shal-be exceding great. And Abram sayd: lord God, what wilt thou geue me, when I go childlesse? and the childe of the stewardship of my house is this Eleazar of Da-masco. And Abram sayd: See, to me hast thou geuen no sede: loe, a lad borne in my house is mine heire. And behold þ worde of the Lord came vnto him, sayeng: He shall not be thine heire, but one that shall come out of thine own body, shalbe thine heire. And he brought him out and sayd: loke vp vnto heauen, and tel the *starres B if thou be able to number them. And he Jeremy. xxxiii. d. sayd vnto him: Euen so shall thy sede be.
And Abram *beleued the lord, and that Ro.iiii.a. coūted he to him for righteousnesse. And Jam.ii.d againe he sayd vnto him: I am the Lord Gal.iii.a. that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to geue the this land, and that thou mightest possesse it.
And he sayd: Lord God, whereby shall I know that I shal possesse it? He answered vnto him: Take an heyfer of three yere old, and a she goat of three yere old, and a three yere old Ram, a turtle doue also and a yong pigeon. He toke therfore all these vnto him, and deuided them in the middes, and layed euery pece one against another. But the foules deuided C he not. And when the birdes fell on the carkases, Abram droue them away. And when the sunne was downe, there fell a slomber vpon Abram. And loe, a darke and great feare fell vpon him.
And he sayd vnto Abram: know this of Ac.vii.a. a suretie, that thy *sede shalbe a stranger in a land that perteineth not vnto them.
And shall serue them, and they shall entreate them euell, *foure hūdreth yeres. Ex.xii.f.
But the nation whom they shall serue, Jud.v.b. will I iudge. And afterwarde shall they Gal.[illegible] come out with great substance. And thou shalt goe vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalt be buried in a good olde age. But in the fourth generation they shall hither againe, for the wickednes Amorites is not yet full. And it came to passe, ye when the sunn went down, there was a darke cloude: beholde, there was a smoking fornace, & a fyrebrãde going be-Gene. twene ye sayd pieces. In ye same day, the xxiiii.a Lord made a couenãt with Abrã, saying: vnto thy*sede haue I geuen this lande, frõ ye riuer of Egipt, euen vnto ye great ri-uer, ye riuer of Euphrates, ye Kenites, the Kenisites, & the Cadmonites, ye Hethites, and the Pheresites, and the Giantes: the Amorites also, and the Cananites, the Gergesites, and the Iebusites.

The. xvi. Chapter.

¶ Sarai geueth Abram leaue to take Agar her maide to wife. Agar despiseth her mastres, for which she was euell entreated of Sarai, and therefore runneth away. The Angell meting her, commaundeth her to turne againe, and doth promise her sede. And nameth her first childe Ismaell.

A SArai Abrams wife, bare him no children. But she had an handmaid an Egiptian, Agar by name. And Sarai sayed vnto Abram: Behold, the Lord hath restrained me, that I can not beare. I pray thee go in vnto my maide, peraduenture I may be edified by her.
And Abram obeyed the voice of Sarai.
And Sarai Abrams wife toke Agar her maide the Egiptian (after Abram had dwelled. x. yere in the land of Canaan) & gaue her to her housebãd Abrã, to be his wife. Which when he wẽt in vnto Agar, she conceiued. And when she saw that she had conceiued, her mastresse was despised in her eyes. And Sarai sayd vnto Abrã: Thou doest me wrong: I haue geuen my maide into thy bosome, which seing ye she hath cõceiued, I am despised in her eyes, the Lord iudge betwene thee & me. But Abram sayd to Sarai: behold, thy maid is in thy hand, do wt her as it pleaseth thee.
And when Sarai fared foule with her, B she fled from the face of her. And ye Angel of the Lord found her beside a fountaine of water in the wildernesse: euen by ye wel that is in ye way to Sur. And he sayd: Agar Sarais maide, whence camest thou, and whither wilt thou go? She sayd: I fle frõ ye face of my mastresse Sarai. And the Angel of ye Lord sayd vnto her: returne to thy mastresse again, & submit thy self vn-C der her handes. And again the Angell of the Lord sayd vnto her: In encreasing I wil encrease thy sede, & it shal not be nũbred for multitude. And ye Lordes Angel sayd vnto her: see, thou art with childe, & [illegible] beare a sõne, and shalt cal his name [illegible]ll: because ye Lord hath heard thy tribulation. He also will be a wilde man, and his hande wil be against euery man, and euery mannes hande against him.
And he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren. And she called the name of ye Lord that spake vnto her: thou god lokest on me, for she sayd: Haue I not sene here the backe partes of him that seeth me?
Wherfore the well was called, the well of him that liueth & seeth me. And it is be-twene Cades & Bared. And Agar bare Abram a sonne, and Abram called his sõnes name, which Agar bare vnto him, Ismaell. And Abram was. lxxxvi. yeare olde, when Agar bare him Ismaell.

The. xvii. Chapter.

¶ Abram is called Abraham, and Sarai is named Sara. The lande of Canaan is here the fourth tyme promised. Circumcision is here instituted. Isaac is promised. Abraham prayeth for Ismaell.

ABram was ninty yere old, and nine, A the Lorde appeared to Abram, and sayd vnto him: I am the almightie God: walke*before me, and be thou per-fit. And I will*make my bonde betwene thee and me, and will multiply thee excedingly. And Abram fell on his face. And God talked with him, sayeng: Beholde, I am, and my testament is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many* nations.
Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shalbe Abrahã: *for a father of many nations haue I made thee. I will make thee to grow excedingly, and will make nations of thee: yea and kinges shall spring out of thee. B Moreouer, I will make my bonde*be-twene me and thee, and thy sede after the in their generations, by an euerlasting testament, that I may be God vnto the,
and to thy sede after the. And I wil geue vnto thee and to thy sede after thee, *the lande wherein thou art a stranger: Euen al the lãde of Canaan, for an euerlasting possessiõ, and wil be their God. And God sayd again vnto Abraham: See thou also kepe my testament therfore, both thou and thy sede after thee in their generations. This is my testamẽt which ye shall kepe betwene me & you, & thy sede after the. Euery mãchild amõg you shalbe cir-cũcised. Ye shal circũcise the flesh of your foreskinne, and it shalbe a * token of the bond betwixte me and you. And euery manchilde of eight dayes*old shalbe circumcised among you, and suche as be in your generatiõs, and borne at home, and he that is bought wt mony of any strãger

C which is not of thy sede. He that is borne in thy house, and he also that is bought with money, must nedes be circumcised.
And my Testament shalbe in your flesh for an euerlasting bonde. And the vncircumcised manchilde, in whose fleshe the foreskin is not circumcised, yͤ soule shall perish from his people, bicause he hath broken my Testamēt. And God sayd vnto Abraham: Sarai thy wife shalt thou not call Sarai: but Sara shall her name be. And I wil blesse her, and haue geuen thee a sōne of her, and wil blesse her people also, yea & kinges of people shal spring of her. But Abraham fell vpon his face, and laughed, and sayd in his hart: shall a childe be borne vnto him that is an hun-dreth yere olde? And shall Sara that is nintie yere olde beare? And Abraham sayd vnto God: O that Ismaell might liue in thy sight. Unto whom God sayd: Gene. xviii.b. Sara thy wife shall *beare thee a sonne in dede, and thou shalt call his name Isaac. And I will make my bonde with Ec.xliiii. b. him, for an *euerlasting bond, and with his sede after him. And as concerning Ismaell also, I haue heard thee: for I haue blessed him, and will make him to increase, and will multiplie him excea-Ge.xxv.b dingly. Twelue *Princes shall he begett, and I will make a great nation of him. But my bonde will I make with Isaac, which Sara shal beare vnto thee, euen this time twelue moneth.
D And he left of talking with him, and departed vp from Abraham. Abraham toke Ismaell his sonne, and all such as were borne in his house, and al that was bought with money, as many as were men children which were amōg the men of Abrahams house, and circumcised the fleshe of their foreskin, euen in that selfesame day, as God had sayed vnto him.
Abraham also himself was ninetie yere old and nine, when the fleshe of his fore-skin was circumcised. Ismaell his sonne was.xiii.yere old when he was circumcised in the fleshe of his foreskinne. The selfsame day was Abraham circumcised, and Ismaell his sonne. And all the men of his house, borne in his house, or bought with money (of strangers) were circumcised with him.

The.xviii.Chapter.

¶ There appeared three men vnto Abraham. Isaac is promised to him againe, at which Sara laughed. The destruction of the Sodomites is declared vnto Abraham. Abraham prayeth for them.

A And the Lord appeared vnto him in the plaine of Mamre, as he sate in his tent dore in yͤ heat of yͤ day. And he lift vp his eyes, and loked: & loe, three men stode by him. And whē he saw them he ran to mete them from yͤ tent dore, and fel to yͤ groūd & sayd: lord (I besech thee) if I haue foūd fauor in thy sight: go not (I pray thee) from thy seruant. Let a li-tel water be fet, and wash your fete, & refresh your selues vnder yͤ tree. And I wil fet a *morsel of bred to cōfort your harts Iude.xix. withall. And thē shal ye go your wayes, b. for euē therefore are ye come to your seruant. And they sayd: do euē so as yͤ hast sayd. And Abraham went a pace into his tent vnto Sara, and sayd, make ready at once.iii.peckes of fine meale, knead it, and make cakes. And Abraham running vnto his beastes, fet a calf tender & good, and gaue it vnto a yōg man, & he hasted to make it ready at once. And he toke but ter & milk, & the calf which he had prepared, & set it before them, & stode himself by them vnder the tree *whē they did eate. Tobi.xii.
And they sayd vnto him: Where is Sara b thy wife? he answered: behold, she is in the Iude.xiii tent. And he sayd: In returning, I will c. come againe vnto thee, according to the B tyme of life. And lo, *Sara thy wife shal Ro.ix.b. haue a sōne. That heard Sara in yͤ tent dore which was behinde him. Abraham and Sara were both old & well striken in age: & it ceased to be with Sara, after the maner as it is with women. Therefore Sara laughed within her selfe, saying: Now I am waxed old, shall I geue my Eccle. self to *lust, and my Lord old also? And xxv.a.
God sayd vnto Abraham: wherefore did Sara laugh, saying: shall I of a suretie beare a childe which am olde? is any thing wōderfull to God? According to the time *appointed wil I returne vnto thee, euē according to the time of life, & Sara shal iiii.Kin. haue a sonne. Then Sara denied it, say- iiii.c. ing: I laughed not: for she was afrayd. Ro.ix.b.
And he sayd: It is not so, but thou laugh edst. And yͤ men stādyng vp from thence, loked toward Sodome. And Abraham went wt them, to bring them on the way.
And yͤ Lord sayd: Shal I hide from Abraham yͤ thing which I do? seing that Abraham shalbe a *great and a mighty Ecle. people, & all yͤ nations of yͤ earth shalbe xliiii. c. blessed in him. I know this also, that he Ge.xviii.a will commaunde his children and his housholde after him, that they kepe the way of the lord, and do after right and conscicōscience, that the Lord may bring upon Abraham all yͤ he hath spoken unto him.

Ez.xvi.c. And the Lord sayd: * The crye of Sodom and Gomorra is great, and their sinne is exceading greuous. I will goe down nowe, and see whether they haue done altogether according to that crye, which is come unto me, or not, that I may know. And the men departed thence and went to Sodom warde. But Abraham stode yet before the Lord, & Abraham drewe nere and sayd: Wilt thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked? peraduenture there be fiftie righteous within the citie, wilt thou destroy, & not spare the place for the sake of fiftie righ-D teous that are therin? That be farr from thee that thou shouldest do after this say-eng, & sley the righteous with the wicked and that the righteous should be as the wicked, that be farr from thee. Shall not the iudge of al the world do according to right? And the Lord sayd: If I finde in Sodome fifty righteous within the citie,
I will spare all the place for their sakes.
And Abraham answering, sayd: Behold I haue takē upon me to speake unto the Ge.ii.b. lord, * which am but dust and ashes: peraduenture there shall lacke fiue of fiftie righteous: Wilt thou destroy all the citie for lacke of fiue? And he sayd: if I finde there fortie & .v. I wil not destroy them.
And he proceded to speake unto him again, & sayd: Peraduenture there shal-be fourtie founde there. He answered, I wil not do it for forties sake. He sayd unto him again: O let not my lord be angry that I speake: peraduenture there shall.
xxx. be found there. And he sayd: I will do nothing if I find thirtie there. He sayd againe: O see, I haue taken upon me to speake nowe also unto my Lord: perad-uenture there shalbe twenty foūd there.
He answered, I wil not destroy them for twenties sake. And he sayd: O let not my Lord be angry,, and I wil speake yet but this once: Peraduenture there shall. x. be found there. He answered, I will not destroy them for tēnes sake. And the Lord wēt his way as sone as he had left communing with Abraham. And Abraham also returned unto his place.

The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Lot receiueth two Angels into his house. The filthy lustes of the Sodomites. Lot is deliuered and desi-reth to dwell in the citie of Zoar. Lots wife is turned into a piller of salt. Sodom is destroyed. Lot is drōken and lyeth with his daughters, which conceiued children by him.

And there came two Angels to A Sodom at euen. And Lot sate at the gate of Sodom. And Lot se-ing them rose up to mete them, and he * Gene. bowed himself to yͤ groūd with his face, xviii.a.
And he sayd: my Lordes, turne in I pray you into your seruantes house, and tarry all night, and wash your fete, and ye shal rise up early to go on your wayes. Which sayd: nay, but we will bide in the stretes al night. And he in maner did euē * com- Luke. pell them violently. And they turning in xxiiii.e. unto him, entred into his house, and he made them a feast, and did bake swete bread, & they * did eate. And before they went to rest, the men of yͤ citie (euen the Tobi.xii. men of Sodome) cōpassed yͤ house round b. about, both olde & yong, all yͤ people frō all quarters. And they calling unto Lot, sayd unto him: where are the men which came into thee this night? bring them out unto us, & we wil know them. And Lot went out at the dores unto them, & shut B the dore after him, and sayd: nay for gods sake brethrē do not so wickedly. Behold, I haue two daughters which haue knowen no man, them wil I bring out now unto you, & do with thē as it semeth good in your eyes. Only unto these mē do nothing, for therfore came they in under the shadow of my roofe. And they said: stand backe. And they sayd: He came in as one to sogeorne, and wil he be now * a iudge? Exo.iii.
We wil surely deale worse with thee then Ac.vii. with them. And they preased sore upon the man, euen Lot, and came to breake up the dore: but the men put forth their hand and pulled Lot into the house to C them, and shute to the dore. And the men that were at the dore of the house, they smote with blindnesse, * both small and great: so that they fainted and could not Sap.xix. finde yͤ dore. And the mē sayd unto Lot: c.
If thou haue yet here any sonne in law, iiii.Re. or sonnes or daughters, or whatsoeuer vi.d. thou hast in the citie, bring it out of this place: for we must destroy this place, bi-cause the cry of them is great * before the face of God: for yͤ lord hath sent us to de- Gene. stroy it. And Lot went out & spake unto xviii.c. his sonnes in law which maried his daughters, sayeng: stand up, geat you out of this place, for yͤ Lord will ouerthrowe this citie. But he semed as though he had mocked, unto his sōnes in law. And whē the morning arose, yͤ Angels caused Lot to spede him, sayeng: Stand up, take thy wife and thy two daughters at hand, lest D thou thou perish in the sinne of the citie. And as he prolonged the time, the men caught both him, his wife, and his two daughters by the handes, the Lord being mercifull vnto him, and they brought him forth, and set him without ẏ citie. It for-tuned when they had brought them out, he sayd: Saue thy life, & loke not behinde thee: nether tarry ẏ in al this plaine coū-trey. Saue thy selfe in the mountaine, lest thou perish. And Lot sayd vnto them Oh, nay Lord: behold, thy seruant hath E foūd grace in thy sight, & thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast shewed vnto me in sauing my life. Behold, I can not be saued in the mountaine, lest some misfortune fall vpon me and I dye. Behold, here is a citie by, to fle vnto, euen yōder litle one: Oh let me be saued there: is it not a litle one, and my soule shal liue?

And he sayd to him: see, I haue receiued thy request, as cōcerning this thing, that I will not ouerthrowe this citie, for the which thou hast spoken. Hast thee, and be saued there, for I can do nothing til thou be come thither. And therefore the name of the citie is called zoar. And the sunne was now risen vpon the earth, whē Lot was entred in zoar.

Then the Lord rayned vpō *Sodome and Gomorra, brymstone and fire, from the Lord out of heauen, and ouerthrewe those cities, and al the region, and al that dwelled in the cities, and that that grew vpon the earth. But Lottes wife loked behind her, and was turned into a piller of salt. Abraham rising vp early, got him F to the place where he stode before the presence of God, & loking toward Sodom and Gomorra, and toward al the land of that cuntrey, he loked: and behold, the smoke of the cuntrey arose as the smoke of a furnace. And it hapened that when God destroyed the citie of that region, he thought vpō Abraham, & sent Lot * out frō ẏ middes of ẏ ouerthrowing when he ouerthrew the cities where Lot dwelled.

And Lot departed out of zoar, and dwelled in the mountaines with his two daughters, for he feared to tary in zoar, but dwelled in a caue, he and his two daughters. And the elder sayd vnto the yonger: Our father is old, and there is not a man in ẏ earth to come in vnto vs after the maner of all the world. Come, we will make our father dronken with wine, and lie with him, that we may saue sede of our father.

And so they made their father drōken with wine ẏ night. And the elder daughter went and lay with her father. And he perceiued it not, neither when she lay down, neither when she rose vp. And on G the morow it hapened that the elder sayd vnto the yonger: beholde, yesternight lay I with my father. Let vs make him dronk with wine this night also, and go thou and lie with him, ẏ we may rayse vp sede of our father. And they made their father dronken with wine that night also, And ẏ yonger arose and lay with him.
And he perceiued it not: nether when she lay down, neither whē she rose vp. Thus were both the daughters of Lot with childe by their father. And the elder bare a sonne, and called his name Moab. The same is the father of the Moabites vnto this day. And the yōger bare a sonne also, and called his name Ben Ammi. The same is the father of the children of Ammon vnto this day.

The. xx. Chapter.

Abraham went as a stranger into the land of Gerar
The king of Gerar taketh away his wife.

AND Abraham departed thēce A toward the south countrey, and dwelled betwene Kades and Sur, and sogeorned in Gerar. And Abraham sayd of Sara his wife: she is my *sister. And Abimelech king of Gerar sent and fett Ge. xii. c Sara away. e. xxvi. b.

But God came to Abimelech in a dreame in the night, and sayd vnto him: See, thou shalt dye for the womans sake which thou hast taken away, for she is a mannes wife. But Abimelech had not yet come nie her, and he sayd: Lord, wilt thou sley righteous people? sayd not he vnto me, she is my sister? yea, and sayd not she her self, he is my brother? with a pure heart and innocent handes haue I done this. And God sayd vnto him by a B dreame: I wot it wel that thou didst it in the purenesse of thy hart, I kept thee also that thou shouldest not sinne against me, and therefore suffered I thee not to touche her. Now therefore deliuer the man his wife againe, for he is a Pro-phete. And he shall pray for thee that thou mayest liue. But and if thou deli-uer her not againe, be sure that thou shalt dye the death, both thou, and all that thou hast. Therefore Abimelech rising vp betimes in the morning, called all his seruauntes, and tolde all these

these sayengs in their eares, and the men C were sore afrayd. And Abimelech called Abraham and sayd vnto him: what hast thou done vnto vs, and what haue I offended thee that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom so great a sinne? thou hast done dedes vnto me that ought not to be done. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abraham: What sawest thou that thou hast don this thing? Abraham answered.
For I sayd: surely the feare of God is not in this place, and they shal sley me for my wiues sake: yet in very dede she is my sister, for she is the daughter of my father, though she be not the daughter of my mother: and she became my wife. And after God caused me to wāder out of my fathers house, I sayed vnto her: This kindnesse shalt thou shew vnto me in all D places where we come, that thou say of me, he is my brother. Then toke Abime-lech shepe and oxen, men seruantes and women seruantes, and gaue them vnto Abraham, and deliuered him Sara his wife againe. And Abimelech sayd: behold my land lyeth before thee, dwell where it pleaseth thee best. But vnto Sara he sayd: see, I haue geuē thy brother a thou-sād pieces of siluer: behold, it shalbe a couering of thine eyes, vnto all that are with thee, and thus withall was she re-proued.

And so Abraham prayed vnto God, and God healed Abimelech, and his wife and his maidēs, and they bare children.
For the Lorde had closed to, all the matrices of the house of Abimelech: bicause of Abrahams wife.

The.xxi.Chapter.

Isaac is borne. Agar is cast out with her yong sonne Ismaell. The Angell comforteth Agar. The couenant betwene Abimelech and Abraham.

A The Lorde visited Sara as he had sayd, and did vnto her * according Ge. xviii. b. c. xvii. c as he had promised. For Sara was Gal. iiii. d with childe, and bare Abraham a sonne Heb. xi. c. in his old age, euē thesame season which the Lord had appointed him. And Abraham called his sonnes name that was borne vnto him, which Sara * bare him, Mat. i. a. Isaac: and Abraham: circumcised Isaac Josu. his sonne when he was. viii. dayes olde, xxiiii. a. as God commaunded him. And Abra-Ge. xvii. b ham was an hundred yere old, when his sonne Isaac was borne vnto him. But Sara sayd: God hath made me a laughing stocke, so that all that heare, will laugh at me. She sayd also: who would haue sayd vnto Abraham, yͭ Sara shuld haue geuen children suck? for I haue born him a sonne in his olde age. The childe grewe, and was wened: and Abraham made a great feast, thesame day yͭ Isaac was wened. Sara saw also the sonne of Agar the Egiptian (which she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker, wherfore she sayd vnto Abraham: * put away this bondmayd and her sonne: for the sonne of B this bond woman shall not be heire with my sonne Isaac: and this sayeng was very greuous in Abrahams sight, bicause of his sonne. And God sayd vnto Abraham: let it not be greuous in thy sight, bi-cause of the lad and of thy bondmayd. Al that Sara had sayd vnto thee, heare her voice, for * in Isaac shall thy sede be called. Moreouer of the sonne of the bond-woman will I make a nation, bicause he is thy * sede. And so Abraham arose vp early in the morning, and toke bred and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto Agar putting it on her shoulders, with the lad also, and sent her away: who departing, wādred vp and doune in the wildernesse of Beer Seba. And the water was spent in the bottell, and she cast the lad vnder a bushe, and went and sate on the other side a great way, as it were a bow shot of: for she sayd: I will not see the death of the childe. And she sitting downe on the C other side, lift vp her voice & wept. And God heard the voice of the childe. And the Angel of god called Agar out of heauen, and sayd vnto her: what ayleth thee Agar? Feare not, for God hath heard the voyce of the childe where he lyeth. Arise and lift vp the lad, and take him in thy hand, for I will make of him a great people. And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. And she went and filled the bottel with water, and gaue the boy drinke. And God was with the lad, and he grewe and dwelt in the wildernesse, & became an archer. And he dwelt in the wildernesse of Pharan. And hys mother got him a wife out of the land of Egipt. And it chaunced thesame season, that Abimelech, and Phicoll his chiefe captain, spake vnto Abraham, sayeng: *
God is with the in all that thou doest.
And now therfore sweare vnto me euen here by God, that thou wilt not hurt me nor my children, nor my childrens children. But that thou wilt deale with me, and the cuntrey where thou hast ben a stranger, according vnto the kindnesse that that I haue shewed thee. And Abraham D sayd: I will sweare. And Abraham rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, which Abimeleches seruauntes had violently taken away. And Abimelech sayd: I wote not who hath done this thing.

Also thou toldest me not: neither hard I of it, but this day. And Abraham toke shepe and oxe, and gaue them vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bond together. And Abraham set .vii. ewe lambes by themselues. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abraham: what meane these vii. ewe lambes which thou hast set by themselues? He answered: For these .vii. lambes shalt thou take of my hande, that they may be a witnesse vnto me, that I haue digged this well. Wherefore the place is called Beer Seba, bicause that there they sware both of the. Thus made they a bod together at Beer Seba. And Abimelech and Phicholl his chefe captain rose vp, and turned againe vnto the land of the Philistines. And Abraham planted a wood in Beer Seba, and called there on the name of the Lord the euerlasting God: and soiourned in the Philistines land a long season.

The .xxii. Chapter.

The fayth of Abraham is proued in offring his sonne Isaac. Christ our Sauiour is promised. The generation of Nahor Abrahams brother.

A After these sayenges, it hapned that Heb. xi. d. God did *proue Abraham, and sayd Eccle. xliiii. c. vnto him: Abraham. Which answe-Heb. xi. d red: here am I. And he sayd, take thy only sonne Isaac whom thou louest, & geat thee vnto the land Mozia, and sacrifice him there for a sacrifice vpon one of the mountaines, which I will shewe thee.
The Abraham rose vp early in the morning, and sadled his asse, and toke two of his yong men with him, and Isaac his sonne: and claue wood for the sacrifice, & rose vp and got him to the place which God had apointed him. The thirde day Abraham lift vp his eyes, and sawe the place a farr of, and sayd vnto his yong men: bide here with the Asse, I & the lad will go yonder and worship, and come againe vnto you. And Abraham toke the B wood of the sacrifice, and layd it vpon Isaac his sonne, but he himself toke fyre in his hād and a knife. And they went both of them together.

Then spake Isaac vnto Abraham his father and sayd: My father. And he answered: here am I my sonne. He sayd: se, here is fyre and wood, but where is the shepe for sacrifice? Abraham answered: my sonne, God will prouide him a shepe for sacrifice, and so they went both together. And when they came vnto the place which God had shewed him, Abraham made an aultare there, and dressed the wood and bound Isaac his sonne, *and Iam. ii. d layd him on the aultare, aboue vpon the i. Mac. ii. wood. And Abraham stretching forth his hand, toke the knife to haue killed his sonne. And the Angell of the Lord called vnto him from heauen, sayeng: Abraham Abraham: And he sayd here am I.
And he sayd: lay not thy hand vpon the childe, neither do any thing at all vnto him, for now I know that thou fearest God, and hast for my sake not spared thine only sonne. And Abraham lifting vp his eyes, loked about: and behold there was a Ram caught by the hornes in a thicket. And he went and toke the Ram C and offered him vp for a sacrifice in the steade of his sonne: And Abraham called the name of ye place, the Lord wil see.
As it is sayd this day: in the mount will the Lord be sene. And the Angell of the Lord cryed vnto Abraham from heauen the seconde time, and sayd*: by my selfe Heb. vi. c. haue I sworne (sayth the Lord) bicause thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thy onely sonne, that in blessing I wil blesse thee, and in multipliyng I will multiply thy sede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand which is vpon the sea side. And thy sede shall possesse the D gate of his enemies. *And in thy sede Act. iii. d. shall all the nations of the earth be bles Gal. iii. b. sed, bicause thou hast heard my voice. So Ec. xii. a. turned Abraham again to his yōg men, and they rose vp and went together to Beer Seba. And Abraham dwelt at Beer Seba. And it chaūced after these thinges, that one told Abraham, sayeng: behold, Milca, she hath also borne children vnto thy brother Nahor: Hus his eldest sonne, and Bus his brother, and Kemuell the father of the Sirians, and Chesed, and Haso, and Pildas, and Iedlaph, and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebecca. These .viii. did Milca beare to Nahor Abrahams brother. And his concubine called Rhuma: she bare also Thebah, and Gahan, Thahas, and Maacha.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

Sara dyeth, and is buried in the field that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

A Sara was an hundreth and xxvii. yere olde (so longe liued she) & Sara died in Ki-riath Arba: The same is Hebron, in the land of Canaã.
And Abraham came to mourne Sara, and to wepe for her.
And Abraham stode vp from the sight of his coarse, and talked with the sonnes of Heth, sayeng: I am a stranger and a fo-riner among you. Geue me a possession to bury in with you, that I may bury my coarse out of my sight. And the children of Heth answered Abraham, sayeng vnto him: Heare vs lord, thou art a Prince of God among vs. In the chefest of our sepultures bury thy dead: None of vs also shall forbidde thee his sepulture: but thou mayest bury thy dead therin. Abraham stode vp and bowed himself before ÿ people of the land, the children of Heth.
B And he commoned with them, sayeng: If it be your minde that I shall bury my dead out of my syght, heare me, and speake for me to Ephron the sonne of zoar, that he may geue me ÿ double caue whiche he hath, and that is in the end of his felde: but for as much mony as it is worth, shal he geue it me in ÿ presẽce of you, for a possession to bury in. For Ephron dwelled among the children of Heth.
And Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham in the audience of the children of Heth, and of all that went in at the gates of his City, saying. Not so my Lord, heare me. The fielde giue I thee, and the caue that therein is, giue I thee also:
and euen in the presence of the sonnes of my people giue I it the, bury thy dead.
C And Abraham bowed himself before the people of the land, and spake vnto Eph-ron in the audience of the people of the contrey, sayeng: I pray thee hear me if it please thee: I will geue siluer for the fielde, take it, and I will bury my deade there. Ephron answered Abraham, say-eng vnto him: My Lord harkẽ vnto me.
The land is worth foure hundreth sicles of siluer: what is that betwixt thee and D me: bury therfore thy dead. And Abrahã hearkened vnto Ephron, and weyed him the siluer which he had sayd, in the audience of the sonnes of Heth: Euen foure hundred siluer sicles of currant money among marchauntes. And the fielde of Ephron with the double caue which was before Mamre, euen the fielde and the caue that was therein: and all the trees that were in the fielde, and that were in all the borders round about, was made sure vnto Abraham for a possessiõ, in the sighte of the children of Heth, before all went in at the gates of the citie. After this did Abraham bury Sara his wife, in the double caue of the fielde that lyeth before Mamre. The same is Hebron in the lande of Canaan. And so both the fielde and the caue that is therein, was made vnto Abraham a sure possession to bury in, of the sonnes of Heth.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

¶ Abraham maketh his seruant to sweare, and sendeth him to seke a wife for Isaac his sõne. The seruant was faithfull and brought Rebecca, which Isaac toke to his wife.

ABraham was old and stri- A ken in dayes, and the Lord had blessed him in al thin-ges. And Abrahã sayd vnto his eldest seruant of his house, which had the rule ouer all that he had. Put thy hande vnder my thigh, & I will make thee sweare by the Lord God of heauen, and God of the earth, that thou shalt not take a wife vnto my sonne, of the daughters of Canaan, among which I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my contrey, and to my natiue lande, and take a wife vnto my sonn Isaac. But the seruãt sayd vnto him: peraduenture the woman will not agree to come with me vnto this lande: shall I bring thy sonne againe vnto the lande which thou cammest out of? To whõ Abrahã answered: beware that thou bring not my sonne thither againe.
The Lord God of heauen, which toke me from my fathers house, and from the lande where I was borne, and which spake vnto me, and that sware vnto me, sayeng: vnto thy * sede will I geue thys Ge. xii land: he shal send his Angell before thee, Ge. xiii and thou shalt take a wife vnto my sõne from thẽce. Neuerthelesse if the woman will not agree to follow thee, then shalt thou be without danger of thys my othe.
Only bryng not my sonne thither again.
And the seruant put his hande vnder the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him as cõcerning that matter. And the seruant toke. x. Camels, of the Camels of his master, and departed, and had of all maner of goodes of his master with him, and stode vp and went to Mesopotamia, vnto the citie of Nahor. And made his B Camels to lye downe without the citie by by a wels side of water, at euen: about the tyme that wemen come out to drawe water. And he sayd: Lord God of my master Abraham, sende me good spede this day, and shew mercy vnto my master Abraham. Loe, I stande here by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of this citie come out to drawe water: Now the damosel to whom I say, stoupe down thy pitcher, I pray the, that I may drinke: if she say also: drinke, and I will geue thy camels drinke, thesame is she that thou hast ordeined for thy seruant Isaac: yea, and thereby shall I know that thou hast shewed mercy on my master. And it came to passe yer he had left speaking: beholde, Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bethuell, sonne to Milca the wife of Nahor, Abrahams brother, and her pitcher vpon her shoulder. The damosell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and vnknowen of man.

And she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came vp. And the seruant running vnto her, sayd: Let me sup a litle water of thy pitcher. And she sayd: drinke my Lord.

C And she hasted, and let down her pitcher vpon her arme, and gaue him drink.
And when she had geuen him drinke, she sayd: I will drawe water for thy camels also, vntill they haue dronke enough.
And she poured out her pitcher into the trough hastely, and ran againe vnto the well to fet water, and drew for all his camels. And the man wondred at her: but helde his peace, to wit whether the Lord had made his iourney prosperous or not.
And it fortuned, as the camels had lefte drinking, the man toke a golden earyng of halfe a sicle weight, and two bracelets for her handes, of .x. sicles weight of gold and sayd: whose daughter art thou: tell me I pray thee, is there roume in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? She answered him: I am ye daughter of Bethuell the sone of Milca, which she bare vnto Nahor. And sayd moreouer vnto him: we haue litter and prouonder enoughe, and also roume to lodge in.

D And the man bowed himself, and worshipped the Lord, and sayd: blessed be the Lord God of my master Abraham, which ceasseth not to deale mercifully and truly with my master, and hath brought me the way to my masters brothers house.
And the damesell ran and tolde them of her mothers house, these thinges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.
And he ran out vnto the man, euen to the well: for assone as he had sene the earinges, and the bracelets in his sisters handes (and heard the wordes of Rebecca his sister, sayeng: thus sayd the man vnto me) he went out vnto the man. And loe, he stode with the camels by the well side. And he sayd: come in thou blessed of the Lord. Wherfore standest thou without? I haue dressed the house, and made roume for the camels. And then the man came into the house: and he vnbridled the camels, and (Laban) brought litter and prouonder for the camels, and water to washe his fete, and the mennes fete that were with him, and set meat before him to eate. But he sayd: I will not eate, vntill I haue sayd my errand. And he sayd: say on. And he sayd: I am Abrahams seruant, and god hath blessed my master out of measure, that he is become great, and hath geuen him shepe, & oxen, siluer and golde, menseruantes, and maydseruãtes camels, and asses.

And * Sara my masters wife bare Gene. xxi.a. him a sonne, when she was olde, and vnto him hath he geuẽ all that he hath. And my master made me sweare, sayeng: thou shalt not take a wife to my sonne among the daughters of ye Cananites, in whose lande I dwell.

But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house, and to my kinred, and take a wife vnto my sonne. And I sayd vnto my master: peraduenture the wife wil not folow E me. The Lorde before whom I walke wil sende his Angel with thee, and prosper thy iourney, & thou shalt take a wife for my sonne, of my kinred and of my fathers house. Then shalt thou be giltlesse of my curse, when thou commest to my kinred. And if they geue thee not one, thou shalt be giltlesse of my curse. And so I came this day vnto the well, and sayd: O Lord the God of my master Abraham if it be so now that thou makest my iour-ney which I go, prosperous: beholde, I stande by this well of water, and when a virgin commeth forth to drawe water, and I say to her: geue me (I pray thee) a litle water of thy pitcher to drinke, and she say to me: drinke thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: that same is the wife whom the Lord hath prepared for my masters sonne. And before I had made an ende of speaking in myne hart: be-holde, Rebecca came forth, and her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went downe vnto the well and drewe water. And I sayd vnto her: Geue me drinke I pray thee. And she made hast, and toke downe her pitcher from of her, and sayd: drinke, and I wil geue thy camels drinke also.

And I dranke, and she gaue the camels F drinke also, And I asked her, sayeng: whose daughter art thou? She answered the daughter of Bethuell Nahors sōne, *whō Milca bare vnto him. And I putt Gene. the earing vpō her face, & the bracelettes xxiii.b. vpon her handes. And I bowed my self, c.xxiiii.a and worshipped the Lord, and blessed the
had brought me the right way to take my masters brothers daughter vnto his son.
Now also, if ye will deale mercifully and truly with my master, tel me: And if not, tel me also, that I may turne me to the right hande, or to the left.
Then answered Laban and Bethuel, sayeng: This sayeng is proceded euē out of the Lord: we can not therfore say vnto thee, either good, or bad: Beholde, Rebecca is before thee, take her and go, that she may be thy masters sonnes wife, euen as God hath sayd. And when Abrahams seruant heard their wordes, he worshipped the Lorde flat vpon the earth. And the seruant toke forth iewels of siluer, and iewels of golde, and raymente, and gaue thē to Rebecca. And vnto her brother, and to her mother, he gaue giftes, and they did eate and drinke, both he and the men, that were with him, and taried all night. And when they rose vp in the morning, he sayd: let me depart vnto my master. Her brother, and her mother answered: let the damesell abide with vs a while, and it be but euen ten dayes, and then shall she go. He sayd vnto them, hinder me not: beholde, the Lord hath prospered my iourney. Send me away ther-G fore, that I may go vnto my master. And they sayd, we will call the damesell, and enquire at her mouth. And they called forth Rebecca, and sayd vnto her: wilt thou go with this man? And she answered: I will go. So they let Rebecca their sister go, and her nurse: and Abrahams seruant, and his men. And they blessed Rebecca, and sayd vnto her: thou art our Ge.xxii.c sister, grow into thousand thousandes, * and thy sede possesse ŷ gate of their enemies. And Rebecca arose, and her damesels, and sat them vp vpon the camels, & went their way after the man. And the seruant toke Rebecca, and wēt his way.
And Isaac was comming from ŷ way of the well of the * liuing and seeing me, for he dwelt in the south countrey: and Ge.x Isaac was gone out to pray in the fielde at the euentide. And he lift vp hys eyes and saw the camels comming. And Rebecca lift vp her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, she lighted of the camell, and sayd vnto the seruant: what man is this that cōmeth walking against vs in the fielde?
And the seruant sayde, it is my master.
Therfore she toke her cloke and put it about her. And the seruant tolde Isaac all thinges that he had done. And Isaac brought her into his mother Sarays tent, and toke Rebecca, and she became his wife, and he loued her, and so Isaac receiued comfort after his mother.

The .xxv. Chapter.

Abraham taketh Ketura to his wife, and begetteth many children. Abraham dyeth & geueth all his goodes to Isaac. The genealogie of Ismaell. The birth of Jacob and Esau. Esau selleth his birthright for a messe of pottage.

Abraham proceded further and toke A him a wife called Ketura, which bare him Simram, and Ieksan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iesbak, and Suah. Ieksan begat Seba, and Dedan. And the sonnes of Dedan were Assurim, Latusim, and Leumim. And the sonnes of Midian, Epha, and Epher Hanoch, and Abida and Elda. All these were the children of Ketura. And Abraham gaue al his goodes vnto Isaac. But vnto the sonnes of the concubines which Abraham had, he gaue giftes, and sent them away from Isaac his sonne (while he yet liued) Eastward vnto the lande of Kedes. And these are the dayes of the yeres of Abrahams life, which he liued, an.
C. and .lxxv. yere, and then fell sicke, and dyed in a * lusty age (when he had liued Ge.xv enough) and was put to his people. And his sonnes, Isaac and Ismaell buryed him in the double caue in the fielde of E-phron, sonne of zoar the Hethite, beside the plain of Mamre. Which fielde Abraham bought of the sonnes of Heth: there was Abrahā buried, and Sara his wife.
It fortuned after the death of Abraham, that God blessed Isaac his sōne: and I- B saac dwelled by the well of the liuing and seeing me.
These are the generations of Ismaell Abrahams sonne, which Agar the Egiptian Sarayes handmayd, bare vnto Abraham. And these are the names of the sonnes of Ismaell in their names, according to their kinredes: the eldest sonne of Ismael, Nebaioth, and Cedar, and Abdeel, and Mibsam, and Misma, Duma, and Masa, and Hader, Thema, Jetur, Naphis, and Kedma: These are the sonnes of Ismael, and these are their Gene. xvii.c. names, by their townes and castels *xii princes of their housholds. And these are Pa. i.b. the yeres of the life of Ismaell, an. c. and xxxvii. yere, and he fel sicke, and died, and was layed vnto his people. And they dwelled from Heuilah vnto Sur, that is by the border of Egipt, as thou goest to= ward the Assirians. And he died in the presēce of all his brethren. And these are C the generatyons of Isaac Abrahams sonne. Abraham begat Isaac. And Isaac was fourtie yere old when he toke Re= becca to wife, the daughter of Bethuell the Sirian of Mesopotamia, and sister to Laban the Sirian. And Isaac made intercession vnto the Lord for his wife, bicause she was baren: and the Lord was entreated of him, and Rebecca his wife conceiued, and the children stroue toge= ther within her. Therefore she sayd: if it should go so to passe, what helpeth it that I am with childe? Wherfore she wente to aske the Lord. And the Lord sayd vnto her: there are two maner of people in thy wombe, and two nations shalbe deuided out of thy bowels, and the one natiō shall be mightier then the other, and the*el= Ro. ix.c. der shalbe seruant vnto the yonger.

Therfore when her time was come to be deliuered: beholde, there were two D twinnes in her wōbe. And he that came out first was red, and he was all ouer as it were a rough garment, and they called his name Esau. And after him came hys brother out, and his hand holding Esau Ose. xii.a by the*hele. And his name was called Jacob. And Isaac was. lx. yere old when they wer borne: and the boyes grew, and Esau became a cunning hunter, and a tiller of the earth. But Jacob was a per= fect man, and dwelled in the tentes. I= saac loued Esau, bicause he did eate of his venison: but Rebecca loued Jacob. Jacob sodde pottage, and Esau came from the fielde and was faintie: and Esau sayd to Jacob: Fede me I pray thee with that redd pottage, for I am faintie. And Abdi. i.a. therefore was his name called*Edom.
Heb xii.c And Jacob sayd: sell me this day thy* birthright. Esau sayd: Loe, I am at the point to dye, and what profit shall this birthrighte do me? Jacob answered: * Gene. xlvii.g. sweare to me thē this day. And he sware to him, and solde his birthright vnto Ja= cob. Then Jacob gaue Esau bread and pottage of rice. And he did eate and drink and rose vp, and wēt his way. And Esau regarded not his birthright.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

The iourney of Isaac toward Abimelech. The pro= mise made vnto Isaac and his sede. Isaac is rebuked of Abimelech for calling his wife his sister. The chiding of the shepeherdes for the welles. Isaac is comforted.
The attonement betwene Abimelech and Isaac.

AND ther came a dearth in the A lande, passing the first dearth that was in the dayes of A= braham. And Isaac went vn= to Abimelech king of ẏ Phi= listines vnto Gerar. And ẏ lord apeared vnto him, & said: go not down into Egipt but bide in ẏ lande which I shal shew vn= to thee: sogeorne in this lande, and I will be with thee, and will blesse thee, for vnto thee and vnto thy sede I will geue all these*cōtreies. And I wil performe Ge. xii.b. the othe which I swore vnto Abraham and. xiii.d thy father, and will *multiplie thy sede as the starres of heauen, and will geue Gene. vnto thy sede all these countreyes. And xv.b. in thy sede shall all the nations of the e. xxii.c. earth be blessed, bicause that Abraham Ecle. xliiii.b. herkened vnto my voyce, and kept mine ordinances, my commaundementes, my statuts, and my lawes. And Isaac dwel= led in Gerar. And the mē of the place as= ked him of his wife, and he sayd: she is my *sister: for he feared to say, she is my Ge. xii.e. wife, lest the men of the place shuld haue and. xx.a. killed him bicause of Rebecca, which was beautiful to the eye.

And it happened after he had been B there long time, that Abimelech kyng of the Philistians loked out at a windowe and saw Isaac sporting with Rebecca his wife. And Abimelech called Isaac, and sayd: she is of a suretie thy wife: and why saydst thou: she is my sister? To whō Isaac answered: I thought that I might peraduenture haue dyed for her sake.
Abimelech sayd: why hast thou done thys vnto vs? One of the people might lightly haue line by thy wife, and so shouldest thou haue brought sinne vpon vs. And so Abimeleth charged all his people, say= eng: he that toucheth this man or his wife, shall dye the death. Isaac sowed in that land, and found in that same yere an hundred bushels: & the Lord blessed him, and the man waxed mighty, and went C forth and grew, till he was exceading great: for he had possession of shepe, of oxen, and a mightie houshold, and there= fore the Philistians had enuie at him: for the Philistines stopped and filled vp with earth all the wels which his fathers ser= uantes digged in his father Abrahams time. And Abimelech sayd vnto Isaac: Get thee from vs, for thou art mightier than we a great deale. Therfore Isaac departed thence, and abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac re= D turning, digged again the wels of water which they digged in the dayes of Abra= ham his father, which ye Philistians had stopped after the death of Abraham, and gaue them the same names which his fa= ther gaue them. Isaacs seruants digged in the valley, and found a well of liuing water. And the herdmen of Gerar did striue with Isaacs heardmen, sayeng: Contention. the water is ours. Then called he the well *Esek, bicause they stroue with him. And E they digged an other well, and stroue for Enmitie that also. And he called the name of it * Sitena. And then he departed thence, and digged another well, for the which they stroue not: therefore called he it * Reho= Largenesse. both, sayeng: the Lord hath now made vs roume, that we may encrease vpon the earth. And he went vp thence, to Beer Seba. And the Lord appeared vnto him the same night, and sayd: I am the God of Abraham thy father, feare not, for I am with thee, and will blesse thee and multiply thy sede for my seruant Abra= hams sake. And he builded an altare there, and called vpon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent. And there I= saacs seruantes digged a well. Then F came Abimelech to him from Gerar, and Ahusath his frende, and Phicol his chief captain. And Isaac sayd vnto them: wher fore come ye to me, seing ye hate me, and haue put me away from you? Which an= swered: in seing we saw that the *Lord was with thee, and we sayd: let there be now an oth betwixt vs, euen betwixt vs and thee, and let vs make a bonde with thee, that thou shouldest do vs no hurte, as we haue not touched thee, and as we Ge.xxi.c. haue done vnto thee nothing but good, and sent thee away in peace, for thou art now the blessed of the lord. And he made them a feast, and they did eate and drink.

And they rose vp betimes in the morning and sware one to another. And Isaac set them away. And they departed from him in peace. And that same day it happened, that Isaacs seruantes came and tolde G him of a well which they had digged, and sayd vnto him: we haue founde water.
And he called it *Seba. And the name of An othe. the citie is called *Beer Seba vnto this The well of the othe.
day. Esau was .xl. yere olde, and he toke a wife called Iudith, the daughter of Bery an Hethite, and Basmath the daughter of Elon an Hethite also, which were dis= obedient vnto Isaac and Rebecca.

The .xxvii. Chapter.

Iacob stealeth the blessing from Esau by his mothers counsell. Isaac is sad. Esau is comforted. The hatred of Esau toward Iacob.

AND it came to passe that A when Isaac waxed olde, and his eyes were dimme (so that he could not see:) He called Esau his eldest sonne, and sayd vnto hym: My sonne, and he sayd vnto hym: here am I. And he sayd: beholde, I am nowe old, and know not the day of my death: and now therfore take thy wepons, thy quiuer and thy bowe, and get thee to the feldes, that thou mayst take me some ve= B nison, and make me meate such as I loue, and bring it me, that I may eate, and that my soule may blesse thee, before that I dye. But Rebecca heard when I= saac spake to Esau his sonne. And Esau went into the fielde, to catche venison and to bring it. And Rebecca spake vnto Iacob her sonne, sayeng: Behold, I haue heard thy father talking with Esau thy brother, and sayeng: bring me venison and make me meate that I may eate, and blesse thee before ye Lord, afore my death.
Now therfore my sonne, heare my voice in that which I commaunde thee: gett thee to the flocke, and bring me thence two good kiddes, that I may make meat of them for thy father, such as he loueth.
And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may eate, and that he may blesse thee before his death. Then sayd Iacob to Re= becca his mother: behold, Esau my bro= ther is a rough man, and I am smoth.
My father shall peraduenture fele me, and I shall seme vnto hym as though I went about to begile him, and so shall he bring a curse vpon me, and not a blessing.
And his mother sayd vnto hym: vpon me be thy curse my sonne, onely heare my voyce, and goe and fetche me them.
And

And Jacob went and fet them, and brought thẽ to his mother. And his mother made meate, suche as she knewe his father loued. And Rebecca fet goodly raymente of her eldest sonne Esau, C which wer in the house with her, and put them vpon Jacob her yongest sonne, and she putt the skinnes of goates vppon his handes, and vpon the smoth of his necke. And she putt the meate and bread which she had prepared, in the hande of her sonne Jacob. When he came to his father, he sayd: my father. And he answered: here am I: who arte thou my sonne? And Jacob sayd vnto his father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne. I haue done accordyng as thou baddest me: vp and sit and eate of my venison, that thy soule may blesse me. And Isaac sayd vnto his sonne: how commeth it that thou hast founde it so quickly my sonne? He answered.
The Lorde thy God brought it to my hande: Then sayd Isaac vnto Jacob: come nere and let me fele thee my sonne, whether thou be my sonne Esau or not.
Then went Jacob to Isaac his father, and he felt him, and sayd: the voice is Jacobs voice, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe him not bicause his handes were rough, as his brother Esaus handes: and so he blessed him. And he asked him: arte thou my sonne Esau? And he sayd, that I am.
D Then sayd he, bring me and let me eate of my sonnes venison, that my soule may blesse thee. And he brought him, and he eate. And he brought him wine also, and he dranke. And his father Iand kissed him. And he smelled the sa-

He.xi.d. and sayd: See, the smell of my sonne is as the smell of a fielde, which the Lord hath blessed. God geue thee of the dewe of heauen, and of the fatnesse of the earth, and plentye of corne and wine.
People be thy seruantes, and nations bowe vnto thee. Be Lord ouer thy brethren, and thy mothers children stoupe vnto thee. Cursed be he that curseth the, and blessed be he that blesseth thee.
E It happened that as soone as Isaac had made an end of blessing, and Jacob was scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac his father: thẽ came Esau his brother from his hunting, and had made also meate, and brought it vnto his father, and sayd vnto his father: Let my father arise and eate of his sonnes venison, that thy soule may blesse me. Then his father Isaac sayd vnto him: who art thou? He answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau: and Isaac was greatly astonied out of measure, and sayde: which is he, and where is he then that hath hunted venison, and brought it me? and I haue eaten of all before thou camest, and haue blessed him, and he shalbe blessed. When Esau heard the wordes of his father, he cryed out greatly and bytterly, aboue measure, and sayd vnto his father blesse me also my father. Who answered, thy brother came with subtyltie, and hath taken away thy blessing. And he sayd againe: He may well be called Ja- F cob, for he hath vndermined me nowe two tymes: first he toke away my birthright, and see, nowe hath he taken away my blessing also. And he sayd, hast thou kept neuer a blessing for me? Isaac answered and sayd vnto Esau: behold, I haue made him thy Lorde, and all his mothers children haue I made his seruantes. Moreouer with corne and wine haue I stablished him: what can I do vnto thee nowe my sonne? And Esau sayd vnto hys father: hast thou but that one blessing my father? Blesse me also my father: so lifted vp Esau his voice and * wept. Then Isaac his fa- He.xii.c.

holde, thy dwelling place shalbe the fatnesse of the earth, and of the dewe of heauen frõ aboue. And with thy sweard shalt thou liue, and shalt be thy brothers seruant. And it will come to passe that when thou shalt get the mastery, thou shalt loose his yoke from of thy necke. G And Esau * hated Jacob, bicause of the Abdi.i.c blessing that his father blessed him with-all. And Esau sayd in his hart: The dayes of my fathers sorow are at hande, and I will slay my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau her eldest sonne were tolde to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob her yongest sonne, and sayd vnto him: behold thy brother Esau threate-neth to kill thee: nowe therefore my sonne heare my voyce, make thee ready and flee to Laban my brother at Ha-which thou hast done to him. Then will I sende and fet thee away from thence. Why should I be desolate of you both in one day? And Rebecca spake to Isaac: I am wery of my life, for feare of the daughters of Heth. If Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, such one as these are, or of the daughters of the lād, what good shall my life do me.

A Gene. xxvii. a.

AND so Isaac called Jacob, and *blessed him, and charged him, and sayd vnto him see thou take not a wife of the daughters of Canaan, but arise and gett thee to Mesopotamia to the house of Bethuell thy mothers father: and there take thee a wife of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother. And God almightie blesse thee, and make the to encrease, and multiply thee, that thou mayest be a number of people, and geue thee the blessing of Abraham: to thee and to thy sede with thee, that thou mayst possesse the lande (wherin thou art a stranger) which God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Isaac sent forth Jacob. And he went to Mesopotamia vnto Laban, sonne of Bethuell the Sirien, and brother to Rebecca Jacob and Esaus mother. Jacob departed from Beer Seba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaunce, and taried there all night, bicause the sunne was down: And toke a stone of the place, and put it vnder hys head, & layd him down in the same place to slepe. And he dreamed: and beholde, there stode a ladder vpon the earth, and the top of it reached vp to heauen. And see, the Angels of God went vp & downe vpon it: yea, and God stode vpon it, and C sayd: I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: ỷ land which thou slepest vpon, wil I geue thee and thy sede. And thy sede shalbe as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt sprede abrode to the west, to the east, to the north and to the south. And thorow thee and in thy sede, shall all the kinreds of the earth be blessed. And see I am with thee, and will be thy keper in all places whither thou goest, and wil bring thee again into this land: neither will I leaue thee vntill I haue made good all that I haue D promised thee. When Jacob was awaked out of his slepe, he sayd: surely the Lord is in this place, and I was not aware. And he was afrayd, and sayd: how fearefull is this place: it is none other but euē the house of God, and the gate of heauen. And Jacob stode vp early in the morning, and toke the stone that he had layd vnder his head, and pitched it vp an end *and powred oyle on the top of it. And he called the name of the place *Bethell, but the name of the citie was Lus, before tyme. And Jacob vowed a vow, sayeng: If God will be with me, and will kepe me in this iourney which I go, and will geue me bread to eate, and clothes to put on, so that I come againe vnto my fathers house in safetie, then shal the Lord be my God, and this stone which I haue set vp an end, shalbe Gods house: and of all that thou shalt geue me, will I geue the tenth vnto thee.

¶ Jacob commeth to Laban, and serueth .vii. yere for Rachell. Lea was brought to his bed in stede of Rachell. He marieth them both, and serueth yet .vii. yere more for Rachell. Lea conceiueth.

WHen Jacob lifte vp his fete and came into the Eastcoūtrey. And as he loked about, beholde there was a well in the field, and thre flockes of shepe laye thereby (for at that well were the flockes watered) and there was a great stone vpō the well mouth. And thither were al the flockes brought, and they rolled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the shepe, and putt the stone agayne vpō the welles mouth, vnto his place. And Jacob sayd vnto them: brethren, whence be ye? And they sayd: of Haran are we. And he sayd vnto them: know ye Laban the sonne of Nahor? They sayd: we knowe him. And he sayd

B sayd vnto them: is he in good health? & they sayd, he is in good health: and be-sayd, we may not vntill all the flockes be brought together, and till they roll the stone from the welles mouth, & so we water our shepe. While he yet talked wt them Rachell came with her fathers shepe, for she kept them. And assone as Jacob saw Rachell the daughter of Laban, his mo-

And Jacob kissed Rachel, and lift vp his voice and wept: and Jacob told Rachell that he was her fathers brother, and Re-

C her father. And it happened when Laban heard tell of Jacob his sisters sonne, he ran to mete him: and embraced hym, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all the matter.
To whom Laban sayd: well, thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a moneth. And Laban sayd vnto Jacob: Though thou be my brother, shouldest thou therfore serue me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be? Laban had two daughters: The eldest called Lea, and the yongest Rachel.
Lea was tender eyed, but Rachell was bewtifull and well fauored. And Jacob loued Rachel, and sayd: I wil serue thee made a feast. And when euen was come,

The.xxx.Chapter.

Rachell and Lea being both baren, geue their maidens vnto their husband, and they beare him children. Jacob deceiueth Laban in the conceiuing of the shepe and kiddes. Jacobs reward for his seruice.

A RAchell when she saw that she bare Jacob no children, she enuyed her sister, and sayd vnto Jacob: Geue me children, or els I am but dead. And Jacob was wroth with Rachell, sayeng: Am I in Gods stead, which kepeth from thee the fruite of thy wombe? Then she sayd: here is my mayde Bilha, go in vnto her, and she shall beare vpon my lappe, that I may be encreased by her. And she gaue him Bilha her handmayd to wife.
And Jacob went in vnto her, and Bilha conceiued and bare Jacob a sonne. Then sayd Rachell. God hath geuen sentence on my side, and hath also heard my voice, and hath geuen me a sonne. Therefore called she him Dan. And Bilha Rachels mayd conceiued againe, and bare Jacob another sonne. And Rachell sayd: with Godly wrestlinges haue I wrestled with

B my sister and haue gotte the vpper hand.
And she called his name Nephtali. Whē Lea sawe that she had lefte bearing, she toke Silpha her mayde, and gaue her Jacob to wife. And Silpha Leas mayd bare Jacob a sonne. Then sayd Lea: good luck: and called his name Gad. And Silpha Leas mayd bare Jacob another sonne. Then sayd Lea: happy am J, for the daughters will call me blessed.
And called his name Aser. And Ruben wēt out in the dayes of ẏ wheat haruest, and found mandragoras in the fieldes, & brought thē vnto his mother Lea. Then sayd Rachell to Lea: geue me of thy sōns mandragoras. To whom Lea answered: Js it not enough that thou hast taken away my housband, but wouldest take a-C way my sōnes mandragoras also? Then sayd Rachel: well, let him slepe with thee this night, for thy sonnes mandragoras.
And Jacob came from the fields at euen, and Lea went out to mete him, and said: come in to me, for J haue boughte thee with my sonnes mandragoras. And he slept with her that night. And God heard Lea that she conceiued, & bare vnto Jacob the fifte sonne. Then sayd Lea: God hath geuen me a reward, bicause J gaue my maydē to my husband, and she called him Jsachar. And Lea conceaued yet againe, and bare Jacob the sixt sōne. And Lea sayd: God hath endued me with a good dowry. Now wil my husband dwell with me, bicause J haue borne him sixe sonnes, and called his name zabulon. After that she bare a daughter, & called her Gene. xxxiiii. a. name Dina. And God remembred Ra-D chell, heard her, and made her fruteful, so that she conceaued and bare a sonne, and sayd: God hath taken away my rebuke. And she called his name Joseph, sayeng: The Lord geue me yet another sonne. And assone as Rachell had borne Joseph, Jacob sayd to Laban: sende me away that J may go vnto mine owne place and cōtrey, geue me my wiues and my childrē, for whom J haue serued thee, and let me go: for thou knowest what seruice J haue done thee. To whō Laban answered: if J haue founde fauour in thy Gene. xxx.a. sight (for J suppose that the Lord hath blessed me for thy sake) appoint what thy reward shalbe, and J will geue it thee.
But he sayd vnto him: thou knowest what seruice J haue done thee, and in what taking thy catell haue been vnder me: For it was but litle that thou hadst before J came, and now it is encreased into a multitude, and the Lord hath blessed thee for my sake. But now when shal J make prouision for mine owne house also? And he sayd: what shall J then geue E thee? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothing at all, if thou wilt do this one thing for me, and then will J turne again and fede thy shepe, and kepe them.

J will go about all the shepe this day, and separate from them al the shepe that are spotted and of diuerse colors, and all blacke shepe among the lambes, and the partie and the spotted among the kiddes: and the same shalbe my reward. So shall my righteousnesse answere for me to mo-row, and shal come for my reward before thy face, and euery one that is not speckled and partie among the goates, & black among the shepe, the same shalbe theft with me.

And Laban sayd: Go to, would God it might be according to thy sayeng. Therfore he toke out the same day ẏ he goates that were partie and of diuerse colors, and all the she goates that were spotted and party coloured, & all that had white F in them, and al the blacke among ẏ shepe and put them in the keping of his sonnes and set three dayes iourney betwixt himself and Jacob. And so Jacob kept ẏ rest of Labans shepe. Jacob toke roddes of grene popular, hasel, and of chestnutt trees, and pilled white strakes in them, and made ẏ white appeare in the roddes.
But they that were whole, remained grene, and thus was it made a variable color. And put the roddes which he had pilled, euen before the shepe, in the gutters and watering troughes, when the shepe came to drinke: that they should conceiue when they came to drinke. And the shepe con-ceiued before ẏ roddes, and brought forth lambes, straked, spotted, and party. And Jacob parted the Lambes, and turned the faces of ẏ shepe toward spotted thin- G ges, and toward all maner of black, that was among the shepe of Laban: namely, putting his own flockes by themself, and not putting them with Labans shepe.
And it fortuned that in euery ramming time of the stronger shepe, Jacob layed the roddes before the eyes of the shepe in the gutters: namely, that he might make them conceiue before the roddes. But when the shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so the febler were Labans,
and

and the stronger Jacobs. And the man encreased exceedingly, and had a great flocke, mayd seruantes, and men seruantes, camels and asses.

The.xxxi. Chapter.

At the commaundemente of God Jacob departed from Laban, and toke his goods with him. Rachell stealeth her fathers images. Laban followeth Jacob. The couenant betwene Laban and Jacob.

A But he heard the wordes of Labans sones, sayeng: Jacob hath taken away all that was our fathers, and of our fathers goods hath he gotten all this honor. And Jacob behelde the countenance of Laban, and behold, it was not as yesterday, and yeryesterday. And the Lord sayd vnto Jacob: turne again into the lande of thy fathers, and to thy kinred, and I will be with thee. Therfore Jacob sent and called Rachel and Lea to the fielde vnto his flocke, and sayd vnto them: I see your fathers countenance that it is not toward me as yesterday, and yeryesterday. But the God of my father hath ben with me. And ye knowe how that I haue serued your father with all my might. But your father hath deceaued me, and chaunged my wages.x. tymes: but God suffred him not to hurt me. When he sayd, the spotted shalbe thy wages, then all the shepe bare B spotted. And when he sayd: the straked shalbe thy reward, then bare al the shepe straked: thus hath God taken away your fathers shepe, and geuen them me. But in ramming time it happened, that I lifted vp mine eyes and saw in a dreame, and behold the rammes leaped vpon the shepe that were straked, spotted and party. And the Angell of God spake vnto me in a dreame, sayeg: Jacob, and I answered: Here am I. And he sayd: Lift vp now thine eyes, and see all the rammes leaping vpō the shepe that are straked, spotted, and party, for I haue sene all that Laban doth vnto thee: I am the God of

Then answered Rachell, and Lea, & sayd vnto him: Haue we a portiō and inheritance in our fathers house? Doth not he count vs euen as strāgers? for he hath solde vs, & hath euē eaten vp our money. But all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is oures and oure childrens. And nowe whatsoeuer God hath sayd vnto thee, that do. Then Jacob rose vp, and set his sonnes and wiues vp vpon camels, and caried away al his flockes, and all his substance, which he had procured, his riches and possessiōs which he had gotten in Mesopotamia, for to go to Isaac his father vnto the land of Canaan. the third day after, was it tolde Laban that Jacob fled. Thē he toke his brethrē with him, and followed after him seuen dayes iourney, and ouertoke him at the mount Gilead. And God came to Labā the Siriā in a dreame by night, and sayd vnto him: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And Laban ouertoke Jacob: and Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount. And Laban with his brethren pitched their tent also vpon the mounte Gilead. And Laban sayde to Jacob: why hast thou this done to steale away my heart, and cary away my daughters, as though they had been taken captiue with the swearde?

Wherefore wentest thou away secretly vnknowen to me, and didest not tell me, that I might haue brought thee on the way with myrthe, singing, timbrell aud harp, and hast not suffred me to kisse my children and my daughters? Thou wast* i.Kinge. xiii.c.

spake vnto me yesterday, sayeng: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And now though thou wentest thy way, bicause thou longest after thy fathers house, yet wherfore hast thou stollen my goods? Jacob answered and sayd to Laban: bicause I was afraid, and thought that thou wouldest haue taken away thy daughters from me. But (whereas thou layest thefte to my charge) with whomsoeuer thou findest thy goodes, let him die here before our brethren. Seke that thine is by me, and take it to thee. But Jacob wicht not that Rachell had stollen them. Then went Laban into Jacobs tent, and into Leas tent, and into the two maydens tentes: but founde them not. Then went he out of Leas tēt,

C and entred into Rachels tent. And Rachell had taken the images, and put them in the camels strawe and sate downe vpon them. And Laban serched all the tent: but founde them not. Then sayd she to her father: my lord, be not angry that I can not rise vp before the, for the custome of women is come vpō me. So searched he, but found not those idols. And Jacob was wrothe, and chid with Laban. Jacob also aunswered and sayd vnto him: what haue I trespassed, or what haue I offended, that thou followedst so after me? Thou hast serched all my stuffe, and what hast thou found of all thy housholde stuffe? put it here before thy brethren and myne, that they may iudge betwixte vs both. Beholde: This twenty yere haue I been with thee, thy shepe and thy goates haue not ben baren, and the rammes of thy flock haue I not eaten. Whatsoeuer was torne of beastes, I brought it

F not vnto thee, but made it good my self: of my hande didst thou require it, euen as it that was stollen by day or night. By day the heate consumed me, and the frost by night, and my slepe departed fro mine eyes. Thus haue I been .xx. yere in thy Gene. xxix.f. house, and serued thee *xiiii. yeres for thy ii. daughters, and six yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast changed my reward .x. tymes. And except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and ẏ feare of Isaac had been with me, surely thou hadst sent me away now all emptye. But God beheld my tribulation, and the labor of my handes, and rebuked thee yesterday. Laban answered and sayd vnto Jacob: these daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and these shepe are my shepe, and al that thou seest is mine. And what can I do this day vnto these my daughters, or vnto their children which they haue borne? Now therfore come on, and let vs make a bonde, I and thou, which may be a witnesse betwene thee and me. Then toke Jacob a stone, and set it vp an end, & Jacob sayd vnto his brethrē: gather stones. And they toke stones, and made an heape, and they did eate there vpon the heape. And Labā called it *Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it Gilead (eyther of them according to the propertie of his own language.)

The heape of witnesse Tumulus testificans.

Then sayd Laban: this heape is witnesse betwene thee and me this day: therfore is it called Gilead, (that is, a heape of witnesse) and *Mizpah. For he sayd: The

And Laban sayd moreouer to Jacob: beholde, this heape and this marke which I haue set here, betwixt me and thee: this heape be witnesse and also this marke, that I will not come ouer this heape to thee, and thou shalt not come ouer thys heape & this marke vnto me, to do any harme. The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, and ẏ God of their fathers be iudge betwixt vs. And Jacob sware by ẏ feare of his father Isaac. Thē Jacob did Sacrifice vpon the mount, and called his brethren to eate bread. And they did eate bread and taried all night in the hill. And early in the morning Laban rose vp and kissed his children and his daughters, and blessed them, and Laban departing went vnto his place againe.

thee & aske thee, saying: whose art thou, and whether goest thou, and whose are these that goe before thee? thou shalt say: They be thy seruant Jacobs, and it is a present sent vnto my lord Esau, and be hold, he himself commeth after vs. And so cõmaũded he the second, and the third, E and all that folowed the droues, sayeng:
of this maner see that you speake vnto Esau when you mete him, and say more ouer: thy seruant Jacob also commeth after vs, for he sayd: I wil peace his wra th with ye present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see him my self, if peraduenture he wil receiue me to grace: So went the present before, him and he taryed all that night in the company, and rose vp thesame night, and toke his.ii. wiues and his.ii.maydens, and his ele uen sõnes, and went ouer the forde Ja bok. And he toke them, and set them ouer the riuer, and sent ouer that he had, and Oze.xii.b taryed behynd himself alone. And there* F wrestled a man with him vnto the brea king of the day. And when he saw that he could not preuaile against him, he smote hym vnder ye thye, and the sinowe of Jacobs thye shranke, as he wrestled with him. And he sayd: let me go, for the day breaketh. Which answered: I wil not let thee go, except thou blesse me. And he sayd vnto him: what is thy name? He an swered, Jacob. He sayd: thou shalt be cal Gene. led Jacob no more, but * Israell. For as xxxv.b a Prince hast thou wrestled with God, and with man, and hast preuayled.
And Jacob asked him, sayeng: tell me thy name. And he sayd: wherefore doest thou so aske after my*name: and he bles Jud.xiii.c sed him there. And Jacob called ye name The face of the place * Pheniell, for I haue sene of God.
God face to face and my life is preserued.
And as he went ouer Pheniell, ye sunne rose vpon him, and he halted vpon his thye. And therfore is it that the children of Israell eate not of the sinow ye shranke in that place of the thie, vnto this day: bi cause that he touched the place of Jacobs thye, in the sinowe that shronke.

The.xxxiii.Chapter.

Esau and Jacob are agreed: and Jacob came into Sichem.

IAcob lifting vp his eyes, loked A and behold, Esau came, hauing with him foure hundred men.
And he deuided the childrẽ vn to Lea and vnto Rachel, and vnto the.ii. maydens. And he put the maydens and their children formost: and Lea and her children after, and Rachell, and Joseph hindermost. And he went before them, and*fell on the ground seuen, times vn Ge.xix.a. til he came vnto his brother. Esau*came Gene. to mete him, and embraced him, and fell xxviii.g.
on his necke, and kissed him, & they wept.
And he lift vp his eyes, and saw the wo man, and the children, and sayd: whence hast thou these? (And do they belong vnto the?)
And he answered: they are the children B which God hath geuen thy seruant. Thẽ came the maydens forth, and their chil dren, and did their obeysance. Lea also with her childrẽ came and did their obei sance. And last of all came Joseph and Rachell, and did their obeysance.
And he sayd: what is al the droue which I met? he answered: that I may finde grace in the sight of my lord. And Esau sayd: I haue enough my brother, kepe that thou hast vnto thy selfe. To whom Jacob answered: Oh, nay, but if I haue founde grace in thy sight, receiue my pre sent of my hand: for I haue sene thy face He.xv.d. *as though I had sene the face of God, and thou hast had a good wil toward me.
Oh take my blessing that is brought the, for God hath had mercy on me. (Geuing me all thinges.) And I haue enough. And C so he compelled him, and he toke it. And he sayd: let vs take our iourney and goe, I will go before thee. Jacob answered him: my lord thou knowest, that the chil dren are tender, and the ewes and kyne with with yong vnder mine hād, which if men should ouerdriue, but euen one day, all ÿ shepe will dye. Oh let my lord go before his seruant, and I will driue fayre and softly, according as the cattell that goeth before me, and the children, be able to endure, vntil I come to my lord vnto Seir.

D And Esau sayd: let me yet leaue some of my folke with thee. And he answered, what nedeth it? (This one thing onely haue I nede of) let me finde grace in the sight of my Lord. So Esau went his way again that same daye, vnto Seir. And Jacob toke his iourney toward Sucoth, & built him an house, and made boothes for hys cattel. And therfore is it, that the name of Bothes. the place is called * Sucoth.

And Jacob came to Salem a citie of Sichem, which is in the lande of Cana-an, after that he was come frō Mesopotamia, and pitched before the citie, and bought a parcell of ground (where he pitched his tent) of the children of Hemor, Sichems father, for an hundreth pieces of money. And he made there an aultare, and called vpon the mightie God of Israell.

The. xxxiiii. Chapter.

¶ The rauishing of Dina Jacobs daughter, by the mē of Sichem. And of the great bloodshedding done by the sonnes of Jacob.

A DIna the daughter of Lea * Gene. xxx. c. which she bare vnto Jacob, went out to se the daughters of the lande. Whom when Sichem the sonne of Hemor the Heuite, Lord of that contrey saw, he ii. King. xiii. c. toke her and lay with her, and forced * her, and his heart lay vnto Dina the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that da mosell and spake kindly vnto her. And Sichem spake vnto his father Hemor, sayeng: gett me this mayden vnto my wife.

And Jacob heard that he had defyled Dina his daughter, his sonnes being with their cattell in the field, and he helde his peace vntil they were come. And He-mor the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to cōmon with him. And when the sonnes of Jacob comming out of the fielde heard it, it grieued them, and they were not a litle wroth, bicause he had wrought folly in Israell, in that he had B lyen with Jacobs daughter, which thing ought not to be done. And Hemor commoned with them, sayeng: the soule of my sonne Sichem longeth for your daughter: geue her him to wife, and make mariages with vs, and geue your daughters vnto vs, and take our daughters vnto you, and ye shall dwell with vs, and the lande shalbe before you, dwell and doe your businesse and haue your possessions therein. And Sichem sayd vnto her father, and her brethren: let me fynde grace in your eyes, and whatsoeuer ye appoint me, that wil I geue. Aske freely of me both the dowrye and giftes, and I will geue according as ye say vnto me, so that ye geue me the damosell to wife.

But the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem and Hemor his father, talking among themselues deceitfully, bicause he had defiled Dina their sister. And they sayd vnto them: We can not do this thing that we should geue our sister to one that is vncircumcised, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this wil we consent vnto you: If ye will be as we be, and al the men children among you be circumcised, then will we geue our daughters to you, and take your daughters to vs, and will dwell with you, and be one people. But C and if ye will not hearken vnto vs to be circumcised, then wil we take our daughter, and go our wayes. Their wordes pleased Hemor, and Sichem his sonne.
And the yong man deferred not for to do the thing, bicause he had a lust to Jacobs daughter: he was also most set by of all that were in his fathers house. Thē He-mor and Sichem his sonne went vnto the gate of their citie, and commoned with the men of their citie, sayeng: these men are vnfained toward vs, and dwell in the land and do their occupation therin. And in the lande is roume enoughe for them, we will take their daughters to wiues, and geue them our daughters: onely herein will they consent vnto vs, for to dwel with vs and to be one people, if al the men children that are among vs be circūcised as they are. Shall not their goodes and their substance and all their cattell be ours, onely if we consent vnto them? for they will dwell with vs. And D vnto Hemor and Sichem his sonne her-kened all that went out at the gate of his citie. And all the men children were circumcised, whatsoeuer wēt out at the gates of his citie. And it happened the third day (when it was painfull to them) two of the sonnes of Jacob, Simeon and Leui, Dinaes brethrē, toke ether of them his * sweard,

Genesis. lix. a. ſweard, and went into the citye boldly, & Jud. ix. a. ſlew al that was male, and ſlew alſo He-mor & Sichem his ſonne, wyth the edge of the ſweord, and toke Dina out of Sichems houſe, and went theyr waye. And the ſonnes of Jacob cōmyng vpō yͤ dead, ſpoyled yͤ citye, becauſe they had defiled their ſiſter: and toke their ſhepe, oxen, and their aſſes and whatſoeuer was in yͤ citie me ſtinke before the inhabitours of the lande, before the Cananite and the Phe-reſite. And I beyng fewe in numbre, they ſhal gather themſelues together agaynſt me, and ſlaye me: and ſo ſhall I and my houſe be deſtroyed. And they anſwered: ſhould they deale with our ſiſter as with an whore?

The. xxxv. Chapter.

Jacob goeth vp vnto Bethel, and burieth his images vnder an oke. Debora dyeth. Jacob is called Iſrael. The lande of Canaan is promiſed hym. Rachel dieth in labour. Ruben lay with his fathers concubine. The death of Iſaac.

all the ſtraunge gods whiche they had in theyr hande: and al their earynges which were in theyr eares, and Jacob hyd them vnder an oke which was by Sichem.
And whē they departed, the feare of God fell vpon their cities that were rounde about them: And they did not follow after the ſonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus, which is in the lande of Canaan, Joſeph, and Ben Jamin.

The ſōnes of Bilha, Rachels maid: Dā, and Nepthaly, the ſonnes of Silpha, Leas mayd: Gad and Aſar. Theſe are the ſonnes of Jacob which were borne him in Meſopotamia. And ſo Jacob came vn to Iſaac his father to Mamre, vnto Ki-ryath Arba, which is Hebron: where Abraham & Iſaac ſoiourned as ſtrāgers.
And the dayes of Iſaac were an hūdred dyed, and was put vnto hys people, being old and ful of dayes. And his sonnes Esau and Jacob, buryed hym.

The .xxxvi. Chapter.

The wyues of Esau, Iacob and Esau are ryche. The genealogie of Esau. Esau dwelleth in the hyll Seir.

A These are the generations of Esau. The same is Edō. Esau toke his wiues of the daughters of Canaan, Ada the daughter of Elon, an Hethite, and Ahalibama, ẏ daughter of Ana, ẏ daughter of zibeon an Heuite, and Basmath Gene. xxviii.g. Ismaels * daughter, and sister of Nabai-oth. And Ada bare vnto Eseu, Eliphas: & Basmath, bare Reguel. And Ahalibama bare Jeus, and Jaelam & Korah. These are the sonnes of Esau which were borne hym in the lande of Canaan. And Esau toke his wiues and his sonnes, & daughters, and al the soules of his house: his goodes: and al his catel, and all his substaunce which he had gotten in ẏ lande of Canaan, and went into a countrey away from ẏ face of his brother Jacob: for their Ge. xiii.a *riches was much, & thei could not dwell together: and the land wherin they were straūgers, could not receiue them, because of their possession. Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seir. The same Esau is Edom.
B These are the generations of Esau, father of the Edomites in mounte Seir, & i. Pa. i. c. these are the names of Esaus sonnes:* Eliphas, sonne of Ada the wyfe of Esau, and Reguel the sonne of Basmath, ẏ wife of Esau. And the sonnes of Eliphas wer Theman, Omer, zepho, Gaetham and Kenas. And Thimna was concubine to Eliphas Esaus sonne, and bare vnto Eliphas, Amaleck. And these be the sōnes of Ada Esaus wyfe. And these ar ẏ sōnes of Reguel: Nahah, Serah, Samma & Misa: these were ẏ sōnes of Basmath Esaus wife. And these were the sonnes of Ahalibama the daughter of Ana daughter of zibeon. Esaus wyfe: and she bare
i. Pa. i. c. vnto Esau, Jeus, Jealam, and Korah.
These were dukes of the sōnes of Esau.
The children of * Eliphas the first sonne of Esau, were these: duke Theman, duke Omer, duke zepho, duke Kenas, & duke Korah, duke Gaetham, and duke Amaleck. These are the dukes that came of Eliphas in the land of Edō: & these were the sonnes of Ada.
These also are the children of Reguel Esaus sonnes: duke Nahah, duke Serah, duke Samma, duke Misa. These ar the dukes that came of Reguel in ẏ land C of Edom: and these are the sōnes of Bas-math Esaus wife. These were the chil-drē of Ahalibama Esaus wife: duke Je-us, duke Gaelam, duke Korah: these dukes came of Ahalibama the daughter of Ana, Esaus wyfe. These are the children of Esau, and these are the dukes of them: which Esau is Edom. These are the children of Seir the Horit, the inhabitoure of the launde: Lothan, Sobal, zibeon, and Ana, and Dison, Eser and Disan. These also are the dukes of the Horites the children of Seir in the lande of Edom. And the children of Lothan, were Hory and Heman. And Lothans sister was called Thimna. The children of Sobal were these: Aluan, Manahath, and Ebal, Sepho, and Onam. These are the children of zibeon: Aia and Ana, this was that Ana that fouid Mules in the wildernes, as he fed his father zibeons asses. The children of Ana were these: Dison & Ahalibama the daughter of Ana. These are ẏ children of Dison, Hemdan and Esban, Jethran and Cheran. The children of Ezer are these: Bilhan, Seauan, and A-kan. The children of Disō also are these: Uz, and Aram. These are the dukes that D came of Hori: duke Lothan, duke Sobal, duke zibeō, duke Ana, duke Dison, duke Ezer, duke Disan. These bee the dukes that came of Hori, after their duke-domes in the lande of Seir. These are the kinges that reygned in the lande of Edom, before there raygned any kyng vpō the children of Israel: Bela the sōne of Beor, raigned in Edomea, & ẏ name of his citie was Dinhaba. And when Be-la died, Jobab the sonne of Serah, out of Bozra, raigned in his stede. When Jobab also was dead, Husam of the lād of Themani raigned in hys stede. And after the death of Husam, Hadad the sonne of Bedad, which slewe the Madianites in the field of ẏ Moabites, raigned in his stede, and ẏ name of his citie was Auith. When Hadad was dead, Samla of Masreka reigned in his stede. When Samla was dead, Saul of the riuer Rehoboth raig-ned in his stede. When Saul was dead Baal Hanan the sonne of Achbor raig-ned in hys stede. And after ther death of Baal Hanan thee sonne of Achbor, Hadad

Hadad raigned in his sted, and the name of his citye was Pahu. And hys wyues name Mehetabeel the daughter of Mat-red, the daughter of Mesaab. These are the names of the dukes that came of Esau in the twelue kinreds, places and names: duke Thimna, duke Alua, duke Jetheth, duke Ahalibama, duke Ela, duke Pinon, duke kenas, duke Theman, duke Mibzar, duke Magdiel, duke J-ram. These be thee dukes of Edomea, accordyng to their habitations in thee land of their possessions. This Esau is the father of the Edomites.

The.xxxvii. Chapter.

Joseph accuseth his brethren. Joseph dreameth and is hated of his brethren, and is sold to the Ismaelites. Jacob bewaileth Joseph.

A Jacob dwelt in ye land wher in his father was a straũ-ger euen in the lande of Canaan. These are ye generations of Jacob: When Joseph was xvii. yeare old, he kept shepe wyth his brethren, and the lad was with the sonnes of Bilha, and with the sonnes of Silpha, his fathers wyues. And he brought vnto their father an euil saying of them. But Israel loued Joseph more than al his children, because he begatt hym in his olde age, and he made hym a coate of many colours. And whẽ his brethren sawe that their father loued hym more than all hys brethren, they hated hym, and could not speake peaceably vnto hym, Moreouer, when Joseph *had Gene. dreamed a dreame, he tolde it his brethrẽ ...ii. b.
B whiche hated hym yet the more. And he saied vnto them: heare, I pray you this dreame whiche I haue dremed: Behold, we were byndyng sheues in the field: and loe my shefe arose, and stode vpryght, & yours stode roũd about, and made obey-saunce to my shefe. To whom hys brethrẽ said: shalt yu be our king in dede? Or shalt yu in dede haue dominiõ ouer vs? And they hated him yet the more, bicause of his dre-ames, & of his wordes. And he dreamed yet an other dreãe, & told it his brethren, saing: behold, I haue had one dreãe more Me thought ye sũne & ye moone & xi. star-res, made obeisaunce to me. And whẽ he had told it vnto his father & his brethrẽ, his father rebuked him & said vnto him: C what is this dreame which yu haste dreamed? shal I and thi mother, & thy brethrẽ, come to fal on ye grounde before the? And his brethrẽ hated him, but his father noted the saying. His brethren also went to kepe their fathers shepe in Siche, & Isra el said vnto Joseph: Doe not thy brethren kepe in Sichẽ? come & I wil send thee to them. He answered, *here am I, And he i. King. iii. c. sayed vnto hym: go and see whether it be well with thy brethren, and the shepe, and bring me worde againe. And so he sent hym out of the vale of Hebron, and he went to Sichem. And a certayne man found hym, and beholde he was wande-ryng out of hys waye in the field, and the manne asked him: what sekest thou? He answered, I seke my brethren, tell me I pray the where they kepe shepe. And the man sayde, they are departed hence, for D I hearde them saye: let vs goe vnto Dothan. Thus went Joseph after hys brethren, and found them in Dothan. And when they sawe hym a far of, before he came at them, they toke counsell agaynst hym, for to slay hym. For on saide to another: Behold * thys dreamer commeth: come nowe therfore and let vs sley hym Mathe. xxi. d.
and cast hym into some pit, and we will Marke. xii. a.

we shall see what will come of hys drea- Luke. xx. c.
mes. When Ruben heard that, he rid him out of their handes, and said: we will not kil hym: And Ruben saide moreouer vnto them: shede not his* bloud, but caste him into thys pit that is in the wildernes Ge. xlii. d and lay no hande vpon hym (Thus he said,) Namelye, that he myght rydde hym out of their handes, and deliuer hym to hys father agayn. And it happened that whẽ E Joseph was come vnto his brethren, they stript him out of hys coate, his party coloured coate that was vpon hym, and they toke hym and cast hym into an emp-tie pit, wherin was no water. And they sate theym downe to eate breade. And as the lift vp their eyes and loked about, ther came a company of Ismaelites from Gilead, and their camels laden with spi-cerye, baulme, and myrre, and were going downe to carye it into Egipte. And Juda sayde vnto his brethren: what a- F uaileth it yf we slaye our brother, & kepe Ge. xlv. a. hys bloude secrete? come on and let vs* Act. vii. b. sell hym to the Ismaelites, and lette not our handes bee vpon hym: for he is our brother, and our fleshe, And hys brethren were content. Then as the Madianites marchaunt menne passed by they drew and lift Joseph out of the pit, & sold hym vnto the Ismaelites for twenty peces of siluer, And they brought him into Egipt.

And when Ruben came again unto ÿ pit and found not Joseph there, he rente his clothes, and wẽt again unto his brethren, saying: the ladde is not yonder, & whither shall I goe? And they tooke Josephs coate, and killed a goat, and dipped the coat in the bloud. And they sente that G partie coloured coate, and brought it unto their father, and saide: This haue wee founde: see whether it be thy sõnes coate or no. And he knewe it, saying: it is my Gene. xliiii.f. sõnes coate, a wicked beast hath* deuou-red him: Joseph is rent in peces.

And Jacob rent his clothes, and putt sackecloth aboute his loynes, and sorrowed for his sonne a longe season. But all hys sonnes, and all his daughters, rose up to comfort hym. Neuerthelesse, he would not be comforted but saide: I will go down into the graue unto my sonne, mourning. And thus his father wept for Gene. xxxix.a. hym. And the Madianites* sold hym in Ps. ciiii.f Egipte unto Putiphar, a Lord of Pha-Sap.x.c. raos, and his chief stewarde.

The.xxxviii.Chapter.

The mariage of Juda. The trespace of Er and Onan, and the vengeaunce of god that came therupon. Juda lay wyth his daughter Thamar, The birth of Pharez and zarah.

A IT fortuned at that tyme, ÿ Juda went downe from hys brethren, add gate hym to a manne called Hira of Odollam, & there he sawe the daughter of a manne called i.Pa.ii.a. *Sua, a Canaanite. And he tooke her & went in to her. And she conceiued & bare a sonne, and called hys name Er. And she cõceiued agayne, and a sonne, and called hym Onan. And she conceyued agayne, and bare yet a soonne, whome she called Sela: and he was at Chesib when she bare him. And Juda gaue Er his eldest sonne a wife, whose name was Thamar.
And Er Judaes eldest sonne, was wicked in the sighte of the Lorde, and the Lorde slewe hym. And Juda sayde unto Onã: go in to thy brothers wife, & marry her, that thou mayste stirre up seede unto thy brother. And when Onan per-B ceyued that thee seede shoulde not be his, therefore when he wente in to his brothers wyfe, he spilled it on thee ground, and gaue not seede unto hys brother.
And the thyng whiche he did, displeased the Lorde, wherefore he slewe hym also.
Then sayd Juda to Thamar his daughter in law: remayne a wydowe at thy fathers house, tyll Sela my sonne bee growen, for he said: Lest peraduenture he die also, as his brethrẽ dyd. And Tha-mar went and dwelt in her fathers house.

And in processe of tyme, the daughter of Sua, Judas wyfe dyed. Then Juda when he had lefte mourning, went unto his shepesheres to Thimnath, he and his frende Hira of Odollam. And one tolde Thamar, saying: beholde, thy father in lawe goeth up to Thimnath, to* C Gene. xxxi.a. sheare hys shepe. And she put her wido- ii.King. xiii.a. wes garmentes of from her, and couered her with a cloke, and disgysed her selfe: and sate her downe in a common place which is by the hye wayes side to Thimnath, for bicause she saw that Sela was growen, and she was not geuen unto him to wife.

When Juda sawe her, he thoughte it D had been an whore, bicause she had coue-red her face. And he turned to her unto the waye, and sayde: come I praye thee, let me lye with thee, for he knewe not ÿ it was his daughter in law. And she answered: what wylt thou geue me, for to ly wyth me? Then sayde he: I wyll send the a kyd from the flocke. She saide: Then geue me a pledge tyll thou sende it. He sayde: what pledge shall I geue thee?
She answered: thy signet, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thy hande. And he gaue it her and laye by her, and she was with childe by him. And she gat her up, and went and put her mantell from her, and put on her wyedowes raiment.
And Juda sente the kid by hys frende E of Odollam, for to receiue hys pledge a-gayne from the wiues hande. But he founde her not. Then asked he the men of the same place, saying: where is the whore that sate openly by the waies side?
They aunswered: Ther was no whore here. He came therefore to Juda againe and sayde unto hym: I cannot fynde her: and also the men of the place sayde, that there was no whore there. And Juda sayde, let her take it to her, lest we bee shameed. Beholde I sent thee kyd, and thou hast not found her. And it came to passe that after thre monethes, one tolde Juda, saying: Thamar thy daughter in F lawe hath playd the whore, and with playing the whore, is become great wyth child. And Juda saied: bring her forth, that she may bee brent. And when they brought her forth, she sẽt to her father in law, saying: by the man unto whõ these thynges perteyne, am I with child. And sayed

said also, loke whose are this seale, bracelet, and this staffe. And Juda knew them and sayd: she hath bene more righteous than I, bicause I gaue her not to Sela my sonne. And he lay with her no more.
It fortuned when tyme was come that she should be deliuered: behold, there was two twinnes in her wombe. And it fortuned that when she trauailed, the one put out his hand, and the midwife toke and bound a red threade about it, sayeng: this is come out first. And it chaunced that he G plucked his hand backe againe, and behold, his brother came out. And she sayd: wherfore hast thou rent a rent vpõ thee? and called his name Phares. Afterward came out his brother that had the redde threde about his hãd, and his name was called zarath.

The.xxxix.Chapter.

¶ God prospereth Joseph. Pharaos wife tempteth him. He is accused and cast in prison. God hath mercye vpon him.

A Joseph was brought into Egipt, and Putiphar * a Lord Gene. xxxvi.i.g. of Pharaos (and his chiefe steward, an Egiptiã) bought him of the Ismaelites, which had brought him thither. And God was with Joseph, and he became a lucky man continuing in the house of his master the Egiptian. And his master saw that God was with him, and that god made al that he did to prosper in his hand. And Joseph foũd grace in his masters sight, and ser-ued hym. And made hym ruler of hys house, and put al that he had in his hand.
And it fortuned from yͤ tyme that he had made hym ruler ouer hys house and ouer Gene. xxxi.d. all that he had, the Lord * blessed the Egiptians house for Josephs sake: and the blessing of the lord was vpon al that he had in the house, and in the fielde. And therfore he left al that he had in Josephs B hand, and loked vpon nothing that was with him, saue onely on the bread which he did eate. And Joseph was a * goodly i.king. xvi.c. person, and a wel fauoured. And it fortuned after this, that his masters wife cast her eyes vpon Joseph, and sayd: Come lye with me. But he refused, and sayd to his masters wife: Beholde, my master woteth not what he hath in the house wyth me, and hath committed all that he hath to my hand. There is no man greater in the house than I. Neither hath he kepte any thing from me, but only thee, bicause thou art his wife. How thẽ can I do this great wickednesse, and sin against God?
And after this maner spake she to Joseph day by day, but he herkned not vnto her, to slepe nere her, or to be in her com- C pany. And it fortuned on a certaine conuenient day, that Joseph entered into the house, to do his businesse: and there was none of the houshold by in the house. And she caught hym by the garment, sayeng: come slepe with me. And he left his garment in her hand, and fled, and got hym out. And it chaunced, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled out. (And she not regarded) she called vnto the men of her house, and tolde them, sayeng: See, he hath brought in an Hebrue vnto vs, to do vs shame, for he came into me, for to haue slept with me.
And I began to cry with a loude voyce.
And whẽ he heard that I lift vp my voice D and cryed, he left his garment with me, and fled away, and got him out.
And she layd vp his garmẽt by her, vntil her Lord came home. And she told him with these words, sayeng: This Hebrues seruant which thou hast brought vnto vs came into me to do me shame. But assone as I lift vp my voice and cryed, he left his garmẽt with me, and fled out. When his master (being to light of credence) hearde these wordes of his wife, which she tolde him, sayeng: after this maner did thy seruant to me, he waxed wrothe. And the master toke Joseph & put him in * prison, euen into the place where yͤ kynges pry- Ps.ciiii.b soners lay bounde. And there continued he in prison: but the Lord was with Joseph, and shewed hym mercy, and got him fauour in the sight of the lord of the pry-son. And the keper of the prison committed to Josephs hãd, al the prisoners that were in yͤ prison house. And whatsoeuer was done there, that did he. And the ke-per of the prison loked vnto nothing that was vnder his hand, seing that the Lord was with him. For whatsoeuer he did, the Lord made it to prosper.

The.xl.Chapter.

¶ Joseph expoundeth the dreames of the two prisoners.

And it chaunced after this, that the A butler of the king of Egipte, and his baker, had offended their Lord the king of Egipt: And Pharao was angry against his two officers: against the chief butler and the chief baker, and put them in warde in his chiefe stewardes house: euẽ in yͤ prisõ & place wher Joseph was bound. And the chief stewarde gaue Joseph a charge with them, and he ser-ued them. And they continued a season in warde. And they dreamed either of them in one night, both the butler and ye baker of the king of Egipt, which were bound in the prison house, either of them his dreame, and eche mannes dreame of a sondry interpretation. When Joseph B came in vnto them in the morning, and loked vpon them: behold, they were sad.

And he asked Pharaos officers that wer with him in his masters warde, saying: wherefore loke ye so sadly to day? They answered him, we haue dreamed a drea-me, and haue no man to declare it. And Joseph sayd vnto them: Do not interpretinges belong vnto God? yet tell me.
And the chief butler tolde his dreame to Joseph, and sayd vnto him: In my drea-me me thought there stode a vine before me, and in the vine were .iii. branches, & it was as though it budded, & her blossomes shot forth: and the grapes thereof, waxed ripe. And I had Pharaoes cupp in my hand, and toke of the grapes, and wrong them into Pharaoes cup, and de-liuered Pharaos cup into his hand. And Joseph sayd vnto him: this is the interpretation of it: The three braunches are C three dayes: for within three dayes shall Pharao lift vp thine hed, and restore the vnto thine office agayne, and thou shalt deliuer Pharaoes cup into his hand, after the olde manner wherein thou waste wõt to geue him drink. But if thou think on me with thee when thou arte in good case, shewe mercy (I pray thee) vnto me.
And make mention of me to Pharao, & bring me oute of this house: for I was stollen out of the land of the Hebrues: & here also haue I don nothing at al, wher fore they shuld haue put me into this dõ-geon. When the chiefe baker saw that the interpretation was good, he sayd vnto Joseph: me thought also in my dreame, that I had three wicker baskettes on my head. And in the vppermost basket there was of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And the birdes did eate them out of the basket that was vpon my head. And D Joseph answered, and sayd: this is the interpretation therof. The three baskets are three dayes, for this day three dayes shall Pharao take thy head frõ thee, and shall hang thee on a tree, and the birdes shall eate thy flesh from of thee. And it came to passe the third day, whiche was Pharaos *birthday, that he made a feast Mathe. xiiii.a. vnto al his seruantes. And he lifted vp the head of the chiefe butler and of the chiefe baker, among his seruantes. And he restored the chief butler vnto his but-lership againe: which also reached the cup into Pharaos hand, but he hanged the chief baker: euẽ as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. Neither did the chief butler remember Joseph, but forgat hym.

¶ The .xli. Chapter.

¶ Pharaos dreames are expounded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer all Egipt. He hath two sõnes, Manasses and Ephraim. The dearth beginneth in Egipt.

AND it fortuned after .ii. yeres, that A Pharao dreamed: and beholde, he stode by a riuers side. and there came out of the riuer .vii. goodly kine and fat fleshed, and fed in a medow, and .vii other kine came vp after them out of the riuer, euelfauoured and leane fleshed, and stode by the other kyne vpon ye brink of the riuer. And the euelfauoured and leane fleshed kyne, dyd eate vp the .vii. well fauoured and fat kyne: and Pharao awoke. And he slept againe, and dreamed the second tyme. And behold, .vii. eares of corne grewe vpon one stalke, ranke and goodly. And againe, .vii. thinne eares blasted with the East winde sprange vp after thẽ: and the .vii. thin eares deuou-red the .vii. ranke and full eares. And Pharao awaked: & see, it was a dreame.
And when the morning came, hys spirit was troubled. And he sent and called for all the southesayers of Egipt, and all the B wise men thereof, and Pharao told them his dreame: but there was none of them that could interpretate it vnto Pharao.
Then spake the chiefe butler vnto Pharao, sayeng: I do remember my faultes this day. Pharao beyng angry with hys seruantes, put in warde in the chiefe ste-wardes house, both me and the chiefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one night, and eche mannes dreame of a son-dry interpretation. And there was with vs a yong man, an Hebrue borne, seruãt vnto the chief stewarde. To whom when we tolde them, he declared our dreames to vs according to either of our dreames.
And as he declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me to myne office agayne, and hanged hym.
Pharao sent therefore, and called Joseph, and they brought hym hastily out of * pryson. And he shaued himselfe, Ps. ciiii.b and changed his rayment, and came into

to Pharao. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: I haue sene a dreame, and no man can interpretate it, and I haue heard say of thee, that assone as thou hearest a C dreame, thou canst interpretate it. Joseph answered Pharao, sayeng: Not I, but God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought I stode by a ryuersyde, & there came out of y^e riuer. vii. fat fleshed, and wel fauoured kine, & fed in the medowe. And then. vii. other kine came vp after the, poore and very euel fauoured, and leane fleshed: such as I nener saw in al the land of Egipt, they were so euel fauored. And the. vii. leane and euelfauored kine, did eate vp the first. vii. fat kine. And when they had eaten them vp, a man could not perceiue that they had eaten them: but they wer stil as euel fauored, as they were at the beginning.
And I awoke. And I saw againe in my dreame, & behold. vii. eares sprang out of one stalke, ful and fayre: &. vii. other ea-res againe, withered, thin, & blasted with the East winde, sprang vp after them.
And the thin eares deuoured the. vii. good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the soth-sayers, but there was no man that could tel what it meaneth. And Joseph answered Pharao: both Pharaos dreames are one. And god hath shewed Pharao what he is about to do. The. vii. good kine are
vii. yeres: and the. vii. good eares, are. vii yeres also, and it is but one dreame. Like wise, the. vii. thinn and euelfauored kine that came out after them, are. vii. yeres:
and the. vii. empty and blasted eares, shal D be. vii. yeres of hunger. This which I haue sayd vnto Pharao, is it that God is about to do, and sheweth it vnto Pharao Beholde, there come. vii. yeres of great plenteousnesse throughout all the lande of Egipt. And againe, there shal arise after the. vii. yeres of hunger. And also the plenteousnesse shalbe forgotten in the lande of Egipt. And the hunger shal consume the land: neither shall the plẽteous-nesse be knowen in the land, by reason of the hunger that shall come after, for it shalbe exceading great. And as concerning that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the secõd tyme, beholde, the thing is certainly prepared of God, and God will shortly bryng it to passe.

Now therfore let Pharao prouide for a man of vnderstanding and wisedome, and set him ouer the land of Egipt. And let Pharao do this also, that he make officers ouer the land, and take vp the fifth part of the land of Egipt in the. vii. plenteous yeres, and let them gather all the foode of these good yeres that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hande of Pharao that there may be fode in the cities, and there let them kepe it: that there maye be fode in store in the land, against the. vii. yeres of hunger which shall come in the land of Egipt, that the land perishe not through hunger. And the sayeng pleased Pharao and all his seruauntes. Then sayd E Pharao vnto his seruauntes: where shall we finde such a man as this is, in whom is the spirite of God? And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: forasmuch as God hath shewed thee all this, there is no man of vnderstanding or of wisedom like vnto the.
Thou therfore shalt be * ouer my house, Ps. ciiii. b and according to thy worde shall all my Act. vii. b. people be ruled, onely in the kinges seate i. mac. ii. f wil I be aboue thee. And Pharao sayd Dan. ii. g againe vnto Joseph: beholde, I haue sett thee ouer all the land of Egipt. And he toke of his ring from his hand, and put it vpon Josephs hand, and arayed him in cloth of raines, and put a golden cheyne about his necke, and set him vpon the best charet that he had, saue one. And they cryed before him: Bowe the knee, and Pharao made him ruler ouer al the land of Egipt. And Pharao said vnto Joseph, I am Pharao, without thee shal no man lift vp his hand or fote in all the lande of Egipt.

And he called Josephs name zaphnath F Paena. And he gaue him to wife Asnath the daughter of Putipher Priest of On.
Then went Joseph abrode in the land of Egipt. And he was thirtie yere old when he stode before Pharao king of Egipt.
And Joseph departing frõ the presence of Pharao, went throughout al the land of Egipt.

And in the. vii. plenteous yeres they made sheues and gathered vp al the fode of the. vii. plenteous yeres which were in the land of Egipt, and layed vp the same in the cities. The fode of the fieldes that grewe rounde about euery citie, layd he vp in the same. And Joseph layd vp corne in store, like vnto the sande of the sea, in multitude out of measure, vntill he lefte numbring: for it was without number.
And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes (before the yeres of hunger came) which G Asnath y^e daughter of Putipher Priest of

On, bare vnto him. And Joseph caled the Ge.xlvi.c name of the first sōne * Manasse: for god (sayd he) hath made me forgett al my labor, and all my fathers houssehold. The name of the second called he Ephraim: for God (sayd he) hath caused me to growe in the lande of my trouble. And whē the seuen yeres of plenteousnesse that was in the land of Egipt, were ended, then came Act. vii.b the seuen yeres of * dearth, according as Joseph had sayd. And the dearth was in all landes; but in the land of Egipt was there yet foode. And when the land of Egipt also began to hunger, the people cried to Pharao for bread. And Pharao sayde vnto al the Egiptians: go vnto Joseph, and what he sayth to you, that do.
And the dearthe was thorowoute all the land, And Joseph opened al that was in the cities, and solde vnto the Egiptians.
For the hunger waxed sore in the land of Egipt. And al countreyes came to Egipt to Joseph for to bye corne: bycause that the hunger was so sore in all landes.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Josephs brethren come into Egypte to bye corne, and he knoweth them and trieth them. Simeō is put in prison, the other returne to theyr father to fetch Ben Jamin. His father is loth to let hym goe but at the last hee graunteth it.

A And Jacob seeyng that there was corne in Egipt, sayd vnto his sōnes: why gape ye one vpon another? And he sayd: beholde, J haue hearde that Act. vii.b. there is corne in Egipt. * Get you downe thither and bye vs corne from thence, y we may liue and not dye. So went Josephs ten brethren downe to by corne of the Egiptians. But Beniamin Josephs brother, would not Jacob sende with his other brethren: for he sayd: lest some misfortune happen him. And the sonnes of Jsraell came to bye corne among other that came, for there was dearth in the lād of Canaan. And Joseph was gouer-noure in the land, and sold to all the people of the land. And his brethren came, and fell flat on the ground before hym.
B When Joseph saw his brethren, he knew them, and made him selfe strange vnto them, and spake roughly vnto them, say-eng: Whence come ye? They answered: out of the land of Canaā, to bye vitaile.
And Joseph knew his brethren, but they knew not hym.
Gene. xxxvii.b. And Joseph remembred his * dreames which he dreamed of them, and sayd vnto them: ye are spies, and to see where the lande is weake, is your comming. And they sayd vnto him: Nay my Lord, but to bye vitaile thy seruātes are come. We are all one mannes sonnes, and meane true-ly, and thy seruātes are no spies. And he sayd vnto them againe: Nay, but euen to see where the lande is weake, is your cō-ming. And they sayd: we thy seruantes are twelue brethren the sonnes of one man in the land of Canaan. And behold, C the yongest is this day with our father, and one no man wotteth where he is.
And Joseph sayd vnto them: that is it that J speake vnto you, sayeng: ye are spyes. Hereby ye shalbe proued. By y life of Pharao, ye shall not go hence, excepte your yongest brother come hither. Send out one of you which may fetch your brother, and ye shalbe kept in prison, y your wordes may be proued, whether there be any truth in you: or els by y life of Pharao, ye are but spyes. And he put them in warde three dayes. And Joseph sayd vnto them the third day: This do and liue, for J feare God. If ye meane no hurt, D let one of your brethren be bounde in the house of your prison, and go ye and bring the necessary foode vnto your householdes, but bring your yongest brother vnto me: that your wordes may be tryed, and that ye dye not. And they did so. And one sayd to another: we haue verily synned against our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soule whē he besought vs, and we would not heare him, & therfore is this trouble come vpō vs. And Ruben answered them, sayeng: Sayd J not vnto you y ye shuld not * sin against y lad: and ye would not heare. And se his blood Gene. xxxvii.d. is required. They were not aware that Joseph vnderstode thē, for he spake vnto them by an interpreter. And he turned from thē, & wept, * & turned to them againe, & commoned w them, & toke out Gene. xliii.g. & xlv.a.
Simeon frō among thē, & boūd him before their eyes: & Joseph commaūded to E fil their sackes with corne, & to put euery mannes money in his sacke, and to geue thē vitaile to spende by y way. And thus did he vnto thē. And they laded their asses with y corne, and departed thēce. And as one of them opened his sacke, for to geue his asse prouēder in y Jnne, he spyed hys money: for it was in his sackes mouth.
And he sayd vnto his brethrē: my mony is restored me again: For lo, it is euē in my sacke, And their hart failed thē, & theiwer asto-

astonied, and sayd one to another: why hath God dealt thus with vs? And they came vnto Jacob their father vnto the F lande of Canaan, and tolde hym all that had happened them, sayeng: The man, euen the Lord of the lande, spake roughly to vs, and toke vs for spies of the con-trey. And we sayd vnto him: we meane truely, and are no spyes. We be.xii.brethren, and sonnes of our father: one is away, and the yōgest is this day with our father in the lande of Canaan.
And the Lord of the contrey sayd a-G gaine vnto vs: hereby shall I know if ye meane truely: leaue one of your brethren here with me, and take fode necessary for your housholdes, and get you away, and bryng your yōgest brother vnto me, that I may know that ye are no spyes, but meane truely. So will I deliuer you your brother, and ye shall occuppye in the lande.
And it fortuned as they emptied their sackes, beholde, euery mannes bundel of money was in his sacke. And when both they and their father saw the bundels of money, they were afrayd. And Jacob their father sayd vnto them: Me haue ye robbed of my children, Joseph is away, and Simeon is away, and ye take Beniamin away. Al these thinges are against me. Rubē sayd vnto his father: Slea my two sonnes, if I bring him not to thee againe. Deliuer him to my hande, and I wil bring him to the againe. And he sayd my sonne shall not goe down with you.
For his brother is dead, and he is left alone. If some missfortune happen vnto him by the way which ye goe, ye shall *

The.xliii.Chapter.

When Beniamin was brought, they returned with giftes. Simeon is deliuered out of prison. Joseph goeth aside and wepeth. They feast together.

A AND the dearth was great in the lande. And it fortuned when they had eaten vp the corne which they broughte out of the lande of Egipt, their father sayd vnto them: go againe, and bye vs a litle foode. Juda answered him, and sayd: the man did testifie vnto Ge. xlii. d vs, sayeng: * loke that ye see not my face except your brother be with you. If thou wilt send our brother with vs, we wil go down and bye thee foode. But if thou wilt not sende him, we wil not go down: for the man sayd vnto vs: loke that ye see not my face, except your brother be wyth you. And Israell sayd: wherfore delt ye so cruelly with me, as to tel the man that ye had yet a brother? They answered: The man asked vs straitly of our kinred, say- B eng: is your father yet aliue? haue ye not an other brother? And we told him according to these wordes. Could we knowe that he would say? bring your brother downe with you. Then sayd Juda vnto Israell his father. Send the lad with me that we may rise & go, and that we may liue and not dye: both we, and thou, and also our children. I will be suretie for him, of my hands shalt thou require him.
If I bring him not to thee againe, and set him before thine eyes * then lett me beare the blame for euer. Truely except Gene. xliiii. g. we had made this taryeng, by thys we had bene there twice and come againe.
And their father Israell sayd vnto them:
If it must nedes be so now: thē do thus, C Take of the best fruites of the lande in your vessels, and bring the man a present a curtesie of bawlme, and a curtesie of ho-ny, spices and myrre, nuttes and almon-des. And take double money in your hande. And the money that was brought againe in your sackes, take it again with you, least peraduēture it was some ouersight. Take also your brother with you, and arise and go againe to the man. And God almightie geue you mercy in the sight of the man, that he may deliuer you your other brother, and this Beniamin: D and I shalbe robbed of my childe, as I haue been. Thus toke they the present, and twyce so much more money in their hand, with Beniamin: and rose vp, went down to Egipt, and stode before Joseph.
When Joseph saw Beniamin with them, he sayd to the ruler of his house: bring these men home and sley and make ready for these men shall dine with me at none.
And the man did as Joseph bad, and brought them into Josephs house. When the mē wer brought into Josephs house, they were afrayd, and sayd: bicause of the money that came in our sackes mouthes at the first tyme, are we brought in, that he may picke a quarell with vs, and to lay some thing to our charge, & to bring vs in bondage and our asses also. Therfore came they to the man that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, and commoned with him at the dore of the house, and sayd.

E Oh syr, we came downe hither at the first time to bye foode: and as we came to an Inne, it happened that we opened Gene. xlii. d. our sackes, and beholde euery mannes* money was in his sacke with ful weight.
And we haue brought it againe in oure hand, and other money haue we brought also in our handes, to bye foode: but we can not tel who put our mony in our sackes. And he sayd: peace be vnto you, fe-are not: your God and the God of youre father hath geuen you that treasure in your sackes: I had your money. And he brought Simeon out to them, and the man led them into Josephs house, and gaue them water to wash their fete, and gaue their asses prouender. And they made ready their present against Joseph came at noone, for they heard say that F they should eate bread there. When Joseph came home, they brought the presẽt into the house to him, which was in their handes, and fell flat on the grounde before him. And he welcomed them curteously, sayeng: Is your father that olde man which ye told me of, in good health? and is he yet aliue? They answered: thy seruant our father is in good health, and is yet aliue. And they bowed down their heades, and made obeysance.

And he lifting vp his eyes, behelde his brother Beniamin his mothers sonne, Gene. xlii. c. and sayd: *Is this your yonger brother, of whom ye sayd vnto me? And he sayd: God be mercifull vnto thee my sonne.
Gene. xlii c. And Joseph made hast (for *his heart did & xlv. a. melt vpõ his brother) and sought where to wepe, and entered into his chamber, and wept there. And he washed his face and came out, and refrained himself, and sayd: set bread on ye table. And they pre-G pared for him by himself, and for them by themselues, and for the Egiptians which did eate with him by themselues: bicause the Egiptians may not eate bread with the Hebrues, for that is an abhomination vnto the Egiptiãs. And they sate before him, the eldest according vnto hys age, and the yongest according vnto his youth. And the men marueled among themselues. And they brought rewardes vnto them from before him: but Beniamins part was fiue times so much as any of theirs. And they drinking, were dronke with him.

The. xliiii. Chapiter.

Joseph accuseth his brother of theft. Juda becommeth suretie for Beniamin.

AND he commaunded the A ruler of his house, sayeng: Fil the mennes sakes with foode, as much as they can cary, and put euery mãnes mony in his sacke mouth, and put my siluer cup in ye sackes mouth of the yongest, and his corne money also.
And he did according to the worde that Joseph had sayd: And in the morning as sone as it was light, the men were let go they and their asses. And when they wer out of the city, & not yet farre away, Joseph sayd vnto the ruler of his house: vp and follow after the men, and when thou doest ouertake them, thou shalt say vnto them: wherfore haue ye rewarded euell for good? Is that not the cupp in whiche B my Lord drinketh, and for the which he prophecieth? ye haue euell done that ye haue done. And when he ouertoke them, he sayde these same wordes vnto them.
And they answered him: wherefore sayth my Lord such wordes? God forbyd that thy seruantes should do so: beholde, the money which we founde in oure sackes mouthes, we brought agayne vnto thee out of the lande of Canaan: how then should we steale out of thy Lordes house either siluer or golde? with whomsoeuer of thy seruantes it be founde, let him die, and we also wil be my Lordes bondmen.
And he sayd: Now also let it be according vnto your wordes: he with whom it is founde, shalbe my seruant, and ye shalbe harmelesse. And at once euery man toke C down his sacke to the ground, and euery man opened his sacke. And he searched, and began at ye eldest and left at the yon-gest. And the cup was founde in Beniamins sacke. Then they rẽt * their clothes Gene. and laded euery man his asse, and wente xxxvii. f. againe vnto the citie. And Juda and hys brethren came to Josephs house, for he was yet there, and they fell before hym on the grounde. And Joseph sayd vnto them: what dede is this which ye haue done? wote ye not that such a man as I can prophecie? Then sayd Juda: what shall we say vnto my Lord? what shal we D speake, or what excuse can we make? God hath founde out the wickednesse of thy seruantes. Behold, both we and he, with whom the cup is founde, are my Lordes seruauntes. And he answered. God forbid that I should do so: but the man with whom the cup is found, he shalbe my seruãt: And go ye in peace vnto your father.

Then

Then Juda went vnto him, and sayd Oh my Lord, let thy seruant speake a worde in my Lordes eares, and be not wroth with thy seruant, for thou art euen as Pharao. My Lord asked his seruant, sayeng: haue ye a father or a brother?
And we answered my Lord, *we haue a Ge.xliii.d father that is olde, and a yong lad which E he begat in his age: and the brother of the sayd lad is dead, and he is all that is lefte of ỹ mother. And his father loueth him, And thou saydst vnto thy seruātes: bring him vnto me, that I may set myne eye vpon him. And we answered my Lorde, that the lad could not go from his father, for if he should leaue his father, he were but dead. Then saydst thou vnto thy ser-Gene. xliii.a. uātes: *except your yōgest brother come with you, loke that ye se my face no more.
And when we came vnto thy seruant our father, we shewed him what my lord had F sayd. And our father sayd vnto vs: go againe, and bye vs a litle foode. And we answered: we can not go down. Neuer-thelesse, if our yongest brother goe with vs, then wil we go down: for we may not see the mannes face, except our yongest brother be with vs. And thy seruant our father sayd vnto vs: ye knowe that my wife bare me .ii. sonnes. And the one wēt out from me, and I said: of a suretie he is Gene. xxxvii.a. *torne in pieces, & I saw him not since.
Gene. xlii.g. And ye take this also away from me. If some missfortune happen vpon hym, *ye shal bryng my graye head in sorow vnto the graue.
G Now therfore, when the I come to thy seruant my father, and the lad be not wt vs (seing ỹ his life hangeth by the laddes life) then shal it come to passe, that assone as he seeth that ỹ lad is not come, he will Gene. xlii.g. dye. So shal we thy seruantes* bryng ỹ gray head of thy seruant our father, with sorow vnto the graue. For I thy seruant became suretie for the lad before my father, and sayd: *if I bring hym not vnto Gene. xliii.b. thee agayne, I wil beare the blame vnto my father, al my life long. Nowe therfore let me thy seruaunt byde here for the lad, and be my lordes bondman: and let ỹ lad go vp with his brethren. For how can I goe vp to my father, if the lad be not with me? vnlesse I would se the wretchednesse that shall come on my father.

¶ The .xlv. Chapter.

Joseph maketh hymself knowē vnto his brethren and sendeth for his father.

IOseph could no lōger refra- A in before all them that stode by him. Wherfore he cryed: bring furth all the men from me. And there remained no man wt hym, while Joseph vttered hymselfe vnto his brethren. And he *wept a- Gene. xlii.c. loude, so that the Egiptians, and ỹ house & xliii.g. of Pharao, heard it. And Joseph said vnto hys brethren: I am Joseph, doeth my father yet liue? And his brethren coulde not aunswer him, they wer so abashed at his presence. And Joseph sayed vnto his brethren: come nere to me, and they came neare. And he sayd: *I am Joseph your Act. vii.b brother *whom ye sold into Egipt. Now Gene. therfore be not greued therwith, neither xxxvii. let it seme a cruel thing in your eyes that ye solde me hither. For God did send me B before you to saue life. *For this is the Ge.l.d. seconde yere of dearthe in the land, and and fiue mo are behind, in which there shal nether be earyng nor haruest. Wherfore god sent me before you to make pro-uision, that ye myght continue in the ye-arth, and to saue your lyues by a great deliuerance. So now it was not you ỹ sent me hither, but god: which hath made me a father vnto Pharao, and Lord of al C hys house, and ruler thorow out al the lād of Egipt. Haste you and goe vp to my father and tell hym. Thus saieth thy sōne Joseph: God hath made me lorde of all Egipt. Come down therfore vnto me, tary not. And thou shalt dwell in the lande of Gosā, and be by me, thou and thy children, and thy childrēs children, thy shepe and thy beastes, and all that thou hast.
And ther will I make prouision for thee, for there remain yet fiue yeres of dearth, lest thou and thy housholde, and all that thou hast, come to pouertie. And beholde, your eyes doe see, and the eyes also of my brother Beniamin, ỹ myne own mouth speaketh to you. Therfore tell my father D of al my honor in Egipt, and of al that ye haue sene, and make hast and bryng my father hither. And he fell on his brother Beniamins necke & wept & Beniamin wept on hys necke. Moreouer he kissed all hys brethren, and wept vpon them.
And after that his brethren talked with him. And the tidings came vnto Phara-os house, so that they sayd: Josephs brethren are come, and it pleased Pharao well, and all his seruantes.
And Pharao spake vnto Joseph: Say E vnto thy brethren, this doe ye: lade your beastes and get you hence vnto the lande of Canaan. Take your father, and your housholdes, and come vnto me, and I will geue vnto you the good of the lande of Egipt, and ye shall eate of the fatte of the land. And thou also shalt commaund them. This doe ye; take chariotes with you out of the lãd of Egipt, for your children and for your wiues: and bring your father, and come. Also regarde not your stuffe, for the good of al the land of Egipt is yours. And the children of Israell did euen so And Joseph gaue them chariots, according to the cõmaundement of Pharao, and gaue them vitayle also to spend by ẏ way. And he gaue vnto eche of them F chaunge of rayment: But vnto Beniamin he gaue three hundred pieces of syluer, and fiue change of raymẽt. And vnto his father he sent after thesame maner x. asses laden with good out of Egipt, & x. she asses laden with corne, breade and meate for his father by the way. So sent he his brethren away to depart. And he sayd vnto them: see that ye fall not out by the way.

They departed therfore from Egipte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Jacob their father, and tolde him, say-eng: Joseph is yet aliue, and is gouerner ouer all the land of Egipt. And Jacobs heart wauered: for he beleued them not.
And they told hym all the wordes of Joseph which he had sayd vnto them. And when he saw the charets, which Joseph had sent to cary him, the spirit of Jacob their father reuiued. And Israell sayd: I haue enough that Joseph my sõne is yet aliue: I will go and see him yer that I die.

The.xlvi.Chapter.

¶ Jacob with all his housholde goeth to Joseph into Egipt. The genealogie of Jacob. Joseph meteth hys father.

A ISraell toke his iourney wt all that he had, and came vnto Beer Seba, and offered offeringes vnto the god of his father Isaac. And god spake vnto Israell in a vision by nighte, sayeng: Jacob, Jacob. And he answered: here am I. And he sayd: I am God, the God of thy father, feare not to go downe into Egipt. For I will there make of thee a great people. I will go down with thee into Egipt, and I will also bryng thee againe, and Joseph shall put his hand vpõ thine eyes. And Jacob rose vp frõ Beer Seba. And the sonnes of Israell caryed Jacob their father, and their childrẽ, and their wiues, in the charets which Pharao had sent to cary him. And they toke their B cattell, and the goodes which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egipt: both Jacob, and all hys sede with him, his sonnes and his sonnes son-nes with him: his daughters and his sõhe with him into Egipt. These are ẏ names of the children of Israel which came into Egipt, both Jacob and his sonnes: * Exo.i.a. and.vi.c.

Ruben, Jacobs first sonne. The children of Ruben: Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron Nume. and Charmi. The children of Simeon xxvi.a.
Jemuell, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin and zohar, and Saul the sonne of a Cananitish woman. The children of * Leui, Gerson, Kahath and Merari. The children of i.Pa.vi.
* Juda: Er, and Onan, Sela. & Pharez, i.Pa.vi. and Serah: But Er and Onã dyed in ẏ lande of Canaan. The children of Pharez also were Hezron and Hamul. The children of Isachar: Tola, Phua, Job, & Simron. The children of zabulon: Se-red, Elon, and Jahelelel. These bee the children of Lea, which she bare vnto Jacobs sonnes wiues) were altogether lxvi. soules. And the sonnes of Joseph, which wer borne hym in Egipt, wer two D soules: So that al the soules of the house of Jacob which came into Egipt, are lxx. And he sent Juda before him into Joseph, to derecte his face vnto Gosan, and they came into the lande of Gosan. And Joseph made ready his charet and went vp to mete Israell his father vnto Gosã, and presented hym selfe vnto him, & fell on his necke, and wepte vpon his necke a good whyle. And Israel sayd vnto Joseph: Now am J content to dye, insomuch as J haue sene the, & because thou art yet aliue. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren, and vnto his fathers house: J will go vp and shewe Pharao, and tel E him. My brethren and my fathers house, which were in the lande of Canaan, are come vnto me, & they are shepeheardes (for they wer men of catel) and they haue brought theyr shepe and theyr oxen, and al that they haue. And if it chaunce that Pharao cal you, and aske you what your occupation is, ye shall aunswer: Thy seruantes haue bene men occupied aboute catel, from our childhod vnto this tyme, we & our fathers, that ye may dwel in the lande of Gosan. For euery shepe keper is an abhomynacion to the Egiptians.

The. xlvii. Chapter.

Jacob commeth before Pharao, and vnto hym is geuen the lande of Gosan, he maketh hys sonne to swear for hys buriall.

A Joseph came therfore and tolde Pharao, and said: My father & brethren, theyr shepe and theyr oxen, and all that the haue, are come out of the land of Canaan: and beholde, they are in the lande of Gosan. And Joseph toke of the hinmoste of his brethren, euen fyue men, and presented them vnto Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto his brethrẽ: what is your occupatiõ And they answered Pharao. shepeherdes are thy seruantes, both we and also our fathers. They sayde moreouer vnto Pharao: for to *sogeorne in this lande are we come, for thy seruauntes haue no pasture for their shepe, so sore is the famishment in the lande of Canaan. Now therfore let thy seruantes dwel in ỷ land of Gosan.

And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: thy father & thy brethrẽ are come vnto thee. The lande of Egipte is before thee: In ỷ best place of the lande make bothe thy father and thy brethren dwel: euen in the lande of Gosan let them dwell. Moreouer, yf thou knowe any man of actiuitie among them, make them rulers ouer my catell. And Joseph brought in Jacob his B father, and set hym before Pharao. And Jacob blessed Pharao. And Pharao saied vnto Jacob: how olde arte thou? And Jacob sayd vnto Pharao: the dayes of my pilgrimage are an. C. and thirtie yeres. Fewe & euell haue the dayes of my lyfe bene, and haue not ateyned vnto the yeres of ỷ life of my fathers, in the dayes of theyr pylgrimages. And Jacob blessed Pharao, and went out from hym. And Joseph prepared dwellynges for hys father and his brethren, and gaue them possessions in the lande of Egipte, in the best of the lande: euen in the land of Rameses, as Pharao had commaunded. And Joseph made prouisiõ for his father his brethren, & al hys fathers housholde, wyth breade, euen as yong children are fedde. Ther was no bread in al the land, for the dearth was exceding sore: so that C the lande of Egipte and the land Canaan, were famished by the reason of the dearth. And Joseph brought together all the money that was found in the lande of Egypte, and of Canaan, for the corne whiche they bought: and he layde vp the mony in Pharaos house. Whẽ mony fayled in the lande of Egipte, and of Canaan, al the Egyptians came vnto Joseph and sayde: geue vs bread: wherfore sufferest thou vs to die before the, when our D mony is spent? Then saide Joseph: bryng your cattel, and J wyl geue you for your cattell, yf ye be without money. And they brought theyr cattell vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them breade for horses and shepe, and oxen, and asses, and fede them with breade, for all their cattel, that yere. But when ỷ yere was ended, they came vnto hym the next yere, and sayed vnto hym: we will not hide it from my lorde, howe that our money is spente: my Lord also had our cattell and beastes, nether is ther ought left in the syght of my lord, but euen our bodyes and our landes. Wherefore lettest thou vs dye before E thyne eies, and the land to go to nought? bye vs & our landes, for breade: & bothe we and our landes wyl be bound to Pharao. Onely geue vs sede, that we maye lyue and not die, & that the lande go not to wast. And so Joseph boughte all the land of Egipte for Pharao. For ỷ Egiptians tianes sold euerye man his lande, because the derth was so sore vpon them, and so the lande became Pharaos. And he appointed the people vnto the cities, from one side of Egipte vnto the other: only y lande of the Prestes bought he not. For the Priestes had an ordynaunce of Pharao, that they should eat that which was appointed vnto them, which Pharao had geuen thẽ: wherefore they solde not theyr landes.

F Then Joseph sayde vnto the folke: beholde, I haue boughte you thys daye, and your lande, for Pharao. Take there bread and seede and sowe the lande. And of the encrease, ye shal geue the fifte part vnto Pharao, and foure partes shall bee youre owne, for seede of the fielde and for you, and them of your housholdes, & for your children to eate. And they aunswe-red: Thou haste saued our lyues. Let vs fynde grace in the syght of my Lord, and we will bee Pharaos seruauntes. And Joseph made it a law ouer the land of Egipt vnto thys daye: that Pharao should haue the fyfte parte, except y land of the Priestes only, which was not Pharaos.

G And Israell dwelte in Egipt: euen in the countrey of Gosan. And they had theyr possessions therin, and grewe and multyplyed exceadynglye. Moreouer, Jacob liued in the lande of Egipt seuentene yeres, so that the whole age of Jacob was an hundreth and. xlvii. yeres.
When the tyme drewe nye that Israell must dye, he sent for hys sonne Joseph, & sayd vnto hym: if I haue founde grace in thy sight, Oh, put thy hand nowe vnder my thigh, & deale mercifully & truly wyth me, that thou bury me not in Egipt: but I will lye with my fathers, & thou shalt carye me out of Egipte, and burie me in their burial. And he aunswered: I will do as thou hast sayd. And he sayde: *sweare Ge. xxv. d vnto me, and he sware vnto him. And Israel worshipped toward the beds head.

way, whẽ there was but a fieldes breadth to come vnto Ephrat. And I buryed her there in the way to Ephrat: The same is Bethleem. And Israell behelde Josephs sonnes, and sayd: what are these? Joseph sayd vnto his father: they are my sonnes which God hath geuen me here. And he sayd: Oh, bryng them to me, and let me blesse them. And the eyes of Israell were dimme for age, so that he could not well see. And he brought them to him, and he kissed them, and embraced thẽ. And Israel said vnto Joseph: I had not thought to haue sene thy face: and yet lo, god hath shewed it me, and also thy sede: & Joseph toke them away from his lap, and wor- C shipped on the ground before hym. Then toke Joseph them both: Ephraim with his righthand, towarde Israels lefthãd, and Manasses with his left hande, to-warde Israels righthande, and brought them vnto him. And Israel stretched out his right hand, and layd it on Ephraims head, which was the yonger, and his left hand vpon Manasses head, guiding hys hands wisely, for Manasses was the elder. And he blessed Joseph and sayd: god, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walke, God which hath fed me all my life long vnto thys day, and the Angell which hath deliuered me from all euel, blesse these laddes, and let my name be named in them, and the name of my fa thers Abraham and Isaac, and that they may grow into a multitude in the middes of the earth. When Joseph saw that hys father laid hys right hand vpon the head of Ephraim, it displeased him. And he lift vp his fathers hand to haue remoued it from Ephraims head, vnto Manasses head. And Joseph sayd vnto his father: not

D not so my father, for this is ẏ eldest. Put thy ryght hand vpõ his head. And his father would not, but sayd: I know it well my sonne, I know it well. He shalbe also a people and shalbe great. But his yon-ger brother shalbe greater than he, and his sede shalbe ful of people. And he blessed them that day, and sayd: In thee, let Israell blesse and say: God make thee as Ephraim and as Manasses. And he set Ephraim before Manasses. And Israell sayd vnto Ioseph: behold, I dye. And god shalbe with you and bryng you againe vnto the lãd of your fathers. Moreouer, I haue geuen vnto thee a portion of* land aboue thy brethrẽ, which I gat out

The.l.Chapter.

Jacob is buried, Joseph forgeueth his brethren the iniurie that they did to him. And he dieth.

A And Joseph commaunded his seruātes the Phisitians, to enbaulme his father: and the Phisitians enbaulmed Israel.xl.dayes lōg, for so lōg doth the enbaulming last, and the Egiptians bewailed him.lxx.dayes. And when the dayes of weping were ended, Joseph spake vnto the house of Pharao, sayeng: If I haue found fauour in your eyes, speake in the eares of Pharao, sayeng: My father made me sweare & sayd: Ge.xlvii.g. loe, I dye, *bury me in my graue, which I haue made me in the land of Canaan. Now therfore let me go and bury my father, and then will I come againe. And Pharao sayd: go and bury thy father, ac-
B cording as he made thee to sweare. And Joseph went vp to bury his father, and with him went all the seruantes of Pharao that were the eldest of hys house, and al the elders of the lande of Egipt, and al the house of Joseph, and hys brethren, and his fathers house: only their children and their shepe, and their cattell left they behinde in the land of Gosan. And there went with him also charettes and horsemen: and it was an exceding great company. And they came to ẏ corne flowre of Atad which is beyond Jordane, and ther they made a great and exceding sore lamentation. And he *mourned for his fa-

And his sonnes did vnto him, according as he Ge.xlix.d Act.vii.b had commaunded them. For hys sonnes caryed hym *into the lande of Canaan, C and buried him in the double caue of the

And Joseph returned into Egipt agayne, he and his brethren (and all that wente vp with him to bury his father,) assone as he had buryed hym. And whē Josephs brethrē saw that their father was dead, they sayd: Joseph might fortune to hate vs, and *reward vs again al the euel which Gene.xxxvii. we did vnto him. And they did a cōmaundement vnto Joseph, sayeng: thy father charged vs before his death, sayeng: this wise shall ye say vnto Joseph: forgeue (I pray thee) the trespace of thy brethrē, and their synne: for they rewarded thee euell. And now (we pray thee) forgeue the trespas of the seruantes of thy fathers god. And Joseph wept, when they spake vnto hym.

For his brethen came vnto him, and D

And so Joseph dyed, when he was an.C.and.x.yere old. And they enbaulmed him with spices, putting him in a chest in Egipt.

The end of the first booke of Moses.

The

The second boke of Moses, called in Latine, Exodus.

The first Chapter.

The children of Jacob are numbred. The newe Pharao oppresseth them. The act of the Godly midwiues.

A These are the names of Ge.xlvi.b the children of Israell, whych came to Egypte with Jacob every man came with his housholde: Ruben, Simeon, Leui, and Juda, Isachar, and Beniamin, Dan, Nepthali, Gad, and Aser. All the soules that came out of the loines of Jacob, were .lxx. But Joseph was in Egipt already. And Joseph died and al his bre-Act.vii.c. thren, and all that generation, and the* Ps.ciiii.a children of Israell grew, encreased, multiplied, and waxed exceading mighty: and the lande was full of them.
B But there rose vp a new king in Egipt, which knew not Joseph. And he said vnto his folke: behold, the people of the children of Israell are greater and mightier thā we. Come on, let vs play wisely with them, lest they multiply, and lest it happen, that (if there chaunce any war) they ioyne themselues vnto our enemies, and fyght against vs, and so get them out of the lande. Therefore did they set taske-masters ouer them, to kepe them vnder with burdens. And they built vnto Pharao, treasure cities: Phitō and Rameses.
But the more they vexed them, the more they multiplyed and grew, so that they abhorred the children of Israel. And the Egiptians helde the children of Israell in C bondage, without mercy. Therfore was their life bitter vnto them in that cruell bondage, in clay and bricke, and all maner of worke in the fieldes. For all their bondage which they did vnto them, was ful of tyranny.
And the king of Egipt sayd vnto the mydwiues of the Hebrues women, of which the ones name was Sephora, and the other Phua: When ye do the office of a midwife to the women of the Hebrues, and see in the byrth tyme that it is a boye ye shall kill it. But if it be a daughter, it shall liue. Notwithstanding the midwi- D ues feared God, and did not as the king of Egipt commaunded them, but saued the men children. And the king of Egipt called for the midwiues, and sayde vnto them: Why haue you delt on this maner, and haue saued the men childrē? And the midwiues answered Pharao, that the Hebrues women are not as the women of Egipt: for they are sturdy women, and are deliuered yer the mydwiues come at them. And God therfore dealt well wyth the midwiues. And the people multiplied and waxed very mightie. And it fortuned bicause the midwiues feared God, he made them houses. And Pharao charged all his people, sayeng: Al the mē children that are borne, cast into the riuer, and saue the mayde children aliue.

The .ii. Chapter.

Moses is borne and cast into the flagges. He is taken vp of Pharaos daughter. He killeth the Egiptian He flyeth and maryeth a wife. The Israelites cry vnto the Lorde.

And there went a man of* A the house of Leui: and toke Exo.vi.c a daughter of Leui. And ŷ i.Para. wyfe conceiued, and bare a xxiii.b. sonne, And when she sawe that it was a proper child* Act.vii.c. she hid hym thre monethes: And when Heb.xi.e. she could no longer hide hym, she toke a basket of bulrushes and daubed it wyth slime and pitch, and laide the child therin and put it in the flagges by the riuers brynke. And hys sister stode a farre of, to wete what woulde come of it, *And thee Act.vii.f.

here selfe in the riuer, and her maydens xi.a. walked a long by the ryuers side. & when Dani. she sawe the basket among the flagges, xiii.c. she sent the maide to fetche it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a child and beholde, the babe wepte. And she had compassion on it, and sayde: it is one of ŷ B Hebrues children. Then sayde his sister vnto Pharaos daughter: shall I go and cal vnto thee a norse of the Hebrues women, to nurse thee the childe? Pharaos daughter answered her: Go. And the mayde ranne and called the childes mother. To whom Pharaos daughter sayd: Take this childe away, and nurse it for me, & I wil reward thee. And the womā toke the child and nursed it vp. The child grew, and she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, and it was made her sōne, and she called the name of it Moses, bicause (sayd

(sayd she) I toke him out of the water.
And it happened in those dayes, when Moses was waxed great, that he wente out vnto his brethren, and loked on their burthens, and he spied an Egiptian smi-ting an Hebrue which was one of his bre thrē. And he loked round about, and whē he saw no man by, he slew the Egiptian, and hid him in the sand. And whē he was gone out another day, behold: two Hebru C es stroue together. And he sayd vnto him that did the wrong: wherfore smitest thou Act. vii.b thy fellow? He answered: * who made Gene. thee a man of authority to iudge vs? spexix.b. akest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egiptian? And Moses feared, and sayde: of a suretie this thing is knowen. And Pharao heard of it, and wēt about to sley Moses. And Moses flyeng from the face of Pharao, dwelt in the lande of Midian and he sat downe by a welles syde. The Priest of Midian had. vii. daughters which came and drew water, and fylled the troughes, for to water theyr fathers shepe. And the shepeheardes came and droue them away: but Moses stode vp and helped them, and watred their shepe.
And when they came to Raguel their father, he sayd: how hapeneth it that ye are come so sone to day? And they answered: a man of Egipt deliuered vs from the hād of the shepeherdes, and so drew vs water and watered the shepe. He sayd vnto his daughters. And where is he? why haue ye so left the man? Call hym that he may eate bread. And Moses was content to dwell with the man.
D And he gaue Moses zephora his daugh-Ex. xviii. ter, which when she bare a sonne, * called a. him Gerson: for he sayd, I haue ben a stranger in a strange lande. (And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Eliesar, sayeng the God of my father is myne helper and hath rid me out of the handes of Pharao.) And it chaū-ced in processe of tyme, that the kyng of Egipt dyed, and the children of Israell syghed by the reason of bōdage, and cry-ed. And their complainte came vp vnto God from the bondage: and God heard their mone. And God remēbred his promise with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.
And God loked vpon the children of Israell, and God had respect vnto them.

The. iii. Chapter.

Moses kepeth shepe. God appereth vnto him in a bush, and sendeth him to the children of Israel, and to Pharao that tyrant.

Moses kept the shepe of * Iethro A his father in law, priest of Mi- Gen. dian, and he droue the flocke to xviii.a. the backeside of the desert, and came to the mountaine of God, Horeb. *
And the Angel of the Lord appeared vn- Exo.
to him in a flame of fyre, out of the mid- xviii.a. des of a bushe. And he loked, and behold, Act. vii.
the bush burned with fyre, and the bushe was not cōsumed. Therfore Moses said: I wyll goe now, and see this great sight, how it commeth that the bush burneth not. And when the Lord sawe that he came for to see, God called vnto him out of the middes of the bushe, and said: Moses, Moses. He answered: here am I.
And he sayd: * Come not hither: put thy B shoes of thy fete, for the place whereon Josu. v. thou standest is holy grounde. And he sayd: * I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and Math. the God of Jacob. And Moses hyd hys xxii.c. face: for he was afrayde to loke vppon Marke.
God. And the Lord sayd: I haue surely xii.c.
sene the trouble of my people which are Luke. xx. in Egipt, and * haue heard their cry from c. the face of their taskmasters. For I Exo. know their sorowes, and am come down c. to deliuer them out of the hand of the E- C giptians, and to bryng them out of that lande vnto a good lande and a large, and vnto a lande that floweth with milk and hony, euen vnto the place of the Cananites, and Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, and of the Jebusites. Now therfore, the complaint of the children of Israell is come vnto me, and I haue also sene the oppressiō wherwith the Egiptians oppresse them. Come thou therfore, and I will sende thee vnto Pharao, that thou mayest bryng my people ẏ children of Israell out of Egipt.
And Moses sayd vnto God: what am I to go vnto Pharao, and to bryng the children of Israell out of Egipt? And he D answered: I will be with thee. And thys shall be a token vnto thee, that I haue sent thee: After that thou haste brought the people out of Egipt, ye shall serue God vpon this mountaine. And Moses sayd vnto God: behold, when I come vnto the children of Israell, I shall say vnto them: the God of your fathers hath sente me vnto you: And if they say vnto me: what is hys name? what answere shall I geue them? And God answered Moses: I am that I am. And he sayd, thys shalt thou saye vnto the children

of Israell: I am hath sent me vnto you.
And god spake further vnto Moses: thus shalt thou say vnto the children of Israel: *The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath set me vnto you: this is my name for euer, and this is my memorial into generation and generation. Go and gather the elders of Israell together, and thou shalt say vnto them: the Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, appeared vnto me, and sayd: In visiting haue I visited you, and know that which is don to you in Egipt.
And I haue sayd: I will bring you out of the tribulation of Egipt vnto the land of the Cananites, and Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, and Jebusites: euen vnto a land that floweth with milke and hony. And when they heare thy voice thē go, both thou and the elders of Israell shall go vnto the kyng of Egipt, and say vnto him: The Lorde F God of the Hebrues hath met with vs, and now wil we go therfore thre dayes iourney into the wildernesse, and do sacrifice vnto the Lorde our God. And I am sure that the king of Egipt will not let you go, no not in a mightie hande: and I will stretche out mine hande and smite Egipt with al my wonders, which I will do in the middst therof. And after that he will let you go. And *I will get this peo-G ple fauour in the sight of the Egiptians: Ex.xi.a so that when ye go, ye shal not go empty: xii.e but a wife shall borow of her neighbou-resse and of her that sogeorneth in her house, iewels of siluer and of golde, and rayment. And ye shall put them on youre sonnes and daughters, and shall rob the Egiptians.

The .iiii. Chapter.

¶ Moses receiueth signes of his calling, and was sente into Egipt. His wife Zephora circumciseth her sonne. Aaron meteth with Moses. Moses taketh his leaue of his father in law.

A Moses aunswered and sayd: Se, they will not beleue me, nor herken vnto my voice: but wil say, the Lord hath not apeared vnto the. And the lord said vnto him, what is that which is in thy hande? He answered, a rod. And he sayd: cast it on the grounde. And he cast it on ye ground, and it became a serpente. And Moses fled from the sighte of it. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: put forth thine hand and take it by the tayle. And therfore he put forth his hande and caught it, and it became a rod in hys hand. For this thing (sayth he) shall they beleue thee, that the B Lorde God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the god of Jacob hath appeared vnto thee. And the Lorde sayde furthermore vnto hym: thruste thyne hande into thy bosome.
And he thrust his hande into hys bo-some. And when he toke it out againe: beholde his hande was leprous euen as snowe. And he sayde: put thyne hande into thy bosome agayne. And he putt hys hand into his bosome agayne, and pluckt it out of his bosome, and beholde, it was turned againe as his other fleshe. Therfore if they will not beleue thee, neyther heare the voice of the first token, yet wil they beleue for the voice of the second token. But & if they wil not beleue the two signes, neither harken vnto thy voyce, thou shalt take of the water of the ryuer, and powre it vpon the drye lande. And the water which thou takest out of the ri-uer, shall turne to bloud vppon the drye lande.
C Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: Oh my Lorde, I am not eloquente from yesterday and yet-yesterday, and namely synce thou hast spoken vnto thy seruant: but I am slow mouthed, and slow tonged. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: who hath made mannes mouth: or who hath made the dumme or the deafe, the seing or the blinde: haue not I the Lorde? Therefore *I will be with thy mouth, and teache thee what thou shalt saye. He sayd: Oh Mat.x.c. my Lorde, sende I pray thee by the hand of him whom thou wilt sende. And the Lord was angry with Moses, and sayde: Do not I knowe Aaron thy brother the Leuite, that he can speake? For loe, he cōmeth forth to mete thee, and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in hys hearte.
Therefore thou shalt speake vnto hym, D and put these wordes in hys mouthe, and I will be with thy mouth and wyth hys mouth, and wil teach you what ye ought to doe. And he shalbe thy spokes man vnto the people: he also shalbe thy mouthe, and thou shalt be his God. And thou shalt take thys rod in thy hande, where with thou shalt do miracles. Therfore Moses went and returned to Jethro his father in law againe, and sayd vnto him: I will goe now, and turne againe vnto my brethren which are in Egipt, and se whether they be yet aliue. And Jethro sayd to Moses: go in peace. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses in Midian: go and returne Mat. ii.d. C againe into Egipte, *for they are dead which went about to kill thee. And Moses toke his wife, and his sones, and put them on an asse, and went againe to Egipt, and Moses toke the rod of God in his hande. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: When thou art entred and come into Egipt againe, se that thou do al the wonders before Pharao, which I haue put Exo.x.c. in thy hande: but I will holde *his hert, and he shall not let the people goe. And thou shalt say vnto Pharao, thus sayeth the Lord: Israell is mine eldest sonne, and I haue sayd vnto thee that thou shouldest let my sonne go, that he may serue me, and thou wouldest not let hym Ex.xii.e. goe: behold, I wil *sley thyne eldest sone.

F And it chaunced by the way in the Inne that the Lord met him, and woulde haue killed him. And zephora toke a stone, and cut away the foreskin of her sonne, and fell at his fete, and sayd: a bloudy husbād art thou vnto me. Then he let hym goe.
And she sayd a bloudy husbande, bicause of the circumcision. Then sayd the Lorde vnto Aaron: go mete Moses in the wyl-dernesse. And he wēt and met him in the mounte of God, and kyssed hym. And Moses tolde Aaron al the wordes of the Lord which had sent hym, and all the tokens which he had charged him withall.
So went Moses and Aaron, and gathered all the elders of the children of Isra-G ell. And Aaron told all the wordes which the Lord had spoken vnto Moses, & dyd the miracles in the sight of the people, and the people beleued. And when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and had loked vpon their tribulation, they bowed their head, and worshipped.

The .v. Chapter.

¶ Moses and Aaron do goe vnto Pharao. The people of Israel are oppressed more and more, and they cry out vpon Moses and Aaron therfore.

A Moses & Aaron went in afterward and told Pharao, thus sayth ye lord god of Israel: Let my people goe, that they may kepe holy day vnto me in the wildernesse. And Pharao sayd: who *is the Lord, ye I should heare his voice, Joh.xx. and let Israel go? I know not the Lord, nether, wil I let Israel go. And they said: the god of the Hebrues hath met with vs: and therfore wil we go thre dayes iour-ney into the desert, and sacrifice vnto the lord our God: lest there happen vnto vs, either pestilence or swearde. Then sayde the king of Egipt vnto them: wherfore do ye (Moses and Aarō) let the people from their worke? get you vnto your laboure.
And Pharao sayd furthermore: beholde, there is much people now in the lād, and ye make them leaue theyr worke. And Pharao commaunded the same day vnto the taskemasters which were among the people, and vnto the officers, sayeng: ye shall geue the people nomore strawe to make brycke withall, (as ye did in time passed,) lett them go and gather them B strawe themselues, and the number of brycke which they were wonte to make in tyme passed, lay vnto their charges also, and minish nothing therof: for they be idle, and therfore cry, saying: we wil go and do sacrifice vnto our god. They must haue more worke layde vpon them, that they may labour therin, and not regarde vaine wordes.

Then went the taskmasters of the people and the officers out, and told the people. Thus sayeth Pharao: I wil geue you nomore straw, go your selues and gather you strawe where you can fynde it, yet shall none of your labour be minished.
And so were the people scatered abrode C throughout all the lande of Egipte, for to gather stubble in stede of straw. And the taskmasters hasted thē forward, sayeng: fulfyll your worke day by day, euen as if ye had straw. And the officers of the children of Israell which Pharaos taskmasters had set ouer them, were beaten. And they sayd vnto them: wherefore haue ye not fulfilled your taske in makyng bricke both yesterday and to day, as well as in tymes past? The officers also of the chil-drē of Israell, came and complained vnto Pharao, sayēg: Wherfore dealest thou thus with thy seruātes? there is no straw geuen to thy seruantes, and they say vnto vs: make brycke. And thy seruants are beatē, and thy people is foule entreated.
He sayd: idle are ye, idle, and therefore ye say: We will goe and doe sacrifice vnto the Lord. Go therfore now & worke, and there shall no strawe be geuen you, and yet shal ye deliuer ye whole tale of brycke.
And

D And the officers of the children of Israel did with heuinesse loke on them that said ye shall minishe nothing of your dayly making of bricke. And they met Moses and Aaron which stode in their way as they came out from Pharao, and sayd vn to them: The Lorde loke vpon you and iudge you, which haue made the sauoure of vs stinke in the eyes of Pharao, and in the eyes of his seruantes: and haue put a swearde in their hande to sley vs. Moses returned vnto the Lorde, and sayd: Lord, wherfore hast thou dealt cruelly with this people, and wherefore hast thou sent me? For since I came to Pharao to speake in thy name, he hath fared foule with this folke, and yet thou haste not deliuered thy people at all. Then the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Now shalt thou see, what I wil do vnto Pharao, for in a mightie hande shall he let them go, and* Exodus. iiii.b. in a mightie hande shall he dryue them out of hys lande.

The.vi.Chapter.

¶God promiseth the deliuerãce of the Israelites, and the land of Canaan. The genealogie of Ruben, Simeon, and Leui.

A AND God spake vnto Moses, and said vnto him: I am the lord, I appeared vnto Abraham, Isaac, & Iacob as an almighty God, & in my name Iehouah, was I not knowẽ vnto them.
Gene. Moreouer * I made an appointment w

And I haue also hearde the groning of the children of Israell, whom the Egiptians kepe in bondage, & haue remembred mi couenant. Wherfore say vnto the children of Israell: I am the Lorde, I will bring you oute from the burthens of the Egiptians, and wyll rid you out of their bondage, and will deliuer you in a stretched out arme, and in B greate iudgements. And I will take you for my people, & wil be to you a god. And ye shal know that I am the Lorde youre God, whiche bryng you oute from the burthens of the Egyptians. And I wyll bryng you vnto the lande, concernyng the which I dyd lyfte vp myne hande to geue it vnto Abraham, Isaac and Iacob and wil geue it vnto you for a possession: euen I the Lorde. And Moses tolde the children of Israell euen so. But they hearkened not vnto Moses, for anguish of spirite, and for cruell bondage. The Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Go in, & speake vnto Pharao king of Egipt, that he let the children of Israell go out of his land. And Moses spake before the Lord, sayeng: behold, the children of Israell harken not vnto me, how then shall Pharao heare me, which am of vncircũcised lippes? And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and vnto Aaron, and gaue them C a charge vnto the children of Israell, and vnto Pharao king of Egipt, to bring the children of Israell out of the lande of Egipte.

The.vii.Chapter.

The tokens to knowe God. The rod of Moses is turned to a serpent. The sorcerers do euen thesame. The waters are turned into blood.

A And the lord sayd vnto Moses: beholde, I haue made thee Pharaoes god, and Aaron thy brother shalbe thy prophet. Thou shalt speake al that I commaunded thee, and Aaron thy brother shall speake vnto Pharao, that he send the children of Israel out of Exo.iiii.c his land. And * I wil harden Pharaoes hart, and multiply my miracles and my wonders, in the land of Egipt. But Pharao shal not herken vnto you, that I may set my hand vpon Egipt, and bring out mine armies and my people, the children of Israell, out of ye land of Egipt in great iudgementes: and the Egiptians shall know that I am the lord, when I stretch B forth my hand vpō Egipt, and bring out the children of Israel from amōg them.

Moses and Aaron did as the Lorde cōmaunded them, euen so did they. Moses was .lxxx. yere old, and Aarō .lxxxiii. when they spake vnto Pharao. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saieng: If Pharao speake vnto you, saying: shewe a wonder. Thou shalt say vnto Aaron: take thy rod and cast it before Pharao, that it may be a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron in vnto Pharao, and did euen as the Lord had commaunded. And Aarō cast forth his rod before Pha-Exo.iii.a rao and before his seruants * and it turned to a serpent. Then Pharao called for ii.tim.iii.b. the wise men and * enchaūters, and those wise men of Egipt did in like mãer with their sorcery. For they cast downe euery man his rod, and they turned to serpentes: but Aarons rod did eate vp their roddes, and he hardened Pharaos hart, that he hearkened not vnto them, euen as the Lord had sayd. The Lord also said vnto Moses: Pharaos hart is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go. Get thee vnto Pharao in the morning: loe, he will come vnto the water, and thou shalt stãd vpon the riuers brinke against he come, and the rod whiche tourned to a serpent, shalt thou take in thine hand. And thou C shalt say vnto him: The Lord God of the Hebrues hath sent me vnto thee, saying: * Let my people go, that they may serue me in the wildernesse. And beholde, hetherto thou wouldest not heare. Ex.viii.
Thus sayth the Lord. In this thou shalt know that I am the Lord. Beholde, I wil smite (with the staffe that is in mine hand) the water that is in the riuer, & it shal tourn to blood. And the fishe that is in the riuer shall dye, and the riuer shall stinke, and it shall greue the Egiptians to drink of the water of the riuer. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, say vnto Aaron: take thy staffe, and stretch out thine hand ouer D the waters of egipt, ouer their streames, ouer their riuers and pondes, and al poles of water whiche they haue, that they may be blood, & that there may be blood thorowout all the land of Egipt, both in vessels of wood, and also of stone. And Moses and Aaron did euen as the Lord commaunded. And he lifte vp the staffe, and smote the waters that were in the riuer, in the sight of Pharao, and in ye sight of his seruantes: and all the water that was in the riuer, turned into blood. And the fish that was in the riuer died, * and the riuer stank: and the Egiptians could not drink of the waters of the riuer. And psa.lxviii c.and.cv.c there was blood thorowout all the lād of Egipt. And the enchaunters of Egipte did likewise with their sorceries: & he hardened Pharaos hert, neither did he herken vnto them * as the Lorde had said.
And Pharao turned himself, and went Ex.iiii.d. againe into his house & set not his heart and.vii.a thereunto. And the Egiptians digged round about the riuer for water to drink, for they could not drinke of the water of the riuer. And it continued a weke after the Lord had smitten the riuer.

The.viii.Chapter.

The plage of frogges. Moses prayeth for Pharao. The plage of lyse. The plage of flies.

The lord spake vnto Moses: Go A vnto Pharao, and tell him, thus sayth the Lorde: * let my people go, that they may serue me. If thou wilt not let them go: behold, Ex.vii.e I wil smite al thy border with frogges. x.aand.a
And the riuer shall scraule with froggs, which shal go vp & come into thine house and into thy priuy chambre, where thou slepest, and vpon thy bed, and into the house of thy seruantes, and vpō thy people, & into thine ouens, & vpon thy meates. And ye frogs shal come vpō thee, & on thy people, & vpon all thy seruantes. *

And

B And þ lord spake vnto Moses: Say vn-Psalm. lxxviii. e. to Aaron: stretche forth thyne hand with thy rodde ouer the streames, ouer the ry-uers, and ouer the pōdes, that thou maiest bryng vp frogges vpon the lande of Egipt. And Aaron stretched hys hande ouer the waters of Egipt, and the frogges came vp, and couered the lande of Egipt. And the Sorcerers did lykewise with their sorcery, and brought frogges vp, vpon the lande of Egipt. Then Pharao called for Moses and Aarō, and said *pray ye vnto the Lord that he may take

Ex. x. f. people, and I wyll let the people go, that
x. e. they may do sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Act. viii. d Moses sayd vnto Pharao: Reioyce thou C ouer me, and appoint when I shall praye for thee and for thy seruantes, and for thy people, to dryue away the frogges from thee and thy houses, and that they may remaine but in the riuer onely. He sayd: to morow. And he sayd: euē as thou hast sayd, that thou mayest knowe that there is none like vnto the Lorde oure God. And so the frogges shall departe from thee and from thy houses, from thy seruantes, and from thy people, and shall remaine in the riuer onely. Moses and Aaron went out from Pharao, and Moses cryed vnto the lord vpō the appointment of frogges, which he had made vnto Pharao. And the Lord did accordyng D to the sayeng of Moses. And þ frogges dyed out of the houses, out of the courtes and fieldes. And they gathered them together vpon heapes, and the lande stank of them. But when Pharao saw that he had rest geuen hym, he hardned his hart, and herkened not vnto them, as the lord had sayd. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: say vnto Aaron: stretche out thy rod and smite the dust of the land, that it may turne to lyse throughout all the lande of Egipt. And they did so. For Aaron stretched out hys hande, and with his rod he smote the dust of the earth, which turned to lise in men and beast, so that al the dust of the lande turned to lise, throughout al E the lande of Egipt. And the enchaunters assaide likewise with their enchaūtmen-tes to bring forth lise, but they could not,
And the lyse were both vpon men and beastes. Then sayd the enchaunters vnto Pharao: it is the fynger of God. And Pharaos hart remained obstinate, and Ex. vii. a he herkened not vnto them, euen *as the Lord had sayd. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: rise vp earely in the mornyng, and stand before Pharao, for he wil come forth vnto the water, and thou shalt saye vnto him: thus sayeth the Lord: Let my people go, that they may serue me. Els, if thou wilt not let my people go: beholde, I will sende all maner of flyes, both vppon thee and thy seruantes, and thy people, and into thy houses. And the houses of the Egiptians shalbe full of flyes, and the grounde whereon they are. And the Gene. xlvii. f. lande of * Gosan where my people are, wil I cause to be wonderful in that day: F so that there shall no flyes be there. Wher by thou shalt know that I am the Lorde in the middes of the earth. And I wil put a deuision betwene my people and thine.
And euen to morow shal thys miracle be done. And the Lord did euen so: and ther came noysome flies into þ house of Pharao, and into his seruauntes houses, and into all the lande of Egipt: and the lande was corrupt with these flyes. And Pharao called for Moses and Aaron, and sayd: Go and do sacrifice vnto your God in the lande. And Moses answered: It is not mete that we do so. For then we must offer vnto the Lord our God, that which is an abhomination vnto the Egiptiās.
But and if we sacrifice that whiche is an abhomination vnto the Egiptians before their eyes, should they not stone vs?
We will go thre dayes iourney into the deserte, and sacrifice vnto the Lorde our Ex. iii. f.
God, * as he hath commaunded vs. G And Pharao sayd: I will let you goe that ye may sacrifice vnto the Lord your God in the wildernesse, but go not farre away, pray for me. And Moses sayd: be-holde, I will goe out from thee, and pray vnto the Lord, that the flyes may depart from Pharao, and from hys seruauntes, and from his people to morowe. But let Pharao from henceforth deceiue nomore that he will not let the people go, to sacrifice vnto the lord. And Moses went out from Pharao, and prayed vnto the lord.
And the Lord did according to the sayeng of Moses, and the flyes departed from Pharao, and frō his seruantes, and from his people, and there remayned not one.
And Pharao hardened hys heart euen then also, and did not let the people go.

The. ix. Chapter.

¶ The moraine of beastes. The plage of botches and sores. The horrible hayle, thunder, and lyghtnyng.

A Ex.viii.c. The Lord sayd vnto Moses: go in vnto Pharao, and thou shalt tell him, thus sayth the Lord God of the Hebrues. *Let my people go, that they may serue me. If thou wilt not lett them go, and wilt holde them stil: behold, the hande of the Lord is vpon thy flocke which is in the fielde: for vpon horses, asses, camels, oxen, and shepe, there shalbe a mightie great morian. And the lord shall doe wonderfully betwene the beastes of Israell, and the beastes of Egipt: so that there shall nothing dye of all that pertaineth to the children of Israell. And the Lord appointed a tyme, sayeng: To mo-row the Lord shall finish this worde in the land. And the Lord did it on the mo-row, and al the catel of Egipt dyed: but of the cattell of the children of Israell dyed not one. And Pharao sent, and beholde: there was not one of the catell of the Israelites dead. And ye hart of Pharao was hardned, that he would not let the people goe.
B And the Lord sayd vnto Moses and Aaron: take your handes full of ashes out of the fornace, and Moses shall sprynkle it vp into the ayre, in the sight of Pharao, and it shall turne to dust in al the land of Egipt: that there may be swelling sores with blaines, both on man and beaste, throughout all the lande of Egipt. And they toke ashes out of the fornace, and stode before Pharao, and Moses sprinkled it vp into the aire. And there were sores with blaines both in men and in beastes: and the Sorcerers could not stande before Moses bicause of the blaines, for there were botches vpon the enchaunters and vpon all the Egiptians. And the lord hardned the hart of Pharao, and he her-kened not vnto them, *as the Lorde had sayd vnto Moses.
Ex. iiii. e And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Ryse fore Pharao, and thou shalt tel him: thus Exodus. viii.a. sayeth the Lorde God of the Hebrues:*

Let my people goe, that they maye serue me: or els I will at this tyme sende all my plages vpon thyne heart, and vpon thy seruantes, and on thy people, that thou mayst knowe that there is none like me in all ye earth. For now I wil stretche thy people with pestilence, and thou shalt Psalm. *for thys cause haue I kept thee, for to xlvii.c. shewe thee my power: & that they might declare my name throughout al ye world, yet thou exaltest thy self against my people, that thou wilt not let them goe: be-holde, to morowe this tyme I will sende downe a mightie great hayle, euen suche a D one as was not in Egipte, since it was grounded, vnto this tyme. Sende therefore now, and gather thy beastes, and all that thou hast in the field. For vpon all the men and the beastes which are found in the field, and not brought home, shall the hayle fall, and they shall dye. And as many as feared the word of the Lord, among the seruantes of Pharao, made their seruantes and their beastes flee into the houses: but he that regarded not the worde of the Lord, left his seruantes and hys beastes in the fielde. And ye Lord E sayd vnto Moses: stretche forth thyne hande vnto heauen, that there may be hayle in all the lande of Egipt: vpon mã and vpon beastes, and vpon all the her-bes of the field, throughout the lande of Egipt. And Moses stretched oute hys rodde vnto heauen, and the Lord thun-dred and hailed, and the fier rann along vpon the grounde. *And the Lorde so Psalm. hayled in the lande of Egipt, that there lxxviii.c.

was hayle, and fier mingled with the and.cv.c. hayle, so greuous, and such as there was none throughout all the lande of Egipte, sence people inhabited it. And the hayle smote throughout all the lande of Egipt, all that was in the fielde, both man and beast. And the hayle smote all the herbes of the fielde, and broke al the trees of the fielde: onely in the land of Gosan, where the children of Israell were, was there no hayle. And Pharao sent and called for Moses and Aaron, and sayd vnto them: I haue nowe synned: the Lord is righteous, and I and my people are vngodly. *Pray ye vnto the Lorde: for F it is much that there should be thunders Exodus. of God and hayle. I will let you goe, and viii.b. ye shall tary no longer. Moses sayd vnto hym: Assone as I am out of the citie, I wyll sprede abrode my handes vnto the Lorde, and the thunder shall ceasse, neyther shall there be any more hayle, that thou mayest knowe howe that the earth is the Lordes. But I knowe that thou and thy seruantes yet feare not the face of the lord God.

And so the flaxe and the barlye were G smitten, for the barlye was shott vp, and the flaxe was boulled: but the wheate and the rye were not smytten, for they were were late sowen. And Moses went out of the citie from Pharao, and spred abrod his handes vnto the Lord: and the thunder and haile ceased, neyther rayned it vpon the earth. And when Pharao sawe that the raine and the hayle and thunder were ceassed, he sinned agayne, and hardened hys heart, he and his seruantes. And the hart of Pharao was hardened: neither would he let the children of Israell goe, as the Lord had sayd by the hand of Moses.

The.x.Chapter.

¶ The harte of Pharao is hardened of God. The grassehoppers. The thicke darkenesse.

A Ex.iiii.f. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Go in vnto Pharao, for I * haue hardned his hart, and the hart of his seruantes, that I might put these my signes amongest them, and that thou tel in the audience of thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne, what thinges I haue done in Egipte, and the miracles which I haue done amõg them: that ye may know how that I am the Lord. And so Moses and Aaron came vnto Pharao, and sayd vnto him: Thus sayth the Lord God of the Hebrues: How lõg shal it be or thou wilt Ex.viii.a and.ix.a. submit thy self vnto me? * Let my people goe, that they maye serue me. Or els (if thou do resist) and wilt not let my people go: behold, to morow wil I bring grassehoppers into thy coastes, and they shall couer the face of the earth, that it can not be sene: and they shall eate the residue which remaineth vnto you, and is escaped from the hayle: and they shall eate euery grene tree that beareth you fruite in the fielde, and they shall fyl thy houses and all thy seruants houses, and the houses of all the Egiptians, after such a maner as neyther thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers haue sene, since the tyme they were vpon the earth vnto this day. B And he turned himself about, and went out from Pharao.

And Pharaos seruantes sayde vnto him: How long shal he be a sclaũder vnto vs? Let the men go, that they may serue the Lord their God. Knowest thou not yet that Egipt is destroied? And Moses and Aaron were brought againe vnto Pharao, and he sayd vnto them: Go, and serue the Lord your God. Who are they that shall goe? And Moses answered: we wil go with our yonge and with our old: yea, and with our sonnes and with our daughters, and with our shepe and wyth our oxen we must go. For we must holde a feast vnto the Lord. And he sayde vnto them: let it be so. The Lord be with you. C When I let you go, and your children also, take hede, for ye haue some misschief in hande. Nay, not so: but go they that are men and serue the Lord, for that was your desire. And they thrust them oute of Pharaos presence. And the lord sayd vnto Moses: Stretche out thine hand ouer the land of Egipt for grassehoppers, that they may come vpon the land of Egipte, and eate all the hearbes of the land, and al that the haile left behynd. And Moses stretched forth his rod ouer the lande of Egipte: and the Lorde broughte an East winde vpon the land all that day, and all that night. And in the morning, the East D winde * brought the grassehoppers: and Psa.cv.e. Sa.xvi.b Joel.i.a the grassehoppers went vp ouer all the land of Egipt, & remained in al quarters of Egipte very grieuously. Before them were there no such grassehoppers, nether after them shalbe: for they coucred al the face of the earth, so that the lande was darke. And they did eate all the hearbes of ye land, & al the fruites of the trees, and whatsoeuer ye haile had left: there was no grene thing left in the trees & hearbes of the fielde, through all the lande of Egipt. Therfore Pharao called for Moses and Aaron in hast, and sayd: I haue synned against the Lord your God, and agaynste you. And now forgeue me my synne only this once: and * pray vnto the Lord your Exo.ix.f. E God, that he may take away frõ me this death onely. And Moses went out from Pharao, and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lorde turned a mightie strong west winde, and it toke away ye grassehoppers and cast them into the red sea, so that ther was not one grassehopper in all the coast of Egipt. And the Lord * hardened Pharaos heart, so that he would not let the Ex.iiii.f. children of Israell go. And the Lord said vnto Moses: stretche out thy hande vnto heauen, that there may be vpon the F lande of Egipt, darkenesse which may be felt. And Moses stretched forth his hand vnto heauẽ, & there was a thicke * darkenesse vpõ al ye lande of Egipt, three daies Sap.xvii e. long, no man saw another, neither rose vp from the place where he was by the space of three dayes: but all the children of Israell had lyght where they dwelled. And Pharao called for Moses, and said: goe and serue the Lorde, onely let your

G shepe and your oxen abyde, and let your children go with you. And Moses sayd: Thou must geue vs also offringes and burnt offeringes for to sacrifice vnto the Lord our God: our cattell also shall goe with vs, and there shall not one hoofe be left behynde, for therof must we take to serue the Lord our God. Neither doe we knowe what we shall offer vnto the lord, vntill we come thither.

But the Lord hardened Pharaos hart, and he would not let them go. And Pharao sayd vnto him: get thee fro me, and take hede to thy selfe, and see my face no more. For whensoeuer thou commest in my sight, thou shalt die. And Moses said: Let it be as thou hast sayd, I will see thy face no more.

shalbe a great cry throughout al the land maine vnto the morning. That which remaineth of it vntill the morowe, shall ye burne with fyer.

Of this maner shal ye eate it with your in the basē, and strike the vpper post and the .ii. syde postes with the blood that is

And all the children of Israell did as the

Pharaos herte is hardened and foloweth the Israelites with al his host and captaynes, and is drowned. The Israelites grudge. They goe thorowe the red sea.

A And the lorde spake vnto Moses sa-yng: Speake to the childre of Israell, that they turne and remaine before Pi Hiroth betwene Migdoll and þ Nume. xxxiii.c sea, ouer agaynst * Baalzephon, & before that shal they pytche by the sea. For Pharao wyll say of the children of Israell: they are tangled in the lande, the wildernes hath shut them in. And I wyll harde Pharaos hert that he shall folowe after you: & I wyll get me honour vpon Pharao, and vpon al hys host: the Egyptians also shall know that I am the Lord. And they dyd euen so. And it was tolde the kynge of Egipte that the people fled. And the herte of Pharao & of his seruauntes, turned agaynst the people, and thei said: Why haue we this done, that we haue let B Israel go out of our seruice? And he made ready hys charets: and his people wyth hym, and toke sixe hūdred chosen charettes, and al the charettes of Egipte, and captaines vpon euery on of them. And þ lorde hardened the hert of Pharao kyng of Egipt, and he folowed the children of Israell. But the children of Israel went Psalm. lxxvi. out wyth * an hye hand, and the Egiptyans folowed after them: and all þ horses and charets of Pharao and his horsemē and his host ouer toke them abydyng by the sea, beside Pi Hiroth before Baalze-C phon. And when Pharao drewe nie, the children of Israel lyft vp their eyes, and behold, the Egiptians folowed after thē and they were sore afrayde: * and þ chil-Josua. xxiiii.b. dren of Israell cryed out vnto the lorde.
But they sayed vnto Moses: bicause ther were no graues in Egipt, hast thou therfore broughte vs awaye for to dye in the wildernes? wherfore hast thou serued vs thus, for to carye vs out of Egipte? Did not we tell the this in Egipt, saying: Let vs be in rest, that we may serue the Egiptians. For it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egiptians, than for to dye in the wildernesse. And Moses sayd ii. Para. xx.c. vnto the people: * Feare ye not, stand styl and behold howe the Lord shall saue you thys daye. For ye that haue sene the E-giptians thys day, shall se them nomore for euer. The Lord shal fight for you, & D ye shall holde your peace. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: wherfore cryest thou vnto me? speake vnto the children of Israell that they goe forward. But lift þ vp thy rod, and stretche out thy hande ouer the sea, and deuide it a sunder, & let the children of Israell goe on drye grounde thorowe the middeste of the sea. And be-holde, I will harden the herte of the E-giptians, that they maye folowe them.
And I will gett me honoure vpon Pharao, and vpon all his hooste, and vpon hys charettes and vpon hys horsemen.
And þ Egiptians shall know that I am the lord, when I haue gotten me honour E vpon Pharao, vpon his charets, and vp-on his horsemen. And the angel of god which went before the hoste of Israel, remoued and began to goe behynde them, And the clouden piller that was before þ face of them, began to stand behind them and came betwene the host of the Egiptians and the host of Israel. It was also a darke cloud and gaue lyght by nyghte: and al the night long the one came not at the other.

And Moses stretched forth hys hande ouer the sea: and the lorde caried away þ sea, by a verye strong eastwynde, all that night, and made the sea drye lande, & the F waters were deuided. And the children of Israell wente into the myddest of the Sea, vpon the drye grounde. And thee waters were a walle vnto them on their ryght hand, and on their left hande. And the Egiptians folowed and went in after them to the middest of the sea, euen al Pharaos horses, his charettes and hys horsemen. And in the morning watch, þ Lord * loked vnto the host of the Egipti- Judi. iv. a ans out of the firie and cloudie piller: and troubled the host of the Egiptians, and toke of his charet wheles and caried thē awaye violently. So that the Egiptians sayd: Let vs flee from the face of Israel, for the Lorde fyghteth for them agaynst the Egiptians. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: stretche out thyne hande ouer þ sea, that the waters may come agayn vp-on the Egiptians, vpon his charets, and vpon hys horsemen.

And Moses stretched forthe his hand G ouer the Sea, and it came agayne to his course early in the mornyng, and the E-come glorious in power: Thy right hand lord hath al to dashed the enemie. And in thy greate glorye thou hast ouerthrowen them that rose vp agaynste thee: Thou sentest forth thy wrath which consumed them euen as stubble. Thorow the wind of thy nostrelles the water gathered together, the fluddes stode still as an heape and the depe water congeled together in the heart of the Sea.

B The enemie sayde: I will folowe on inhabiters of Canaan waxed faint hear-mountayne of thyne enheritaunce: the place Lorde, which thou hast made for to dwel in the sanctuary, O lord, whiche thy handes haue prepared. The Lorde shall raygne euer and alwaye. For Pharaos horse went in with his charets and horsmen into the Sea, and the lorde brought the waters of the Sea vpon them.

But the children of Israel went on dry land in the midest of the sea. And Mir I-

The.xvi Chapter.

The Israelites come into the desert of Sin It raineth quayles and Manna. They grudge.

The

A The * children of Israell came to E-Nume. lim, where were .xii. wels of water, xxiii.b. and .lxx. palme trees, and thei abode there by the waters. And they toke their iorney from Elim: and al the whole company of the children of Israel came to the wildernesse of Sin (which is betwene Elim and Sinay) the .xv. day of the secod moneth after their departing out of the land of Egipt. And the whole multitude Nu.xi.a. of the children of Israell * murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wildernesse: and the children of Israel sayd unto the: Would to god we had dyed by the hande of the Lord, in the lande of Egipt, when we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eate bread our bellyes full: For ye haue brought us out into this wildernes to kil this whole multitude with hunger.
B Then sayd the Lord unto Moses: Be-holde, I will rayne * bread from heauen to you, and the people shal go out and gather day by day, that I may proue them, whether they wil walke in my law or no.
The sixth day they shall prepare for theselues that which they will bring in, and Sapi.xvi let it be twice asmuche as they gather in
b. Psal. daily. And Moses and Aaron sayd unto lxxviii. all the children of Israell: at euen ye shal Joh.vi.d. know that it is the lorde, which broughte you out of the lande of Egipt: and in the morning ye shal see the glory of the lord, bicause he hath heard your grudginges against the lorde. And what are we that ye haue murmured against us? And Mo-Nu.xi.d. ses sayd: At euen shall the Lorde * geue C you fleshe to eate, & in the morning bread ynoughe: for the Lord hath heard youre murmuriges, which ye murmure against him: for what are we? your murmurings are not agaynst us, but against the lord.
And Moses spake unto Aaron: Say unto all the company of the children of Israell: Come forth before the Lord, for he hath heard your grudgings. And as Aaron spake unto the whole multitude of the children of Israell, they loked toward the wildernesse: and beholde, the glory of the Lord appeared in the cloude. And the Lord spake unto Moses, sayeng: I haue heard the murmuring of the children of Israel, tell them therfore and say: at euen ye shal eate fleshe, and in the morning ye shalbe fylled with bread, and ye shal knowe that I am the lord your God. And at Nu.xi.f. euen the * quailes came and couered the D ground where they lay. And in the morning, the dew lay round about the hoste.
And when the dewe was fallen, beholde, it lay upon the ground in the wildernes, smal and round and thinne, as the hore frost on the ground. And when the children of Israel saw it, they sayd euery one to his neighbour: It is Manna. For thei wiste not what it was. And Moses sayd unto them: this is the bread which ÿ lorde hath geuen you to eate. This is the word which the lorde hath commaunded: gather of it euery man for himselfe to eate a gomer full for a man, according to the number of you, and take euery man for them which are in his tent. And the children of Israell did euen so, and gathered some more, some lesse, and when they did meate it with a gomer, * unto hym that had gathered much, remained nothynge ii. Co.viii ouer, and unto hym that had gathered litle, was there no lacke: euery man gathered sufficient for his eating. And Moses sayd unto them: Se that no man lett E ought remain of it til the morning. Notwithstanding they harkened not unto Moses: but some of them left of it untyll the morning and it waxed ful of wormes and stancke: and Moses was angry with the. And they gathered it all morninges, euery man for his eating. And assone as the heat of the sunne came, it moult. And the sixt day they gathered twice so muche bread, two gomers for one man: and all the rulers of the multitude came & tolde Moses. He sayd unto them: thys is that which the lord hath sayd: To morowe is the rest of the holy Sabboth unto ÿ lord, bake that which ye will bake, and sethe that ye will seth, and that which remaineth, lay up till the mornyng. And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bad, and it stanke not, nether bred there any worme therein. And Moses sayed: ÿ F eate this day, for it is the Sabboth unto the Lord: to day ye shall not finde it in ÿ field. Sixe dayes shall ye gather it, and in the seueth day, which is the Sabboth, there shalbee none. Notwithstanding, there wente oute some of the people in the seuenth daye for to gather, and thei founde none. And the Lorde sayed unto Moses: how long refuse ye to kepe my commaundementes, and my lawes? Se, the Lorde hath geuen you a Sabboth, therfore he geueth you sixt day bread for two dayes. Bide therfore eueri man at home, and let no man go oute of his place the seuenth daye. And the people rested the seuenth daye. And the house of Israell

G rael called it Mãna.*And it was like vn Nu.xi.b. to Coriãdre sede,and the taste of it was like vnto wafers made with hony. And Moses sayd:this is that which the Lord commaundeth,fyll a gomer of it, whiche may be kept for your children after you: that they may see the bread wherwith I haue fedde you in wyldernesse, when I brought you out of the lande of Egipte.
And Moses spake vnto Aaron: take a He.ix.b. cruse and put a *gomer full of Manna therin and,lay it vp before the lorde to be kept for your children after you. As the Lorde commaunded Moyses, so Aaron layd it vp before the testimony to be kept. ii Esdra. *And the children of Israell dyd eate ix.d. Manna forty yere, vntill they came vnto Jud.v.b. a lande inhabited. And so they dyd eate Josu.v.d Manna,euen vntyll they came vnto the borders of the land of Canaan. A gomer is the tenth part of an Epha.

The.xvii.Chapter.

The Israelites come into Raphidim. They grudge. water is geuen them out of the rocke. Moses holdeth vp his handes,and they ouercome the Amalechites.

A AND al the company of the childrẽ of Israell thorowout all their armies, went frõ the wildernesse of Sin,after the cõmaundemẽt of ỹ lord, & pitched Nume. in *Raphidim:wher was no water for ỹ xxxiii. people to drinke.And ỹ people chode with Moses,& said:Geue vs water to drinke.
Moses said vnto thẽ:why chide ye wyth me?wherfore do ye tempt ỹ lord? There ỹ people thirsted for water, & ỹ people mur-Nu.xx.a. mured against Moses,and said:*Wher-B fore hast thou thus brought vs out of Egipt,to kil vs and our children and catell with thrist? And Moses cryed vnto the Lorde,saying:what shall I do vnto thys people?they be almost ready to stone me.
And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses:Go before ỹ people, and take with ỹ of ỹ elders of Israell, and thy rodde wherwith thou smotest the ryuer,take in thyne hande,& goe:Beholde,I stand before thee beside i.Corin. a rocke that is in Horeb: and thou shalt x.a. smite the rock,and ther shall come water Deute. out therof,that the people maye drynk. ix.b. And Moses did euen so before the eyes Psal. of the elders of Israell.And he called ỹ lxxviii. name of the place*Massa,and*Meriba Nu.xx.b. because of the chiding of the children of C Israel, and because they tempted the lord Tempta saying:is the lorde among vs or not?Thẽ tion. came Amalech and foughte with Israell Strife. in Raphidim.And Moses said vnto Josua:chose vs out men,and go fyght wyth Amalech, and to morowe I will stande on the toppe of the hil,and the rod of God shalbe in my hand. Josua did as Moses bad hym,and fought wyth Amalech.And Moses, and Aaron,and Hur,went vp to D the toppe of the hyll. And it happened, ỹ when*Moses helde vp his hand,Israell Jud. had the better.And when he let his hand iiii.c. down, Amalech had the better. But Mo- Deu. ses handes were heuy,and therfore they xxv. toke a stone and put it vnder him,and he sat downe thereon.And Aaron and Hur stayed vp hys handes,the one on the one syde,and the other on the other syde.And hys handes remayned steadye vntyll the goyng downe of the sun.And Josua discomfited Amalech and his people, wyth the edge of the sweard.And the lord sayd E vnto Moses: wryte thys for a remembraunce in a boke,and committe it vnto the eares of Josua, for *I wyll vtterly put out the remembraunce of Amalech Num. from vnder heauen. And Moses made xxiiii. an aulter and called the name of it: The i.King.
Lorde is he that worketh miracles for xv.a. me.For he saide:thy hand is on the seate of God,the Lord wyll haue warre wyth Amalech from generation to generatiõ.

The.xviii.Chapter.

Jethros counsell is receiued of Moses.

JEthro the priest of Madiam Moses A father in law heard of all that God had done for Moses and for Israell his people,and that ỹ Lord had brought Israell out of Egipt.*Therfore he toke Ex.ii.d.
Ziphora Moses wife. (After he had sente and.iiii. her backe)and her two sonnes, of which the one was called*Gerson, for he sayd: Exo.ii.
I haue bene an alient in a strange land.
The name of the other was Eliesar: for the God of my father(sayd he)was mine helpe,and delivered me from the sweard of Pharao. And Jethro Moses father in law came with his two sonnes, and hys wyfe vnto Moses into the wildernesse: where he abode by the mounte of God.
And he sayd vnto Moses: I thy father in law Jethro am come to thee, and thy wife also and her two sonnes with her.
And Moses went out to mete his father in lawe and did obeysaunce and kissed him, and eche asked other of his health. and they came into the tent.And Moses tolde his father in law all that the Lorde had done vnto Pharao and to the Egip- B tians for Israels sake, and all the tra-uayle that had happened them by the way,

way, and how the Lord deliuered them.
And Iethro reioysed ouer all the goodnesse which the Lord had done to Israel, and bicause he had deliuered them out of the hande of the Egiptians. And Iethro said: blessed be the lord which hath deli-uered you out of the handes of the Egiptians, and out of the hande of Pharao, whiche hath also deliuered his people frõ the captiuitie of the Egiptians. Nowe I know that the lorde is greater than all gods, for in the thing wherby they dealt cruelly with them, are they themselues perished. And Iethro Moses father in lawe, offred burnt offringes and sacrifices vnto God. And Aaron and all the elders of Israell came to eate bread wyth Moses father in lawe before God.
C And it chaũced on the morow, that Moses sate to iudge the people, & the people stode about Moses from mornyng vnto euen. And whẽ Moses father in law saw al that he did vnto the people, he sayde: What is this that thou doest vnto y people? Why sittest thou thy self alone, and al the people stand about the from morning vnto euen? And Moses sayd vnto his father in law: Bicause the people come vnto me to seeke counsell of God. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, and I iudge betwene euerye manne and hys neyghbour, and shew them the ordinaunces of God, and his lawes.

And Moses father in lawe sayde vnto hym: it is not well that thou doest. Thou both weriest thy self, and this people that is with thee: for this thyng is of more Deu.i.b. weyghte, than* thou arte hable to per-forme thy self alone. Heare now therfore my voyce, and I wil geue thee y counsel, & God shalbe with the. Be thou vnto the people to godward, that thou maist bring the causes vnto God: and thou shalt teach D them ordinances, and lawes, and shewe them the way wherin they must walke, and the worke that they must doe. More-ouer, thou shalt seke out among all the people, men of actiuitie, and such as feare God: true menne, hating couetousnesse: and make them heades ouer the people, captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundreds, ouer fiftie, & ouer. x. And let them iudge the people at al seasons. And euery Deu.i.c. *great matter that hapneth, let thẽ bring vnto thee: but lette them iudge all smal causes themselues, and so shal it be easier for thy selfe, and they shall beare with thee. If thou shalt doe thys thyng, (and God charge thee withal) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet y people shall come to theyr place in peace. And so Moses obeyed the voyce of his father in law and did al that he had sayd, & chose actiue men out of al Israell, and made them as heads ouer the people: namely captaines ouer thousãdes, ouer hũdreds, ouer fiftie and ouer. x. And they iudged y people at al seasons, but brought y hard causes vnto Moses: & iudged al smal maters themselues. And Moses let his father in lawe depart, and he went into his owne lande.

The. xix. Chapter.

The children of Israell come to the mount Sinay. The people of God are holye, and a royal prsthode he that toucheth the hil dyeth. God appeareth vnto Moses vp-on the mounte in thunder and lightning.

IN the thyrde moneth, when the chil- A dren of Israell were gone out of the land of Egipt, the same day came thei into the wildernes of Sinay. * For they Nume. were departed from Raphidim, and were xxxiii.c. come to y desert of Sinay, & had pitched theyr tentes in y wildernesse. And there Israel abode before the mounte. * But Exodus.
Moses went vp vnto God: and the lorde xxiiii.a. called to him out of the mountayn, saing: Thus shalt thou saye vnto the house of Iacob, and tell the children of Israel: ye haue sene what I did vnto the Egiptiãs, & toke you vp vpon Eagles wynges, and haue brought you vnto my selfe. Nowe therfore* if ye wil heare my voice in dede De.vii.b and kepe myne appointment, ye shall be myne owne, aboue al nations, for all the earth is myne. Ye shalbe vnto me also a kyngdome of* priestes, & an holy people: i.Pet.ii.b & these are the wordes which thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israell. Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and layde before their faces all these wordes which the lord cõmaunded him.
And the people aunswered altogether, & sayd: * All that the lord, hath said, we will Ex.xxiiii.
doe. And Moses brought the wordes of a. the people vnto the lorde. And the Lord Deut.v.d sayde vnto Moses: Lo, I come vnto thee and.xxvi. in a thicke cloude, y the people may heare d. me talking with thee, & beleue thee for e-uer. Moses shewed the wordes of y peo- B ple vnto the lord. And the lord sayd vnto Moses: Go vnto the people, and sanctifye them to day and to morow, & let them washe their clothes, and be ready against the third day. For the third day the Lorde wil come down in the sight of al the people, vpon mount Sinay. And thou shalte set set markes round about the people, and say:beware, that ye go not vp into the mount,or touche the border of it. Whoso-Hebr.xii.c. euer toucheth the *mounte, shall surely dye. Ther shall not an hande touche it: Els he shalbe stoned or shot thorow,whe ther it be beast or man, it shall not lyue. when the trumpe bloweth long, thē may they come vp into the mountayne.

C And Moses wēt down from the mount vnto the people,and sanctified them,and they washed theyr clothes.And he sayde vnto the people:Bee readye against the thyrd daye, and come not at your wiues.
And the thyrd daye in the morning there was thunder,and lightning,and a thicke cloude vpon the mount,and the voyce of the trumpe exceading loude,so that al the people that was in the host was a fraide.
And Moses brought the people out of ẏ tētes to mete with God, and they* stode Deute. iiii.b. vnder the hill.And mounte Sinay was al together on a smoke,because the Lord descended downe vpon it in fyre.And the smoke therof ascended vp,as the smoke of a kele,and al the moūt was exceadyng feareful,And when the voyce of ẏ trūpe blew and waxed louder and louder:Moses spake, and God answered hym by a voyce.And the Lorde came downe vpon D mount Sinay,euen in the top of the hill.
And when the lord called Moses vp into the top of the hill.Moses went vp. And ẏ lord said vnto Moses:go down, charge the people,that they preace not vp to see the lord,and so many of them perish.And let the priestes also which come to ẏ lord, sanctifye them selues,lest the lord destroy them.And Moses sayde vnto the Lord. the people cānot come vp into the mount Sinay,for thou chargedst vs, saying: set markes about the hill & sanctifye it. And the Lord sayde vnto him:away and gett the downe:and thou shalt come vp,thou & Aaron with thee.But let not the priestes & the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lorde,lest he destroye them. And so Moses went down vnto the people,& tolde them.

The.xxi.Chapter.

¶ Temporall and ciuile ordinances.

A These are the lawes whiche thou shalt set before them. If thou bye a seruante that is an Hebrue. vi. yeres he shal serue, and in the seuenth he shall go out free, paying nothing. If he came alone, he shall goe out alone. And if he came maried, his wife shal go out with him. And if his master haue geuen him a wife, and she haue borne hym sonnes or daughters: then the wife and her childrē shalbe her masters, and he shal goe out alone. And if the seruant say: I loue my master, my wife and my children, I wyll not goe out free. His master shall bryng him to the iudges, and set him to the dore or to the dore post, and his master shall bore his eare through with a nawle, and he shalbe his seruant for euer. And if a B man sell his daughter to be a seruant, she shall not go out as the menseruantes doe. If she also please not her master, and he geueth her to no man to wife, thē shall he let her goe free: to sel her vnto a strāge nation shall he haue no power, seyng he despised her. If he haue promised her vn to his sonne to wyfe, he shall deale wyth her, as men doe with their daughters.
And if he take him another wife, yet her fode, her rayment, and duety of mariage shall he not minish. And if he do not these thre vnto her, then shall she goe out free, Le.xxiiii.c. and pay no money. * He that smyteth a man that he dye, shalbe slaine for it. If a Numer. xxxv.b. man lay not a waite, but god deliuer him Deu.v.c. into his hande, then I will pointe thee a place whether he shall fle. If a man come presumptuously vpon his neighboure to sley him with gile, thou shalt take him fro mine * altare that he dye. He that smiteth iii.re.i.g. his father or his mother, let him be slain Deute. xxiiii.b. for it. * He that stealeth a man and selleth Leui.xx. him (if it be proued vpō him) shalbe slain
b. for it. * And he that curseth his father or Pro.xx.c mother, shalbe put to death for it. If men striue together, and one smite another Mat.xv a. with a stone, or with his fist, and he dye Marke. vii.b. not, but lyeth in bed if he rise againe and walke without vpon his staffe, then shall he that smote him go quite: saue onely he shall beare his charges for lesig his time, and shall pay for his healyng. And if a man smite his seruant or his maide with a rod, and they dye vnder his hande, it shalbe auenged in dede. And if they continue a day or two, it shal not be auenged for they are his money.

If men striue and hurt a woman with C childe, so that her fruite depart from her, and yet no missfortune follow: then shall he be mearsed according as the womans husbande will laye to his charge, and he shall pay as the dayes men appoint him. Leuiti. xxiiii.c.
* And if any missfortune folow, then shal he pay life for life, * eye for eye, tothe for Deu.xix. d. tothe, hande for hande, fote for fote, burning for burning, wounde for wounde, Math.v. f. stripe for stripe. And if a man smite hys seruant or his maide in the eye that it perishe, he shall let them goe free for the eyes sake. Also if he smite out his seruant or his maides tothe, he shall let them goe out free for the tothes sake. If an oxe gore a man or a woman, that they dye, then the * oxe shalbe stoned, and his flesh Ge.ix. a. shall not be eaten, but the owner of the oxe shal goe quite.

If the oxe were wont to push in tymes past, and it hath been tolde his master, D and he hath not kept him, but that he hath killed a man or a woman, then the oxe shalbe stoned, and his owner shal dye also. If there be set to him a summe of money, then he shall geue for the deliue-rance of his life, whatsoeuer is put vnto hym. And whether he hath gored a sonne or hurt a daughter, he shalbe serued after the same maner. But if it be a seruant or a maide that the oxe hath gored, then he shall geue vnto their master. xxx. sicles of siluer, and the oxe shalbe stoned. If a mā open a well, or digge a pit & couer it not, and an oxe or an asse fall therin, the owner of the pit shal make it good, and geue money vnto their master, and the dead beast shalbe hys. If one mānes oxe hurte another that he dye, then they shal sel the liue oxe, and deuide the money, and the dead oxe also they shall deuide. Or if it be knowen that the oxe hath vsed to push in tymes past, and hys master hath not kept hym, he shal pay oxe for oxe, and the dead shalbe his owne.

The.xxii.Chapter.

Such lyke lawes as are in the chapter aboue.

A Prou.i.d ii. King. xii.b. If a mā*steale an oxe or shepe, and kil it or sel it, he shal restore fiue oxen for an oxe, *& foure shepe for a shepe If a thefe be founde breakyng vp, and be smytten that he dye, there shal no bloude be shed for hym: but if the sunn be vp whē he is founde, then there shalbe bloudshed house, if the thefe be founde, let hym pay double. And if the thefe be not foūd, then the good man of the house shalbe brought vnto the iudges. (And shal sweare) whether he haue put hys hande vnto his neygh-bours good. And in all maner of trespace whether it be for oxē, asse, shepe, raymēt, or any maner of lost thyng, which another chalēgeth to be hys, the cause of both parties shall come before the iudges. And whom the iudges condemne, let him pay double vnto hys neyghbour.

If a man deliuer vnto hys neyghbour to kepe, asse, oxe, shepe, or whatsoeuer beaste it be, and it dye or be hurt, or taken away (and no man se it:) then shal an oth of the lord be betwene them, that he hath not put hys hande vnto hys neyghbours good, and the owner of it shall take the othe, and the other shal not make it good.
C And if it be stollen from hym, then he shal make restitution vnto the owner therof.
If it be torne with wild beastes, then let

By litle and lyttle I wyll dryue them out before thee, vntill thou be encreased, and enherite the land. And I wil make thy coastes from ỹ red sea, vnto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert vnto the ryuer. For I wil delyuer the inhabiters of the lande into thyne hande, and thou shalt dryue them out before thee. *Thou shalt make none appointment wt thẽ, nor with their gods. Neyther let them dwell in thy lande, lest they make thee syn against me: for if thou serue their Gods, it will be thy decaye.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

Moses ascendeth vp to the mounte and writeth the wordes of the Lord. The bloud of the couenant. The elders of Israell iudge the people.

And he sayd vnto Moses: come vp A vnto the Lord: thou & Aarõ, Nadab and Abihu, and ỹ. lxx. elders of Israell, and ye shall worship a farr of. And Moses himselfe alone shall goe vnto the Lord, but they shal not come nye, neither shal the people go vp with him. And Moses came, and tolde the people *all the wordes of ỹ Lord, and all the lawes. And al the people answered with one voyce, and sayd: all the wordes which the Lord hath sayd, wyll we do. And Moses wrote all the wordes of the Lord, and rose vp earely, and set vp an *altare vnder ỹ hyll and. xii. stones according to the. xii. tribes B of Israel, and sent yong men of the children of Israel, which brought burnt offerynges, & offered peace offrynges of oxẽ, vnto ỹ lord. The .xxvi. Chapter.

¶ This chapter also describeth the thinges pertaining to the holy place.

A THe tabernacle shalt thou make with
x. curtaynes of white twined sylke, yelowe sylke, purple and skarlet. And in them thou shalt make pictures of broi-dred worke. The length of one curtayne shalbe eyght and twenty cubites, and the bredth of one curtaine foure cubites, and euery one of the curtaynes shall haue one measure. Fiue curtaynes shalbe coupled together one to another: & fiue curtaines shalbe coupled together one to another.
B And thou shalt make loupes of yelowe sylke a long by ÿ edge of the one curtain, which is in the seluedge of the couplyng curtaine. And likewise shalt thou make in the edge of the vtmost curtaine that is coupled therewith on ÿ other side. Fiftie lowpes shalt ÿ make in the one curtaine, and fiftie lowpes shalt thou make in the edge of the curtaine that is to be coupled therewith on the other syde: ÿ the lowpes may take hold one of another. And thou shalt make fiftie buttons of golde: and couple the curtaynes together with the buttons, and it shalbe one habitation. * (Exodus. xxxvi. b.) And thou shalt make eleuen curtaines of goates heere, to be a coueryng vpon the Tabernacle. The length of a curtayne shalbe thirtie cubites, and ÿ bredth foure, C and they shalbe al eleuẽ of one measure.
And thou shalt couple fiue curtaynes by themselues, and the sixe by themselues, and shalt double the sixt in the fore front of the tabernacle. And thou shalte make fiftie lowpes in the edge of the vtmost curtayne on the one syde, euẽ in the edge of the couplyng curtayne: and fiftie low-pes in the edge of the other curtaine that must be ioyned vnto it. And thou shalte make fiftie buttons of brasse, and put thẽ on the lowpes: and couple the coueryng together that it may be one.
And the remnante that resteth in the curtaines of the couering, euen the halfe curtayne ÿ resteth, shalbe left on ÿ backe sydes of the habitation: ÿ a cubite on the one side, & a cubite on ÿ other side may re-mayne in ÿ length of ÿ curtaines of ÿ couering, and ÿ it may remaine of eyther syde of the habitation to couer it withall.
And vpõ the tabernacle thou shalt make a couering of rammes skinnes died red: & yet a couering aboue al, of taxus skines.
And thou shalt make bordes for the ha- D bitation, of Sethim wood, to stande vp-right: ten cubites long shall euery borde be, and a cubite and an halfe brode. Two fete shal there be in one borde: and they shalbe seperate one from another. And thus shalt thou make for al the bordes of the tabernacle. *And ÿ shalte make .xx. (Exodus. xxxvi. c.) bordes of the habitation on the Southe syde. And thou shalt make .xl. sockets of syluer, vnder the .xx. bordes: two sockets vnder one borde, for hys two fete, & two sockets vnder another borde for hys two fete. In like maner in ÿ North side of the habitation there shalbe .xx. bordes and .xl sockets of siluer: two sockets vnder one bord, & two sockets vnder another bord.
And in ÿ west end of the habitation, shalt thou make sixe bordes, and two bordes shalt thou make in the corners of the habitation in y metyng together of the two sydes. And they shalbe coupled together beneth, & likewise aboue, to a ring. And thus shal it be for y two borders y are in the corners. And they shalbe eight bordes hauing sockets of siluer, euē. xvi. sockets: that there may be two sockets vnder one borde, and two sockets vnder another borde. And thou shalt make barres of se-F thim wood, v. for the bordes of y Tabernacle in one syde, and. v. barres for the bordes of the Tabernacle in y other side, and. v. barres for the bordes of the tabernacle in the west end. And the midle barr shal go along through the middes of the bordes from the one end vnto the other. And thou shalte couer the bordes with gold, & make their ringes of golde, to put the barres through, and thou shalt couer the barres with gold also. And thou shalt rere vp the habitation according to the fashyon therof, as it was shewed thee in the mount. And thou shalt make a vayle of yelow sylke, of purple, skarlet, & whyte twyned silke. Of broidred work with pictures shalt thou make it. And hang it vpon foure pillers of Sethim wood, couered wyth golde. Whose heades shalbe of gold, stādyng vpō foure sockets of syluer. And thou shalt hang vp the vayle wyth ringes, y thou mayst bring in (within the G vayle) y Arke of witnesse. And the vayle shal vnto you deuide y holy from y moste holy. And thou shalt put the mercy seate vpon the Arke of witnesse in the holyest place. And thou shalt put y table without the vayle: and y cādlesticke ouer agaynst the table on y Southside of y habitation. And put the table on the North side. And thou shalt make an hanging for the dore of y Tabernacle, of yelow silke, purple, skarlet, and white twined sylke wrought wyth nedle worke. And thou shalt make for the hangyng, fyue pyllers of Sethim wood, and couer them wyth golde, and their knoppes shalbe of golde, and thou shalt cast fyue sockets of brasse for them.

Exodus. xxxviii. a. Ezechiel. xliii. b.

AND thou shalt make an *altare of Sethim wood, fiue cubites lōg, and fyue cubites broade. For it shalbe foure square, and three cubytes hye. And thou shalt make it hornes in y foure corners of it, the hornes shalbe of it self, and thou shalt couer it with brasse. And make hys ashepannes, shouels, basens, fleshhokes, fyrepannes, and al the apparell therof for thesame of brasse. And thou shalt make vnto it a gredyerne also (like a net) of brasse. And vpon that net shalt thou make foure brasen ringes in the foure corners therof: and thou shalt putt it vnder the compasse of the altare beneth that the net may be in the middes of the altare. And thou shalt make (two) barres for the altare of Sethim wood, and couer them with brasse, and let them be put in rynges along by the sydes of the altare, to beare it withall. And make the altare hollow with bordes: euen as it was shewed thee in y mount, so shal they make it.
And thou shalt make the court of the habitation, that there may be in the South B syde hanginges of white twyned sylke, of an hundred cubites long for one side, and xx. pillers therof, with their. xx. sockets of brasse: but the knoppes of the pillers and their whopes shalbe siluer. In likewyse on the North syde there shalbe hāginges of an hundred cubites long, and. xx. pyllers with their. xx. sockets of brasse, and the knoppes and the whopes of syluer. And the breadth of the courte which is Eastward, shall haue fiftie cubites. Hanginges of fiftene cubites in the one syde, and their three pillers with their three sockets: and likewise on the other syde shalbe hanginges of fiftene cubites, with their three pillers and sockets.

And in the gate of the court shall be a C vayle of. xx. cubites of yelow sylke, purple and skarlet, and whyte twyned sylke wrought with nedle worke: and foure pyllers with theyr foure sockets. All the pyllers rounde about the courte shalbe whoped wyth syluer, and their knoppes shalbe of siluer, & their sockets of brasse. The lengthe of the court shalbe an hundred cubites, and the breadth fyftye, and the heygth fyue. And the hāginges shalbe of whyte twyned sylke, and theyr sockets of brasse. All the vessels of the habitation in al maner of seruice and the pynnes therof: yea, and al the pynnes also of the courte, shalbe of brasse. * And D the Lorde: and it shalbe a statute for euer unto the generations of the children of Israell.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

A And take thou unto thee Aaron thy brother, and hys sonnes with hym, from among the children of Israell, that they may minister unto me: Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar, Aarons sones. And thou shalt make holy raiment for Aaron thy brother, that they may be unto glory and beauty. And thou shalt speake unto all that are wyse hearted, and whomsoeuer I haue fylled with the spirite of wisedome, that they make Aarons rayment to consecrate him with, that he maye minister unto me. These are the garmentes which they shal make, a brestlap, Ephod, a tunicle, a strait coate, a mitre, and a girdle. These holy garmentes shal they make for Aaron thy brother, and hys sonnes, that they maye minister unto me. And lett them take golde, yelowe silke, purple, skarlet, and B white twined silke. They shall make the Ephod of golde, yelow silke, purple, skarlet, and white twined silke, with broidred worke. The two sides shal come together and be closed up in the two edges therof. And the girdle of the Ephod shalbe of the same workemanship, & of the same stuffe, euen of gold, yelow sylke, purple, skarlet, and white twined silke. And thou shalte take two Onix stones, and graue in them the names of the children of Israell: sixe names of them in the one stone, and the other sixe in the other stone: according to (the order of) their birth. After the worke of a stone grauer, & of him that graueth signets, shalt thou graue the two stones with the names of the children of Israel, and shalt make them to be set in golde. And thou shalt put the two stones upon the two shoulders of the Ephod, that they may be stones of remembrance unto the C children of Israell. And Aarō shal beare their names before the Lorde upon hys two shoulders, for a remembrance. And thou shalt make hokes of golde, and two cheynes of fine gold, linkworke and wrethed, and fasten the wrethed cheines to the hookes. And thou shalt make the brestlap of iudgement wt broidred work, euen after the worke of the Ephod shalte thou make it: namely of gold, yelow silke, purple, skarlet, and white twined silke, shalt thou make it. Foure square it shalbe and double, an handbread longe, and an handbread broad. And thou shalt fill it with foure rowes of stone. In the firste rowe shalbe a Sardios, a Topas and Smaragdus: in the seconde rowe, a Ruby, Saphir, and Diamonde: in the thirde Ligurios, an Achat, and Amatist: in the fourth, a Turcas, Onix, & Jaspis. And they shal be set in gold in their inclosers. And the stones shalbe grauen as signets be grauen with ẏ names of the children of Israel, euē with. xii. names, euery one with his name according to ẏ. xii. tribes. And thou shalt make upon the brestlap, two fastening cheines of pure golde, and wrethen worke. And thou shalt make D likewise upon the brestlap two rynges of golde: and put them on the edges of the brestlap, and put the two wrethē cheines of golde in the two ringes whiche are in the edges of the brestlap. And the other two endes of the two cheines, thou shalt fasten in two close hookes, and put them upon the shoulders of the Ephod on the foresyde of it. And thou shalt yet make two rynges of golde, which thou mayest put in the two edges of the brestlap, euen in the borders therof, toward the insyde of the Ephod ouer against it. And yet two other ringes of gold thou shalt make, and E put them on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth ouer agaynst the brestlap, a lowe where the sydes are ioyned together upō the broidred girdle of ẏ Ephod. And they shal bynde the brestlap by his ringes, unto the ringes of the Ephod, with a lace of yelowe silke, that it may lye close aboue the broidred girdle of ẏ Ephod, and that the brestlap be not losed from the Ephod. And Aaron shal beare the names of the children of Israel in the brestlap of iudgment upon hys heart when he goeth into the holy place, for a remembrance before the Lord alway. And thou shalt put in the brestlap of iudgement, Urim & Thummin: and they shalbe euen upon Aarons hart, when he goeth in before the Lorde: and Aaron shall beare the iudgemente of the children of Israel upon hys heart before the lord alway. And thou shalt make the tunicle unto the Ephod altogether of F yelow silke. And there shalbe an hole for the head in the middes of it, hauing a bonde of wouen worke round about the color of it (as it were the coller of a partlet) that it rent not. And beneth upon the hem, thou shalte make pomegranates of yelow silke, and of purple, and skarlet round about the hem, and belles of golde betwene them round about: and let there be euer a golden bel and a pomgranate, Ex.xlv. b a golden bell and a pomegranate, round about vpon the hem of the tunicle. *And Aaron shall haue it vpon him, when he ministreth, and the sounde shalbe heard, when he goeth into the holy place before the Lord, and when he commeth out, and he shall not dye. And thou shalt make a plate of pure golde, and graue thereon, as signets are grauen: The holinesse of the Lord: and put it on a yelow silke lace to be vpon the mitre, euen vpon the fore front of it. And it shalbe vpō Aarōs forehead, that Aaron may beare the signe of the holy things which the children of Israell halow in their holy giftes. And it shalbe alwayes vpon hys forehead, for the reconciling of them before the Lorde.

G And thou shalt make a linnen coate, and thou shalt make a mitre of linnen, and a girdle of nedle worke. And ꝧ shalt make for Aarons sonnes also coates, girdels and bonets, glorious and beautifull, and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother, and on his sonnes with him: & shalte annoint them, and fill their handes, and sāctify them, that they may minister vnto me. And thou shalt make them linnen breches to couer their preuities, from the loynes vnto the thies shall they reache. And they shalbe vpon Aaron & his sōnes Ex. xxvii b. when they come into ꝧ *Tabernacle of witnesse, or whē they come vnto ꝧ altare to minister in holinesse, ꝧ they beare no sinne, and so dye. And it shalbe a law for euer vnto Aaron and his sede after hym.

The. xxix. Chapter.

A ¶ The consecration of Aaron and his sonnes.

This thing also shalt thou doe vnto them, when thou* halowest them
Le.viii.b to be my Priestes. Thou shalt take a calfe, euen a yong oxe, & two rammes that are without blemish, and vnleuened bread, and cakes of swete bread tempered with oile, and wafers of swete bread anointed with oile (of wheten floure shalt thou make them) & put them in a maund, and bryng them in the maunde with the calfe and the two rammes. And bring Aaron and his sonnes vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and washe them with water, and take the garmentes, and put vpon Aaron: ꝧ straite coate, the tunycle of the Ephod, and the Ephod, and the brestlap: and girde them to him with the broydred girdle, which is in the Ephod. And put the mitre vpō his head: and put the holy crowon vpon ꝧ mitre. Then shalt thou take the annointing oile, and powre it vpon his head, and annoint hym. And bring his sōnes, & put albes vpon them, and girde them with girdels, aswell Aaron as his sonnes. And put the miters on them, and the Priestes office shalbe theirs for a perpetuall lawe. And thou shalt fill the handes of Aaron and of hys sonnes: and bring the calfe before the tabernacle of witnesse. * And Aaron and his sonnes shal put their hands vpon the hed of the calfe, and thou shalt kyll hym before the Lord, by the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And take of the bloud of the calfe and put it vpon the hornes of the aultare with thy finger: and powre al the bloud beside the bottome of the aultare, and take all the fat that couered the inwardes, & the kaull that is on the liuer and the two kidneyes and the fat that is vpon them: and burne them vpon the altare. But the fleshe of the calfe and hys skin, and his dong shalt thou burne with fier without the host. It is a sin offryng.
C Thou shalt also take one ram, and Aarō and his sonnes shal put their handes vpon the head of the ram, and when ꝧ haste slayne the ram, thou shalt take his bloud and sprinkle it rounde about vpon the aultare, and cut the ram in peces, and washe the inwardes of hym and hys legges, and put them vnto ꝧ peces and vnto hys head: and then burne the whole ram vpō the aultare for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, and for a swete sauoure and a sacrifice vnto the Lord. *And take the other ram, and Aaron and hys sōnes shall put their handes vpon hys head. Then shalt thou kil hym, and take of his blood, and put it vpon the typpe of the right eare of Aaron and of his sonnes and vpon the thombe of their right handes, and vpon the great too of their right D fote, and sprynkle the bloud vpon the altare rounde about. And thou shalt take of the bloude that is vpon the aultare, and of the annointing oyle, and sprynkell it vpon Aaron and his vestimentes, and vpon hys sōnes & vpon their garmentes with him. And he shalbe halowed, and his clothes, and his sonnes, and their clothes with him. *And thou shalt take the fat of the ram and his rompe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and the kaul of the liuer, and the two kidneies, and the fat that is vpon them, and the ryghte shoulshoulder (for the ramme is a ful offring) and a simnel of breade, and a cake of oy-led bread, and a wafer out of ye basket of swete bread that is before the Lorde, & put al upon the handes of Aaron, and on the hands of his sonnes: and waue them for a waue offeryng before the Lorde.

And againe, thou shalt take it from of their handes, and burne it upon the altare for a burnte offering, to be a sauour of swetnesse before the Lorde: For it is a Le. viii. f sacrifice unto the Lord. *And thou shalt E take the brest of the ram of Aarons consecratiõ, and waue it for a waue offering before ye lord, and it shalbe thy part. And thou shalt sanctifye the brest of the waue offering, & the shoulder of the heueoffe-ring, which is waued and heued up of the ramme of the cõsecration for Aaron and for his sõnes. And it shalbe Aarons and his sonnes by a statute for euer, of ye children of Israell: for it is an heue offering: Euen an heue offeryng of the children of Israell, & of their peace offeryng. Their heue offeryng is the Lordes. And the holye garmentes of Aaron shallbe his sonnes after hym, to be anointed therin, and to fill their handes therin. And that sonne that is priest in his stede after hym, shall putt them on. vii. dayes, when he cometh into ye tabernacle of witnesse, to mynister in the holye place. *And thou Le. viii. g shalt take the ram of the cõsecration, and F sethe his flesh in an holy place. And Aarõ and his sonnes shall eate the fleshe of the ram, & the bread that is in ye basket, euen by ye dore of the tabernacle of witnesse: and they shal eate them, bicause ye atone-mente was made therwyth, to fylle theyr handes, and to consecrate them: but a straunger shall not eate therof, bicause they are holy, And if ought of the flesh of the consecration, or of the bread, remayne unto ye morning, thou shalt burne it with fire, & it shal not be eaten, bicause it is holy. Therfore shalt thou do unto Aaron & his sõnes, euen so, according to al thinges whiche I haue commaunded thee: seuen dayes shalt thou fill their handes, and offer euery day a calfe for a sinne offering, for to reconcyle wythall, that thou maiest cleanse the altare when thou reconcilest upon it: and thou shalt anoynt it, to sanc-tify it. Seuen dayes thou shalt reconcile upon the altare, and sanctify it, & it shall be as an altare most holy. Euery one that Nume. toucheth the altar, let him be holy. *This xviii. a. is that which thou shalt offer upon the altare: euen. ii. lambes of one yere olde, day G by day continually: the one thou shalt offer in the morning, and the other at euen.
And with the one lambe a tenth deale of floure, mingled with the fourth parte of an hin of beaten oyle, and the fourth part of an hin of wine, for a drinke offering.
And ye other lãbe thou shalt offer at euen, and shalt do thereto according to ye meate offring & drinke offring in the morning, to be an odour of a swete sauour and a sacrifice unto the lord. And let this be a cõ-tinuall burnt offering among your children after you before the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes, before the lord, wher Leu. i. a.
I wil meete you, to speake there unto Nu. xii. a thee. There I wil mete with the children of Israell, and will be sanctifyed in myne honor. And I wil sanctifye the Tabernacle of witnesse and the altare. And I wil sanctifye also both Aaron and his sonnes Leui. to be my priestes. And I will dwelle a- x. vi. b.

out of the lande of Egipt, for to dwelle among them: euen I the lorde theyr God.

The altare of incense. The brasẽ lauer. The anoynting oyle. A

And thou shalte make an aultare to burn incense: of Sethim wood shalt thou make it, a cubite long and a cu-bite broade: euen foure square shall it be, and two cubites hie. The hornes therof shal procede out of it, and thou shalt ouer lay it with fyne golde, both the roofe and the walles round about, and his hornes also, and shalt make unto it, a crowne of golde rounde about, and two golden ringes on ether side, euen under the crown, that they may be as places for the barres to beare it withal. And thou shalte make the barres of Sethim wood, and couer them with gold. And thou shalt put it before the vayle, that is by the arke of wit- B nesse, before the mercyseate that is upon the witnesse where I will mete thee. And Aaron shal burne thereon swete incense euery mornynge, when he dresseth the lampes, euen then shall he burne it: and lykewyse at euen, when he setteth up the lampes he shall burne incense: and this incensing shal bee perpetually before the Leu. x. a.
Lorde thorowout your generations. Ye shal put no *straũge incense therõ, burnt sacrifice, or meate offering, nether powre any drinke offering theron.

And Aaron shall reconcile vpon ÿ hornes of it once in a yere, with the bloud of the sinne offering of reconciling, euen once in the yeare shall ye reconcile it thorow your generations. It is moste holye vnto the Lorde. And the Lord spake vn-
Nu.i.a. & xxvi.a. to Moses saying: *If thou takeste the summe of the children of Israell after theyr number, they shall geue euery man a reconciling of hys soule vnto the Lord when thou tellest them, that there be noe plage among them, when thou tellest thē.

And thus muche shall euery man geue, and that goeth into the number: half a sicle, after the sicle* of the sanctuarye: a sicle is twentye halfe pence. An halfe sicle shalbe the heue offering of the lord. Al ÿ are numbred from .xx. yere old and aboue shal geue an heue offering vnto the lord. The ryche shall not passe, and the poore shall not goe vnder halfe a sicle. But ye shal geue an heue offering vnto the lord, that he may haue mercy vpō your soules. And thou shalt take the reconciling monye of the children of Israell, & shalt put it vnto the vse of the Tabernacle of witnes, that it may be a memoriall vnto the children of Israell before the lord, that he may haue mercy vpon your soules. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying:*

C Ex. xl. d. Thou shalt make a lauer of brasse, and his foote also of brasse, to washe withall and shalt put it betwene the Tabernacle of witnesse and the altare, and put water therein. For Aaron and his sonnes shall wash theyr handes and their fete therin: euen when they go into the Tabernacle of witnes, or when they go vnto the altar to minyster and to burne the Lordes offryng, they shall washe themselues with water, lest they die. And it shalbe an ordinaunce vnto thē for euer, both vnto hym and his sede thorowoute theyr generatyons. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Take vnto thee principal spyces: of the most pure mirre. v. hundred sicles: of swete sinamon halfe so much, euen two hundred & fiftie sicles: of swete calamus, two hundred and fyftie: of Cassia, ii. hundred and fyftie, after the holye sickle: and
Leu. viii. b. of oyle olyue an hyn. *And thou shalte make of the oyle an holy oyntment, euen an oyntment compounde after the crafte of the Apoticarye. And thou shalt noynte the Tabernacle of wytnesse therewyth, and the Arke of witnesse and the table, and al hys apparell, and the candlesticke, and all hys apparell: and the altar of incense, and the altare of burnt sacrifice, with al his vessels, and the lauer and hys fote. And thou shalte sanctifye them, that they may bee most holy: so that no man touche them, but they that bee halowed. And ÿ shalte annoynte Aaron and hys sonnes, and consecrate them, that they may mynyster vnto me. And thou shalte speake vnto the children of Israell, saying: This shalbe an holye oyntyng oyle vnto me, thorowoute youre generations. Upon mannes fleshe shall it not bee powred: neyther shall ye make any other after the making of it, for it is holy, and shalbe holy vnto you: whosoeuer maketh like that, or whosoeuer putteth anye of it vpon a strāger, shal perish frō among his people.

An the lord saide vnto Moses: Take vnto thee swete spyces, balme, Onicha, swete galbanum, these spyces with pure frankencense, of ethe like much, & make of them swete smelling incense, after the craft of the Apoticary, mingled together, pure and holye. And beate it to powdre, & put of it before the witnes in the Tabernacle of witnes, where I wil mete thee. It shalbe vnto you most holy, And se that ye make none after the makyng of that. It shalbe vnto you holy for ÿ lord. Whosoeuer shall make like vnto that, to smell therto, shal perishe frō among his people.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

The calling of Bezaleel and Aholiab the workemen. The Sabboth is commaunded, The tables of stones are geuen Moses.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses saying: behold I haue called by name, Bezaleel, the sonne of Ury, the sōne of Hur of the trybe of Iuda. And I haue filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, and vnderstanding, in knowledge & in al maner of worke, to finde out subtile feates, and to worke in golde, siluer, and brasse: and in the craft to set stones, and to carue in timber, and to work in al maner of workemāship. And behold, I haue geuen him to be his companion, Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of ÿ tribe of Dan. and in the heartes of al that are wise herted haue I put wisdome, to make all that I haue commaūded thee, the Tabernacle of witnes, the Arke of witnes, and the mercyseate that is ther vpō: & al the ornamentes of the Tabernacle, & the table, & his ornamentes, and the pure candlestick with al his apparell, & the altar of incēse and the altar of burnt offeringes & al his vessels, and the lauer with his fote. The .xxxii. Chapter

The golden calfe. Moses prayeth for them. He brea-keth þ tables for anger. He chideth Aaron. The idola-ters are slain.

A And when þ people sawe, that it was long or Moses came downe out of þ mountayne, thei gathered thēselues together vnto Aaron, and said vnto him: Act.vii.c *Up, make vs goddes to go beefore vs: for of thys Moses (the felowe þ broughte vs out of the lande of Egipt) we wot not what is become. And Aaron said vnto thē Jud. viii.f *plucke of the goldē earynges which are in the eares of your wiues, your sonnes, and of your daughters, and bryng them vnto me. And al the people plucked of the golden earynges, which they had in their eares and broght them vnto Aarō. And Ps.cvi.c he receaued them of their hādes, and fashioned it with a grauer, and made of it a calfe of molten metall. And they sayed:
iii.Reg. xii.f These be thy Goddes, O Israell whiche brought the out of the land of Egipt. And when Aaron saw that, he made an aultar before it. And Aarō cried, saying: To mo-row is the holy day of the lorde. And thei B rose vp in the mornyng, and offred burnt offeringes, and brought peace offeringes also. *And the people sate them downe to I.Cor.x.b eate and drinke, & rose vp agayne to play.
And the lord sayd vnto Moses:* Goe, geat thee downe: thy people whiche thou Deu.ix.b broughtest out of the land of Egipt, haue marred all: they are turned at once out of the way, whiche I commaunded them:* for they haue made them a calf of molten Ps.cvi.b metall, and haue worshipped it, and haue offred therto, saying: These be thy Gods, O Israel, which haue brought thee out of the land of Egipt. And the lord said vnto C Moses:* I haue seen this people, and be- Ex.xxxiii holde it is a stiffenecked people, and nowe suffer me, that my wrathe may waxe hote againste them, and consume them: and I wyll make of thee a mightie people. And Moses besought the lorde his God, and sayde: O lord why doth thy wrathe waxe hoate against thy people, which thou hast brought out of the lande of Egipte, wyth great power and with a mighty hande.* Nu.xiiii.f Wherefore should the Egiptians speake, and say: For a mischief did he bring them out, euen for to slaye them in the moun-taines, and to consume them from þ face of the earth. Turne frō thy fierce wrath, and turne from this euil (deuised) against thy people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel thy seruauntes, to whom thou swarest by thy owne selfe, and saidest vn- D to them:* I will multiplye your seede, as Gen.xv.b the starres of heauen, and all thys lande Ge.xlviii.d that I haue spoken of, wyll I geue vnto your seede, and they shall inherite it for e-uer. And the lord refrayned hymself from that euill whiche he said he would do vnto his people. And Moses tourned his backe and went downe from the hyl, and the two * tables of witnesse were in his hande: and the same tables were wrytten Ex.xxxi.d on bothe the leaues, and were the worke of god, and the wrytyng was the wrytyng of god, grauen in the tables. And when Josua hearde the noyse of the people, as they shouted, he sayd vnto Moyses: there is a noyse of warre in the hoste. And he aunswered: It is not the crie of them that E haue the maistrie, nor of them that haue the worse: but I doe heare the noyse of them that sing. And it fortuned, as soone as he came nye vnto the hoste, he saw the calfe and the daunsyng: & Moses wrathe waxed hote, and he cast the tables out of his handes and brake them beneath the hyll. *And he tooke the calf whiche they Deu.ix.c had made, and burned it in the fier, and stamped stamped it vnto pouder, and strawed it in the water, and made the chyldren of Israell drinke of it. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron: what did this people vnto thee, ẏ thou hast brought so greate a synne vpon them? And Aaron aunswered: let not the wrath of my Lord ware fierce, thou knowest the people that they are euen set on mischief. For they said vnto me: make vs gods to go before vs for we wot not what is become of Moses, the felow ẏ brought vs out of the lande of Egipt. And I sayd vnto them: let them that haue gold pluck it of, and bring it me: and I dyd cast it into the fyer, and therof came out this calf.

F Moses therfore saw that the people were naked (and that Aarō had made them naked vnto their shame amōg their enmies) and he went and stoode in the gate of the host, and sayd: If any man perteyne vnto the lord, let him come vnto me. And all ẏ sonnes of Leui gathered thēselues together, and came vnto hym. And he said vnto them: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Put euerye man his swearde by hys side, and go in and out, from gate to gate, thorowout the hoost, and slay euery man, his brother, and euery man his companion, and euery man his neighbour. And ẏ children of Leui did as Moses had saide. And there fell of the people thesame daie, about thre thousand menne. And Moses G sayd: fyl your handes vnto the Lord thys day, euery man vpon his sonne, and vpō his brother, and that there may be geuen you a blessing this daye. And on the morowe it fortuned that Moses said vnto ẏ people: ye haue sinned a great sinne. And now I wil go vp vnto the lord: If peraduenture I may purchase an attonemente for your sinne. Moses therefore wente againe vnto the Lorde, and sayd: Oh, thys people haue sinned a greate sinne, & haue made them goddes of golde. And nowe I praye thee, eyther forgeue them their sin, or (yf thou wilte not) *wipe me out of thy Psa. lxix. f booke, whiche thou hast written. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: I wyl put him oute of my booke, that hath synned agaynst me. And nowe go thou, bryng the Ex. xiii. a people vnto the place whiche I sayd vnto thee: Beholde, *mine Aungell shal go before thee. Neuer the later, in the day whē I visite, I wyll visite theyr sinne vppon them. And the Lorde plaged the people, because they made the calfe which Aaron made.

¶ The Lorde sendeth an Aungell before his people. The Lorde denieth to go vp with the people. The people lament their synne. Moses talketh with the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: depart and go hence, thou and the people, which thou hast brought out of ẏ lande of Egipte, vnto the lande whiche I sware vnto Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, saying: * vnto thy sede will I geue it* (& I wil sende an angel before thee: and wil cast out the Cananites, ẏ Amorites, and the Hethites, the Pherezites, ẏ Heuytes, and the Iebusites) a lande that floweth with milke and hony. For I wyll not goe among you my selfe, * for ye are a stifnecked people: lest I cōsume thee in the way. And when the people heard this euyll tydinges, they sorowed: and no man did put on his best raiment. And the Lord spake vnto Moses: say vnto the children of Israell: ye are a stiffenecked people: I must come once sodenly vpō you, and make an end of you. Therfore now put thy goodly raiment from thee, ẏ I maye wete what to doe vnto thee. And the childrē of Israell laide their goodly raiment from them euen by the mounte Horeb. And Moses toke the Tabernacle, and pitched it without the host a farre of from the hoste, and called it the Tabernacle of witnesse. And so it came to passe, that euery one whiche would pray vnto the Lord, went out vnto the Tabernacle of witnes, whiche was without the hoste. And it fortuned, that whē Moses went out vnto ẏ tabernacle, al the people rose vp: and stode euery man at his tent dore, and looked after Moses vntil he was gone into ẏ tabernacle. And as sone as Moses was entred into ẏ tabernacle, the cloudy piller descended, and stode at the dore of the tabernacle, and he talked with Moses. And all ẏ people saw the cloudy piller stande at the tabernacle doore, and they rose vp, and worshipped euery man in his tent dore. And the lorde spake vnto Moses: * face to face, as a mā speaketh vnto his frende, and he tourned againe into the host. And the child Iosua his seruaunt, the sonne of Nun, departed not out of the Tabernacle. And Moses said vnto the lord: Se, thou saist vnto me, leade this people furth, and thou hast not shewed me whom thou wylte sende wyth me. And thou haste sayde moreouer: I knowe thee by thy name, and thou hast also founde grace in my syghte. Nowe therefore yf I haue founde fauoure in

thy sighte, then shewe me thy waye, that I maye knowe thee, and that I may finde grace in thy sighte. And consider also that this nation, is thy people. And he sayde: my presence shall goe with thee, and I wyll geue thee reste. He sayde vnto hym: If thy presence goe not with me, carye vs D not hence: for howe shall it bee knowen here, that I and the people haue foūde fa-uour in thy sight, but in that thou goeste with vs? If thou goe with vs, shall not I and thy people haue preemynence before all the people that are vppon the face of ye earth? And the Lord said vnto Moses: I will doe this also that thou hast sayde: for thou hast founde grace in my syghte, and I knowe thee by thy name.

And he said: I beseche thee, shew me thy glorye. And he saide: I wyll make all my good goe before thee, and I will be called in this name of the Lorde before thee, * & m.ix.c wyll shewe mercy to whom I wyll shewe mercy: and wyll haue compassion on whō I wil haue compassion. And he sayde furthermore: thou mayst not see my face, for .iiii.b *there shall no man see me and lyue. And ai.vi.b the lord saide: beholde, there is a place by o.xiii.d me, and thou shalt stand vpon a rock: and hn.i.c whyle my glory goeth furth, I wyll putte thee in a cleft of the rocke: & wil put myne hand vpō the while I passe by. And I wil take away mine hand, & thou shalt see my back partes: but my face shal not be seen.

The.xxxiiii. Chapter.

The tables are renued. The mercy of God. To haue felowship with the Gentiles is forbidden, and their ydolatrie also. Of their feastes.

A Deu.x.a AND ye lord saide vnto Moses: *hewe the two tables of stone, like vnto the fyrst: and I wil write vpon them the wordes that wer in the first tables which thou brakest. And bee readye in the morning, that thou mayest come vp early vn-with me in the top of the mounte. There shal no man come vp with the, neither let any man be seen thorowout al the moūte, neither let ye shepe nor oxē fede before the hylle. And Moses hewed two tables of stone lyke vnto the first, and rose vp early in the morning, and wente vp into the mount of Sinay, as the Lorde had commaunded him: and tooke in his hande the two tables of stone. And the lord descended in the cloude, & stode with hym there: and he called vpon the name of the Lord.

The. xxxv. Chapter

¶ The Sabboth. The first fruites are required. The readinesse of the people to offer. Bezaleel and Aholiab are praysed of Moses, and set to worke.

AND Moses gathered all ye company A of the children of Israel together, & sayd vnto them: these are the wordes which the lord hath commaunded that ye should doe them.* Syxe dayes ye shall worke: but ye seuenth day shalbe vnto you the holy Sabboth of the lordes rest: whosoeuer doth any woorke therein, shall die.
Ye shal kindle no fier throughout al your habitations vpon the Sabboth day. And Moses spake vnto all the multitude of ye children of Israell, saying:*Thys is the thing which the lorde commaunded, saying: Take from among you an heue offering vnto ye lord. Whosoeuer is of a wylling hert, let him bring it for ye heueoffe-ring of the lord. Namely, gold, syluer and brasse, & yelow silke, purple, scarlet, white silk, goates heere, & Rammes skins red, & Taxus skins, with Sethim wood: oile for light, and spices for the annointing oyle, & for the swete incense. And Onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in B the brest lappe. And let all them that are wise hearted among you, come and make al that the lord hath commaũded: the habitation with the tent therof, and his co-ueryng, and his ringes, & his bordes, hys barres, his pillers & his sockets, the arke, & the staues therof, with the mercyseate, and the vayle that couereth it: the table & his barres, and al his vessels, and ye shewbread, the candlestick of lyght and his ap-parell, & his lampes, with the oyle for the light: the sense aulter and his barres, the anoyntyng oyle and the swete sense, and the hangyng of the dore at the entring in of the Tabernacle: the aulter of burnt sacrifice with his brasẽ gredyrõ, hys staues and al his vessels: the lauer and his foote and the hanginges of the court, with his pillers and their sockets, and ye hanging in the doore of the court: the pinnes of the habitation, & the pinnes of the court with theyr cordes: the ministryng garments to minister in the holye place: and the holye bestmentes for Aaron ye priest, & the best-mentes of his sonnes, that they maye mi- C nister in. And all the company of the childrẽ of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. And euery one came (as many as their hearts encouraged them, and as many as theyr spirites made them wylling) and brought a present for the lord, to the making of the Tabernacle of witnes, and for all his vses, and for the holy vest-mentes. And they came both mẽ and women (euen as many as wer willing hearted)

ed) & broughte bracelets, and earinges, ringes & chaynes, which iewels wer al of gold: and all the men brought a waue offerying of gold unto the lord. And euerye man with whom was founde yelow silk, purple, scarlette, white silke, and goates heere, & red skins of rammes, and Taxus skins, brought them: All that did heue vp an oblation of gold & brasse, and brought an heue offryng unto the lord. And al mē with whom was foūde Sethim wood for anye maner woorke of the ministration, brought it.

And all the weomen that were wyse hearted, dyd spinne with their hands: and brought the spunwoorke, both of yelowe D sylke, purple, scarlet, and white silke. And all the weomen whom their owne hearte moued, spanne goates heere wysely. And the lordes brought Onix stones, & stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brestlap and spice, and oile for light, and for the a-noynting oyle, & for the swete sense. And the children of Israel brought a willyng offring unto the lord both men & women, as many as had willing hertes to bring, for al maner of workes which yͤ lord had cōmaūded to be made, by yͤ hāds of Moses. And Moses said unto the chyldren of Israel: beholde, *the Lorde hath called by Exo.xxxi.a name, Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, yͤ sonne of Hur, of the tribe of Juda, and hath fylled him with the spirite of god, in wisdom and understanding, in knowledge, and in al maner worke, to find out curious wor-kes whiche are made in golde, sylver, and brasse. In the craft of stones to set them, & in caruing of wood to make any maner of suttle woorke. And he hath put in hys heart that he may teache, both he and A-holiab the sōne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan. Thē hath he filled with wysdom of heart, to worke all maner of grauen & suttle, and nedle worke, in yelow silk, and purple, in scarlet, and white sylke, and in weauing. And to doe all maner of worke and suttle feates.

The.xxxvi. Chapter.

The thinges that Bezaleel and Aholiab made.

Exo.xxxi.a AND Bezaleel wrought, and Aholiab and al wise hearted men, to whom yͤ Lord gaue wisdom and understanding, to knowe how to woorke all maner worke for the seruice of the sanctuarye, & all that the Lord had commaunded. And Moses called Bezaleel, Aholiab, & all the wise hearted men, & such as the Lord had geuen wisdome unto, & as many as their hertes couraged to come unto yͤ worke to worke it. And they receiued of Moses all yͤ present, which the childrē of Israel had brought for the woorke of yͤ seruice of the sāctuary to make it. And besyde that they brought giftes unto it, euerye daye in the morning. And al the wise men yͤ wrought al yͤ holy worke, came euery man frō hys worke whiche they made, and spake unto Moses, saying: yͤ people bring to much, & more then inough, for the seruice & worke which yͤ lord hath cōmaūded to be made.
And then Moses gaue a cōmaundemēt, and they caused it to bee proclaymed thorowout the host, saying: See that neither man nor woman prepare any more work for the presente of the sanctuarye: & so the people wer forbidden to bring: for yͤ stuffe they had was sufficient for al yͤ worke, to B make it, and to much. *All the wise hear- Ex.xxvi.a ted men therfore, and they that wroughte for the habitation, made. x. curtaynes of white twined silke, yelow silke, purple, & scarlet: with pictures of brodered woorke made he them. The length of one curtain was. xxviii. cubites, & the bredth. iiii. and the curtaynes wer all of one syse. And he coupled. v. curtaines by themselues, and other. v. by themselues. And he made loupes of yelow silk a long by the edge of one curtain, euē in the seluedge of yͤ coupling curtayn. And likewise he made on yͤ side of the coupling curtain on the other side. Fifty loupes made he in the one curtain, & fifty in the edge of yͤ coupling cur-tayn on the other syde: & the loupes helde one curtayn to an other. And he made fiftie ringes of golde, and coupled the cur-taynes one to an other with the rynges: and so was it made one dwelling place.

*And he made. xi. curtaynes of goates Ex.xxvi.a heere, to be a tēt ouer the tabernacle. The length of a curtayn, had. xxx. cubites, and was. iiii. cubites brode, and they all. xi. of one sise. And he coupled. v. curtaynes by themselues, and sixe by themselues, & he made fiftie loupes a long by the border of C the utmost couplyng curtayn, and fifty in the edge of the other coupling curtayne.
(That they myght be ioyned together.) And he made fifty ringes of brasse, to couple the tēt together, that it might be one. And he made a couering vpō the tent of rammes skins red, & yet an other of Taxus skyns aboue yͤ. *And he made standing bordes (for the Tabernacle) of Sethim woode. Ex.xxvi.c The length of a borde was. x. cubites: the breadthe, one cubite and an halfe. One borde borde had two feete, wherby thei wer ioi-ned one to an other. And thus made he for all the bordes of ye tabernacle. And he made .xx. bordes for the southside of ye habitation, & fortie sockets of siluer vnder ye .xx. bordes, two sockets vnder one bord, for his two fete, and two sockettes vnder an other borde, for his two feete (wher the sockets of the sydes end in the corners.) And for the other side of ye dwelling, whiche is toward the north he made twenty bordes, & their forty sockets of siluer .ii. sockets vnder euery bord. And toward the west end of the tabernacle, (That is to say at that end of the tabernacle whiche inclineth toward the Sea,) he made sixe bordes: & two other bordes made he in the corners of the habitation, for eyther side, & they wer ioyned close beneath and aboue with a clampe, and thus they dyd to bothe the corners. And there were eyght bordes, and syxtene sockets of siluer: vnder euery borde two sockets.

And he made barres of Sethim wood, fyue for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the one side: and fiue for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the other syde: and fyue barres for the bordes of the habytation in the west ende (towarde the Sea.)

D And he made the mydde barre to shote thorowe the bordes, euen from the one ende to the other, and ouerlayde the bordes with golde, and made rynges of golde to thruste the barres thorowe, and couered the barres with golde. And he made an hangyng of yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke, euen with pictures made he it of broder worke. And made thereunto foure pyl-lers of Sethim wood, and ouerlaid them with golde. Theyr knoppes were allso of golde, and he caste for them foure sockets of syluer. And he made an hangynge for the Tabernacle doore, of yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and with whyte twyned sylke of nedle worke: and the fiue pillers of it with their knoppes, and ouerlaid the knoppes of them and the whopes wyth gold. Their .v. sockets also wer of brasse.

¶ The .xxxvii. Chapter.

¶ The arke of witnes. The mercyseate. The Table. The candlesticke. The lightes. The aulter and the incense.

A And Bezaleel made ye * arke of Se-Ex.xxv.a thim wood, two cubites and an half long, and a cubite and a half brode, and a cubite and a halfe hye: and ouerlaid it with fine golde within and withoute, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde about, and cast for it foure rynges of gold for the foure corners of it: two rynges for the one syde, & two for the other: and made barres of Sethim wood, and coue-red them with gold, and put the barres in the rynges along by the syde of the arke, to beare it with al. And he made the mer-cyseat (That is to say, gods aunswering place) of pure golde: two cubites and a halfe was the length therof, & one cubite and a half the bredth. And he made .ii. Cherubins of thicke gold, vpon the .ii. endes of the mer-cyseat. One Cherub on the one ende, and another Cherub on the other ende. Euen of the mercyseat made he the Cheru- B bins: namely, in the endes therof. And ye Cherubins spred out their winges aboue on hye, and couered the mercyseate ther-with. And their faces wer one to another euen to the mercyseate warde, were the faces of the Cherubins. * And he made ye Ex. table of Sethim wood, two cubites was the length therof, and a cubite the bredth, & a cubite and a half the heigth of it. And he ouerlayde it with fyne gold, and made therto a crowne of gold round about, and made therto an whope of an hand bread, round about, and made vpon the whope a crowne of gold round about, & cast for it foure ringes of gold, & put the ringes in ye foure corners ye wer in ye four fete therof.
Euẽ hard by the whope wer ye ringes, into the which the barres were put, to beare the table withal. And he made the barres of Sethim wood, and couered them with gold to beare the table withall, and made C the vessels (for the table) of pure gold: the dishes, spones, flatpeces, and pottes to powre withal. * And he made the candlesticke of pure gold: euen of one pece made Ex. he the candlesticke. For his fote, his shaft, his cuppes, his knoppes, and his floures, wer of one pece. Sixe braunches proce-ding out of the sides therof, thre out of ye one side, & thre out of ye other. And in one braunche thre cuppes made lyke vnto al-mondes with knoppes and floures: & in another braunche, thre cuppes made lyke almondes with knoppes & floures. And so throughout ye sixe braunches that proceded out of the candlesticke. And vpõ the candlesticke selfe were foure cuppes after the fashion of almondes, with knoppes & floures: vnder euerye twoo braunches a knop. And the knoppes & the braunches D proceded out of it, & it was all one pece of pure thicke golde. And he made his seuen lampes with ye tonges & snuffers therof,

of pure gold: Euen of an hundred weight of pure golde made he it, with all the vessels therof. And he made the sence altare of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubite, and the bredth a cubite, for it was, iiii. square and two cubites hye, with hornes proceding out of it. And he couered it with pure gold both the top and the sides therof round about, and the hornes of it, & made vnto it a croune of golde rounde aboute. And he made two ringes of gold for it euen vnder the croune therof in the two corners of it, and in the two sides therof to put barres in, for to beare it withall: and made the barres of Sethim woode, and ouerlayde them with golde. And he made the holy anointing oyle, & the swete pure incense after the apotecaries crafte.

The.xxxviii.Chapter.

The altare of burnt offeringe. The brasen lauer. The summe of that the people offered.

A And he made the burnt offring altare* of Sethim woode, fiue cubites was the length therof, and fiue cubites the bredth: euen.iiii.sqare. and.iii cubites hye. And he made vnto it hornes in the. iiii. corners of it proceding out of it, and he ouerlayde it with brasse. And he made all the vessels of the alter: the cauldrons, shouels, basins, fleshokes, and cole pannes. Al the vessels thereof made he of brasse. And he made a brasen grediron of networke vnto the alter, round about, alow beneth vnto the myddes of the alter, and caste foure rynges of brasse for the foure endes of the grediron to put barres in. And he made the barres of Sethim woode, and couered the with brasse, and put the barres into þ ringes in the foure corners of the alter, to beare it withall, & made the alter holow within the bordes. And he made the lauer of brasse, and the fote of it also o. brasse, in the syght of the

B that did watche at the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes. And he made the courte on the Southside, and the hanginges of the court were of whyte twined silke, hauing an hundred cubites. Their pillers were.xx. and their brasen sockets.xx. But the knoppes of the pillers, and their whopes, wer of syluer. And on the North side, the hanginges wer an hundred cubites. Their pillers were.xx. and their sockets of brasse.xx. But the knoppes and þ whopes of the pillers, were of syluer. On the west syde, wer hanginges of fiftye cubites, ten pillers & their ten sockets (of brasse) But the knoppes and the whopes of the pillers wer of siluer. And towarde þ East side, wer hanginges of fyftye cubites: the hangynges of the one side of the gate, wer fyftene cubites long, with thre pyllers, and thre sockets. And of the other C side of the court gate wer hanginges also of fiftene cubites long, with thre pillers and thre sockets. All the hanginges of the court round about were of white twyned sylke: but the sockets of the pillers wer of brasse: and the knoppes, and the whopes of the pillers wer of siluer, and the couering of the heades was of siluer, and all the pyllers of þ court wer whoped about with siluer. And the hanging of the gate of the courte was nedle worke, of yelowe silke, purple, skarlet & white twined silke. xx. cubites long, and fiue in the bredth, ouer against the hanginges of the court. And their pillers were foure, and their foure sockets of brasse: and the knoppes of siluer, and þ heades ouerlayd with siluer, and whoped about with siluer, and al the pinnes of the Tabernacle and of the court rounde about, were of brasse. This is the summe of the habitatiō of witnes, as it was counted according to the commaundement of Moses for the office of the Leuites, by the hande of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the priest. And Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur, of the tribe of Juda, made all that the Lord cōmaunded Moses: & with him was Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, a cunnyng grauer and a worker of nedle worke in yelow silk, purple, skarlet, and white twined silke. All the golde D that was occupyed for al the worke of the holy place, was the gold of the waue offering, euen.xxix. hundred weight, and seuen hundred and.xxx. sicles, according to the sicle of the Sanctuary. And the sūme of siluer that came of the multitude, was fiue score hundred weight, and a thousād, seuen hundred, and.lxxv. sicles, after the sicle of the Sanctuarye. For euery man an halfe weighte, euen halfe a sicle after the sicle of the Sanctuary, for all thē that went to bee noumbred from.xx. yere olde and aboue, euen for sixe hundred thousande, and three thousande, and fiue hundred and.l. men. And of the fiue score hūdred weight of siluer, wer cast the sockets of the Santuarye, and the sockets of the uaile, an hundred sockets of the fiue score hundred weight, an hundred weight to euery socket. And of the thousande seuen hundred and. lxx. sicles, he made knop-pes to the pillers, and ouerlayde the hea-des, and whoped them (with siluer.) And the brasse of the waue offering was. lxx. hundred weight, and two thousande, and. iiii. hundred sicles. And therewith he made ÿ sockets to the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes, and ÿ brasen altare, and the bra-sen gredierne for it, with al the vessels of the altare, and the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets for the court gate, & all the pinnes of the habitation, & all the pinnes of the court rounde about.

The. xxxix. Chapter.

The apparell of Aaron and his sonnes. All that the Lorde commaunded, was offred.

A AND of the yelowe silke, purple, and skarlet, they made the vestimentes of ministration to doe seruice in the holy place, and made the holye garmētes for Aaron as the lord commaunded Moses. And he made ÿ Ephod of gold, yelow silke, purple, skarlet, and white twined silke. And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wyers: to woorke it in the yelowe silke, purple, skarlet, and in the fine white, with broidred worke. And they made two sides for it, to close thē vp by the two edges. And the broidryng of the girdle that was vpon it, was of the same stuffe, and after the same woorke: of gold, yelowe silke, purple, skarlet, & twined white silke, as the lorde commaūded Moses. And they wrought Onix stones, closed in ouches of gold, and graued as sygnets are grauen, with the names of the children of Israel, and put thē on the B shoulders of the Ephod, that they should be stones for a remembraunce of the children of Israel, as the lorde commaunded Moses. And he made the brestlap of cunning worke, and like the worke of the Ephod: euē of gold, yelow silke, purple skar-let, and twined white silke. It was foure square, and they made the brestlap double, an hand bredth long, and an hande bredth broad. And thei filled it with foure rowes of stones. The first rowe, a Sar-C dios, a Topas & *Smaragdus: the secōd row, a * Rubi, a Saphir & a Diamonde: in the third row, Ligurios, an Achat, and an Amatist: in the fourth row, a Turcas, an Onix, & a Jaspis. And they were closed in ouches of golde in their inclosers.
And the twelue stones were grauen as signets with the names of the children of Israel: euery stone with his name, according to ÿ. xii. tribes. And they made vpon the brestlap, two fastnyng cheines of wre-then worke and pure gold. And thei made D two hokes of gold, and two gold ringes: and put the two ringes in the two corners of the brestlap. And they put the two cheines of golde in the two ringes, in the corners of the brestlap. And the two endes of the two cheines they fastned in the two hokes, and put thē on the shoulders of the Ephod vpon the fore fronte of it.
And they made two rynges of gold, & put them on the two corners of the brestlap vpon the edge of it, which was on the in-syde by the Ephod. And they made two golden ringes, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod beneth on the foreside of it, & ouer against his felow aboue vpon the broidring of the Ephod: & they stray-ned the brestlap by his ringes, vnto the ringes of the Ephod, with a lace of yelow silke, ÿ it might be vpon the broidring of the Ephod, and that the brestlap shoulde not be loused from of the Ephod: as the lord commaunded Moses. And he made E the tunicle vnto ÿ Ephod of wouē worke, altogether of yelow silke, & there was an hole in the myddeste of the tunicle, as the coler of a partlet, with a bonde rounde a-boute the coler, that it shoulde not rente.
And in the tunicle thei made hēmes with pomegranates, of yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, and white twyned silke. And they made litle belles of pure gold, and put thē among the pomegranates rounde about vpon the edge of the tunicle: a bel and a pomegranate, a bel and a pomegranate, rounde aboute the hemmes of the tunicle to minister in, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And they made coates of fyne white of wouē worke for Aaron and his sonnes, and a mytre of fine white, and goodly bonets of fine white, & linen breches of twined whit, & a girdle of twined white, yelowe silke, purple & scarlet, euen of nedle worke, as ÿ Lorde commaunded Moses. And they made the plate for the holy cronne of fyne gold, & wrote vpon it with grauen worke, the holynesse of the Lorde, and tyed vnto it a lace of yelowe silke to fasten it on hye vpō the mytre, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. F Thus was all the worke of the habitation, and of the Tabernacle of witnesse finished. And the childrē of Israel did ac-cordyng to all that the Lorde had com-maūded Moses: euē so did they. And they broughte

Or an Emeraude.
Or a carbuncle.

broughte the habitation vnto Moses: the tent and all his apparel, buttons, bordes, barres, pillers, and sockets, the couering of rammes skynnes red, and the couering of taxus skinnes, and the hangyng vaile, the arke of witnes and the barres therof, and the merciseate: the table, and all the vessels thereof, and the shewe bread: the pure candlesticke with the lampes therof: euen with the lampes to be prepared, and all the vessels thereof, and the oyle for lighte: the golden altare and the annoyntynge oyle, and the swete sence, and the hangyng of the Tabernacle dore, and the brasen altare with his grediron of brasse, his barres and all his vesselles, the lauer and his foote: the hangynges of ye courte with his pillers and sockets: the hanging G to the court gate, and his pinnes & coardes, and all the vessel of the seruice of the habitation for the Tabernacle of witnes: the ministring vestimētes to serue in the holy place, and the holy vestimentes for Aaron the Prieste, and his sonnes raymētes to minister in: according to all that the Lord commaunded Moses, euen so ye children of Israel made all the worke. And Moses beheld all the worke: and see, they had done it euen as the Lorde commaunded: euen so had they done, and Moses blessed them.

The .xl. Chapter.

The Tabernacle is reared vp. The glory of the Lord appereth in a cloude, coueryng the Tabernacle.

A AND the lord spake vnto Moses saying: In the first day of the first moneth, shalt thou set vp the habitation and the Tabernacle of witnes, & put therin the arke of witnes, and couer the arke with the vaile, and bring in the table, and appatel it according to the order thereof. And thou shalt bring in the candlesticke, and light his lampes, and set the sense altare of golde before the arke of witnes, & put the hanging at the dore of the habitation. And set the burnte offeryng altare before the dore of the habitation, & Tabernacle of witnes, and set the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of witnes and the altare, and put water therein, and make the court rounde aboute, and hang vp the hangyng at the courte gate. * And thou
B shalt take the annointing oyle, & annoint the habitation, and all that is therin, and halow it with all the vessels thereof, that it maye be holy. And thou shalt annointe the altare of burnte offerynge, and all his vessels, and sanctifie the altare, that it maye be an altare most holy.

And thou shalt annoynt also the lauer and his fote, and sactify it. And thou shalt bryng Aaron and his sōnes vnto ye dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and washe thē with water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron the holy vestimētes, and annoynt him, & sanctifie him that he may minister vnto me. And thou shalt bring his sōnes and clothe them with garmentes, and annoint them as thou diddest annoint their father, that they maye minister vnto me. For their annoyntyng shalbe an euerlasting priesthood vnto them throughoute their genetations. * And Moses did according to all that the Lord commaūded hym: euen so dyd he. Nu.viii. a.

Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the first daye in the first moneth in the se- C cond yere. And Moses reared vp the Tabernacle, and fastened hys sockets, and set vp the bordes thereof, and put in the barres of it, and reared vp his pillers, and spread abroade the tente ouer the habitation, and put the couering of the tente on hye aboue it: as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he toke testimonie, and put it in the arke, and set the barres to the arke, and put the merciseate an hye vpon the arke, and broughte the arke into the habitation, and hanged vp the vaile, and coue red the arke of witnesse, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he put the table in the tabernacle of witnesse in the North side of the habitatiō, (but without the vaile) and set the bread in order beefore the Lorde, euen as the Lord had cōmaunded Moses. And he put the candlesticke in the Tabernacle of witnes ouer against the table toward the South side of the habitation, and set vp ye lampes before the Lord: as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he put the golden altare in the Tabernacle of witnesse beefore the vaile, and brēt swete sence theron, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he hanged vp the hanging at the dore of the habitation, and set the burnte offering altare by the entring in of the habitatiō of the Tabernacle of witnes, & offred burnt offeringes and meate offerynges therō, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.
* And he set the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of witnesse and the altare, and Ex.xxx.c powred water therein, to washe withall. And Moses, Aaron and his sonnes, washed their handes and their feete thereat, when they wente into the Tabernacle of witnes, and when thei went to the altare they washed themselues, as the Lord cōmaunded Moses. And he reared vp the court round about the habitation and the altare, and set vp an hanging at the court gate: and so Moses finished the worke.

Nu.ix.c. *And the cloude couered the Tabernacle of witnes, and the glory of the Lorde filled the habitation. And Moses coulde not entre into the Tabernacle of witnes, because the cloud abode theron, and the glorie of the Lorde filled the habitation. (For the cloud had couered all.) And when the cloude was taken vp from of the habitation, the children of Israell tooke their iourneis throughoute their armies. And when the cloude was not taken vp: they iournyed not till it was taken vp: for the cloud of the Lorde was vpon the habitation by day, and fire by night, in the sight of al the house of Israell, throughout all their armies.

¶ The ende of the .ii. boke of Moses.

The third boke of Moses, called in Latin, Leuiticus.

The first. Chapter.

The ordre of the burnt offeringes.

A And the Lord called Moses, and spake vnto hym oute of the Tabernacle * of witnes, saying: Speak vnto the children of Israel, and thou shalte saye vnto them. Yf a man of you brynge a sacrifice vnto the Lorde, ye shall brynge your sacrifice from amonge these catell, euen from among the oxen and the shepe. Yf his sacrifice be a burnt offering, let hym offer a male of the oxen withoute blemishe, and bring him (of his owne voluntarye will) vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes before ẏ Lord. And he shall put his hand vpon the head of the brent sacrifice, and it shalbe accepted for him, to bee his attonement. And Ex.xxix.g.

B he shall kil the calf of the droue before the Lorde. And the priestes, Aarons sonnes, shal bringe the bloude, and shall sprinkle it rounde about vpon the altare, that is by the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes. And then shal he slay the burnt offering, and hew him in peces. And the sonnes of Aaron the priest shal put fire vpon the altare, and put wood vpon the fire. And the priestes Aarons sonnes shal laye the partes (euen the head and the fatte) vpon the wood that is on the fire in the altare. But the inwardes and the legges thereof shall he washe in water, and the prieste shall burne all in the altare, that they maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete odour vnto the Lorde.

And if his sacrifice bee of the flockes C (namely of the shepe or goates) lette him bring a male without blemish for a burnt offeryng. And let him kill it on the North side of the altare before the lord. And the priestes, Aarons sonnes, shal sprinkle the bloud of it round about vpon the altare. And it shalbe cut in peces, euen with hys head and his fat, and the prieste shall put them vpon the woode that lieth vpon the fire in the altare. But he shall washe the inwards, and the legges with water: and the priest shall bryng all together & burne it vpon the altare for a burnte offering of a swete sauour vnto the Lord. Yf ẏ burnt offring for the sacrifice of the Lorde, be of the foules, he shall bryng his sacrifice of the turtle doues, or of the yonge pigeons. And the priest shall bring it vnto the altare, and wringe the necke a sundre of it, D and burne it on the altare. But the bloud thereof shal runne out vpon, by the syde of the altare. And he shal plucke awaye hys croppe with his fethers, and caste thē beside the alter on the East part in the place of ashes. And he shall breake the winges of it, but plucke thē not a sundre. And the priest shall burne it vpon the altare, euen vpon the wood that is vpon the fire, that it maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde.

The .ii. Chapter.

¶ The ordre of meate offerynges.

The soule that wil offre a meate offerynge vnto the Lord, the same offe- A rynge shalbe of fyne floure, and he shal powre oyle vpon it, and put frankensence thereon, and shall brynge it vnto Aarons sonnes the priestes. And he shall take theroute his handefull of the floure, and of the oile, with al the frankensence, and the priest shall burne it for a memoriall of hym vpon the altare, to be an offring for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. And the remnaunte of the meatoffring shalbe shalbe Aarons and his sonnes, a thing most holy of the sacrifices of the Lorde. yf thou brynge also a meatoffryng that B is baken in the ouen, let it be a swete cake C of fine floure mingled with oile, or an vn-leuened wafer anointed with oyle. If thy meatoffryng be baken in the frying pan, it shalbe of swet floure mingled with oile.

And thou shalte mince it smal, and powre oyle theron, that it may be a meatoffring.
And if thy meatoffryng be a thyng broyled vpon the grediron, let it be of floure mingled with oyle. And thou shalt bryng the meatoffring (ẏ is made of these thyn-ges) vnto the Lord & shalt deliuer it vnto the priest, that he maye offer it vpon the altare: & the priest shall take of the meatoffryng a memoriall, and shall burne it vpon the altare that it maye bee a burnt offring for a swete sauour vnto the Lord.
And that which is left of the meat offring C shalbe Aarons and his sonnes. It is a thyng moste holye of the offrynges of the Lorde. All the meatoffringes whiche ye shall bryng vnto the Lord, shall bee made without leuen. For ye shall neither burne leuen nor hony in any offring of the lord.
Notwithstandyng ye shal bring the firstlynges of them vnto the Lorde: but they shall not come vpon the altare for a swete Math. v. b. sauoure. * All the meateofferynges also Mark. ix. g. shalte thou season with salte: neither shalt Colo. iiii a. thou suffre the salt of the couenaunt of thi god to be lacking from thy meatoffering, but vpon all thine offerynges shalte thou D brynge salt. And if thou offre a meateoffering of thy first ripe fruites, vnto ẏ lorde, thou shalte offre for the meateofferyng of thy firste fruites, eares of corne dryed by the fire, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalt put oyle vpon it, and laye fran-kensence theron, that it may be a meatofferyng. And the priest shal burne parte of the beatē corne, and part of that oile with all the frankensence, for a remembraūce.
And it shal be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

The. iii. Chapter.

The ordre of peace offerynges.

A AND if his sacrifice be a peace offring, and he take it from among ẏ droues (whether it bee male or female) he shall bryng suche as is withoute blemish, before the Lord: and put his hande vpon the head of his offeryng, and kill it at the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And Aarons sonnes the priestes shall sprincle the bloud vpon the altare rounde about.
And he shall offre somewhat of the peace offering to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: euen the fatte * that couereth the inwar-des, and the two kidneyes, and ẏ fat that Ex. xxix. c. is on them, and vpon the loynes, and the aboundaunce that is on the liuer shall he take awaye with the kidneyes. And Aarons sonnes shall burne them on the al- B tare vpon the burnte sacrifice, whiche is vpon the woode that is on the fire to be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto ẏ Lorde. Yf he bring a peace offring vnto the Lorde from of the flocke, let him offer male or female: but without blemishe. As if he offre a shepe for his sacrifice, he shall bring it before ẏ Lord, and put his hande vpon his offerynges head, and kyll it before the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes, and Aarons sonnes shal sprinkle the bloud thereof rounde about the altare.
And of the peace offeryng, let him bring a sacrifice vnto the Lord: the fatte therof, C and the rumpe altogether, which thei shal take of, harde by the backe bone: and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all ẏ fat that is vpon the inwardes, and ẏ two kidneyes, and the fat that is vpon them, and vpon the loynes, & the aboundaunce that is vpon the liuer shall he take awaye with the kidneyes. And the prieste shall burne them vpon ẏ altare, to be the foode of a sacrifice vnto the lord. If his offring be a goate, he shal bring it before ẏ Lord, and put his hand vpon the head of it, and kyll it before the Tabernacle of the coue-naunte, and the sonnes of Aaron shall D spinkle the bloud thereof vpon the altare rounde about. And he shall brynge therof his offring euen a sacrifice vnto the lord: the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is vpon the inwardes, and the two kidneyes, and the fat that is vpō thē, and vpon the loynes, and the aboun-daunce vpon the liuer shall he take away with the kidneyes. And the prieste shall burne them vpon the altare, for the foode of the sacrifice: that all the fat maye be a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. Let it be a perpetuall statute for your generations, throughout your dwellinges, that ye eate neither fat nor * bloud. Gene. ix. a. Le. xvii d. and. xix. f.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The offryng made for synnes, done of ignoraunce.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye: If a soule syn tho-rowe ignoraunce, and hath done any of those those thinges whiche the Lorde hath forbydden in his commaundementes to bee done: As if the priest that is anointed doe syn (according to the synne of the people) let him bring for his sinne whiche he hath sinned, a yong oxe without blemish vnto the Lorde, for a sinne offering. And he C shall bring the yong oxe vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes before the lord and shall put his hand vpon the yong oxe Leui.ix.c head, and kil the yong oxe before ẏ lorde.

B And the priest that is apointed * shal take of the yong oxe bloude, and bryng it into the Tabernacle of witnes, and the priest shall dippe his fynger in the bloude: and sprinkle therof seuē times before the lord, euē before the hanging of the holy place.
And he shall put some of the bloud before the Lord, vpon the hornes of the altare of swete sense, whiche is in the Tabernacle of witnes: and shal powre all the bloud of the yong oxe vnto the botome of the alta-re of burnt offering, whiche is at the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes. And he shal take away all the fat of the oxe that is for sinne, the fat that couereth the inwardes, and al the fat that is about the inwardes, and the two kidneyes, and the fat that is vpon them, and vpon the loynes, and the aboundaunce of the liuer shall he take awaye with the kidneyes, as it was taken awaye in the oxe of the peace offerynges, and let the prieste burne them vpon the altare of burnt offering. * But the skinne C of the yong oxe, and all his fleshe, with Ex.xxix.c his heade, and hys legges, with his inwardes, and his dong, shall he beare out and carye the yong oxe altogether out of ẏ host vnto a cleane place, euen where as the ashes are powred out, and burne them there on wood in the fire: euen by ẏ place where the ashes are caste out, shall he bee brente. Yf the whole congregation of Israell synne throughe ignoraunce, and the thing be hid from their eyes, so that thei haue cōmitted any of those thin-ges which the Lorde hath forbidden to be done in his cōmaundemētes, & haue offended: When the sinne whiche they haue sinned in, is knowen, the congregation shall bring a yong oxe for the sinne: and bring him before the Tabernacle of wit-nesse, and the elders of the multitude shal put their handes vpon the head of ẏ yong oxe before the Lorde. And the yong oxe shall be slayne before the Lorde. And the priest that is anointed, shall bring of hys bloud into the Tabernacle of witnes, and the priest shal dippe his finger in ẏ bloud, and sprinkle it seuen times before ẏ Lord euen before the vaile.
And shall put of the bloude vpon the hornes of the altare, whiche is before the D Lorde in the Tabernacle of witnes, and shall powre all the bloude vnto the bot-tome of the altare of burnt offring, which is beefore the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes: and shal take al his fat from him, and burne it vpon the altare, and shal doe with this yong oxe, as he dyd with the yong oxe for syn: euen so shal he do with this. And the priest shal make an attone-mente for them, and it shall bee forgeuen them. And he shall bring this yong oxe withoute the hoste, and burne hym as he burned the first. For it is an oblation for the sinne of the congregation.
When a Lord sinneth, and committeth E through ignoraunce any of these thinges (whiche the Lorde his God hath forbidden to be done in his commaundemētes) and hath offended: And yf his sinne bee shewed vnto hym whiche he hath done, he shall bring his offering: euen an he goate without blemishe, and lay his hand vpon the heade of the he goate, and kill it in the place where the burnte offeryng is vsed to bee killed beefore the Lorde.
For it is a sinne offering. And let the prieste take of the bloude of the offering with his finger, and put it vpon the hor-nes of the burnte offeryng altare, and powre his bloude vnto the botome of the burnt offeryng altare, and burne all hys fat vpon the altare, as the fat of the peace offerynges. And the priest shall make an F attonemente for him, as concerning hys sinne, and it shall be forgeuen hym.
Yf one of the comen people of the lande sinne, through ignoraunce, and commit any of the thynges whiche the Lord hath forbidden in his commaundemētes to be done, and so hath trespaced: yf his sinne which he hath sinned, come to his knowlege, he shall bring for his offering, a she goate from among the flockes, without blemishe, for his sinne which he hath sinned, and laye his hande vpon the head of the offryng, and slay it in ẏ place of burnt offringes. * And the prieste shall take of Leu.iii.b the bloud therof with his fynger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnt offering altare, and powre all the bloud vnto the botome of the altare, and shall take away all his fat, as the fat of the peace offerin-ges is taken awaye. And the prieste shall burne

burne it vpon the altare, that it maye be a swete sauour vnto the Lorde: and the priest shall make an attonement for him, and it shalbe forgeuē him. And if he bring a shepe for a sinne offering, he shall bring G a female withoute blemishe, and laye hys hande vpon the head of the offering, and slay it for a sin offering, in the place wher they kil the burnt offering. And the priest shal take of the bloud of the offering with his finger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnte offring altare, and shall powre the bloud thereof vnto the botome of the Leui.xii. b. altare. *And he shall take awaye all the fat thereof, as the fat of the shepe of the peace offering is wont to be taken away.
And the priest shall burne it vpon the altare, that it may be the Lordes burnt sacrifice, and the priest shall make an atto-nemente for his sinne, that he hath committed, and it shall be forgeuen him.

The.v.Chapter.

¶ Of othes. The clensing of him that toucheth vn-cleane thinges. The purgation of an othe, and of sinne done by ignoraunce.

A If a soule sinne and heare the voyce of swearyng, and is a witnesse: whether he hath seen or knowen of it, if he haue not vttered it, he shall beare hys sinne. Either if a soule touche anye vncleane thyng, whether it be the carion of an vncleane beast, or of vncleane catell, or vncleane worme, and is not ware of it:
behold, he is vncleane and hath offended.
Either if he touch ani vncleānesse of man B (whatsoeuer vncleanes it be that a man is wont to be defiled withall) and is not ware of it, and commeth to the knowlege of it, he hath trespaced. Either yf a soule sweare and pronounceth with his lippes to doe euell, or to do good (whatsoeuer it be that a man vseth to pronoūce with an othe) and the thing be hid from hym, and commeth to the knowlege of it, and hath offended in one of these. And it shal come to passe that when he hath sinned in one of these thinges, he shall confesse that he hath sinned in that thing. Therfore shall he bring his trespace offering vnto ẏ lord, for his sinne whiche he hath sinned. A female from the flocke, a lābe or a she goate for a sinne offring. And the priest shall make an attonement for him, concerning Leui.xii. b. his sinne. *And if he be not able to bring Luk.ii.d suche a shepe, he shall bring for his tres-pace whiche he hath sinned, two turtle doues, or two yong pigeōs vnto the lord, one for a sinne offering, and the other for a burnt offring. And he shall bryng them vnto the priest, whiche shall offre the syn offeryng first, and wring the necke a sun-dre of it, but plucke it not cleane of. And he shall sprinkle of the bloud of the sinne offring vpō the side of the altare: and the rest of the bloud shal he powre by the botome of the altare: for it is a sin offering.
And he shall offre the second for a burnt G offeryng as the maner is: and so shall the priest make an attonement for him (for the sin whiche he hath sinned) and it shall bee forgeuen him. And if he be not able to bring two turtle doues, or two yong pigeons, then he that hath sinned, shall bring for his offering, the tenth parte of an Epha of fine floure for a sin offering, but put none oyle therto, neyther put any frankēsence thereon, for it is a sin offring.
And let the priest offre it: and ẏ priest shall take his hand full of it, for a remembraūce thereof, and burne it vpon the altare, to be a sacrifice for the Lorde, it is a syn offering. And the priest shall make an attonement for him as touching his sin that he hath synned in one of these, and it shall be forgeuen. And the remnaunte shall be the priestes, as a meateofferyng.
And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: D Yf a soule trespace and sin through igno-raunce in thynges that are consecrated vnto the Lorde: let hym bryng for hys trespace vnto the Lorde, a ramme without blemishe out of the flockes, valued in moneye at two sicles, after the *sicle of Ex.xxx.b the Sanctuarye, that it may be for a tres-pace offeryng. And he shall make amendes for the harme that he hath done in the holy thing: and let hym put the fifte parte more thereto, and geue it vnto the priest.
And the priest shall make an attonement for hym with the ramme that is for the trespace, and it shalbee forgeuen him.
Yf a soule syn and committe anye of these thynges whiche are forbidden to be done by the commaundementes of the Lord, & wist it not, & hath offended, he shall beare his sin: aud shall bring a ramme without blemishe out of the flocke, that is estemed to bee worth a trespace offering, vnto the priest: And the priest shal make an attonement for him concerning his ignoraunce, wherin he erred and was not ware, and it shalbe forgeuen him. This is ẏ trespace offering whiche he offred vnto the Lorde for the trespace.

The.vi. Chapter.

¶ The offeringes for sinnes whiche are done willinglie The lawe of the burnt offeringes. The fire muste abide euermore vpon the altare. The offeringes of Aarō, and his sonnes.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: If a soule sin and trespace against the Lord, and denye vnto his neighboure that whiche was taken him to kepe, or that was put into his handes, or doth violent robbery or wrōg vnto his neighbour: or if he haue found that which was lost, and denieth it, & sweareth false-lye, vpon whatsoeuer thyng it bee that a man doth, and sinneth therin: yf he haue so sinned or trespaced, he shall restore againe that he toke violently away, or the wrong whiche he did, or that whiche was deliuered him to kepe, or the loste thyng which he found: and all that about which he hath sworne falsely, he shall restore it again in the whole summe, and shal adde the fifte part more therto, and geue it vnto him to whome it partaineth, the same daye that he offreth for his trespace: and let him bring for his trespace vnto yͤ lord, a ramme without blemishe out of yͤ flocke (that is estemed worthe a trespace offe-B ryng) vnto the priest. And the priest shall make an attonemente for him, before the Lord, and it shall be forgeuen him, whatsoeuer thing it bee that he hath done and trespaced therein.
And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Cōmaunde Aaron & his sonnes, saying:
this is the lawe of the burnte offring.
Ex.xxix. g. *The burnt offering shalbe vpon yͤ harth of the altare all night vnto the morning, and the fire shalbe kyndled on the altare.
And the prieste shall put on his *linnen ex.xxviii. a. albe, & his linnen breches vpon his flesh, and take away the ashes vpon the which the fire consumed the burnt sacrifice in the altar, and he shall put them beside the altare, and put of his raiment, and put on other, and carye the ashes out withoute the hoste vnto a cleane place. The fire vpon the altare shall burne still, and neuer be put out. But the priest shall laye wood on it euery daye in the mornyng, and put the burnte sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne thereon the fat of the peace offryn-ges. The fire shall euer burne vpon the Nu.xv.a Leui.ii.a altare, and neuer go oute. *This is the lawe of the meateofferyng: whiche Aa-Minha. rons sonnes shall bryng before the Lord, euen before the altare: and one of them shall take his handefull of the floure of the meateoffring, and the oyle, and al the frankensence whiche is vpon the meatoffryng, and shall burne it vnto a remembraunce vpon yͤ altar for a swete sauour, euen a memoriall of it vnto the Lorde. C And of the rest therof, shall Aaron and his sonnes eate, vnleuened shall it be eaten in the holy place: euen in the courte of the Tabernacle of witnesse they shal eate it. It shall not bee bakē with leuē. I haue geuē it vnto them for their portion of my sacrifices. It is moste holie, as is the syn offeryng and trespace offring. All the males among yͤ children of Aaron shall eate of it: It shalbe a statute for euer in your generations concerning the sacrifices of the Lorde: let euerye one that toucheth it, bee holye. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: this is the offeryng of Aaron and of his sonnes whiche they shall offer vnto the Lorde in the daye when he is anointed: the tenth parte of an Epha of floure, for a meateoffring perpetual: half in the morning, and halfe at night. In the frying pan it shall be made with oyle.
And when it is fryed, thou shalt bring it in, and the baken offringes of this oblation minced small, shalte thou offer for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. D And the priest of his sonnes yͤ is anointed in his stede, shall offre it: It is yͤ Lor-des dutie for euer, it shalbe burnt altogether. For euery meateoffering yͤ is made for the prieste, shalbe burnt altogether, & shall not be eaten. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, and vnto his sonnes, and saye: This is the lawe of the sinne offeryng. In the place where the burnt offeryng is kylled, shall the sinne offryng bee kylled before the Lord, for it is most holy.* The priest Ose.iiii. b. that offereth it, shall eate it: In the holye place shall it be eaten euen in the court of the Tabernacle of witnes. No man touch the fleshe therof, saue he that is halowed.
And whoso sprinkeleth of the bloud ther-of vpon anye garment, thou shalt washe it in the holye place, there as it is sprinke-led vpon.* But the earthen pot that it is Leui.xi. b. sodden in, shalbe broken. And if it be sodden in a brasen pot, it shalbe scoured and rynsed in the water. Al the males among the priestes shall eate therof, for it is most holy. And no sinne offeryng, whose bloud is brought into the Tabernacle of witnes to reconcile withall in the holy place, shalbe eaten: but shall bee burnte in the fyer.

¶The.vii.Capter.

Trespace offeringes. Sine offeringes, and peace offringes. The fat and the blud may not be eaten.

A This is the lawe of the trespace offring: it is most holye. In the place where they kyll the burnt offering, shal they kill trespace offerynge also, & hys blud shall he sprinkle round about vpon the altare. All the fat therof shall they offer: the rumpe and the fatte thereof that couereth the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, and the fat that is on them & vpon the loynes: and the aboundaunce that is on the lyuer shalt thou take awaye with the kidneyes, and the prieste shall burne them vpon the altar, to be a sacrifice vnto the lorde, for it is a trespace offeryng.
All the males among ŷ priestes shall eate thereof in the holy place, for it is most ho-lye. As the syn offeryng is, so is the tres-pace offeryng: one lawe serueth for both, and it shalbe the priestes that reconcileth therewith. And the priest that offreth any mānes burnt offring, shall haue ŷ skinne of the burnt offring whiche he hathe of-fred. And all ŷ meatoffring that is baken in the ouen, and that is drested vpon the grediron, and in the frying pan, shalbe the priestes that offreth it. And euerye meate offring that is mingled with oyle, & that is drye, shall pertayn vnto all the sonnes of Aaron, and one shall haue as much as B an other. This is the lawe of the peace offering, when it is offered vnto the lord.
Yf he offer it to geue thankes, he shall bryng vnto his thankoffring swete cakes mingled with oyle, and swete wafers annoynted with oyle, and cakes myngled with oyle of fine flour fried. He shal bring hys offring vpon cakes of leuened bread, for his peaceofferinges to geue thankes: and of all the sacrifice he shall offer on for an heue offeryng vnto the Lorde, and it shal be ŷ priestes that sprinkled the bloud of the peace offeringes. And the fleshe of the thanke offeryng in his peace offerin-ges, shall be eaten the same daye that it is offered. And let him laye vp nothing of it vntill the morowe. But yf he offer hys sacrifice by reason of a vowe, or of hys owne free will, it shall be eaten the same daye that he offereth his sacrifice. And yf oughte remayne vntill the morow, it may be eaten: but as muche of the offered flesh as remaineth vnto the thirde daye, shalbe burnte with fire. And yf any of the fleshe of his peace offringes be eaten in ŷ thirde daye, then shall he that offereth it obtaine no fauour, neither shall it be rekened vnto him, but shall be an abhomination.
Therefore the soule that eateth of it shall beare his sinne. And the fleshe that tou- C cheth any vncleane thyng, shall not be eaten, but burnt with fire: and all that bee cleane shal eate the flesh. But yf any soule eate of the flesh of the peace offeryng that pertaineth vnto the Lord, hauing his vn-clēnesse vpon him the same soule shall perishe from among his people. Moreouer, the soule ŷ doeth touch ani vnclene thing, that is of the vnclennesse of man, or of any vncleane beast, or any abhomination that is vncleane, and thē eate of the fleshe of the peace offering whiche pertayneth vnto the Lord, that soule shal perish from his people. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye. * Ye shall eate no ma- Leui.iii.
ner fatte of oxen, of shepe, and of goates: c. neuerthelater the fatte of the beaste that dieth alone, and the fatte of that which is torne with wild beastes, shall be occupied in ani maner of vse, but ye shal in no wise eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth the fatte of the beast, of which men vse to bryng an offeryng vnto the Lorde, that soule that eateth it, shall perishe from his people.
Moreouer, ye * shall eate no maner of Gen.ix.a bloud, whether it be of foule or of beaste. Leu.xvii Whatsoeuer soule it be that eateth anye c. maner of bloud, thesame soule shall perish and.xix.f from his people. And the Lorde talked Deu.xii. with Moses, saying: speake vnto the chil- b. dren of Israel and saye: He that bringeth i.Re.xiiii his peace offering vnto the Lord, let him c. bring his gift vnto the Lorde of his peace offeryng: let his owne handes bryng the offeringes of the Lord: euen the fat with the brest shall he bring: that the brest may bee waued for a waue offering before the Lorde. And the priest shal burne the fatte vpon the altare, and the brest shalbe Aarons and his sonnes. And the right shoulder shall ye geue vnto the Prieste, for an heueoffering, of your peace offeringes.
Thesame that offereth the bloud of the D peace offeringes and the fatte, among the sonnes of Aaron, shal haue ŷ right shoulder for his parte, for the * waue brest and Nu.xviii the heue shoulder haue I take of the chil- c. dren of Israell, euē of their peaceofferinges, and haue geuen it vnto Aaron and vnto his sonnes by a statute for euer, of the children of Israell.

This is the anoynting of Aaron, and the anoynting of his sonnes in the sacrifices of the lorde, in the day when he offered them to be priestes vnto the lord: And these bee the sacrifices whiche the Lorde commaunded to bee geuen them, (in the day of their anoynting) of the children of Israel, by a statute for euer in their generations. This is the law of the burnt offering, and of the meatoffering, and of ye sacrifice for sinne and trespace, for consecration and for the peace offering: whiche the Lorde commaunded Moses in the mount of Sinay, when he commaunded the children of Israell to offer their sacrifices vnto the Lorde, in the wildernes of Sinay.

The.viii.Chapter.

¶ The anoynting of Aaron and his sonnes.

A Ex.xxviii.a. AND the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Take *Aaron and his sonnes with him, and the vestures, and the anointing oyle, and a yong oxe for synne, and two rammes, and a basket with swet bread: and gather you all the congregaciō together vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes. And Moses did as the Lorde commaunded him, and the people were gathered together vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes. And Moses sayd vnto the congregation: this is the thing which ye lord cōmaūded to be done.
B And Moses brought. Aaron and his sonnes, and washed thē with water, and put vpon hym the albe, and girded hym with a gyrdle, and put vpon him the tunicle (of yelow silke) and put the Ephod theron, which he girded with the brodred girdle that was in the Ephod, and bound it vnto him therwith. And he put the brest-lap theron, and put in the bresslap Vrim and Thumim. And he put the mytre vpō his head, and put vpon the mytre, (euen vpon the forefront of his face) the golden plate or the holy croune, as the lord commaunded Moses.
Ex.xxx.b *And Moses toke the anoynting oyle, and anointed ye Tabernacle and all that was therin, and sanctified them, & sprinkled thereof vpon the altar seuen times, & anoynted the altar and all his vesselles, the lauer and his foote, to sanctifie them (with the oyle.) And he powred of the anoin-tyng oyle vpon Aarons head, and anointed hym, to sanctifie him. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put albes vpō them, and girded them with girdles, Ex.xxix.a and put bonets vpon their heades: as the C Lorde commaunded Moses. * And he brought the yong oxe for sinne. And Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of ye yong oxe that was for sinne.
And Moses slewe hym, and tooke of the bloud, whiche he put vpon the hornes of the altar rounde about with his finger, and purified it, and powred the blud vnto the bottome of the altar, and sanctified it, and reconciled it. And he toke all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the abundance of the liuer, and the two kidneyes, and their fat, and Moses burned it D vpon the altar. But the young oxe and his hide, his flesh and his dong, he burnt with fire without the hoste, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he broughte the rame for the burnt offering, and Aaron and his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of the rame, whiche Moses killed, and sprinkled the bloud vpon the altar round about: and Moses cutte the ram in pieces, and burnt the head, the pieces and the fat, and washed the inwardes and the legges in water: & Moses burnt the ram euerye whit vpon the altar, for a burnt sacrifice, that it might be a swet sauour and an offring vnto the Lorde, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.
*And he brought the other ram, namely Ex.xx the ram of consecration (of the priestes) and Aaron & his sones put their handes vpō the head of the ram, which Moses slew, & toke of the bloud of it, and put it vpon the typ of Aarons ryghte eare, and vpon the thumbe of his righte hande, and vpon the E great toe of his right foote. And Moses broughte Aarons sonnes, and put of the blud (of the ram) on the typ of the right eare of them, and vpon the thumbes of their right handes, and vpon the great toes of their right fete, and Moses sprinkled the blud vpon the altar rounde about. *And Ex.xxi he toke the fat and the rumpe, and all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the abundaunce of the liuer, and the two kydneyes with their fat, and the right shoulder. And out of the basket of swete bread that was before the lorde, he toke.i. swete cake of oyled bread, and.i. wafer, and put them on the fat, and vpon the right shoulder: & put altogether vpon Aarons han-des and vpon his sonnes hādes, and wa-ued it a waue offerynge before the Lord.
And Moses tooke them from of their F handes, and burnte them vpon the altar, euen vpon the burnte offeryng aultar: for it was the sacrifice of consecration, for a swete sauour & a sacrifice vnto the Lord.
*And

*And Moses toke the brest and waued it for a waue offering before the lord. For it was of the ram of the consecration, and it was Moses part, as the Lorde com-C maunded Moses. And Moses toke of the anoyntyng oyle, and of the bloud whiche was vpon the altar, and sprinkled it vpon Aaron and vpon his vestimentes, vpon his sonnes, and on his sonnes vestimentes with him, and sanctified Aaron, hys vestures, and his sonnes, and his sonnes D vestures with him. And Moses said vnto Aaron and his sonnes: boyle the fleshe in the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes, and * there eate it with the bread that is E in the basket of consecration, as I commaunded, saying: Aaron and his sonnes shall eate it. And that whiche remaineth of the bread, shall ye burne with fire. And ye shall not depart from the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes.vii. dayes, vntill the dayes of your consecration be at an end. For.vii.dayes shall he fill your hand as he did this daye: euen so the lord hath commaunded to do to reconcile you with-all. Therfore shall ye abide in the dore of the Tabernacle of witnes day and night. seuen dayes long: and kepe the watche of the Lorde, and ye shal not dy: for so I am commaunded. And so Aaron and his son-nes did all thinges whiche the lord commaunded by the hand of Moses.

The.ix.Chapter.

The first offeringes of Aaron. Aaron blesseth the people, the glory of the lord is shewed.

A AND it fortuned that in the eight day Moses called Aaron and his sones, and the elders of Israell, & said vnto Aaron: Take thee a calfe, a yong one, out of the droue, for synne, and a ramme for a burnt offering, both without blemishe, and bring them before the lord. And vnto the childre of Israel thou shalt speake, saying: take ye an he goate for sinne, and a calfe, & a lambe, both two of a yere olde without blemish, for a burnt sacrifice, and an oxe and a ram for peace offeringes, to offer before the lord, and a meate offering myngled with oyle: for to daye the Lorde B will appeare vnto you. And they brought that (which Moses commaunded) before the tabernacle of witnes, and all the congregatiō came and stode before the lord.
And Moses sayd: this is the thing, which the Lord commaunded that ye should do: Heb.v.a. and the glory of the lord shal appeare vn-and.vii.d to you. *And Moses said vnto Aaron: go vnto the aultar and offre thy sacrifice, for sinne, and make an attonement for thee and for the people: And then shalte offer the offering of the people, to reconcile the, as the Lord commaunded Aaron. Therefore wente he vnto the aultar, and slewe the calfe which he had for synne. And the son-nes of Aaron broughte the bloude vnto him, and he dypte his finger in the bloud, and put it vpon the hornes of the aultar, and poured the bloud vnto the bottome of ye aultare. But the fat & the two kidneies and the abundaunce of the liuer of the sin offering, he burnt vpon the aulter, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. The flesh & C the hyde he burnt with fire without the Le.iiii.b. host. And he slewe the burnt offering. * & Aarons sonnes brought vnto him ye bloud whiche he sprinkled round about vpon ye aultar. And they brought the burnt offering vnto him with the peces therof, and the head: and he burnte it vpon the aul-tar, and dyd washe the inwardes and the legges, and burnte them vpon the burnt offring in ye aultare. And then he brought the peoples offering, takyng ye goate that the people had for the sacrifice of synne, and slewe it, and offered it for synne, as he did the first. And brought the burnt offering, and offered it as the maner was, *and broughte the meate offring, and fil- Leui.ii.a led his hand thereof, and burnte it vpon the aultar, beside the burnt sacrifice of the morning. He slewe also the oxe and the ram for the peace offering, that the people had for themselues: and Aarons sonnes brought vnto him the bloude, whiche he sprinkled vpon the aultar rounde about, and tooke the fatte of the oxe and of the ram, the rumpe, and the fatte that coue-reth the inwardes and the kidneies & the abundaunce of the liuer: and they put the fat vpō the brestes, and he burnte the fat vpon the aultar: but the brestes and the right shoulders Aaron waued for a waue offering before the Lorde, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And Aaron lift vp D his hand ouer the people, and blessed the, and came downe from offring of the sin-offering, burnte offringes & peace offringes. And Moses and Aaron went into the Tabernacle of witnes, and came out, and blessed the people, and the glory of ye Lorde appeared vnto all the people.
*And there came a fire out frō before the ii.pa.vii.a. lord & consumed vpon the altar the burnt offring and the fat. Whiche when all the ii.ma.ii.b people saw, they gaue thankes and fel on their faces.

The

The.x.Chapter.

¶ Nadab and Abihu are slaine. Israell mourneth for them. The priestes are forbidden wyne.

A And * Nadab and Abihu, the sonnes Ex.xxx.b Le.xvi.a of Aaron, toke either of them his censor, and put fire therin, and put cense therupon, and offered straunge fire be-Ex.xxx.b fore the lorde, * which he cōmaunded the not: and there went a fire oute from the Lord, and consumed them, and they dyed before the lorde. Then Moses saide unto Aaron: this is it that the lorde spake, saying: I wil be sanctified in them that come nye me, and before all the people I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace.
And Moses called Mizael and Elsaphā, the sonnes of Oziell the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them: come on, cary youre brethren from the holye place out of the hoste. And they went to them, and caried them in their albes oute of the hoste, as B Moses had saide. And Moses sayd unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and Ithamar De.viiii.a. Ier.xvi.b. his sonnes; * uncouer not your heades, nether rent your clothes, lest ye dy, & lest wrath come upon all the people: But let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewepe the burnyng which the lord hath kindled. And goe not ye out from ye doore of the Tabernacle of witnes, lest ye dye: for the anoynting oyle of God is upon you. And they dyd as Moses sayde. And the Lord spake unto Aarō, saying: Thou shalt not drinke wine and strong drinke, thou and thy sonnes that are with thee, when ye goe into the Tabernacle of witnes, lest ye dye. Let it be a lawe for euer thorowout your generations, and that ye maye (haue knowledge to) put difference be-twene holy and unholy, betwene cleane C and uncleane, and that ye maye teache the children of Israel al ye statutes which the Lorde hath spoken unto them by the hand of Moses. And Moses sayde unto
his sonnes ye wer left: take the meateoffering that remaineth of the sacrifices of ye lord, & eate it without leuen beside the altar, for it is most holy: ye shal eate it in the holy place, because it is thy duetie and thy sonnes duetie of the sacrifices of the lord: for so I am commaunded. And the wauebrest & heueshoulder shal ye eate in a clene place, thou & thy sonnes & thy daughters with thee. For they be thy duetye and thy sonnes duety geuen out of the peace offe-ringes of the childrē of Israel. The heueshoulder & the wauebrest shal they bryng ther with the sacrifices of the fat: to waue it before the lord, and it shalbe thine and thi sonnes with thee by a law for euer, as the lord hath cōmaunded. And Moses sought the goate that was offred for syn: & see, it D was burnt. And he was angrye with Eleazar & Ithamar the sonnes of Aaron, whiche were left alyue, saying: wherefore haue ye not eaten ye sin offring in the holy place, seing it is most holy: & god hath geuen it you, to beare the synne of the congregation, to make agrement for thē before the lord. Behold, the bloud of it was not brought in within the holye place: ye should haue eatē it in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aaron said unto Moses: Beholde, this daye haue they offered their syn offering & their burnt offeryng before the lord, and it is chaunced me after this maner. And if I had eatē the sacrifice to daye, should it haue been accepted in the syght of the lorde? And when Moses heard that, he was content.

The.xi.Chapter

Of beastes, which be cleane, and which be uncleane.

And the lord spake unto Moses, and A Aaron & said unto thē: Speake unto the childrē of Israel, and say: * these Le.xx.d. Deu.xiiii.a. Actes.x. are the beastes which ye shal eate among all the cattell that are on the earth, whatsoeuer parteth the hofe, & deuideth it into two clawes, and chaweth cud among the beastes, that shall ye eate. Neverthelesse, these shal ye not eate, of them that chewe cud, and deuideth the hoofes: as is ye Camel, whiche chaweth the cud, but he deuideth not ye hoofe, therefore is he uncleane unto you: euē so the cony, whiche chaweth the cud, but deuideth not the hoofe. He is unclene to you. And the hare though he chaweth the cud, yet because he deuideth not the hoofe, he is therfore uncleane to you. And again ye swine though he deuide the hoofe into.ii.clawes, yet he chaweth not ye cud. He is uncleane to you. Of their flesh shal ye not eat, & their carkesses shal ye not touch but let thē be unclene to you.
These shal ye eate of all that are in the B waters: whatsoeuer hath finnes & skales in the waters, seas and riuers, that shall ye eat. And al that haue not finnes & ska-les in the sea, and riuers, of all that moue and liue in the waters, let them be abho-mination unto you: ye shall not eate of their flesh, but abhorre their carkases. Let all that haue no finnes nor skales in the waters be abhominable unto you.

C These are they whiche ye shall abhorre among the foules, and that ought not to be eaten, for they are an abhomination. The Egle, the goshauke, and the cormorant, the vultur, and the kyte after hys kind, and al rauens after their kynde: the estryche, the nyght crowe, the cuckowe, & the owle after his kynde: the falkon, the storke, the great owle, the backe, the pellicane, the pye, the heron, the Jay after his kynd, the lapwing and the swalow. Let al foules that crepe and goe vpō al foure, be an abhomination vnto you. Yet these may ye eate, of euery crepyng thinge that hath winges & goe vpon foure fete, euen those that haue knees aboue vpon their

D fete, to leape withall vpon the earth, euen these of them ye may eate: * the Arbe after his kind: the * Selaam, after his kind: the * Hargoll after his kynd, & the * Hagab after his kynd. All other foules that moue and haue foure fete, shalbe an abhomination vnto you. In suche ye be vncleane, & whosoeuer toucheth the carkas of them, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen: & whosoeuer beareth the carkas of thē, shal wash his clothes & be vncleane vntil euē.

And euery beast that hath hoofe and deuideth it not into two clawes, nor chaweth cud, suche are vncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth thē, shalbe vncleane. And whatsoeuer goeth vpon his handes amonge all maner beastes that go on all foure fete, such are vnclene vnto you: and whoso doth touche their carkas * shalbe vncleane vntill the euē. And he that beareth the carkas of them, shal wash his clothes and be vnclene vntill the euen, for suche are vnclene vnto you. And let these

E also be vnclene to you amōg the thynges that crepe vpon the earth: the weasel, and the mouse, and the tode, after their kynd: the hedgehog, the stellio, the lacert, the snayle, and the molle: these are vncleane to you among all that crepe: whosoeuer doth touche thē when they be dead, shalbe vncleane vntill the euē. And whatsoeuer any of the dead carkasses of them doth fal vpon, shalbe vnclene, whether it be vessel of wood, or raiment, or skynne, or bagge, or whatsoeuer vessell it be that any worke is wrought in. And it muste be plunged in the water, and it shalbe vnclene vntill the euen, and so shall it be clensed. All maner of yearthen vessell wherinto any of thē falleth, shalbe vnclene with all that therein is: and * it shalbe broken. All maner meate also that is vsed to be eaten, if any suche water come vpō it, it shalbe vncleane. And all maner drinke that is vsed to bee droonke, in all maner suche vesselles, shall bee vncleane. And euerye thing that their carkas falleth vpō, shalbe vnclene. Whether it be ouen or kettle, let it

F be broken. For they are vncleane, & shalbe vncleane vnto you. Neuerthelater, yet the fountaines and welles, and colletiō of waters, shalbe cleane styll. And who so toucheth their carkases, shalbe vnclene. If the dead carkas of any suche fall vpon any sede vsed to sowe, it shal yet be cleane stil: but and if any water be powred vpon the sede, and a dead carkas fall theron, it shalbe vncleane vnto you. If any beast of whiche ye maye eate, dye, and any man touche the dead carkas thereof, he shalbe vncleane vntill the euen: he that eateth of the dead carkas of it, shall wash his clothes, and be vncleane vntill the euen. And he also that beareth the carkas of it, shall wash his clothes and be vnclene vntill euen. Let euerye creping thinge that crepeth vpon the earth be an abomination, and not be eaten. Whatsoeuer goeth

G vpon the brest, and whasoeuer goeth vpō foure, or that hath moe fete amōg all creping thinges that crepe vpon the earth, of that se ye eate not, for they are abominable. Ye shall not make youre soules abhominable with nothyng that crepeth, neyther make youre selues vncleane with them, that ye shoulde be defiled therby. For I am the lord your God. Be sanctified therfore, and ye shalbe holy, * for I am holy: and ye shall not defile youre soules with any maner of creping thing, ỹ crepeth vpon the earth. For I am the Lorde that brought you out of the lād of Egipt, to be your God: ye shall be holy therfore, for I am holy. This is the law of beastes and foules, and of euery lyuing creature that moueth in the waters, and of euerye creature that crepeth vpon ỹ yearth, that there may be a difference betwene ỹ vnclene and clene, and betwene the beaste that may be eaten, & the beast that ought not to be eaten.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The priestes must iudge who are Lepres.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: whē there appeareth a rysing in any mans fleshe, eyther a scab, or a glistryng whyte: & the plage of leprosy be in the skin of his fleshe, he shal-be brought vnto Aaron the priest, or vnto one of his sonnes the priestes: and the priest shall loke on the sore in the skyn of his fleshe. And when the heere in the sore is turned vnto white, and the sore also seme to be lower thē the skin of his flesh, it will be a plage of leprosy: & the Priestes shall looke on him, & iudge him vncleane.
If there be but a white plecke in the skin of his flesh, and seme not to be lower then the skyn, nor the heere thereof is turned vnto white, the Priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. And the priest shall loke vpō him agayne the seuenth daye. And if the plage seme to him to abyde still, and the plage grow not in the skyn, ÿ Priest shall shut hym vp yet seuen dayes mo. And the priest shal loke on him again the seuenth B daye. Then if the plage bee darker, & not growen in the skyn, the Priest shal iudge him cleane, for it is but a skyrfe. And he shall washe his clothes, and be cleane.
But and if the scabbe growe in the skyn after that he is sene of the priest, and iudged clene, he shalbe sene of ÿ priest again.
If the priest see that the scab bee grown abrod in the skin, the priest shal make him vnclene, for it is a leprosy. Whē the plage of ÿ leprosy is in a mā, he shall be brought vnto the Priest, & the Priest shal see him.
And if the rising bee white in the skyn, & haue made the heere white, and there bee raw flesh in the sore, it will be an olde leprosye in the skyn of his fleshe. And the Priest shall make him vncleane, and shal not shut him vp: seyng he is vncleane.
If a leprosy breake out abroad in ÿ skyn, and couer all the skyn, from his head to hys foote, wheresoeuer the Priest loketh, and the priest looke vpon him: And if the leprosye haue couered al hys flesh, he shal iudge the plage to bee cleane, because it is all turned into whytenes, and he shalbe cleane. But and if there be rawe flesh on hym when he is sene, he shalbe vncleane.
And the Priest shall see the rawe fleshe, and declare hym to be vncleane. For the C rawe flesh is vncleane, seing it is a leprosye. Or if the rawe fleshe depart agayne and chaunge vnto white, he shall come to the Priest, and the Priest shall see him, & behold: If the sore be chaūged vnto white (and couer the whole man) ÿ Priest shall iudge the plage clene, and he shalbe clene.
The fleshe also in whose skyn there is a byle & is healed, & in the place of the bile there appeare a white rysing, either a shining white and somwat reddish, it shalbe sene of the Priest. And if when ÿ Prieste seeth hym, it appeare lower then the skin, & the here thereof be changed vnto white, D the Priest shal iudge him vnclene: for it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the bile.
But and if the Priest looke on it & there be no white heeres therin, and if it be not lower then the skyn, but bee darker, the Priest shal shut hym vp. vii. days. And if it sprede abrod in the flesh, the Priest shal make him vncleane, seyng it is the plage.
But and if the spot stand still, and grow not, it is the print of an hote byle, and therefore the Priest shall declare him to bee cleane. If there be anye fleshe, in whose skynne there is a hoate burnyng, and the fleshe that burneth haue a white spot, somwhat reddishe or white, ÿ Priest shall looke vpon it. And if the heere in that bryghte spotte bee chaunged to whyte, and it appeare lower then the skynne, it is a leprosye broken out of the burning. And therfore the Priest shall iudge him vnclene, seyng it is ÿ plage of leprosy.

leprosi. But if the priest loke on it, & there be no white heere in the bright spot, and be no lower than the other skynne, but be darker, the priest shall shut hym vp seuen dayes. And the priest shal loke on him the seuenth daye: And if it be growen abrod in the skin, the priest shall iudge him vnclene, seyng it is the plage of leprosye.

And if the spot stande stil in it, and grow not in the skin, but is darke, it is a rysing of the burning, and the Priest shall therfore declare him cleane, seing it is y^e print of the burning. If a man or womã hath a sore vpon the head or y^e beard, the priest shal se it. And if it appeare lower thã the skin, and there be in it a yelow heere, and

E thin (more then it was woont to be,) the priest shall iudge him vnclene, seynge that the same frettyng is a token of leprosy vpon the head or beard. And if the Priest loke on the sore of the prynt, and it seme not lower then the skinne, and that the heere is not blacke, the Priest shall shut vp the fretting sore seuen daies. And in the seuenth day the Priest shal loke on the sore: and if the sore be not growen, and there be in it no yelow heere, and the sore seme not lower then the skyn, he shall bee shauen: but the place of the sore shall he not shaue, and the priest shall shut vp the sore seuen dayes moe. And in the seuenth day the Priest shal loke on the sore: And if the sore be not growen in y^e skynne, nor seme lower then the other skin, the Priest shall clense him, and he shal washe his clothes and be cleane. But if the sore grow in the fleshe after his clensinge, the priest shall loke on hym. And if the sore be growen in the skyn, y^e Priest shal not seeke for yelow heere, for he is vncleane. But if he see the print stande still, and that there is blacke heere growne vp there in, the sore is healed: and he shalbe cleane, and the Priest

F shall declare him to be clene. If there be white spottes in the skyn of the fleshe of man or woman, the Priest shal loke vpon it. And if the spottes in the skyn of their fleshe be somwhat darke & white withall, (he may be sure that it is no leprosie) it is a frekel growing in y^e flesh. Therfore is he cleane. And the manne whose head is destitute of heere, (whereby he is made balde) is cleane. And he that hath his heere out in his forehead, is forehead balde, and cleane. If there bee in the balde head or bald forehead, a white reddish sore scabbe, there is leprosy spronge vp in his bauld head or bauld forehead.

And the Priest shal loke vpon him, and if the rysing of the sore be white reddishe in his baulde head or baulde forehead, after the maner of leprosy which is in the skin of the flesh, then he is a leprous man and vncleane. And the Priest shall make him vncleane, for the plage thereof is in his head. The leper in whom y^e plage is, shall haue his clothes rent, and his head bare, and shall put a coueringe vpon his lip, and shalbe called vncleane and defiled. And as long as y^e disease lasteth vpon him, he shalbe defiled and vncleane: he shal dwel alone, euen * without the host shal his habitation be. The cloth that the plage of leprosie is in, whether it be linne or wollen, whether it bee in the warpe or wofe of linnẽ or of wollen: ether in a skin or any thing made of skin, if the disease be pale or somwhat reddishe in the clothe or skin: whether it be in y^e warpe or wofe, or any thing that is made of skin, then it is a plage of leprosy, and shall be shewed vnto the priest. The Priest therfore shall se the plage, and shutt it vp seuen dayes, and looke on the plage the seuenth daye. Which if it be encreased in y^e clothe (whether it be in y^e warpe or wofe, or in a skin) or in any thing that is made of skin, it is the leprosye of a frettinge sore. it is vncleane: and that clothe shalbe burnt, ether warpe or wofe, whether it be wollen or linnen, or any thing that is made of skin, wherin the plage is, for it is a fretting leprosye, it shal be burnte in the fyre. If the priest see that the plage is not growen in the clothe, eyther in the warpe or wofe, or in whatsoeuer thĩg of skin it be: the priest shal commaunde them to washe the thing wherin the plage is, and he shal shut it vp seuen dayes moe. And the priest shall loke on the plage again, after y^t it is washed. And if the plage haue not chaunged his colour, and is spred no further abrode, it is vnclene. Thou shalte burne it in the fyre, for it is a fret inwarde: in part or in altogether. And if the priest see that the plage is darker after that it is washed, he shall rent it out of the cloth, or out of the skin, or out of the warpe, or out of y^e wofe. And if it appere any more in the clothe (ether in y^e warpe or in the wofe, or in ani thing made of skin) it is a waxing plage. Thou shalt burne the plage that is in it. Moreouer y^e cloth, ether warpe or wofe, or whatsoeuer thyng of skyn it be whiche thou hast washed, if the plage bee departed therefrom, it shall be washed once againe the lawe of the plage of leprosy in a cloth whether it be wollen or lynnen:either in

The.xiiii.Chapter.

The clensing of the lepre,and of the house that he is in.

A AND the lord spake vnto Moses,say Ma.viii.a ing:*this is the law of the Lepre mark.i.d in the daye of his clensing:He shall Luke.v.c be brought vnto the priest, and the priest c.xvii.c. shall goe out without the host,and looke vpon him. And if the plage of leprosy be healed in the leper, then shal the priest cō maūd that he which is to be clensed,bring ii.liuinge byrdes and cleane, and cedar wood,and purple cloth,and ysope. And ẏ priest shal commaund that one of the birdes be killed in an earthen vessell,& vpon renning water. And he shall take the liuing byrde with the cedar wood, the purple and the ysope,and shall dyppe thē and the liuing byrd in the bloude of the slayn byrd vpō the renning water,and sprinkle vpon him(that must be clensed of his leprosye)seuen times,and clense hym, and shall let the liuing byrd goe free into the field. And he that is clensed, shall washe B his clothes,and shaue of al his heere,and washe himselfe in water, that he may be cleane. And after that shall he come into the host,and shall tarye without his tent seuen dayes: but in the seuenth daye he shall shaue of all his heere: namelye his head,his beard,and his browes:euen all his heere shalbe shauen of. And he shall washe his clothes and his flesh in water, and he shalbe cleane.
In the eight day he shal take two lam-bes without blemishe, & an ewe lambe of a yere olde without blemish,& three tenth Minha. deales of fyne floure for a*meateofferīg, mingled with oyle,and a logge of oyle.
And the prieste that maketh him cleane, shall brynge the man that is to bee made cleane,and those thinges,before the lord, euen before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And the priest shal take one lābe, and offer him for trespace, and the logge of oyle,and waue thē beefore the Lorde.
And he shall slaye the lambe in the place where the synne offeryng and the burnt offering are slayne,euē in the holy place.
For as the sinne offering is, euē so is the trespace offeringe the priestes:seing it is most holy. And the priest shall take of the bloud of the trespace offeringe, and put it vpon the typpe of the ryght eare of hym that is to be cleansed,and vpon the thūbe of his right hand and vpon the great toe of his right foote. The priest shall take of the logge of oyle, and powre it into the C palme of his left hande,and dip his right finger in the oyle that is in his left hand, and sprinkle of the oyle with his fynger seuen tymes before the lorde. And of the rest of the oile that is in his hand,shal the priest put vpon the typ of the right eare of him that is for to be clensed,and vpō the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great toe of his right foote, euē vpon the bloud of ẏ trespace offering. And the remnant of the oyle ẏ is in the priestes hand, he shall powre vpon the head of him that is for to be clensed:& the priest shall make an attonement for him before the lorde: And the priest shall offer the sinne offeringe, and make an attonement for him that is to be clensed for his vnclennesse.
And then shall he kill the burnt offering, and the priest shall offer ẏ burnt offeringe and the meate offering vpon the altar: & the priest shall make an attonement for him,and he shalbe cleane.
*If he be poore, and can not geat so muche he shall take one lambe for a tres-pace offering to waue it for his clensing, and a tenth deale of fine floure mingled with oyle for a meat offering,and a logge of oyle,and.ii.turtle doues, or.ii. younge pigeons,such as he is able to geat, wher-of the one shalbe for sinne, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shall bringe them the eight daye for his clensing vnto the priest before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes,before the Lorde. And the priest shall take the lambe that is for the trespace,and the logge of oyle, and shall waue them before the lorde. And he shall kil the lambe for the trespace,and ẏ priest shal take of the bloud of the trespace offering, and put it vpon the tip of his right eare that is to be clensed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande,and vpon the greate toe of his right foote. And ẏ priest shal powre of the oile into his right hand, and ẏ priest shal with his finger sprinkle of the oyle that is in his left hande, seuen times before the lord. And the priest shall put of the oyle that is in his hande, vpon the tip of the right eare of him that is to be clensed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hand,and vpon the great toe of his right foote: euen in the place where the bloud of the trespace offeringe was put.
And the rest of the oyle that is in the priestes stes hande, he shal put vpon the head of him that is to be cleansed, that he may make an attonement for him before the C Lorde. And he shal offer one of the turtle doues, or of the yong pigeons, such as he can get: the one for a synne offeryng, and the other for a burnt offeryng, with the meate offering. And the Priest shal make an attonement for him that is to be clen-sed before the Lorde. This is the law of him in whom is the plage of leprosy, and whose hand is not able to get that which pertaineth to his clensing. And the Lord E spake vnto Moses and Aaron, sayeng: when ye be come vnto the land of Cana-an which I geue you in possession, and if I put the plage of leprosie in a house of the lande of your possession, he that oweth the house shal come, and tell the Pryeste, sayeng: me thinke that there is as it were a leprosy in the house. And þ Priest shall commaũde them to emptie the house before the Priest goe into it to se the plage: that all that is in the house be not made vncleane, and then must the Priest goe in to se the house. If þ Priest also se that the plage is in the walles of the house, and that there be holowe strakes, pale or redd which seme to be lower than the wal it selfe, the Priest shall goe out at þ house dores, and shut vp the house seuẽ dayes.

And the Priest shall come agayne the seuenth day, and if he se that the plage bee encreased in the walles of the house, the Priest shall commaunde them to take away the stones in whiche the plage is, and let them cast them into a foule place without the citie: and he shal commaunde the house to be scraped within rounde about, and powre out the dust (that they scrape of) without the citie into a foule F place. And they shall take other stones, and put them in þ places of those stones, and other morter, to playster the house withall. And if the plage come again and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken awaye the stones, and scraped the wales of the house, and after that he hath playstred the house a new: the Priest shal come and se it. And if he perceiue that the plage hath growen further in the house, it is a fretting leprosie in the house. It is therfore vncleane. And he shall breake down the house. And the stones of it, and the tymber therof, and all the morter of the house, shal he cary out of the citie vnto a foule place. Moreouer, he that goeth into the house al the while that it is shutt vp, shalbe vncleane vntill the euen. He that slepeth in the house shall washe hys clothes: he likewise that eateth in the house, shall washe hys clothes. And if the G Priest come and se that the plage hath spred no further in the house (after that it is new plaistred) the Priest shall iudge that house cleane, bicause þ plage is healed. And let hym take to clense the house withall, two birdes, cedar wood, purple cloth and ysope. And he shall kyll one of the birdes in an earthen vessel, and vpon running water: and take the cedar wood and the ysope, and the purple, with the liuing birde, and dipp them in the bloud of the slain birde, and in the running water and sprynkle the house seuen tymes, and clense the house with the bloud of þ birde and wyth the running water, with the liuing birde, with the cedar wood and the ysope, and the purple clothe. But he shall let the liuing birde flee out of the towne into the brode fieldes, and so make an attonemẽt for the house, & it shalbe cleane.
This is the law for al maner plage of leprosie, and breakig out, and of the leprosie of cloth and house, for a swelling, for a scab, and for a white blister. To teache when it must be made vncleane, & cleane.
Thys is the law of leprosie.

The.xv.Chapter.

¶ The maner of purging the vncleane both of men and women.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, A and Aaron, sayeng: Speake vnto þ children of Israell, & say vnto them.
Whosoeuer hath a rũning issue out of his flesh, is vncleane by reasõ of þ issue. And thys shalbe þ token of hys vnclennesse in hys issue, whẽ he is vncleane. If his flesh runn, or if his flesh cõgele by þ reason of hys yssue, thẽ is it vnclennesse. Euery couche wheron he lyeth þ hath þ yssue, is vnclene, & euery thyng wheron he sitteth is vnclene. Whosoeuer toucheth his couch shal wash hys clothes, & bath hymselfe in water, and be vnclene vntyll the euen.
And he that sitteth on any thyng wheron he sat that hath the yssue, shall wash hys clothes & bath hymself in water, & be vn-clene vntyl the euening. He þ toucheth þ flesh of hym þ hath the yssue, shall washe hys clothes, & bath himself in water, & be vnclene vnto þ euen. If he also that hath the yssue, spyt vpon hym that is clene, he shal wash his clothes, & bath hymselfe in water, & be vnclene vntyl euẽ. And what horse harnesse soeuer he rydeth vpõ that hath the yssue, shalbe vncleane. And who soeuer toucheth any thyng that was vnder hym, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And he that beareth any such thynges, shal wash hys clothes, and bath hymselfe in water, and be vnclene vnto the euen.

B And whosoeuer he toucheth that hath the yssue (and haue not first wasshed hys handes in water) shal wash hys clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane Le.vi.d. and.xi.f. vnto the euen. *The vessel of earth that he toucheth, which hath the yssue, shalbe brokẽ: and al vessels of wood shalbe rynsed in water. Whẽ he also that hath an yssue, is clẽsed of hys yssue, he shal nomber vii. dayes for hys clensyng, and wash hys clothes, and bath hys fleshe in runnyng water, & so shal he be clene. And the .viii. day he shal take vnto hym two turtle doues, or two yong pigeons, & come before the Lord vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, & geue them vnto the Priest. And the Priest shall offer them: the one for a syn offeryng, & the other for a burnt offeryng: and the Priest shal make an atonemente for hym before the Lorde, as cõcernyng hys yssue. If any mannes sede depart frõ hym in hys slepe, he shal wash hys fleshe in water, & be vncleane vntill euen. And al the clothes & all the furres wherin is such sede of slepe, shalbe wa-C shed with water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. And if he ẏ hath suche an yssue of sede, do lye wyth a womã, they shal both wash themselues wyth water, and be vncleane vntyl euẽ. If a womans naturall course of bloud doe run, she shalbe putt a part .vii. dayes: whosoeuer toucheth her, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And all that she lyeth vpon, in the tyme of her naturall disease, shalbe vncleane: like as euery thyng also that she sitteth vpon, is vncleane. Whosoeuer toucheth her bedde, shal wash hys clothes, and bath hymselfe wyth water, & be vncleane vnto the euẽ. And whosoeuer toucheth any thing that she sate vpon, shal wash hys clothes, and bath hymselfe in water, & be vnclene vnto the euen: so that whether he touch her couche, or any vessell wheron she hath sitten, he shalbe vncleane vnto the euen.
Leuit. xviii c. *And if a man lye wyth her, and her vnclennesse come vpon hym, he shalbe vncleane .vii. daies, and al the couche wheron he lyeth shalbe vncleane.
Mat.ix.c. *When a womans bloud rũneth long D tyme, out of ẏ tyme of her natural course: or if it run beyond her naturall course, let all the dayes of the yssue be iudged vncleane, euen as the dayes of her naturall disease. And she shalbe vncleane. Al her couches wheron she lyeth (as long as her yssue lasteth) shalbe as her couche when she hath her natural disease. And whatsoeuer she sitteth vpon, shalbe vncleane, as is her vnclẽnesse when she is put a parte. And whosoeuer toucheth any of these, shalbe vncleane, & shal wash his clothes, & bath hymselfe in water, & be vncleane vnto euen. And after that she is clensed of her yssue, she shal count her .vii. dayes, and after that, she shalbe cleane. In the viii. daye she shall take vnto her two turtles, or two yong pigeons, and bryng thẽ vnto the Priest before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the Priest shal offer the one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering: and make an atonemẽt for her before the Lord, as concerning the yssue of her vnclennesse. Therfore shal ye seperate the children of Israell from their vnclennesse, that they dye not in their vnclennesse, if they defile my habitation that is among them. This is the law of hym that hath a runnyng yssue, and of hym whose sede runneth frõ hym in hys slepe, and is defyled therein: and of her ẏ (for her naturall disease) is put a part, and of whosoeuer hath a runnyng yssue, whether it be mã or woman, and of hym that lyeth wyth her which is vncleane.

The .xvi. Chapter.

¶ What Aaron must doe. The clensing of the Sanctuary. Of the feast of the clensing. Aaron confesseth the synnes of the children of Israell.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, * after the death of the .ii. sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the Lorde, and dyed. And he sayd vnto Moses: Speake vnto Aarõ thy brother, that he come not at al tymes into ẏ holy place within the vayle before the mercyseate, which is vpon the Arke, that he dye not. For I wil appeare in the * cloud vpõ the mercyseate. But wt thys thyng shall Aaron come into the holy place, euen with a bullocke for syn, & with a ram for a burnt offryng. He shal put the holy linnen albe vpõ hym, & shal haue a lynnẽ brech vpon his flesh, & shalbe girded wt a linnen girdle, & put the linnẽ mitre vpon hys head. These are ẏ holy garmẽtes: therfore shal he wash hys flesh in water, whẽ he doth put thẽ on. And he shall take of the mul-

B and for hys house. And he shall take the two goates, and present them before the lord at the dore of the tabernacle of wit-nesse. And Aaron shall cast lottes ouer ye two goates: one lot shalbe for the Lorde, and ye other for the scapegoate. And Aarõ shal bring the goate vpõ which ye Lordes lot fell, and offer hym for sin. But ye goate on which ye lot fel to scape, shalbe set aliue before the Lord, to reconcile wyth, and to let him goe (as a scapegoate) free into the wildernesse. And Aaron shall bryng hys bullocke for synne, and reconcile for himselfe, and for hys house, and shal kyll hys bullocke for synn. And he shal take a sen-ser ful of burning coles out of the altare C before the Lord, and shall fyll hys hande ful of swete cense beaten smal, and bryng them within the vayle, and put the sense vpon the fier before the Lord: ye the cloud of the sense maye couer the mercyseate that is vpon ye witnesse, and ye he dye not.

bloud of the bullocke, sprynkling it vpon the mercyseate, and before ye mercyseate.
And he shal recõcile ye holy place from the vnclennesses of the children of Israel, and frõ their trespaces in al their sinnes.
And so shall he doe for the tabernacle of when he goeth in to make an attonemẽt in the holy place, vntil he come out. And let hym make an attonement for hymself and for hys housholde, and for al ye multitude of Israel. And he shal go out vnto the altare that is before the Lord, and reconcile vpon it, and shal take of the bloud of the bullock, and of the bloud of ye goate and put it vpon the hornes of the altare round about, and sprinkle of the bloud vpon it with his fynger. vii. tymes, & clẽse it, and halow it from the vnclennesses of the chyldrẽ of Israell. And when he hath made an ende of reconciling ye holy place, and the tabernacle of witnesse, and the altare, he shall bryng the liue goate: and Aaron shal put both his handes vpon the head of the liue goate, and confesse ouer hym al the mysdedes of the childre of Israel, and al their trespaces, in al their sin- E nes, puttyng them vpon the head of the goate, and sende hym away (by the hand of a cõuenient man) into the wildernesse.

And the goate shal beare vpon hym all their misdedes vnto the wildernesse, and he shal let the goate goe free into the wil-dernesse. And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of witnesse, and put of the linnen clothes whiche he putt on (when he went in into the holy place) and leaue the there. And let hym wash hys fleshe wyth water in the holy place, and putt on hys owne raymente, and then come out, and offer hys burnt offering, and the burnte offeryng of the people, and make an at-

The.xvii.Chapter.

All sacrifice must be brought to the dore of the tabernacle. To deuils may they not offer.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Speake vnto Aaron, to his sonnes, & vnto al the children of Israel, and say vnto thē: This is the thing which ẏ lord hath charged, sayeng: what man soeuer of the house of Israell killeth an oxe, or lambe, or goate, in the host, or that killeth it out of the host, & bringeth B it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, to offer an offeryng vnto ẏ lord before ẏ dwelling place of ẏ lord, bloude shalbe imputed vnto ẏ man, as thoughe he had shed bloud: & that mā shalbe rooted out from amōg his people. Wherfore, when the children of Israel bryng theyr offerynges, that they offer in the wyde fielde, they should bryng them vnto the Lord: euen vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse to ẏ Priest, to offer them for peace offerynges vnto the Lord. And the Priest must sprinkle the bloud vpon ẏ altare of the Lord: which is before ẏ dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, & burne the fat for a swete sauoure vnto ẏ lorde. And let them no more offer their offerynges vnto deuils, after whom they haue gone a whoryng. This shalbe an ordinaūce for euer vnto them in their generations.
C And thou shalt say vnto them: whatsoeuer mā it be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which soiourne amōg you, that offereth a burnt offeryng or sacrifice and bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse to offer it vnto the Lord, that man shal peryshe from among hys people. And whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israell, or of the strangers that soiourne among you, that eateth any maner of bloud, I wyl set my face against that soule that eateth bloud, and wyl destroy hym from amōg hys people: for the lyfe of the flesh is in the bloud & I haue geuē it vnto you vpō the altare, to make an attonement for your soules: for bloud shal make an attonemente for the soule.
And therfore I sayd vnto the children of Israel: let no soule of you eate bloud. Nether let any stranger ẏ soiourneth amōg D you eate bloud. And whatsoeuer mā it be of the childrē of Israel, or of the strāgers that soiourne among you, which hunteth the lyfe of all fleshe is the bloud therof:

ry soule that eateth it which dyed alone, or that which was torne wyth wyld beastes, whether it be one of your selues, or a stranger, he shal wash his clothes, and bath hymselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen, and then shal he be cleane.
If he washe them not nor bath hys flesh, he shal beare hys synne.

abhominations: neither any of you, nor any stranger that soiourneth among you (for al these abhominations haue the mẽ of the land done which were there before you, and the lande is defiled.) Shall not the lande spewe you out also (if ye defyle

¶ A law for the Priestes.

A AND the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Speake vnto the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron, and saye vnto them. Let none be defiled vpon a soule among his people: but vpon his kinsman that is nye vnto him, vpon his father, and his mother, vpon sonne and daughter, & his brother, and on his sister a maide that is nie vnto him, whom no man hath knowē vpon her shal he be defiled. But he shall not be defiled vpon him that hath authoritie among his people, to pollute himself for him. Let them not make *baldnesse vpon their head, nor shaue of the lockes of their bearde, nor make any markes in their fleshe. They shalbe holy vnto their God, & not pollute the name of their god B for the sacrifices of the Lorde, which are as the bread of their God, they do offer: therfore they shalbe holy. *Let them not take a wife that is an aduoutresse, or polluted, nor put from her husband: for suche a one is holy vnto his God. Thou shalte sanctifie him therfore, for he offereth vp the bread of thy God: he shal therfore be holy vnto thee, for I the Lord which sāctifie you am holy. If a Priestes daughter fal to play the whore, she poluteth her father: therfore must she be burnt with fier. He that is the hie Priest among his brethren, vpō whose head the anointing oile was powred, & that cōsecrated his hande to put on the bestmentes, shall not vncouer his head, nor rent his clothes, *neither go to any dead body, nor make himselfe vnclene on his father or his mother C neither shal go out of the Sāctuary, nor polute the holy place of his God: for the crowne of the anointing oile of his God is vpon him: I am the Lord. * He shal take a maide vnto his wife: but a widow, a deuorsed woman, or an harlot, shall he not mary. But shal take a maide of his owne people to wife. Neither shal he defile his D sede among his people: for I am the lord which sanctifie him. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Speake vnto Aaron, & say, Whosoeuer of thy sede in their generations hath any deformitie, let him not preace for to offer bread vnto his God. *For whosoeuer hath any blemish, shal not come nere: as if he be blinde, or lame, or that hath a brused nose, or ẏ hath any misshapen membre, or is brokē foted or brokē handed, or haue no heere on his eye browes, or haue a web or other blemish in his eye, or be maungie, or skauld, or hath his stones broken. No man that hath a blemish, & is of the sede of Aaron the Priest, shall come nye to offer the sacrifices of the Lord. When he hath a deformitie, lett him not preace to offer the bread of his God. Let him eate the bread of his God: euen of the most holy, and of the holy: Only let him not go in vnto the vaile, nor come nie the altare, when he is deformed, that he pollute not my Sanctuary, for I am the Lorde that sanctifie them. But whatsoeuer hath a blemysh, that shall ye not offer, for ye shall get no fauoure therwith. And whosoeuer bringeth a peaceofferyng vnto the Lord (according as he is appointed,) or a vow, or a freewill offeryng, in oxe or shepe that is without deformitie, he shalbe accepted. There shalbe also no blemishe therein: blinde, or broken, or wounded, or haue a wen, or be maungy, or scabbed. Ye shall not offer such vnto the Lord, nor put an offeryng of any such vpon the altare vnto the lord. An oxe or a shepe that hath a- D ny member out of propoziō, mayst thou offer for a freewil offeryng: but for a vow it shall not be accepted. Ye shall not offer vnto ye lord, that which is brused, or broken, or plucked out, or cut away, neyther shal you make any such in your land: neither of a straungers hande shall ye offer bread vnto your god of any such. Bicause their corruptiō is in them, and they haue deformitie in themselues, and therefore shal they not be accepted for you. And the lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: When an oxe, or a shepe, or a goate is broughtforth it shalbe .vii. dayes vnder the dam. And from the .viii. day fourth, it shalbe accepted for a sacrifice vnto the lord. And whether it be oxe or shepe, ye shall not kill it, and her yong, both in one day. When ye wil offer a thankeoffering vnto the lord, offer it that ye may be accepted. And thesame day it must be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntill the morowe. I am the lord. Therefore shall ye kepe my commaundementes, and do them. I am the lord. Nether shal ye polute my holy name but I will be halowed among the childrē of Israell. I am the lorde, which halowe you, and that brought you out of the land of Egipt, to be your God: I am the Lord.

dayes. And ye shal bring a new meate offring vnto the lord. And ye shal bring out of youre habitations two waue loaues, made of two tenth deales of fine floure, & that are made with leauē, for first fruites vnto the lord. And ye shall bring with the nu.xxviii.b bread * vii. lambes withoute deformitye of one yere of age, & one yong oxe, & two rammes, which shall serue for a burnt offering vnto the lord, with meatoffringes & their drinkofferinges, to be a sacrifice for D a swete sauour vnto ŷ lord. Then ye shall offer an he goat for a sinoffring: and two lābes of one yere olde for a peaceoffring.
And the Priest shall waue them with the bread of the first fruites before the lord, & with the .ii. lambes. And these holy thyn-ges of the lord, shalbe the priests. And ye shal proclaime the same daie ŷ it maie bee & ye shal do no laborious worke therein.

XUM

These are the feastes of the Lorde which ye shall cal holy conuocations, for to offer sacrifice vnto ŷ lord, burnt offring: meate offring, peace offring, & drinke offringes, euery day his due sacrifice beside ŷ Sabbothes of the lord, and beside your gifts, beside your vowes, and all youre freewill offringes, whiche ye geue vnto the lorde.
Moreouer in the. xv. daye of the seuenth moneth, whē ye haue gathered in ŷ fruite of the land, ye shal kepe holy day vnto the lord seuen daies. The firste daie shalbe as a Sabboth: likewise in the eight day shal G be the rest of the Sabboth. And ye shal take you in the first daie, ŷ fruits of goodly trees, braunches of Palme trees, and the boughes of thicketrees, & willowes of the brooke, & shall reioyce before ŷ lord your God seuen daies. And ye shall kepe this feast vnto the lord seuen daies in the yere. It shalbe a law for euer in your generations, ŷ ye kepe it in the seuenth mo-neth. ye shal dwell in boothes. vii. daies. euen all that are Israelites borne, shall dwell in boothes, that your children after you maie knowe howe that I made the children of Israel to dwell in boothes, when I broughte them out of the land of Egipte: I am the Lorde youre God. And Moses spake vnto the children of Israel concerning the feastes of the Lorde.

The. xxiiii. Chapter

¶ The oyle for the lampes. He that curseth must be stoned. He that killeth shalbe killed.

A AND the lord spake vnto Moses, say-Ex. xxvii. d. ing: *commaund the children of Israell that they bring vnto thee, pure oyle oliue beaten for lightes, to cause the lampes to burne alway, without the vail of witnes: in the Tabernacle of witnesse, shal Aaron dresse them both euen & morning, before the lord alwaies. Let it be a law for euer in your generatiōs. He shall dresse the lampes vpon the pure candlesticke before ŷ lord perpetually. And thou shalt take fine floure, & bake. xii. wastels thereof, two tenthdeales shalbee in one wastell. And thou shalt sette them in two rowes. vi. on a rowe, vpon the pure table before the lorde: & put pure frankensence vpō the rowes, that thei maie be bread of remembraunce, & an offring to the lorde.
Euery Sabboth he shal put thē in rowes B before the Lord euermore: of the children
i. Ki. xxi. a of Israel shall they be offred for an euer-Le. xxiiii. b. lasting couenaunt. *And they shalbe Aarons & his sonnes, which shall eate them in the holy place. For they are most holye vnto hym of the offeringes of the Lorde, by a perpetuall statute. And the sonne of an Israelitish wife, whose father was an Egiptian, went oute among the chyldren of Israel. And this sone of the Israelitish wife, and a man of Israel stroue together in the hoste. And the Israelitish womans sonne *blasphemed the name of the lord, Exo. xx and *cursed, and they brought hym vnto Leui. ...
Moses. His mothers name was Salomith, whiche was the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan: and they put him in Num. ... warde, that the mind of the lord might be shewed them. And ŷ lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge; bring ŷ cursed speaker without the host, & let all that heard him, putte their handes vpon his head, & let all the multitude stone him. And thou shalt speke C vnto the children of Israel, saying: Whosoeuer curseth his God, shall beare hys sinne. And he that blasphemeth the name of the lord, let him be slain: & all the multitude shall stone him to death. Whether he be borne in the lād or a straūger, when D he blasphemeth the name of ŷ lord, let him Exodus be slaine. And he that killeth any mā, let xxi. b. him die ŷ death. And he ŷ killeth a beaste, let him make him good, soule for soule.
And if a man mayme his neighbour, as he hath doone, so shall it be done to hym: broke for broke, *eye for eye, and toothe Math. v.
for tooth: euen as he hath maymed a mā, Exo. xxi. so shal he be maymed again. And he that killeth a beast, let him pay for it: & he that killeth a mā, let him dye. ye shal haue one maner of lawe, euē for ŷ straūger aswell as for one of your selues: for I am ŷ lord your God. And Moses told the childrē of Israell, and they broughte him (that had cursed) out of the hoste, & stoned him with stones. And the children of Israel dyd as the Lord commaunded Moses.

The. xxv. Chapter.

¶ The Sabboth of the seuen yeres, and of the yere of Jubely, otherwise called the fiftieth yere.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses in A mount Sinai, saying: Speake vnto ŷ children of Israel, & saye vnto them Whē ye be come into ŷ land which I geue you, the land shal rest, and kepe Sabboth vnto ŷ lord. *Sixe yeres thou shalt sowe Ex. xxiii. thy field, & vi. yeres ŷ shalte cut thy vineyard, & gather in the fruit therof. But the *seuenth yere shall be a Sabboth of reste vnto ŷ land. The lordes Sabboth it shall De. xv. a be: thou shalt nether sow thy field, nor cut thy vineyarde. That which groweth of ŷ own accorde thou shalt not reape, neither gather

gather ẏ grapes, ẏ thou hast left behind, for it is a yere of rest vnto the land. And ẏ rest of the land shalbe meate for you: euen for thee, for thy seruaunt, & for thy mayd, for thy hired seruant, & for the straunger that soiourneth with thee: & for thy cattel & for the beastes that are in thy land, shall al the encrease therof be meate. And thou shalt number seuen Sabbothes of yeres vnto thee, euen seuen times seuen yere: & the space of the seuē Sabbothes of yeres, wil be vnto thee nine and forty yere.

B And then thou shalt make a trūpe blowe, in the tenth day of the seuenth moneth: euē in the daie of attonement shal ye make the trumpe blowe, thorowoute all youre land. And thou shalt halowe ẏ yere, euen the fiftieth yere, & proclaime libertie thorowout the lande, vnto all the inhabiters therof. For it shalbe a yere of Jubely vnto you, & ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession, and euerye man vnto his kinred again. A yere of Jubely shall that fiftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shal not sow, neither reape that whiche groweth of it selfe, neither gather the grapes that are left. For that yere of Jubely shalbe holye vnto you: but ye shall eate of the encrease therof out of the field. In the yere of this Jubely, ye shal returne euery mā vnto his possessiō again. If thou sellest ought vnto thy neighboure, or byest of thy neighbours hand, ye shal not deceiue one another: but according to the nūber of yeares after ẏ Jubely yere, thou shalt bye of thy neighbour: & according vnto ẏ number of yeres, and of the fruites, he shall sell vnto the. According vnto ẏ multitude of yeres, he shal encrease the price thereof: and according vnto the fewnes of yeres, he shal minishe the pryce of it: for the number of fruites doeth he sell vnto thee. * Deceiue not ye therfore euery man his neighbor, but thou shalt feare thy God. For I am the Lord your God: Wherfore ye shall do after mine ordinaūces, & kepe my lawes, and doe them, & ye shal dwell in the lande in safetie. And the lād shal geue her fruit, and ye shall eate your fil, and dwel therin in safetie. And if ye shal say: what shal we eate the seuēth yere, for we shal not sowe, nor gather in our encrease? I wil send my blessing vpon you in the sixth yere, and it shal bring furth fruit for thre yeres: and ye shall sowe the eight yere, and eate yet of old corne vntil the ninthe yere: euē vn-

D til her fruites come, ye shal eate of olde store. The lād shal not be sold to be wast: for * the land is mine, & ye be but straungers and soiourners with me.

In al the land of your possession ye shal graunt a redemption for the land. If thy brother * bee waxed poore, & hath solde awaie of his possession, & if anie of his kin come to redeme it, let him bie oute that which his brother sold. And if he haue no mā to redeme it, let his hand get so much as maie be sufficient to bie it out againe: and let him count how long it hath bene sold, and deliuer the rest vnto the man to whom he solde it, that he maie returne to his possession againe. But and if his hāde cannot geat sufficient to restore to the other againe: then that which is solde shal remain in the hand of him ẏ hath bought it, vntil ẏ yere of Jubelie: & in the Jubelie, it shal come oute, and he shal returne vnto his possession againe. And if a mā sel a house or a dwelling within ẏ walles of a citie, he maie bie it out againe within a whole yere after it is sold: euē anie daie of the yere shal he redeme it againe. But and if he bie it not out againe within the space of a ful yeare, then the house that is in the walled citie, shalbe stablished, and bee his owne that bought it, and his successours after him, and shal not go out in the Jubelie. But the houses of villages, which haue no walles round about them are counted as the fielde of the countrey, and therfore thei maie be bought out againe, and shal retourne in the Jubely. Notwithstanding, the cities of the Leuites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, maie the Leuites redeme at al seasons. And if a man purchase oughte of the Leuites, the house that was solde and the citie of their possession shal goe out in the yere of Jubely: for ẏ houses of the cities of the Leuites, are their possession among the childrē of Israel. But the field of the suburbe that is beside their cities, maie not bee solde, but is their perpetual possessiō. If thy brother bee waxē poore, & fallē in decaie with thee, thou shalt releue him, both the strāger & soiorner, that he maie liue with thee. * And thou shalte take none vsurie of him, or vauntage, but thou shalt feare thy God, that thy brother maie liue with thee. Thou shalt not geue him thy mony vpon vsury, nor lende him thy corne for encrease. I am the lorde your God, whiche brought you out of the lande of Egipte, to geue you the land of Canaā, and to be your God. * If thy brother that dwelleth by thee, be waxē pore, and and be sold vnto thee, thou shalt not compel him to the bondage of seruantes:but as an hyred seruaunt, and as a soiourner he shalbe with thee, ⁊ shall serue thee vnto the yere of Jubely:and then shal he depart from thee, bothe he and his children with him, ⁊ shall retourne vnto his owne kynred again, and vnto the possession of his fathers: for they are my seruauntes, which I brought out of the lãd of Egipt, and shall not therfore be sold as bondmẽ. Thou shalt not raigne ouer hym cruelly, but shalt feare thy God. Thy bonde seruaunt, and thy bondmayde whiche thou shalt haue, shalbe of the heathen, that are rounde about you, of them shal ye purchase seruauntes and maydens, and of the chil-

G dren of the straungers that are soiorners among you, and of their generatiõs that are with you, which they begatte in your land. These shalbe your possession, and ye shall take them as inheritaunce for your children after you to possesse thẽ:thei shal be your bondmẽ for euer. But ouer your brethren ẏ children of Israel, ye shall not raigne one ouer an other cruelly. If a soiorner or straunger ware riche by thee, and thy brother ẏ dwelleth by him ware poore, and sell himself vnto the straunger or soiorner by thee, or to any of ẏ straungers kinne:after that he is solde, he maye be redemed again, one of his brethrẽ (that wil) either his vncle, or his vncles sonnes, may bie him out: or any ẏ is nye of kinne vnto him of his kinred, may redeme him: either if his hãd can geat so much, he may be loosed. And he shal reken with him ẏ boughte him from the yeare that he was sold in, vnto ẏ yere of Jubely, ⁊ the pryce of his bying shalbe valued according vnto the number of yeres. As an hyred seruaunt shal he be with him. If there be yet many yeres behinde, accordyng vnto thẽ let him geue again for his deliueraunce, of the money that he was bought for. If there remain but few yeres vnto the yere of Jubely, let him coũt with him again, ⁊ according vnto his yeres, geue him again for his redemption: ⁊ he shal be with him yere by yere as an hired seruãte, and the other shal not raigne cruelly ouer him in thy sight. If he be not redemed thus, he shal go out in the yere of Jubely, bothe he and his children with him: for the childrẽ of Israell are my seruauntes, whiche I brought out of the lande of Egipte. I am the lorde your god.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

They are blessed that kepe those thinges ẏ god biddeth.

YE shal * make you no ydols nor grauẽ image, neither reare you vp any stone, neyther shal ye set vp any ymage of stone in youre land to worship it, for I am the lord your god:ye shal kepe my Sabbothes, ⁊ feare my sanctuary: For I am the Lorde. If ye walke in mine ordinaunces, and kepe my commaundementes, ⁊ doe them, I wyll send you rain in the right seasõ, ⁊ the lãd shal yeld her increase, and the trees of the field shal geue their fruit. And the threshing shall reache vnto the wine haruest, ⁊ the wine haruest shall reach vnto sowing time, and ye shal eate your bread in plenteousnes, ⁊ dwel in your land peaceably. And I wil send peace in the lãd, ⁊ ye shal slepe without any mã to make you afraid. And I wil ridde euil beastes oute of the land, and there shall no swerd go thorowout your lande. And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you vpõ the swerd. * And fiue of you shall chase an hundred, and an hundred of you, shal put ten thousande to flighte: and youre enemies shall fal before you vpon the swerd. For I will haue respecte vnto you, and make you encrease ⁊ multiply you, ⁊ sette vp my couenaunt with you. And ye shall eate old store, ⁊ carie out old for the new. * And I will make my dwelling place among you, ⁊ my soule shall not lothe you. I will walke among you, ⁊ will bee your God, ⁊ ye shalbe my people. I am ẏ lorde your God, whiche brought you out of the land of Egipt, that ye should not be their bondmen: and I haue broken the cheins of your yoke, and made you goe vpright. * But and if ye will not herken vnto me, nor wil not do after my commaũdemẽts: And if ye shall despise mine ordinaunces, either if your soules abhorre my lawes, so that ye will not doe all my commaundementes, but breake mine appointment, I also will do this vnto you. For I will bring vpon you fearefulnesse, swelling of bodie, and the burning ague to consume your eyes, and gender sorowe of hearte. And you shall sowe your sede in vain, for your enemies shall eate it. And I will set my face against you, and ye shall fall before your enemies: and thei that hate you shall reigne ouer you, * and ye shall flee, when no mã foloweth you. And if ye will not yet for all this herken vnto me, then will I punishe you seuen times more, for your your synnes, and wil breake the pryde of your stubbournes. And I wil make youre C heauen as yron, and your earth as brasse: And your laboure shalbe spēt in vain. For your land shall not geue her increase, neither shal the trees of the lande geue their fruites. And if ye walk cōtrarye vnto me, & will not herken vnto me, I wyll bryng seuen tymes mo plages vpon you, according to your sinnes. I wil also sēd in wild beastes vpon you, whiche shal rob you of your children, and destroy your cattell, & make you fewe in number, and cause your hye wayes to growe vnto a wyldernesse.

And yf ye may not bee reformed by these thinges, but shal walke cōtrary vnto me: thē wil I also walke contrarye vnto you, D & wil punish you yet seuen times for your sinnes. And I wil sēd a swerd vpon you, that shall auenge my testament. And whē ye are gathered together within your cy-ties, I wil send the pestilence among you, and ye shalbe deliuered into the hande of the enemy. And when I haue broken the staffe of your bread, ten wyues shall bake your bread in one ouen and thei shal deli-uer you your bread again by weight: *ye shal eate, & not be satisfied. And if ye wyll not yet for all this hearken vnto me, but shal walke against me, I will walke contrarye vnto you also in indignation, and wil chastice you. vii. times for your sinnes *And ye shal eate the flesh of your sōnes, & the flesh of your daughters shall ye deuoure. I wil destroy your hye places, and roote out youre ymages, & cast your car-kasses vppon the bodies of your ydols, & my soule shall abhorre you. And I wyll make your cities desolate, & bryng youre sanctuary vnto naught, and wyl not smel E the sweetenes of your odours. I wil bring the lād vnto a wildernes, & your enmies which dwel therin, shal wōder at it. And I wil strow you among the heathen, and wil drawe out a swerd after you, & youre lād shalbe waste, & youre cities desolate.
Then shal the land enioy her sabbothes, as long as it lyeth voyde, and ye shall bee in your enemies lande: euen then shal the land rest, and reioyce in her Sabbothes.
As long as it lyeth voyde, it shall rest, because it did not rest in youre Sabbothes, when ye dwelt vpon it. And vpon them ÿ are left alyue of you, I will sēd a faintnes into their hertes in ÿ lād of their enmies: & the sound of a shaking leafe shall chace them: & when they flee ÿ swerd, they shall fal, no mā folowing vpō them. Thei shall fall one vpon an other, as it wer before a swerd, euē no mā folowing vpon them, & ye shal haue no power to stād before your F enemies: And ye shal perish among ÿ heathen, & the lād of your enemies shall eate you vp. And they that are left of you, shal pyne away in their vnrighteousnes, euē in their enemies lande, & in the misdedes of their fathers shal thei consume. And thei shal cōfesse their misdedes, & the mys-dedes of their fathers for theyr trespace, whiche they haue trespassed against me, & for that also that they haue walked contrary vnto me. Therfore I also wil walk contrary vnto them, and wyll bring them into the lande of theyr enemies. And thē at the least way their vncircūcised hertes shall be tamed, and they shal make an at- De. iiii. e tonement for their misdedes. And *I will remember my couenaunte with Iacob, & my bonde with Isaac, and mine appointment with Abraham will I remember, & wil thinke on the land. The land shall be G left of them, & shall enioy her Sabbothes whyle she lieth wast without them. And they shall make an attonement for theyr misdedes, because they despised my lawes and because their soule refused mine ordinaunces. And yet for all that, when they be in the lande of their enemyes, *I wyl De. iiii. e not cast them awaye, neyther will abhorre them, to destroy them vtterly, & to breake myne appoyntment with them: for I am the Lorde theyr God. I wyl for theyr sakes remember the couenant made vnto theyr fathers, whom I brought out of the land of Egipt in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am ÿ Lorde. These are the ordinaunces and iudgementes and lawes, whiche the lord made betwene hym & the chyldren of Israel in mount Sinay, by ÿ hād of Moses.

value of the male from twenty yere olde vnto sixty, shalbe fifty *sicles of siluer, after the weight of the sanctuarye. And if it Nu. iiii. g. be a female, the value shalbe thirty sicles.
And from fiue yeres to twentye, the male shall bee set at twentye sicles, and the female at ten sicles. And from a moneth vnto fiue yere, the male shalbe set at fyue sicles of syluer, and the female at three.
And

And he that is sixty yere olde, and aboue, shalbee valued at .xv. sicles, and the woman at ten. But if he be to poore so to bee set, he shal preset himselfe before the priest: and the priest shal value him accordyng as the hand of him y^e vowed is able to geat, euen so shall the priest value him. If it be

B a beast of which mē bring an offryng vnto the Lorde, all that any man geueth of suche vnto the lorde shalbe counted holy. He shal not alter it nor chaunge it: a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And yf he change beast for beast, then both the same beast, and it also wherwith it was chaunged, shalbe holy. If it be any matter of vncleane beast, of which men doe not offer a sacrifice vnto the lord, he shal set the beast before the priest, and the priest shal value it, whether it bee good or badde. And as the priest setteth it, so shall it be. But yf he wyll bye it agayne, he shall geue the fifth part more, aboue that it was set at. If a-

C ny manne dedicate his house to bee holye vnto the Lorde, the Prieste shall sette it, whether it be good or bad, & as the prieste hath set it, so shal the value be. And when he that sāctified it wil redeme his house, let him geue the fifth part of the money y^t it was iudged at therto, and it shalbe his. If a man halowe a piece of his enherited land vnto the lord: it shalbe set accordyng to the sede therof. If it beare an homer of barley, it shalbe set at fifty sicles of siluer. If he halow his field immediatly from y^e yere of Iubely, it shalbe worth according as it is estemed. But and yf he halow hys field after the Iubely, y^e priest shall reken the money accordyng to the nūber of the yeres y^t remain vnto y^e yere of Iubely folowing, and therafter it shalbe lower set.

If he that consecrated the field, wyll redeme it again, let him put the fifth part of the price y^t it was sette at therunto, and it shalbe his. And yf he wyll not redeme the field, but selleth the field to another man, he (that vowed) may redeme it no more. But whē the field goeth out in the yere of Iubely, it shalbe made holy vnto the lorde: euen as a field that is vtterly put away, & it shalbe the priestes possession. If a man sanctifie vnto y^e lord a field which he hath bought, & is not of his enheritaunce, the Prieste shall reken vnto hym what it is

D woorth vnto the yere of iubely, & he shall geue the price y^t it is set at, thesame daye, as a thing consecrated vnto y^e lord. And in the yere of Iubely, the fielde shal returne vnto him of whom he bought it: euen vnto him whose inheritaunce of lande it wa[s]. And al setting shalbe according to the sycle of the sāctuary. One sicle contey[neth] .xx. half pence. *But the first borne of the beastes that is apoynted vnto the lorde, may no man sanctify: whether it be oxe or shepe, for it is the lordes already. If it be an vncleane beast, he shal redeme it, as it is set at, & geue the fift part more therto: Or if it be not redemed, it shalbe solde according to the value. Notwithstandyng, no damned thyng that a man putteth fro him & dedicateth vnto the lorde of all hys good (whether it be man or beast, or land of his enheritaunce) may be sold or redemed: for euery thing so put away, is most holy vnto the lord. Let no damned thing that a man seperateth, bee redemed: but die y^e death. Euery tythe of the lād which is of the sede of the land, or of the fruit of the trees, is the lordes: & is sāctified vnto the lord. And if a mā wil redeme ough[t] of his tithes: let him adde the fifthe par[t] therto. And euery tythe of oxe, & of shep[e] and of euery beaste that goeth vnder t[he] rod, euen euery tenth shalbe holy, vnto y^e lorde. He shall not looke yf it bee good or bad, nor chaunge it. Els yf he chaunge it, both it, and that it was chaunged withal, shalbee halowed vnto the lorde, and may not be redemed. These are the commaundementes which the Lorde commaunded by Moses vnto the children of Israell in mount Sinay.

might goe furth to the warre. The number of them that wer of the tribe of Nephthali, was. liii. thousande and foure hundred. These are the summes whiche Moses and Aaron numbred, & the Princes of Israel: those twelue men, which wer euery one ouer ye house of their fathers. And al the numbers of the chyldren of Israel, throughout the houses of theyr fathers, from. xx. yere & aboue, all that went furth to the warre in Israell, drewe all vnto Exo.xii.f Nu.xi.c the summe of *sixe hundred thousande, & three thousande, fiue hundred and fiftye. But the Leuites after the trybe of theyr fathers, were not numbred among them. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Thou shalte not nuber the tribe of Leui, neyther take the summe of them from a-G mong the chyldren of Israell. But thou shalt appoint the Leuites ouer the habytation of witnes, and ouer all the vessels therof, and ouer all thinges that are in it. Yea, they shall beare the Tabernacle and all the vessels therof, and they shall minister in it, and shall dwel rounde about the Tabernacle. And when the Tabernacle
D goeth furth, the Leuites shall take it downe: and when the Tabernacle is to be pitched, they shall set it vp: and if any straunger come nye, he shall dye. And the children of Israel shal pitch their tentes, euery man in his owne company, & euery man vnder his own standerd thorowout theyr hostes. But the Leuites shal pitche round aboute the tabernacle of witnes, yt there be no wrath vpon the congregation of the children of Israel: and the Leuites shall kepe the watche of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the children of Israell dyd accordyng to all that the lord commaunded Moses, euen so dyd they.

The. ii. Chapter.

¶ The order of the tentes. The heades of the kinredes of Israell.

A AND the lord spake vnto Moses, and Aaron, saying: euery mā of the children of Israel shall pitche vnder his owne standarde, and vnder the armes of their fathers houses: on the other syde, & rounde about the tabernacle of wytnesse shall they pitche. On the east syde toward the rysyng of the sunne, shall they of the standarde of the host of Juda pitche thorowout their armies: And Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab was captayne of the sonnes of Juda. And his host & the number of them. lxxiiii. thousande and sixe hundred. Next vnto him shall they that bee of the tribe of Isachar pitche: & Nathanaell the sonne of Zuar was captain of the children of Isachar: his host, & the summe of the number therof. liiii. thousand, & foure hundred. And then the trybe of Zabulon: and Eliab the sonne of Helon, captayn ouer the chyldren of Zabulon and his host: and the number of them. lvii. thousand & iiii. hundred: so that the whole number of the whole hoost of Juda, are an hundred thousand. lxxxvi. thousand, and foure hundred, throughout theyr armyes: and these shal goe before. On the south syde shal the standard of ye host of Ruben kepe, thorow B theyr companies: & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ruben, was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And his host & the number of them. xlvi. thousand and. v. hundred. And fast by him shal the tribe of Simeō pitch, and the captain ouer the sōnes of Simeon, was Salumiel the sonne of Zuri, Sadai, and his host and the number of them lix. thousande and. iii. hundred. And the tribe of Gad also, & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. And his host & the number of them. xlv. thousand. vi. hundred & fiftye. All that were numbred with the trybe of Ruben: an hundred thousand. li. thousād, foure hundred and fifty, throughout their armies: and they shall goe in the seconde place. And the tabernacle of witnes shall goe with the hoste of the Leuites, in the middes of the hostes. And as they lye in theyr tentes, euen so shall they procede in the iourney, euery man in his degree, and vnder their owne standardes. The westside shal the stādard of the host of Ephraim kepe, with their armies. And the cap- C tayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisama the sonne of Amihud: His hoste and the number of them. xl. thousand and v. hundred. And fast by hym, shall bee the tribe of Manasse: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamaleel ye sonne of Pedazur. His host & the number of them. xxxii. thousande, and. ii. hundred. And the trybe of Beniamin also: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Beniamin, was Abidan, the sonne of Gedeoni. Hys host and the number of them. xxxv. thousand and foure hundred. Al that wer appoynted with the hoste of Ephraim, were an hundred thousande, eight thousande & an hundred, throughout theyr armyes, & they shall go in the third place. The standard of ye host of Dan shal kepe the north syde with their armies: and the captayne ouer the children of Dan, was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai. His host and the number of them. lxii. thousande and

vii. hundred.
D And faste by him shall the tribe of Aser pitche: and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Aser, was Pagiel the sonne of Ocran.
His hoste and the number of them. xli. thousande and fiue. C. And the tribe of Nepthali also: and the captaine ouer the childrẽ of Nepthali, was Ahira the sonne of Enan. His host & the number of them, liii. thousand and foure hũdred. All they that were appointed with ẏ host of Dan was an hũdred thousand. lvii. thousande and. vi. hundred. And they shall goe hin-most with their stãderdes. These are the summes of the children of Israell throwout the houses of their fathers, euen al the numbers that pitched throughoute their hostes, six hundred thousande, three thousand fiue hũdred and fiftie. But the Leuites were not numbred among the children of Israell, as the Lord cõmaunded Moses. And the children of Israell did according to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses: for so they pitched with their standerdes, and so they iourneyed F throughoute their kinreds and throughout the housholdes of their fathers.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

¶ The Leuites goe not to battell, but minister in the Sanctuary. They pitche their tentes nexte to the habitation.

A These are the generatiõs of Aaron and Moses, in the day ẏ the Lord spake with Moses in mõut Sinai: and these are the names of the sonnes of Nume. xvi. g. Aaron: Nadab the eldest sonne, Abihu, Leui. viii. a. Eleazar, & Ithamar. *These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron which were *Priestes anointed, and whose hãd was Le. x. a. consecrated to minister. *And Nadab & Abihu dyed before the Lorde, when they offered strange fier before ẏ Lord in the wildernesse of Sinai, and had no childrẽ.
And Eleazar and Ithamar, ministred in the sight of Aaron their father. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Bryng the tribe of Leui, and set them before Aa-Nume. xvi. b. xviii. a. ron the Priest *that they may serue him, and waite vpon him, and vpõ al the multitude, before the tabernacle of witnesse, to do the seruice of the habitation. They shall kepe al the apparell of the tabernacle of witnesse, & waite vpõ the childrẽ of Israel, to do the seruice of the habitation.
And thou shalte geue the Leuites vnto Aaron & his sonnes, for they are geuen: B and deliuered vnto him of the children of Israel. And thou shalt appoint Aarõ and his sonnes to waite on their Priestes office: and the stranger that commeth nie, shalbe slaine. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Beholde, I haue takẽ the Leuites from among the children of Israel *for all the first borne that openeth Exodus. xiii. a. the matrice among the children of Israel Nume. viii. c. and the Leuites, shalbe mine: bicause all the first borne are mine, for the same day C that I smote al the first borne in the lãd of Egipt, I halowed vnto me all ẏ firste borne in Israell, both man and beast, and mine they shalbe. I am the Lorde. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, in the wil-dernesse of Sinai, sayeng: Number the children of Leui after the houses of their fathers in their kinreds. All that are males, from a moneth olde and aboue, shalte thou nũber. And Moses numbred them, according to the commaundement of the Lord, and as he had commaunded. *And Ex. vi. e. these were the children of Leui in their names: Gerson, and Cahath, and Mera-ri. And these are the names of the childrẽ of Gerson in their kinredes: Libni and Semei. The sonnes of Cahath in their kinredes: Amram, Jezehar, Hebron, and Oziel. And the sõnes of Merari in their kinredes, Mahely, and Musi. These are the kinredes of the Leuites, according to the houses of their fathers. Of Gerson came the kinred of the Libnites, and the kinred of the Semeites. These are the kinreds of the Gersonites. And the summe of them (after the number of al the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was. vii. thousande and fiue hũdred. And the kin-redes of ẏ Gersonites shal pitch behinde the habitation westward. The captayne and most auncient of the house of the Gersonites, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael.
And vnder the keping of the children of Gersõ in the tabernacle of witnesse, was the habitation and the tent, the couering D therof, and the hanging of the dore of ẏ tabernacle of witnesse, & the hanginges of the courte, and the curtaine of the dore of the courte which is round about the tabernacle, and the altare, and the cordes of it for al the seruice therof.
And of Cahath came the kinred of the Amramites, and the kinred of the Jeze-harites: the kinred of ẏ Hebronites, and the kinred of the Ozielites. These are the kinred of the Cahathites. And the nũber of al the males from a moneth old and aboue, was .viii. thousande and sixe hundred: and these shal kepe the thinges that are to be kept in the holy place. And the kinred of ẏ children of Cahath shall pitch on the South syde of the tabernacle.

The captaine and most auncient of the house of the kynred of the Cahathites, E was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziell, and vnder their keping was the Arke, ẏ table the cādlesticke, and the alters, and all the vessels of the Sanctuary that they minister in, and the baile, and whatsoeuer belonged to the ministration thereof. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Prieste, was captaine ouer al the captaines of the Leuites, and had the ouersighte of them that wayted vpon the Sanctuary. And of Merari came the kinred of the Mahelites, and the kinred of the Musites.
These are ẏ kinreds of Merari. And the summe of them according to the number of al the males, from a moneth olde and aboue, was vi. M. and two. C. The captayne & the most auncient of their house that were of the kinred of Merari, was zuriel the sonne of Abihaell: & these shall pitch on ẏ northside of ẏ tabernacle. And vnder the custody of the sōnes of Mera-ri, shalbe the bordes of the dwelling, and the barres, pillers, and sockets therof, all the vessel therof, and al that serueth ther-to: and the pillers of the courte rounde about, with their sockets, their pinnes, and their cordes. But on the forefronte of the habitation before the tabernacle of wyt-nesse Eastward, shal Moses and Aaron and hys sonnes pitch, & waite to kepe the Sanctuary, & to kepe the children of Israel. And the strāuger that commeth nye shalbe slaine. And the whole sūme of the Leuites which Moses and Aaron num-bred at the commaundement of the lord, throughout their kinred (euen al the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was Num. xxvi. g. *.xxii. thousande.

F And the lord sayd vnto Moses: number al the first borne that are males among ẏ children of Israel (from a moneth olde & aboue) & take the nūber of their names.
And thou shalt apoint the Leuites to me (for I am the Lord) for al the first borne of the children of Israel, and the cattel of the Leuites, for al the first gendred of the cattel of the children of Israel. And Moses numbred as the Lorde commaunded hym, all the first borne of the children of Israell. And all the first borne males rehearsed by their names (from a moneth olde and aboue, according to their number) were .xxii. thousande, two hundred & lxxiii. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Take ẏ Leuites for al the fyrste borne of the children of Israell, and the cattell of the Leuites for their cattel, and the Leuites shalbe mine, I am the lorde. G And for the redeming of the two hūdred and .lxxiii. (which are moe thā ẏ Leuites in the first borne of the childrē of Israell) take fyue sicles of euery head, after the weyght of the Sanctuary *the sicle con- Exo. xxx. Leui. xxvii. Ezech. xlv. teining .xx. halfepens. And geue the mo-ny wherwith the odde number of them is redemed, vnto Aaron & hys sonnes. And Moses toke the redēption money, of the ouerplus that were mo then the Leuites of the first borne of the children of Israel toke he thys money: euen a thousand, iii.
C. and .lxv. sicles, after the sicle of ẏ Sāc-tuary. And Moses gaue ẏ mony of them that were redemed, vnto Aaron and his sonnes, according to the word of ẏ lorde, euen as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

The .iiii. Chapter.

¶ The offices of the Leuites.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses, and A Aaron, sayeng: Take the summe of the children of Cahath from among the sonnes of Leui, after their kinreds, & houses of their fathers (from thirtie yere and aboue, vntill fiftie) al that are able to go fourth to the warr, for to do the work in the tabernacle of witnesse. The offyce of the children of Cahath in the tabernacle of witnesse, is most holy. And when ẏ host remoueth, Aaron & hys sonnes shall come and take down the vayle, that hangeth betwene, and wrap the Arke of wit-nesse in it: and shal put theron a couering of taxus skynnes, & shal sprede vpō it a clothe that is altogether of yelowe sylke, and put in the barres therof. And vpon the shew table, they shall sprede abrode a clothe of yelow sylke, & put theron the di-shes, spones, flatpeces, & pottes to powre with, & there shalbe bread theron cōtinu-ally: & they shal sprede vpon them a coue-ryng of purple, and couer the same with a couering of taxus skinnes, and put in the barres therof. And they shal take a clothe of yelow sylke, and couer the candlesticke of lyght, with hys lampes, tonges, and snuffers, and all the oyle vessels, whiche they occupye aboute it: and they shall put both it, and all the vessell thereof within a couering of taxus skinnes, and put it vpō a barre.

B a barre. And vpon the golden altare they shal spreade a clothe of yelowe sylke, and couer it with a coueryng of taxus skinnes and put in the barres thereof. And they shal take al the things, (which they occupy to minister win the holy place) and put a cloth of yelowe sylke vpō them, and couer them with a couering of taxus skinnes, and put them on a barre.

And they shal take away the ashes frō the altare, and sprede a purple cloth theron: and put vpon it al the vessels thereof that they minister withall: euen the cole pannes, the fleshhokes, ẏ shouels, the basens, and the other vessels of the altare, and they shal sprede vpō it a couerynge of taxus skinnes, and put in ẏ barres of it. And when Aaron and his sonnes haue made an ende of couering ẏ holy things, and all the vessels of the Sanctuary (against that ẏ host remoue) then ẏ sonnes of Cahath shal come in for to beare, but they shall not touche any holy thyng, lest they dye. And this is the charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the office of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest, pertaineth the oyle for the lyght, the swete cense, the daily meate offeryng, and the anointing oyle, and the ouersight of all the tabernacle, and of al that therin is, both in the

C Sanctuary and in all the vessels therof. And the lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: ye shall not destroy the tribe of the kynred of the Cahathites, from among the Leuites. But thus doe vnto them, that they may liue & not dye, when they goe vnto the most holy thinges: Let Aaron & hys sonnes go in, and take them down, to euery one after hys seruice, and after hys charge. But let them not go in to see when the holy thinges are folden vp, lest they dye. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Take also the summe of the children of Gerson, throughout the houses of their fathers, and throughoute their kinreds, frō thirtie yere and aboue, vntil fiftie, shalt thou number them, all that are able to goe forth to the warr for to do seruice in ẏ tabernacle of witnesse. And thys is the seruice of the kynred of ẏ Gersonites, to serue and to beare. They shal beare the curtaines of the dwelling, and the roufe of ẏ tabernacle of wytnesse his coueryng, and the coueryng of taxus skynnes, ẏ is an hye aboue vpon it, & the hanging of the doore which is in the tabernacle of witnesse: & the hāgings of the court, and the hanging that is in the entryng in of the gate of the courte rounde about the dwellyng, and the altare, wyth the cordes, & al the instrumentes ẏ serue vnto them, & all ẏ is made for to serue them. At the mouth of Aarō & hys sōnes shall all the seruice of the children of the Gersonites be done, in all their charges, and in al their seruice: and ye shall nomber vnto them al theyr burthens to kepe. And thys is the seruice of the kinred of the children of Gerson in the tabernacle of witnesse, and their watche shalbe vnder the hande of Ithamar, the sonne of Aaron the Priest. And thou shalt number the sonnes of Merari after their kinreds and after the houses of their fathers, frō xxx. yeres & aboue, vnto. l, shalt ẏ nūber them, euery one ẏ is able to goe forth to the warr, to do the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse. And this is the chargethat they must wait vpō, according to all their seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse. The bordes of the dwelling, w the barres, pillers, & sockets therof, and the pillers that are round about the court, with their sockets, pinnes and cordes, and with all the instrumētes of it, for al their seruice. And by name ye shal reken the thinges ẏ they must waite vpon to beare. This is ẏ seruice of the kinreds of the sōnes of Merari according to al their office in the tabernacle of witnesse vnder the hande of Ithamar, the sōne of Aarō ẏ Prieste. And

D Moses and Aaron & the Prynces of the multitude, numbred the sōnes of the Cahathites, after their kinreds & houses of their fathers, from thirtie yere and aboue vnto. l. all that were able to goe forth to the warre, to do seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the numbers of them throughout their kinreds were two. M. vii. hundred & fiftie. Thys is the number of the kinreds of Cahath: namely, al that might do seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse, which Moses and Aaron did number according to the commaundement of the Lord, by the hande of Moses. These are the numbers of the sōnes of Gerson, throughout their kinreds and houses of their fathers, from thirtie yere vp vnto. l, al that were able to go forth to ẏ warre, for to do seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the nūbers of them throughout their kinreds, and houses of their fathers, were two thousande, sixe hundred and thirtie. This is the nūber of the kinreds of the sonnes of Gerson, of all ẏ did seruice in ẏ tabernacle of witnesse, which Moses and Aaron did number according to the commaundement of the Lord. And these are the numbers of ẏ kinreds of the sonnes of Merari, throughout their kyn-reds, and houses of their fathers, frō thirtie yere vp vnto fiftie, all that went forth to warre, and serued in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the numbers of them after their kinreds were three thousand & two hundred. Thys is the summe of the kin-reds of the sōnes of Merari, which Moses and Aaron numbred according to the worde of the Lorde, by the hande of Moses. And so all the numbers of the Leuits which Moses, Aaron, and the Lordes of Israel numbred, after their kinreds and householdes of their fathers, from thirtie yere vp vnto fiftie, euery one that came to doe his office, and seruice, and to beare his burthen in the tabernacle of witnesse were (when they were numbred) eyghte thousand, fiue hundred and .lxxx. accordig to the word of the Lord did (Aarō) num-bre them by the hād of Moses, euery one according to theyr seruice and charge, and according to theyr offices, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

The .v. Chapter.

¶ The knowleging of synne. The clensing of synne. The law of the first fruites, and of gelousie.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayeng: commaunde the children of Israel that they *put out of ẏ hoste, Le.xiii.g euery leper, and euery one that hath an yssue, and whosoeuer is defiled vpon a soule. Both male and female shal ye putt out: euen out of the host shal ye put them, that they defile not the tentes among which I dwell. And the children of Israell did so, and put them out of the hoste: euen as the Lord spake vnto Moses, so did the children of Israell.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, say-eng: speake vnto the children of Israell, Le.v.g. whether it be *man or woman. If they haue committed any sin that a man doth, and haue trespaced agaynst ẏ Lord, that soule hath done amisse: Therefore they shall knowledge theyr sinne which they haue done, and let him restore againe the hurt ẏ he hath done in the whole, and put the fifth part of it more thereto, & geue it vnto him whō he hath trespaced against.
But & if there be not a mā to restore the B hurt vnto, nor a kinsman of hys, let the trespace be made good vnto the lord, and it shalbe ẏ Priestes, beside the ram of the attonement, wherby an attonemēt shal-be made for hym. And euery heueoffring that is made of the holy things of ẏ children of Israell, which they bring vnto ẏ Priest, shalbe his, & euery mannes halowed things shalbe his: & whatsoeuer any man geueth ẏ Priest, it shalbe hys. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Speake vnto the children of Israell, and say vnto them. If any mannes wyfe goe asyde & trespace agaynst hym, so that another man lye with her fleshly, & it be hyd from the eyes of her housebande, & is not come to light ẏ she is defiled, & there is no witnesse against her, neither she taken w the maner, & the spirit of gelousy cometh vpon him, so ẏ he is gelouse ouer his wife which is defiled: or if ẏ sprite of gelousye come vpō him, so that he is gelouse ouer his wife which is yet vndefiled: then let the man bryng hys wyfe vnto ẏ Prieste, and bryng with her an offring for her, the tēth part of an Epha of barly meale: but let him powre none oyle vpon it, nor putt frankensence theron: for it is an offering of gelousy, an offeryng for a remēbraūce causing the sin to be thought vpon. And the Priest shall bring her, and set her before the Lord, and let him *take holy wa- Num.

that is in the flowre of the habitation, and C put it into the water. And let the Prieste set the woman before the lord, and vncouer the womans head, and put the me-moriall of the offring in her hāds, which is the gelousy offring, and the Priest shal haue bitter and cursed water in his hand and the Priest shall charge her, and saye vnto the woman: If no man haue lyen with thee, neither hast gone asyde to vn-clennesse without thy housebande, then haue thou no harme of thys bytter and cursed waters. But and if thou hast gone aside behinde thine housebande, and art defiled, and some other man hath lyen with thee beside thyne housebande, (and the Priest shall charge the woman wyth an horrible curse, and the Priest shall say vnto the woman) the Lord make thee to be an abhominatiō and a curse amōg thy people, when the lord doth make thy thye rott, and thy belly swel. These cursed waters goe into the bowels of thee, that they may make thy belly swell, and thy thye rott: & let the woman say, Amen. Amen.
And let the Priest write these curses: and when they be clensed, let hym cast thē in- D to bitter waters, & geue the womā those bitter

D bitter and cursed waters to drinke, that those cursed and bitter waters may enter into her. And thẽ the Priest shall take the gelousie offering out of the womans hande, and waue it before the Lord, and bryng it vnto the altare, and the Pryest shal take an handfull of the offeryng for a memoriall, and burne it vpon the altare, and then make the woman drynke the water: and when he hath made the womã drynke the waters, (if she be defiled and haue trespaced against her house-band) then shal the cursed and bitter waters go into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thye shall rotte, and the woman shalbe a curse among her people. And if the woman be not defiled, but is cleane, she shal haue no harme, but shal conceiue and beare. Thys is the law of gelousie, when a wyfe goeth asyde behinde her housebande, and is defyled: or when the spirite of gelousie commeth vpon a man, and he beyng gelouse ouer his wife, doth bryng her before the lord. And the Priest shal do according vnto all thys lawe, and the man shalbe giltlesse, and the woman shal beare her synne.

¶ The.vi.Chapter.

¶ The law of abstinence. The blessing of the people.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Speake vnto the childrẽ of Israel, & say vnto them: when either man or womã doth seperate themselues, to vowe a vowe of an abstayner, and appoint themselues vnto the Lord, he shall Jud. xiii. a. seperate himselfe from *wine and strong drynke, and shall drynke no vineger of Amos. ii. d. wine, nor of strõge drinke, nor shal drink whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes, and shal eate no fresh grapes, neither yet dried. As long as his abstinence endureth shall he eate nothing ẏ is made of ẏ vine tree, or of ẏ kernels, or of the huske of the grape. And as long as he voweth, and is seperated, there shall no rasour come vpõ hys head: but vntyll hys dayes be out, in the which he seperateth himself vnto the Lord, he shalbe holy, & shall let the lockes B of hys heere grow. As long as he conse-crateth hymselfe vnto the Lorde, he shall come at no dead body: he shall not make himselfe vnclene at ẏ death of his father, mother, brother, or sister: bicause that the vowe of the abstinẽce of his god is vpon his head. Al the dayes of hys abstinẽce he is holy vnto the Lorde. And if it fortune that any man by chaũce dye sodẽly before hym, the head of his abstinence shalbe defiled, and he shal shaue *his head the day Actes. xviii. d. of his clensing: euen the seuenth daye he shal shaue it. And the eight daye he shall bryng two turtles, or two yonge pigeons to the Priest, before the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Priest shall offer the one for syn, & the other for a burnt offeryng, and make an attonemente for hym as concerning that he synned vpon a soule, and shal halow hys head thesame day, and he shall consecrate hymselfe vnto the Lord (the tyme of hys abstinencie) C and shal bryng a lambe of a yere olde for trespace: but the dayes that were before are lost, bicause hys abstinencie was defiled. Thys is the law of the absteyner, when the tyme of hys abstinence is out, he shalbe brought vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and he shall bring his offeryng vnto the Lord: an he lambe of a yere old without blemish for a burnt offering, and a she lambe of a yere olde, without blemish for sinne: a ramme with out blemishe also for a peaceofferyng, and a basket of swete bread, euẽ cakes of fine floure myngled wyth oyle, and wafers of swete bread anointed w oyle, with their meateofferinges and drynkeofferynges.
And the Priest shal bryng him before the Lord, & offer hys synne offeryng and his burnt offering, and shall offer the ramme for a peaceoffering vnto the Lord, wyth the basket of swete bread: and the Prieste shal offer also his meatoffering, and hys drynke offering. And he shall shaue the head of the absteyner in the dore of the ta D bernacle of witnesse: euen the head of his abstinence, and shal take the heere of hys sober head, and put it in the fyre, which is vnder the peaceoffering. And the Pryest shal take the sodden shoulder of the ram, and one swete cake out of the basket, and one swete wafer also, and put them vpon the handes of the absteiner (after he hath shauen his abstinence of) and the Prieste shal (take them of him and) waue them before the Lord. And these holy thinges shalbe the Priestes, with ẏ wauebrest and heue shoulder, & then the absteiner may drinke wyne. This is the lawe of the absteyner, which hath vowed hys offeryng vnto the Lord, for his cõsecration: Besides those thynges that his hand can get, according to the vowe which he vowed, euen so he must do after the law of hys abstynence.
And ẏ Lord spake vnto Moses, sayeng: Speake vnto Aaron & hys sonnes, saying: of this wise ye shal blesse the children of Israel, and say unto them. The Lord blesse thee, and kepe thee. The lord make his face shine upon thee, and be mercifull unto thee. The Lorde lift up his countenaunce upon thee, & geue thee peace. And they shal put my name upon the children of Israel, and I wil blesse them.

The.vii. Chapter.

A ¶ The offering of the Lordes, and heads of Israell.

Ex.xl.b. AND it fortuned in that day, when * Moses had ful set up the habitation and anointed it, and sanctified it, and al the apparel therof, the altare also,
and al the vessels therof, and had anoynted them and sanctified them: then the princes of Israel, heads ouer the houses of their fathers, whiche were the Lordes of the tribes, standing in their offices, offered and brought their sacrifices before the Lord: Sixe couered charets, and .xii. oxen: one charet for two Lordes, and for one an oxe, and they brought them before the habitation. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: Take it of them, that they may be to do the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse, and thou shalt geue them unto the Leuites, to euery man according unto hys office. And Moses toke the cha rets and the oxen, & gaue them unto the Leuites: two charets and foure oxen he gaue unto the sonnes of Gerson, according unto their office. And foure charets and eight oxen he gaue unto the sonnes of Merari (according unto their offices) under the hande of Ithamar, the sonne of ¶ The order of the lampes. The forme of the candlesticke. The clensing and offring of the Leuites.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron, & saye vnto him: *whe thou puttest on the lampes, thesame. vii. lampes shall geue light toward the forefront of the candlesticke. And Aaron did euen so, and lighted the lampes toward the forefrõt of the candlesticke, as the Lorde commaunded Moses: and the worke of the candlesticke was of stiffe gold, both the shaft and the floures therof, according vnto the vision which the Lord had shewed Moses, euen so he made the candlesticke. And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: take the Leuites from among the children of Israel, and clense them. But thus shalt thou doe vnto them, when thou clensest them: sprinkle water of purifying vpon them, and let them make a rasour to run along vpon al the flesh of them, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselues cleane.

Exodus. xxv. d.

B Then let them take a bullocke with hys meatoffring, euen fine floure mingled wt oyle: and another bullock shalt yu take for sin. And when thou doest bryng the Leuites before the tabernacle of wytnesse, thou shalt gather the whole multitude of the children of Israel together, and bring the Leuites before the Lord, and the children of Israell shal put their handes vpõ the Leuites. And Aaron shall waue the Leuites before the Lord, for a waueoffering of the children of Israell, that they may execute the ministration of the seruice of the Lord. And the Leuites shall put their handes vpon the heades of the bullockes, and thou shalt offer the one for sin, and the other for a burntoffering vnto the Lord, that thou mayest make an attonement for the Leuites. And yu shalt set the Leuites before Aaron and hys sonnes, and waue them for a waueoffering before ye Lord. And thus thou shalt seperate the Leuites from among ye children of Israell, and the Leuites shalbe myne: after yt shal the Leuites goe in, to do the seruice of ye tabernacle of witnesse. And Moses and Aaron, and al the congregation of the children of Israell, did with ye Leuites according vnto all that the lorde commaũded Moses concerning the Leuites: euen so did the children of Israell vnto them. And the Leuites were purified, and washed their clothes. And Aarõ waued them before the Lord, and made an attonement for them, & clensed them. After that wẽt the Leuites in, to do their seruice in ye tabernacle of witnesse before Aaron and his sonnes: as the Lorde had commaunded Moses cõcerning the Leuites, euen so they did vnto them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: This is it that belõgeth vnto the Leuites: *from fiue and twentie yere vpwarde, they shal goe in, to wayte vpon the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse: and from the age of fiftie yere, they shall cease waiting vpon the seruice therof, and shal serue no more but shal minister vnto their brethren in the tabernacle of wytnesse, to wayte, but shal do no more seruice. Thus therefore shalt thou doe vnto the Leuites in theyr watche.

¶ The Passeouer. Of the cloude.

A AND the Lord spake vnto Moses in the wildernesse of Sinai, in the first moneth of the second yere, after they *were come out of the lande of Egipte, saying: Let the children of Israell offer passeouer in his season, euen the. xiiii. day of thys moneth at euen, let them kepe it in his season, according to al the ceremonies of it, and according to al the maners therof. And Moses spake vnto the children of Israell, that they shuld offer passeouer, and they offered passeouer the. xiiii. daye of the firste moneth at euen in the wildernesse of Sinai, accordyng to all that that the Lorde commaunded Moses, euen so did the children of Israel. And certaine men were defiled vpon the soule of B a man, that they might not offer passeouer the same day. And they came before Moses and Aaron the same day. And the men sayde vnto hym: We are defiled vpon the soule of a mā: wherfore are we kept back that we may not offer an offeryng vnto ẏ Lorde in the due season, among the children of Israel? And Moses sayde vnto them: Stand still, and I will heare what the Lorde will commaunde concernyng you. And the lord spake vnto Moses, sayng: Speak vnto the children of Israel, & say: If any mā amōg you, or your childrē after you, bee vncleane by reason of a corse, or it is in ẏ way far from you, & wyl offer Passeouer vnto the lord: ẏ fourtene day of the second moneth at euen let them offer it, and eate it with swete bread and sower herbes: let thē leaue none of it vn-Ex.xii.g. Iohn.xix.f. to ẏ morning *nor breake any bone of it. But according to al the ordinaunce of the C passeouer, let them offer it. But the man that is cleane and is not in a iourney, and yet was negligent to offer Passeouer: the same soule shal perish from his people, because he brought not the offring of ẏ lord in his due season, that man shal beare his sin. And yf a straunger dwel among you, and wyll offer Passeouer vnto the lorde, according to the ordinance of Passeouer, and maner therof, he shal offer it thus. Ye shal haue one law both for the straūger, & for him that was borne at home in ẏ lād. And the same daye that the Tabernacle Exo.xl.c. iii.King. viii.b. was reared vp, a *cloude couered the habitation, whiche was as a Tabernacle of the witnesse: and at euen there was vpon the habitation, as it wer the similitude of fier, vntil ẏ morning. So it was alwaye: the cloude couered it by day and the simylitude of fier by night. And when ẏ cloude was taken vp from of the tabernacle, thē the children of Israel iourneyed: & where the cloude abode, there the childrē of Israel pitched their tentes. At the mouthe of the Lorde the children of Israell iour-

D neyed: and at the mouthe of the Lord thei pitched. And as long as the cloude abode vpon the habitation, they lay still: & when the cloud taried still vpon the habitation long time, the children of Israell kept the watche of the lord, and iorneyed not. And it chaunced that when the cloude abode a fewe dayes vppon the habitation, they abode in their tentes, accordyng to the cōmaundement of the lord, & they iorneyed also at the commaundement of the lorde.

And it hapned that when the cloude abode vpon the habitation from euen vnto the morning, & was taken vp in the morning, thē they iourneyed. Whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken vp, they iourneyed. Or if the cloud taried two dayes, or a moneth, or a long season vpon the habitation, & remayned theron, the children of Israel abode styll, & iourneyed not. And assone as the cloud was takē vp, thei iorneied. At the mouth of the Lord, thei rested in their tents, and at the commaundement of the lorde, they iorneyed, keping the watche of the Lord, at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hand of Moses.

The.x. Chapiter.

And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Make thee two trumpets of sil- A uer: of an whole piece shalte ẏ make them, that thou maist vse them to call the congregation together, and whē the host shall iorney. Therefore shall they blowe with them, that all the multitude may resort to thee, before the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse. And if they blowe but one trumpet, then the princes whiche are heads ouer the thousandes of Israel shal come vnto the. But if ye trūpe, the hostes that lie on the East partes shall goe forward. And if ye trumpe the seconde tyme, the host that lieth on the South side shall take their iourney: for they shall trumpe when they take their iorneys. But when the congregation is to be gathered together, thei shall blowe only, & not trumpe. And the sonnes of Aaron the priest shall blowe with the trumpettes, and ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generations. And if ye go to warre in your land against your enemies that vexe you ye shall blowe with the trumpets, and ye B shalbe remembred before the Lorde your God to be saued from your enemies. Also in the day of your gladnesse, and in your feast daies, & in the beginning of your monethes, ye shall blowe the trumpettes ouer your burnt sacrifices and peace offeringes, that they maie be a remembraūce for you before your God. I am the Lord your God. And it came to passe the twentieth day of the secōd moneth in the secōd yere, that the cloude was taken vp from

of the habitation of witnes. And the chyldren of Israel toke their iorney out of the desert of Sinai, & the cloude rested in the wildernesse of Pharan. And the first toke theyr iourney at the mouth of the lord, by the hand of Moses. In ye first place went the standarde of ye host of Iuda, according to their armyes: whose captayne was Nahasson the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the host of the tribe of the chyldren of Isacher, was Nathanael ye sõne of zuar.
And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helon. And the habitatiõ was takẽ down and the sonnes of Gerson & Merari wẽt forth bearing the habitatiõ. And the host of Ruben went furth with their standard C and armies, whose Captaine was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the host of the tribe of the chyldren of Simeõ, was Salamiell the sonne of Suri Saddai.
And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. The Cahathites also went forwarde & bare the sanctuarye, and the other dyd set vp the habitatiõ against they came. And the standard of the hoste of the childrẽ of Ephraim went forth according to their armies, whose captaine was Elisama the sonne of Amiud. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of ye sõnes of Manasse, was Gamaliel the sõne of Pedazur. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the sõnes of BenIamin was Abidan the sõne of Ge-deoni. And the standarde of the hoste of the childrẽ of Dan came furth (hauing al the hostes together) throughout their armies: whose captayne was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer ye host of the tribe of the chyldren of Aser, was Pagiell the sõne of Ocran. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Nepthaly, was Ahira, the sõne of Enã. These are the iourneys of the chyldren of Israel throughout their armies, and thus the hostes remoued. And Moses sayde vnto D Hobab the sonne of Raguell the Madianite, whiche was Moses father in lawe: we goe vnto the place, of whiche the lorde sayd: I wil geue it you. Come thou therefore with vs, and we wil do thee good: for the lord hath promised good vnto Israel.
And he aũswered him: I wil not goe, but wil depart to mine owne land, and to my kinred. He sayd: Oh nay, leaue vs not: for thou knowest oure mansions in the wyldernes, and thou haste bene to vs in stede of eyes. And yf thou goe with vs, looke what goodnes the lord sheweth vnto vs, the same wil we shew vnto thee. And thei departed from the mount of the lord, thre dayes iourney: and the arke of the testament of the lord went before them in the three dayes iourney, to searche oute a resting place for them. And the Lord made a shadow for thẽ, thorow the cloud by daye when they went out of the tentes. And it fortuned, that when the arke went furth, Moses said: * Ryse vp lord, and let thyne ennmies be scatered: and let them that hate thee, flee before thee. And when the arke rested, he sayd: Returne, O lord vnto the many thousandes of Israel.

¶ The people murmureth, they desier fleshe, they loth Manna, the wauering faith of Moses, the Lorde deuydeth the burden of Moses to seuenty of the auncientes, and they prophecy. It raineth Quayles, the flesh rauenners are punished.

AND it fortuned, that whẽ * the peo- A ple dyd wyckedly, it was a dyspleasure in the eares of ye lord. And whẽ the Lord heard it, his countenaunce was prouoked to wrath: and the fyer of ye lorde burnt among them, and consumed them that wer the vttermoste of the hoste. And the people cryed vnto Moses. And when Moses made intercession vnto the Lord. the fyer quenched. And the name of the place was called Thaberah, because the fyer of the Lord burnt among them. And the rascall people that was among them B fell a lusting, and turned themselues, and wept (euen as did also the children of Israel) & sayde: who shall geue vs fleshe to eate? we remember the fishe which we dyd eate in Egipte for naughte, & the cucumbers, & melons, lekes, onyons and gar-like. But nowe our soule is dryed awaye, for we can see nothing els, saue Manna.
The Manna was as * Coriãder sede, & (to see to) like Bedelliõ. And the people wente about & gathered it, and grounde it in milles, or bet it in morters, & baked it in pãnes, & made cakes of it. And the tast of it was like vnto the tast of an oyle cake. And when the dewe fell downe vpõ the hoste in the night, the Manna fel vpõ it. And when Moses hearde the people C wepe thorowout their housholdes, euery mã in the doore of his tent, the face of the Lorde was prouoked vnto wrathe exce-dyngly, & it greued Moses also. And Moses said vnto the Lord: wherfore hast thou dealt cruelly with thy seruaunt? And wherefore haue I not founde fauoure in thy syght, seyng ye thou puttest the weight

of all this people vpon me: haue I cōcey-ued all this people? Or haue I begotten thē: that thou shouldest say vnto me: carie them in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth ẏ beare all this people alone, seeyng it is to heuy for me. If thou deale thus with me, kill me, I pray thee, yf I haue founde fa-uour in thy sight: that I see not my wret-chednesse. And the lord said vnto Moses:

Exo. xviii. b *gather vnto me. lxx. mē of the elders of Israel, which thou knowest, that they are D the elders of the people and officers ouer them, & thou shalte bring them vnto the Tabernacle of wytnesse, that they maye downe & talke with thee there, and take wil geue you flesh, & ye shal eate. Ye shall not eate one daye, nor two, nor. v. dayes, neyther ten, nor twētye dayes: but euē a moneth lōg, vntill it come oute at the no-came downe in a cloude, and spake vnto hym, & gaue it vnto the. lxx. elders. And it fortuned, that whē the spirite rested vppon thē, they prophecied, & dyd not ceasse.

the name of the other, Medad. And the spirit rested vpō them, & thei wer of them that were written, & wente not out vnto

Aaron loked vpon MirJam, and behold, she was leprous. And Aaron sayde vnto

❡ The. xiii. Chapter.

❡ Certain men are sent to searche the land of Canaan.

A Deut.i.a And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: * Send men oute to searche the land of Canaan which I geue vnto the children of Israell: of euerye trybe of their fathers shall ye send a man, and let them al be such as are rulers among thē.
And Moses at the cōmaundement of the Lorde, sent furth out of the wyldernes of Pharan, suche mē as wer all heads of the childrē of Israel. Their names are these.
Of the tribe of Rubē Sammua, the sōne of zacur. Of the tribe of Simeon, Sa-phat, the sonne of Hory. Of the tribe of Juda. Caleb the sonne of Jephune. Of the trybe of Isachar, Igeal the sonne of Joseph. Of the tribe of Ephraim, Osea the sōne of Nun. Of the tribe of BenJamin, Palthi the sonne of Raphu. Of the tribe of zabulon, Gadiel the sōne of Sodi. Of the trybe of Joseph, namely of the tribe of Manasse, Gaddi the sōne of Susi. Of the tribe of Dan, Amiel the sonne of Gemali. Of the tribe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michaell. Of the tribe of B Nepthaly, Nahebi the sonne of Vaphsi.
Of the trybe of Gad, Guell, the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the men, whiche Moses sent to spye out the lande.
And Moses called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

And Moses sent them furth to spye out the lād of Canaan, and sayde vnto them: geat you vp this way southwarde, that ye maye goe vp into the hye countrey, & see the lande what maner thing it is, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they bee strong or weake, eyther fewe or manye: and what the lande is that they dwel in, whether it be good or bad: & what maner of cities they be, that they dwel in whether they dwell in tentes or walled townes: and what maner of lande it is, whether it bee fatte or leane, & whether there be trees therin or not. Be of a good courage, & bring of the fruit of the lande.
And it was aboute the tyme that grapes C are first rype. And so they wente vp, and searched out the land from the wildernes of zin, vnto Rehob, as men come to He-math, & they ascended vnto the Southe, and came vnto Hebron, where Ahiman was, & Sesai, and Thalmani, the sōnes of Henack. Hebrō was built. vii. yere before zoan in Egipte. And they came vnto the riuer of Escoll, & cutte downe there a braunche with one cluster of grapes, and twain bare it vpō a staffe: & they brought also of the pomgranates & of the figges.
And the place was called the riuer Escol: because of the cluster of grapes which the childrē of Israell cutte downe thēce. And they turned backe againe from searching of the lande, after fourty dayes. And thei wente, and came to Moses and Aaron, & vnto al the multitude of the childrē of Israel in the wildernes of Pharan, whiche is Cades, and brought them woorde, and also vnto all the congregatiō, and shewed them the fruit of the land. And they tolde him, & sayde: we came vnto the land why-ther thou sendedst vs, & surelye it floweth D wyth mylke and hony: and here is of the fruite of it. Neverthelesse, the people bee strong that dwel in the lād, and the cities are walled and exceading great: & more-ouer, we saw the childrē of Enacke there.
The Amalechites dwell in the south coū-trey, and the Hethites, Jebusites, and the Amorites dwel in the mountaynes, & the Cananites dwell by the sea, and by the coaste of Jordan. And Caleb stylled the murmure

(murmure ẏ was raysed vp) of ẏ people before Moses, saying: we wil go vp, & conquere it: for we be hable to ouercome it. But the men that went vp with him sayd: We bee not able to goe vp against the people, for they are strõger thã we. And they brought vp an euel report of the land whiche they had searched, saying vnto the children of Israel: The lãd which we haue gone tho-rowe to search it out, is a land that eateth vp the inhabiters therof: and the people ẏ we sawe in it, are men of a great stature.
And there we saw also giauntes, the chil-dre of Enacke, which come of the giantes.
And we seemed in oure syghte, as it were gresshoppers, and so we did in their sight.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

¶ The people murmure against God, and would haue stoned Caleb and Iosua. The searchers of the lãd die. Amalech killeth the Israelites.

A And all the multytude of the people cryed out, and wept throughout that night, and all the children of Israell murmured agaynste Moses and Aaron.
And the whole congregation sayde vnto them: Would god that we had dyed in the land of Egipt, eyther that we had dyed in this wildernes. Wherfore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto this lande, to fall vpon ẏ swerd: and that our wiues, and our chyldren should be a pray? Were it not better ẏ we returne into Egipt againe? And they sayd one to an other: We wil make a cap-tayn, and returne into Egipt again.

B But Moses and Aaron fell on theyr faces before all the congregation, & multitude of the childrẽ of Israel. And Iosua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sõne of Iephune (whiche were of them that searched the lande) rent their clothes & spake vnto al the cõpany of ẏ childrẽ of Israell, saying: The land whiche we walked tho-row to search it, is a very good lãd. If the Lorde haue lust to vs, he wyll bryng vs into this lande and geue it vs: whiche is suche a lande as floweth with mylke and hony. But in any wise rebel not ye agaīst Deu.xx.a the Lorde. * Neyther nede ye to feare the people of the lande, for they are but bread for vs. Theyr shadowe is departed from them, and the lord is with vs: feare them not therfore.

C But al they whiche were in that multitude, bad stone them with stones. And the glorye of the Lorde appeared in the Tabernacle of witnes, before all the chyldren of Israel. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: Howe long dooe this people prouoke me and howe long will it be yet they beleue me, for all the sygnes whiche I haue shewed among them? I will smyte them with the pestilence, and destroy them: and will make of thee a greater nation, and a mightier then they. And Moses saide vnto the lord: then the Egiptians shall heare it, for thou broughtest this people in thy might from among them. And it will bee tolde to the inhabiters of this land also:
for they haue hearde lykewyse, that thou Lorde arte among this people: and that thou lord art seen face to face: & that thy cloud standeth ouer them, and that * thou goest before them by day tyme in a pyller Ex.xiiii.c.
of a cloud, and in a piller of fyer by night.
If thou shalt kill all this people as they wer but one man, then the nations which haue heard the fame of thee, wil say: The Lorde is not able to bring in this people into the land, which he sware vnto them: D but hath slain them in the wildernes. And nowe I beseche thee, let the power of my Lorde bee great, accordyng as thou haste spoken, saying: The lord is long yer he be angry, & full of mercy, and suffreth iniquitie and sinne, & leaueth no man innocent, and visiteth the vnrighteousnes of the fa thers vpon the children, in the thirde and fourth generation: be mercifull I beseche thee, vnto the synne of this people, according vnto thy great mercye, as thou haste forgeuen this people from Egipte, euen vntill nowe. And the Lord sayde: I haue forgeuen it, according to thy request. But as truely as I lyue, all the earth shal bee fylled with the glory of the Lord. But all those men which haue seen my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egipt, and in the wildernes, and haue tempted me now this ten tymes, and will not hearken vnto my voice, shall not see the lande whiche I sware vnto their fathers: neyther shall any of them that prouoked me see it. But my seruaunt * Caleb, with whom there Iesu.xiiii. b. was another maner of spirit: and because he hath folowed me vnto the vtmost: him wil I bring into the land whiche he hath walked in, & his sede shall inherite it, and also the Amalechites & Canaanites which dwel in the plaine countrey. To morowe turne you, & geat you into the wildernes, euẽ by the way of the red sea. And the lord spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: How lõg doth this euel multitude murmure a- E gainst me? I haue heard ẏ murmurynges of the children of Israell, with the whiche they murmure against me. Tell thẽ therfore:

foꝛe: As truely as I liue (saith the loꝛde) I will doe vnto you euen as ye haue spoke in mine eares. Your carkasses shall lye

The .xvi. Chapter.

The rebellion of Corah, Dathan, and Abiram.

And *Corah the sonne of Iezehar, A the sõne of Cahath, the sõne of Leui, & Dathan, & Abiram the sonne Ec.xlv.e of Eliab, and On, the sõne of Peleth, the sonne of Ruben: rose vp beefore Moses, with other men of the children of Israel, two hundred and fiftie, whiche were captains of the multitude, greate & famous men in the congregation: and thei gathered themselues together agaynst Moses & Aaron, & said vnto them: ye make much to do: seing al the multitude are holy euery one of them, & the lord is among them. Why heue ye your selues vp aboue the cõgregatiõ of yt lord? And whẽ Moses herd it, he fel vpõ his face, and spake vnto Corah & vnto all his companye, saying: to morow yt lord will shewe who are his, who is holy, & who ought to approche nie vnto him, & whom he hath chosen to come to him. This doe therfore, take you fierpãs, both Corah & all his companie, & do fire therein, & put cẽse in them before the lord B of Leui: Is it but a small thing vnto you that the god of Israel hath seperated you from the multitude of Israel: & broughte you to himself, to do the seruice of ẏ dwelling place of the lord, and to stand before the multitude & to minister vnto him? He hath taken thee to him, & all thy brethren the sonnes of Leui with thee, and seke ye the office of ẏ priest also. For whiche cause both thou and al thy company are gathered together against the Lord. And what is Aaron that ye murmure against hym?

And Moses sent, and called Dathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, whiche said: C we wil not come vp. Is it a smal thyng ẏ thou hast brought vs out of a lande that floweth with milke and honey, to kyll vs verye angrye, and sayde vnto the Lorde: Turne not thou vnto their offeryng. I haue not taken so muche as an asse from

And Moses saide vnto Corah: Be thou thou, they, and Aaron to morowe. And take euerye man his censer, and put cense in them, that ye may offer before the lord: euery man of the two hundred and fiftye, them, and laide cense thereon, and stode in the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse with Moses and Aaron. And Corah gathered all the congregation againste nes. And the glorie of the Lorde appeared vnto all the congregation. And the D Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: Seperate your selues from amonge this congregation, that I maie consume them at once. And thei fel vpon their faces and said. *O most mightie God of the wilt thou be wrothe with al ẏ multitude?

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying:
speake vnto the congregation, and saye: Geat you awaie frō aboute ẏ dwelling of Corah, Dathan & Abiram. And Moses rose vp, & went vnto Dathan & Abiram, & the elders of Israel folowed him. And he spake vnto the congregation, saying: depart frō the tentes of these wicked mē, & touche nothing of theirs, lest ye perish in al their sinnes. And so thei gate them from the dwelling of Corah, Dathā and Abiram, on euerie side. And Dathan & Abiram came out & stode in ẏ doore of their tentes, with their wiues, their sonnes, & their litle childrē. And Moses said: Hereby ye shal know ẏ the Lord hath sent me and consumed the two hundred and fiftie men that offred cense. And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the priest, that he take vp ẏ censers out of the burning, and skatter the fier here and ther: for the cen-sers of these sinners are halowed in their deathes: & let thē make of thē thin beaten plates for a couering of ẏ altar. For they offred them before the lorde, and therfore thei are halowed: and thei shalbee a signe sede of Aarō, come nere to offer cense before the lord, that it happen not vnto him like as vnto Corah and his company: as the lord said of him by the hād of Moses.

But on the morowe, all the multitude of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, saying: ye haue killed the people of the lord. And it fortuned, ẏ when ẏ multitude was gathered agaynst Moses and Aaron, thei loked toward the tabernacle of witnesse. And behold (when they were entred into it) the cloude couered, it and the glory of the Lord appeared. And Moses and Aaron came before the Tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: get you from amōg thys congregation, that I may consume them quickly. And they fel vpon their faces. And Moses, sayd vnto Aaron: Take a cēser, & put fier therin out of ẏ altare, and powre on cense, and goe quickly vn-6 to the cōgregation, that thou mayest obtayne forgeuenesse for them. For there is wrath gone out frō the Lord, & there is a plage begon. And Aaron toke as Moses cōmaūded hym, and ran into the middes of the cōgregation: and behold, the plage was begon among the people, and he put on cense, and made an attonemēt for the people. And when he stode betwene the dead, and them that were aliue the plage ceased. They that dyed in the plage, were fourtene thousand and seuen hūdred: besyde them that dyed about the businesse of Corah. And Aaron went agayne vnto Moses before the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and the plage ceased.

Therefore shall ye kepe the holy place and the altare, that there fall no more wrath vpon the childrē of Israel. MirJam, and was buryed there. But xxxiii.b.
there was no water for the multitude, & they gathered thēselues together against Moses and Aaron. And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying: Woulde God that we had perished, when our brethren dyed before the Lord. Why haue ye brought the congregation of the Lorde vnto this wildernesse, that both we and our cattell should dye in it? *Wherefore Exo.xvii haue ye made vs to go out of Egipt, to a. bryng vs into this vngracious place, which is no place of sede, nor of fygges, nor vines, nor of pomegranates, neyther is there any water to drinke. And Mo- B ses and Aaron went from the congregation vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and fell vpon their faces.
(And they cryed vnto the Lord, and sayd: O Lorde God, heare the crye of thys people, and open them thy treasure, euen a foūtaine of liuing water, that they may be satisfied, and that their murmuring may ceasse.) And the glory of the Lord appeared vnto them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Take the rod, and gather thou, and thy brother Aaron, the congregation together, and speake vnto the rocke before their eyes, & it shall geue forth hys water. And thou shalt bring them water out of the rocke, to geue the company drynke, and their beastes also.*
And Moses toke the rod from before the Exo.vii Lord, as he commaūded hym. And Mo- .c.

together before the rocke, and Moses sayd vnto them: heare ye rebellio͂s: Must we fet you water out of this rocke? And not bring this congregation into yͤ land which I haue geuen them. This is the Thus sayth thy brother Israell: Thou knowest al the trauaile that hath happe-tyme: & the Egiptians vexed vs and our fathers. And when we cryed vnto yͤ lord, he heard our voyce, & sent an Angell, and hath fet vs out of Egipt. And beholde we are in Cades, euen in the vttermost citie the fieldes or vineyardes, neither wil we drinke of the water of the fountaines: we wil go by the kinges hye way, & neither turne vnto the right hand, nor to the left, answered him. Thou shalt not go by me: lest I come out against thee w͞ yͤ sweard.

D The children of Israell sayd vnto hym: we wil go by the beate͂ way: and if I and my cattel drinke of thy water, I wil pay for it: I will but only (without any red: Thou shalt not go thorow. And Edo͂ came out against him with much people, and with a mighty power. And thus Edo͂ denied to geue Israell passage thorowe his countrey: wherfore Israell turned away from him. And the children of Israell departed from Cades, and came vnto mount Hor, with all the congregation.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses & Aa-the land of Edom, saying: Aaron shalbe gathered vnto his people, for he shal not come into the land, which I haue geuen vnto the childre͂ of Israel: bicause ye disobeyed my mouth at the water of stryfe.

Take Aaron and Eleazar his sonne, and bring them vp into mount Hor: and thou shalt strip Aaron out of his vestmentes, and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne, & Aaron shalbe gathered vnto his people, and shal dye there. And Moses did as the Lord commaunded, and they went vp in to mount Hor, in the sight of al the mulin al the townes that long therto. For Hesbon was the citie of Sehon king of the Amorites, which fought before agaist the kyng of the Moabities, and toke all his land out of his hand, euen vnto Ar-

King Balac sendeth for Balaā, whose name in ẏ Hebrue, is written Bilcam. Balaams asse speaketh.

AND the children of Israell departed A Madian: now shall thys company lycke

Come now therfore, & curse thys people for my sake, for they are to mighty for me if so peraduenture I might be able to smite them, & to driue them out of the lād.
For I wote ẏ he whō ẏ blessest, is blessed and whō thou cursest, is cursed. And the elders of Moab, and ẏ elders of Madian departed, hauing ẏ reward of ẏ sothsay-ing in their hande. And they came vnto Balaam, & told hym ẏ wordes of Balac.
He answered thē: Tary here this night, & I wil bring you worde, euē as ẏ lord shal

C say vnto me. And the Lordes of Moab abode with Balaam. And God came vnto Balaam, and sayd: what men are these wt thee? And Balaam said vnto God: Balac the sonne of Ziphor, king of Moab, hath sent vnto me, saying: Beholde, there is a people come out of Egipt, and couereth ye face of the earth: come now therfore, and curse them for my sake, if so peraduẽture, I may be able to ouercome them in bat-tel, and to driue them out. And God sayd vnto Balaam: Go not thou with them, neither curse the people, for they are blessed. And Balaam rose vp in the morning and sayd vnto the Lordes of Balac: gett you vnto your land, for the Lord wil not suffer me to go with you. And the Lordes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balac, D and sayd: Balaam would not come with vs. And Balac sent agayn a greater company of Lordes, and more honorable thẽ they: which came to Balaam, & told him: Thus sayth Balac the sonne of Ziphor: Oh, let nothing let thee, but come vnto me, for I will greatly promote thee, vnto great honor, and wil do whatsoeuer thou sayest vnto me: come I pray thee, curse this people for my sake. And Balaam an swered and sayd vnto the seruauntes of Numeri xxiiii.c. Balac: *If Balac would geue me his house ful of siluer & gold, I can not go beyond the word of the Lord my God, to do lesse or more. Now therfore tary ye here this night: that I may wete what ye lord wil say vnto me more. And god came vnto Balaam by night, and sayd vnto him: If the men come to call thee, rise vp and goe with them: but loke what I say vnto the, that shalt thou do. And Balaam rose vp early, and sadled his asse: and went wt the Lordes of Moab. And the countenaũce of God was angry, bicause he wẽt.
And the Angell of the Lord stode in the way against him, as he rode vpõ his asse, and his two seruauntes were wyth hym.
E And when the asse saw the Angell of the Lorde stande in the waye, and hauing a sweard drawen in his hand, the asse turned aside out of the way, and went out into the fielde. And Balaam smote the asse to turne her into the way. But the angel of the Lorde stode in a path betwene the vineyardes, & there was a wall on ye one side, & another on the other. And when the asse saw ye Angel of ye Lord, she wrenched vnto the wal, & thrust Balaams fote vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne.
And ye Angel of the Lord went further & stode in a narow place, where was no way to turne, either to the right hande or to the left. And whẽ the asse saw the Angell of the Lord, she fell down vnder Balaam: and Balaam was wroth, & smote the asse with a staffe. And the Lord opened the mouth of the asse, and she said vnto Balaam: What haue I done vnto thee that thou hast smittẽ me now thre times?
And Balaam sayd vnto the asse, bicause thou hast mocked me: I would also there were a sweard in my hand, for euen now would I kill thee. And the asse sayd vnto Balaam: am not I thine asse, which thou hast ridden vpon, since thou wast borne vnto this day? Was I euer wont to do so vnto thee? he sayd: nay.
And the Lord opened the eyes of Bala- F am: and he saw the Angell of the Lord stãding in the way, hauing a sweard drawen in his hand. He bowed himself therfore and fell flat on his face. And the Angell of the Lord sayd vnto him: Wherfore hast thou smitten thine asse thre tymes?
Behold, I came out as an aduersary, bi-cause thou makest thy way contrary vnto me, and the asse saw me, & went backe fro me thre tymes: or els if she had not turned from me (geuing place to me that stode in the way) I had surely slaine thee, and saued her aliue. Balaam sayd vnto the angell of the Lord: I haue sinned, for I wist not that thou stodest in the way agaynste me. Now therfore if it displease thee, I wil turne home againe. The Angell sayd vnto Balaam: go with the men: but what I say vnto thee, that shalt thou speake.
And so Balaam went with the Lordes of Balac. And when Balac heard that Ba- G laam was come, he went out to mete him vnto a citie of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, euen in the vtmost coaste.
And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: did I not sende for thee, to call thee? And wherefore camest thou not vnto me? bicause I am not able to promote the vnto honor? And Balaam made answere vnto Balac: Lo, I am come vnto thee. And can I now say any thing at all? The word ye God *put- Numeri c. teth in my mouth, that shal I speake. And Balaam went with Balac, and thei came vnto a citie of stretes. And Balac offred oxẽ and shepe, and sent (rewardes) for Balaam, and for the Lordes that were wyth him. And on the morow Balac toke Balaam, and brought him vp into the hye place of Baal, that thence he might se the vtmost part of the people.

¶ Balaam blesseth the people.

A And Balaam said vnto Balac: build me here seuen altares, and prepare me here seuen oxen, and seuen rammes. And Balac did as Balaã sayd. And Balac & Balaam offred on euery altare, an oxe & a ram. And Balaam sayd vnto Balac: Stãde by thy sacrifice, & I wil go, if happly the Lord wil mete me: & whatsoeuer he sheweth me, I wil tel thee: and he wẽt forth alone. But God met Balaam and Balaam sayd vnto him: I haue prepared seuen altares, and haue offred vpon euery altare, an oxe & a ram. And ÿ Lord put a saying in Balaams mouth, & sayd: go againe to Balac, and say on thys wise. And when he went again vnto him loe, he stode by his sacrifice, he and all the Lordes of Moab. And he toke vp his parable and said, *Balac the king of Moab hath fet me from Mesopotamia, out of ÿ mountaines of the East (saying:) come, curse Iacob for my sake: come and defye Israel. How shal I curse him, whom god

B hath not cursed? Or how shal I defie him whom god hath not defied? Who can tell the duste of Iacob, & the numbre of the fourthpart of Israel? I pray God that my soule may dye the death of the righteous, & that my last end may be like his. And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: What hast thou done vnto me? I fet thee to curse mine enemies: and beholde, thou hast blessed them. He answered and sayd: must I not kepe that, and speake it, which the Lord hath putt in my mouth? And Balac sayd vnto him: come I pray thee with me vnto another place, whence thou maiest see them: and thou shalt se but the vtmost part of them, and shalt not se them all: curse them out of ÿ place for my sake. He shal not lie down, vntill he eate of the pray, & drinke ÿ bloud of them ÿ are slain. And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: neyther curse thẽ, nor blesse thẽ. But Balaam answered & sayd vnto Balac: told not I the saying: al ÿ the Lord speaketh, ÿ must I do. And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: Come I pray thee, & I wil bring thee yet vnto another place, if peraduenture it will please God, ÿ thou maist thẽce curse them for my sake. And Balac brought Balaam vnto ÿ top of Peor, ÿ boweth toward the wildernesse of Iesimmon. And Balaam said vnto Balac: make me here .vii. altars and prepare me here .vii. oxen, & .vii. rammes. And Balac did as Balaam had said & offred an oxe & a ram on euery altare.

The.xxvii.Chapter.

The law of the heritage of the daughters of Zelaphe-ad. The lād of promisse is shewed vnto Moses,in whose stead is appointed Josua.

AND the daughters of*Zelaphead the A sonne of Heber,the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Machir the sonne of Manasse:of the kinred of Manasse,the sonne of Joseph (whose names were, Mahela , Noa , Hagla , Melcha , and Thyrza)came and stoode before Moses, and Eleazar the Prieste, and before the Lordes,& al the multitude by the doore of the tabernacle of witnes,saying:Our father died in the wildernes,* and was not in the companye of thē that gathered thē-selues selues together against the lorde in ye congregation of Corah:but died in his owne sinne,& had no sonnes. Wherefore then is B the name of our father taken away from amōg his kinred,because he hath no sōne. Numeri *Geue vnto vs therefore a possessiō among the brethrē of our father. And Moses brought their cause before the Lorde.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses,saying:
The daughters of Zelaphead speak right thou shalt geue them a possession to inherite amōg their fathers brethren,& shalte turne the inheritaunce of their father vnto thē. And thou shalt speake vnto ye chyldren of Israel,saying: If a man dye and haue no sonne, ye shall turne his inheritaunce vnto his daughter. If he haue no daughter,ye shall geue his inheritaunce vnto his brethren. If he haue also no brethren,ye shall geue his inheritaunce vnto his fathers brethrē. And if his father haue no brethren,ye shal geue his inheritaunce vnto hym that is next to him of his kyn-C red,and he shal possesse it. And this shalbe vnto the childrē of Israel a law of iudge-ment,as the Lord hath cōmaunded Mo-
...iii.d ses. And the Lorde saide vnto Moses:
...iiii.a *get the vp into this mount Abarim,and behold the land which I haue geuen vnto the children of Israel. And when thou hast seen it,thou shalte bee gathered vnto thy people also,as Aarō thy brother was gathered. For ye were disobediente vnto my mouth in the desert of Sin,in ye strife of the congregation. Neither did ye sanc-tifie me in the waters before their eyes.
...xvii.c *That is the water of strife in Cades,in the wildernes of Sin. And Moses spake vnto the Lord,saying: Let the Lord God of the spirites of all fleshe set a man ouer the congregation, which maie go out and D in before thē, and leade them out and in: that the congregation of the Lord be not as shepe which haue not a shepeheard.
And the lorde said vnto Moses:take Josua the sonne of Nun,in whom is the spi-rite,and put thine handes vpon him,and set him before Eleazar the priest,and before all the congregation:and geue hym a charge in their sight. And put of thi praise vpon him,that al the company of the children of Israell maie be obedient. And he Ex.xxviii. shall stand before Eleazar ye priest,whiche shal aske counsel for him*after the iudge-ment of Urim ,before the Lorde. And according vnto his woorde shal they go out and in,both he and all the children of Israel with him,and all the congregation.

And Moses dyd as the Lord commaunded him:and he tooke Josua,and set him before Eleazar the priest,and before all ye congregation:* and put his handes vp- Acte.vi.d pon hym , and gaue hym a charge,as the Lord commaunded through the hande of Moses.

The.xxviii.Chapter.

¶ What must be offred on euery feast day.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses,say- A ing: Commaund the children of Israel,and say vnto them: My offring and my bread for my sacrifices which are made for a swete sauour, shall ye obserue in their due seasō. And thou shalt say vnto them:* This is the offryng whiche ye Ex.xxix.g. shall offer vnto the lord: Two lambes of a yere old without spot day by daie, for a cō-tinual burntoffring. One lābe shalt thou offer in the morning,& the other at euen.
*And therto the tenth part of an Epha of Nu.xv.a floure for a meateoffring, mingled with beaten oyle,conteining the fourth part of an hin. It is a daily burntoffring,such as was ordeyned in the mount Sinay for a swete sauour,a sacrifice vnto ye lord. And let the drinkoffring of ye same be ye fourth part of an hin for one lambe,& in the holy place shalt thou commaunde the wyne to B be powred vnto the Lorde. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen after ye maner of ye meatoffring and the drinkoffring of the morning:a sacrifice shalt thou offer for a swete sauour vnto the lorde. And on the Sabboth daie, two lambes of a yere old a piece,& without spot,and two tenth deales of floure for a meateoffring myn-gled with oyle,and the drinkoffring ther-to. The burntoffring of ye Sabboth must be done in the selfe Sabboth, besyde the daily burntoffring,and his drinkoffring.
And in the beginnings of your moneths ye shall offer a burntoffryng vnto ye lord two yong bullockes, & a ramme,and.vii. lambes of a yere old without spot:& three tenth deales of floure for a meateoffring mingled with oyle,for one bullock:& two tenth deales of floure for a meateoffring mingled with oyle for one ramme. And a tēth deale of floure mingled with oyle for a meatoffring vnto one lābe,for a burntoffring & a swete sauour,& a sacrifice vnto the lorde.

And their drinkoffringes shalbee halfe C an hin of wine vnto one bullocke,and the thirde part of an hin of wine vnto a ram, & the fourth part of an hin vnto a lambe.
This is ye burntoffring of the moneth,in hys hys moneth throughout the monethes of yͤ yere: & one he goate for a sinoffring vnto the Lord shalbe offred, after the daylye burntoffring and his drinkoffring. * And Ex. xii. a. the fourtenth day of yͤ first moneth, is the Leu. xxiii a. passeouer of the lorde. And in the fiftenth day of thesame moneth is the feast: & .vii.

Deu. xvi a. dayes long shal vnleuened bread be eatẽ.
Le xxiii b In the * first day shall be an holy conuo-catiõ: ye shal do no maner of seruile work therein. But ye shall offer a sacrifice for a burntoffring vnto the Lorde, two yong bullockes, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yere old, which are to you without spot, and let their meateofferyng bee of floure mingled with oyle: thre tenth deales also shall ye offer for a bullocke, and two tenth deales for a ramme: one tenth deale shalt thou offer for euerye lambe of the seuen lambes: and an he gote for synne to make an attonement for you.

Ye shall offer these, beside the burntoffe-ring in the morning, which is a continual D burnt sacrifice. After this maner ye shall offer throughout the seuẽ daies, the foode of the sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the lord. And it shalbe done besyde the daylye burntofferyng and his drynkeofferyng.
And in the seuẽth day ye shal haue an holy conuocation, and ye shall do no seruyle worke. Therefore in the day of your first fruites, whẽ ye bring a new meatoffryng vnto the lord (according to your workes) ye shall haue an holy conuocation, and ye shall doe no seruile worke in it: but offer a burntofferyng for a swete sauoure vnto the Lord, two yong bullockes, a ramme, * and seuen lambes of a yere old a piece, Leu. xxiii c. wt their meatoffringes of floure mingled wt oyle, thre tenth deales vnto a bullocke, two tenth deales to a ram, and one tenth deale vnto a lambe throughout the seuen lambes, & an he gote to make an attonement for you. This ye shal do besides the continuall burntoffering, and his meate offeryng: and they shalbe vnto you wythout spot, with their drinkeoffringes.

The. xxix. Chapter.

What muste be offered the eyght fyrst dayes of the seuenth moneth.

A AND in the first day of the seuẽth mo-neth, ye shall haue an holy conuoca-tion, * ye shall doe then no seruyle Le. xxiii c worke. For it is a daye of blowyng vnto you. But ye shal offer a burnt offryng for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde: one yong bullocke, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yere olde a piece, that are pure. And theyr meateoffryng shalbe made of floure mingled with oyle, thre tenth deales vnto the bullocke, and two vnto the ramme: and one tenth deale vnto one lambe thorowout the seuen lambes. And an he gote for sinne to make an attonement for you, beside the daily burntoffryng of the mo-neth, & his meatoffryng, and besyde the daily burntoffring and his meateoffering and the drinkoffrynges of thesame, which muste be done according vnto the maner of them for a sauour of swetenes of the sacrifice of the Lorde. * And ye shall haue Le[u.] [xxiii] the tẽth day of that same seuenth moneth an holy conuocation: and ye shall humble your soules, and shal do no maner worke therein. But ye shall offer a burntoffryng vnto the lord for a swete sauour: one bullocke, a ram, & seuen lambes of a yere old a piece, which shall be vnto you without fault. Their meatoffring shalbe of floure mingled with oyle, thre tenth deales to a bullocke, and two to a ram, and a tenth deale vnto a lambe, throughout the seuẽ B lambes. An he goate for synne, beside the synneofferyng of attonemente, and the daylye burntoffering, and the meate and drinkoffringes, that long to thesame. *
And in the fiftenth daie of the seuẽth mo- Leu. xxiii. neth, ye shall haue an holye conuocation, and doe then no seruile worke, and ye shal kepe a feast vnto yͤ lord, seuen daies long.
And ye shall offer a burntofferyng for a sacrifice of a swete sauour vnto the lorde, thyrtene bullockes, two rammes, and xiiii. lambes of a yere olde, which shall be without blemishe. And their meatoffring shall be of floure mingled with oyle, thre tenth deales vnto euery one of yͤ thirtene bullockes, two tenth deales to eyther of the rammes and one tẽth deale vnto eche of the fourtene lambes. And one he goat for sinne, beside the dailye burntofferyng with his meate and drinkoffring. And the second daie ye shall offer twelue yong bullockes, two rammes, fourtene yeare-ling lambes without spot: and lette theyr meatoffring and drinkoffringes vnto the bullockes, rammes, and lambes, be according to the number of them, and after the maner. And an he goate for synne, be- C side the daily burntoffryng, & his meate and drinkoffringes. And the third daie ye shal offer eleuen bullockes, two rams, and. xiiii. yereling lambes without spot:
and let their meat and drinkeofferynges vnto the bullockes, rammes and lambes be after the number of them, and according ding to the maner. And there shalbe offered an he goate for synne, beside the day-ly burntoffring and his meate & drinkoffring. In the fourth daie ye shal offer ten bullockes, two rammes, and fourtene lambes, yerelynges and pure: lette their meate and drinkofferynges vnto the bullockes, rammes, and lambes, bee according to the number of them, and after the maner. And an he goate for synne, besyde the daily burntoffring and his meate and drinkoffring. In the fifth daie, ye shal offer nine bullockes, two rammes, and .xiiii lambes of one yere olde a piece withoute spot. And let their meate and drynkofferinges vnto the bullockes, rammes, and lambes, bee accordyng to the number of them, & after the maner. And an he goate for sinne, besyde the daily burntoffryng and his meate and drinkoffringes.

D And in the sixth day, ye shal offer eighte bullockes, two rammes, and fourtene yereling lammes without spot. And lette theyr meate and drynkeofferynges vnto the bullockes, rammes and lambes, bee accordyng to the number of them, and after the maner. And an he goate for sinne, beside the daily burntofferyng, and hys meate and drinkoffringes.

In the seuenth day, ye shall offer seuen
bullockes, two rammes, and fourtene lambes, that are yearelynges and pure.
And let their meate and drynkoffringe,
vnto the bullockes, rammes and lambes bee accordyng to their number, and after the maner. And an he goate for synne, beside the daily burntoffryng and his meat and drinkoffryng. In the eyght daye, ye shal haue a collection of þ feast vnto you, and ye shall doe no seruile worke therein: But ye shall offer a burnteoffryng, a sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde: one bullock, one ramme, and seuen yere-lyng lambes without spotte. Lette theyr meate and drinkeoffrynges vnto the bullocke, ramme and lambes, bee accordyng to their nūber, and accordyng to the maner. And an he goate for sinne, beside the daily burntoffryng, and his meate and drinkoffrynges. These thynges ye shal doe vnto the Lorde in youre feastes, besyde your vowes, and frewyll offrynges, in your burntoffrynges, meateoffrynges, drinkoffringes, and peaceoffringes. And Moses told the children of Israel al that the Lorde commaunded him.

The .xxx. Chapiter.

¶ Of vowes, when they shalbe kept, and when not.

AND Moses spake vnto the heades of the tribes of the children of Israell, A saying: Thys is the thyng whiche the Lord hath commaunded. *If a man De.xxiii vowe a vowe vnto the Lorde, or sweare an othe to bynd his soule, he shall not go backe with his woorde: but shall fulfill all that is proceded out of his mouthe. If a woman also vowe a vowe vnto the lord, and bynde her selfe beyng in her fathers house, in þ time of her youthe, and her father heare her vow and bonde, which she hath made vpon her soule, and holde his peace therto: then all her vowes & bonds which she hath made vpon her soule, shall stande in effecte. But and if her father B forbid her thesame daye that he heareth it, none of her vowes and bondes whiche she hath made vpon her soule, shall bee of value: and the Lorde shal forgeue her, because her father forbad her. If she had an husband when she vowed or pronounced oughte out of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, and her husband heard it and helde his peace therat thesame day he heard it, then her vowe and her bonds wherwith she bound her soule shal stande in effect. And if her husband forbadde her the same daye that he heard it, and made her vowe which she had vpon her of none C effect, and released the opening of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, the Lorde shall forgeue her. But euery vowe of a widowe, and of her that is diuorced (that they haue bonde their soule withall) shal stand in effect with thē. If she vowed in her husbands house, or bound her soule with an othe, and her husbande heard it, & helde his peace, and forbad her not, then al her vowes and bondes wherewith she bounde her soule shall stande. But yf her husband disanulled them, the same daye that he hearde them, then nothyng that proceadeth out of her lippes in vowes & bondes (wherwith she bounde her soule) shal stand in effect: for her husbande hath losed thē. And the lorde shal forgeue her.
Al vowes and othes that bind to humble D the soule, maye her husbande stablishe or breake. But if her husbād holde his peace from one day vnto another, thē he stablysheth al her vowes and bondes which she had vpon her, beecause he helde his peace the same day that he heard them. But yf he breake them, after that he hath hearde them, he shall beare her sin himself. These are the ordinaunces which the lorde commaunded maided Moses, betwene a man and his wife: & betwene ÿ father & his daughter, being yet a damosel in her fathers house.

¶ The.xxxi.Chapter

The Madianites and Balaam are slayn. The pray is A equally deuyded. A present geuen of Israel.

And ÿ lord spake vnto Moses, saying Nu.xxv.d *auenge the children of Israel of ÿ Madianites, and afterwarde shalte thou bee gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folk, saying: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, & let them goe vpon the Madianites, & auenge the Lorde of the Madianites. Let there bee chosen a thousande out of euery trybe of Israell, that out of all the tribes ye maie sende some to the warre. And there were taken oute of the thousandes of Israell, twelue thousande prepared vnto warre, of euerie tribe a thousande. And Moses sente them to the warre, euen a thousand of euerie tribe, and with them, Phyneas the sonne of Eleazar the Prieste: and the Num.x.a. holy vesselles, & the * trompets to blowe war in his hãd. And they warred against the Madianites, as the Lord commaunded Moses, and slewe all the males. And they slewe the kinges of Madian among other that were slayne: Namely, Eui and Rekem, zur, and Hur, and Reba, fyue kynges of Madian, with Balaam, the sonne of Beor, whom thei slewe with the swerde. And the children of Israel tooke al the women of Madian prisoners, and their children, and spoiled al their cattell, and al their flockes, and all their goodes.
And they burnte all their cities wherein thei dwelt, and all their castels with fier.
And they tooke all the spoyle, and all that they could catche, both of men & beastes.
B And thei brought the captiues and that which thei had taken, and the spoyle, vnto Moses and Eleazar the Priest, and vnto the company of the children of Israel, euẽ vnto the hoste that were in the fieldes of Moab by Jordan, ouer against Jericho.
And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, and all the lordes of the congregation, wente out of the host against them. And Moses was angry with ÿ officers of ÿ host, with the captains ouer thousandes & ouer hũ-dreds, whiche came from the warre and battayle, & Moses sayde vnto them: Haue ye saued all the women alyue? beholde, Nu.xxv.a. *these caused the children of Israell, tho-row the counsel of * Balaam, to commyt C trespasse against the lorde, in ÿ busines of ii.Pet.ii.b. Peor: & there folowed a plage among the congregation of the Lorde. Nowe therefore, *slay al ÿ men children, and the wo- Iu men that haue lyen with menne fleshlye. b.
But al the women children that haue not lien with men, kepe aliue for your selues.
And ye shall remaine without the hoste seuen daies, all that haue killed any person, * and all that haue touched any dead Nu bodie, and purifie bothe youre selues and your prisoners the third day & the seuẽth.
And sprynkle all your raimentes, and all that is made of skinnes, and all worke of gotes heare, & al thinges made of woode.
And Eleazar the priest said vnto the men of warre, which came from the battayle.
This is the ordinaunce of the law which the Lord commaunded Moses: Gold, siluer, brasse and yron, tin, and lead, and al D that maie abide the fier, ye shall make it goe through the fier, and it shalbe cleane.
Neuerthelesse it shall be sprinkled wyth sprinkling water. And all that suffereth not ÿ fier, ye shal make go through the water. And washe your clothes the seuenth day, and ye shal be cleane. And afterward come into the hoste. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: take the summe of ÿ praie that was taken, both of the women & of the cattel, thou & Eleazar the prieste, and the auncient fathers of the congregation. And deuide it into two partes, be-twene them that tooke the warre vppon them, and went out to battaile, and al the congregation. And take a portion vnto the Lorde of the menne of warre, which wente oute to battayle: one soule of fyue hundred, bothe of the women and of the oxẽ, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shall take it of their halfe, and geue it vnto Eleazar the Prieste, as an heueoffe-ring of the Lorde.

And of the halfe of the chyldren of Israel, thou shalt take one portion of fiftye, E of the women, of the oxen, of the asses, & of the sheepe, and all maner of beastes: and geue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayte vpon the habitation of the Lorde.
And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the botye, and the praie which the men of warre hadde caughte, was syxe hundred thousand, and.lxxv.thousande shepe: and lxxii.thousand oxen.lxi.thousand asses: & xxxii.thousand soules of women that had lyen by no man. And the half which was the part of them that went out to warre, was three hundred thousande, and seuen and thirtye thousande, and fiue hundred shepe.

shepe. And the Lordes part of the shepe was syxe hundred and lxxv. And the oxen were.xxxvi.thousand, of which the lordes part was.lxxii. And the Asses were thirty thousand and fyue hundred, of which the Lordes parte was.lxi. And the soules of women were.xvi.thousande, of which the lordes part was.xxxii soules. And Mo-F ses gaue that summe which was ye lordes heueoffring, vnto Eleazar the Priest, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the other half of the children of Israell which Moses seperated from the men of warre, (that is to wete, the halfe that pertayned vnto the congregation) was thre hundred thousand, and.xxxvii.thousand, and fyue hundred shepe. and.xxxvi.thousand oxen and.xxx.thousande Asses, and.v.hundred and.xvi.thousand soules of women.

And Moses toke of this halfe that pertained vnto the children of Israell, one portion of fiftie, bothe of the women and of the cattel, and gaue them vnto the Le-uites, whiche waited vpon the habitation of the Lorde, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And the officers of thousands of the host, the captaynes ouer ye thousandes and the captains ouer the hundreds came furth, and sayde vnto Moses: Thy seruauntes haue taken the summe of the mẽ of warre which are vnder our auctoritye, and there lacketh not one man of vs. We G haue therefore brought a presente vnto the Lorde, what euery man founde of iewelles of golde, cheynes, bracelettes, rynges, earynges, and spangles, to make an attonement for oure soules before the Lorde. And Moses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewelles of al maner fashions. And all the golde of the heueoffryng that they heued vp to the Lorde (of the captayns ouer thousands and hundreds) was sixtene thousand, seuen hundred and fifty sicles, for the men of warre had spoiled, euery man for himselfe. And Moses and Eleazar the priest, tooke the gold of the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and of the captaynes ouer the hundreds, and brought it into the Tabernacle of witnes for a memoriall of the children of Israell before the Lorde.

The.xxxii.Chapter.

¶ To Ruben and Gad, and to halfe the tribe of Ma-nasses, is promised the possession beyonde Jordan east-warde.

A The children of Ruben, and ye childrẽ of Gad, had an exceding great multitude of cattel. And when they saw the land of Jazer, and the land of Gilead ye it was an apt place for cattell: ye childrẽ of Rubẽ, and the children of Gad, came & spake vnto Moses and Eleazar ye priest, & vnto the lordes of the cõgregation, saying: The land of Ataroth and Dibon Ja-zer, and Nimrah, Hesbon, and Elialeth, Saban & Nebo, & Beon, whiche country the lord smote before the congregation of Israel: is a lande mete for cattell, and we thy seruantes haue cattel: wherfore (saide they) if we haue founde grace in thy sight let this land be geuen vnto thy seruaũtes to possesse, and bring vs not ouer Jordan

And Moses sayde vnto the chyldren of B Gad, & of Ruben: Shal your brethren go to warre, & ye shall sit here? Wherfore discourage ye the heart of the childrẽ of Israel, that they should not go ouer into the land, whiche the lord hath geuen them? * Nu.xiii.d Thus did your fathers when I sent them from Cades Barne to see the lande. For when they wente vp euen vnto the riuer of Escol, & saw the land, thei discouraged the heartes of the children of Israel, that they should not goe into the lande whiche the lord hath geuen them. And the Lord was wrothe thesame tyme, & sware, saying: * None of the men ye came out of E- Nu.x.iiii.f gipt, from.xx.yere old and aboue, shall see the land whiche I sware vnto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, because they haue not C wholy folowed me, saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue folowed the lord. And the lord was angry with Israel, & made them wãder in the wildernesse fourty yere, vntil al the generation ye had done euell in the sight of the Lorde, were consumed.

And beholde, ye are risen vp in youre fathers stead, as an increase of sinful mẽ, to augment the fearce wrath of the lord, toward Israel. For if ye turne awaye frõ after him, he wil yet agayn leaue the people in the wildernes, & ye shall destroy all this folke. And they went nere hym, and said: we wil build shepefolds here for our shepe and for our cattel, and (walled) cityes for our children. But we oure selues wyll D go ready armed before the children of Israel vntil we haue brought thẽ vnto their place. And oure children (and whatsoeuer we may haue) shal dwel in the fensed cities, because of ye inhabiters of ye lãd. We will not returne vnto our houses, vntill the chyldren of Israel haue inherited, euery man his inheritaunce. Neyther will we enherite

rite with them on yonder syde of Jordan forewarde, because oure inheritaunce is fallen to vs on this side Jordan estward.
And Moses sayde vnto them: If ye wyll doe this thyng, and goe harnessed before the Lorde to warre, and wyll goe all of you in harnesse ouer Jordan before the Lorde, vntyll he haue cast oute his enemies before hym, and vntyll the land be subdued before the Lorde: then ye shal returne and bee without sinne before the Lorde, and before Israell, and this lande shall bee your possession before the Lord.
But and if ye will not doe so: beholde, ye E haue sinned against the Lorde: and bee sure your sinne will finde you oute. Now therefore, builde cities for youre children and foldes for your shepe, and doe that ye haue spoken. The children of Gad, and the children of Ruben spake vnto Moses, saying: thy seruauntes will doe as my Lorde commaundeth. Our children, oure wiues, our shepe, and our cattell shall re-maine here in the cities of Gilead. But * Josu .iiii. c. thy seruauntes will goe all harnessed to warre, and vnto battaile before the lord, as my Lorde saieth. And for their sakes, Moses commaunded Eleazar the priest, and Josua the sonne of Nun, & the aun-cient fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, and Moses saide vnto them: If the children of Gad, and the children of Ruben wil go with you ouer Jordan, all prepared to fight before the Lorde, then when the lande is subdued before you, ye shal geue them the land of Gilead to pos-sesse: but and if thei will not go ouer with you in harnesse, thei shall haue their possessions among you in the lãd of Canaã.
F And the children of Gad and the children of Ruben aunswered, saying: As the lord hath said vnto thy seruauntes, so will we doe. * We will goe harnessed before the Josu .xxii a. Lorde into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of our inheritaunce maie be on this side of Jordã. And Moses gaue vnto the children of Gad, and to the children of Ruben, and vnto halfe the tribe of Ma-nasse the sonne of Joseph, the kingdom of Sehon king of the Amorites, & the kingdom of Og, kyng of Basan: the land with the cities thereof, in the coastes and cities of the countrey round about. And the children of Gad builte Dybon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, and Atroth, Sophan, Jaeser, & Jegabea, Bethnimra, & Betharan, fensed cities, & they builte foldes for the shepe. And the childrẽ of Ruben built Hesbon, Eleale, Kiriathaim, Nebo, Baal G Meon, and turned their names, and Sy-bama also: and gaue other names vnto ye cities which they builded. And the childrẽ of Machir, the sonne of Manasse, wẽt to Gilead, & toke it, and put oute the Amorites that dwelt therin. And Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir ye sõne of Manasse, Deu. and he dwelt therin. And * Jahir the sõne of Manasse wente and tooke the small townes thereof, and called them Hauoth Jair. And Nobah wente & toke Kenath, and the townes belongyng thereto, & called it Nobah, after his owne name.

The. xxxiii. Chapter.

¶ The iourneyes of Israell are numbred. They are commaunded to kill the Cananites.

These are the iourneies of the childrẽ A of Israel, which wẽt out of the land of Egipt with their armies vnder ye hande of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote their going out by their iourneyes, according to ye commaundement of ye lord: euen these are the iourneyes of their go-to doe vnto them.

The.xxxiiii.Chapter.

¶ The coastes and borders of the lande of promisse.
Certaine men are assigned to deuide the lande.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Commaunde the children of Israel, and saye vnto them, when ye A come into the land of Canaã: This is the lande that shal fal vnto your enheritaũce, the lande of Canaan with her coastes. * Iosu.xv.
And your Southquarter shalbe from the a.

from the South to Cades Barne, and go out also to Hazar Adar, and goe along to Azmon, and fet a compasse againe frõ Az= mon, vnto the riuer of Egipt, and shal goe out at the sea. And let youre Westquarter be the great sea: let the same be your west coast. And this shal bee your Northquar= B ter: ye shall compasse your border from the great sea vnto mõut Hor. And frõ mount Hor, ye shall describe youre border, till it come vnto Hemath, and the end of ye coast shalbe at Zedada, and the coast shal reach out to Ziphron, and goe out at Hazar Enan. This shal bee youre Northquarter. And ye shall compasse youre Eastquarter frō Hazer Enan to Sepham. And ye coast shall go downe from Sepham, to Ribla, on the East side of Ain. And the same border shall descende and goe out at the syde of the sea of Cenereth, Eastward. And then go down along by Jordan, & leaue at the salte sea. And this shalbe your land with the coastes therof round about.

And Moses commaunded the children of Israel, saying: This is the land which ye shall enherite by lot, and which ye lorde commaunded to geue vnto nyne tribes & an halfe: *for the tribe of the children of Ruben, accordinge to the householdes of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of God, according to their fathers housholdes, and half ye tribe of Manasse, haue receiued their enheritaunce: two tribes & an halfe haue receiued their enheritaūce of the other side of Jordan, ouer against Jericho Eastward. And the Lorde spake to Moses, saying: These are the names of the men, which shal deuide the land vnto you: Eleazar the Priest, and Josua the sonne of * Nun. And ye shall take also a Lord of euerye tribe, when ye deuide the land. The names of the menne are these: Of the tribe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Jephune. Of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Semuell the sonne of Amiud. Of the tribe of Ben Jamin, Elidad, the sonne of Cislon. Of the tribe of the children of Dan, the Lorde Bucki, the sonne of Jagli. From among the children of Joseph, for ye tribe of the children of Manasse, the Lorde Haniell, the sonne of Ephod. Of the tribe of the childrē of Ephraim, the Lord Camuel, the sonne of Siphtan. Of the tribe of the sonne of Zabulon, the Lord Elizaphan, the sonne of Pharnach. Of the tribe of the children of Isachar, the Lord Palthiel, the sonne of Asan. Of the tribe of the sonnes of Aser, the Lorde Ahihud the sonne of Salomi. Of the tribe of the children of Nephthali, the Lorde Peda El, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they whome the Lorde commaunded to deuide the enheritaunce vnto the children of Israell, in the lande of Canaan.

Unto the Leuites are geuen cities and suburbes. The cities of refuge. The lawe of mankyllyng. For one mannes witnesse, shall no man be condemned.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, in the fieldes of Moab by Jordā, ouer against Jericho, saying: Cōmaunde the children of Israel, that they geue vnto the Leuites, of the inheritaūce of their possession, *cities to dwel in. And ye shall geue also vnto the cities of the Leuites, suburbes harde by their cities rounde aboute them. The cities shall they haue to dwell in, and the suburbes for their catel, and for their possession, and all maner of beastes of theirs. And the suburbes of the cities whiche ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, shall reache from the wall of the citie outwarde, a thousand cubites round aboute. And ye shall measure without the citie of the Eastside, two thousād cubites. And of the Southside, two thousand cubites. And of the Westside, two thousande cubites. And of the Northside, two thousande cubites also: and the citie shal bee in the middes. And these shalbee ye suburbes of their cities. B And from among the cities whiche ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, * there shalbe sixe cities for refuge, whiche ye shal appoint to that entent, ye he which kylleth, maye flee thither. And to them ye shall adde, two and fortie cities moe: so ye all the cities whiche ye shall geue the Leuites, maye be eight and fortie, with their suburbes. And these cities which ye shall geue, shalbe out of the possession of ye childrē of Israel. They that haue many, shal geue mani. But of them that haue fewe, ye shall take fewe. Euery on shal geue of his cities vnto the Leuites, according to the enheritaunce which he enheriteth. And ye Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them: *When ye be come ouer Jordan in to the lande of Canaan, ye shall appointe you cities, to be cities of refuge for you: ye he whiche slayeth a soule vnwares, maye flee thither. And the citie shalbe to flye frō the auenger of bloud, that he whiche kylleth dye not, vntil he stand before the congregation in iudgement.

And of these syxe free cities whiche ye shal geue, ye shall geue three on this syde Jordane, and thre in the land of Canaan. And these sixe free cities shalbe a refuge, both for ye childrē of Israel, & for ye straunger, and for him ye dwelleth among you: that al they which kill any person vnwares, maye flee thither. *And if anye man smite another with an instrument of iron that he dy, then is he a murtherer, & shall dy for it. But and yf he pusshed him by chaunce, & not of hate, or cast at him with any maner of thing, and not of laying of waite: or cast any maner of stone at him (that a man may dye with) and saw him not: and he caste it vpon him, and he dye, and was not his enemie, neither soughte hym any harme: Thē the congregation shal iudge
D betwene the slayer and the executour of bloud in such cases. And the congregatiō shall deliuer the slayer out of the hand of the auenger of bloud, and the congregation shal restore him again vnto the citie of hys refuge, whither he was fledde.
John.xx.b. And he shal byde there *vnto the death of the hye Priest, which was anointed with holy oile. But & yf the slaier come without the borders of his priuileged citie, whither he was fled, yf the auenger of bloud fynde him without the borders of his free towne, and slay the murtherer, he shalbe giltlesse, because he should haue bidden in his fre towne vntill the death of the hye Prieste: and after the death of the hye Prieste, to returne agayne vnto the land of his possession.

These commaundementes shall bee a lawe vnto you, for youre generations in all your dwellynges. Whosoeuer kylleth a soule, the same manne slayer muste be slayne him selfe, through *witnesses. Neither shall one wytnesse aunswere to putte a manne to death. Moreouer ye shal take none amendes for the life of the murtherer, whiche is woorthy to dye but he shall bee putte to death. De.xvii.a. & xix.b.

Also ye shall take no money of him that is fledde to a fre citie, that he should come agayn, and dwell in the lande, before the death of the hye Prieste. And see that ye polute not the land whiche ye shall dwell in: for bloude defileth the lande. And the land can none otherwise be clensed of the bloud that is shed therin, but by the bloud of him ẏ shed bloud. Defile not therefore the land which ye shall inhabite, for I am in the middes therof: Euen I the Lorde dwell among the children of Israell.

An order for the mariage of the daughters of Zelaphead. One of the tribes may not mary with another.

A And the auncient fathers of the children of Gilead the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasse, of the kinred of the children of Ioseph, came furth and spake before Moses, and the princes and auncient fathers of the children of Israel and said: *The lord commaūded my lord, to geue the land to inherite by lot to the children of Israell. And my Lorde commaūded in gods behalf, to geue the inheritaūce of * Zelaphead our brother, vnto his daughters. Whom if any of the sōnes of the other tribes of Israell take to wiues, thē shall their inheritaunce be taken from thei nheritaūce of our fathers, and shall be put vnto the enheritaunce of the B tribe which they are receiued into: & shall bee taken frō the lot of our enheritaunce. And when the yere of Iubely of the children of Israell commeth, then shall their enheritaunce be put vnto the enheritaūce of the tribe whereinto they are receiued: and so shall their inheritaunce be taken awaye from the enheritaunce of the tribe of our fathers. And Moses commaunded the children of Israell according to the worde of the Lorde saying: The children of the tribe of Ioseph haue said wel. This therefore doth the Lorde commaund the C daughters of Zelaphead, saying: *Let them be wyues to whom they themselfe thinke best, onely to the kinred and tribe of their father shal they mary: so shall not the enheritaunce of the children of Israel remoue from tribe to tribe, when the children of Israel abide euery man in the enheritaunce of the tribe of his fathers. Nu.xxvi.f. Nu.xxvii.a. Tob.i.b and.vii.c

And euery daughter that possesseth any enheritaunce in any tribe of the children of Israel, shal be wife vnto one whiche is of the kynred of ẏ tribe of her father: that the children of Israell maye enioye euery man the enheritaunce of his father. Neither ought the enheritaunce to go frō one tribe to another: but euery one of the tribes of the childre of Israel must abyde in his own enheritaunce. And as the Lorde D cōmaunded Moses, euē so did the daughters of Zelaphead. And Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha, & Noa, wer maried vnto their fathers brothers sonnes, which wer of the kinred of the childrẽ of Manasse, ẏ sonne of Joseph: and so their enheritaũce remained in the tribe of ẏ kinred of their father. These are the commaundementes and lawes, which the Lord commaunded by the hande of Moses, vnto the children of Israel in the fieldes of Moab, by Jordan, ouer against Jericho.

boke of Moses.

The fifth boke of Moses, called in Latin, Deuteronomium.

The first Chapter.

¶ A briefe rehearsall of thinges done before.

These bee ẏ wordes which A Moses spake vnto al Israell, on ẏ other side Jordane in the wildernesse: in ẏ plaine ouer againste the red sea, betwene Pha-ran and Tophel, Laban, Hazerot, and Disahab, eleuen daies iour-ney from Horeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the firste daye of the eleuenth moneth, in the fortieth yere, that Moses spake vnto ẏ children of Israel, according vnto al that the Nu.xxi.c Lord had geuen him in commaundement vnto thẽ, after that he had smitten * Se-hon the king of ẏ Amorites whiche dwelt in Hesbon, and Og king of Basan, which dwelt at Astaroth in Edrai. On the other side Jordan in the land of Moab began Moses to declare this lawe, saying: The Lorde oure god spake vnto vs in Horeb, saying: Ye haue dwelt lõg inough in this mount: departe therefore and take youre B iourney, and go vnto the hill of the Amorites, and vnto all places nye therunto, both vnto the plain and hilles and dales: to the south, to the seas syde, to the lande of Canaan, and vnto Libanon, euen vnto the greate riuer Euphrates. Beholde, I haue sette the lande before you: goe in Ge.xv.d. & xvii.b. and *possesse the land whiche the Lorde sware vnto your fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto them, and their seede after them.

And I spake vnto you the same season, saying: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde your God hath multiplied you: & behold you are this daye as the starres of heauen in numbre: (the Lord God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many moe as ye are, and blesse you as he hath promised you:) howe can* I my selfe alone beare ẏ cum- Ex.xviii.c braũce, charge, & strife that is amõg you.
Bring (frõ among you) men of wisedome, and of vnderstanding, & expert, according to your tribes, and I will make them rulers ouer you. And ye answered me & said ẏ which thou hast spoken, is good for vs to doe. And so out of your tribes I toke ẏ captaines, (men of wisedome, and ẏ were expert) & made them rulers ouer you, captaines ouer thousandes, & ouer hũdredes ouer fifty, & ouer ten, and officers among your tribes. And I charged your iudges that same time, saying: Heare the cause of C your brethrẽ, and *iudge righteously be- Joh.vii.d of no man: for the iudgement is goddes.

And the cause that is to * harde for you, Ex.xviii.d bring vnto me, and I wil heare it. And I commaunded you the same season, all the thinges which ye should do. And whẽ we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible wildernesse, as ye haue seẽ, along by the way of the hill of the Amorites, as the Lorde our god commaunded vs, and came to Cades Barne.

And I saide vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hill of the Amorites, which ẏ Lorde our God will geue vnto vs. Beholde, the lord thy God hath set the land before the: go vp and conquere it, as the Lorde God of thy fathers hath sayd vnto thee: *feare not, neither be discouraged. But ye came De.ix.a vnto me euery one, and sayde: * We will Nu.xiii.a sende men before vs, to search vs out the D lande, and to bring vs word again, what way we must go vp by, & vnto what cities we shall come. And the saying pleased me well: And I tooke twelue men of you, of euery tribe one. Whiche departed, & went vp into the hie countrey, and came vnto ẏ riuer Escol, and searched it out, and toke of the fruite of the lande (to declare the plen-teousnes therof) in their hands, and brought it vnto vs: and brought vs worde again, & said: It is a good land, which the Lorde our god doth geue vs. Notwithstanding, ye would not cõsent to go vp, but wer disobedient vnto the mouth of the lord your God.

God, and murmured in your tentes, and sayd: because the Lorde hateth vs, therefore hath he brought vs out of the land of Egipt, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroye vs. Howe shall we go vp? Our brethren haue discoraged our hertes, saying: * ye people is greater & taller then we, & haue cities great & walled, euen vp to heauen: and moreouer we haue seen ye sonnes of the Enakims there. And I said vnto you: drede not, nor be afraide of them. The lord your God which goeth before you, he shal fight for you, acordig to al that he did vnto you in Egipt before your eyes. In the wildernesse also thou hast seen how ye the lord thy god bare thee, euen as a man dothe beare his sone, in al the way which ye haue gone by, vntill ye came vnto this place. And yet in this thing ye did not beleue the lord your God. He went in the waye before you, to searche you out a place to pitche your tentes in, in * fire by night, that ye might see what way to goe, and in a cloud by daye. And the Lord heard ye voice of your wordes & was wroth, & sware, saying: * there shall not one of these men and of this frowarde generation, see that good lande which I sware to geue vnto your fathers saue Caleb the sone of Jephune, he shall see it: * & to him wil I geue the land that he hath troden vpon, & to his children, because he hath folowed the Lord: (woderful was that indignatio against the people, seing that) * the lord was angrye with me, likewyse for your sakes, saying: thou also shalt not go in thither. But Josua the sonne of Nun which standeth before thee, he shall go in thither. Bolden him therfore, for he shall cause Israell to inherite the lande. * Moreouer, your childre which ye sayde should be a praye, & your sonnes which in that day had no knowlege betwene good and euill, they shall go in thither, & vnto the will I geue it, and thei shall enioye it. But as for you, turne youre faces, & take your iourney into the wildernesse: eue by the way of the red sea. Then ye aunswered & saide vnto me: * We haue sinned against the lord, we will goe vp & fight, acordyng to al that the lord oure God commaunded vs. And when ye had gyrde on euery ma his weapons of warre: beholde, ye were ready to goe vp into the hill. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: saye vnto them that they goe not vp, and that they fighte not, for I am not among you: leste ye fall before youre enemies. I tolde you therefore, & ye woulde not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, and went presumpteously vp into the hil. And the Amorites which dwelt in that hil, came out against you, and chased you (as bees vse to doe) & smote you in Seir, eue vnto Horma. And ye came againe, and wept before the lord: but the lord would not heare your voice, nor geue you audience. * And so ye abode in Cades a long season, according vnto the tyme ye ye remained in other places.

The.ii.Chapter.

That whiche was done from the time they departed from Cades Barne, vnto the battell against the kinges, Sehon, and Og.

Then we * turned our face, and toke our iourney into ye wildernesse, eue by the waye of the red sea, as the Lorde spake vnto me. And we compassed mount Seir a long tyme. And the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: Ye haue compassed this mountayne long inoughe, turne you northwarde. And warne thou the people, saying: ye shal go thorow the cost of your brethren the childre of Esau, which dwell in Seir, and they shall be afraied of you: Take ye good hed vnto your selues, therfore. Ye shal not prouoke them, for I will not geue you of their land no not so much as a fote bredth, * because I haue geuen mount Seir vnto Esau to possesse: ye shal bye meate of them for money: to eate, and ye shal procure water of them for money, to drynke. For the Lorde thy God hath blessed thee in al the workes of thy hande. He knew thy entring into this great wildernesse this fortye yeres, and the lord thy god hath bene with thee, so that thou hast lacked nothing. And when we wer departed from our brethren, the childre of Esau which dwelt in Seir, the plaine waye fro Elath and from Ezion Gaber, we turned and went by the waye of the wildernesse of Moab. And ye lord said vnto me: * Thou shalt not fight against the Moabites, neither prouoke them to battaile, for I will not geue the of their lande to possesse: because I haue geuen Ar vnto the children of Loth to possesse. The terrible people ye * Emims dwelte therin in times paste, a people gret, many, & tal, as the Enakims which also wer taken for giauntes as the Enakims: who ye Moabites call Emims. The Horims dwelt in Seir before tyme, whose possession the children of Esau occupied, & destroied them before them, and dwelt in their stede: as Israell did vnto ye land of his possession, which the lord gaue them. Now rise vp (saide I) and geat you ouer the riuer Zared: & we went ouer the C riuer Zared. The space in which we came frō Cades barne, vntil we wer come ouer the riuer Zared, was .xxxviii. yeres, vntill al the generatiō of the men of warre wer wasted out frō amōg the host, as the lorde Nu.xiiii.c. sware vnto thē.* For in dede the hand of the lord was against thē, to destroy them &.xxvi.g. frō among the host til they wer cōsumed.

And so it came to passe, that al the men of warre wer consumed & dead frō amōg the people. And the lord spake vnto me saying: Thou shalte go through Ar, the coast of Moab this day: & whē thou cōmest nie vnto the childrē of Ammō, thou shalt not lay siege vnto thē, nor moue warre agaist thē. For I will not geue thee of the lande of the childrē of Ammon a possession: but D I haue geuen it vnto the childrē of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of giauntes, and giauntes dwelt therin, in olde time, whome the Ammonites call Nu.xxi.f Zanzumims: A people that was great, many & tal, as the Enakims. But the lord destroied thē before them, & they succeded them in the inheritaūce, & dwelte in their Ge.xxxvi.b. stede: as he did for the children of Esau which dwelt in Seir when he destroied ye Horims before them: they cōquered their possessiō, & dwelte in their stede vnto this day. And the Auims which dwelt in Hazarim euen vnto Aza: the Caphthorims whiche came oute of Caphthor destroied them, & dwelt in their stede. Rise vp ther-E fore, & take youre iourney ouer the riuer Nu.xxi.f g. Arnon. Behold, *I haue geuen into thy hand, Sehon the Amorite, king of Hesbō & his land. Goe to therfore & conquere, & prouoke him to battaile. This day will I begin to send the freare and dead of thee, vpon al natiōs that are vnder all the heauen: so that thei which heare speake of the shall tremble & quake before thee. And so I sent messengers out of the wildernesse Nu.xxi e of Kedemoth, vnto Sehō king of Hesbō, De.xx.e. with wordes of peace, saying: I will go F through thy land, I will go a long by the hy way: I wil neither turne vnto ye right hande nor to the lefte. Thou shalt sell me meate for money for to eate, and geue me water for money for to drynke: Onelye graunt me, that I may go through on my fote (as the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites whiche dwell in Ar, did vnto me) vntill I be come ouer Iordan, into the land which the Lord our God geueth vs. But Sehon the kyng of Hesbon would not let vs passe by him, for the Lord thy god hardened his spirit, and made his hert tough, because he woulde deliuer him into thy hand, as it is come to passe this day. And the lord said vnto me: behold, I haue begon to set Sehon & his land before thee: go to and conquere, and possesse his land. Then both Sehō and G al his people came out against vs to fight Nu.xxi. De.xxix. at Jaza. And the Lord set him before vs, b. and we smote him and his sonnes, and al his people. And we toke all his cities the same ceason, and slew the men, wemen, & children of all the cities & let nothing re-maine, saue the cattel only we caught vnto oure selues, and the spoile of the cities which we toke frō Aroer, which is by the brinke of the riuer of Arnon, and frō the citie that is in ye riuer, vnto Gilead: there was not one citie to strong for vs. The Lord our god delinered all vnto vs: onely vnto the lande of the children of Ammon thou camst not, nor vnto euerye place of the riuer Jabok, nor vnto the cities in the mountaines, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lorde our God forbad vs.

The.iii.Chapter.

liuer him, and al his people, and his lande into thy hand, and thou shalt do vnto him, as thou diddest vnto Sehon kyng of the Amorites, whiche dwelt at Hesbon. And so the Lorde our God deliuered into oure handes, Og also the king of Basan, & all his folke. And we smote him, vntill none was left him aliue. And we toke all his cities the same season (neither was there a citie whiche we toke not from them) euen threscore cities throughout all the region of Argob, the kingdome of Og in Basan.
All these cities also wer made strong with hye walles, gates and barres, beside vn-terly destroied them, as we did vnto Se- B all the cities, with men, women and chil-we toke the same season, out of the hande of two kinges of the Amorites, the land ye lord your God, which he made with you: that ye make you no grauen Image, or Heb.xii. g. any picture that the Lorde thy God hath forbidden thee. * For the lord thy God is a consumyng fire, and a gelouse God.

If thou doest beget childre, and childrens children, & when ye haue dwelt in ẏ land, ye do wickedlye, and make any maner of grauen* image, & worke euil in the sight of the lord thy god, to prouoke him to anger: I call heauen and earth to recorde against you this day, that ye shall shortely perish frõ of the land, whither ye go ouer Jordan to possesse it; ye shall not prolong your daies therin, but shall vtterly be destroied. And the lord shal scater you amõg the nations, and ye shalbe left few in nũ-bre among the people, whither the Lorde shal bring you: & there ye shal serue God-des which are the worke of mans hande, wood & stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor eate, nor smel. *And there thou shalt seke the lord thy god: & shalt finde him, yf thou seke him with al thine hert, & with al thy soule. When thou arte in tribulatiõ, & whẽ al these thinges (ẏ be here spoken of) are come vpon the, euen in ẏ latter daies, thou shalt returne again to the Lorde thy God & be obediẽt vnto his voice. For the lord thy god is a merciful God, he wil not forsake thee, nether destroy the, * nor forgeat the appointmente of thy fathers, which he sware vnto thẽ. For aske of the dayes that are past, whiche were before thee, since the daye that God created man vpon the earth, & (aske) from the on side of heauen vnto the other, if euer there came to passe such a great thĩg, or whether any such like thing hath been heard. Did euer a nation heare the voice of God speaking oute of the myddes of a fire, as thou hast heard, and yet liued? Either whether God assaied to goe and take him a people from among nations, throughe temptations, signes, wonders, warre, a mightie hand, a* stretched out arme, and through great sightes, according vnto all that the Lorde youre God dyd vnto you in Egipte before your eyes. Unto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest knowe, how that the Lord he is god, & that there is none other but he. * Out of heauẽ he made the heare his voice, that he mighte nourter thee, and vpon earth he shewed thee his great fire, & thou heardest his wordes oute of ẏ mid-des of the fire. And because he loued thy fathers, he chose their seede after them, & brought thee out in his syghte, and with his myghtye power oute of * Egipte: to thrust out nations great & mightier than thou, before thee, and to bring the in, and to geue the their land to enheritaunce, as it is come to passe this day. Understande therefore therefore this daye, and turne it to thine hert, that the Lord he is god in heauen aboue, & vpon the earth beneth: neither is there an other. Thou shalt kepe therfore his ordinaunces, & his commaūdemētes, whiche I commaunde thee this daye, ye it may go wel with thee, & with thy children after thee: & that thou mayst prolong thy G daies vpon the earth, which the Lord thy Nu.xxxv god geueth thee thy life long. * Thē Moses seuered three cities out the other syde De.xix.b Iordan toward the sunne rising, that he shoulde flee thither, whiche hadde kylled his neighboure vnwares, and hated hym not in time past, & therfore should flee vnto one of the same cities, and liue: Name-lye Bezer in the wildernesse, euen in the plain countrey of the tribe of Ruben: and Ramoth in Gilead, of the tribe of Gad: & Golā in Basan, of the tribe of Manasse.

And so this is the law whiche Moses set before the children of Israel. These are ye witnesses, statutes, & ordinaunces, which Moses tolde the children of Israell after they came out of Egipte, on the other side Iordā, in the valey ouer againste ye house of Peor, in the land of Sehon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Hesbon: whom Moses and the childrē of Israel * smote, Nu.xxi.f and.g. after thei wer come out of Egipt, and conquered his land, and the land of Og, king of Basan: two Kynges of the Amorites, whiche wer on the other side Iordan, to ward the sonne rising: from Aroer which is by the banke of the riuer Arnon, vnto mount Sion, whiche is Hermon, and all the plaine on the other side Iordan East-warde: euen vnto the sea, whiche is in the playn vnder the springes of the hill.

The. v. Chapter.

The ten commaundementes.

A AND Moses called al Israell, & sayde vnto thē. Heare O Israell, the ordinaunces & lawes which I speake in your eares this daye, that ye maye learne them, and fulfill them in dede. The Lord our God made an appointmente with vs in Horeb. The Lord made not this bonde with our fathers, but with vs: euen with vs, which are all here aliue this day. The Lorde talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the middes of the fire. And I stode betwene the lord & you ye same time, and shewed you the word of the lord. For ye wer afraide at the sight of the fyre, and Ex.xx.a. went not vp into ye mounte, & he said: * I am ye lord thy god, which brought the out of ye lād of Egipt: frō the house of bōdage.
Thou shalt haue none other Gods in my presence. * Thou shalt make thee no gra- Le.xxvi.a in heauen aboue, and that is in the earth beneath, and that is in the waters beneth the earth. Thou shalt neyther bowe thy selfe vnto them, nor serue them, for I the lord thy God, am a gelous God, visiting the wickednesse of the fathers vpon the children, euen in the third & fourth generation among them that hate me: & shewe mercy vpon thousandes among thē that loue me, and kepe my cōmaundementes. * Ex.xix.c.

Thou shalt not take the name of the lord B thy God in vayne: for the Lorde will not holde him gyltlesse, that taketh hys name in vayne. Kepe the Sabboth daye, that thou sanctifye it, as the Lorde thy God Le.xxiii.a hath cōmaunded thee. * Sixe dayes thou shalt labour, and doe all that thou hast to do, but the * seuenth day is the Sabboth Ex.xiii.b of the Lorde thy God: thou shalt not doe any worke, thou, & thy sonne, thy daughter, thy seruaunt, & thy mayde, thyne oxe, and thyne asse, and all thy cattell, and the straunger that is within thy gates, that thy seruaunte and thy mayde maye reste aswel as thou. Remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the land of Egipt, and how that the Lorde thy God brought thee out as the Lord thy God hath commaunded Mat.iv.a thee: that thy dayes maye be prolonged, & mar.vii.b that it may goe wel with thee in the land, Eph.vi.a which the lord thy god geueth thee.

his mayde, his oxe, his asse, or ought that thy neybour hath. These wordes the lorde spake vnto al your multitude in the mount C out of the myddes of the fire, cloude and darkenesse, with a great voice, and added no more thereto, and wrote them in two tables of stone, and deliuered them vnto me. And it fortuned, that when ye hearde the voyce out of the myddes of the darkenes, and saw that the hill did burne with fire, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your tribes and your elders, & ye sayd: beholde, the Lord our god hath shewed vs Ex.xix.d. his glory, and his greatnes, & *we haue heard his voyce out of the middes of the fire: we haue seen this day that God doth talke with a man, and he yet liueth. Now therfore, why should we dye, ỷ this great fire shoulde consume vs? yf we heare the voice of the Lord our God any more, we shal die. For what flesshe hath it bene, that euer hearde the voyce of the liuyng God speaking out of the middes of the fire (as we haue done) and yet did lyue? Go thou and heare al that the Lord our God saith, and tel thou vnto vs al that the Lord our of your wordes, when ye spake vnto me, and the Lord said vnto me: I haue heard the voyce of the woordes of this people, whiche they haue spoken vnto thee: they haue well said all that they haue spoken.

Get you into your tentes againe, but stãd thou here by me, and I will tel thee al the cõmaundementes, ordinaunces, & lawes, which thou shalte teache them, that they may do them in the lande whiche I geue them to possesse. Take hede therfore that ye do in dede as the Lord your God hath thou shalt saye vnto thy sonne: We were Pharaos bondmen in Egipt, and the lord brought vs out of Egipt with a mightye hand. And the Lorde shewed sygnes and woonders, great and euill vpon Egipt, vpon Pharao, and vpon all his housholde, before our eyes: but brought vs out from thence, to bring vs in, and to geue vs the land

lande whiche he sware vnto our fathers.
And ÿ lorde hath cōmaūded vs to doe all these ordinaūces & to feare ÿ lord our god, for our welth, all the dayes of our life, as it is come to passe this daye. Moreouer, this shalbe our righteousnesse before the lord our god, if we take hede and kepe all these commaūdementes as the hath cō-maunded vs.

The. ix. Chapter.

They are forbidden to trust in their owne strength.

A Heare O Israell: Thou passest ouer Jordan this day, to goe in, and conquer nations, greater and mightier than thy selfe: Cities greate, and walled vp to heauen, a * people great and tall, euen the children of the Enakims, which thou knowest of, and of whome thou hast heard say: who will stand before the children of Enack: Understand therfore this daye, that the Lorde thy God is euen he whiche goeth ouer before thee, as a (deuouring and a) consuming fire he shal destroye them, and he shall bring them downe before thy face. He shall cast them oute, and bring them to nought quickly, as the lord hath said vnto thee. Speake not thou in thine heart, after that the Lorde thy God hath cast them out before the, saying: For my righteousnesse the Lord hath brought me in, to possesse this lande.

Nay: but for the wickednesse of these nations, tions, the Lorde hath cast them out before thee. It is not for thy rightousnesse sake, or for thy right hearte, that thou goest to possesse their lande: *But for the wickednesse of these nations, the Lorde thy God doeth caste them out beefore thee, euen to performe the woorde whiche the Lorde thy God sware vnto thy fathers. Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob.

B Vnderstande therefore that it is not for thy righteousnes sake, that the Lorde thy God doth geue thee this good land to possesse it, seeyng thou arte a styffenecked people. Remembre and forgeat not, howe thou prouokedst the Lord thy God in the wildernes, since the day that thou diddest departe out of the lande of Egipte, vntill ye came vnto this place: ye haue rebelled againste the Lorde, *Also in Horeb ye angred the Lorde, so that the Lorde was wrothe with you, euen to haue destroyed you, when I was gone vp into the mou̅t,

They are tourned at once out of the waye whiche I commaunded them, and haue made them a molten image. Furthermore, the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: I haue seene this people, and beholde, it is a stiffenecked people: let me alone, that I may destroy them, and put out the name C of them from vnder heauen, and I will make of thee a myghtie nation, and greater than they bee. And I turned me, and came downe from the hill (euen from the hille that burnt with fire) and the two tables of ẏ appointment wer in my hãdes.

lay there: for the lord sayd, that he would destroy you. I made intercession therfore vnto the Lord, and sayd: *O Lord god, Exodus xxxiii.a. destroy not thy people and thine enheritaunce, whiche thou haste deliuered tho-row thy greatnesse, and whiche thou hast brought out of Egipt thorow a mightye hande. Remember thy seruauntes, Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, and loke not vnto the stubbornesse of this people, nor to their wickednes and sinne: lest the lande whence thou broughtest them, saye: The Lord is not hable to bryng them into the lande whiche he promised them: and bi-cause he hated them, therefore hath he caried them out, to slay them in the wildernesse. Beholde, they are thy people, and thine enheritance, which thou broughtest out in thi mighty power, and in thy stretched out arme.

¶The.x.Chapter.

The renewing of the Tables. An exhortation to geue heede to the lawe.

In

A Exodus xxxiiii. a.

In the same season, the Lorde sayde vnto me: *hewe the two Tables of stone like vnto the first, and come vp vnto me into the mount, and make the an arke of wood: and I wil write in the Tables, the wordes that wer in the firste tables whiche thou brakest, and thou shalt put thē in the arke. And I made an arke of Sethim wood, and hewed two tables of stone *like vnto the first, and went vp into the mountaine, hauyng the two tables in mine hande.

Ex. xxxii. c.

Ex. xxxiiii. d.

And he wrote in the Tables *according to the first writing (the tenne verses whiche the Lorde spake vnto you in the mounte, out of the myddes of the fire, in the daye of the gathering together) and the Lorde gaue them vnto me. And I departed, and came downe from the hille, and put *the tables in the arke whiche I had made: and there they be, as the Lorde commaunded me.

De. xxxi. f.

Nu. xxxiii. d.

*And the children of Israell tooke their iourney from Beroth of the childrē of Jakan, to Mosera, where *Aaron dyed, and was buried, and Eleazar his sonne became priest in his steade.

B Nu. xx. d.

From thence they departed vnto Gadgad: and from Gadgad to Jathbath, a land which hath riuers of water. *The same season, the Lord seperated the tribe of Leui to beare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord, and to stand before the Lorde, and to ministre vnto him, and to blesse in his name vnto this daye.

Numeri iii. iiii. and. xviii.

De. xviii. a.

*Wherefore the Leuites haue no part nor enheritaunce with their brethren. But the Lorde is their inheritaunce, as the Lorde thy god hath promised them.

C Deu. ix. d.

*And I taried in the mounte, euen as at the first time, fourty daies and fourty nightes: and the Lorde hearkened vnto me at that time also, and the Lorde woulde not destroye thee. And the Lorde said vnto me: Up, and goe furth in ẏ iourneyes before the people, that they maye goe in and conquere the lande whiche I sware vnto their fathers, to geue vnto them. And nowe Israel, what doeth the Lorde thy God require of thee *but to feare the Lorde thy God, and to walke in all his wayes: to *loue him, and to serue the Lorde thy God with all thine herte, and with all thy soule. Namely, that thou kepe the commaundementes of the Lord and his ordinaunces which I commaund thee this daye, for thy wealthe. Beholde, heauen, and the heauen of heauens, is the lordes thy god, and the earth with all that therin is: Notwithstanding, the lord had a lust vnto thy fathers to loue them, and chose their sede after them, euē you, aboue all nations, as thou seest this day.

De. vi. a.

De. vi. b. Mat. xxii. d. Josu. xxii. a.

*Circumcise therfore ẏ foreskyn of your herte, and be no more stifnecked: For the lord your God, is god of goddes, and lord of lordes, a great god, a mightie, & a terrible *whiche regardeth no mans persone nor taketh gift. He doth right vnto the fatherlesse and widdow, & loueth the straunger, to geue him fode and raymēt. *Loue ye therfore the straunger also: for ye were straungers your selues in the land of Egipt. *Thou shalt feare ẏ lorde thy God, and him (onelye) shalte thou serue: to him shalte thou cleaue, and sweare by his name: he is thy prayse & thy God, that hath done for thee these greate & terrible thinges, whiche thine eyes haue sene. Thy fathers went downe into Egipt *with. lxx. soules, and nowe the lorde thy God hath made the & multiplied thee, as the *starres of Heauen.

The. xi. Chapter.

Therefore thou shalt loue the lord thi God, and kepe hys obseruaunces, his ordinaunces, his lawes, and his commaundementes alwaye. Cal to your mynd this day, that whiche your children haue neyther knowen nor sene: euen the nurtour of the lorde your God, his greatnesse, his mighty hand, and his stretched oute arme, hys miracles, and hys actes whiche he did in the myddes of Egipte, euen vnto Pharao the kyng of Egipte, & vnto all hys lande: and what he did vnto the hoste of Egipte, vnto their horses and charettes: *howe he broughte the water of the red sea vpon them, as they chased you behynde: and howe the Lorde hathe broughte them to naught vnto this day, and what he dyd vnto you in the wildernes, vntill ye came vnto this place: and what he did vnto *Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab the sonne of Ruben, how the yearth opened her mouth, & swalowed them with their housholdes and their tentes, and all their substaunce that was in their possession, in the middes of Israell.

Doubtlesse, your eyes haue seene all the greate actes of the Lorde whiche he dyd. Therfore shall ye keepe all the commaundemētes, which I commaund you this daye, that ye maye bee strong: and goe in and conquer the lande whither ye goe goe to possesse it: and that ye maye prolong youre dayes in the lande whiche the Lorde sware vnto your fathers, to geue vnto them and to their sede, a lande that e.viii. floweth with milke and honey. For *the lande whither thou goest to possesse it, is not as the lande of Egipte that ye came out of, where thou sowedst thy seede, and wateredst it with thy fete as a garden of hearbes: but the lande whither ye goe ouer to possesse it, is a lande that hath hil-les and valleyes, and drynketh water of the rayne of heauen. This land doeth the Lord thi God care for, and the eyes of the Lorde thy God are alwayes vpon it, frō the beginnyng of the yere, vnto the ende of the yere.

If you shall hearken therfore vnto my commaundementes, whiche I commaūd you this daye, that you loue the Lorde youre God, and serue him with all youre Deute. hearte, and with all youre soule, * I also viii. a. wil geue rayne vnto your land in due sea-Ioel. ii. f. son: the first rayn and the latter, that thou mo. iiii. maist gather in thy corne, thy wine, and thine oile. And I will sende grasse in thy fieldes for thy cattell: ẏ thou maiest eate, & fil thy self. But beware that your hearte deceiue you not: and ye turne asyde, and serue strang goddes, and worshipp them, Deute and then the Lorde being wroth agaynst xviii. a. you, * shut vp the heauen, that there bee Re. xvii no rayne, and that your land yeld not her fruite, and lest ye perishe quickely from of xviii. a the good land, which the lord geueth you.
mo. iiii. Therfore shal ye put vp these my wordes De. vi. b. in * your hearte, and in youre soule, and Pro. iii. a binde them for a signe vpon your hande, ¶ that they may be as a warnyng betwene De. vi. b. your eyes, and ye shal *teache them your Pro. iii. a children that they may talke of thē, when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way: when thou liest down & when thou risest vp: yea, and thou shalt write them vpon the dore postes of thyne house, & vpon thy gates, that your dayes may be multiplied, and the dayes of your children, in the land which the lord sware vnto your fathers to geue them, as long as the daies of heauē last vpon the earth.
For if ye kepe all these cōmaundementes, which I commaund you, so ẏ ye doe thē: Namely, that ye loue the lord your God, and walke in al his waies, and cleaue vnto him: Then wil the lord cast out al these nations beefore you, and ye shall bee the heires of great nations, and of them that Iosu. i. a. are mightier then youre selues. * All the places whereon the soles of your fete shal treade, shalbe youres, euen from the wildernes, and from Libanon, and from the riuer Euphrates, euē vnto the vttermost sea, shal your coast be. There shal no man be hable to stande before you: for the lord your God shal cast the feare & dreade of you vpon al the land that ye shal treade vpon, as he hath said vnto you. * Behold, D I set before you this day a blessing and a Deu xxx curse: * A blessing if ye obey the commaū- c. dementes of the lord your God whiche I commaund you this dai. And a curse: if ye De. xxviii a. will not obeye the commaundementes of the Lorde your God, but turne out of the way, which I commaunde you this daye, to goe after straunge Goddes, whiche ye haue not knowen. When the lord thy god therfore hath brought thee into the land, whither thou goest to possesse it thou shalt put the * blessing vpon mount Garizim, & De. xxvii ẏ curse vpon mount Ebal, whiche (moun- b. taynes) are on the other syde Iordan one the backeside of the waye towarde the going downe of the sunne, in the lande of the Cananites which dwell in the plaine ouer against Gilgall, beside the groue of Moreh. For ye shal passe ouer Iordan, to go in, and possesse the land, which the lord youre God geueth you, and ye shall conquer it, and dwell therin. Take hede therfore that ye doe all the commaundemen-tes and lawes, whiche I set before you this day.

¶ The.xii. Chapter.

Idolatry must the Israelites destroye and flee frō. They must onely doe that thing which God commaundeth.

These are the ordinaunces & lawes, A which ye shall obserue and do in the land which the Lord God of thy fathers geueth thee to possesse it as long as ye liue vpon the earth. * Ye shall destroye De. vii. a all places, wherin the nations whiche ye shal conquer serued their Goddes, vpon hye mountaines, on hilles, and vnder e-uery thicke tree. Ouerthrowe their aultars, and breake their pillers, and burne their groues with fire; and hewe downe the grauen ymages of the Goddes that they haue, and bring the names of them to naught out of ẏ place. Ye shall not so do vnto the lord your God, but ye shall seeke the place which the Lorde your God shall haue chosen out of all your tribes, to put hys name there, and there to dwell. And thither * thou shalte come, and thither ye Ex. xiiii b and xvi. b shall bring your burnt sacrifices, your offeringes, your tithes, and heueofferinges of your

of your hande, your vowes, your freewil-offeringes, and the first gendred of youre oxen and of your shepe. And there ye shall eate before the lord your God, and ye shal reioyce in al that ye put your hand vnto, both ye and your housholdes, wherein ẏ Lord thy god hath blessed thee.

B Ye shal not doe after al the thinges that we doe here this day, euery man what semeth him good in his owne eyes. For ye are not yet come to rest, and to the enheritaunce which the lord your God geueth you. But when ye goe ouer Iordan, and dwell in the land which the Lorde youre god hath geuen you to enherit, and when he hath geuen you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwel in safetie: then vnto the place whiche the Lorde your God hath chosen, to putte his name there, ye shal bring al that I commaunde you: Namely, your burntsacrifices, your offringes, your tithes, the heueoffring of your hande, and all your speciall vowes whiche ye vowe vnto the Lorde. And ye shal reioyce before the Lorde your God, ye, and your sonnes, and your daughters, your seruauntes, and your maydens, and the Leuite that is within your gates, * forasmuch as he hath no part nor enheritaunce with you. (Deu .x.b and .xviii a.) Take hede that thou offer not thy burntoffringes in euery place that thou seest: but in the place which the lord shal haue chosen in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burntoffringes, and there thou shalt dooe all that I commaund the. Notwithstanding thou maist kill and eate flesh in al thy cities, whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth after, according to the blessing of the lorde thy God, whiche he hath geuē the. * Both the vnclene and (De .xv .d.) the cleane maye eate thereof, euen as the roe, or the harte: onely ye shall not eat the bloude, but powre it vpon the yearthe as water.

C Thou maiest not eate within thy gates the tithe of thy corne, of thy wyne, and of thy oile, & the first gēdred of thyne oxen, and of thy shepe, neither any of thy vowes which thou vowest, nor thy freewilofferinges, or heueofferinges of thyne hand: but thou must eate them before the Lorde thy God, in the place whiche the Lorde thy God hathe chosen, thou and thy sonne, and thy daughter, thy seruāūt, and thy mayde, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, and thou shalte reioyce (and be refreshed) before the Lorde thy god, in all that thou puttest thine hande to. * (Eccl .vii. b.) Beware, ẏ thou forsake not the Leuite, as long as thou liuest vpon the yearthe.

If (when the lord thy God hath enlarged thy border * as he hath promised the) then (Gen. c. Deu. c.) say, I wil eate flesh, because thy soule longeth to eate fleshe: thou mayest eate fleshe whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. If the place which the lord thy god hath chosen to put his name there, be to farre from thee, then thou shalt kil of thy oxen, and of thy shepe which the lord hath geuen the, as I haue commaunded thee, and thou shalt eate in thine own citie, whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. * And as the roe & the hart is eatē, (Deu. a.) euen so shalte thou eate them: bothe the cleane & the vncleane shal eat of thē. But be strong * that thou eate not the bloud. (Le. a.) For the blud, that is the life: & thou maist not eate the life with the flesh: thou shalt not eate it, but powre it vpō the earth as water. See thou eate it not, that it maye goe well with thee, and with thy children after thee: But thou shalt doe that whiche is right in the syght of the lorde.

D But thy holye thynges whiche thou haste, and thy vowes * thou shalt take, & come vnto the (Deu. ...) place which the lorde hath chosen, & thou shalt offer thy burntoffringes, both fleshe and bloud vpon the aulter of the lord thy god, & the bloud of thine offringes shalbe poured out vpon the aultare of the Lorde thy God, and thou shalt eat ẏ flesh. Take hede, and heare al these wordes which I commaund the, that it may goe well with thee, and with thy children after thee for euer, if thou doest that which is good and right in the sight of the lorde thy God.

When the lord thy God hath destroyed the nations before thee, whither thou goest to conquere them, and thou succedest in their inheritaūce and dwellest in their land: Beware, that thou be not taken in a snare after them, after that they bee destroied before the, & that thou aske not after theyr Gods, saying: how did these nations serue theyr Gods? I will doe so likewise. Nay * thou shalt not so doe vnto the (De .xvi a.) lorde thy God: for all abhominations, and that which the lord hateth, thesame haue they done vnto their Goddes. * For they burne both their sonnes and their daughters with fyre, before theyr Gods. Therfore whatsoeuer I commaunde you, that take hede ye doe (onely vnto the Lord:) and (Iosu .i. b. De .iiii. Io .xxii. Pro .xxx.) put * thou nought therto, nor take ought therefrom.

The .xiii. Chapter.

¶ The false prophet must be put to death. God proueth our faith by false miracles.

If

A If there arise among you a *Prophet, or a dreamer of dreames, and geue thee a signe or a wonder, & that signe or wonder which he hath said come to passe, & then say: let vs goe after strāge Gods, which thou hast not knowen, & let vs serue them: hearkē not thou vnto the wordes of that Prophete, or dreamer of dreames. *For the lord thy God proueth you, to wit whether ye loue ÿ Lord your God with al your heart, & with all your soule. Ye shal walke after the Lord your God, & feare him, kepe his commaundementes, & hearken vnto his voice, serue him, & cleaue vnto him. *And that Prophet or dreamer of dreames shall dye, bicause he hath spoken to turne you away from the Lord your God (which brought you out of the land of Egipt, and deliuered you out of the house of bondage) to thrust thee out of the way, which the lord

B thy God commaunded thee to walke in: & therfore thou shalt put the euell away frō thee. If thy brother, the sonne of thy mother, or thine own sonne, or thy daughter or the wife ÿ lieth in thy bosome, or thy frend which is as thine own soule vnto thee, entice thee secretly, saying: let vs go and serue strāge Gods, which thou hast not knowē, nor yet thy fathers: And they be of the Gods of the people which are roūd about you, whether they be nie vnto thee or farre of from thee, from the one ende of the earth vnto the other: Thou shalt not consent vnto him, nor hearken vnto him: thine eye shal not pitie hym, neither shalt thou haue cōpassiō on him, nor kepe him secret, *but cause him to be slaine. Thine hand shalbe first vpon him to kil him, and then the handes of all the people. And thou shalt stone hym with stones that he die, bicause he hath gone about to thrust thee away from the lorde thy God, which brought thee out of the lād of Egipt, and from the house of bondage. And all Israell shall heare & feare,

C and shall doe no more any suche wickednesse as this is among you.

If thou shalt heare say in one of thy cities which the Lord thy God hath geuen thee to dwell in, that certaine men being the children of Belial are gone out from among you, and haue moued the inhabitors of their citie, saying: Let vs goe and serue strange Gods, which ye haue not knowen: Then thou must seke, and make searche, and enquire diligently. And beholde, if it be true, and the thing of a sure tie, that such abhomination is wrought among you; then thou shalt smite the dwellers of that citie in the edge of the D swearde, and destroy it vtterly, and al ÿ is therin, and euen the very catell therof with the edge of the swearde. And gather al the spoile of it into the middes of the strete therof, and burne wyth fier both the citie, and all the spoile thereof euery whit, for the Lord thy God. And it shal be an heape for euer, and shall not bee built againe. *And there shall cleaue nought of the damned thing in thine hād that the Lord may turne from the fiercenesse of his wrath, and shew thee mercy, and haue compassion on thee, and multiply thee, as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers. *Therfore shalt thou herken vnto the voice of the Lord thy God, to kepe al his commaundementes which I cōmaūd thee this day, that thou doe it, which is right in the eyes of the Lord thy God.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

The maners of the Gentiles maye not be followed, what beastes are cleane to be eaten, and what not.

A Ye are the children of the Lorde your god. *Ye shal not cut your selues, nor make you any baldnesse betwene your eyes for any dead man. *For thou art an holy people vnto the Lord thy God, and the Lorde hath chosen thee to be a seuerall people vnto himself, aboue al the nations that are vpon the earth.

Thou shalt *eate no maner of abhomination. These are the beastes whiche ye shal eate of, oxen, shepe, and goates, hart, roe, and bugle, wilde goate, vnicorne, wilde oxe, and Camelion. Neuerthelesse, these ye shal not eate of them that chewe the cud, and of them that deuide and cleaue the hoofe: the Camell, the hare, and the cony, which chew the cud, but deuide not the hoofe: therfore are they vncleane vnto you. And also the swine, though he deuide the hoofe, yet he cheweth not the cud, therefore is he vncleane vnto you: ye shal not eate of the flesh of such, nor touche the dead carkasse of them. *These ye shall eate, of all that are in the waters: All that haue finnes & B scales, shal ye eate. And whatsoeuer hath not finnes and scales, of that ye may not eate, but it is vncleane vnto you. Of all cleane birdes ye shal eate, but these are they of which ye shal not eate: The Egle,

The.xv.Chapter.

A ¶ The forgeuenesse of dettes in the seuenth yere.

Leu.xxv. a. IN the seuenth yere thou shalt make a fredome. * And this is the maner of the fredome: * Whosoeuer lendeth ought with his hande vnto his neighbor may not aske again (ẏ which he hath lent) of his neighbor or of his brother, bicause it is called the Lordes free yere: yet of a straunger (and of an aleaunt) thou mayst cal it home againe. But * he that is thy brother, him shal thy hand remit. Neuerthelesse, there shalbe no begger among you. For the Lord shal blesse thee in the lande which the Lord thy God geueth thee, an inheritaũce to possesse it: so that thou herken vnto the voice of the Lord thy God, to obserue and do all these commaundementes, which I commaunde thee thys day. For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee as he hath promised thee, and * thou shalt lende vnto many nations, but thou thy self shalt not borow. And thou shalte raigne ouer many nations, and they shal not raigne ouer thee. If one of thy * brethren among you be poore within any of thy gates in thy lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth thee, thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut to thine hand from thy poore brother: * But open thine hand vnto him, and lende him sufficient for his nede, which he hath. Beware that there be not a wicked point in thine heart, that thou wouldest say. The seuenth yere, the yere of fredome, is at hande, and therfore it greueth thee to loke on thy poore brother, and geuest him nought, and he then cry vnto the Lord against thee, and it be sin vnto the: But geue him, and let it not greue thine heart to geue vnto him. Bicause that for this thing, the Lorde thy God shal blesse thee in al thy workes, and in al that thou puttest thine hande to. * The lande shal neuer be without poore: And therfore I commaunde thee, saying: Thou shalte open thine hande vnto thy brother, that is nedy and poore in thy lande.

* If thy brother an Hebrue sell himself to thee, or an Hebruesse, and serue thee six yere, in ẏ seuenth yere thou shalte let him go free from thee. And whē thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go awai empti, but shalt geue him of thy shepe, of thy corne, & of thy wine, & geue him of ẏ, wherwith ẏ Lord thy god hath blessed thee. And remember ẏ thou wast a seruaũt in ẏ land of Egipt, and the lord thy god deliuered thee thēce: & therfore I cõmaũde thee this thing to day. * And if he say vnto the: I wil not go away frõ thee, bicause he loueth the & thi house, and is wel at ease wt thee: Thē shalt thou take blesse thee in all that thou doest. *Al the thy shepe, that are males, thou shalt ha-low vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt do no worke with the first gendred of thine oxen, nor sheare the first gendred of thy shepe. * Thou shalt eate it before the Lord thy God, yere by yere, in the place which the Lord hath chosen, both thou & thine household. *If there be any deformitie therin, as if it be lame or blinde, or haue any other euilfauouerdnesse, thou shalt not offer it vnto the Lord thy God.

But shalt eate it within thine own * gates, the vncleane and the cleane indifferently, as the roe and the hart. Only eate not the bloud thereof, but poure it vpon the ground as water.

¶ The punishment for Idolatry. The punishment of a rebell. The institution of a king.

A Thou shalt offer vnto ỹ lord thy god no oxe nor shepe *wherin is blemish or any deformitie, for ỹ is an abhomination vnto the Lord thy God. *If there be found among you within any of thy gates, which ỹ Lord thy god geueth thee, mã or womã ỹ hath wrought wickednesse in ỹ sight of ỹ lord thy God, so ỹ they haue gone beyond his appointment and gone & serued strãuge gods, & worshipped them, *ỹ sũne or moone, or any of ỹ host of heauen, which I haue not cõmaũded, & it is told the, & thou hast heard of it: *then shalt ỹ enquire it diligentlye. And if it be true, & the thing of a suretye, that such abhominatiõ is wrought in Israel, then shalt ỹ bring forth ỹ mã or that woman (whiche haue committed ỹ wycked thing) vnto ỹ gates, and shalt stone them with stones, till they dye. *At the mouth of two or three witnesses shal he ỹ is worthy of death, dye: and at ỹ mouthe of one witnesse, let no man dye. The handes of the witnesses shalbe first vpõ him, to kil him, & afterward ỹ hãdes of all the people: & ỹ shalt put the wicked away frõ thee. If there rise a matter to harde for thee in iudgemẽt betwene bloud & bloud, betwene plee and plee, betwene plage & plage, and the matters come to strif with

B in thy gates. Then shalt thou aryse, and get thee vp vnto the place which the lord thy God hath chosen, and come vnto the Priestes the Leuites, and vnto the iudge that shalbe in those dayes, and aske: *& they shall shew thee the sentence of iudgment, and thou must do according to that which they of that place (whiche the lord hath chosen) shew thee, and thou shalt obserue to do, according to all that they enfourme thee. According to the sentence of the lawes which they teach thee, & according to the iudgment which they tel thee shalt ỹ do: *and bowe not from ỹ whiche they shew thee, neither to the ryght hand

C nor to the left. And ỹ man ỹ will doe presumpteously, and wil not herken vnto ỹ Priest (that standeth there before the lord thy god to minister) or vnto the iudge, ỹ man shall dye, and thou shalt put away euel from Israell. And al the people shall heare, and feare, and shall do no more presumpteously. When ỹ art come vnto the lãd which ỹ lord thy god geueth thee, and enioyest it, and dwellest therin, & if thou shalt say: *I wil set a king ouer me like as al the nations that are about me, then thou shalt make him king ouer thee whom the Lord thy God shal chose: euen one from among thy brethren shalt thou make king ouer thee, and thou mayst not set a straunger ouer thee, which is not of thy brethren. *But he shal not multiplie horses to himself, nor bring the people again to Egipt, through the multitude of

Also he oughte not to multiplie wiues to himself, lest his heart turne away, neither shall he gather him siluer and golde to much. And when he is set vpon the seate of his kingdom, he shal write him out a copy of this law in a boke before the Priestes the Leuites. And it shalbe with him, & he ought to read therin *al dayes of his life, ỹ he may learne to feare the lord his god, & to kepe all the wordes of this law, & these ordinaunces, for to do them: & that his heart aryse not aboue his brethrẽ, & that he turne not frõ the cõmaũdemẽt, to the right hand or to the left, but ỹ he may prolõg his dayes in his kingdom: he & his children in Israel.

¶ The Leuites had no possessions. Idolatrie must be fled. The Prophete Christ is promised. The false prophete must be slaine, and how he may be knowen.

A The Priestes, the Leuits, and al the tribe of Leui *must haue no part nor inheritaunce with Israell: but shal eate the offringes of the Lord, and his inheritaũce, Therfore shal they haue no inheritaunce among their brethrẽ: but the Lord, he is their inheritaunce, as he hath sayd vnto thẽ: And this is ỹ priestes duetie of ỹ people, and of them that offer sacrifice, whether it be oxe or shepe. They must geue vnto the priest, the shoulder, & the two chekes, and the mawe, the firste fruites also of thy corne, wine, & oyle, and the first of the woll of thy shepe shalt thou geue hym: *For the Lord thy God hath chosen him out of all thy tribes, to stande and to minister in the name of the Lord: he & his sõnes for euer. If a Leuite come out of any of the cities of al Israel, where he is a soiourner, & come with all the lust of his heart vnto the place which the lord lend thee, and thou shalt not lend him: he E shalbe before, & thou behind. Moreouer al these curses shal come vpon thee, & shal folow thee, and ouertake thee, til thou be destroied, because thou herknedst not vnto the voice of the Lord thy God, to kepe his commaundements, and his ordinances, which he commaunded thee, and thei shall be vpon thee as miracles and wonders, and vpon thy sede for euer: beecause thou seruedst not the Lord thy God with ioyfulnesse, and with a good heart, when thou hadst abundaũce of all thinges: therfore thou shalt serue thine enemy whiche the Lord shall send vpon thee, in hunger and thurst, in nakednes, and in nede of al thyng: and he shal put a yoke of yron vpõ thy necke, vntyll he haue brought thee to naught. And the Lorde shall bryng a natiõ vpon thee from a farre, & from ẏ ende of the world, as swift as an Egle flyeth: a nation whose tong thou shalt not vnderstande: a harde fauoured nation, whiche shal not regard the person of the olde, nor haue compassion on the yong. The same shall eate the fruite of thy cattell, and the fruit of thy lande, vntil he haue destroied thee: and shall leaue thee neyther corne, wyne, nor oyle, neyther the encrease of thyne oxen, nor the flockes of thy sheepe: vntyll he haue brought thee to naughte.

And he shall kepe thee in, in all thy cities, F vntil he haue cast down thy hye walles, & strong holdes, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all the lande. And he shall besiege thee in all thy cities throughoute all thy lande, whiche the Lorde thy god hath geuen the. *And thou shalt eate the 4. Ki. vi. fruit of thy owne bodye: the fleshe of thy f. sonnes and of thy daughters, whiche the Lame. iiii Lorde thy God hathe geuen thee, in that b. straytenes and siege wherewith thine e- Baruc. nemy shall besiege thee: So that it shall a. grieue ẏ manne (that is tender and excea- Le. xxvi. d brother, and vpon his wyfe that lyeth in his bosome, and on the remenaunte of his chyldren whiche he hath yet lefte, for feare of geuing (vnto any of them) of the fleshe of his chyldrẽ, whom he shall eate, because he hath nothyng left hym in that straitnesse and siege, wherwith thine enemy shal besiege thee in all thy cities. Yea, and ẏ woman that is so tender and delicate, that she dare not auenture to set ẏ sole of her foote vpon ẏ ground, (for soft-nes and tendernes) shall bee grieued to loke on her husband ẏ lieth in her bosom, and on her sonne, and on her daughter: and on her after byrthe (that is come oute from betwene her legges,) and her children which she shall beare. For when all thynges lacke, she shall eate them secretly in the siege and straytnesse, wherewith thine enemie shal besiege thee in thy cities. *Yf thou wilt not kepe and doe all Ex. xv. a. the wordes of this lawe (that are wrytten in this booke) and feare this glorious and fearefull name of ẏ Lorde thy God, the Lord wil send vnto thee, and thy sede, greate plages, and of long continuaunce, euel sicknesses, and of long duraunce.

Moreouer he wyll bryng vpon thee all G the diseases of Egipte, and those whiche thou wast afraid of, shal cleaue vnto thee.
And all maner sickenesses, and all maner plages whiche are not written in ẏ booke of this lawe, wyll the Lorde bryng vpon thee, vntyll he bring thee to naught. And ye shalbe left fewe in number, where before ye were as the *starres of heauen in Deu. x. d. multitude: because thou wouldst not her-ken vnto the voyce of the lorde thy God.
*And it shall come to passe, that as the Je. xxxi. c ioyce ouer you to destroye you, and bring you to naught. And ye shalbe wasted frõ of the lande, whyther thou goest to enioye it. And the Lorde shall scatter thee among all nations, from the one ende of the world vnto the other: and there thou shalte serue straunge Goddes, which neither thou nor thy fathers haue knowen: euen wood and stone. And among these nations thou shalt fynde no ease, neyther shall the sole of thy foote haue rest. But the Lorde shall geue thee there an vnquiete hearte, and dasyng eyes, and so-rowe of mynde. And thy lyfe shall hang before thee, and thou shalte feare bothe daye and nyghte, and thou shalt haue no truste in thy lyfe. In the mornyng thou shalte saye: woulde God it were nyghte.

And at nyghte thou shalte saye: woulde God it were mornyng: for feare of thine hearte, whiche thou shalte feare, and for the syght of thyne eyes, which thou shalt see. And the Lord shal bryng thee into Egipt again with shippes, by the way which enemies, for bondmen and bondwomen:

and no man shall bye you.

The.xxix.Chapter

¶ The people are exhorted to obserue the commaunde-mentes, whiche if they breake they are threatned to bee plaged.

A These are the woordes of the * ap-Ex.xix.a poyntmente whyche the LORD commaunded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besyde the appointmẽt which he made with them in Horeb: and Moses called al Israel, and sayde vnto them: Ye haue seene all that the Lorde dyd before youre eyes in the lande of Egipt: vnto Pharao, and vnto all his seruantes, and vnto al hys lande, the great temptations whiche thine eyes haue seene, those greate miracles and wonders: and yet the lorde hath not geuen you an hearte to perceiue, and eyes to see, and eares to heare, vnto thys daye. And I haue led you fortye yere in the wildernes, and your * clothes are not De.viii.a wared olde vpon you, and thy shoe is not wared olde vpon thy fote. Ye haue eaten no bread, nor dronke wyne, or strong drynke, that ye might knowe, how that I am the Lord your God.

* And ye came vnto thys place, and Nu.xxi.a Sehon the kyng of Hesbon, and Og De.iii.a. kyng of Basan, came oute agaynste vs B vnto battayle, and we smote them: and toke their lande, and gaue it for an inheritaunce vnto the Rubenites, & Gadites, and to the halfe tribe of Manasse. * Kepe therfore the wordes of this appointment and doe them, that ye may vnderstand al that ye ought to doe. Ye stand this daie e-uery one of you before the lord your god: your captains, your tribes, youre elders, your officers, and all the men of Israell: your children also, your wyues, and the straunger that is in thine host * from the hewer of thy wood, vnto the drawer of thy water: that thou shouldest goe into ye appoyntment of the lord thy God, and into his othe * which the lorde thy god ma-keth with thee this day. For to make thee a people vnto himself, and that he may be C vnto thee a god, as he hath said vnto thee and as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob. I make not this bond & this othe with you onely: but both with him that standeth here with vs this daye before ye lord our god, & also wt him yt is not here with vs this daye. For ye know, how we haue dwelt in ye land of Egipt, & how we came through the myd-des of the natiõs which ye passed by. And ye haue seene theyr abhominations and theyr ydols (wood & stone, siluer & golde) which were among them. Lest there be among you, mã or woman, kinred or tribe whose heart turneth away this day from the Lorde our God, to goe and serue the goddes of these nations. and lest there be among you some roote that beareth gall and wormwood, so that when he heareth the wordes of this othe, he blesse himself in his heart, saying: * I shall haue peace I wil walke in the meaning of mine own hert, (to put the dronken to the thyrsty.) And so the lord wil not consent to be mercifull vnto him, but then the wrath of the Lord and his gelousy shall smoke against that man, and al the curses that are written in this boke, shall light vpon him: and the lord shal do out his name from vnder heauẽ, and the lord shal seperate him vnto euel, out of all the trybes of Israel: according vnto all the curses of the appoinment, that are written in the boke of this law. So yt the generatiõ to come of your children, that shall ryse vp after you, and D the straunger that shal come from a farre land, shal say when they see the plages of that land, and the diseases wherwith the Lorde hath smitten it, how al the land is burnt vp with brimstone and salte, and that it is neyther sowen, nor beareth, nor any any grasse groweth therin, lyke as in the place of the ouerthrowyng of *Sodome, Gomor, Adama, and Zeboim: which the Lorde ouerthrewe in his wrathe and anger: Euen then shall all nations saye: * wherfore hath the Lorde done of this fashion vnto this lande? O howe fearce is this greate wrathe? And menne shal saye because they lefte the Testamente of the Lorde GOD of their fathers, which he made with them, when he broughte them out of the land of Egipt. For they wente and serued straunge Goddes, and worshypped them: Goddes whiche they knew not, and whiche had geuen them nought.

And the wrath of the lord waxed hote against this lande, to bryng vpon it all the curses that are wrytten in thys Booke.
And the Lord cast them out of their land in anger, wrath, and great indignation, and caste them into a straunge lande, as this daye beareth witnesse. The secretes of the Lorde our God, *are opened vnto vs, and to our children for euer, that we may do all the wordes of this lawe.

The.xxx, Chapiter.

¶ The worde of god is at hande.

When all these wordes are come v-A pon thee, *the blessing & the curse which I haue set before thee, thou shalt turne vnto thine heart, among all ỹ nations whyther the Lorde thy god hath thruste thee, *and come agayne vnto the Lorde thy God, and hearken vnto his voice in al these thinges ỹ I commaunde thee this day: thou and thy chyldren with all thine heart, & and al thy soule. * And the lord thy God wil turne thy captiuitie, and haue compassion vpon thee, and will turne and fet thee againe from al the nations, among whiche the Lorde thy God shall haue scattered thee. Though thou wast cast vnto the extreme partes of heauen, euen from thence wyll the Lord thy God gather thee, and from thence wyl he fet thee: and the Lorde thy God wil bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt enioy it.
B And he wil shew thee kindnes, & multiplie thee aboue thy fathers. *And the Lord thy god will circumcise thine heart, and the hearte of thy seede, ỹ thou mayest loue ỹ Lord thy god with all thine heart, & all thy soule, ỹ thou mayst lyue. And the Lord thy god wyl put all these curses vppon thine enmies, and on them that hate thee, and that persecute thee. But thou shalt turne, and hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde, and doe al his commaunde-mentes, whiche I commaunde thee thys daye. And the Lorde thy God wyll make thee plenteous in al the workes of thine hande, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruite of thy cattell, and in the fruit of thy lande for thy wealth. *For the Lorde wyll turne agayne and reioyce ouer thee to do thee good, as he reioiced ouer thy fathers: If thou hearken onely vnto ỹ voice of ỹ Lorde thy God, to kepe his commaundements and his ordinaunces which are written in the booke of this lawe, and yf thou turne vnto the Lorde thy God with all thine heart, and all thy soule. *For the commaundement whiche I commaunde thee this day, is not seperated from thee, neyther farre of. It is not in heauen, that thou nedest to (complain and) saye: who shall go vp for vs to heauẽ, and fet it vs, ỹ we C may heare it, & do it? Neither is it beyond the sea, that thou shouldest saye: who shal go ouer ỹ sea for vs, and fetle it vs, ỹ we may heare it, and do it? But the worde is verie nie vnto thee: euẽ in thy mouth and in thine heart, ỹ thou doe it. *Behold, I haue set before thee this daye, life & good, death and euell: For wheras I commaũd thee this daye, to loue the Lorde thy god, to walke in his wayes, and to kepe hys commaundements, his ordinaunces and his lawes (if thou so doe) thou shalte lyue and multiplye, and the Lord thy god shal blesse thee in the lande, whyther thou goest to possesse it. But and yf thyne hearte turne away, so ỹ thou wilt not heare, but D shalte goe astraye and worship straunge goddes, and serue them: I pronounce vnto you also this daye, that ye shall surelye perysshe, and that ye shall not prolõg your dayes vpon the lande whither thou passest ouer Jordan to go and possesse it. *I call heauen and earth to recorde this day agaynst you, ỹ I haue set before you lyfe and death, blessing and cursyng. Therfore chose life, that both thou and thy sede may liue, that thou mayste loue the Lorde thy God, and be obediẽt to his voice, & cleaue vnto him. For he is thy lyfe, and ỹ length of thy dayes that thou maist dwell vppon the earth, which the Lord sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to geue them.

¶The.xxxi.Chapter,

Moses being ready to dye, ordereth Josua to rule the Lord shal geue thē ouer before your face, that ye may do vnto thē according vnto al the cōmaundementes which I haue commaunded you. Plucke vp youre heartes therfore, & be strong: drede not, nor bee afraid of thē: for ẏ lord thy god himself doth B go with the. He shal not fayle the, nor for-De.viii.a & saide vnto him in ẏ sight of al Israell:* Josu.i.b. Be strong & bold, for thou muste go wyth 3.Re.ii.a. this people vnto the lande which the lord hath sworne vnto their fathers, to geue them, & thou shalt geue it thē to enherite.

And ẏ lord he doth go before the: He shall therfore, nor be discōforted. And Moses wrote this law, and deliuered it vnto the Nu.iii.d. priestes the sōnes of Leui (whiche *bare ẏ arke of the testamēt of ẏ lord) & vnto all the elders of Israel: & Moses commaun-2.Esdras viii.a ded them, saying: *At the poynt of seuen C yeres in the solēnitie of the free yere, euē in the feast of tabernacles, when al Israel is come to appeare before the Lord thy god, in ẏ place which he hath chosen: thou shalt read this lawe before all Israell in their eares. Gather ẏ people together: mē women and children, & the stranger ẏ is within thy gates, that they maye heare & learne, & feare the lord your god and kepe and obserue al the wordes of this lawe, & that theyr children which know nothing, may heare, & learn to feare the lord your god, as lōg as ye liue in the lāde, whither ye go ouer Jordan to possesse it. And the lord said vnto Moses: Beholde, thy dayes are come that thou must dye. Call Josua therfore, and stand ye in the Tabernacle of witnes, that I may geue him a charge.

And Moses, and Josua went, and stoode in the tabernacle of witnes. And the lord D appeared in the tabernacle, euen in the Exodus xxxiii.d piller of the cloud. And the *piller of the cloud stoode ouer the dore of the tabernacle. And the lorde sayde vnto Moses: Behold, thou shalt slepe wt thy fathers: and this people wil rise vp, & go a whoring after straūge gods of the lād (whither they goe) & wil forsake me, and breake the appointment, which I haue made with thē.
And thē my wrath wil ware hote against them, and I wil forsake them, & wil hide my face from thē, & thei shalbe consumed.
And muche aduersitie and tribulations E shal come vpon them, so that thē they wil say: Are not these troubles come vpō me, because God is not with me? And I also wil surely hide away my face in ẏ day, for all the euels sake whiche they shall haue wroughte, in that they are turned vnto straunge Gods. Nowe therfore write ye this song for you, & teache it the childrē of Israel, & put it in their mouthes, ẏ thys song may be my witnes against the chyldren of Israel. For I wil bring them into the lande (whiche I sware vnto their fathers) that floweth with milke and hony: & they shal eate & fil themselues & ware fat, & turne vnto straūge gods, and serue them, and blaspheme me, and breake my couenaūt. And then when much mischief and tribulation is come vpon them, thys F song shal aunswer them as a witnes. For it shal not be forgottē out of the mouthes of their sede: for I knowe theyr ymagina-tion, which they go about euen now, before I haue brought them into the lande whiche I sware. Moses therefore wrote this song the same season, and taught it the children of Israel. And he gaue Josua the sonne of Nun a charge, & sayde:* be bolde and strong, for thou shalt bryng the children of Israel into the land which I sware vnto them, and I wyll bee with thee. And when Moses had made an end of writing out of ẏ wordes of this law in a boke vnto ẏ end of thē, Moses cōmaunded ẏ Leuites, which bare the arke of the Testament of the lorde, saying: Take ye the booke of this lawe, *and put it in the syde of the arke of the Testamente of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a witnesse against thee. For I knowe thy stubbornes & thy stifnecke: whyle I am yet aliue with you this daie, ye haue been disobediēt vnto the Lord: and how much more after my death? Gather vnto me all the elders of your tribes, & your officers, that I may speake these wordes in theyr eares, and cal heauen & earth to record against them. For I am sure that after my death ye wyl vtterly be corrupt, & tourne from

from the way which I haue cõmaunded you: and tribulation wyl come vpõ you in the latter dayes, bicause ye shall haue wrought wickednesse in the sight of the Lord, to prouoke him thorow the workes of your handes. And Moses spake in the eares of all the congregation of Israell, the wordes of this song vntill he had ended them.

The.xxxii. Chapiter.

¶ The song of Moses.

A Heare, O ye heauens, and * I shall speake, and let the earth heare the wordes of my mouth. * My doclii.b. trine shal drop as doth the rain, and my ii.a. speche shal flow as doth the dew, as the lv.c shower vpon the herbes, and as ẏ drops vpon the grasse. For I will call on the name of ẏ Lorde: Ascribe ye honor vnto en.i.b. our God. * Perfect is the worke of ẏ most mighty God: for al his wayes are iudge-ment. He is a god of truth, without wickednesse: righteous, and iust is he.

Frowardly haue they done against him thorow their deformities: not his owne children, but a wicked and froward generation. Do ye so reward the Lord, O fo-ala.i.b lish nation and vnwise? * Is not he thy father, and thine owner? * Hath he not made thee, and ordeined thee? Remembre the dayes of the world ẏ is paste: consider Gen.i.b. the yeres from tyme to tyme. * Aske thy Iob.viii. father, and he will shew thee: thy elders, and they will tell thee. * When the moste Gen.xi.b highest deuided the natiõs, and when he Actes. seperated the sonnes of Adam, he put the xvii.b. borders of the nations fast by the multitude of the children of Israell. For the Lordes part is his folke, and Iacob is ẏ portion of his enheritaunce. He foũd him in a desert lande, in a voyde grounde, and in a roaring wildernesse. He led him about, he gaue him vnderstanding, & kept him as the apple of his eye.

B As an Egle ẏ stirreth vp her nest and flotereth ouer her yong, & stretcheth out her winges: so doth he take them vp, and beareth them on his shoulders. The lord alone was his guyde, and there was no strange God w̃ him. He caried him vp to an hye lande, that he mighte eate the en-crease of the fieldes. * And he fed him Psalme with hony out of the rocke, and with oyle lxxi.c. out of the most hard stone. With butter of kine, and milke of the shepe, with fat of the lambes, and of fat rammes, and he goates, with the fat of most plenteous wheate: and that thou mightest drink the most pure bloud of the grape. But he that C should haue been vpright, when he waxed fat, spurned with his hele. Thou art well fed, thou art growen thicke, thou art euen laden with fatnesse. And he forsoke God his maker, and regarded not the god of his saluation. They prouoked hym to anger with straunge Gods: euen with abhominations prouoked they hym. * Psa.cvi.f They offred vnto deuils, and not to God, euen to Gods whõ they knew not: to new Gods that came newly vp, whom theyr fathers feared not. Of G O D that begate thee, thou art vnmindfull, and hast forgotten God that made thee. The lord therfore sawe it, and was angry, bicause of the prouoking of his sõnes and of his daughters.

And he sayd: I will hide my face from them, and will see what their end shalbe.
For they are a very froward generation, children in whom is no faith. They haue angred me with that which is no God, & prouoked me with their vanities. * And Rom.x.d I also wil prouoke thẽ with those which are no people: I wil anger them wyth a foolish nation. * For fier is kindled in my Ier.xv.c. wrath, and burneth vnto the bottome of hell. And hath consumed the earth wyth her encrease, and set a fyre the bottomes of the mountaynes. I wil heape mischeues vpon them, and will destroye them with mine arowes.

They shalbe burnt with hunger, and D consumed with heate, and with bitter destruction. * I wil also sende the teeth of Iere.v.b beastes vpon them, with the furiousnesse Ioel.i.b. of serpentes in ẏ dust. Without forth shal the sweard rob them of their childrẽ: and within, in the chamber, feare, both yong men and yong wemen, & the suckelinges with the men of gray heades. I haue said I will scatter them abrode, and make the remembraunce of them to ceasse from among men: Were it not that I feared the wrath of ẏ enemy, lest their aduersaries should vtterly withdraw themselues, and lest they should say: our hye hande hath done al thys, and not the Lord. For it is a nation without forcast, neither is there any vnderstanding in them: O that they were wise, and vnderstode this, that they would consider their latter ende. How should one chase a. M, & .ii. put. x. M. to flight: except their maker had solde them, and except the Lord had shut thẽ vp? For E their God is not as our God, our * ene- i. King. mies also themselues are iudges. For b.b.

E their vine is of the vineiard of Sodome, and of ẏ fieldes of Gomorra: Their grapes are grapes of gall, and their clusters be bitter. Their wine is the poisõ of dragons, and the cruel gal of aspes. Is not this layd in store with me, and sealed vp among my treasures? *Vengeaunce is Eccles. xviii.a. mine, and I wil reward, their fete shall slide in due tyme: For the day of their de-Ro. xii.d. struction is at hand, and the thinges that Hebre. x.f. shal come vpon them, make hast. * For ii. Mac. the Lord shall iudge his people, and haue vii.a. compassion on his seruauntes, when he seeth that their power is gone, and that they be in a maner shut vp, or brought to nought and forsaken. And he shall say:* Iere. ii.d. where are their gods? their god in whom they trusted? The fat of whose sacrifices they did eate, and drãke the wine of their drinkeoffringes? let them rise vp and help you, and be your protection (in necessitie,) De. iiii.f. See now how that I, *I alone am god, i. Re. ii.c. and there is none but I: *I kill, and will F make aliue: I wounde, and I will heale:
Iob. x.b. *Neither is there any that can deliuer Sa. xvi.b out of my hand. For I wil lift vp my hãd to heauen, and wil say: I liue euer. If I whet the edge of my sweard, & mine hãde take holde to doe iustice, I wil recompẽce vengeaunce on mine enemies, and wyll reward them that hate me. I will make my arrowes dronke with bloud, and my sweard shall eate flesh, and that for the bloud of the slain, and for their captiuity, since the beginning of the wrath of the enemie. *Prayse ye heathen his people, Ro. xv.b. for he wil auenge ẏ bloud of his seruaũts and wil auenge him of his aduersaryes, and will be merciful vnto his lande, and to his people.

And Moses came & spake al the wordes of this song, in the eares of the people, he and Iosua the sonne of Nun. And Moses spake all these wordes vnto the ende, to all the people of Israel, and sayd vnto De. vi.b. them: *Set your heart vnto al the wor-and. x.e. des which I testifie vnto you thys day: & ye shal commaund them vnto your children, that they may obserue and do all the wordes of this law. And let it not be a vain word vnto you: for in it is your life, G & through this word ye shal prolong your dayes in the lãd, whither ye go ouer Iordan to conquere it.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses the selfe same day, saying: Get thee vp into this moũtaine Abarim (ẏ is to say a passage) vnto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, ouer against Iericho. And behold the land of Canaan, which I geue vnto the children of Israell to possesse: And dy in the mount which thou goest vp vnto and thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people. *As Aaron thy brother died in moũt Hor, and was gathered vnto his people, bicause ye trespaced against me among ẏ children of Israel, *at the waters of strife at Cades in the wildernesse of Zin: for ye sanctified me not among the children of Israel. Thou shalt therfore see the lande before thee, and shalt not go thither, vnto the lande which I geue the children of Israell.

The .xxxiii. Chapter.

Moses dying, blesseth al the tribes of Israell.

THis is the blessing wherwith Moses the man of God blessed the children of Israell before his death, & sayd: *The Lord came frõ Sinai, & shewed his beames *frõ Seir vnto thẽ, and appeared frõ mount Pharam, & he came with thousandes of Sainctes, & in hys right hand a law of fyre for thẽ. And he loued the people. *All his Sainctes also are in thy handes. They were smitten to go after thy fete, & to receiue of thy wor-des. Moses gaue vs a law to be an enhe-ritaunce of the congregation of Iacob.
And he was in Israell king, when the heads of the people, and the tribes of Israel were gathered together. Let Ruben liue, and not die, and be few in numbre.
This same also shal happen to Iuda. And he sayd: Heare Lord, the voyce of Iuda, and bring him vnto his people: his hands B shalbe good ynough for him, if thou help him against his enemies. And vnto Leui he sayd: Thumim and Urim shalbe with thee, and with euery one that is Godly in thee. Thou didst proue him also in the tẽ-tation, and striuedst with him at the waters of strife. He that hath sayd vnto hys father and to his mother: I haue not seen him. And he that knew not hys brethren, nor knew his own childrẽ, those are they that haue obserued thy worde, and shall kepe thy couenaunt. They shal teach Ia-cob thy iudgementes, and Israel thy law They shal put cense before thy nose, & the burnt sacrifice vpon thine altare. Blesse Lord his first fruites, and accept ẏ work of his handes: smite the loines of thẽ that rise against him, and of them ẏ hate him, that they rise not again. And of Ben Ia- C min he sayed. The Lordes derling shall dwel in safety vpon him, and the lord shal couer

couer him al the day long, & he shal dwell betwene his shoulders. And of Joseph he sayd: blessed of the Lord is his land, for ẏ fruites of heauen, thorow the dewe and springes that lie beneth, and for ẏ swete fruites of the encrease of the Sunne, and ripe fruites of the Moone: for the firste fruites of the principal mountaines, and for the fruites that the hilles bryng forth for euer, and for the fruites of the earth, and fulnesse therof: and for the good wil of him that dwelt in the * bush, shall the blessing come vpon the head of Joseph, & vpon the top of the head of him that was seperated from among his brethren: hys first borne ore hath beauty, and his hornes are as the hornes of an Unicorne. And with them he shal trouble the nations together, euen vnto the endes of the world. These are also the many thousãds of Ephraim, and the thousandes of Manasses. And vnto Zabulõ he sayd: Reioice Zabulon in thy going out, and thou Isachar in thy tentes. They shal cal the people vnto the hil, and there they shall offer offringes of righteousnesse. For they shal sucke of the aboundaunce of the sea, and of treasure hid in the sande. Ex.iii.a.

D And vnto Gad he sayd: Blessed bee the rowme maker Gad: he dwelleth as a Lion, that catcheth the arme with the head. He saw therfore his beginning, and that there was a portiõ there to hide the lawgeuer, and he came with the heads of the people, & executed the righteousnesse of the Lord, and his iudgementes with Israell. And vnto Dan he sayd: Dan is a Lions whelpe, he shal flow from Basan. And vnto Nephtali he sayd: Nephtali hath aboundaunce of Gods good pleasure, and is filled with the blessing of the Lord, and shal haue his possessions towarde the southweste. And vnto Aser he sayd: Aser shalbe blessed with children: he shalbe acceptable vnto his brethren, and shall dip his foote in oyle. Thy dwelling be yrõ and brasse, and thyne age be as thy youth. There is none like vnto the God of Israell: which though he sit vpon the heauen as vpon a horse, yet is he thy helper, whose glory is in the celestial places. The eternal God is thy refuge, and vnder the armes of ẏ euerlasting God, shalt thou liue. He shal cast out the enemie before thee, and say: destroy. Israel thẽ shal dwel in safety, and alone. And the eye of Jacob, shalbe vpon a lande of corne and wine, and his heauens shal drop the dew Happy art thou, O Israell, who is like vnto thee: O people that are saued in the Lord, which is the shield of thy helpe, and sweard of thy glory. Thine enmies haue lost their strength to thee ward, and thou shalt tread vpon the heigth of them.

¶ Moses dyeth. Israel wepeth. Josua succedeth in Moses rowme.

A AND * Moses went from the plain of Moab, vp into mount Nebo, & vnto the top of * the hill ẏ is ouer against Jericho. And the Lord shewed him al the land of Gilead, euen vnto Dan, and all Nephtali, and the lande of Ephraim & Manasse, and al the land of Juda: euen vnto the vtmost sea, and the South, and the region of the plain of Jericho, the citie of palmetrees, euen vnto Zoar. And the Lord sayd vnto him: * This is ẏ land which I sware vnto Abraham, Isaac & Jacob, sayig: I wil geue it vnto thy sede, I haue caused thee alsc to se it with thine eyes, * but ẏ shalt not go ouer thither. So Moses the seruaunt of the lord dyed there in the land of Moab, according to the worde of the Lord. And he buriedhim in a valey in the lande of Moab ouer against the house of Peor: but no mã knoweth of his sepulchre vnto this day. Moses was an hundred and twenty yere old when he dyed: his eye was not dim, nor his natural coloure abated. And the children of Israel * wept for Moses in the plain of Moab, thirtie dayes. And the dayes of weping and mourning for Moses were ended.

The.ii.Chapter.

¶ Josua sendeth spies to Jericho, which were hid of Rahab.

AND Josua the sõne of Nun sent out A of Settim two men to spye secretly, saying: Go and vew the land & also Jericho. And they went, & came into a harlots house, named Rahab, & lodged there. And it was told þ king of Jericho, Beholde, whẽ we come into ẏ land, ẏ shalt departed, & came into the mountain, and there abode thre dayes, vntill the pursuers were returned. And the pursuers sought them throughout all the way, but founde them not. And the two mẽ returned, & descended from the mountaine, & passed ouer, & came to Josua the sonne of Nun, & tolde him all that had chaunced them. And they sayd vnto Josua: the lord truely hath deliuered into our handes all the lande: and all the inhabitors of the countrey faint at the presence of vs.

Israel in the top of the foreskinnes. And this is the cause why Josua circūcised all the people þ came out of Egipt, namely, such as were males, bicause that all the men of warr, dyed in the wildernesse by þ way, after they came out of Egipt. For al

¶ The walles of Jericho fall, and it is destroyed.

ANd Jericho was shut vp, & locked, A bicause of the childrē of Israell, neither might any mā go out e[illegible]in. And the lord sayd vnto Josua: beholde, I haue geuen into thy hād, Jericho & her king, & the strong men of warr. And ye shal compasse the citie, al ye þ be men of warr, and go round about it once, & so shall you doe vi.dayes. And.vii. Priestes shall beare before the Arke, vii.trompets of rāmes hornes,(that be vsed in the Jubilie.) And the seuenth daye, ye shall compasse the citie vii.tymes, & the Priestes shall blow with the trompets. And when they make a lōg blast with the rammes horne, & ye heare the sound of the horne, al the people shall shoute with a great shout. And then shall the wall of the citie fall downe, & the people shal ascende vp, euery mā streight before him. And Josua the sonne of Nun, called the Priestes, & sayd vnto them: take vp the Arke of the appointment, & let.vii Priestes beare.vii. trompets of rammes hornes before the Arke of the Lord. And he sayd vnto the people, go & cōpasse the citie: & let him þ is harnessed, go before þ Arke of the Lord. And when Josua had spoken vnto the people, the.vii. Priestes bare the.vii.trompets of rāmes hornes, and wēt forth before the Arke of the lord, and blew wᵗ the trōpets, & the Arke of the couenant of the lord folowed them. And al þ men of armes wēt before þ priestes, þ blew wᵗ the trōpets, & the common people came after the Arke: and the Priestes B blew with trōpets. And Josua cōmaunded þ people, sayig: ye shall not shout, nor make ani noise wᵗ your voice, neither shal any

my word procede out of your mouth, vn-tyl the day I byd you shoute, then shall ye shout. And so the ark of the Lord cōpassed the citie, & went about it once: and thei retourned into the hoste, and lodged there.
And Josua rose early in the mornyng, & the priestes toke vp the arke of the lord, & seuē priestes bare.vii.trompets of rāmes hornes, & wēt before the arke of the lorde, & blew with the trompets. And all the mē of armes went before thē, but the cōmon people came after the arke of the Lorde, which wēt before with the blowing of the trōpets. And the second day they cōpassed the citie once, & returned againe into the host, & so they did.vi.daies. And when the vii.day came, they rose early euē with the C dauning of the day, & cōpassed the citie after the same maner.vii.times: only yͤ day they compassed the citie.vii.times. And at the.vii.time, when the priestes blew with the trompets, Josua said vnto the people: shoute, for the lord hath geuē you the city.
And the citie shalbe damned, both it & all yͭ are therin, vnto the lord: onely Rahab yͤ harlot shall liue, & all that are with her in Josu.ii.a. the house, because she * hid the messēgers that we sent. And in any wise bee ye ware of the excōmunicate thinges, lest ye make your selues excommunicate, & take of the excommunicate thinges, & make the hoste of Israell excōmunicate, & trouble it. But al the siluer, gold, vessels of brasse & yron, shalbe cōsecrate vnto yͤ lord, & al shal come into his treasury. And the people shouted & blew with trompets. And whē the people heard the sounde of the trompe, they Heb.xi.f. shouted with a great shout: & the * wal fell down, so that the people went vp into the citie, euery mā streight before him, & toke the citie. And thei vtterly destroied al that was in the citie, both man & womā, yong & olde, oxe, shepe, & asse, with the edge of yͤ swerd. Then Josua said vnto yͤ two mē that had spied out the countrey: * Go into Heb.xi.f. the harlots house, & bring out thence the D woman & al that she hath * as ye sware to Josu.ii.c. her. And the yong men that were spyes, wēt in, and brought oute Rahab, and her father & mother, & her brethren, and all yͭ she had. And they brought out all her kin-red, & put thē without the host of Israell.
And they burnt the citie with fier: and all that was therin. Only the siluer and the gold, the vessels of brasse & yron, they put vnto the treasure of the house of the lord.
Heb.xi.f. * And Josua saued Rahab the harlot, & her fathers houshold, & al that she had: & she dwelt in Israell, euen vnto this daye because she hid the messengers, which Josua sent to spye out Jericho. And Josua sware at that time, saying: Cursed be the man before the lord, that riseth vp, & byl-deth this citie Jericho: he shal lay the foū-dation * in his eldest sonne, & in his yon-gest sōne shal he set vp the gates of it. And 3.Kinges xvi.g. so the lord was with Josua, and his fame was noysed throughout al landes.

The.vii.Chapter.

Acan is spied out. Acan is stoned.

But yet the children of Israel trespa- A sed in the * excommunicate thinges. De.vii.d.
And Acan the sonne of Carmy, the and.xiii.d sonne of Zabdi, the sōne of Zareth, of the Jo.xxii.d tribe of Juda, toke of the excommunicate i.Par.ii.a thinges. And the wrath of the lord waxed 2.Pa.xii. whote against the children of Israel. And f.
Josua sent men frō Jericho to Hai, which is beside Bethauē, on the East side of Bethel, and spake vnto them, saying: Geate you vp, & vew the countrey. And the men went vp, & spied out Hai. And retourned to Josua, & sayd vnto hym, let not all the people goe vp, but let as it were a two or thre thousand men goe vp, & smite Hai, & make not all the people to labour thither, for they are but few. And so there wēt vp thither of the people, about a.iii.thousand men, & thei fled before yͤ men of Hai. And the men of Hai smote of thē, vpon a.xxxvi mē: for thei chased thē frō before the gate, euen vnto Sebarim, and smote them in the going down. Wherfore the heartes of B the people * for feare, melted awaye lyke Ps.xii.c. water. And Josua rent his clothes, & fell to the earth vpon his face before the arke of the lord, vntyl the euentyde, he and the elders of Israel, and put earth vpon their heades. And Josua said: * Alas, O Lorde Deu.ix.d god, wherfore hast thou brought this people ouer Jordan, to delyuer vs into yͤ hād of the Amorites, and to destroy vs: would to god we had bene content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan. Oh lord, what shal I saye, when Israel turned their backes before their enemies: Surely the Cananites, and all the inhabiters of the lande shal heare of it, and shal conspire agaynst vs, and destroy the name of vs out of the world: And what wilte thou doe vnto thy mighty name? And the lord said vnto Josua: Geat the vp: wherfore liest thou thus vpon thy face? Israell hath sinned, & they haue trāsgressed mine appointmēt, which I cōmaunded thē, for they haue taken of the excommunicate thinges, & haue stole, and dissembled, & put thē vnto their owne stuffe. And therfore is it ye the children of Israel cānot stand before their enemyes, but shal turne their backes before their enemies, because they be excommunicate.

Neither wil I be with you any more, except ye roote out the excommunicate from C among you. *Up therfore, and sanctifye Ex.xix.a. the people, and say: sanctify your selues against to morow, for so said the lord god of Israel. There is a dāned thing amōg you (O Israel,) and therfore ye cannot stand against your enemies, vntil ye haue put ye damned thing from among you. To mo-row mornyng therfore ye shalbe broughte accordyng to your tribes. And the trybe which ye lord taketh, shal come accordyng to the kinreds therof. And ye kinred which the lord shal find gilty, shal come by hous-holds. And the houshold which ye lord shal find fauty, shal come man by man. And he ye is founde in the excōmunication, shalbe burnt with fier, he & all ye he hath, because he hath transgressed the couenaunt of the lord, and wrought foly in Israell. And so Josua rose vp early in the mornyng, and brought Israel by their tribes: & the tribe of Juda was caught. And he brought the kinreds of Juda, & toke the kinred of the Zarahites. And he brought the kinred of the Zarahites, man by man, & Zabdi was caught. And he brought his houshold mā by man. & Acan the sonne of Carmi, the sonne of Zabdi, the sonne of Zareth in the tribe of Juda was caught. And Josua said vnto Acan, my sonne I beseche thee geue glory to the lord god of Israel, & geue him praise, and shew me what thou hast done, D hide it not frō me. And Acan aunswered Josua, and said: Of a truth I haue sinned against the lord god of Israel, and thus & thus haue I done. I saw among ye spoyle a goodly Babilonish garmente, & two. C. sicles of siluer, & a tong of gold of fifty sy-cles weight, and I coueted them, & tooke them. And beholde they lie hid in the earth in my tent, and the syluer is there vnder.
And so Josua sent messēgers, which whē they ran vnto his tent, beholde they were hid in his tent, and the siluer there vnder.
Therfore they toke thē out of the middest of his tent, and brought thē vnto Josua, & vnto all the children of Israel, and laide them out before the lord. And Josua toke Acan the sonne of Zareth, and the siluer & the garment, and the tong of golde, & his sonnes and his daughters, his oxen and his asses, his shepe, and his tent, & al that he had, and al Israel with him, & brought them vnto the valley of Acor. And Josua saide: In as muche as thou hast troubled vs, the lorde shal trouble thee this daye.
And all Israell stoned him with stones, & burned them with fyer, & ouerwhelmed them with stones. And thei cast vpon him a great heape of stones vnto thys daye.
And so the lord turned from the wrath of his indignatiō. And the name of the place is called ye valley of Acor vnto this daye.

The.viii.Chapter.

¶ The siege and winning of Hai. The king therof is hāged. Josua setteth vp an altare. He blesseth ye people.

AND ye lord saide vnto Josua: *feare not, neyther be thou faynte hearted: Deu.
Take al the men of warre with the,
and vp, & get thee to Hai. Behold, I haue geuen into thy hand, the king of Hai, and his people, his citie & his lande. And thou shalt doe to Hai & her kyng, as thou didst vnto *Jericho & her king. Neuerthelesse, Josua the spoyle and *catel thereof, shall ye take b. Deu. vnto your selues. And lay a watche vnto the town on ye backside therof. And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre, to go vp against Hai. And Josua chose out .xxx. thousand strong men of warre, and sente them away by night. And he cōmaunded them, saying: Beholde, ye shall lay awayte vnto the town on the backside therof. Go not very farre from the citie, but be all redy. And I, & all the people that are wyth me, wil approche vnto the citie. And whē they come out against vs, as they dyd at B the first time, then wyl we flee before thē.
For they wil come out after vs, & we wyll bring them out of the citie. For they wyll say: they flee before vs, as at the first time & we wil flee before thē. In ye meane time shal ye rise vp frō lying awayt, & destroye the citie. For the lord your god wil deliuer it into your hand. And when ye haue takē the citie, ye shal set it on fier. According to the cōmaundement of the lord shal ye do: beholde, I haue charged you. Josua therefore sēt thē forth, & thei wēt to lie awaite, & abode betwene Bethel & Hai, on the west side of the citie of Hai. But Josua lodged that night among the people. And Josua rose vp early in the mornyng, & numbred the people, & wēt vp, he and the elders of Israel before the people against Hai. And al the men of warre that were with hym, went vp and drew nye, and came agaynst C the citie, and pytched on the north syde of Hai. And there was a valley betwene thē and Hai. And he tooke vpon a fyue thousande

sande men, and put them to lye awayte, betwene Bethell and Hai, on the Westesyde of the citie. And they put the people (euen al the host that were on the Northsyde) agaynst the citie, & the lyers awayte on the west. And Josua walked the same nyght in the middes of the valley. And it fortuned that when the kyng of Hai saw it, they hasted and rose vp earlye, and the men of the citie went out agaynst Israell to battel, he and all his people, at a tyme appoynted, euen before the playne, & wist D not that there were lyers awayte on the backesyde of the citie. And Josua and all Israell fayned themselues to be put to yͤ worse before them, and fled towarde the wildernesse. And al the people of yͤ towne wer called together, to folow after them.
And they folowed after Josua, and were drawen away from the citie: And there was not a man lefte in Hai, & in Bethell, that went not out after Israell. And they lefte the citis open, and folowed after Israell. And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: stretche out the speare yͭ is in thyne hand towarde Hai, for I will geue it into thy hand. And Josua stretched out the speare that he had in his hande, towarde the ci-tie. And the lyers awayte rose quickelye out of their place, & ran assoone as Josua had stretched out his hande, & they entered into the citie, & tooke it, and hasted, & set the citie on fier. And when the men of Hai loked backe after them, they saw the smoke of the citie ascende vp to heauen.
E And they had no leasure to fle, either this waye or that, & the people that fled to the wildernesse, turned backe again vpon the folowers. And when Josua & all Israell sawe that the lyers awayte had taken the citie, & that the smoke of it ascended, they turned againe, and layed on the men of Hai. And the other issued out of the cy-tie against them. And so were they in the middes of Israell: for these were on the one syde of them, and the rest on the other Josua.vi b. syde. *And they layed vpon them, so that they let none of them escape, nor remain.
And the king of Hai they toke aliue, and brought him to Josua. And when Israel had made an ende of slaying al the inhabitors of Hai in the field of yͤ wildernesse, where they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the swerd, vntil they were wasted, al the Israelites returned vnto Hai, & smote it in the edge of the swerd. And all that fell that daye, both of men and women, wer. xii. thousād euen al the mē of Hai. For Josua plucked not his hand backe again, which he stretched out vpō the speare, vntil he had vtter ly destroied all the inhabitours of Hai.* Nu.xxxi. b.
Only the cattell & the spoyle of the citie, De.xx.c.
Israel toke vnto themselues, according vnto the word of the lord, whiche he commaunded Josua. And Josua set Hai on F fier, & made it an heape for euer, & a wyl-dernesse euen vnto this day. And the king of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntil euē. And assone as the sunne was down, Josua cō-maunded * that they should take the carkasse downe of the tree, and caste it at the De.xix.d entryng of the gate of the cytye, & *laye theron a great heape of stones, yͭ remay- Jos.x.ii.d neth vnto this day. Then Josua *buylte De.xxvii. a. an altare vnto the lord God of Israel, in mount Ebal, as Moses the seruaunt of yͤ lord commaunded the children of Israel, & as it is written in the *boke of the lawe De.xxvii. a. of Moses: an *altare of whole stones, o- Ex.xx.d. uer which no man hath lift any toole of iron. And they sacrificed theron burnt sacrifices vnto the lord, & offered peace offe-ringes. And he wrote therupō yͤ stones, a rehersal of yͤ lawe of Moses, & wrote it in the presēce of the childrē of Israel. And all Israel & the elders therof, & their officers & Judges, stode, part on this side yͤ arke, & part on yͤ side, before the priestes yͭ were G Leuites, which bare yͤ arke of yͤ appointmēt of the lord, as wel yͤ stranger, as they that wer borne among them: half of them on the forefront of mount Garizim, & half of them on the forefront ofmounte Ebal: as Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde had commaunded before, yͭ they should blesse the people Israel. Afterward, he read all the wordes of the law, the blessinges and cursinges, according to all that is written in the boke of the law. And there was not one worde of all that Moses commaunded, which Josua read not before all the congregation of Israel: The women and chyldren, (and the straungers that were come) standyng among them.

The. ix. Chapter.

¶ The Gibeonites obtain peace of Josua.

And it fortuned, yͭ whē all the kinges A yͭ dwell on this syde Jordan, in the hylles & valleys, and along by al the coastes of the great sea, ouer agaynst Li-banō (namely the Hethites, the Amorites the Cananites, yͤ Pherezites, yͤ Heuites, & the Jebusites) heard therof, they gathered themselues together, to fight agaynst Josua, & against Israel with one accord.
*And

ii. Kinges xxi. a. *And the inhabitours of Gibeon hearde what Josua had done vnto Jericho, & to Hai. And thei did worke wilily, and wēt, and made themselues embassadours, and toke (thē vitailes and) olde sackes vpon theyr Asses, & wine bottelles, olde, and rēt, and worne, & old clouted shoes vpō their fete, & their raiment was olde, & all their pro-uision of bread was dried vp and hoared.
And they came vnto Josua into the host, to Gigal, and said vnto him, and vnto all ỹ men of Israel: We be come from a farre countrey, & now make ye agrement with vs. And the men of Israell sayd vnto the Heuite: peraduēture thou dwellest amōg vs: and then how can I make peace with thee? And they sayde vnto Josua: we are thy seruauntes. And Josua sayd vnto thē again: What are ye? and whence come ye?
B They aunswered him: From a very farre countrey thy seruauntes are come, for the name of the Lorde thy God: for we haue heard the fame (of the power) of hym: and all that he did in Egipt, and all that he did to Nu. xxi. f. the two *kynges of the Amorites ỹ were beyonde Jordan, Sehon kyng of Hesbon, and Og, king of Basan, whiche was at Astharoth. Wherefore, oure elders and all the inhabitours of our countrey spake to vs, saying: Take vitailes with you to serue by the way, and go mete them, and say vnto them: we are youre seruauntes.
And nowe make ye a couenaunt of peace with vs. This our fode of bread, we toke with vs out of our houses whot, the daye we departed to come vnto you. But now behold, it is dried vp & hoared. And these bottels of wyne whiche wee fylled, were newe: and see, they be rente. And these our garmentes and shoes, are worne for oldnesse, by the reasō of the exceding long iourney. And the menne toke of their vi-C taples, and counceled not with the mouth of the Lord. And Josua made peace with
iii. Kinges xxi. them, and *made a couenant with them, that they should be suffred to lyue: and the Lordes of the congregation sware vnto them. And it fortuned, that thre dayes after they had made peace with them, they hearde that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them. And the children of Israel toke their iourney, and came vnto their cities the third daye, and their cities were Gibeon, and Ca-phira, Beroth, and Kiriah Jarim. And the children of Israel slewe them not because the lordes of the congregation had sworne vnto them by the Lorde God of Israell, and all the multitude murmured againste the Lordes. But all the Lordes sayd vnto all the congregation: We haue sworne vnto them, by the Lorde God of Israel, and therefore we maye not hurte them. But this we will doe to them. We will let them lyue, leste wrathe bee vppon vs because of the othe whiche we sware vnto them. And the Lordes sayde vnto them agayn: Let them liue, *& hew wood, and draw water vnto all the congregatiō & they did as the lordes said vnto them.

And Josua sent for them, & talked with them, and said: wherfore haue ye begyled vs? saying: We dwel farre from you, when ye dwel among vs. And nowe are ye cursed, and there shall not cease to be of you, bondmen, and hewers of wood, & drawers of water for the house of my god.

And they answered Josua, and sayd: It was tolde thy seruauntes, how ỹ the lord thy God, had commaunded his seruaunte Moses, to geue you all the lande, and to destroy all the inhabitours thereof out of your sight, and therfore we wer exceding sore afraid (and did prouide) for oure lyues at ỹ presence of you, & haue done this thing and beholde, we are in thyne hande: as it semeth good and right in thine eies to do vnto vs, so doe. And euen so did he vnto thē, & rid them out of the hand of the children of Israel, & they slew them not. And Josua made them that same day hewers of wood, & drawers of water for the congregation, & for ỹ altare of god vnto this day, in the place which God should chose.

The. x. Chapter.

The Amorites are ouercome of Josua. It ray-neth stones. The Sunne standeth still. The. v. Kinges are hanged. A

AND it fortuned, ỹ when Adonizedech king of Jerusalem had hearde howe Josua had taken Hai, & had destroyed it: & how ỹ *as he had done to Jericho Josua vi. & viii.
& her king, euē so he had done to Hai and her king: & how ỹ enhabitours of Gibeon had made peace wt Israel, & were among them, they feared excedingly: For Gibeon was a great citie, as any citie of the kingdome, and was greater than Hai, and all the men therof were very mighty.

Wherfore Adonizedech kyng of Jerusalem, sent vnto Hoham king of Hebron, & vnto Piria king of Jarmuth, and vnto Japhia king of Lachis, & vnto Debir kīg of Eglon, saying: Come vp vnto me, and help me, ỹ we may smite Gibeon: for they haue made peace wt Josua, & with ỹ chyl-drē of Israel. Therfore ỹ. v. kinges of the B Amorites, ỹ king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, ỹ king of Jarmuth, ỹ kyng of Lachis, & ẏ king of Eglon gathered them selues together, thei with al their hostes, & besieged Gibeon, & made war against it.

And ẏ men of Gibeon sent vnto Iosua, & to ẏ host of Gilgal, saying: withdraw not thy hād from thy seruauntes, come vp to vs, to saue vs & to help vs. For al ẏ kings of ẏ Amorites which dwell in the mountains, are gathered together against vs.
And so Iosua ascēded frō Gilgall, he & all the people of war with him, & all the men of might, & the lord said vnto Iosua: Fear them not, for I haue deliuered them into thine hand. Neither shal any of thē stand against the. Iosua therfore came vnto thē sodeinly, & went vp frō Gilgal all nyght.
C And the lord troubled them before Israell, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, & chased them a long the way that goeth vp to Bethoron, & smote them to Esaka and Makeda. And it fortuned, that as they fled from Israel, and wer in the goyng downe to Bethoron, the Lord caste downe great stones frō heauen vpō them, vntill Esaka. And there were mo dead with hayle stones, than they were whom the children of Israell slewe with the swerde. Then spake Iosua before the Lord, in the day when the lord deliuered the Amorites before the children of Israell, and he sayde in the syghte of Israell.
Eccl.xlvi. *Sunne stande thou still vpon Gibeon, and thou Moone in Aialon. And ẏ Sūne abode, and the Moone stode still, vntill ẏ people auenged themselues vpon their enemies. Is not this written in the booke of the righteous? The Sunne (I saye) abode in the middest of heauen, and hasted not to goe down by the space of an whole daye. And there was no day lyke that, before it, or after it, that the lorde heard the voice of a man. For the Lorde fought for Israell. And Iosua returned, and all Is-D rael with hym vnto the hoste of Gilgal: but the fiue kinges fled, and were hid in a caue at Makeda. And it was told Iosua of one, saying. The fiue kings are found hid in a caue whiche is at Makeda. And Iosua saide: roule great stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them. And stād ye not still, but folow after your enemies, and smite al the hyn-dermost: And suffer them not to enter into their cities, for the Lorde your God hath deliuered thē into your hande. And it for-tuned when Iosua and the childrē of Israel had made an ende of sleyng them wt an exceding great slaughter, tyl they wer wasted, the reste that remained of them, entred into walled cities. And al ẏ people returned to the hoste to Iosua at Make-da, in peace: neither did any manne moue his tong agaynst the chyldren of Israel.
Then said Iosua: open the mouthe of the caue, and bring out these.v.kinges vnto me oute of the caue. And they did so, and brought these.v.kinges vnto him oute of the caue, euen the kyng of Ierusalem, the king of Hebrō, the king of Iarmuth, the kyng of Lachis, and the kyng of Eglon.
And it fortuned, that when they brought out those kynges vnto Iosua, Iosua called for al the men of Israell, and sayd vn- E to the chiefe of the men of warre, whiche went with him: Come nere, and put your fete vpon the neckes of these kinges. And they came nere and put their feete vppon the neckes of them. And Iosua said vnto them: Ye shall not feare, nor be faint harted: But bee strong, and plucke vp youre heartes, for thus shall the Lord doe to all your enemies against whom ye fight.
And then Iosua smote them, & slew them & hanged them on.v.trees. And they hanged still vpon the trees vntill ẏ euenyng.
And at the goyng downe of the Sunne, it fortuned ẏ Iosua gaue cōmaundemēt, and they toke them downe of the *trees, Iosu.viii.c. and cast them into the caue, (wherin they had been hid) & laied great stones on the caue mouthe, whiche remaine vntyll thys day. And that same day Iosua toke Ma-keda & smote it with the edge of ẏ swerd, & the kyng thereof also *destroyed he vt- De.xx.b. terly, with al the soules that were therin, and let nought remain. And he did to the king of Makeda *as he did vnto the king of Iericho. Then Iosua went from Ma- Ios.vi.d. keda, & all Israell with him vnto Libna, and fought against Libna. And the lorde deliuered it, and the king thereof into the hand of Israell: and he smote it wyth the edge of the swerd, & al the soules ẏ were therin. He let nought remaine in it, but did vnto the king therof as he did vnto ẏ king of Iericho. And Iosua departed frō F Libna, & all Israell wt him vnto Lachis, and besieged it, and assaulted it. And the Lorde deliuered Lachis into the hand of Israel, which toke it the second daye, and smote it with the edge of the swerd, & all the soules ẏ were therin, doing according to al, as he had done to the citie of Libna.
Then Horam kyng of Geser came vp to helpe Lachis: And Iosua smote him and his people, vntil nought remained of him.
And

And from Lachis Josua departed vnto Eglon, and all Israell with hym, and they besieged it, & assaulted it, and toke it the same daye, and smote it with the edge of the swerd: and all the soules that were therin he vtterly destroyed the same day, accordyng to all ẏ he had done to Lachis.
And Josua departed vp from Eglon, and all Israell with hym vnto Hebron. And thei fought against it, & when thei had taken it, they smote it with the edge of the swerd, & the king therof, & all the townes that pertained to it, and al the soules that were therin, & he left nought remainyng: G but did accordyng to all as he had done to Eglon, and destroied it vtterly, and al the soules that were therein. And Josua returned, and al Israel with him to Dabir, and fought againste it. And when he had takē it, & the king therof, & all the townes that pertained therto, they smote thē with the edge of the swerd, and vtterly destroied al the soules that were therein, neither let he ought remain. Euē as he did to Hebron, so he did to Dabir, & the kyng thereof, as he had done also to Libna, and her king. Josua therfore smote all the hil coū-treys, and the south countreys, and the valleys, & the hilsides, & al theyr kynges, and let nought remayne of them, but vt-De.xx.b. terly destroyed all that * breathed, as the Lord God of Israell commaunded. And Josua smote them from Cades barne vnto Asah, and all the countrey of Gosan, euen vnto Gibeon. All those kynges and their land dyd Josua take at one time: because the Lorde God of Israell foughte for Israell. And Josua and all Israell returned vnto the host that was in Gilgall.

The .xi. Chapter.

The battaile of Josua with diuerse kynges.

A And it fortuned, that when Jabin kyng of Hazor, had hearde those thynges: he sent to Jobab kyng of Madon, & to the king of Simrom, and to the king of Achsaph, and vnto the kinges that are by the north in the mountaynes, and playnes toward the southside of Ceneroth, and in the low countreyes: and in the borders of Dor, westwarde, and vnto the Cananites, both by East and West, & vnto ẏ Amorites, Hethites, Pheresites, & Gebusites in the mountaynes: and vnto the Heuites that were vnder Hermon in the land of Mizpa. And they came oute & all their hostes with them, a multitude of folke, euē as the sand ẏ is on the sea shore in a great number, with horses & charets exceding many. And all these kinges met together, & came & pitched together at the waters of Merō, for to fight against Israel. And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: bee B not afrayde at the presence of them: for to morow about this time will I deliuer the al slaine before Israel: thou shalt houghe their horses and burne their charets with fier. And so Josua came, and all the men of warre with hym agaynste them by the waters of Merom, and sodeinly fell vpon them. And the Lorde deliuered them into the hand of Israell: & they smote thē and chased them vnto great Sidon, and vnto the whote waters, and vnto the valley of Mizpa which is Eastward, & smote them vntill thei had none remaynyng of them.
And Josua did vnto thē, as the Lord bad him: he boughed their horses, and burnte their charets with fier.

And Josua at that time turned backe and toke Hazor, and smote the king ther-of with ẏ swerd. And Hazor before tyme was the head of al those kingdomes. And they smote al the soules that wer therein with the edge of ẏ swerd, vtterly destroying all: and nothing that breathed, was let remaine. And he burnte Hazor with fier. And all the cities of those kynges, & all the kynges of them did Josua take, & smote them with the edge of ẏ swerd, and vtterlye destroyed them * as Moses the Ex.xiii. seruaunt of the lord commaunded. b.
But Israell burnt none of the cities that c.xxxiiii stode still in their strēgth, saue Hazor on- De.vii.i ly that Josua burnt. And all the spoyle of C the said cities, & the cattell, the children of Israel caught vnto themselues. But the men only they smote with the edge of the swerd vntill thei had destroied them: neyther left they ought that had breath. As the Lorde commaunded Moses his ser-uaunt, so dyd Moses commaunde Josua: Deu.i.
& euen so did Josua, * so that he minished no word of all that the Lorde commaunded Moses. And so Josua tooke all the lande, the hilles, & all the south countrey, D and all the lande of Gosan, and the lowe countrey, and the playne, and the mountayne of Israel, & the low countrey of the same, euē from the moūt of partyng that goeth vp to Seir, vnto ẏ playne of Gad, in the valley of Libanon, vnder mounte Hermon. And all the kynges of the same he toke and smote them, and slewe them.
Josua made warre long time with those kynges: neyther was there any citie that made peace wt the children of Israel, saue
those

those Hethites ÿ inhabited Gibeon. And therfore all other thei toke wt battaile, for it came of the lorde, which did hardē theyr heartes ÿ they should come against Israel in battaile, and that they should destroye them vtterly, & shew thē no mercy, but to bring thē to nought: As ÿ lord cōmaunded Moses. And that same seasō came Josua, & destroied the Enakites out of the moūtaynes: Namely out of Hebrō, Dabir, Anab, & out of all the mountayns of Juda, & out of al the mountayns of Israel. And Josua destroyed them vtterlye, with their cities. There was not one Enakite left in the land of the children of Israel: onely in Azah, * Geth & Asdod, there remayned of them. And Josua toke the whole land, accordyng to al that the lord said vnto Moses: and Josua gaue it for a possession vnto Israel * accordyng to their partes and trybes: and the land rested from warre.

The.xii.Chapter.

¶ What kinges Josua and the children of Israel killed, which were in number.xxxi.

¶ The.xiii.Chapter

¶ Josua is commaunded to deuide the land to the children of Israell.

A Josua was olde, and striken in yeres, and the Lorde sayde vnto hym: thou arte olde and striken in yeares, and there remayneth yet excedyng much land to be possessed. This is the lande that yet remayneth: all the regions of the Phylystines, & all Gesuri: from Nilus whyche is on the outwarde parte of Egipte, vnto the borders of Acron northward: whiche lande is counted vnto Canānie, euen fiue lordships of ÿ Philistines, the Azathites, Asdothites, Ascalonites, Gethites, Akaronites, and the Euites. And from the south: all the land of the Cananites, and the caue that is besyde the Sydonians, euen vnto Aphek, and to the border of the Amorites. And the land of the Giblites, & al Libanon, toward the Sunne rysing, frō the plain of Gad, vnder mount Hermon, vntyll a man come to Hemath: all the inhabitours of the hyll countrey, from Libanon vnto the whote waters: and all the Sidonians, wyll I caste oute from before the chyldren of Israell: onely B which reygned in Hesbon, whiche Moses Nu.xxxi. a. smote *with the Lordes of Madian, E-ui, Rekem, Zur, and Hur, and Reba, the which wer dukes in Sehon, dwellyng in the countrey. And Balaam also the sonne of Beor the sothsayer, dyd the chyldren of Israel slay with the swerd, among other of them that wer slain. And the border of the chyldren of Ruben, was Iordan, with the countrey that lieth theron. This was the inheritance of the children of Ruben, after their kinreds, cities and villages, perteynyng therto. And Moses gaue inheritance vnto the tribe of Gad, euẽ vnto the children of Gad, he gaue by their kyn-reds. And their coastes wer Iazer, & all cities of Gilead, & half the land of the children of Ammon, vnto Aroer ỹ lieth before Rabba. And from Hesbon vnto Ramoth, Mazphah, & Betonim: and from Maha-naim vnto ỹ borders of Libir. And in the to the edge of the sea of Ceneroth, on the other side Iordan Eastward. This is the inheritance of the children of Gad, after their kinreds, their cities and villages.

And Moses gaue inheritaunce vnto the half tribe of Manasses. And this was the possession of the halfe tribe of Manasses by their kynreds. Theyr coaste was from Mahanaim, euen all Basan, and al the kyngdome of Og, kyng of Basan, and al the townes of Jair which lye in Basan, euen threscore cities, and half Gilead, As-taroth, and Edrai, cities of the kyngdom of Og in Basan *which pertain vnto the children of Machir the sonne of Manasses, euen the halfe portion of the children of Machir by their kinreds. These are ỹ thinges which Moses did distribute in the

The.xv.Chapter.

The lotte of the children of Juda, and the names of the cities and villages of the same.

A This was the lotte of the tribe of the children of Juda by their kinreds. Namely towarde the border of Edom in the wildernesse of Zin, southwarde, Nu.xxxiiii.a euen from the vtmost parte of the southe coast, * And their southe coast was from the brynke of the salt sea, frō a rocke that leaneth southewarde. And it went oute to the southsyde towarde the goynge vp to Acrabim, and went a long to Zinna, and ascended vp on the southside vnto Cades Barne: and wente along to Hezron, and went vp to Adar, and set a compasse to Karca. From thence went it a long to Azmō, and reached vnto the riuer of Egipt, & the ende of that coast was on the weste side. And this is their south coast.

Their east coast is the salt sea, euen vn- B to the edge of Jordan. And their border in the north quarter was frō the rocke of the sea & from the edge of Jordā. And the same border went vp to Bethhagla, and went along by the northside of Betharabah, & vp from thence to the stone of Bohen the sonne of Ruben. And againe, the same border wēt vp to Dabir frō the valley of Acor, and so northwarde, turning toward Gilgall, yt lieth before the goyng vp to Adonim, which is of the southe syde of the riuer. And the same border went vp to the waters of the fountain of the sūne, 3.Re.i.b.
& ended at the * well of Rogel. And then went vp to the valley of the sōne of Hennon, euen vnto the south side of Jebusi: ye same is Jerusalē. And then wēt vp to the toppe of the hil that lieth before the valley of Hennon westward, & by the edge of the valley of the Giauntes northwarde. And then it cōpasseth frō the toppe of the hill, vnto the fountain of the water of Nephthoah, & goeth out at the cities of mounte Ephron: & draweth to Baala, whiche is C Kiriathiarim, (That is a citie of woodes) and thē it compasseth frō Balah westward vnto mounte Seir, & then goeth a long vnto the side of mounte Jarim, whiche (is Chesalon) on the northside. And cometh downe to Bethsames, & goeth to Thamnah, and goeth out again vnto the side of Akaron northward: And thē draweth to Secron & goeth along to mount Balah, goeth oute at Jabnell: & the endes of the coastes leaue at the west sea. And the west border was the great sea, & the same coast was the coaste of the chyldren of Juda round about in their kynredes. And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune dyd Josua geue a part among the children of Juda, accordyng to the mouth of the Lord: euen
* Kiriath arba of the father of Enocke, Jo.xiiii.d whiche citie is Hebron. And Caleb droue thence the thre sonnes of Enack, Sesai, and Ahiman, and Thalmai, whiche were the sonnes of Enack. And he wente vp thence, to the inhabitours of Dabir. And ye name of Dabir in the old time, was Kiriath sephar: (That is a citie of letters.) And Caleb said: * he that smitteth Kiriath sephar, by their kinreds. And ÿ seperate cities for D the childrē of Ephraim, wer amōg the en= heritaūce of the childrē of Manasses: euē the cities wt their vilages. And they draue not out the Canantes ÿ dwelt in Gasor: but ÿ Cananites dwel amōg ÿ Ephraites vnto this daye, and serue vnder tribute.

The .xvii. Chapter.

The lot or porcion of the half tribe of Manasses. The Cananites become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasses & Ephraim require a greater porcion of heritage.

THis was the lot of the tribe of Ma= A nasses, which was ÿ * eldest sone of Ge. xlvi. c.
Ioseph. And Machir ÿ eldest sonne of Manasses whiche was the father of Gilead

Gilead (and a man of warre) and Gilead and Basan. This was the possession of ẏ rest of the children of Manasses by their kinreds: Namely, of the children of Abie-zer: the children of Heleck: the children of Ariel: the children of Sichem: the childrē of Hepher: ẏ children of Semida: for these were the male children of Manasses, the Nu. xxvi sonne of Joseph, by their kinredes. *But zelaphead the sonne of Hepher, the sonne xxvii. a. & xxxvi. a. of Gilead, ẏ sonne of Machir, ẏ sonne of Manasses, had no sōnes but daughters, B whose names are these: Mahela, Noa, Hagla, Melcha and Thirza, which came before Eleazar the priest, and before Josua the sonne of Nun, & before the lordes, Nu. xxvii saying: *the Lord commaūded Moses to geue vs an enheritaunce among our brexxxvi. a. thren. And therfore according to the commaundement of the Lord, he gaue thē an enheritaunce among the brethren of their father. And there fel ten portions to Ma-nasses, beside the land of Gilead & Basan which is on the other side Jordā, because the daughters of Manasses did enherite among his sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes, had the lande of Gilead. And the coast of Manasses was frō Aser to Mach-mathath that lieth before Sichem, & wēt along on the right hande, euen vnto the enhabiters of Entaphuah: and the lād of Thaphuah, belōged to Manasses: which Thaphuah is beside the border of Ma-nasses, & beside the border of the children of Ephraim. And ẏ coast descended vnto ẏ riuer Canah southward, euen to ẏ riuer of the cities of Ephraim, & betwene the cities of Manasses. The coaste of Manasses went also on ẏ northside to the riuer, & the endes of it go out at the sea: so that the south pertained to Ephraim, and the north to Manasses, & the sea is his border. And thei met together in Aser north-C warde, & in Isacar eastewarde. And Ma-nasses had in Isacar & in Aser, Bethseā, & her townes: Isblean, & her townes: and the enhabitoures of Dor, with ẏ townes pertaynyng to the same: & the enhabitou-res of Endor with the townes of ẏ same: and ẏ enhabitours of Thaanath with her townes: & the enhabitoures of Magedo with ẏ townes of the same, euen thre con-treyes. Yet ẏ children of Manasses coulde not ouercome those cities. But the Cananites presumed to dwel in ẏ same lād. Ne-uerthelesse, assone as ẏ children of Israel wer waxed strong, they put ẏ Cananites vnder tribute, but expelled thē not. And ẏ children of Joseph spak vnto Josua saying: Whi hast thou geuē me but on lot and one portiō to enherite, seing I am a great people, & forasmuch as ẏ lord hath blessed me D hitherto? And Josua answered thē: if thou be much people, thē get the vp to ẏ wood countrey, & prepare for thy selfe there in ẏ land of the Pheresites & of ẏ Giauntes, if mount Ephraim be to narow for the. And the children of Joseph said: The hil is not ynoughe for vs: and all the Cananites ẏ dwel in the low cōtrey haue charrettes of yron, & so haue they that enhabite Beth-sean, and the townes of the same, & they also that dwell in ẏ valey of Jezreell. And Josua saied vnto the house of Joseph, Ephraim & Manasses: ye be muche people, and haue great power, and shal not therfore haue one lotte. Therfore ẏ hil shalbe youres, & ye shall cut down the wood that is in it: & the endes of it shalbe youres, yf ye cast out the Cananites which haue irō charrettes, and are very strong.

The .xviii. Chapter.

Certain are sent to deuide the land to the other seuen tribes. The lot of the children of Ben Jamin.

AND the whole congregatiō of ẏ chil- A drē of Israel came together at Silo, & set vp the tabernacle of witnesse there, & the land was in subiection before them. And there remained amōg the chil-drē of Israel seuen tribes, which had not yet receaued their enheritaunce. And Josua said vnto the children of Israel: howe long are ye so slacke to come, & possesse the land which the lord God of your fathers hath geuen you? Geue oute from among you, for euery tribe thre men, that I may sende them. And that they maye rise, and walke thorow the lande, & distribute it according to the enheritaūce therof, & come B againe to me. And let them deuide it vnto thē into seuē partes. And Juda shal abide in their coast one the south, and the house of Joseph shall stande in their coastes one the north. Describe ye the lande therefore into seuen partes, and bryng the descriptiō hether to me, and I shall cast lottes for Josu. xiiii. b. you here before the Lord our god. *But the Leuites haue no parte among you, & xiiii. a. for the priesthode of the Lord is their en-heritaunce. *And Gad, and Ruben, and Jo. xii. b. halfe ẏ tribe of Manasses, haue receaued their enheritaunce beyonde Jordan east-warde, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lord gaue them. And the men arose, and went their way. And Josua charged thē that went to describe the lande, saying:

 departe,

depart,and go thorow the land, and describe it,and com again to me,that I may here cast lottes for you before the lord in Silo. And yͤ men departed, & walked tho-row yͤ land,and described it by cities into seuen partes in a booke, and returned to Josua into yͤ host at Silo. And Josua cast lottes for thē in Silo before the lord, and there Josua deuided the land vnto yͤ chil-C drē of Israel,to eche their portion. And yͤ lot of yͤ tribe of the childrē of Ben Jamin came vp according to their kinredes. And yͤ coast of their lot came betwene yͤ childrē of Juda, & the childrē of Joseph. And their north coast was from Jordan,and wente vp to the side of Jericho on the northside, & went vp thorow the mountaines westward, & they ended at the wildernesse of Bethauen: & went from thence towarde Lus,euē to the south side of Lus (yͤ same is Bethell)and descended again to Atrothader,vnto the hil yͭ lieth on yͤ southside of the nether Bethhoron. And yͤ coast turneth thence and cōpasseth the corner of yͤ sea southward,euē frō the hill yͭ lieth before Bethhoron southward, & goeth oute at Kiriathbaal which is Kiriath Jarim a citie of yͤ children of Juda:this is the west quarter. And the south coast goeth frō the edge of Kiriath Jarim, & goeth out westward, & thēce it turneth to the water well of Nephthoah, and cōmeth down agayne to the edge of the hill,that lieth before the D valey of the sunne of Hennon,euen in the valey of the Giauntes nothward, & descendeth into yͤ valey of Hēnon beside Je-busy southward, & goeth down to the wel of Rogel, & compasseth from the north, & goeth forth to the well of the sunne, & departeth from thence to the places of Geliloth,which are toward the going vp vnto Adomim, & goeth down to yͤ stone of Bohā the son of Ruben: & then goeth a long toward the side of the plain northwarde: and goeth down into the fieldes: & goeth a lōg to yͤ side of Bethhaglah northward, & endeth at the point of the salt sea, north there frō,euen at the south end of Jordā.
This is yͤ south coast. And Jordā kepeth in this coaste on the eastside, & this is the enheritaūce of the childrē of Beniamin by their coastes roūd about thorowout their kinredes. These wer the cities of yͤ tribes of yͤ childrē of Beniami thorowout their kinredes: Jericho, Bethaglah & the plain of Kaziz, Betharabah, Zamari, & Bethel: Auim, Pharath, & Ophrah: Chepar, Am-mona, Ophny, and Gabai, twelue cities with their villages. Gibeon, Ramath, & Beroth, Mazphah, Caphairah, & Mozah Rekem, Jarephell, and Tharelah, Zela, Eleph, & Jebusi,which is Jerusalem: Gi-beath, and Kiriath: xiiii. cities with their villages. This is the enheritaunce of the childrē of Beniamin thorowout their kynredes.

The.xix. Chapter.

The lottes or partes of Zabulon: Isachar, Aser, Nephtaly, Dan and Josua.

AND the second lotte came out for the A tribe of the children of Simeon by their kinredes. And their enheritaūce was in yͤ middes of the enheritaūce of yͤ children of Juda. And they had in their enheritaūce, Bersabe, Sabe, & Moladah Hazorsuall, Balah, and Azen, Eltholad, Bethul and Hormah, Zikelag, Bethmarcaboth and Hazersusah, Bethlebaoth, & Saruhen, xiii. cities with their vilages.
Aim, Remon, Ether, & Asan, foure cities with their villages: and therto al yͤ villages that were rounde about these cities, euen vnto Balasath, Beor and Ramath, southward. This is yͤ enheritaunce of the tribe of the children of Simeō thorowout their kinredes. Out of the lotte of the children of Juda, came yͤ enheritaunce of the children of Simeō. For yͤ part of the children of Juda was to much for them: and therfore the children of Simeō had their enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of thē.
And the third lot arose for the children of Zabulon thorowout their kynredes. And the coastes of their enheritaunce came to Sarid, and went vp westwarde, and to B Marialath, and reached to Dabaseth, & came thence to the riuer that lieth before Jokneuen: and turned from Sarid eastward toward yͤ sunne rising, vnto yͤ border of Chisloth Thabor: & then goeth out to Dabereth, & goeth vp to Japhia: & frō thence goeth a long eastward, to Gethah.
Jepher, Ithah and Jazin, & goeth to Re-mon, Methoar, & Neoh. And cōpasseth it on yͤ northside to Nathan, and endeth in the valeye of Jephthahell. And Jatath, Nahalol Semron, Jedalah, & Bethlehē: twelue cities wͭ their villages. This is the enheritaūce of the children of Zabulō thorowout their kynredes, & these are the cities with their villages. And the fourth lot came out for yͤ children of Isachar by their kynredes. And their coast was Jesraelah, Casuloth, & Sunem, Hapharaim, Sion, & Anaharath, Harabith, Kisiō, and Abez, Rameth, Enganim, Enhadah, and Bethphazez.

Bethphazez. And his coaste reacheth to Thabor, & Sahazimah, and Bethsames, & endeth at Jordan: Syxtene cities with their villages. This is the enheritaũce of the tribe of ẏ children of Isachar by their kinredes. And these are the cities with their vilages. And ẏ fyft lot came out for the tribe of ẏ childrẽ of Aser by their kin-redes. And their coast was, Helkath, Hali Beten and Achsap, Alamelech, Amaad & Miseal: and came to Carmel westward, & to Sihor Labanath, and turned toward the sunne rising to Bethdagon, & cõmeth to Zabulon, & to the valeye of Jepthahel, C towarde the northside of Bethemeke and Negel, & goeth out on ẏ left side of Cabul & to Hebron, Rohob, Hamon, & Kanah, euen vnto great Sidon. And then ẏ coast turneth to Ramah, & to the strong citie of Zor, & turneth to Hozah, & endeth at the sea, by the possessiõ of Achzibah: Amah also, & Aphek, & Rohob, twentye and two cities with their vilages. This is the enhe-ritaunce of the childrẽ of Aser by their kin-redes: These are the cities with their villages. And the. vi. lot came oute for ẏ children of Neptaly by their kinredes. And their coast was frõ Heleph, & frõ Elom, to Zaananim, Adami, Nekeb and Jabneell, euen to Lakum, & doth goe out at Jordã.
And thẽ the coaste turneth westwarde to Asanoth Thabor, & then goeth out from thence to Hukokah, & reacheth to Zabulõ on the south side, and goeth to Aser on the westside, & to Juda vpon Jordan toward the sunne risyng. And their strong cities are Zidim, Zer, Hamath. Racah and Cenereth, Adamah, Hermah & Hazor, Kedes, Edrai, & Enhazor, Jeron, Magdelel, Ho-ren, Bethanah and Bethsames: nyntene cities with their villages. This is the en-heritaunce of the tribe of the children of Nephthali by their kynredes: these also are the cities & their villages. And the seuenth lot came out for the tribe of the chil-D dren of Dan by their kinredes. And the coaste of their enheritaunce was, Zaraah Esthaol, * Irsames, Saelabin, Aialon, Jethlah, Eglõ and Thennathah, & Aka-rõ, Eltheketh, Gibethõ & Baalath: Jehud Benebarak & Gathermon, Meiericõ and Arcon, with the border that lieth before Japho. And the coastes of the children of Dan went out from them. And ẏ children of Dan went vp to fight against Lesen, & toke it, & smote it with ẏ edge of ẏ sweard, and conquered it, & dwelt therin, & called it * Dan, after the name of Dan their father. This is the enheritaũce of the tribe of the children of Dan in their kynredes: these are also ẏ cities with their villages.

When they had made an ende of deuiding the lande by her coastes, the children of A Israel gaue an enheritaunce vnto Josua the sonne of Nun among them, according to the worde of the lord: they gaue him the citie whiche he asked, euen * Thamnath Jo. xxiiii. e serah in mounte Ephraim. And he built ẏ citie, & dwelt therin. * These are the en- Numeri xxxiiii. d. heritaunce which Eleazar the priest, and Josua ẏ sonne of Nun, and ẏ auncient fathers of the tribes of the childrẽ of Israel deuided by lot in Siloh before the lord, in the dore of ẏ Tabernacle of witnesse, & so they made an end of deuiding ẏ contrey.

The. xx. Chapter.

The cities of refuge or Sanctuaries.

The lord also spake vnto Josua sayīg A speake to the children of Israell, and say: * Appointe out from amõg you cities of refuge, wherof I spake vnto you Numeri by the hand of Moses, ẏ the slear that kil- xxxv. b. leth any person vnwares & vnwittingly, De. xix b maye flee thither. And those cities shalbe your refuge frõ the auẽger of bloud. And he that doeth flee vnto one of those cities, shal stand at the entring of the gate of the citie, & shall shew his cause in the eares of the elders of ẏ citie. And they shal take him B into ẏ citie vnto them, & geue him a place, that he may dwell among thẽ. And yf the auenger of bloud folowe after him, they shall not deliuer the slear into his hande, because he smot his frende ignorauntly, & hated him not before time. And he shall dwel in ẏ saied citie, vntil he stand before the congregatiõ in iudgemẽt, * & vntill ẏ Nu. xxxv c. death of the hye priest that shalbe in those dayes: for thẽ shal the slear retourne, and come vnto his own citie, & vnto his owne house, & vnto the citie frõ whence he fled.
And they sainctified Kedes in Galile, in mount Nephtali, & Sichem in mount Ephraim, & Kiriath Arba (which is Hebrõ) C in ẏ mountaine of Juda. And on ẏ other side Jordan ouer againste Jericho eastward, they appointed Bozor in ẏ wildernesse vpõ the plain, out of the tribe of Ruben: & Ramoth in Gilead, out of ẏ tribe of Gad: & Golan in Basã, out of the tribe of D Manasses. These were the cities appointed for al ẏ childrẽ of Israel, & for ẏ straũ-ger that soiourned among thẽ: that whosoeuer killed any person ignorantlye, the same might flee thether, & should not dye by the hand of ẏ auenger of bloud, vntill he he stode before the cõgregation (to declare his cause.)

The.xxi. Chapter.

The cities geuen to the Leuites in nombre. xlviii.

A And thẽ came the principall fathers of ẏ Leuites vnto Eleazar ẏ priest and vnto Josua ẏ sonne of Nun, & vnto the auncient fathers that were ouer the tribes of the childrẽ of Israell, & spake vnto them at Silo in the land of Canaã, Nume. xxxv. a. saying: ye Lord commaunded by Mo-Jos. xx. a ses, to geue vs cities to dwell in, with the Suburbes thereof, for our catel. And the children of Israell gaue vnto the Leui-tes, out of their enheritaunce at the byddyng of the Lorde, these cities folowyng with their Suburbes.
And the lot came out for the kinred of the Cahathites: and the children of Aarõ the priest, which wer of the Leuites, had geuẽ them by lot, oute of the tribe of Juda, out of the tribe of Simeon, & out of the tribe of Beniamin: thirtene cities. And the rest of the childrẽ of Cahath had by lot, out of the kynredes of the tribe of Ephraim, out of the tribe of Dan, & out of ẏ halfe tribe of Manasses: ten cities. And ẏ children of Gerson had by lot out of the kynredes of the tribe of Isachar, & out of the tribe of Aser, out of the tribe of Nephthali, & out of ẏ other half tribe of Manasses in Ba-san: thirtene cities. And the children of Merary by their kynredes had out of the tribe of Ruben and out of ẏ tribe of Gad, & out of ẏ tribe of Zabulon, twelue cities.
And the children of Israell gaue by lotte vnto the Leuites, these cities with their B Suburbes, as the lorde commaunded by Moses. And they gaue out of the tribe of the children of Juda, & out of the tribe of ẏ childrẽ of Simeon, these cities by name which the children of Aaron beyng of ẏ kinredes of the Cahathites, & of the children of Leui, obteined: for theirs was the first lotte, And they gaue them Kariath Arbe of ẏ father of Enack (whiche is Hebron) in the hill contrey of Juda, with the Suburbes of the same rounde about it.
But the land that perteined to the citie, Jo. xiiii d & the vilages therof, gaue they to *Caleb the sonne of Jephune, to be his possessiõ.
And thus they gaue to ẏ childrẽ of Aarõ the priest, a citie, to the whiche the slayer might flee: euen Hebron with her Suburbes: Libna with her Suburbes: and Jathir with her Suburbes: & Estimoa with her Suburbes: Holon wt her Sur-urbes: Dabir with her Suburbes: Ain with her Suburbes: Jutah wt her Suburbes: Bethsames with her Suburbes:
ix. cities out of those two tribes. And oute of the tribe of Beniamin, they gaue Gibeõ with her Suburbes: Gaba with her Suburbes: Anatoth with her Subur-bes: Almon with her Suburbes: foure cities. All these cities of the children of Aaron priests, wer thirtene cities with their Suburbes. And the kinredes of the children of Cahath that wer Leuites: that is to say, the other childrẽ of Cahath, had cities geuen for their lot, out of the tribe of Ephraim. For they gaue them the citie ẏ the slear mighte flee vnto: Sichem wyth her Suburbes, in mounte Ephraim: and Gazer with her Suburbes: & Kabzaym with her Suburbes: and Bethoron with her Suburbes: foure cities.
And oute of the tribe of Dan: Eltheke with her Suburbes: Gibthon with her Suburbes: and Aialon with her Sub- C urbes: Gathremon with her Suburbes: foure cities.
And out of the halfe tribe of Manasses, Thanach with her Suburbes: & Gathre-mon with her Suburbes: two cities. All ẏ cities for the other kinredes of the childrẽ of Cahath wer ten with their Suburbes.
And vnto the children of Gerson whiche were of the kinredes of the Leuites, they gaue out of the other halfe tribe of Ma-nasses, ẏ citie of refuge for the slear: Golã in Basan with her Suburbes: and Besherah with her Suburbes: two cities.
And out of the tribe of Isachar, Kision wt her Suburbes: and Daberah with her Suburbes: & Jarmuth wt her Subur-bes: Enganim with her Suburbes: iiii. cities. And out of ẏ tribe of Aser, Misael wt her Suburbes: Abdon with her Subur-bes: Halakath with her Suburbes: & Rohob with her Suburbes. iiii. cities. And out of the tribe of Nepthali, the citie for ẏ slear to flee vnto, Kedes in Galile wt here Suburbes: & Hamothdor with her Suburbes: and Cartha with her Suburbes: thre cities. All the cities of the Gersonites thorowout their kynredes, were thirtene cities with their Suburbes.
And vnto ẏ other kinredes of the childrẽ of Merari, the rest of ẏ leuites, they gaue out of the tribe of Zabulon: Jecnam with D her Suburbes: & Carthah wt her Suburbes: Damna with her Suburbes, and Nahalal wt her Suburbes: foure cities.
And out of ẏ tribe of Ruben, Bozor with her Suburbes: and Jahelah with her Suburbes:

Suburbes: Kedmoth with her Subur-bes: & Maphaath with her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of þ tribe of Gad, they gaue þ citie for the slear to flee vnto: Ra-moth in Gilead with her Suburbes: and Mahanaim with her Suburbes: Hesbon with her Suburbes: and Iaser with her Suburbes.iiii.cities in all: so that all the cities of the childrē of Merari thorowout their kynredes (which wer the rest of the kinredes of the Leuites) wer by their lot, twelue cities. And al the cities that þ Le-D uites had among the possession of the chil-drē of Israel, wer.xlviii. w their Subur-bes. And these cities lay euery on seueral-ly, hauing their Suburbes rounde about them thorowout al the said cities. And the Lord gaue vnto Israel al the land which Ge.xvii.a * he sware to geue vnto their fathers.
And they conquered it, and dwelt therin.
And the lord gaue thē reste round aboute, according to all that he sware vnto their fathers: & there stode not a man of al their enemies before thē. The lord also deliue-red all their enemies into their handes.
Jo.xxiii.b * There scaped nothing of all the good thinges, which the lord had saide vnto the house of Israel. But all came to passe.

The.xxii.Chapter.

Ruben, Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasses, are sent againe to their possessions. They builde an altare for a memoriall.

A Then Josua called vnto the Rubenites, the Gaddites, and to þ Nu.xxxii.f halfe tribe of Manasses, & sayd vnto them: * ye haue kept all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde cō-maunded you, and haue obeyed my voyce in all that I commaunded you: ye haue not lefte youre brethren of a long season vnto this day, but haue kept the commaūdement of the Lord your god. And nowe that the Lord hath geuen rest vnto your brethren as he promised them, therfore returne ye & goe vnto your tentes, and vnto the land of your possession, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lord gaue you on the other side Jordan. But in any wise take diligent hede, and do the commaundemēt Deu.x.c. and law, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde charged you: * that ye loue þ lorde your god, and walke in all his wayes, and kepe hys commaundementes, and cleaue vnto hym, & serue him with all your heartes and al your soules. And so Josua bles-B sed them and sent them awaye. And they went vnto their tentes. Unto the on half of the tribe of Manasses, Moses gaue possession in Basā: and vnto þ other halfe thereof gaue Josua among their brethren on this side Jordā westward. And Josua sent them away also vnto their tētes, and blessed them, and saide vnto thē: retourne with muche riches vnto your tentes, and with a great multitude of cattell, with siluer & gold, with brasse, & iron, & with much De.xx.c. raiment, & * deuide the spoile of your ene- Numeri. mies with your brethrē. And the childrē of xxxi.d.
Ruben, þ childrē of Gad, & halfe þ tribe of Jo.viii.f Manasses, returned, & departed from the 1 Re.xxx. children of Israel out of Silo (which is in f. the land of Canaan) to goe vnto the con-trey of Gilead to the lande of their possession, which they had obteined, according to the worde of the Lorde by the hand of Moses. And when they came vnto the place of Geliloth beside Jordan (that is in the lande of Canaan) there the children of Ruben, the children of Gad, & the halfe tribe of Manasses, built an altare fast by Jordan, and that a great altare to see to.
Which when the children of Israel heard of, they said: behold, the children of Rubē, C the children of Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasses, haue builte an altare in the forefronte of the lande of Canaan, euen in Geliloth beside Jordan on the syde of the children of Israel. And when the children of Israell heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israell gathered them together to Silo, to make battell againste them. And the children of Israel sent vnto the children of Ruben, & to the children of Gad, and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into þ land of Gilead, Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar þ Priest, and with him ten Lordes, of euery chiefe house a lorde, thorowoute all the tribes of Israell, whiche were heades of their fathers housholdes among the thousandes of Israel. And they went vnto the childrē D of Ruben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of the halfe tribe of Ma-nasses, vnto the land of Gilead, and they spake with them, saying: Thus saye the whole congregation of the Lorde * what Jud.xx.b transgression is this that ye haue transgressed against þ god of Israell, to turne away this day from the Lorde, in that ye haue builded you an altare for to rebell this day against the lorde: Is the * wicked Nu.xxv.a dede of Peor to littell for vs, whereof we are not yet clensed vnto this daye, and for the which there was in the congregation of the people a plage of the Lord: ye also are turned awaye this day from the lord,

And seyng ye rebell to daye againste the Lorde, it will come to passe, that to morowe he shalbe wroth with al the congregation of Israel. Notwithstanding yf ye thinke, that the land of your possession is vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lande of the possession of ye lord, wherin the lordes tabernacle dwelleth, & take possession among vs. But transgresse not againste the lorde, nor prouoke vs to build you any other aulter, saue the aulter of the Lorde

Jo.vii.a. our god. * Did not Acan the sonne of zareth trespasse in the excommunicate thing and wrath fel on all the congregation of Israell, whiche notwithstanding that he was but one man, yet he alone perished not for his wickednesse. Then the childrē

E of Rubē, and the children of Gad, & halfe the tribe of Manasses answered, and said vnto the heades ouer the thousandes of Israel: The God of goddes, the lord God of goddes, euen the lord he knoweth, and also shall Israell know. Yf it be to rebell, or to transgresse against the Lorde, then thou Lord saue vs not this daye. Or els yf we haue built vs an aulter to turne frō folowing ye lorde, or to offer theron burnt offring or meatoffering, or to offer peaceofferinges theron: let the lorde require it, (and Judge.) And yf we haue not rather done it of a carefulnesse and of a sure occasion, saying: In time to come your children might say vnto oures: what haue ye to do with the lord god of Israel? the lord hath made Jordan a border betwene vs and you) ye children of Rubē and of Gad) ye haue no part therfore in the lorde: and so shal your children make oure children ceasse from fearing the Lorde.

F Therfore we (toke better aduisemente &) said We wil make vs an aulter, not for burnt offering, nor for sacrifice, but for a * witnesse betwene vs, and you, & our generations after vs, that we shoulde serue the Lord, with our offeringes, sacrifices and peaceofferinges before him: & that youre children should not say to ours in time to come: ye haue no part in the Lorde.

Gene. xxxi.g. Jo.xxiiii f.

Therefore said we, that if they shoulde so say to vs or to our generations in time to come, that we would say again: Beholde the fashion of the aulter of the lord, which our fathers made, neither for burnt offeringes, nor sacrifices, but for a witnesse betwene vs and you: god forbid, that we should rebel against the lorde, and turne this daye from after him, and builde any other aulter for burnt offeringes, oblations, or sacrifices, saue the aulter of the Lorde oure god, that is before his tabernacle. And when Phinehes the priest, and the lordes of the congregation, and heades ouer the thousandes of Israel whiche wer with him, hearde these wordes that the children of Ruben, and the children of Gad, and the childrē of Manasses spake, they wer wel content. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the priest, saied vnto the children of Ruben, and to the children of Gad, and to the childrē of Manasses: this daye we perceiue, that the Lord is amōg G vs, because ye haue not don this trespasse against the Lord: Now ye haue rydde the children of Israel out of the hande of the Lord. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the priest with the lordes, retourned from the children of Ruben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead vnto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them this worde again. And the saying pleased the children of Israell, and they blessed god, & did not intende to go against them in battell, and to destroie the land which the children of Ruben and Gad dwelt in. And the chyldren of Ruben, and the children of Gad, called the aulter: Our witnesse, that the Lord is God.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Josua exhorteth the people, that they ioyne not themselues to the Gentiles.

And it came to passe, a long season after that the lord had geuen reste A vnto Israel from al their enemies round about, that Josua waxed olde, and was stricken in age. And Josua called for all Israell, and for their elders, their heades, their iudges and officers, and sayde vnto them: I am olde and striken in age. And ye haue sene all that the Lorde your god hath done vnto all these nations before you, howe the Lorde your God hath foughte for you. Behold, I haue subdued vnto you these nations that remaine, to be an enheritaunce for your tribes: euen from Jordan, and (from the lande) of all the nations that I haue destroied, euen vnto the greate sea westwarde. (And there remayne yet many nations.) And the Lorde your God shall expel them before you, and cast them from out of your sighte, and ye shall conquere their lande, as the Lorde youre God hath said vnto you.

B Goe to therefore * as stronglye as ye maye, that ye take hede and do all that is De.xxxi b.

written in the boke of the law of Moses, * that ye bow not asyde therfrom, to the De.xii. b right hande or to the left: & lest that when xxviii b ye come among these nations, (euen a-P.iiii.d mōg these that are left with you) ye make mention or sweare by the names of their goddes: and that ye neither serue thē nor bow your selues vnto them. But that ye sticke fast vnto the Lorde your god, as ye haue done vnto this day. So shal the lord cast out before you great natiōs & mighty as no man hath bene able to stand before you hitherto. * One mā of you shall chase Deutro. a thousāde: for ŷ lord your god, he fighteth xxii. b. for you, as he hath promised you. Take C good heede therfore vnto your selues, that ye loue the Lorde your God. Els if ye goe backe & cleaue vnto the reste of these nations that remaine with you, & shal make mariages with them, & goe in vnto them, and they to you: be ye sure, that the Lorde your god wil nomore cast out al these na-Numeri tions from before you. * But they shalbe xxiii. g. snares & trappes vnto you, & scourges in your sides, & thornes in your eyes, vntill ye perish from of this good lande, whiche the Lord your God hath geuen you. And beholde, this day do I entre into the way of all the world, & ye know in al your her-D tes and in all your soules, that * nothing Jo.xxi. d hath failed of al the good thinges whiche the Lord your god promised you: But all are come to passe and nothing hath failed therof. Therfore as all good thinges are come vpō you, which the Lorde your god promised you, so shal the Lord bring vpon you all euill, vntill he haue destroied you from this good land, which the lord your god hath geuen you, when ye haue transgressed the appointment of the lorde your god, whiche he commaunded you: & haue gone & serued straunge gods, and bowed your selues to them. Then shal the wrath of the lord ware whote vpō you, & ye shall perishe quickelye from of the good lande, which he hath geuen you.

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

Josua exhorteth the people to the keping of the lawe. He dieth. The bones of Joseph are buried. Eleazar dyeth.

A And Josua gathered al the tribes of Israell to Sichem, and called for the elders of Israel, & for their heades, iudges and officers, and they presented themselues before god. And Josua saied vnto al the people: thus saith ŷ lord god of Ge.xi. d Israel: * your fathers dwelt on the other side of the floude in olde time: euen Thareth the father of Abraham & of Nachor, and serued straunge godds. And I tooke your father Abraham from the other side of the floude, & broughte him thorowoute all the lande of Canaan, and multiplied his sede, and * gaue him Isahac.
And I gaue vnto Isahac, Jacob and Ge.xxi.a mat.i.a.
Esau. * And I gaue vnto Esau mounte Seir, to possesse it. But Jacob and his Ge.xxxvi a. children wente downe into Egipte.
I sente Moses also and Aaron. And I
* plaged Egipt: and when I had so done Exo.vii. viii.ix.x. among them, I brought you oute, and I and.xiiii. broughte youre fathers oute of Egipte.
And as they came vnto the sea, the Egiptians folowed after youre fathers with charrettes and horsemen vnto the read B sea. * And when they cried vnto the lord, Ex.xiiii c the Lord put darknesse betwene you and the Egiptians, & brought the sea vpō thē, & couered them. And your eyes haue sene what I haue done to the Egiptians. And ye dwelte in ŷ wildernesse a long season.
And * I brought you into the lande of the Nu.xi.c.
Amorites, which dwelte on the other side Jordan. And they foughte with you: and I gaue them into youre hande, that ye mighte conquere their countreye. And I destroied them from out of youre sighte. Nu.xxii a * Then Balac the sonne of Zipphor, kyng & .xxiii. of Moab arose, and warred against Is- a. raell, and sente and called Balaam the sonne of Beor for to curse you. But I woulde not herken vnto Balaam, and therefore he rather blessed you: And so I deliuered you oute of his hande. And ye went ouer Jordan, and came vnto Jericho, & the men of Jericho fought against you: ŷ Amorites, Pheresites, Cananites, Hethites, Girgesites, Heuites, and Jebusites, and I deliuered them into your hande. And I sente * hornettes berfore C you, which caste them out of your syghte: De.vii.f euen the two kinges of the Amorites: but not with your owne sweard, or with your own bowe. And I haue geuen you a land in which ye did no labour, & cities whiche ye builte not, and which ye dwel in: vine-yardes also & oliue trees whiche ye planted not, & whereof ye doe eate.
* Nowe therefore feare the Lorde, and De.xii a serue him in perfectnesse and truthe: And Co.xiiii put awaye the goddes, whiche youre fathers serued on the other side of the floud and in Egipte, and serue ye the lord. And if it seme euil vnto you to serue the Lord, then chose you this daye whome ye will serue, whether the Gods whiche your fathers serued (that were on the other side D of the floude) ether the goddes of ẏ Amorites, in whose lande ye dwell. As for me and my house, we will serue the Lorde.

The people aunswered and said: god forbid, that we should forsake the lorde, and serue straunge gods. For the Lorde oure God, he it is that brought vs and our fathers out of the lande of Egipt, and from the house of bondage, and which did those greate miracles in our sight, & preserued vs in al the waye that we went, & among al the nations whiche we came thorowe.
And the lord did cast out before vs all the nations, speciallye the Amorites whiche dwelte in the lande. And therfore will we also serue the Lorde, for he is oure God.
E And Josua saied vnto the people. Ye can not serue the Lord: for he is an holy god, and a gelous god, and cannot beare your iniquitie and sinne. Yf ye forsake the lord.
Jos.xxiiii. and serue straunge gods, * he will turne
b. and doe you euill, and consume you, after that he hath done you good. And the people saied vnto Josua: nay, but we will serue the Lorde.
And Josua saied vnto the people: ye are witnesses your selues, that ye haue chose you the Lord, to serue him: and they said: we are witnesses. Then put awaye (sayed he) the straunge gods whiche are among F you, and bowe your heartes vnto the lord God of Israel. The people said vnto Josua: the Lord our god will we serue, and his voyce will we obeye. And so Josua 4.re.xxiii * made a couenaunte with the people the
g. same day, and set an ordinaunce and law before thē in Sichem. And Josua wrote these wordes in the boke of ẏ law of god: 1 Re.viii d and * toke a great stone, and pitched it on ende in the said place, euen vnder an oke that was in the sanctuarye of the Lorde.
And Josua said vnto al ẏ people: beholde, Ge.xxxi. * this stone shalbe a witnesse vnto vs, for
g. it hath heard all the wordes of the Lorde Jo.xxii.f which he spake with vs. It shall be therfore a witnesse vnto you, leste ye deny (and dissemble with) your God. And so Josua let the people departe, euery man vnto his enheritaunce. And after these thinges it G came to passe, ẏ Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruaūt of the lord died, being an hūdreth and ten yeres olde. And they buried Jo.xix.b. him in the countrey of his * enheritaunce euen in Thamnath Sareth, which is in mount Ephraim, on the northsyde of the hil of Gaas. And Israel serued the Lorde * al the dayes of Josua, and all the daies of the elders that ouerliued Josua, and whiche had knowen al the workes of the lord that he had done for Israel. And the * bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought out of Egipt, buried they in Sichem * in a parcel of ground whiche Jacob bought of the sonnes of Hemor ẏ father of Sichem, for an hundreth peces of siluer, and it became the enheritaunce of the children of Joseph. And Eleazar ẏ sonne of Aaron died, whom they buried in a hill that perteined to Phinehes hys sonne, whiche (hill) was geuen hym in mounte Ephrahim.

¶ The booke of Judges, called in Latin Judicum.

The first Chapter.

After Josua was dead Juda was constitute Lorde ouer the armie.

After the deathe of Josua it A came to passe, that the childrē of Israel asked the lord saying who shal go vp for vs against ẏ Cananites, & who shall first fight against them. And the Lorde sayde: Juda shal go vp: * & behold, I haue deli- Ju.xx. a. uered the land into his handes. And Juda saied vnto Simeon his brother: come vp with me in my lot, that we may fighte against ẏ Cananites: And I likewise wil goe with thee into thy lotte. And so Simeon wente with him. And Juda wente vp, and the Lorde deliuered the Canani-tes and Pheresites into their handes.
And thei slew of them in Bezek, ten thousand men. And they found Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought against him, and slewe the Cananites and Pheresites.
But Adonibezek fled, and they folo-wed

wed after him, and caught him, and cut of his thombes and his greate toes. And Adonibezek said: thre score & ten kinges hauing their thombes & great toes cut of, gathered their meat vnder my table:* as Leui, I haue done, so god hath done to me a-xxiiii,c, gain, And thei brought him to Jerusalē, & Jo,xv,a, there he died. The childrē of Juda fought Jo,xv,c, against Jerusalē, & toke it * & smot it with De.xx.c. the edge of the sweard, and set the citie on fire. Afterward the children of Juda wēt to fighte againste the Cananites, that dwelte in the mountayne, and toward the south, & in the low contrey. And Juda wēt against the Cananites that dwelt in Hebron, whiche before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slew Sesai, Ahiman and Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in olde time was called Kariath Sepher, C (that is, a citie of letters.) And Caleb said: *he Jos.xv.c. that smiteth Kariath Sepher, & taketh it, to him will I geue Acsah my daughter to wife. And Othoniel the sonne of Kenez, Calebs yonger brother toke it: to whom he gaue Acsah his daughter to wife, and as they went, she counselled him to aske of her father a felde. And then she lighted of her asse, & Calleb saied vnto her: What aileth thee? She answered vnto him: ge-ue me a blessyng: for thou hast geuen me a Southwarde (or drie) land: geue me also springes of water. And Caleb gaue her springes both aboue & beneath. And the childrē of ÿ Kenite, Moses father in law, Jo,iiii,a went vp * out of the citie of *palme trees Deutro, with the childrē of Juda into the wilder-xxxiiii,a, nesse of Juda, that lieth in the South of Arad, & they went and dwelt among the people. And Juda went with Simeō hys brother, and they slewe the Cananites D that enhabited Zephath, and vtterlye de-Nu.xxi a stroied it, * and called the name of the ci-tie, Horma. And at ÿ last, Juda toke Azah with the coastes thereof, & Askalon with the coastes thereof, and Akaron with the coastes therof. And ÿ lord was with Juda, and he conquered the moūtaines, but could not dryue out the enhabiters of the Jo,xiiii b valeyes, because they had charrettes of yron. And they gaue * Hebron vnto Ca-Nu.xiii c leb: as Moses saied: And he expelled thēce the thre sonnes of Enak. *
Jos,xv,g *And the children of Beniamin dyd not E cast out ÿ Jebusites, that enhabited Jerusalem, but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Beniamin in Jerusalem vn-Jo,xv,a, to this day. * And in like maner thei that were of the house of Joseph, wente vp to Bethel, and the lord was with them, and the house of Joseph serched out Bethell, whiche before time was called Lus. And the spyes saw a man come out of the citie, and they said vnto him: shew vs the way Josu.ii,c into the citie, * & we will shew the mercy.
And when he had shewed them the way into the citie, they smote it with the edge of the sweard, but lette the man and all hys houshold goe free. And the man went into the land of the Hethites, and built a ci-tie, and called ÿ name therof Lus: whiche is the name thereof vnto this daye. F *Neither did Manasses expel Bethseam Jo,xvii c with her townes, Thaanach with her townes, the enhabitours of Dor with her townes, ÿ enhabitours of Jeblaam with her townes, neyther the enhabitours of Mageddo with her townes, but the Cananites were bolde to dwell in the lande.
But it came to passe, that as sone as Israel was waxed mighty, they put the Ca-nanites to tribute, and expelled them not.
*In lyke maner Ephraim expelled not Jo,xviii the Cananites that dwelte in Gazer, but the Cananites dwelte stil in Gazer amōg them. Neither did Zabulon expell the enhabitours of Ketron, neither the enhabi-toures of Nahalol: But the Cananites dwelt among them, and became tributaries. Neither did Aser caste out the enhabitours of Acho, neither ÿ enhabitoures of Zidon, and of Ahalab, Aczib, and Helbath, Aphek, nor of Rohob: but ÿ Aserites dwelte among the Cananites the enhabitours of the lande, for they mighte not dryue them oute.
Neither did Nephtalim dryue out the en- G habitours of Bethsames, nor the enhabi-tours of Bethanath, but dwelt amongest the Cananites the enhabitoures of the lande. Neuerthelesse, the enhabitours of Bethsames and of Bethanath became tributaries vnto them.
And the Amorites troubled the children of Dan in the mountayne, and suffered them not to come downe to the valey.
And the Amorites were contente to dwel in mounte Heres (which is by interpretation, a witnessyng) in Hailon and in Salabim.
And the hand of Joseph preuailed, so that they became tributaries: and the coaste of the Amorites was from the goyng vp to Acrabim, and from the rocke vpwarde.

The. ii. Chapter.

The

The Angell rebuketh the people, because they had made peace with ẏ Cananites. Idolaters are punished.

A AND the Angel of the Lorde came vp from Gilgall to Bochim, and said: I made you to come out of Egipt, and haue brought you vnto the lande whiche De.vii.a I sware vnto your fathers. *And I said: &.xii.a. I will not breake mine appointment that I made with you. And ye also shall make no couenaunte with the enhabitatoures of this land, but shall breake downe their aultars: Neuerthelesse, ye haue not herk-ned vnto mi voice: whi haue ye this done?
Wherefore I haue likewise determined, that I will not caste them out before you: but they shalbe thornes vnto you, and their godds shalbe a snare vnto you. And when the angell of the Lorde spake these wordes vnto all the childrē of Israell, the people cried out and wept, and called the name of the said place, *Bochim: and of-A place of suche as wepe. fered sacrifices vnto the Lorde.
And when Josua had sente the people awaye, the children of Israel wente euerye man into his enheritaunce to possesse the Jos.xxiiii g. lande. *And the people serued the Lorde al the daies of Josua, and all the daies of the elders that outliued Josua, & had sene all the great workes of ẏ lord that he dyd Jo.xxiiii. g. for Israel: and Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruaunt of the lorde *died, when he was an hundred and .x. yeres olde: whom they buried in the coastes of hys enheritaunce, euen in Thānath Hares in moūte Ephraim one ẏ northside of the hil Gaas.
And euen so all that generation were put vnto their fathers, and there arose another generation after them which neither knewe the Lorde, nor yet the workes Ju.iiii.a. whiche he had done for Israell. And then the children of Israell *did wickedlye in the sight of the lorde, and serued Baalim, and forsoke the lord God of their fathers, whiche brought them out of the lande of Egipt, and folowed straung Gods, euen of the Goddes of the nations that were round about them, and bowed themselfes vnto them, and angred the Lorde. They C forsoke the Lorde, and serued Baall and Astharoth: and the wrath of the lord waxed hote againste Israel, and he deliuered thē into the handes of raueners, ẏ spoiled them, and solde them into the handes of their enemies rounde about them, so that they had no power any longer to stande before their enemies. But whethersoeuer they went out, the hand of the Lord was against them with euill lucke, euen as the Lorde promised them, and as he sware vnto them. And he punished them sore.
Neuerthelesse the Lorde raised vp Judges, whiche deliuered them out of the hādes of their oppressers, and yet for al that they woulde not herken vnto their Judges: But rather went a whoring after straunge goddes, and bowed themselues vnto them, and turned quickely out of the way which their fathers walked in, obey-ing the commaundementes of the Lord:
But they did not so.
And when the Lorde raised them vp Judges, he was with the Judge, and de-liuered them oute of the handes of their enemies all the dayes of the iudge: *for the Lorde had compassion ouer their sorowinges, which they had, by the reason of them that oppressed them and vexed thē: yet for all that, *as sone as the iudge was dead, thei turned and did wurse than D their fathers, in folowing straūge godds, and in seruing them, and ceased not from their owne inuentions, nor from their malicious waye. And the wrath of the lorde was moued against Israell, and he said: because this people hath transgressed mine appointmente which I cōmaunded their fathers, & haue not herkened vnto my voice, I will hence forth not caste out before them one mā of the nations, which Josua lefte when he died: that throughe them I maye *proue Israell, whether they will kepe the waye of the Lorde, and walke therin, as their fathers did or not.
And so the Lorde left those nations, and droue them not out immediatly, neyther deliuered them into the hand of Josua.

The .iii. Chapter.

Othoniel delivereth Israel. Ahud killeth king Eglon.
Samgar kylleth the Philistines.

THese are the natiōs whiche A the lorde left, that he might proue Israel by them: euen as many of Israell as had not knowen al the warres of Canaan: Onely for the learning of the generation of the children of Israell: that he also myghte teache them warre, in asmuch as they that were before them, knewe nothyng therof. Of those whom he left there wer fiue lordes of the Philistines, and al the Cananites, and the Sidonites, and the Heuites that dwelte in mounte Libanon: euen from mount Baal Hermon, vnto Hemath.
Those remained to proue Israell by, & to wete, whether they would herken vnto ẏ com-commaundementes of the Lorde, whiche he commaunded their fathers by ŷ hande of Moses.

And the children of Israel dwelt amōg the Cananites, Hethites, Amorites, Pheresites, Heuites, and Jebusites. * & tooke the daughters of them to be their wyues, and gaue their owne daughters to their sonnes, & serued their goddes. And ŷ children of Israel dyd wyckedlye in the sight of the lord, and forgat the lorde their god, and serued Baalam & Iseroth. Therfore
B the lord was angry with Israell, and delivered them into the handes of Chusan Risathaim kyng of Mesopotamia: and ŷ children of Israell serued Chusan Risathaim. viii. yeres. And when the children of Israell cried vnto the Lorde, the lorde stired vp a sauer, to the children of Israell and saued them: one Othoniell the sonne of Kenes, Calebs yonger brother. And ŷ spirite of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he iudged Israel, and went out to warre. And the lord deliuered Chusā Risathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand, and his hande preuailed against Chusan Risathaim. And the lande had * reste fortye yeres, and Othoniel the sonne of Kenes died. And the children of Israell went to againe, and committed wickednes in the sight of the lord, And the lorde strengthed Eglon the king of the Moabites, against the children of Israell, because they had committed wickednesse before the Lorde: And this (Eglon) gathered vnto him the children of Ammon, and the Amalekites, and went and smote Israell, and conquered the citie of Paulme trees. And so the children of Israell serued Eglon the king of Moab. xviii. yeres. But whē they cried vnto the Lorde, the lorde stired them vp a sauer. Ahud the sonne of Gera the sonne of Gemini, a man that coulde do nothing handsomlye with his right hande.

C And by him the children of Israell sente a presente vnto Eglon the king of Moab: but Ahud made him a dagger with two edges, of a cubite length, and he did girde it vnto his rayment vpon his right thigh, and caryed the presente vnto Eglon the kyng of Moab: And Eglon was a verye fatte man. And it fortuned, that when he had presented the present, he sent the people that bare it, away: but he himselfe turned again (from the place of grauen images, that was by Gilgal) and said: I haue a secret errand vnto thee, O king. Whiche said: kepe silence. And al that stode before him, went out from him. And Ahud came vnto him, and in a summer parler, which he had, sat he him selfe alone, and Ahud saide: * I haue a message vnto thee from God. And he arose oute of his seate. And Ahud put forth his left hand, and toke the dagger from his right thygh, & thruste it into his bely, and the hafte went in after the blade: And the fatte closed the haft so that he might not drawe the dagger oute of his bely, but the dirte came oute. Ahud gat hym out at a posterne dore, and shut the dores of the parler aboute him, and locked them.

When he was gone oute, his seruauntes D came, and when they sawe that the dores of the parler wer locked, thei said: peraduenture he couereth his fete in his summer chamber. And they taried tyll they wer ashamed: and behold, seing he opened not the dores of ŷ parler, they toke a key, and opened them. And behold, their Lord was fallen down dead on the earth. And Ahud escaped (while thei taried) and was gone beyonde, to the place of the grauen images, and escaped into Seirath.

And whē he was come * he blew a trompet in mount Ephraim. And the children of Israell went down with him from the hil, and he went before them. And he said vnto them, folowe me: for the Lorde hath deliuered you enemies the Moabites into youre hande. And they descended after him. And toke the passages of Jordan, toward Moab, and suffered not a man to passe ouer. And they slewe of the Moabites, the same time, vpon a ten thousande menne, whiche were all fatte, and menne of warre, and there scaped not a man.

* So Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the hande of Israell: and the land had rest. lxxx. yeres. After hym was Samgar the sonne of Anath which slew of the Philistenes. vi. hundred menne with an oxe goade, and deliuered Israel also.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Debora and Barac deliuer Israell: Sisara is killed of Jaell.

And the children of Israell beganne againe to doe wickedlye in the sight of the Lorde when Ahud was dead. And the Lorde solde them into the hande of Jabin kyng of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor, whose captaine of warre was called Sisara, whiche dwelt in Haroseth of the Gentiles.

And

And the children of Israell cried vnto the Lord, for he had nine hundred char-rettes of iron: and twenty yeares he troubled the children of Israel very sore.
And Debora a Prophetisse, the wife of Lapidoth, iudged Israell the same tyme: & the same Debora dwelte vnder a paul-me tree betwene Ramath and Bethel in mount Ephraim. And the children of Israel came vp to her for iudgement. And Iudi.v.b she sent and called * Barac the sonne of Abinoam, out of Kedes Nephthalim, and said vnto him. Hath not the Lorde god of Israell commaunded thee, to leade with faire wordes men to mount Thabor, and take with thee.x. thousande men of ye chil-B dren of Nephtalim and of the children of Zabulon? And I will bring vnto thee to ps. lxxxiii b. the * riuer Kison, Sisara, the captaine of warre vnto Jabin, with his charrettes, & his people, and wil deliuer him into thine handes. And Barac said vnto her: if thou wilt go with me, I wil goe: But & if thou wilt not come with me, I will not goe: She saide: I will surely go with thee, but this iourney that thou takest, shall not be for thine honour, for the lord shal sel Si-sara into the hand of a woman. Debora went with Barac to Kedes. And Barac called Zabulō and Nephthalim to Kedes, and led after him ten thousande men: and Debora went vp with him. But Haber the Kenite (whiche was of the children of Nu.x.b. * Hobab the father in lawe of Moses) remoued from the other Kenites, and pitched his tente vntil the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedes. And they shewed Si-sara, ye Barac the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mounte Thabor. And Sisara gathered together all his charrettes euen ix. hundred charrettes of iron, and all the people that wer with him from of Haroseth of the gentiles, vnto the riuer of Ki-C son. And Debora said vnto Barac: vp, for this is the daye in which the lord hath de-liuered Sisara into thine hand: Is not ye lord gone out before thee? And so Barac went down from mounte Thabor, and.x. thousand men after him. But the lord destroied Sisara and all his charrettes, and all his hoste with the edge of the swerde, before Barac: so ye Sisara lighted downe of his charrette, and fled awaye on his fette. But Barac folowed after ye charret-tes, and after the host, euen vnto Horo-seth of the gentiles. And all the hoste of Sisara fell vpon the edge of the sswearde, and there was not a man lefte. Howbeit Sisara fled awav on his feete to the tent of Jael the wife of Haber the Kenite: for there was peace betwene Jabin the king of Hazor, and the housholde of Haber the Kenite. And Jael went out to mete Si-sara, and sayd vnto him: turne in my lord, turne in to me, feare not. And when he had turned in vnto her into her tente, she couered him with a mantill. And he D sayde vnto her, geue me a litle water to drinke, for I am thirstie. And she opened Iud.
* a bottle of milke, and gaue him drinke, and couered him. And againe he said vnto her: stande in the dore of the tent, and whē any man doth come and enquire of thee, whether there be any manne here, thou shalt saye: naie.
Then Jael Habers wife, toke a nayle of the tent, and an hammer in her hand, and went softely vnto hym, and smote ye naile into the temples of his head, and fastened it into the grounde, for he slombred sore, and was wery: And so he died.
And beholde, as Barac folowed after Sisara, Jaell came out to mete hym and saied vnto hym: come, and I will shewe thee the man, whom thou sekeste, And whē he came into her tente: Behold, Sisara laye dead, and the nayle was in his temples. And so God brought Jaben the kyng of Canaan into subiection that daye before the children of Israell. And the hande of the children of Israel prospered, and preuailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, vntill they had broughte hym to nought.

The.v. Chapter.

The song and thankes geuing of Debora and Barac after the victory.

A Then Debora and Barac the sonne of Abinoam sang the same day, saying: Praise ye the lord, for the auenging of Israel, and for the people that became so willing. Heare O ye kinges, her-ken O ye princes: I, euen I, will syng vnto the Lorde. I will praise the Lorde God of Israell.
Lord, * when thou wentest out of Seir, De.xxxiii.
when thou departedst out of the fielde of Edom, the earth trembled, and the hea-uens rained: the cloudes also dropped water. * The mountaines melted before ps.xcvii. the Lord, euen as dyd Sinay, before the Lorde god of Israell.
In the dayes of * Samgar the sonne of Iud.iii.
Anath, in the dayes of * Jaell, the hye Iud.iiii. wayes were vnoccupied: And the runers

of the pathes, walked thorowe bywayes.
The inhabiters of the townes were gone they wer gone in Israell, vntill I Debora came vp, which came vp a mother in Israel. They chose new Goddes, and then had they (the enemye) in ý gates, thoughe B there were shielde and speare: There was not a shielde or speare sene among fourtie thousande of Israell.
My hart loueth the gouernours of Israell, and they that are willing among the people. O prayse ye the Lorde.
Speake ye that ryde on faire asses, and that sit vppermost in iudgement, & walke by the wayes.
At the crying of the archers among the drawers of water, there shall they speake of the righteousnesse of ý lord, his righte-ousnesse in the vnfenced places of Israell: thē shal the people of the lord go down to the gates. Up Debora vp, get thee vp, & Ju.iiii.a sing a sōg: *Arise Barac, & leade the cap-tiuitie captiue, thou sonne of Abinoam.
Thē shal they that remaine, haue dominion of ý proudest of the people (of Jabin:) The Lorde shal for my sake haue dominiō Ju.iii.d ouer the mighty. Out of * Ephraim was there a rote of them against Amelech, and after thee Ben Jamin amōg thy people.
Out of Machir came rulers, & out of Za-bulon they ý gouerne the pēne of the writer. And of Isachar, there were princes with Debora. Isachar also & Barac wer sent on their fete into the valley, when in the departing away of Ruben there were greate men, and wise of hearte.
Why abodest thou among the shepe fol-C des to hear the bleatinges of the flockes, and to separate thy selfe away with great men and wise of heart.
Gilead also abode beyond Jordan: & why doeth Dan remaine in shyppes?
Aser continued on the sea shore, and ta-ried in his decaied places.
But the people of Zabulon haue ieoperde their liues, euē vnto the death: like as dyd Nephthalim in the hie places of the field.
The kynges came & fought, then fought the kinges of Canaan in Thanah, by ý waters of Megiddo, and wāne no money.
They fought frō heauen, euen the starres in their courses fought against Sisera.
The riuer of Cyson remoued them, that auncient riuer, the riuer Cyson: My soule shall treade (hym) downe mightely.
Then wer the horse hoofes smiten asūder by the meanes of the praunsinges that their mighty men made.

Curse ye the citie of Meros (sayde the angel of the lord) curse the inhabitours ther-of, because they came not to helpe the lord, to helpe the Lord with the mightie.
Jael the wife of Haber the Kenite shal be blessed aboue other women, blessed shal she be aboue other women in the tente.
*He asked water, & she gaue him milke: Jud.iiii.c she brought forth butter in a lordly dish. D
*She put her hand to the nayle, and her Ju.iiii.b. righte hand to the smithes hammer: with the hammer smote she Sisera, and smote his head, wounded hym, and pearsed hys temples.
He bowed him downe at her fete, he fell downe & lay stil: At her fete he bowed him downe and fell. And when he had sonke down, he lay still desolate.
The mother of Sisera loked oute at a windowe, and cried thorowe the lattesse: Why is his charet so long a commynge?
Why tary the wheles of his cartes?
All the wise ladies answered her, yea, and her own wordes answered her selfe.
Surely they haue found, they deuide the spoiles: euery man hath a damsell or two: Sisera hath a praye of diuers coloured garmētes, euē a pray of raiment died with sondry coloures, & that are made of nedle worke: raimente of diuerse coloures and of nedle worke which is mete for him that is chefe in distributing of the spoyles. So perish al thine enemies, O Lord: but they that loue him, let them be as the Sunne when he riseth in his might. And the land had rest forty yeares.

The. vi. Chapter.

Israel is oppressed of the Madianites; Gedeon is sente of God to be their deliuerer.

AND the childre of Israell * comitted A wickednesse in ý sight of the Lorde. Jos.iiii.a And the Lord deliuered thē into the handes of Madian seuen yeares.
And ý hand of Madian preuailed against Israel, & because of the Madianites, the children of Israel made thē dennes in the mountaines, & caues, and strong holdes.
And when Israel had sowen, the Madianites, the Amalechites, & they of the east countrey, came vp together against them and pitched their tentes against them, & destroied the encrease of the earth, euē till thou come vnto Azah: & left no sustinaūce for Israell, neither shepe, oxe, or asse: for they went vp, thei & their cattel, and came with their tentes as a multitude of greshoppers: so that both they, and also their camels were without numbre.

B And they entred into the lande to destroy it. And so was Israell excedingly impo-uerished in the sighte of the Madianites, and cried vnto the lord. And whẽ the children of Israel cried vnto ẏ lord bicause of the Madianites, the lord sente vnto thẽ a prophet, which said vnto thẽ: Thus saith ẏ lord god of Israel: I fet you frõ Egipt, & brought you out of the house of bõdage, and I rid you out of ẏ hande of the Egiptians, and out of the hande of all that oppressed you, & caste them out before you, & gaue you their land. And I said vnto you iiii. Reg xvii.g. Jere.x.a. I am the lorde your god, & *feare not the gods of the Amorites in whose lande you dwel. But you haue not obeied my voice.
And the angel of the lorde came, & sat vnder an Oke whiche was in Ephrah, that perteined vnto Joas ẏ father of the Eserites. And his sonne Gedeon pressed out wheate out of the eares in a presse, to hide it from the Madianites: & the Angell of C the lord apeared vnto him, and sayed: the lord is with thee, ẏ mighty man of warre.
And Gedeon aũswered him: Oh my lord, yf the lord be with vs, why is al this come vpon vs? yea, & where be al his miracles which our fathers told vs of, & sayde: Did not the lord bring vs out of Egipte? But now the lorde hath forsaken vs, & deliue-red vs into the handes of ẏ Madianites.
And ẏ lord loked vpon him, and saide: Go hence in this thi might, and thou shalt de-liuer Israel out of the handes of the Ma-dianites: Haue not I set thee? And he answered him: Oh lorde, wherwith shall I saue Israel? Behold, mi kinred is poore in Manasses, and I am litle in my fathers house. The lord said vnto him, I wil be w the: & thou shalt smite the Madianites, as they were but one man. And he aũswered him: Oh, yf I haue foũd grace in thy sight then shew me a sygne, that it is thou that talkest with me. Departe not hence, vntill I come againe vnto thee, and til I bring myne offring, and haue set it before thee.
D And he said: I will tary vntill thou come agayn. And Gedeon wente in, and made ready a kyd, and swete cakes of an Epha of floure, and put it with the flesh in a basket, and put the broth in a pot, & brought it out vnto him vnder ẏ Oke, and presented it. And ẏ angel of god saide vnto hym: take the fleshe and the swete cakes, & laye thẽ vpõ this rocke, & poure out the broth: And he did so. Then the angel of the Lord put forth the end of the staffe that he helde in his hand, and touched the flesh and the swete cakes. And *there arose vp fire out of the rocke, & cõsumed the fleshe and the swete cakes. But the angel of ẏ lord van-shed out of his sighte. And when Gedeon perceiued that it was an angel of the lord he said: Alas, O lord god, & haue I therfore sene an angel of ẏ lord face to face, ẏ I should dy? And the Lord said vnto him: E peace be vnto thee, feare not, ẏ shalt not die. Then Gedeon made an aultare there vnto ẏ lord: & called it: The lord of peace.
And vnto this day it is yet in Ephrath, ẏ pertaineth vnto ẏ father of the Eserites.
And it fortuned ẏ the same night the lord said vnto him: take a yong bullocke out of thy fathers drone, & another of .vii. yeres olde, and destroy the aultare of Baal that thy father hath, & cut downe the groue ẏ is by it, and make an aultare vnto ẏ lorde thy god vpõ the top of this rocke in a conuenient place. And take ẏ second bullocke, and offer burnt sacrifice vpon the wood of the groue, which ẏ shalte cut downe. Thẽ Gedeon toke ten men of his seruauntes, & dyd as the Lord bad him. But bicause he F durst not do it by day for feare of his fathers houshold, & of the men of the citie he did it by night. And when the men of ẏ ci-tie wer vp earli in ẏ morning: Behold, the aultare of Baal was broken, & the groue cut down that was by it, & the second bullocke offred vpõ the aultare ẏ was made.
And they saied one to another: who hath done this thing? & when they enquired & asked, they said: Gedeon ẏ sonne of Joas hath done this thing. Then the men of ẏ citie said vnto Joas: bring out thy sonne, that he may dye, because he hath destroied the aultar of Baal, & cut down the groue that was by it. And Joas saide vnto all ẏ stode by him: will ye pleade Baals cause? or wil ye be his defenders? he ẏ hath medled against him, let him dye one the morning. If he be a god, let him be auẽged of him ẏ cast down his aulter. And frõ that day was Gedeõ called, Jerobaal, because his father had said: Let Baal be auenged of him that hath broken down his aulter.
G All the Madianites therfore, and ẏ A-malekites, & they of ẏ east, wer gathered together, and went, and pitched in the valey of Israell: but the spirite of the Lorde came vpon Gedeon. *And he blew a trõpette, and called *Abiezer to folowe hym and sente messengers thorowoute all Manasses, and called them: whiche also dyd folowe hym. And he sente messengers vnto Aser, Zabulon and Nephthalim, lim, and they came to mete him. And Gedeon said vnto god, wilt thou saue Israell in my hand, as thou hast saied: Beholde, I wil put a flece of wol in ẏ threashīg place.

And yf the dewe come on the flece only, & it be drie vpon al the earth beside, thē shall I be sure, ẏ thou wilt saue Israell by my hand, as ẏ saidest. And it came so to passe.
For he rose vp early on the morowe, and thrust the flece together, & wrong the dew therout, & filled a bole of water: & Gedeō said again vnto god: be not angrye with me, that * I speake once more. For I will Ge.xviii proue once again by ẏ flece. Let it be drye only vpon the flece, and dew vpon all the ground. And God did so that same nyght: For it was drye vpon the flece onely, and there was dew on all the ground.

The .vii. Chapter.

¶ Gedeon with thre hundred men, ouercometh the Madianites. Oreb and Zeb are slayne.

Ju.viii.g Then * Jerobaal (otherwise cal-A led Gedeō) & all the people that wer with him, rose vp earlye, & pitched beside the wel of Harad so ẏ the host of the Madianites wer on ẏ Northside of the rocke ẏ boweth towarde the valley. And the lord said vnto Gedeō: the people that are with thee, are to many for me, to geue the Madianites into their handes, lest Israell make their vaūt against me & saye: myne owne hāde hath saued me. Nowe therfore make a proclamation in the eares of the people, & saye: De.xx.b. 1.Ma.iii.g. * yf any man dread or be afearde, let hym returne. And the people arose early. And there departed and returned of the people which wer at mount Gilead .xxii. thousād, & there abode .x. thousande. And the Lord B saide vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bring thē down vnto the water, & I will trye them vnto thee there. And of whom I say vnto thee, this shall go with the, the same shal go wt thee. And of whōsoeuer I say vnto thee, this shal not go wt thee, the same shal not go. So he brought down the people vnto the water, and the lord said vnto Gedeon: as many as lappe the water with their tonges as a dogge doth, them put by thēselues, & so do them ẏ knele down vpon their knees to drinke.
And the nūbre of them that put their han-des to their mouthes & lapped, were .iii. hundred men. But all the remnaunt of ẏ people kneled down vpon their knees to C drīke water. And ẏ lord said vnto Gedeō: By these thre hundred men ẏ lapped water, will I saue you: & deliuer the Medianites into thine hand. And let al the other people goe euery man vnto his place.
They therefore of the people toke vitai-les with them, & their trompettes. And he sent al the rest of Israel, euery man vnto his tente, & cōforted those thre hundred wt him. And the host of Madian was beneth him in a valey. And it fortuned, that the same night the lord said vnto him: Arise, geat thee down vnto the host, for I haue deliuered it into thine hand. But & if thou feare to go down, then goe thou & Pharah thy lad down to the host, & thou shalt herken what thei say, & so shal thine han-des be strong, to goe downe vnto ẏ hoste.
Then went he downe, & Pharah his lad, euen hard vnto the men of armes ẏ were in the host. And ẏ Madianites the Amalekites, & al they of the East, lay a long in the valeye, like a multitude of grashoppers, & their camelles wer without num-bre, euē as the sande by the sea side in mul- D titude. And when Gedeon was come: Behold, there was a man that told a dreame vnto his neighbour, and said: Beholde, I dreamed a dreame, and me thought that a lofe of barley bread, tōbled into the host of Madian, & came vnto a tente, & smote it that it fel, & ouertourned it, that the tente lay a long. And his felow answered, and saide: this is nothing els saue the swearde of Gedeon the sonne of Joas, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath god deliue-red Madian and al the host.
When Gedeon hearde the telling of the dreame, & the interpretation of the same, he worshipped, & returned vnto the hoste of Israel, and said: vp, for the Lorde hath deliuered into your hand ẏ host of Madi- E an. And he deuided the thre hundred men into thre companies, & gaue euery manne a trompette in his hand, wt an emptie pitcher, and lampes therin, and saide vnto them: loke on me, & do like wise: that whē I come to the side of the hoste, euen as I do, so do you: When I blow with a trom-pet, and al that are with me, blow ye with trompettes also on euery side of the host, & say: here is the sweard of the Lord, and of Gedeon. And so Gedeon and the thre hūdred men that wer with him, came vnto the side of the host in the beginnyng of the middle watch, & raised vp the watche mē. And thei blew with their trompettes, and brake the pitchers that were in their handes. And all ẏ thre companies blewe with trompettes and brake the pitchers, F and helde ẏ lampes in their lefte handes,

and the trompettes in their right, to blow withall. And they cried: the sweard of the Lord and of Gedeon. And they stode still, euery mā in his place round about ẏ host:
And they within the host, ranne & cried, i.Re.xiiii. c. and fled, & the thre hundreth blewe with trompettes, & the Lord set * euery mans ii.Pa.xx. e. sweard vpon his neighbour, thorowout al the host. And the host fled to Bethsitah G to Zererath, & to the edge of the playne of Meholah vnto Tabath. And the mene of Israel being gathered together out of ẏ tribe of Nephthalim, of Aser, & of al Ma-nasses, folowed after ẏ Madianites. And Gedeon sent messengers vnto all mounte Ephraim, saying: come down against the Madianites, & take before them the waters vnto Bethbarath & to Jordan. Thē all ẏ men of Ephraim gathered together & toke the waters vnto Bethbarath, & to Jordan. And thei tooke two captaines of the Madianites, Oreb & Zeb, and slewe Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, & Zeb at the presse Zeb, & folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb & Zeb, to Gedeon on the other side Jordan.

The .viii. Chapter.

¶ Ephraim maketh insurrection against Gedeon, but is sone pacified.

A And ẏ men of Ephraim saied vnto him: why hast thou serued vs thus that thou calledst vs not, whē thou wentest to fight with ẏ Madianites: and they chode with him a good (and had almost done him violence.) And he said vnto them: What dede haue I don like vnto youres: is not a cluster of Ephraim better, thā the wine haruest of Abiezer? God hath deli-uered into your handes, ẏ lordes of Ma-dian, Oreb & Zeb. And what was I able to do like as you haue done? And thē their spirites abated from of him, when he had said that. And Gedeon came to Jordan to passe ouer, he & the thre hundreth mē that B were wt him, very fainte, & yet folowed ẏ chace. And he said vnto ẏ men of Socoth: geue I pray you, cakes of bread vnto the people ẏ folow me: for thei be faintie, that I maye folow after zebath, and zalmona kinges of Madian. And ẏ lordes of Socoth said: are the handes of zebath & zal-mona now in thine handes, ẏ we shoulde geue bread vnto thine army? Gedeō said, therfore whē ẏ lord hath deliuered zebath and zalmona into mine hand, I wil teare the flesh of you with the thornes of ẏ wil-dernesse, & with briers. And he went vp thence to Phanuel, & spake vnto thē likewise. And the men of Phanuel answered him, as did the mē of Socoth. And he said also vnto the mē of Phanuel: whē I come again in peace, I will breake down thys C towre. Zebath & zalmona were in Carkar, & their hostes with them, vpon a .xv. thousand men, which wer al that wer left of al the hostes of them of the Easte: for there was slaine a hundred and twentye thousande men, that drew sweardes.
And Gedeō went thorow thē that dwelt in tabernacles on ẏ East side of Nobah & Jebahah, & smote the host: for the host did cast no perilles. And when zebath & zal-mona fledde, he folowed after them, and toke the two kynges of Madian, zebath & zalmona, & discomforted all the hoste. And D Gedeon the sonne of Joas returned from battell, afore the sonne was downe, and caught a lad of ẏ men of Socoth and enquired of him. And he wroote him of the Lordes & elders of Socoth. lxxvii. men.
And he came vnto the men of Socoth & said: Behold, here I haue zebath & Zalmona, wt which ye did cast me in ẏ teeth, saying: are ẏ handes of zebath & zalmona already in thine hand, that we shoulde geue bread vnto thy faintie men? And he toke ẏ elders of the citie, & thornes of the wyl-dernesse, & briers, & made the menne of Socoth to fele thē. And he brake downe the towre of * Phanuel, & slewe the mē of iii.Re.xii. f. the citie, And then saied he vnto zebath & Zalmona, what maner of men wer they whō ye slew at Thabor? & they answered: ẏ liknesse of thee & them is al one, euē af- E ter the fasshion of the children of a kyng.
And he said: they wer my brethrē, euē my mothers children. As truly as ẏ Lorde li-ueth, if ye had saued their liues, I would not sley you. And he saied vnto Jether his eldest sonne: vp & sley them. But ẏ lad drew not his sweard, for he feared, because he was yet yōg. Then Zebath & Zalmona said: Rise thou, & fal vpon vs: for as ẏ man is, so is his strength. And Gedeon arose & slew Zebath & Zalmona, & tooke away ẏ ornamētes, ẏ were on their camels neckes. Then the men of Israel said vnto Gedeon: Reigne thou ouer vs, both thou, thy sonne, & thy sonnes son, for thou haste deliuered vs out of the hand of Madyan.
And Gedeon saied vnto them: I will not reigne ouer you, nether shall my childe reigne ouer you, but the Lord shall reigne ouer you. And again Gedeon saied vnto F thē: I would desire a certē request of you, euen ẏ you would geue me euery man ẏ *ea-

* earinges of his pray. For thei had goldē earinges because thy were Ismaelites: & they aunswered: We will geue them. And they spred a mantell, and did cast therin euery man the earinges of his praye: and the weight of the goldē earinges that he required, was a thousand and seuen hundred sicles of gold, beside cheines, pōman-ders, and purple raimēt that was on the kinges of Madian, & beside the cheynes that wer about their camels neckes. And Gedeō made an Ephod therof, and put it in his citie Ephrah. And al Israell wente Ez.xviii.d. and.xx.b. a * whoring after it, in the same place, which thing became a ruyne vnto Gede-on, and to his house. Thus was Madian brought low before the childrē of Israel, so that they lift vp their heades no more.
And the countrey was in quietnesse forty yeares in the dayes of Gedeon. And Jerobaal the sonne of Joas, went & dwelte iiii.Reg. x.a. in his owne house. And Gedeō had *.lxx. sonnes of his bodye begotten, for he had G many wiues. And his cōcubine that was in Sichem, bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeon the son of Joas died, in a good age, & was buried in ẏ sepulchre of Joas his father, euē in Ephrah, that perteined vnto the father of the Ezrites. But it fortuned, that as sone as Gedeon was dead, ẏ childrē of Israell turned awaye, & went a whoring after Baalim, & made a couenaunt with Baal to bee their God, & the children of Israel thought not on ẏ Lord their god, which had deliuered them out of ẏ handes of al their enemies on euery side. Neither shewed they mercy on the house of Jerobaal, otherwise called Gedeon, according to all the goodnesse which he had shewed vnto Israell.

The.ix.Chapter.

Abimelech is made kyng.

A Abimelech ẏ sōne of Jerobaal, went to Sichē vnto his mothers brethren, & communed with thē, & wt all his mothers fathers kinred, saying: Saye I pray you, in ẏ eares of all ẏ enhabitou-res of Sichem: whether is better for you: that al ẏ sonnes of Jerobaall (which are.
lxx. persones) reigne ouer you, either that one reigne ouer you? Remēbre, that I am of your bone, & of your flesh. And his mothers brethrē spake of him in the audiēce of the men of Sichem all these wordes, & their heartes wer moued to folowe Abimelech. For they sayd: he is our brother.

And they gaue him.lxx. peces of siluer out of ẏ temple of Baall Berith, where with Abimelech hired vaine and light persons which went with him. And he went vnto his fathers house at Ephrah * & slewe all ii.par.xxi a. his brethren, ẏ sonnes of Jerobaal: euen, lxx. persons with one stone. Notwithstāding, yet Joathā the yongest sōne of Je-robaall escaped, for he hid him selfe. And all the mē of Sichem gathered together, and al the house of Mello, & came & made Abimelech king in the plaine, where the great stone was by Sichē. And whē they told it to Joatham, he went & stode in the top of mount Garizim, & lift vp his voice, and cried, and said vnto them: Herkē vnto me you menne of Sichem, that god may B herken vnto you. * The trees went forth iiii.es.iiii d. to anoint a kyng ouer them, and said vnto the Olyue tree: reygne thou ouer vs.
But the oliue tree said vnto them: should I leaue my fatnesse, which both goddes & men praise in me, and go to bee promoted ouer the trees? And the trees saide to the figge tree: come thou, & be king ouer vs.
The figge tree answered them: should I forsake my swetnesse, & my good frute, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then said the trees vnto the vyne: come thou & bee kyng ouer vs. The vyne sayde vnto them: should I leaue my wine, wherby I cheare bothe goddes and men, and go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayd al the trees vnto the firre bush: come thou & reigne ouer vs. And the firre bushe saide vnto the trees: yf it be true that ye will anoint me king ouer you, then come, & put your trust vnder my shadowe. Yf no, the fire come out of the firre bush, and waste C ẏ Cedre trees of Libanō. Now therfore, yf ye doe truly and vncorruptly, to make Abimelech king: and yf ye haue dealt wel with Jerobaall and his house, and haue done vnto him according to the deseruing of his handes, iudge ye. For euen he (my father) fought for you, & aduentured hys life, and ridde you out of the hand of Ma-dian. And ye are risen vp againste my fathers house this day, and haue slayne hys childrē, euen.lxx. persones with one stone, and haue made Abimelech the sonne of his maide seruaunt, king ouer the men of Sichem, because he is youre brother: yf ye then haue dealt truly and purely with Jerobaall and with his house this daye, then reioyce ye with Abimelech, and let him reioice with you. But if you haue not dealt truly, then I pray God a fire maye come out of Abimelech, and consume the mē of Sichem and the house of Mello.

And y there maye come a fire frō among the men of Sichem, & out of the house of Mello, & consume Abimelech. And Joathan ranne awaye, and fled, and wente to Beer, & dwelt there for feare of Abime-lech his brother. When Abimelech hadde reigned three yeare, God sente a spirit of hate betwene Abimelech, and the men of Sichē. And the citizens of Sichem ray-led vpō Abimelech, and wysshed that the wickednesse done to y .lxx. sonnes of Jerobaal, might come on him: and that god would laye the bloud of them vnto. Abimelech their brother whiche slewe them, and vpon y other men of Sichem which ayded him in the kylling of his brethren.
And the citezens of Sichem sette men to lay await for him in the top of the moun-taines: which men (whyle they taried for his comyng) robbed all that came along y way D by them. And it was tolde Abimelech.
And Gaall the sonne of Abed came with hys brethren, and they gat them to Si-chem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in him. And they went out into the feldes, and gathered in their grapes, & trode them, & made mery: & went into the house of their goddes, and did eate and drinke, and cursed Abimelech.
And Gaal the sonne of Abed said: what is Abimelech, and what is Sichem, that we shoulde serue him? Is he not the sonne of Jerobaall? and Zebul is his officer?
Genesi. Serue suche as come of + Hemor the faxxxiiii. a. ther of Sichem: for what reason is it that we shoulde serue him? woulde god thys people were vnder my hand, then wolde I take Abimelech out of the waye. And he spake against Abimelech: make thine hoste greater: and goe out. And whē zebul the ruler of the citie hearde the wordes of Gaall the sonne of Abed, he was wroth, and sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely, saying: Behold, Gaall the sonne of Abed and his brethren be come to Sichē: and behold, they set the citie against thee.
Now therfore vp by night, thou, and all the people that is with thee, and lye in waite in the felde. And ryse early in the morning as sone as the sunne is vp, and fall vpon the citie. And yf he, and the people that is with him, come oute againste thee, do to him what thine handes shalbe E able. And Abimelech rose vp, and all the people that wer with him by night. And they laid awaite against Sichem in foure companies. And Gaal the sonne of Abed went out, and stode in the entring of the gate of the citie. And Abimelech rose vp, and the folke that were with him, from laying awayt. And when Gaal sawe the people, he sayde to zebul: beholde, there come people downe from the top of the mountaines. And zebul sayd vnto him: y shadowe of the hilles seme men vnto thee (and by that errour arte thou disceaued:) And Gaall answered again, and said: see, there come folke down by the middel of y land, and another company come along by the plaine of the charmars. Then said zebull vnto him: where is nowe thy mouth that saide: what felowe is Abimelech, that we should serue him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out now and fight with thē. And Gaal went out before the citizens of Sichem, and fought with Abimelech. And Abimelech chased hym, that he fled before him (and he droue him into the citie) & many wer ouerthrowen & woūded, euē vnto y entering of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumath. And zebull thrust out Gaal and his brethrē that they should not dwel in Sichē (and suffered them F not to tary therin.) And on y morow, it happened that the people went out into the felde. And they tolde Abimelech. And he toke the people, & deuided thē into thre cōpanies, & layed awayte in the feldes, and loked. & behold, the people were come out of the citie, and he ranne vpon them, and smote thē. And Abimelech, and the cōpanies that wer with him, reached further, and stode in y entring of the gate of the citie. An y two other companies ranne vpō al the people that were in the feldes, & slew them. And when Abimelech hadde fought against y citie all that day, he toke it, and slew the people that was therin, & destroied y citie, and sowed salte thorowe it. And when all the men of the towre of Sichem heard that, they entred into a strong hold of the house of their god Baal Berith, (where they made a bond with him: and therof did the place take the name which place was exceading strong.) And it was tolde Abime-lech, that all the men of the tower of Si-chem were gathered together: and Abimelech gat him to mount zelmon, both he and all the people that wer with him, and toke axes with hym, and cut downe bowes of trees, and toke them and bare them on his shoulder, and sayde vnto the folke that were with him, + what ye haue Ju. viii. c. sene me doe, spede youre selues, and doe G like-likewise as I haue done. And al the men that were among the people, cut downe bowes, and folowed Abimelech, and put them into the hold, and set the hold on fier by them: so that (with smoke and fier) all the men of the tower of Sichem were slaine, vpon a thousand men and wemen. Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and besieged it, & toke it. But there was a stro̅g towre within the citie, & thither ranne al the me̅ and wemen, and al the chefe that were in the citie, & shut it to them, and got the̅ vp (by the bulworkes) to ẏ toppe of the towre.

And Abimelech came vnto the towre and fought against it, & went hard vnto ẏ dore of the towre to set it on fire. And a certain when the men of Israel saw that Abime-vnto his own house. And thus * ẏ wickednesse of Abimelech which he did vnto hys father, in sleyng his seuenty brethren and therto all the wyckednesse of the men of Sichem, dyd God bryng vpon their hea-des. And vpo̅ them came the curse of Joathan the sonne of Jerobaall.

The. x. Chapter.

Thola and Jair, are Judges of Israell.

A After Abimelech, there arose to defend Israel, one Thola (the sonne of Phuah) his vncles sonne, a man of Isakar whiche dwelte in Samir in mount Ephraim. And he iudged Israell. xxiii. year and died, & was buried in Samir. And atter him arose Jair a Gileadit, and iudged Israell. xxii. year. And he had Ju. xii. b. thirty sonnes that * rode on thirtye Asse coltes. and they had thirty cities, whiche are called the townes of Jair vnto this day, & are in the land of Gilead. And Jair B died, and was buried in Kamon. * And ẏ Jud. ii. b children of Israell wrought wickednesse
iii. a. iiii. a yet againe, in the sight of the Lord, & servi. a. viii. ued Baalim and Astaroth, & the goddes
g. of Siria, the gods of Sidon, & the godes
i. xiii. a. of Moab, the goddes of ẏ childre̅ of Ammon, and the goddes of the Philistines: and forsoke the lorde and serued not him.
And the lorde was wroth with Israell, & solde them into the handes of the Philistines, and into the ha̅des of the childre̅ of Ammon: whiche from that yere forth, pild & oppressed the children of Israell. xviii. yeare al that were on ẏ other side Jordan in the land of the Amorites whiche is in Gilead. Moreouer, the childre̅ of Ammo̅ went ouer Jordan to fighte against Juda, Ben Jamin, and the house of Ephraim: so ẏ Israel was sore combred. And the children of Israel cried vnto ẏ lorde, saying: we haue sinned against thee: for we haue forsaken our owne God, & haue ser-ued Baalim. And the Lord said vnto the children of Israell: did not the Egiptia̅s, the Amorites, the childre̅ of Ammon, the Philistines, ẏ Sidonites, ẏ Amalekites, and the Maonites oppresse you? And ye cried to me, & I delivered you out of their handes. And for all that ye haue forsaken me, & serued straunge godds, wherfore I will helpe you nomore: Go and crye vnto the goddes which ye haue chosen, & * let De. xxxii them saue you in the time of your tribula- c. tion. And the children of Israel saide vnto Jere. ii. e the lord: We haue sinned: do thou vnto vs D whatsoeuer please thee, deliuer vs onely this day. And they put away the straunge Goddes fro̅ them, & serued the lorde. And his soule had pitie on the misery of Israel.
Then the childre̅ of Ammon gathered together, & pitched in Gilead. And the chil-dre̅ of Israel gathered the̅ together, & pitched in Mizpa. And the lordes of Gilead said eche to other: whosoeuer wil beginne the battell against the children of Ammo̅, the same shalbe head ouer all the enhabi-tors of Gilead.

The. xi. Chapter.

Jephthah delivereth Israel from the Ammonites.

And there was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a strong man, the A sonne of an harlot: & Gilead begat Jephthah. And Gileads wife bare him sonnes whiche when they were come to age, thrust oute Jephthah, & said vnto him: thou shalt not enherite in oure fathers house, for thou art the sonne of a straunge woma̅. Then Jephthah fled from his brethre̅, & dwelte in ẏ land of Tob. And there gathered idle (and theuishe) men to Jephthah, & went out with him. And it chaunced in processe of time ẏ the children of Ammo̅ made warre B against Israell. And when the children of Ammon fought thus against Israell, the elders of Gilead we̅t to fet Jephthah out of the land of Tob (to helpe them) & said vnto him: come & be our captaine: ẏ we maye fight with the children of Ammon. Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead: dyd not ye hate me and expel me out of my fathers house? how happeneth it thē, that you come unto me nowe in time of youre tribulatiō? And the elders of Gilead saide unto Jephthah: Therefore we turne againe to thee nowe, that thou maiest goe B with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitors of Gilead. And Jephthah saide unto the elders of Gilead: yf ye bring me home againe to fight with the children of Ammon, then yf the lord deliver them before me, shall I be your head? And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah: the lorde be witnesse betwene us, if we doe not accordyng to thy wordes. Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead. And the people made him head & ruler over them. And Jephthah rehearsed all hys wordes before the lord in Mizpa. And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammō, saying: what hast thou to do with me, that thou arte come againste me, to fight in my land? The kyng of the children of Ammō answered unto ỹ messēgers of Jephthah: Because Israel toke away my land, when they came out of Egipte: even from Arnon unto Jabok, and unto Jordā. Now therfore restore those landes againe with faire meanes. And C Jephthah sent messengers againe unto the king of the children of Ammon, & said Deu.ii.b unto him: thus saieth Jephthah: * Israel toke not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon. But whē Israel came oute of Egipte, and walked thorow the wildernesse, even unto the red Nu.xx.c. sea, they came to Cades * and sent messēgers unto the kyng of Edom, saying: let me (I pray thee) go thorow thy land. But the king of Edom would not agre therto. And in lyke maner they sente unto the king of Moab, but he would not consent. And so Israell abode still in Cades. And then thei went a long thorow the wildernesse, & compassed the land of Edom, and the lande of Moab, & came alonge by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on ỹ other side of Arnon, and would not Nu.xxi.c come wīn ỹ coast of Moab: * for Arnon was ỹ utmost border of Moab. And thē Deu.ii.c Israell * sent messengers unto Sehon, D king of the Amorites, & king of Hesbon, & saide unto him: Let us passe thorow thy lād unto our owne countrey. But Sehon cōsēted not to Israel, ỹ he should go thorow his coast: but gathered all his people together, & pitched in Jazah and fought with Israel. And the lord god of Israell delivered Sehon & all his folke into the handes of Israell. And so Israell smote them, and conquered all the lande of the Amorites, the inhabitors of the sayde countrey: And they conquered al the coastes of ỹ Amorites, frō Arnō unto Jabok and from the wildernesse unto Jordan. So now, seyng the Lord god of Israell hath caste oute the Amorites before his people Israell, shouldest thou possesse the land? Naye, but what people Camos thy God dryveth out that lande possesse thou, Even so whatsoever nation the Lorde oure God expelleth, that lande ought we to enioye.

Nu.xxii.a. Deu.xxiii.b. * And art thou better than Balac the sonne of Zephor kyng of Moab? dyd he stryve with Israel, or fight against them al the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon and her townes, in Aroer, and her townes, &
E in al the cities that be a long by ỹ coastes of Arnon, thre hundred yeres? why diddest thou not recouer thē in all that space? Wherfore, I have not sinned against the. But thou doest me wrōg to warre against me. The lord therfore which is a Judge, be Judge this day betwene the childre of Israel, & the children of Ammon. Howbeit, the kyng of the children of Ammon, hearkened not unto the wordes of Jephthah, which he sente him. Then the spirit of the Lorde came upon Jephthah. And he passed over to Gilead and to Manasses, and came to Mazphah that lyeth in Gilead, and from thence unto the children
F of Ammō. And Jephthah vowed a vowe Nu.xxx. unto the Lord, & said: * Yf thou shalt delyver the children of Ammon into my hādes, then that thing that cometh out of ỹ dores of my house againste me, when I come home in peace, from the children of Ammon, shalbe the Lordes: & I wil offer it up for a burnte offring. And so Jephthah went unto the children of Ammon to fight with them. And the Lord delivered them into his handes. And he smote them from Aroer, till thou come to Menith, even. xx. cities: and so forthe to the playne of the vineyardes, with an exceadyng great slaughter. And thus the children of Ammon were brought under, before the children of Israel. When Jephthah came to Mazphah unto his house, see, his daughter came out against him, with timbrelles and daunces, which was his his only childe:so that beside her, he had neither sonne, nor daughter. And whē he sawe her, he rente his clothes, and sayde: Alas my daughter, thou hast brought me lowe, and arte one of them that trouble me. For I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lord & cannot go backe. And she said vnto him: my father: yf thou haue opened thy mouth vnto the lord, then do with me according to it that proceded oute of thy mouth, for as much as ẏ Lord hath auenged thee (and gaue thee victorie) of thine enemies the children of Ammō. And she saide vnto her father: do thus muche for me: let me alone two monethes, that I may goe downe to the mountaines, & bewaile my virginity, I and my felowes. And he said go: & he sent her awaye two monethes.

And so she went with her companions, & lamented her maydēhead vpon the moūtaines. And after the ende of two monethes, she turned againe vnto her father, which did with her according to his vow which he had vowed, & she had knowen no man. And it grew to a custome in Israel. The daughters of Israel came yere by year to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite.iiii.dayes in a yere.

The.xii. Chapter.

The battaile of Jephthah against Ephraim. After the death of Jephthah succedeth Elon. After Elon Abdon.

Iu.viii.a AND the men of Ephraim gathered thē selues together, & went northewarde, and saide vnto Jephthah: *Wherefore wentest thou to fighte with the children of Ammon, & diddest not call vs to go with thee: we wil therfore burne thyne house vpon thee with fyre: And Jephthah said vnto them: I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon. And whē I called you, ye deliuered me not out of their handes. And when I sawe that ye deliuered me not,
Iob.xiii.b *I put my life in my handes, and wente vpon the children of Ammō. And the lord Psa.cxix.b delivered them into my handes. Wherefore then are ye come vpon me nowe, to fight with me? Jephthah therfore gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with the Ephraites. And the men
B of Gilead smote the Ephraites because they sayde: ye Gileadites are but runnagates of Ephraim, amonge the Ephraites and the Manassites. Moreouer, the men of Gilead toke the passages of Jordan before the Ephraites. And whē those Ephraites that were escaped, saide: let vs go ouer, then the men of Gilead sayd vnto them: Art thou an Ephraite? they said: nay. Then saide they vnto him: then saye Schibboleth (whiche is by interpretation, an eare of corne.) And he saide, Sibboleth: for G he could not so pronounce. And then they toke him and slew him at the passages of Jordan. And there wer ouerthrowen at that tyme of the Ephraites.xlii.thousand. And Jephthah iudged Israel.vi.yeare, & died, & was buried in one of the cities of Gilead. After this man, iudged Israell one Abezan of Bethlehem, & he had.xxx. sonnes and.xxx.daughters, whom he sent out, & toke.xxx.other in, for his sonnes. And when Abezan had iudged Israell. vii.yeare, he died, & was buried at Bethlehē. After him, Elon a Zabulonite Iud- D ged Israell.x.yeare: and Elon the Zabulonite dyed, and was buried in Aialon, in the countrey of Zabulon.
After him, Abdon the sonne of Hellel a Pharathonite iudged Israell. And he had.xl.sonnes, and thirty neuewes, that rode on.lxx.asse coltes. And when Abdon the sonne of Hellel the Pharathonite had iudged Israell eight yeare, he died, & was buried in Pharthō in the land of Ephraim, in the mount of the Amalekites.

The.xiii. Chapter.

Israel beyng an Idolater is oppressed of the Philistines. The birth of Samson. The sacrifice of Samsons father.

AND the children of Israell began a- A gain to committe wickednesse in ẏ sight of the Lord. * And the Lord Iud.x.b. deliuered them into the handes of ẏ Philistines.xl.yeare. And there was a man in Zaraah of the kynred of Dan, named Manoah, whose wife was barren, and bare not. And the Angell of the Lorde apeared vnto the woman, and sayd vnto her: Beholde, thou arte barren, and bearest not: But thou shalte cōceaue, & beare a sonne. And nowe beware * that thou Nu.vi.a. drynke no wyne, nor strong drynke, nether eate any vncleane thing: for see, thou shalt conceaue & beare a sonne. And there I.Reg.i.b may no * rasor come on his head. For the lad shalbe an *abstainer vnto God, euen Nu.vi.a frō his (infancy and from his) birth. And he shal beginne to deliuer Israel out of the handes of the Philistines. Then the wife came, & tolde her husbād, saying: a man of God came vnto me, & the fashion of him was like ẏ fashiō of an angel of God, exceding fearful. But I asked him not whence

B he was, neither tolde he me his name, but Ge.xvi.a said vnto me: * beholde, thou shalt be with Lu.i.c. childe and beare a sonne, and now drinke no wine nor strong drynke, neyther eate any vncleane thinge: for the ladde shal-be an abstainer to God, euen from hys (infancy, and from his) birthe, to the daye of his death. Then Manoah made intercession to the Lorde, and said: I pray thee my Lorde, let the man of God whiche thou sendedst, come once more vnto vs, & teache vs what we shall doe vnto the lad, when he is borne. And God heard the voyce of Manoah, and the aungell of God came againe, vnto the wife as she sat in the field.
But Manoah her husband was not with her. And the wife made hast, and ranne, & shewed her husbande, and said vnto him: Beholde, the man appered vnto me, that came vnto me to daye.

And Manoah arose, and wente after his wife, and came to the man, and sayde vnto hym: arte thou the manne that spa-C kest vnto my wife? And he sayde, I am.
Manoah sayde, nowe when thy saying is come to passe: what shalbe the maner of the childe, and what shall he do? And the aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto Mano-ah: thy wife muste absteine from all that I said vnto her: she maye eate of nothing that cometh of the vine tree, nor drynke wine or stronge drynke, nor eate any vncleane thyng: But must obserue all that I bad her. Manoah saide vnto the aun-gell of the Lorde: we will kepe thee still, Tob.xii.b vntill * we haue made redy a kyd, & haue sette it before thee. And the Angell of the Lorde saide vnto Manoah: thoughe thou make me abyde, * I will not eate of thy Genesi. xviii.a. bread. And yf thou wilte offer a burnte Tob.xii.b offering, thou must offer it vnto the lord.
For Manoah wiste not, that it was an Angell of the Lorde. And Manoah sayde againe vnto the angell of the Lord: what is thy name, that whē thy saying is come to passe, we maye do thee some worship?
And the aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto Ge.xxxii g. hym: * why askest thou after my name, whiche is secrete.
D And so Manoah toke a kid with a meate offeringe, and offered it vpon a rocke vnto the Lorde. And the aungell dyd won-derously. Manoah, and his wyfe lokyng vpon. And when the flame came vp toward heauen from the altar, the angel of the Lorde ascended vp in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife loked vpon it, and fell flat on their faces vnto the grounde. But the aungel of the Lord dyd no more appeare vnto Manoah and his wife. And then Manoah knew that it was an aungell of the Lorde, and saide vnto his wife * we shall surely dye, because we haue sene god. But his wyfe said vnto him: yf the Lord woulde kil vs, he would not haue receaued a burnt offeringe and a meat offering of oure han-des, neither would he haue shewed vs all these thinges, nor would now haue tolde vs any suche. And the wife bare a sonne, and called his name Samson. And the lad grew, and the Lorde blessed him. And the spirite of the Lorde beganne to moue him in the host of Dan, betwene Zaraah and Esthaol.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

The mariage of Samson. He killeth a lion. He propoundeth a ryddle. He killeth thyrtye men. His wyfe forsaketh hym, and taketh another.

SAmson went downe to Tha- A nath, and sawe a woman in Thamnath of ỹ daughters of the Philistines, & he came vp, and tolde his father and his mother, and sayde: I haue sene a woman in Thamnath of the daughters of ỹ Deu.vii. a.
Philistines. And nowe geue me her to wife. Then hys father and mother sayde vnto hym: * Is there neuer a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, and amonge al my people, but that thou must go, and take a wyfe of the vncircumcised C Philistines? And Samson saide vnto his father: geue me this woman, for she plea-seth me well. But his father and mother wyst not that it was the Lordes doyng, and that he sought an occasion agaynste the Philistines: for at that time the Philistines raygned ouer Israell.

Thē went Samson and his father and his mother, downe to Thamnath, & came to the vineyardes of Thamnath. And be- B hold, a yong (wood) lion roared vpon him.
And the spirite of the Lorde came vpon him. And he tare him, as he would haue rent a kydde, and yet had nothyng in hys hād, neyther tolde his father and mother what he had done. And he went downe, & talked with the womā, which semed well fauored in the sight of Samson.

And within a shorte space after, as he went thither againe to take her to wife, he turned out of the waye to see the carkasse of the lyon. And beholde, there was a swarme of bees and hony in ỹ carkasse of the lion. And he toke of the hony in his handes, handes, and went eating, and came to his father and mother, and gaue them also, and thei did eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the hony out of the carkasse of the lion. And so his father came vnto the womā, and Samsō made there C a feast, for so vsed the yong menne to doe.

And when they (the citizins of that place) saw him, they broughte. xxx. companions to be with him. And Samson said vnto thē: I will nowe put forth a riddle vnto you:
And yf you can declare it me within. vii. dayes of the feast, and finde it out, I will geue you. xxx. shyrtes and. xxx. chaunge of garmētes. But & if you can not declare it me, then shal ye geue me. xxx. shyrtes and xxx. chaunge of garmentes. And they answered him: put forth thy riddle, that we may heare it. And he said vnto them. Out of the eater came meate: & out of yͤ strong came swetenes. And they could not in. iii. dayes expound the riddle: And when the seuenth daye was come, they sayde vnto Samsons wyfe: flatter thine husbande (and perswade him) that he may declare vs yͤ riddle, lest we burne thee and thy fathers house with fire. Haue ye called vs hither, to make vs beggers? And Samsons wife wept before him (complained) & said: Surely thou hatest me, and louest me not: for thou hast put forth a ryddle vnto the chil-D dren of my folke, and hast not tolde it me.
And he said vnto her: Behold, I haue not tolde it my father & my mother, and shall I tell it thee? And Samsons wyfe wept before him. vii. dayes while the feast lasted. And the seuenth daye he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpon him. And she tolde it the children of her folke. And the men of the citie sayde vnto him the seueth day, before yͤ Sunne went downe. What is sweter thā hony, and what is stronger than a Lion? Then said he vnto them: yf ye had not plowed with my calfe, ye had not founde out my ryddle. And the spirite of the Lord came vpon him. And he went downe to Askalon, and slew thirty men of thē, and spoiled them, & gaue chaunge of garmentes vnto them whiche expounded the riddle. And he was wroth, & went vp to his fathers house. But Samsons wife was geuen to one of his companiōs, that he had taken vnto him.

The. xv. Chapter.

Samson tyeth firebrandes to foxes tailes. With the iawbone of an asse he killeth a thousande men.
Out of a great toth in yͤ iaw, god geueth him water.

But it chaunced within a while after, euen in the time of wheat A heruest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid, saying: I will go in to my wyfe into the chamber: but her father would not suffre him to go in. And her father saide: I thoughte that thou hadst hated her, and therefore gaue I her vnto one of thy companiōs, Is not her yonger sister fairer thā she? Take her in steade of the other. Samson sayd vnto them: Now am I more blamelesse than yͤ Philistines, and therefore will I do them displeasure. And Samson went out, and caught thre hundred foxes, and toke fire-brandes, and fastened taile to taile, & put a firebrand in the middes betwene two tailes. And when he had set the brandes on fire, he sent thē out, (that thei might runne abrode, whiche went immediatlye) into the stāding corne of yͤ Philistines, and burnt vp both the reaped corne & also the standing, with the vineyardes & oliues. Then the Philistines sayd: who hath done this? And it was tolde them that Samsō the sonne B in lawe of the Thamnite, because he had taken his wife, and geuen her to his companion. And the Philistines came vp and burnte her, and her father with fire.
And Samson said vnto them: though ye haue done this, yet will I be auenged on you, and thē I wil cease. And he smote thē legge and thyghe with a myghtie plage.
And then he went and dwelt in the caue of the rocke Etam. Then the Philistines came vp, and pitched in Iuda, and lay in (a place that was afterward called) Lehy (that is a iawe bone, where theyr hoste was scatered abrod.) And yͤ men of Iuda said, why are ye come vp vnto vs? They answered: to bynde Samson are we come vp, & to do to hym C as he hath done to vs. Then thre thousand mē of Iuda went downe to the caue of the rocke Etam, and sayd to Samson: wottest thou not that the Philistines are rulers ouer vs? Wherfore then haste thou done thus vnto vs? He answered them, Le. xxiii.
& as they did vnto me, so haue I done vn- c. to them. And they sayd vnto him againe: Iudi. i. b. we are come downe to bynde thee, and to deliuer thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson sayde vnto thē: sweare vnto me, (and promise me) that ye shall not fall vpō me your selues. They answered him, saying: No, but we will binde thee & deliuer the vnto their hādes. But we will not kill thee. And they bounde him with two newe cordes, and brought him from the rocke. And whā he came to Lehy, the Philistines shouted against him. And the spirite of the Lorde came vpon him, and the cordes that were vpon his armes, became as flaxe that was burnte with fire, for the bandes loosed from of his handes.

And he found a rotte iawbone of an asse, and put forth his hād, and caught it, and slue a thousande men therwith.
D And Samson saide: with the iawe of an asse haue I made heapes of thē: with the iawe of an asse haue I slayne a thousand men. And whē he had left speking, he cast away the iawe bone out of his hand and called the place Ramath Lehi (That is by interpretation, the lyfting vp of the iaw bone.) And he was sore athirst, and called on ẏ lorde, and sayde: thou hast geuen this great victory, in the hand of thy seruant. And now I must dy for thirst, and fall into the han-des of the vncircumcised. But god brake a great toth that was in the iawe, & there came water therout. And when he hadde dronke, his spirite came agayn, & he was refreshed: wherfore ẏ name therof is called vnto this day, the wel of the caller on, whiche came of the iawe. And he iudged Israell in the dayes of the Philistines twenty yeres.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Samson lifteth vp the gates of Gaza. He was deceiued by Dalila. He pulleth downe the house vpon the Philistines, and dieth with them.

A Then went Samson to *Azoth, and sawe there an harlot, and wente in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites, saying: Sāson is come hither: And they went about, and laid wait for him there al night in the gate of the citie, and were still al ẏ night, saying: in the morning when it is day we shal kill him. And Samsō toke his rest til mydnight, & arose at midnight, and toke the doores of the gate of the citie, and the two syde postes, and rente them of, with ẏ barre & al, and put thē vpō his shoulders, and caried them vp to the toppe of an hill that is before Hebron.
B And after this it fortuned, that by the riuer of Sorek, he loued a woman called Dalila: vnto whome came the lordes of ẏ Philistines, and sayd vnto her: perswade him, and see wherin his great strengthe lieth, and by what meane we maye ouer-come him, that we may bind him, to bring him vnder: and euery one of vs shal geue thee eleuen hundred syluerlinges. And

*Otherwise called Gaza

Dalila saide to Samson: Oh, tell me where thy great strength lieth, and howe thou mightest be bound, and brought vnder. Samson answered vnto her: yf they binde me with seuen grene withes that were neuer dryed, I shall be weake as other men. And then the lordes of the Philistines broughte her seuen withes that were yet grene and neuer dryed, and she bounde him therwith. Notwithstanding she had menne lying in wayte with her in the chambre. And she sayde vnto hym: the Philistines bee vpon thee Samson. And immediatly he brake ẏ withes as a string of tow (that is twined) breaketh, when it feleth fire. And so his strength was not knowen. And Dalila said vnto Samson: Se, thou haste mocked me and tolde me C lies. Now therfore tel me wherwith thou mightest bee bounde. He answered her: yf they bynde me with newe ropes that neuer were occupied, I shalbe weake, and as another manne. Dalila therfore toke newe ropes, and bounde him therewith, and saide vnto hym: the Philistines bee vpon thee Samson.
And there were liers of wayte in the chā-bre, and he brake them from of his armes as they hadde been but a threde. And Dalila sayde to Samson, hitherto thou haste begyled me and tolde me lyes: yet tell me howe thou mightest be bounde. He sayde vnto her: yf thou plattedest thee .vii. lockes of my head with an heere lace.
And she fastened them with a nayle, and sayde vnto him: the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. And he awaked out of hys slepe, and plucked awaye the nayle that was in the plattinge with the heerelace.
And she sayde vnto him againe: Howe canst thou saye that thou louest me, when thine herte is not with me? Behold, thou haste mocked me thys three times, and haste not tolde me wherein thy greate strength lyeth.
And as she laye vpon hym with her D wordes continually vexing of hym, hys soule was encombred eue vnto the death.
And so he tolde her all his heart, and saide vnto her: *there neuer came rasour vpon Nu.vi.a. myne head, for I haue ben an abstainer: Iu.xiii.a (that is to saye consecrate) vnto God, euen frō my mothers wombe: therfore when I am shauen, my strengthe wil go from me, & I shall waxe weake, and bee lyke all other men. And whē Dalila sawe that he had tolde her all his hearte, she sente, and called for the lordes of the Philistines, saying:

saying: come up yet this once, for he hath shewed me all his hearte.
Then the lordes of the Philistines cama up unto her, and broughte the moneye in their handes. And she made him slepe upon her knes (& to lay his head down in her lap,) and she sente for a man, and he dyd shaue C of the seuen lockes of his head, and began to uere him, and his strengthe was gone from him. And she sayde: the Philistines be upon thee Samsõ. And he awoke oute of his slepe, and saide. I will go out now as at other times beefore, and shake my selfe: and he wist not that the Lorde was departed from him. But the Philistines toke hym, and put out his eyes, & brought Gaza him downe to Azath, & bound hym with two fetters of brasse. And he dyd grynde in the prison house: howbeit the heere of hys head beganne to grow agayne after that he was shauen. Then the lordes of ỹ Philistines gathered thẽ together for to offer a solemne offering unto Dagõ their god, and to reioyce: for they sayd: our god hath deliuered Samson oure enemy into oure handes. And when the people sawe him, they praised their god, for they sayde: oure god hath deliuered into our handes F oure enemy and destroyer of oure countrey, whiche slew many of us. And when their heartes wer mery, it fortuned, that they saide: sende for Samson that he may make us laugh.
And they set Samson oute of the prison house, and he plaied before them, and thei set him betwene ỹ pillers. And Samson saide unto the ladde that led hym by the hand: set me that I maye touche the pillers that the house stand upon, and that I may layne to them. And the house was ful of men and women. And there wer al the lordes of the Philistines. And there were upon the rofe a three thousand men and women that behelde while Samson plaied. And Samson called unto the lord, G and sayd: O Lord God thynke upon me, and strengthen me, at this time onlye, O Lord God, that I may be auenged of the Philistines for my two eyes. And Samson caughte the two middle pillers one whiche the house stode, and on whiche it was borne up: the one in his right hand, and the other in his lefte, and sayde: my soule shall dye with the Philistines, and bowed them with all his might. And the house fel upon the lordes and upon al the people that were therin. And so the dead which he slew at his death were mo than they whiche he slew in his lyfe. And then his brethren and all the house of his father came downe and toke him up, and brought hym & buried him betwene Za-rath and Esthaol, in the burying place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel twenty yeares.

The.xvii. Chapter.

Of Micah, whose mother made him an ydoll of silver.

There was a man in mounte Ephraim named Micah, & A he said unto his mother: the leuen hundred silverlinges that were taken from thee, about whiche thou cursedst & spakest it in mine eares: Beholde, the silver is with me; I toke it away. And his mother said: blessed be thou my sonne in the Lord. And when he had restored the leuen hundred siluerlinges to his mother again, his mother said: I vowed ỹ siluer unto the lord of B mine hande for thee my sonne, that thou shouldeste make a grauen image and an image of metal. Now therfore I will geue it thee againe. And when he restored the money unto his mother, his mother toke ii. hundred silverlinges, and gaue thẽ to C a goldesmith, which made therof a grauẽ image, and an image of metal, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah had a temple of godds, & made an Ephod & Theraphim (that is to say, a garment for the priest, & idoles.) And filled the hand of one of his sones which became his priest. C
* In those dayes there was no kyng in Iu.xviii.a.
Israell, but euery mã did that which was a.xxi.d. good in his owne eyes. And there was a yong man out of Bethlehem Iuda, of the kinred of Iuda: whiche yong man was a Leuite, and soiourned there. And the mã departed oute of the citie of Bethlehem Iuda, to go dwel where he coulde finde a conuenient place. And he came to mount D Ephraim to the house of Micah as he ior-neied. And Micah saide unto him: Whece comest thou? The Leuite answered hym: I am of Bethlehem Iuda, & go to dwell where I may find a place, (and where I may espy it to be for my profite.) And Micah sayde againe unto him: dwell with me and be unto me a father and a priest, And I will geue thee ten siluerlinges by D yeare, two garmentes, & thy meate and drynke. And the Leuite was contente to dwell with the man, & was unto hym as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hand of the Leuite, and the yong man became his priest, & was in the house of Micah. Then sayde Micah: now I am sure that the lord will be good vnto me: seyng I haue a Leuite to my priest.

The .xviii. Chapter.

The children of Dan take the gods and the priest of Micah awaye. They destroye Lais, and after builde it agayne.

A IN those daies * there was Iu,xvii,b no kyng in Israell. And in those dayes ŷ tribe of Dan sought them an enheritaunce Ios,xix,b to dwell in, * for vnto that time there fell none inheri-taũce vnto them among ŷ tribes of Israel.
And ŷ children of Dan sente of their kynred, fyue actiue menne in feates of warre out of their coastes, euen out of Zaraah & Esthaol, to vew the land, & search it oute, and said vnto them: go, & searche out the lande. Which when they came to mount Ephraim, euen to ŷ house of Micah, they lodged there. And when they were in the house of Micah, they knew the voice of ŷ yong man ŷ Leuite, and when they turned in thither, they sayde vnto him: who brought thee hither? What makest thou in B this place? and what hast thou here? And he answered them: thus and thus dealed Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am become his priest. And they sayde vnto him againe: Aske counsaile nowe of god, that we may know whether ŷ waye which we go shall be prosperous or no.
And ŷ priest sayd vnto them: go in peace, for the lord guideth your waye whiche ye go. Then ŷ fiue men departed, and came to Lais, & saw the people that were therin, how they dwelte carelesse, after ŷ maner of the Sidons, still, and without casting of parils; & that no man made any trouble in the land, or vsurped any domi-niõ, but wer farre from the Sidons, and C had no businesse with other mẽ. And they came vnto their brethren to Zaraah and Esthaol. And their brethren sayde vnto thẽ: what haue ye done? And thei aunswe-red: Arise, that we may go vp against thẽ, Nu,xiii. a. * for we haue sene the land: surely a very good one. And doe ye sit stil? be not slothfull to depart But come to conquere the lande (it shalbe no laboure.) Yf ye will go, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no parilles, and it is a very large countrey, which God hath geuẽ into your handes.
It is also a place whiche doth lacke nothing that is in the world. And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danni-tes, euen out of Zaraah and Esthaol, six hundred men appointed with instrumen-tes of warre. And they went vp and pitched in Kariath Iarim which is in Iuda.
Wherefore they called the place, the hoste of Dan vnto this day: and it is on ŷ back side of Kariath Iarim. And they went thence vnto mount Ephraim, and came D to the house of Micah. Then answered ŷ fiue men that went to spye oute the countrey of Lais, and said vnto their brethren: wot ye not, that there in is these houses an Ephod, Theraphim a grauen image, & an image of metall? Now therfore consider what ye haue to do. And they turned thitherward and came to the house of the yong man the Leuite, euen vnto ŷ house of Micah, & saluted him peaceablye. And ŷ .vi. hundred mẽ girded with weapõs of warre which wer of ŷ childrẽ of Dã, stode by ŷ entring of ŷ gate. And ŷ .v. men that went to spie out ŷ land, went in thither, & toke the kerued image and the Ephod, & Theraphim, & the image of metall. And the priest stode in ŷ entring of ŷ gat with the sixe hundred men ŷ were armed vnto battaile, while ŷ other wẽt into Micahs house, & set the kerued image, the Ephod, Theraphim, & the image of metall. Then said the priest vnto thẽ: what do ye? They answered him: holde thy peace, laye thine hand vpõ thy mouth, & come wt vs to bee our father & priest. Is it better for thee to be a priest vnto ŷ house of one man, thã to E be a priest vnto a tribe or kired in Israel?
And the priest was glad, & toke ŷ Ephod & Theraphim, & the grauen image, & wẽt with the people. And they turned and departed, & put the children, ŷ cattel, & their other substaunce before them. And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses ŷ were by Micahs house, made an outcry, & folowed after the children of Dã, and called vnto thẽ. And thei turned their faces, & said vnto Micah: what aileth thee, that F thou makest an out crie? And he sayde: ye haue taken awaye my Goddes whiche I made, & also the priest, & go youre wayes with them. And what haue I more? howe thẽ say ye vnto me: what aileth thee? And the children of Dan sayde vnto him: let not thy voice be heard among vs, lest angry felowes runne vpon thee, & thou lose thy life wt the liues of al thine housholde.
And so the children of Dan wente their wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to strong for him, he turned, & went backe backe vnto his house agayne. And they toke ẏ thinges whiche Micah had made, G and the priest which he had, & came vnto Lais, euẽ vnto a people that were at rest and without mistrust, & smote them with the edge ot the sweard, and burnt the ci-tie with fire. And there was no manne to helpe, because Lais was farre frõ Sidõ, and they had no medling with any other man. And the citie stode in the valley that lieth by Bethrehob. And they built them

.xix.d, there a citie, & dwelt therin, * and called it Dan, after ẏ name of Dan their father, which was borne vnto Israell. Howbeit, in very dede ẏ name of ẏ citie was Lais at the beginning. And the childrẽ of Dan set thẽ vp the grauẽ image. And Jonathã the sonne of Gersõ the sonne of Manasses: and his sonnes were the priests in the tribe of Dã* vntill they wer caried away .xviii. out of the land captiue. And they set them vp ẏ kerued image which Micah made, al ẏ while ẏ the house of god was in Silo.

The.xix. Chapter.

Of the Leuite whose wife was vilaynously killed in Gibea.

A IT chaunsed in those daies, whẽ there was no kyng in Israel, that a certaine Leuite soiournyng on the side of mounte Ephraim: toke to wife a cõcubine oute of Bethlehẽ Juda, and his concubine plaied ẏ whore by him, and went awaye from him vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, & there continued foure monethes. And her husbande arose and went after her, to speake frendely vnto her, and to bring her home againe, hauing his lad with him, and a couple of asses. And she brought him vnto her fathers house: and when the father of the damsell sawe him, he reioyced of hys coming. And his father in law, the dãsels father kepte him. And the Leuite abode with him thre dayes, & so they did eate & drinke, and lodged there.

The fourth day when they arose early in the mornyng, the manne stode vp, to B departe. And the damsels father said vnto his sonne in lawe: comforte thine hearte Ca.xviii with a morsel * of bread, and thẽ go youre a. waye. And they sat downe, & did eate and drynke both of them together. And the damsels father said vnto the man: Be cõtent I praye the, and tarie all night, & let thine heart be mery. And when the man stode vp redy to depart, his father in law compelled him to turne againe, and to ta-rye all night there. And he arose vp early the fifth daye to depart, & the damsels father said: cõfort thine hearte, and they ta-ried vntill after myddaye. And they dyd eate both of them together. And whẽ the man arose to depart with his concubine C and his lad, his father in law the damsels father sayde vnto him: beholde, the daye goeth fast away and draweth toward euẽ, tary all night. at the least waye tary thys daye here, that thine heart may be mery.
And to morow get you yearly vpon youre waye, that thou maiest geat thee to thy tent. Neuerthelater, the man would not tary, but arose and departed, and came as farre as Jebus (whiche is Hierusalem) & his two asses laden, and his concubine & his lad with him. And whẽ they were fast by Jebus, the day was sore spente, & the yong man saide vnto his master: come I pray thee, and let vs turne in, into this ci- D tie of the Jebusites, and lodge all nyght there. His master aunswered him: we will not turne into a straung citie that are not of the children of Israell: we wil goe forth to Gibea. And he said vnto his ladde: goe forewarde, & we shall come to one of these places, to lodge all night either in Gibea or in Rama. And they went foreward vp-on their way, and the sunne went downe vpon them, when thei were fast by Gibea which belongeth to them of Ben Jamin.
And thei turned thitherward to go in and lodge all night in Gibea. And when he came, he sat him downe in a strete of the citie, for there was no man that toke thẽ to lodgyng. And beholde, there came an olde man from his worke, out of the felde at euen, which was also of mount Ephra- E im, and dwelt as a straunger in Gibea.
But ẏ men of the place were the children of Jemini. And when he had lift vp his eies, he saw a wayfaring man in ẏ strete of the citie. And the old man said: whither goest thou? And whence camest thou? He aũswered him: we came from Bethlehem Juda, towarde ẏ side of mount Ephraim: frõ thence am I, & I went to Bethlehem Juda: & goe now to the house of the lord, And there is no man that receiueth me to house. We haue strawe & prouandre for our asses, and bread & wine for me & thy hãd-mayde, and for the ladde that is with thy seruaunt: & we lacke nothyng. The olde man said: peace be with thee: all that thou lackest shalt thou fynd with me: onely a-byde not in the strete all nighte: and so he brought brought him into his house, & gaue fodre vnto his asses. And thei washed their fete, and did eate and drinke. And as they wer making their heartes mery, behold y men of the citie whiche were wicked, beset the house round about, & thrust at the dore, & F spake to the man of the house, the old man saying: bring forth the man that came into thine house that we may know him.

Ge.xix.b And *the man of the house, the olde man went out, and saide vnto them: Oh, naye my brethren do not so wickedly, seing that this man is come into mine house: doe not so vnmete a thing. Beholde, here is my daughter, a maiden, & this mans concu-bine, them wil I bring out now vnto you, and humble them, & do with thē what semeth you good: but vnto this man do not so abhominable a thing. But the menne woulde not herken to him. And the man toke his concubine, and brought her oute vnto them, whiche knew her, and abused her all the night, euen vnto the morning.
And when the daye began to spring, they let her goe.
G And then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fel downe at the dore of the mans house where the Lorde was, til it was daye. And her Lord arose vp in the morning, and opened the dores of the house, and went out to goe his waye. And beholde, the woman, euen his concubine laye along before the dore of the house, & her handes stretched out vpon the thresholde. And he (thinking her to haue been a slepe) said vnto her: vp and let vs be going.
But she answered not. Then the manne (perceiuing that she was dead) toke her vp vpō an asse, & stode vp & gat him vnto his own home. And whē he was come to his house he toke a knife and caught his cōcubine & deuided her with y bones into twelue pe-ces, & sent her into al quarters of Israell.
And all that sawe it, saide: there was no suche dede done or seene since the children of Israell came oute of Egipte vnto thys day: consider the matter, take auisemente and saye your myndes.

The .xx. Chapter.

The battaile of the Israelites against the tribe of Ben Jamin, for the Leuites wife whiche was killed.

A WHen all the children of Israell went out: and the congregation was gathered together as it had been but one man, euē from Dan to Beer seba, & vnto the land of Gilead, vnto the Lorde in Mizpa: and there stode folke out of all quarters and of all the tribes of Israell, in the congregation of the people of God foure hundred thousande footemen that drewe sweardes.
And when the children of Ben Jamin heard that the children of Israell were gone vp to Mizpa, and had said: O ye children of Israel, tell vs howe this wickednesse happened. And the Leuite, the womans husband that was slaine, answered and saide: I came into Gibea that is in Ben Jamin with my concubine to lodge all nighte, and the men of Gibea arose against me, & beset the house round aboute vpon me by night, and thought to haue slayne me, and my concubine haue they so forced, that she is dead. And I toke my cō-cubine, and cut her in peces, and sent her thorowout al the landes of the enheritaunce of Israel. For they haue committed abhomination & foly in Israell. Beholde, ye are all children of Israell. Pondre this matter, and geue your aduise in the case.
And all the people arose as it had ben one man, saying: there shall not a man of vs go to his tent, neither turne into his hou- B se. But this shalbe it that we will doe to Gibea. We will go vp by lot against it.
And we will take ten men of the hundred thorowout all the tribes of Israell, and an hundred of the .M. and a thousand out of .x.M. to fette vitaile for the people to make that they maye go againste Gibea Ben Jamin, because of all abhomination that they haue wrought in Israell.
And so all the men of Israel gathered together against the citie, knyt together as it had been but one mā. And the tribes of Israell sent men thorowe all the tribe of Ben Jamin, saying: *what wickednesse Jo.xx.a is this that is happened among you?
Nowe therfore deliuer vs the men, those children of Beliall whiche are in Gibea, that we may slay thē, and put away euill from Israell. Neuerthelater, the children of Ben Jamin woulde not herken vnto the voice of their brethren the children of Israel: but gathered themselues together oute of the cities vnto Gibea, to come out and fight against the children of Israell.
And the children of Ben Jamin were numbred at that time oute of the cities. xxvi. thousand men that drew sweardes, beside the inhabitours of Gibea, whyche were numbred seuen hundred chosen mē.
And among all these folke were seuen hundred lefte handed menne, which euerye one coulde sling stones at an heer-breadth, and not misse. And the children of Israell

of Israell beside Ben Jamin, were numbred foure hundred thousand men y drewe sweardes, & were al men of warre. And the children of Israel arose, and went vp to Bethell, & asked counsaile of god who should begin the battaile against the children of Ben Jamin. And the Lord said: Juda shal begin. And the children of Israel stode vp early & besieged Gibea. And the men of Israell went out to battell against Ben Jamin, and y men of Israell put them selues in araye to fight against them beside Gibea. And the children of Be Jamin came out of Gibea, & destroyed of the Israelites that daye.xxii. thousand men, and brought them to the earth.

And the folke of the children of Israell plucked vp their heartes, and went to againe, and made battell in the same place where they did the firste daye. And the children of Israel went vp and wepte before the lord vnto euen, & asked of y lord, saying: shall we goe againe to battaile against y children of Ben Jamin our brethre? And the lord said: go vp against the.

D And y children of Israel came out agaist the children of Ben Jamin the secod day. And the children of Ben Jamin went against them out of Gibea, the second day, and destroyed to the earth of the children of Israel once again.xviii. thousand men that drew sweardes euery man of them. Then the children of Israell and all the people went vp and came vnto Bethel, & wept, and sat there before the Lorde, and fasted the same daye vnto euen, & offered burnt offringes and peace offerynges before the Lord. And the children of Israell asked the Lord: for there was the arke of the appointment of God in those dayes. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron wayting vpon it at that time, said: shall I geat me vp to go out any more to battell against the children of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shal I cease?

E The Lord saide: goe, for to morow I will deliuer them into your handes. And Israel set liers awayt round about Gibea. And y children of Israel went vp against the children of Ben Jamin the third time, & put them selues in aray against Gibea, as twice before. And the children of Ben Jamin came out against the people, and were drawen awaye from the citie. And they began to smyte of the people, dead (as twyce before, by two hye wayes, of which one goeth vp to Bethel, and the other to Gibea thorow the field) vpon a thirty menne of Israell. And the children of Ben Jamin saide. They are fallen before vs, as at the firste. But the children of Israell said: let vs flee and plucke them away from the citie, vnto the hye wayes. And all the menne of Israell rose vp out of their place, and put themselues in aray at Baall Thamar.

And likewise the lyers in wayte of Israel came forth out of their places, euen out of the medowes that were about Gibea, and came against Gibea: ten thousande chosen menne out of all Israell, and there was a sore battell. But the other wist not that so greate euil was so nye them. And the Lorde plaged Ben Jamin before Israell, and the children of Israel destroied of the Beniamites y same daye.xxv. thousand, and an hundred menne, that drewe sweardes euery one of them. And when y children of Ben Jamin sawe that they were put to the worse, the men of Israell

F gaue roume to the Ben Jamites, because they trusted vnto the lyers in wayt which they had layd beside Gibea. And the liers in waite hasted, and ranne vpon Gibea, and went and smote all the citie with the edge of the sweard. And an appointment had the men of Israell from the lyers in waite, that they shoulde make a greate smoke ryse vp out of the citie. And when the men of Israell fled in the battell, Ben Jamin began to smite dead of the childre of Israell, aboute a thirty personnes, and sayde: the other are put to the worse before vs, as in the first battell. But when there beganne to arise out of the citie a piller of smoke, the Ben Jamites loked backe: and behold the wasting of y whole citie began to ascende vp to heauen. When the men of Israell also turned againe, the menne of Ben Jamin were abashed, for they saw that euell approched them. And therfore they turned their backes before the men of Israell, vnto y way that leadeth to the wildernesse, but y men of warre ouertoke them. And beside that, they whiche came out of the citie, destroied them in the middle of them. And thus they compassed the Ben Jamites about, and chaced them to Menuha, and ouer-

G ranne them to Gibea on the east side: and there wer slaine of Ben Jamin.xviii. M which were all men of warre. And they turned and fled to the wildernes ward, & vnto the rocke of Rimmon. And the other slue by the waye of the rest of them, fyue M. men, & sticked vnto them, vntill they came came to Gideom, & slue two M. menne of them. So that all that wer slayne þ same day of Ben Jamin were. xxv. M. menne that drew sweardes, which were all men of warre: onely. vi. hundred men turned & fled to the wildernesse, vnto the Rocke of Rimmon, & abode there. iiii. monethes.

And the menne of Israell turned backe againe vnto the children of Ben Jamin, & smote them with the edge of þ swearde in the cities, both man & beast, and al that came to hande, & sette on fire all the cities that they coulde come by.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The enhabitoures of Gilead are vtterlye destroyed.

A And euery mā of Israel sware in Mizpa, saying: there shall none of vs geue his daughter to any of Ben Jamin to wife.
And the people came to Bethell & abode there till euen before god, & lifte vp their voices & wepte sore, & saide: O lord God of Israel why is this chaun-ced in Israel, that there should be this day one tribe lackyng in Israell? And on the morow the people rose vp betime, & made there an aultare, & offered burnte offerin-ges & peaceofferinges. And the children of Israel asked: who are they among al þ tribes of Israel, that came not vp with þ congregation vnto the Lorde? for they had made a great othe concerning him, þ came not vp to the lord to Mizpa, saying: he shal surely dye. And the children of Israell had pitie on Ben Jamin their brethren, & said: there is one tribe cut of from Israell this day: what shall we doe vnto the remnaunt of thē, that they maye haue wyues? we haue sworne by the lorde, that we will not geue them of our daughters B to wiues. And they saide: Is there any of the tribes of Israell, that came not vp to Mizpa to þ lord? And behold, there came none of þ enhabitours of Jabes Gilead vnto the host and congregation. For the people wer vewed: and behold, there wer none of the enhabitors of Jabes Gilead there. And they sent thither a multitude, euen. xii. thousand men of the strongest of them, and commaunded them, saying: go and smite the enhabitors of Jabes Gilead with the edge of the sweard, both we-Numeri xxxi. c. men and children. * And this is it that ye shall do, vtterly destroy all the males, and al the wemen that haue lyen by men. And they found among the enhabitors of Jabes Gilead foure hūdred damoselles, vir-gins, that had knowen no man, by lying with any male. And they brought them vnto the host to Silo, which is in þ lande of Canaā. And þ whole congregation sent and spake with the childrē of Ben Jamin that were in the Rocke of Rimmon, & called peaceably vnto them: & Ben Jamin came again at that time, & thei gaue them wiues whiche they had saued aliue of the wemen of Jabes Gilead. But they sufficed thē not. And the people had compassiō on Ben Jamin, because þ God had made a gappe in the tribes of Israell. And then C the elders of the congregation, said: what shal we do to the remnaunt of them, to get thē wiues, seyng al þ wiues of Bē Jamin are destroied? And they said: there muste be an enheritaunce for them þ be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel: howbeit, we may not ge-ue them wiues of our daughters. For the childrē of Israell had sworne, saying: cursed be he, that geueth a wife to Ben Jamin. Thē thei said: behold, there is a feast of þ lorde yearly in Silo, which is on the northside of Bethel, & on the east side of þ way that goeth from Bethel to Sichem, & south from Libanon. Therfore they cōmaūded the childrē of Ben Jamin, saying go & lye in waite in the vineyardes. And when ye see that the daughters of Silo D come out to daunce in a row, then come ye out of the vineyardes, & catch you eue-ry man a wife of þ daughters of Bē Jamin. And when their fathers or brethren come vnto vs to complaine, we will saye vnto thē haue pitie on vs for their sakes, because we reserued not to eche man his wife in time of warre. Neither haue ye geuē vnto them, that ye should sinne at this time. And the childrē of Ben Jamin did euen so: and toke thē wiues according to the numbre of thē that daunced, whom they caught. And they went, and returned vnto their enheritaunce, & repaired the cities, & dwelt in them. And the children of Israell departed thence at that time, and went euery man to his tribe, & to his kin-red, and went out from thēce euery mā to his enheritaunce. * In those dayes there Ju.xvii. & xviii. was no king in Israel: but euery man did that which semed right in his owne eies.

The ende of the booke of Judges.

The booke of Ruth.

The firste Chapter.

Elimelec goeth with his wife and children into the lande of Moab.

1 IT fortuned, ẏ (in the dayes of a certaine Judge) whẽ the Judges iudged there fell a dearth in the land, and a certen man of Bethlehem Juda wẽt for to soiourne in the countrey of Moab: he and his wife and his two sonnes. The name of the mã was Elimelec, and the name of his wife, Naomi: and ẏ names of his two sonnes wer, Mahlon and Chilion, and they wer Ephraites, out of Bethlehem Juda. And when they came into the lande of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelec, Naomies husband died, and she remained with her two sonnes which toke them wiues of the nations of the Moabites; ẏ ones name was Orpha, and the other Ruth: And thei dwelled there about a ten yeare. And Mahlon and Chilion died also, euen both of them, and ẏ woman was lefte desolate of her two sõnes, and of her husbande. Then stode she vp with her daughters in law, and returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had heard saye in the countrey of Moab, howe that the B lord had visited his people, and geuen thẽ bread. Wherefore she departed out of the place where she was, & her .ii. daughters with her. And they went on their way to returne vnto the land of Juda.
And Naomi said vnto her two daughters in law: goe and returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: and the lorde deale as kindly with you, as ye haue dealt with the dead: and with me. And the lord geue you, that you may fynd rest, either of you in the house of her husbãd. And when she kyssed them, they lifte vp their voice, and wepte, and said vnto her: we will go with thee vnto thy folke. And Naomi saide: turne again my daughters: for what cause will you go with me? Are there any mo children in my wombe, to be your husbãdes? Turne again my daughters, and go: for I am to olde to haue an husband. And yf I sayd, I haue hope, yf I toke a man C also this night: yea and though I had already borne sonnes, would ye tary after them, till they wer of age? or would ye for them so long refraine from taking of husbandes? Not so my daughters: for it gre-ueth me muche for your sakes that ẏ hade of the lord is gone out against me. And they lifte vp their voices, & wepte againe, and Orpha kissed her mother in law, but Ruth abode still by her. And Naomi said: se, thy sister in lawe is gone backe againe vnto her people and vnto her goddes: returne thou after her. And Ruth answered: entreate me not to leaue thee, and to returne from after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go also, & where thou dwel-lest, there I will dwell: thy people shalbe my people, and thy god my God. Where thou dyest, there will I dy, and there will I be buried. The lord do so and so to me, yf ought but death only departe thee and me asondre. When she saw that she was stedfastly minded to go with her, she lefte speaking vnto her. And so they wẽt both, D vntill they came to Bethlehem. And whẽ they wer come to Bethlehem, it was noised of the thorow all the citie, & the wemẽ saied: is not this Naomi? And she answered thẽ: cal me not Naomi (that is to say beautifull:) but cal me Mara, (that is to say bitter) for the almighty hath made me very bitter. I went oute full, and the lorde hath brought me home again empty. Why thẽ cal ye me Naomi, seyng the lord hath hũbled me, and the almighty hath brought me vnto aduersitie? And so Naomi with Ruth ẏ Moabitesse her daughter in law, returned out of the countrey of Moab, & came to Bethlehem, in the beginning of Barley haruest.

The .ii. Chapter.

Ruth gathereth corne in the feldes of Booz.

AND Naomies husband had a kinse- A 1 man of strength and might (which was of the kinred of Elimelec) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabytesse saide vnto Naomi: let me go to the felde, & gather eares of corne (suche as the reapers leaue) after any mā in whose sight I finde grace. And she said vnto her: go my daughter. And she went & came to the field, & gathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same felde perteined vnto Booz, which was of the kinred of Elimelech. And beholde, Booz came frō Bethlehem, and said vnto the reapers: the lord be with you. And they answered him: the lorde blesse the. Then said Booz vnto his B yong man ỳ stode by the reapers. Whose damosell is this? And ỳ yong man ỳ stode by ỳ reapers answered, & said: it is ỳ Moabitish damosell, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, and she said vnto vs. Oh let me lease and gather after the reapers, the eares that remaine: and so she came, and hath continued euen frō the morning vnto nowe, saue that she ta-ried a litle in the house. Thē saide Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my daughter? go to no nother fielde to gather, neither go from hence: but abide here by my maidēs.

Let thine eyes be on the felde that they reape, and go thou after the maidens.
Haue I not charged the yong men, ỳ thei shall do thee no hurte? Moreouer, when thou art a thirst, go vnto the vessels, and drinke of ỳ which ỳ laddes haue drawen.
Genesi. xxxiii. a. Thē she fel on her face & *bowed her self to the ground, & said vnto him: howe is it that I haue found grace in thine eyes, & that thou shouldest know me, seyng I am an aliaunt? And Booz answered and said vnto her: all is tolde & shewed me, ỳ thou hast done vnto thy mother in law, since ỳ C death of thine husband, howe thou haste lefte thy father and thy mother, and the lād where thou wast borne, and art come vnto a nation which thou knewest not in time passed. The Lorde quite thy worke, and a full rewarde bee geuen thee of the lord god of Israell, vnder whose wynges thou arte come to abide. Then she sayde: let me fynde fauour in thy sight my lord, thou that hast comforted me, and spoken hartely vnto thy mayd, which yet am not lyke vnto one of thy maidens. Booz saide vnto her againe: in time of refectiō come thou hither, and eate of the bread, and dip thy sop in the vineger. And she sat downe Iosu. v. d by the reapers, and he reached her *parched corne, of the whiche she did eate, and was sufficed, and left part. And when she was rysen vp to gather, Booz command-ded his yong men, saying: let her gather euen among the heapes, and forbid her not. And leaue her some of the sheues for the nonce, & let it lie, that she maye gather it vp, (without shame) & rebuke her not. And so she gathered in the felde, vntill euen, & threshed that she had gathered, & it was in measure vpō an Epha (that is. iii. bushels) D of barley. And she toke it vp, & went into the citie: & when her mother in lawe had sene what she had gathered, she plucked out also, & gaue to her that she had reserued, when she had eaten ynough. And her mother in law sayd vnto her: where haste thou gathered to dai? & where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, that knew thee. And she shewed her mother in law how she had wrought with him, & said the mans name with whom I wrought to daye is Booz.
And Naomi saide vnto her daughter in law: blessed be he of the lord, for he ceaseth not to do good to ỳ liuing & to the dead.
And Naomi said again vnto her: the man is ny vnto vs, and of our next kynne. And Ruth the Moabite said: he saide vnto me also. Thou shalt be with my yong mē, vntill they haue ended all my haruest: And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her daughter in law: it is best my daughter ỳ thou goe out with his maidens, ỳ they fall not vpon thee in any other felde. And so she kept her by ỳ maidēs of Booz, to gather, vnto ỳ end of barley haruest, & of wheate haruest also & dwelt w her mother in law.

The. iii. Chapter.

Ruth sleapeth at Booz fete, & is knowen his kinswoman.

Then Naomi her mother in lawe A said vnto her: my daughter: shall I not seke rest for thee that thou maist prosper? And is not Booz oure kinsman, with whose maidens thou waste? Behold, he wenoweth barley to night in the threshing floore: washe thy selfe therfore, & anoint thee, & put thy ray-ment vpon thee, & geat thee downe to the barne. But let not a man knowe of thee, vntil he haue leafte eating & drinking.
And whē he goeth to sleap, marke ỳ place where he laieth him downe, & then goe & lifte vp the clothes, that are on his fete, & laye thee downe there, and so shall he tell thee what thou shalte do. And she answered her: al that thou biddest me, I will do. B And so she went downe vnto the barne, & did according to al that her mother in law bad her. And when Booz had eaten and dronken, and made him mery, and was gone in, to lye downe beside the heape of corne, she came softelye, and lifte vp the clothes clothes of his fete, & laid her downe. And at midnight the man was afraide, & gro-ped. And behold, a womā lay at his fete.

And he said: what art thou? she answered: I am Ruth thine handmayd: spreade thy wing ouer thine h[illegible]mayde, for thou art the nexte of the kinn[illegible]. He sayd: blessed bee C thou in the Lorde my daughter, for thou hast shewed more goodnesse in the later ende, than at the beginning, in as muche as thou folowedst not yong mē, whether they were poore or ryche. And nowe my daughter feare not, I will doe to the all that thou requirest: for all the citie of my people doth knowe, that thou art a woman of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy nexte kynne, howbeit there is one nerer than I. Tary this night. And whē morning is come, yf he will mary thee, it is good, so let him do. But and yf he will not haue thee, as sure as the lorde liueth, I wil haue thee: lie still vnto ẏ morning.
And so she lay at his fete vntill the mor-D nyng. And she arose vp before one coulde knowe another. And he saied: let no man knowe, that there came any woman into the barne. And he said againe: bring the mantel that thou hast vpō thee, and hold it vp. And when she helde it vp, he meatte in syxe measures of barley, and layd it on her. And she gat her into the citie, and when she came in to her mother in lawe, she saied: how is it w thee my daughter?
And she tolde her al that the mā had done to her. And said also: these sixe measures of barley gaue he me, and sayd: thou shalt not come empty vnto thy mother in law.
Then said she: my daughter, sit still, vntil thou know how the matter wil chaunce.
For the man will not be in rest, vntill he haue finished the thing this same day.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Booz taketh Ruth to wife, of whom he begetteth Obed.

A Then went Booz vnto the gate, & sat him downe there: & behold ẏ kinsman of which Booz spake came by. Unto whom he sayed: come & sytte downe here, & called hym by hys name. And he turned in, & sat down.
And he toke ten men of the elders of the citie, and said: sit ye downe here. And they sat down. And he said vnto the kinsman: Le. xxv. d Ie. xxxii. b Naomi that is come againe oute of the countreye of Moab * will sel a parcell of land which was our brother Elimelecs.
And I thought to do the to wete, and bid thee bye it before the inhabitours and elders of my people. Yf thou be disposed to redeme it, doe: but and yf thou wilte not purchase it, then tel me, ẏ I may knowe.
For there is none to chalēge it, saue thou, and I next thee. And the other answered I will purchase it.
Then saide Booz, what daye thou byeste the feld of the hand of Naomi, thou must take also Ruth the Moabite the * wyfe B of the dead, to stirre vp ẏ name of ẏ dead De. xxv. b vpon his inheritaunce. The kinsman answered: I cānot purchase it, for marryng of myne owne enheritaunce: take thou my right to thee, for I cānot purchase it.
Now this was the maner of olde time in Israel concerning purches & chaunging, for to stablish all thing: that a man muste plucke of his shooe and geue it his neighbour & this was a sure witnes in Israel.
Therfore the kynsman said to Booz: Bye it thou: and so drue of his shoe. And Booz said vnto the elders and vnto al ẏ people: C ye are witnesses this daye, that I haue bought al that was Elimelecs, & all that was Chilions and Mahlons, of ẏ hande of Naomi. And moreouer, Ruth ẏ Moabite the wyfe of Mahlon, haue I purchased to be my wife, to stire vp the name of the dead vpon his inheritaunce, and ẏ his name be not put out from among his brethren, & from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this daye. And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders said, we are witnesses: the Lord make the woman that is come into thine house, like * Rahel & Lea, which twaine dyd builde Ge. xxix. and. xxx. d the house of Israell: doe thou also valeauntlye in Ephrata, and bee famouse in Bethlehem. Thy house be like the house of Pharez * whom Thamar bare vnto Genesi. xxxviii. d Iuda, euen of the sede whiche the Lorde shal geue thee of this yong woman.
And so Booz toke Ruth, and she was hys wife. And when he went in vnto her, the Lord gaue that she conceaued, and bare a sonne. And the women said vnto Naomi: blessed be the Lord, the whiche hath not left thee without a kynsman, to haue D a name in Israel, and that shall bring thy life againe, and cherishe thine olde age.
For thy daughter in lawe whiche loueth thee, hath borne vnto him, and she is bet-te[r] to thee thā seuen sonnes. And Naomi toke the child, and laid it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neygh-bours gaue it a name, saying: there is a childe borne to Naomi, & called it Obed:

The same is the father of Isai, ẏ father of Dauid. These are the generations of i.Pa.ii a Math.i.a *Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron, Hezron begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Ami-nadab begat Nahson, Nahsõ begat Salmon, Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Isai, Isai begat Dauid.

The firste Chapter.

Elkana hath .ii. wiues. Hanna and Phenenna.

A THer was a man of one of ẏ two Ramaths (of ẏ kinred of Zophi, of mout Ephrai) i.Pa.v.c named *Elkana ẏ sonne of Jeroham, ẏ sõne of Elihu, the sõne of Thohu, ẏ sonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: whiche had two wiues, the one called Hanna, & the other Phenenna. And Phenenna had children, Ex.xxiii.c. but Hanna had none. *And the said man wẽt vp out of his citie euery feastful day, De.xvi c to pray, & to offre vnto the lorde of hostes in Silo, wher wer the two sonnes of Eli (Hophnye & Phinehes) the Lordes pries-tes. And it fell on a solẽne day, that Elkana offered, & gaue to Phenenna his wife, and to al her sõnes and daughters, portions. But vnto Hanna he gaue a portion with a heauy chere, for he loued Hanna, & the Lorde had made her barren. And her enemye (Phenenna) vexed her sore continually, to moue her, because the Lorde B had made her barren. And so did she yeare by yeare as ofte as she wente vp to the house of ẏ Lord. And so chafed her, which wept, and did not eate. Thẽ said Elkana her husband to her: Hanna, why wepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thine hearte troubled? am not I better to thee, than ten sonnes? So Hanna rose vp after that they h[ad] eaten and dronke in Silo. And Eli the priest satte vpon a stole by one of the side postes of the tẽple of the Lord. And she was troubled in her mynde, and prayed vnto the Lorde, and wept sore, and vowed a vowe, and saide: O lord of hostes, yf thou wilt loke on the trouble of thine handmaid and remembre me, and not forgeat thine handmaid, but geue vnto thine handmaid a man childe: I wil geue him vnto the lord al the daies Iu.xiii of his life, *and there shal no raser come Nu.vi vpõ his head. And as she continued praying before the lorde, it fortuned that Eli marked her mouth. For Hanna spake in her hert, and her lippes did but moue only, but her voice was not heard: & therfore Eli thought she hadde bene dronken, and Eli said vnto her: How long wilt thou be dronken? put awaye from thee the wyne that thou hast. Hãna answered and saide: not so my lord, I am a woman of a sorowful hert? I haue dronke neither wine nor strong drinke, but haue *powred out my C soule before the lorde. Counte not thine Psal.li handmaid to be like a daughter of Belial, for out of the abundaũce of my heuinesse & grefe haue I spoken hitherto. Eli answered her againe, and said: go in peace, the god of Israel graunt thee thy petitiõ, that thou hast asked of him. She said: let thine handmaide find grace in thy sighte.
And so the woman went her way, and did eate, and loked no more so sad. And they rose vp early, and worshipped before the lord, and then returned, and came to their house to Ramath. And when Elkana knewe Hanna his wife, the lorde remem-bred her, for in processe of time it came to passe, that she conceiued, and bare a sõne, & called his name Samuel (saying:) because I haue asked him of the lorde. And Elkana and al his house went vp to offer vnto the lord, the offering due for ẏ feast, and also his vowe: Neuerthelesse, Hanna went not vp, but said vnto her husbande: D I will tary vntill the lad be weined, and then I will bring him ẏ he may appeare before the lord, and there abyde for euer.
Elkana her husbande answered her: doe what semeth thee best: tary at home, vntil thou hast weined him: and I beseche the lord, to make good his saying. And so the woman

woman abode, and gaue her sonne sucke vntil she weined him. And when she had weined him, she toke him with her, with thre bullockes and an Epha of floure, & a bottle of wine, and brought him vnto ye house of the lorde in Silo, and the childe was yet but tendre of age. And they slue a bullocke, and brought in the ladde to Eli, and she said: Oh my lord, as truly as thy soule liueth my lorde, I am the woman yt stode before the here praying vnto ye lord.
For this lad I prayed, and the lorde hath geuē me my desire which I asked of him: and therefore I haue geuē him vnto the lorde, as long as he is mete for the lorde.
And they worshipped the lorde there.

The.ii. Chapter.

The song of Hanna. The offence of the sonnes of Eli.

A And Hāna praied & said: mine herte reioyceth in the lord, & mine horne is exalted in the lord. My mouth is wide open ouer mine enemies, for I re-ioyce in thy saluation. There is none so holy as the lord, for without thee, is nothing. Neither is there any of strength as is our god. Talke not to much proudly, let olde thynges departe oute of youre mouthes, for the lord is a God of knowledge, & his purposes come to passe. The bowe with the mightie men are broken: and they that were weake, haue gyrde themselues with strength. Thei that wer ful, haue hired out themselues for bread, and they that wer hungry, cease so to be, B til ye baren hath borne seuen: and she that Deu.xxxii. had many childrē, is waxed feble. * The Lord killeth, and maketh aliue: bringeth down to the graue and fetcheth vp again.
The lord maketh pore, and maketh riche: Ps.cxiii. bringeth lowe, and heueth vp on hye. * He raiseth vp the pore out of the dust, and lif-teth vp the beggar from ye donghil: to set them among princes, and to enherit thē with the seate of glory. For the pillers of the earth are the lordes, and he hath set ye round world vpon them. He wil kepe the Ps.xviii.b fete of his saintes, and ye wicked shal kepe silence in darknesse, and * in his owne might shal no man be strong. The lordes aduersaries shalbe destroied of him: and out of heauen shal he thunder vpon euery one of thē: The lord shal iudge the endes of the worlde, and shall geue might vnto his kyng, and exalte the horne of his an-nointed. And Elkana wente to Ramath to his house, and the lad did minister vnto the lord before Eli the priest. But the sonnes of Eli wer children of Belial, and knew not the lord. And the priestes made a law for the people, that whensoeuer any C man offered an offering, the priestes lad came, while the fleshe was a sething and a fleshhoke with thre teth in his hand, & thrust it into the panne, kettle, caldren or potte. And all that the flesh hoke brought vp, that the priest toke away. And so thei did vnto al the Israelites, that came thither to Silo. yea, and therto, before they burnt the fatte, the priestes lad came and said to the man that offered: geue fleshe yt I maye dresse it for the Priest, for he will not haue sodden flesh of thee, but rawe.
And if any man saide vnto him: let them burne the fat according to the daye, and then take as much as thine hearte desi-reth, the lad would answer him: yea, thou shalt geue it me now, and if thou wilt not, I will take it with violence. And ye sinne of the yong men was verye great before the lord. For men abhorred the offring of D the Lorde. But the childe Samuel ministred before the lord, girded about with a linnen Ephod. Moreouer, his mother made him a litle cote, and brought it to him from yere to yere when she came vp with her husbande, to offre the offring in the solemne feastes: & Eli blessed Elkana and his wife, and said: the lord geue thee sede of this woman, for the petition that she asked of the lord. And they went vnto their own home. And the lord visited Hā-na, so that she conceiued, and bare thre sonnes, and two daughters. And ye childe Samuel grewe before the lorde. Eli was very olde, and heard all that his sonnes did vnto al Israel, and how they lay with the women that waited at the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and he saide vnto E them: why doe ye such thinges? For of all these people, I heare euil reportes of you.
Oh, nay my sonnes, for it is no good report that I heare how that ye make ye lor-des people to trespasse. If one man sinne against an other, dayesmen may be iudges: but if a man sinne against the Lord, who will be his dayesman? Notwithstanding, thei hearkened not vnto the voice of their father, because the lord would slaye them. The childe Samuell profited * and Luke ii.f. grewe, and was in fauoure both with the lord, and also with men. And there came a man of god vnto Eli, and said vnto him: thus saith the lord: did not I appere vnto the house of thy father when they were in Egipt, subiect vnto Pharaos house? And I chose thy father oute of all the tribe of F Israel to be my priest, to offre vpon mine Leui.x.d aultar, and to burne incense, * & to weare De.xii.b an Ephod before me. And I gaue vnto ye house of thy father al the burnt offringes of the children of Israel. Wherfore treade you downe my sacrifice and mine offring whiche I commaunded to be made in the tabernacle, and honourest thy children aboue me, to make your selues fat of ye first fruites of all the offeringes of Israel my people? Wherfore, the lorde god of Israel sayeth: I saied that thy house, & the house of thy father shoulde walke before me for euer. But now the lord saith: that be farre from me: for them that worship me, I wil worship: & they that dispise me, shal come to shame. Behold, the dayes come, that I wil cut of thine arme, and the arme of thy fathers house, that there shal not be an elder in thine house. And thou shalt se thine enemy in ye Tabernacle (of the lord) and G in al the wealth which (god) shal geue Israel, & there shal not be an elder in thine house for euer. Neuerthelesse, I will not destroy al the males that come of thee fro mine altar, But to make thine eies dase, & to make thine heart melte. And al they i.Re.xxii. that be multiplied in thine house * shal die

b. if they be mē. And this shalbe a signe vnto thee, ye shall come vpon thy two sonnes i.Re.ii.g *Hophny and Phinehes: euen in one day they shal dy both. And I wil stirre me vp a faithful priest, that shal do acording to my hert and mind. And I wil builde hym a sure house. And he shall walke beefore mine anointed for euer. And they that are left in thyne house, shal come and crouche to him for a litle piece of siluer, and a cake of bread, & shal say: put me (I praye thee) in one office or other among the priestes, that I may eate a morsel of bread.

The.iii.Chapter.

The Lord calleth Samuel thre times.

A AND ye childe Samuel ministred vnto the lord before Eli: and the word of the lord was precious in those dayes, nether was there any open vision. And it chaunced at that time, that i Re.iiii.c Eli lay in his place, & his * eyes beganne to waxe dymme that he could not see. And yet the lampe of god went out, Samuell layed him downe to slepe in the temple of the lord, where the arke of god was. And the lord called Samuel, and he said. here I am: and he ranne vnto Eli, and sayed: Here am I, for thou calledst me. And he saied, I called thee not: goe againe, and slepe. And he wente and laied him downe to slepe.
And the Lorde called once againe: Samuell, and Samuel arose and wente to B Eli, and said: I am here: for thou diddest call me. And he answered: I called thee not my sonne: Goe agayne and take thy reste. Samuel knewe not yet the Lord, neyther was the worde of the Lorde yet opened vnto him. And the Lorde wente to and called Samuel the thirde time.
And he arose, and went to Eli, and saied: I am here, for thou haste called me. And Eli perceyued that the Lorde had called the childe. Therfore Eli sayed vnto Samuel: goe, and lye downe, and yf he call thee againe, then saye: speake on Lorde, for thy seruaunte heareth. So Samuel wente, and laied him downe in his place.
And the Lord came, and stode, and called as beefore: Samuel Samuel. Samuel answered: speake on for thy seruaunt heareth. And the Lorde sayed to Samuel: beholde, I wil doe a thing in Israel that C both the eares of as many as heareth it, shall tyngle. In that daye I will raise vp against Eli, all thinges whiche I haue spoken concerning his house: from the beginning to the endyng. I haue tolde him * that I will iudge his house for euer, for the wickednesse which he knoweth.
For when the people cursed his sonnes for the same wyckednesse, he hath not corrected them.
And therfore I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, ye the wickednesse of Elies house: shal not bee purged with sacrifice nor offering for euer. Samuel lay til the morning, and opened the dores of the house of the lorde. And Samuel feared to shewe Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and saied: Samuel my sonne.
And he answered: here I am. He sayed: what is it that the Lorde hath sayd vnto thee? I praye thee hyde it not from me.
* God doe so and so to thee, yf thou hide any thing from me, of al that he sayd vnto thee. And Samuel tolde hym euerye D whit, and hyd nothing from hym. And he sayed, it is the Lorde, let hym doe what semeth hym best.
And Samuel grewe, and the Lord was with hym, and lefte none of hys wordes vnperfourmed. And al Israel from Dan to Bersabe, wiste that faithfull Samuel was made the Lordes prophete: And the Lord

Lorde appeared againe in Silo: for the Lord opened himselfe to Samuel in Silo, thorowe the worde of the Lord.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The arke of the lorde is taken. Eli and his children dye.

AND Samuel spake vnto al A Israel. (And it fortuned, that in those dayes, the Philistines came together to fight.) And Israel went out against ye Philistines to battaile, and pyt-ched beside the * helpe stone. And ye Phi...e. vii. listines pitched in Aphek. And put themselues in aray against Israel. And when they ioined the battell, Israel was put to the worse before the Philistines. And the Philistines slue in aray along by the fieldes, about a foure thousande men.
And whẽ the people wer come into their tentes, the elders of Israel said: wherfore hath the lord caste vs downe this day before the Philistines: let vs fetch the arke of the appointment of the Lorde oute of Silo vnto vs, that when it commeth among vs, it maye saue vs out of the hand of our enemy. And so the people sent to B Silo, and fet from thence the arke of the appointment of the Lord of hostes, which dwelleth betwene the Cherubins.
And there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni and Phinehes, with the arke of the appointment of god. And it fortuned, that when the arke of the appointment of the Lorde came into the hoste, all Israel shouted a mightie shout, so that the earth rang againe.
And whẽ the Philistines heard the noise of the shoute, they sayed: what meaneth the sounde of this mightie shoute in the host of the Hebrues? And thei vnderstode how that the arke of the Lord was come into the hoste. And the Philistines were afraied, and saied: God is come into the host. And they said againe: Woe vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: Woe vnto vs, who shal deliuer vs out of the hãde of these mightie Godds? these are the gods that smote the Egiptians with so many C plages in the wildernesse. Be strong and quite youre selues like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not seruauntes vnto the ...xiii, a Hebrues, * as they haue bene to you. Be of a manly corage therfore, and fight. And the Philistines foughte, and Israell was put to the worse and fled euery man into his tẽt. And there was an exceadig great slaughter: for there were ouerthowen of Israel. xxx. M. fotemen. And the arke of God was taken, and the two sonnes of Eli, * Hophni, and Phinehes were dead. 1 Re. ii, g.
And there ranne a mã of BẽJamin out of the araye, and came to Silo the same day with his clothes rent, and earth vpõ his head. And when he came, Eli sat vpõ a stole, and loked towarde the waye: for hys heart feared for the arke of God.
And when the man came into the citie, & tolde it, all the citie cried. And when Eli heard the noise of ye crying, he said: What meaneth this noise of the rumor? And the mã came in hastely, and told Eli. Eli was 1. Re. viii a. xcviii. yeare old, and * his sight failed hym that he could not se. And the man said vnto Eli: I am he that came out of the aray, and fled this daye out of the host. And he said: what thing is fortuned my sonne?
The messenger answered & said. Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there is a great slaughter chaũced among the people: and thy two sõnes, Hophni and Phinehes are dead, & the arke of god is takẽ.
And it fortuned that when he made mention of ye arke of God, Eli fel from of hys D stole backewarde vpon the threshholde of the gate, and his necke brake, and he died: for he was an old man and heuy, and iudged Israel fortie yeares.
And his daughter in law Phinehes wife was with childe and nye the birth. And whẽ she heard the tidinges that the arke of God was taken, and that her father in law, & her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, & trauailed, for her paines came vpon her. And about ye time of her death, the wemen that stode about her, said vnto her: feare not, for thou hast borne a sõne: but she answered not, nor regarded it.
And she named the childe * Ichabod, say- The glory is gone.
ing: The glory is departed from Israell.
Because the arke of God was taken, and because of her father in law and her husband. And she said againe: The glory is gone frõ Israel, for ye arke of God is takẽ.

The .v. Chapter.

Dagon the God of the Philistines is caste flat before the arke.

AND the Philistines toke the arke A of God and caried it frõ the helpe stone vnto Asdod: agayn the Philistines toke the arke of god, and brought it into the house of Dagon, & set it by Dagon. And when they of Asdod were vp in the next day in the morning, behold, Dagon laye vpon the earth before the arke of the Lorde.

And they toke Dagon, and set him in his place againe. And when they were vp early in the next morning, beholde, Dagon laye vpon the grounde beefore the arke of the Lorde, and his head, and hys two handes cut of vpon the threshold, that onely the shape of a fishe was lefte on hym. And therfore is it, that ye priestes B of Dagon (nether any man that commeth into Dagons house) treade not on ye threshold of Dagon in Asdod, vnto this daye.
But the hande of the Lord was heuy vpon them of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with Emerodes, both Asdod, and all the coastes thereof. (The villages also and the feldes in the middes of the countrey wer full, and there came vp mice, and therwas a confusion of great death in the citie.) And whe the men of Asdod saw that it was so, they sayed: the arke of the god of Israell shall not abide here with vs, for his hande is sore vpon vs and vpon Dagon our God.
They sent therefore and gathered all the Lordes of the Philistines vnto the, and said; what shall we doe with the Arke of C the god of Israel? They answered: let the Arke of the god of Israel be caried about vnto Gath. And they caried the Arke of the god of Israel aboute.
And it fortuned, that when they had caryed it aboute, there was by the hande of the Lorde a mightie great noyse in the citie, and he smote the men of the citie both small and great, and they had secrete diseases. (And the Gethites toke counsell and made themselues preuy seates of skynnes.) Therefore they sent the arke of god, to Akaron.
And assone as the arke of god, came to D Akaron, the Akaronites cried out saying: they haue brought the Arke of the god of Israel to vs, to slea vs and oure people.
And so they sent, and gathered together all the lordes of the Philistines, and said: sende awaye the arke of the god of Israell, to goe againe to his owne place, that it slea vs not and oure people.
For there was great lamentation ouer the dead thorowout all the citie, and the hande of god was exceading sore there.
And the men that dyed not, were smitten with the Emerodes: and the cry of the citie went vp to heauen.

The. vi. Chapter.

The kyne bryng home the arke with the rewardes.

The arke of the lord was in the countrey of the Philistines seuen monethes, and the Philistines called for ye priestes & the soothsayers, saying: what shal we do to the arke of the lord? tell vs wherwith we shal send it home againe? They said: yf you send the arke of the god of Israel home again, send it not emptye. But rewarde it with a trespace offering: and then ye shall be whole, & it shalbe knowen to you, why his hand departeth not from you. Then said thei: And what shalbe the trespace offering, which we shal reward him with.
They answered: fiue golden arses, & fiue golden myce, according to the numbre of the Lordes of the Philistines. For it is one maner of plage on you all, & on youre lordes. Wherefore ye shall make images like to youre arses, and images lyke to your mice that corrupte the lande, and ye shall geue glory vnto the God of Israell: that he maye take his hande from of you, and from of your goddes, and fro of your B land. Wherfore do ye harden your hertes as the Egiptians and Pharao hardened their hertes? whiche when he toke on against them, did thei not let the people go, and they departed? Now therefore, make a new cart, and take two mylche kine: on whose necke there hath come no yoke.
And tye the kyne to the carte, and bryng the calues home from them. And take the Arke of the lord, and lay it vpon the cart, and put the iewels of golde (which ye rewarde him with for a sinne offering) in a cofer by the side therof, and send it away, that it maye goe. And if ye se that he goe vp by the waye of his own coast to Bethsames: then it is he that did vs this great euil. Yf no, we shall knowe then, that it is not his hande that smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs. And the men did euen so: and toke two kine that gaue mylke, and tyed them to the carte, and kept the calues at home, and they laid the arke of the Lorde vpon the carte, and the cofer with the mice of golde, and with the images of their arses. And the kine toke C the streight waye to Bethsames, & wente on the streight waye: and as they wente, lowed, and turned neither to the righte hande nor to the lefte. And the lordes of the Philistines went after them, vntil the borders of Bethsames. And thei of Bethsames wer reaping their wheate haruest in the valey. And they lifte vp their eies,

and

and spied ẏ arke: And reioiced when they saw it. And the carte came into the fielde of one Jehosua a Bethsamite, and stoode still there. There was also a great stone.
And they claue the wood of the carte and offered the kine a burntofferyng vnto the lord. And the Leuites toke downe ẏ arke of the lorde, and the cofer that was with it, wherin the iewels of golde were: and put them on the great stone. And the men of Bethsames sacrificed burnt sacrifice, and offred offrynges that same daye vnto the lord. And when the fiue lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akaron the same daye. And these are the golden arsses which the Philistines gaue to amendes for a trespace offering, to the [illegible] lord: for Asdod one: for *Gaza one: for As-D kalon one: for Gath one: and for Akaron one. And golden mice, according to the number of al the cities of the Philistines, euen according to the fiue lordes, both of walled townes and of townes vnwalled euen vnto the great stone of lamentation whereon they set downe the arke of the lord: which stone remaineth vnto this day in the fielde of Jehosua the Bethsamite.
And he plaged the mē of Bethsames, because they had sene the arke of the lorde.
And he slew among the people fiftie. M. and thre score and .x. men. And the other people lamented, because the Lorde had slaine ẏ people with so great a slaughter.
Wherefore the men of Bethsames sayed: who is able to stande before the Lorde so holy a god: and to whom shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the inhabitors of Kariath Jarim, saying: The Philistines haue brought againe ẏ arke of the Lord: come ye down therefore, and fet it vp to you.

The .vii. Chapter.

The arke is brought to Kariath Jarim.

A AND so the mē of Kariath Jarim came, & fet vp the arke of ii.Re.vi.a the Lord: and brought it into the house of Aminadab in Gibea, and sanctified Eleazar his sonne, to kepe the arke of the lorde: & while the arke abode in Kariath Jarim, the dayes multiplied, and there passed ouer twenty yeres, & al the house of Israel lamented after the Lord. And Samuell spake vnto al the house of Israel, saying: Io.xxiiii. c. yf ye be come againe vnto the lorde with al your hertes, then * put away ẏ straung goddes and Astharoth from among you: and prepare your hertes vnto the Lorde, and serue him only: for he shall ryd you De. [illegible] out of the hande of the Philistines. Then Math. [illegible] the children of Israel did put away Baa- b. lim and Astharoth, and serued the Lorde only. And Samuel said: gather al Israell to Mizpa, and I will praye for you vnto the Lord. And they gathered together to Mizpa, and drewe water, and powred it out before the Lorde, and fasted the same day, & said there: we haue sinned againste the lord. And Samuel iudged the childrē of Israell in Mizpa. When the Philistines heard that the children of Israel wer gathered together to Mizpa, the lordes of ẏ Philistines went vp against Israel.
And when the children of Israell hearde that, they wer afraied of the Philistines, and the children of Israell sayed to Samuel: ceasse not to crye vnto the lorde our god for vs, that he may saue vs out of the C hande of the Philistines. And Samuel Ec.xlvi.b toke a suckyng lambe, and offered it altogether for a burntoffring vnto the lorde, and cried vnto the lord for Israel, and the Lord heard him. And as Samuel offred the burntoffering, the Philistines came to fyght againste Israell. But the Lorde thondred a great thonder that same daye among the Philistines, and scattered thē, that they fel before Israell. And the men of Israel went oute to Mizpa, & pursued the Philistines, and folowed vpon them vntill the place that is vnder Bethcar. D And thē Samuel toke a stone & pitched Ios.xxiiii. it betwene Mizpa and the marke of the f. rocke, and called the name thereof, the *stone of helpe, saying: Hitherto hath the i.Re.iiii lord helped vs. And so ẏ Philistines were a. brought vnder, and they came nomore into the coastes of Israel: and the hande of the Lord was against the Philistines all the dayes of Samuell. Therto the cities which the Philistines had takē from Israel, wer restored againe to Israell, euen from Akaron to Gath: with the coastes of the same, and Israel plucked them out of the handes of the Philistines. And there was peace betwene Israel and the Amorites. Samuel iudged Israel al the dayes of his life, and went about yeare by yeare to Bethell, Gilgal, and Mizpa, & iudged Israel in al those places, and came again to Rama: for there was his house, & there he iudged Israel also, and there he built an altare vnto the Lord.

The .viii. Chapter.

The people require a kyng.

 When

A When Samuel was olde, he made his sonnes iudges ouer Israell.
The name of his eldest sõne was Joel, and the name of the second Abia, and they wer iudges in Beerseba.
And his sonnes walked not in his wayes: De.xvi.d but turned aside after lucre, and * toke re-warde, and peruerted the right. Then all the elders of Israel gathered them together, and came to Samuel vnto Rama, and said vnto him: behold, thou art olde, and thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes.
De.xvii c Now therfore * make vs a king to iudge i.Re.xii.c vs, as al other nations haue. But yͤ thing Osee,xiii displeased Samuel, when they saied: geue
c. Act.xiii.d vs a kyng to iudge vs. And Samuell B praied vnto the lord. And the lord said vnto Samuel, heare the voice of the people in all yͭ they say vnto thee. For they haue not cast thee away, but me: that I should not raigne ouer them. And as they haue euer done (since I brought them oute of Egipt vnto this daye, and haue forsaken me, and serued other Goddes) euen so doe they vnto thee. Now therfore herken vnto their voice: howbeit, yet testifie vnto De.xvii. them and shewe them * the authoritie of
c. the kyng that shall raigne ouer them.
C And Samuel tolde all the wordes of the lord vnto the people that asked a king of him, and he said: this shalbe the authori-tie of the kyng that shal raigne ouer you: iii,Re,ix, *he will take your sonnes and put them
d. to his charrettes, and make his horsemẽ of them, to runne before his charet, and will make him of them, captaines ouer thousandes and ouer fifties, and will set them to eare his grounde, and to gather in his haruest, and to make instrumentes of warre, and apparel for his charrettes.
And he wil take your daughters & make them appotticaries, cookes, and bakers.
And he shall take the best of your feldes, iii Re.xxi * and of your vineyeardes, and of youre a. D oliue trees, and geue them to his seruaũ-tes. And he shall take the tenthe of your seede, and of your vineyardes, and geue it to his chamberlaynes: & to his seruaũ-tes. And he shal take the best of your men seruauntes, and maidseruauntes, & yong men, and of your asses, and put them to his worke. And he shall take the tenth of youre shepe, and ye shalbe his seruauntes. And ye shal crie out at that time vpõ your king, which ye shal haue chosen you, and the Lorde will not heare you at that day. Neuerthelesse, the people woulde not heare the voice of Samuel, but dyd say: nay, not so. But there shalbe a kyng ouer vs, that we maye be lyke other nations, and that our king may iudge vs, and goe out before vs, and fighte oure battailles (for vs.) Therfore, when Samuel hearde al the wordes of the people, he rehearsed them in the eares of the lorde. And the lord saide to Samuel: herken vnto their voice, and make them a kyng: And Samuel said vnto the men of Israel: goe eue-ry man to his citie.

The. ix. Chapter.

Saul the sonne of Cis is chosen kyng.

There was a man of Bẽ Jamin named * Cis yͤ sonne of Abiell, A the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of i.Re.xi g.
Bechorath, the sõne of Aphiah, i.Par.ix the sonne of a man that was a Jeminite, b. a man of strength and might: & the same had a sonne called Saul, a goodly yongman and a faire: so that among the children of Israel there was none goodlyer than he, For from the shoulders vpward, he was hier than al the other people. And the asses of this Cis Saules father, wer lost: and Cis said to Saul his sonne: take one of the laddes with thee, and goe vp, and seke the asses. And he went thorowe mount Ephraim, and thorow the land of Salisa, but they found them not. Then they went thorow the land of Salim, and there they were not. When they went also thorow the land of Jemini, they found them not. At the last when they wer come to the lande of Zuph, Saul said vnto hys lad yͭ was with him: come let vs returne, lest my father leaue caring for the asses, & take thought for vs. He said vnto hym: behold, there is in this citie a man of god, and he is a worshipfull man, all that he saith cõmeth surely to passe. Nowe thẽ let vs go thither: peraduenture he shal shewe vs what waye we maye goe. Then saide Saul to his lad: yf we wil go, what shall we bryng the man? For oure bread is all spẽt out of our vessels, and there is none other presente to bryng the man of God: what haue we? And yͤ lad answered Saul againe, and said: I haue found about me B yͤ fourth part of a sickle, that will I geue the man of god, to tel vs our way. Before time in Israel when a man wente to seke an answere of god, thus wise he spake: come, and let vs goe to the sear. For he yͭ is now called a Prophete was in the old time called a sear. Then said Saul to his lad: wel said of thee: come, let vs go. And so they went vnto the citie where the mã

of god was. And as they were going vp into the citie, they mette with damoselles that came out to drawe water, and sayed vnto them: is there here a sear? And the maidens answered them: yea, (here is one) Behold, he is before you. Make hast now for he came this day to the citie, for there is an offering of the people this daye in the hill. When ye be come into the citie, ye shall finde him streight way yer he goe vp to the hil to eate: for ỷ people wil not eate vntil he come, because he dooth blesse the offering: And then eate thei that be biddē to the feast. Now therfore get you vp, for this day shal ye finde him. And they went C vp into ỷ citie. And when they were come into the middes of the citie. Beholde, Samuel came out against them, for to go vp i.Re.xv.a to the hill. * But the Lord had tolde Samuel in his eare (a dai before Saul came) saying: to morowe this time I will sende thee a man out of ỷ land of Ben Jamin, him shalte thou annointe to be captaine ouer my people Israel, that he maye saue my people out of the handes of the Philistines: for I haue loked vpon my people, & their crie is come vnto me. When Samuel therfore saw Saul, the lord answered him: see, this is the man whō I spake to thee of. This same shal raigne ouer my people. Then went Saul to Samuell in the middle of the gate, and said: tell me I praye thee where the sears house is. Samuel answered Saul, and said: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto the hill, for ye shal eate with me to day. And to morowe I will let thee go, and will tel thee al that is in thine hearte. And as for thine asses that were lost thre dayes agoe, care not for them, for they are founde. And more-ouer whose shal ỷ beautiful thinges of Israel be? Belong they not to thee, and to al D thy fathers house? But Saul answered & saide: am not I the sonne of a Jeminite of the smallest tribe of Israell? & my kin-red is the least of all the kynredes of the tribe of Bē Jamin. Wherfore thē speakest thou so to me? And Samuell toke Saul and his lad, and broughte them into the parlour, and made them sit in the chiefest place among thē that wer bidden: whiche were vpon a thirtie persons. And Samuel said vnto the cooke: bring forth the portion which I gaue thee, and of whiche I said vnto thee kepe it with thee. And ỷ cooke toke vp ỷ shoulder, and that whiche was vpon it: and set it before Saul. And Samuel said: beholde, that which is lefte, put it before thee and eate: for hither to hath it bene kept for thee, of purpose, whē I called the people. And so Saul did eate with Samuel that daye: And when they were come downe from the hill into the citie, Samuel cōmuned with Saul vpon the top of the house: and when they arose early about ỷ spring of the daye, Samuel called Saul vpon the toppe of the house, saying: vp, that I maye sende thee away.
And Saul arose. And they went out at ỷ dores, both he and Samuel. And when they wer come almost oute of the towne, Samuel said to Saul: bid the lad go before vs (and he wēt before) but stand thou still a while, that I maye shew thee what god saieth.

The .x. Chapter.

Saul is annointed king, and prophecieth.

AND thē Samuel toke a vessell of oile and powred it vpon his A head and kyssed him, & saide: hath not the Lorde annointed Act.xiii.b thee to be captaine ouer his inheritaunce? (And thou shalt deliuer his people out of the handes of their enemies which are round about them. And this tokē shalte thou haue that the lord hath annointed thee to be prince.) Whē thou arte departed fro me this daye, thou shalt finde two men by * Rahels sepulchre in the borders of Ben Jamin, euē at Zelezah. Genesi.
And they wil say vnto thee: ỷ asses which xxxv.c. thou wentest to seke, are founde. And loe, thy father hath lefte the care of the asses, and sorowth for you, saying: What shall I doe for my sonne? Then shalt thou goe forth from thence, and shalte come to the plaine of Thabor. And there shall meete thee thre mē going vp to god to Bethell: one carying thre kyddes: and another carying thre loues of breade: and another carying a bottel of wine. And they wil salute thee, and geue thee two loaues of B bread: which ỷ shalt receiue of their hādes.

After

After that shalt thou come to the hill of God, where the Philistines kepe their watch. And when thou art come thither to the citie, thou shalt mete a company of Prophetes comming downe from the hill with a psalter, a tymbrell, a pype and an harpe before them: and they shall prophecy. And the spirit of the lord wil come vpō thee also, and thou shalte prophecie with them, and shalte be turned into an other i Re. vii a man. Therfore when * these signes are i Pa. xviii a. chaunced thee, doe what thou hast to doe, for god is with thee. And thou shalte goe before me to Gilgal: and I also will come downe vnto thee, to sacrifice burnt sacrifices, and to offre peaceofferinges.
* Tary for me seuen dayes, till I come
i. Re. xiii. b. to thee, and shewe thee what thou shalte doe. And assone as he had turned hys shoulder to goe from Samuell, god gaue him an other maner of hert: and al those tokens came to passe that same daye. And when they came to the hill: beholde, the i. Re. xi. b company of prophetes met hym: and * the spirite of God came vpon him also, and he prophecied among them. And all that knewe him before, when they sawe that he prophecied among the prophetes, they sayed eche to other: what is this that is happened vnto the sonne of Cis?
B *Is Saul also among ỹ prophetes? And i. Re, xix, b. one of the same place aunswered & sayed: who is their father? And therof came the prouerbe: what, is Saul also among the prophetes? And whē he had made an end of prophecying, he came to the hill. And C Sauls fathers brother sayed vnto hym: and to his lad, whither went ye? He said:
to seke the asses, and when we sawe that they wer no where, we came to Samuel.
And Sauls vncle said: tel me what Samuel saied vnto you? Saul answered his vncle: he tolde vs playnely, that the asses were found. But of the kingdom wherof Samuell spake, tolde he hym not. And Samuell called the people together vnto the Lord to Mizpa, and sayd vnto the children of Israel: thus sayed the Lorde God of Israell: I broughte Israel out of Egipte, and deliuered you oute of the hande of the Egyptians, and oute of the handes of all kyngdomes that troubled you. And ye haue thys daye caste awaye your God, that helped you oute of al your aduersities and tribulatiōs. And ye haue i Re. xviii b. saied vnto hym: * make a kyng ouer vs.
Nowe therefore stande ye before the lord and. xii. c by youre tribes and youre thousandes.

And when Samuel had broughte all the tribes of Israel, the tribe of Ben Iamin was caughte. When he had broughte the tribe of Ben Iamin by their kynreddes, D the kynred of Matri was caughte: and at the laste Saul the sonne of Cis was caughte. And when they soughte hym he coulde not be founde.
Therfore they asked the Lorde further, yf the man shoulde come thither. And the Lorde aunswered: beholde, he hath hyd hymselfe among the stuffe. And they ran and fet hym thence. And when he stode among the people, he was hier than any of the people, from the shoulders vpwarde.
And Samuel sayed to al the people: See ye not hym whom the Lorde hath chosen: and howe there is none lyke him among all the people? And all the people shouted and sayed: God * sende the kyng lyfe. i. Re. iii.
Then Samuel tolde the people * the du- De. xvii.
ty of the kingdom, and wrote it in a boke b. and laied it vp before the Lord, and sente al ỹ people away euery man to his house.
And Saul also wēt home to Gibea. And there folowed him strong menne, whose heartes god had touched. But the childrē of Belial said: how shal he saue vs? *And Iu. viii. they despised him, and broughte him no presentes. And he held his tong.

The. xi. Chapter.

The people reneweth the kyngdom of Saul.

Nahas the Ammonite came, & be- A sieged Iabes in Gilead. And all the men of Iabes said vnto Nahas: make a couenaunt with vs, and we will be thy seruauntes. And Nahas the Ammonite answered them: In this will I make a couenaūt with you, yf I maye thrust out al your right eies, & bring that shame vpō al Israel. To whom ỹ elders of Iabes said: geue vs. vii. dayes respit: ỹ we may send messengers vnto all ỹ coa-stes of Israel. And thē if there bee no mā to help vs, we wil come out to thee. Then came ỹ messengers to Gibea vnto Saul, & tolde this tidinges in the eares of the people. And al the people lift vp their voi- B ces & wept. And beholde, Saul came fo-lowing the cattel out of the felde, & Saul said: what aileth this people, ỹ thei wepe?
And they tolde hym the tydynges of the men of Iabes. And the spirit of god came vpon Saul, whē he heard those tidinges, and he was exceding angrye, and toke a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in peces, & sent them thorowout al the coastes of Israel by the handes of messengers, saying: whosowhosoeuer cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel,so shal his oxen be ser-ued. And the feare of the lorde fell on the people, and they came out as it had bene C but one man. And when he *numbred thē

...e.xv.a in Bezech,the children of Israel wer thre hundred.M. men: and the men of Juda thirty.M. And they said vnto the messengers that came: so saye vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead: to morow by that tyme the sunne be hote,ye shal haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed the men of Jabes,which were glad. Therfore the mē of Jabes said: to morow we will come out vnto you,and ye shall doe with vs all ẏ pleaseth you. And on the morow it for-tuned, that Saul put the people in three partes,and they came in vpon the hoste in the morning watch, and slew the Am-monites vntil the heate of the daye. And they that remained,wer scattered so, that two of them wer not left together. And ẏ people said vnto Samuel: what is he that D dare say: shal Saul raigne ouer vs: bring those men,that we maye slaye them. And Saul said: there shal no mā dye this day, for to day the lord hath saued Israel. Thē said Samuel vnto the people: come, ẏ we may go to Gilgal, & renue the kyngdome there: And all the people went to Gilgal, & made Saul king there before the Lord in Gilgall. And there they offered peaceofferinges before ẏ lord. And there Saul & al the mē of Israell reioiced excedingly.

The.xii.Chapter.

Samuel declareth himself to be an innocēt Judge.

A SAmuell said vnto al Israel: behold,I haue herkned vnto your voice in al ẏ ye said vnto me,and haue made you a king. Nowe therfore,your king walketh before you.
And I am old and graye headed: and behold, my sonnes are with you, & I haue walked before you frō my childehod vnto this day. Behold,here I am: beare record Eccle.xlvi.c of me before ẏ lord, & before his annoin-Acts.xx.g. ted. * Whose oxe haue I takē: or whose asse haue I takē: whō haue I done wrōg to: Whom haue I hurt: or of whose hand haue I receiued any brybe, to blind mine eies therwith & I wil restore it you again: They said: thou hast done vs no wrong, nor hurt vs: neither hast thou takē ought of any mans hand. He said vnto them again: ẏ lord is witnesse against you & his B annointed is witnesse this day, ẏ ye haue founde noughte in my handes. And they answered: he is witnesse. And Samuell said vnto the people: it is the lord ẏ made Moses and Aaron, & that brought youre fathers out of the lande of Egipte. Nowe therfore stande still, ẏ I may reason with you before the lorde, according to all the righteousnesse of ẏ lord, which he shewed both you and your fathers. * After that Genesi.

Jacob was come into Egipte, & your fa- xlvi.a. thers cried vnto the lord, * the lorde sent Exo.ii.d.
Moses and Aaron which brought youre Exo.iii.b fathers out of Egipt, & made them dwell Ju.iiii.a. in this place. * And when they forgat the lord their god,he deliuered them into the hande of Sisara captaine of the hoste of Hazor * and into the hand of the Philistines, & * into the hand of the king of Mo- Ju.xiii.a ab,and they foughte againste them. And Jud.iii.b they cried vnto the Lorde, and said: we haue synned,because we haue forsakē the lord,and haue serued Baalim and Astha-roth. Nowe therefore deliuer vs out of ẏ handes of our enemies,and we wil serue thee. And ẏ lord sent Jerobaal, * Badan, C * Jephthah, & * Samuel: & deliuered you Ju.xiii.d out of the hādes of your enemies on eue- Jud.xi.a. ry side, and ye dwelled safe. And for all i Re.vii.b that,when you saw,that Nahas the king of the children of Ammon came againste you,ye said vnto me: * not so,but a kyng i.Re.viii shall raigne ouer vs: when yet the Lorde e. your god was your king. Now therefore beholde,the kyng whom ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desired, lo the Lorde hath set a kyng ouer you. Yf ye will feare the lord and serue him, & heare his voyce, and not disobey the word of the lord: both ye and the kyng that raigneth ouer you, shal folow ẏ lord your god: Yf ye will not herken vnto the voice of the lord, but disobey the lordes mouth, then shal the hand of the lord be vpō you, & on your fathers.
Now also stande and se this great thyng which the lord wil do before your eies: Is it not now wheat haruest: I will call vnto the lord, and he shal sende thundre and rayne: that ye may perceaue and see, how that your wickednesse is great, whiche ye haue done in the sight of ẏ lord, in askyng you a king. And so Samuel called vnto ẏ lord, and the lorde sent thundre and raine the same daye. And al the people feared ẏ D lord and Samuell exceadinglye. And al ẏ people saide vnto Samuel: praye for thy seruauntes vnto the lord thy god, that we dye not: for we haue sinned in asking vs a kyng, beside all the sinnes that euer we did. And Samuell saied vnto the people:
feare feare not: ye haue in dede done all this wickednesse, yet depart not frõ folowing the lord. But serue him euen with al your heartes. Neither turne ye after vayne thinges whiche are not able to profite Exodu. you, for they are but vanitie. * For ye lorde xxxiii. b. wil not forsake his people, because of hys Deu. ix. e great names sake: because it hath pleased Jo. vii. b. the lorde to make you his people. Moreo-uer, god forbid that I should sinne agaist the lord, and ceasse praying for you, but to shew you the good and right way. Therfore feare you the lord, and serue him in ye truth, and with al your hertes, & considre how great thinges he hath done for you.

But and yf ye doe wickedly, then shall ye perishe, both ye and your kyng.

The.xiii. Chapter.

The Philistines are smitten of Saul and Jonathas. Saul being disobedient to Goddes commaũdemẽt is shewed of Samuel that he shal not raigne.

A SAul had bene king on yere (whẽ these thīges came to passe:) and he reigned ii. yeres ouer Israel.
And Saul chose him thre. M. men of Israel. Two. M. wer with Saul in Michmas, and in mount Bethel, and a. M. with Jonathas in Gibea Ben Jamin. And ye rest of the people he sent euery mã to his own house againe. And Jona-thas smote the holde of Philistines, that was in the hill: and it came to the Philistines eares, And Saul blew the trompet thorowout al the land, saying: let the He-brues heare. And al Israel heard sai, how that Saul had destroied an holde of the Philistines, wherfore Israell stanke before the Philistines. And the people ga-B thered together after Saul to Gilgall.
The Philistines also gathered thẽselues together to fight wt Israel. xxx. M. char-came vp, and pitched in Michmas eastward frõ Bethauen. And whẽ the men of Israell saw it, they were in a straite, and feare came vpõ the people, & they hid thẽ-selues in caues, and in priuie holes, & in rockes, and in hie places, & in pittes. And some of the Hebrues went ouer Jordan to goe vnto ye land of Gad & Gilead. And Saul was yet in Gilgal, and al the people that folowed him wer astonied. And he taried seuen daies, euen vnto the time i. Re. x. b. that Samuel * had appointed. But Samuel came not to Gilgal: and the people were therefore scattered from him.

And Saul said: bring a burnt sacrifice to me and peace offringes. And he offred burnt sacrifice. And assone as he hadde made an end of offring ye burnt sacrifice, beholde, Samuel came. And Saul went against him, to blesse him. And Samuel said: what hast thou done? Saul said: because I sawe that the people scattered frõ me, and that thou camest not within the dayes appointed, & that the Philistines gathered themselues together to Mich-mas, therfore said I: the Philistines shal C come downe now vpon me to Gilgall: & I haue not made supplication vnto the Lorde. And when I had ouercome my selfe, at the laste I offred a burnt offring.
And Samuell said to Saul * thou arte Eccl[...] his own hert, and the lord hath commaũ- c. ded him to be captain ouer his people, because thou hast not kept that whiche the lord commaunded thee. And Samuel arose, and gat him vp from Gilgal, to Gi-bea Ben Jamin, (and the remnaunte of the folke went vp after Saul to mete the people which fought against them as they were comming from Gilgal to Gibea in the hill of Ben Jamin.) And Saul numbred the people that were D founde with him, and they were about a.

vi. C. men. And Saul and Jonathas his sonne, and the people that were founde with them had their abiding in the hill of Ben Jamin. But the Philistines pitched in Michmas. And there came out of the hoste of the Philistines thre companies to destroye: One company turned vnto ye way that leadeth to Ophra, vnto the land of Saul: And an other company turned the way to Bethoron. And the third company turned to the waye of the coast that is sene aboue ye valey of Zeboim, toward the wildernesse. There was no smith found thorowout all the land of Israell.
For the Philistines saide: lest happly the Hebrues make thẽ sweardes or speares.
But al the Israelites went downe to the Philistines to mẽde euery man his share, his mattocke, his axe, and his necessarye tooles. And then the edges of the shares, mattockes, dongforkes, and axes were blunt, & also the forkes wer to bee set in.
And so in time of battail there was neyther swerd nor speare found in ye handes of any of the people that wer with Saul and Jonathas. But with Saul and Jonathas his sonne was there somewhat founde. And the watche of ye Philistines came out, to go ouer vnto Michmas.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

Jonathas and his harnesbearer putteth ye Philistines to flight. He tasteth the hony.

AND it fortuned the same time, A that Janathas ye sõne of Saul saied vnto his yong man that bare his harnesse: come, & let vs goe ouer to the Philistines watche, that are yonder on the other side: & he tolde not his father. And Saul ta-ried in ye vttermost part of Gibea vnder Rimmon, which is in Migron, & the people that wher with him wer vpõ a sixe C.
men. And Ahia the sonne of Ahitob, Jehabods brother, the sonne of Phinehes, ye sonne of Eli, was ye lordes priest in Silo and ware an Ephod. And the people wist not ye Jonathas was gone. And in the middes of ye passage (by which Jonathas sought to go ouer vnto the Philistines watch) wer ther two sharp rockes eue͂ one on the on side, & the other on ye other side: ye B one called Bozez, and the other Senne.
The forefronte of the one leaned northward toward Michmas, & the other was southwarde toward Gibea: And Jona-thas saide to the yongman that bare hys harnesse: come, & let vs goe ouer vnto the watch of these vncircumcised, peraduenin many or in few. And his harnesbearer said vnto him: do al that is in thine heart: Go where it pleaseth thee. Beholde, I am with thee as thine heart lusteth. The͂ said Jonathas: behold, we go ouer vnto these men, and shall shewe our selues vnto the͂:

yf they say on this wise to vs, tary, vntill we come to you, the͂ will we stand still in our place and not goe vp to them. But & yf they say: come vp vnto vs: then we wil ...Par.xiiii go vp, for * the lord hath deliuered the͂ into our hãdes. And this shalbe a signe vnto vs. And they both shewed themselues vnto the watche of the Philistines. And ye Philistines said: See, the Hebrues come out of the holes where they had hid themselues in. And the men of the watch aun-swered Jonathas and his harnesbearer, and said: come vp to vs, and we will shewe you a thing. And Jonathas said vnto his harnesbearer: come vp after me, for ye lord hath deliuered them into the hande of Js-rael. And Jonathas clame vp vpõ hãdes and fete, and his harnesbearer after him.
And (so when they had sene Jonathas face) they fell before Jonathas, and his harnesbearer slew them after him. And the first slaughter which Jonathas and his her- C nesbearer made, was vpon a.xx. menne, within the compasse as it were about an half acre of lande. And there was a feare in the host in the field, and among al people: insomuche that they that were gone out of ye watch to rob, were afraied also: & the earth trembled for the feare that was se͂t of god. And the watch men of Saul in Gibea Ben Jamin saw. And beholde, the people (of the Philistines) wer scattered, & wer smitten as thei went. The͂ said Saul vnto the people that were with him.
Search & see, who is gone away frõ vs.
And when they had numbred, beholde, Jonathas and his harnesbearer were not there. And Saul saide vnto Ahia: bring hither ye arke of god. For the arke of god was at that time with ye childre͂ of Jsrael.
And it fortuned that while Saul talked vnto the priest, the noyse that was in the host of ye Philistins spred further abrode, and encreased (by litle and litle, & gaue a more cleare sounde) And Saul said vnto ye priest, withdrawe thine handes. And Saul ioyned him selfe vnto all the people that wer with him, and they came to the battaill.
And behold, * euery mans sweard was a- Jud.vii.f gainst his felowe, and there was a verye ii.Pa.xx.e. great rumor. Moreouer, ye Hebrues that were with ye Philistines before that time, and wer come with them into al partes of the host, turned to be with the Jsraelites that wer with Saul and Jonathas. And all the men of Jsraell also whiche had hid themselues in mounte Ephraim, as soone as they heard how ye the Philistines wer fled, they folowed after them in ye battail.
And so god holpe Jsrael that day. And the battaile continued vnto Bethauen. And while the men of Jsrael wer kepte downe D with hungre that daye, Saul charged the people with an oth, saying: Cursed be the man that eateth any fode vntill night, till J be auenged of mine enemies. And so none of the people tasted any sustenau͂ce: And al the inhabitors of the land came to a wood where hony lay vpon the ground.
And the people came into the woode: and beholde, the hony dropped, and no manne moued his hande to hys mouth, for the people feared the oth.

But

But Jonathas heard not whē his father charged the people with the oth: wherfore he put forth ỹ end of the rod that was in his hande, and dipt it in an hony combe, & put his hande to his mouth, and his eyes receiued sight. Then answered one of the people, & said: thy father adiured the people, saying: Cursed be the man that eateth any sustenaunce this day, and the people wer faintie. Then said Jonathas: my father hath troubled the lande: se how mine eies haue receiued sight, because I tasted a litle of this hony: how much more then to day, if the people had eaten of the spoile of their enemies which they founde? And had there not bene then a muche greater slaughter amōg ỹ Philistines? And they slayed one the Philistines that daye, from Michmas to Aialon. And the people wer exceding fainty. And the people gat them to the spoile, & toke shepe, oxen, & calues, and slue them on the ground, & the people

E did eate them * with the bloud. Then men

Leu.vii.c and.xix.d told Saul, saying: Beholde, ỹ people sinne against the lord, in that they eate with the bloud. And he saied: ye haue trespassed. Roule a great stone vnto me thys daye, & Saul said again: Go abrode among the people, and bid them bryng me euery mā his oxe, and euery man his shepe, and slay them here: and sinne not against the lorde in eating with the bloud. And the people brought euery mā his oxe in his hand by night, & slue them there. And Saul made an aultar vnto the lord. And that was ỹ first aultar that he made vnto the lorde. And Saul said: let vs go down after the Philistines by night, and spoile them vntill it be day in ỹ morning, and let vs not leaue one man of them. And they said: doe whatsoeuer thou thinkest best. Then said the priest: let vs come hither vnto God. And Saul asked of god: shal I goe down after the Philistines? Wilte thou deliuer them into the handes of Israell? But he

F answered him not at ỹ time. And Saul said: let the people come hither oute of all quarters, and know and se by whom this sinne is chaunced this daye: for as truly as the lord liueth whiche saueth Israell, though it be in Jonathas my sōne he shal dye the death. But there was no man among al the people, that aunswered him. Then he said vnto al Israel: be ye on one side, and I and Jonathas my sonne will be on the other side. And the people saied vnto Saul: what thou thinkest best, that do. Therfore Saul said vnto the lord god of Israell: geue a perfecte lot. (Lorde god geue ỹ the iudgement. How happeneth it that thou geuest thy seruaūt no answere to day? If thys sinne be in me or in Jonathas my sonne, shewe it: or yf this iniquitie be in thy people.) And Saul and Jonathas were caughte, but the people escaped free. And Saul saied: caste lottes betwene me and Jonathas my sonne. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul said to Jonathas: tel me what thou haste done? And Jonathas tolde hym, and said: I tasted a litle hony with the end of ỹ rod that was in mine hand: & lo, I must dye.

Saul answered: * god do so and so to me, G Ruth.i.

thou shalt dye the death Jonathas. And the people saide vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye whiche hath so mightely helped Israel? God forbyd. As truly as the Lord liueth * there shall not one heere of his ii.Re.xiiii.

head fal to ỹ ground: for he hath wrought with god this day. And so the people deliuered Jonathas, that he dyed not. And then Saul departed vp from folowing ỹ Philistines. And the Philistines went to their owne place. And so Saul helde the kingdome ouer Israel, & fought againste all his enemyes on euerye side: against Moab: against the children of Ammon: against Edom: against the kinges of Zoba and against the Philistines. And whithersoeuer he turned himself, there he wan: & he gathered his host together & smote the handes of them that spoiled them. The sonnes of Saul wer, Jonathas, Jesui, Melchisua. And his two daughters wer thus named: the elder was called Merob, and ỹ yonger Michol. And ỹ name of Sauls wyfe was Ahinoa the daughter of Ahimaaz. And ỹ name of his chefe captaine was Abner the sonne of Ner, Sauls vncle. And * Cis was Sauls father. And i.Re.ix.a i.Par.viii.c.

Ner the father of Abner was the sonne of Abiell. And there was sore warre againste the Philistines all the dayes of Saul. And whomsoeuer Saul sawe to be a strong man, and mete for the warre, he toke him vnto hym.

The.xv. Chapter.

Saul is commaunded to slay Amalech. He is disobedient to the voice of God. Samuell mourneth for Saul.

Samuel said vnto Saul: * ỹ A i.Re.x.c.

lord sēte me to annoint thee, to be kyng ouer hys people Israell. Now therfore hearken thou vnto the voice of ỹ wordes of the lord. Thus saieth ỹ lorde of hostes:

hostes: I remembre that whiche Amalec ...xvii.d did to Israel, * how they layed waite for them in the waye, as they came out of Egipt. Now therfore go, and smite Amalec, and destroye ye all that perteineth vnto D them, and see thou haue no compassion on them * (And couet nothing that they haue) slaye ...xxiiii both man & womā, infant and suckeling, oxe and shepe, camel, and asse. And Saul gathered the people together, and * num-De.v.c. bred them in Telaim, ii. C. thousande fot-B men, and ten. M. men of Juda.
And Saul came to a citie of Amalec, and set watch in the valley. And Saul saide vnto the Kenites: go, and depart, and get you downe from among the Amalekites, lest I destroye you with thē: for ye shewed mercy to all the children of Israel, when they came out of Egipt. And so the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites. And Saul smote the Amalekites frō Heuila as thou cōmest to Sur, that lieth before Egipt, and toke Agag the king of the Amalekites aliue, and vtterly destroied al the people with ẏ edge of the sweard.
...xxiiii * But Saul and the people spared Agag,
b. and the better shepe, and the fatter oxen, and the lambes, and all that was good, and woulde not destroye them. But all C that was foule and noughte worth, that they destroied vtterlye. Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Samuell, say-Gen.vi.c ing: it * repenteth me that I haue made Saul kyng. For he is turned frō me, and hath not perfourmed my commaundemētes. And Samuel was euill apayed, and cried vnto the Lord all night. And when Samuel rose early to mete Saul in the morning, it was tolde Samuell, that Saul was come to Carmel: and beholde, he hath made him there a place, and is turned, and departed, and gone downe to Gilgal. And Samuel came to Saul, and (Saul offered burntsacrifice vnto the lorde of the D firste of the spoiles which he had broughte from A-malec: and when Samuel was come vnto Saul) Saul saide vnto him: Blessed be thou in the lord. I haue fulfilled the commaūndement of the lorde. Samuel saied: what meaneth thē the bleating of the shepe in mine eares, and the noyse of the oxen whiche I heare? Saul answered: they haue brought them from the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oxē, to sacrifice them vnto the lord thy God. And the remnaunte haue we destroied vtterlye. Samuel sayd to Saul: lette me tell thee what the lorde hath saide to me this nyght. And he sayd vnto him: saye on. Samuel saide: * when i. Re. ix c thou wast litle in thine owne sight, wast and x. a. thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel? And the lorde anointed thee kyng ouer Israel. And the lorde sent thee on a iourney, and said: Go, and vtterly destroy those synners the Amalekites, and fighte against them, vntill thou vtterly destroy them. And wherfore hast thou not herkened vnto the voice of the lorde, but haste turned to the praye, and hast done that which is wicked in the sight of the Lord.
And Saul saide vnto Samuell: yea, I haue herkened vnto the voice of the lord, E & haue gone the way which the lorde sent me vnto, and haue brought Agag ẏ kyng of Amalec, and haue vtterly destroied the Amalekites. But the people toke of the spoile, shepe, oxen, and the chefest of the thinges which should haue been destroyed, to offre vnto the lorde thy god in Gilgal. And Samuel said: hath the Lorde as great pleasure in burnt sacrifices and of-fringes, as when the voice of the lorde is obeyed? Beholde, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken is better thā the fat of rammes. For rebellion is as the sinne of * witchcrafte, and stubournesse Ex.xxii.c is as the wickednesse of idolatrye. De.xviii.
Because thou hast cast awaye the worde b. of the lorde, therfore hath the lorde caste awaye thee also from being kyng. And Saul said vnto Samuel: I haue sinned, for I haue gone further than the saying of the lorde and thy wordes, because I F feared the people, and obeyed their voice.
Nowe therefore take away my sinne, and turne againe with me, that I maye worshippe the lord. And Samuel saide vnto Saul: I will not returne with thee: for thou haste caste awaye the worde of the lord, & the lord hath cast awai thee, ẏ thou shalt not be kyng ouer Israell. And as Samuel turned him selfe to goe awaye, he caughte the lappe of his coate, and it rent. And Samuel said vnto him: ẏ lorde hath rente the kingdome of Israell from thee this daye, & hath geuen it to a neighbour of thine, that is better than thou.
The strength of Israell will not begile nor repent: for he is not a man that can repent. He saied: I haue sinned. But now honour me before the elders of my people G and before Israel, and turne againe with me, that I may worshyppe the Lorde thy god. And so Samuel turned againe, and folowed Saul. And Saul worshypped

the lord. Then saied Samuel: Bryng ye hither to me Agag the kyng of the Amalekites. And Agag came vnto him delicately. And Agag sayed truelye thy bitter death commeth on. And Samuel said: as thy swerde hath made wome̅ childlesse, so shal thy mother be childlesse aboue other wome̅: And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces beefore the lorde in Gilgal. And then *Samuel departed to Rama. And Saul i Re.viii.d went home to his house to Gibea Saul.
And Samuel came no more to see Saul vntil the day of his death. Neuerthelesse, Samuel mourned for Saul, and the lord repented, that he had made Saul kyng ouer Israel.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Dauid is anointed kyng. An euill spirite commeth vpon Saul.

A THe Lorde saied vnto Samuel: How long wilte thou mourne for Saul, seyng I haue cast him awaye fro̅ raining ouer Israell? Fill thine horne with ointme̅t, and come, that I may sende thee to Isay the Bethlehemite, for I haue prouided me a kyng among his sonnes.
And Samuel said: how can I go? For yf Saul heare it, he will kill me. The Lorde answered: Take an heifer with thee, and saye: I am come to offre to the Lord. And cal Isai to the offring, and I will shewe thee, what thou shalt doe: and thou shalte annointe him whom I name vnto thee.
And so Samuel did as the lorde bad him, and came to Bethlehem, and the elders of B the towne wer astonied at his coming, & iii.Re.ii.c. saied: ✚ Comest thou peaceably? He answered: Yea, I am come to offer vnto the lorde. Sanctifie * your selfes, and come Nu.xi.d, Jos.iii.b and vii.c with me to the offring. And he sanctified Isai and his sonnes, and bad them to the offring. And when they were come, he loked on Eliab, and saide: Surely the lordes annointed is before him. But the Lorde saide vnto Samuel: loke not on his fashio̅ or on ẏ height of his stature because I haue refused him: For god seeth not as man seeth. For man loketh on the outewarde apperaunce, but god behol-deth the hearte. Then Isai called Abinadab, and made him come before Samuel.
And he sayde: neither hath the Lord chosen this. Then Isai made Samma come, and he saide: neither yet hath the Lorde chosen him. Againe, Isai made seuen of his sonnes to come before Samuel, and Samuel said vnto Isai: the Lorde hath chosen none of these. And Samuel sayde vnto Isai: are here all thy children?
He saide: there is yet a litle one behinde C that kepeth the shepe. And Samuel saide vnto Isai: sende and fette him, for we will not sit downe til he be come hither.
And he sente, and brought him in. And he was browne, and of an excellent beautye, ✚ and wel fauoured in sight. And the lord said: Arise, & annoint him, for this is he.
Therefore Samuel toke the horne with the oyntement and annointed him in the middes of his brethren. And the spirite of the lord came vpon Dauid, from that day forewarde. And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama. But the spirite of the lord departed from Saul, and an euill spirite sent of the Lorde vexed him. And Sauls seruauntes said vnto him: Beholde, an euill spirite sent of god vexed thee: let our Lord therfore co̅maunde his seruauntes (that are before thee) to seke a man, that is a conning player with an harpe: that when the euill spirite sent of god cometh vpon thee, he maye playe with his hand, and thou shalte be eased. Saul said vnto his seruauntes: prouide me a man then that can playe well, and bryng him to me.
Then aunswered one of his seruauntes, and saide: Beholde, I haue sene a sonne D of Isai the Bethlehemite, that can playe vpon instrumentes, and is an actiue fe-lowe, and a man of warre, and prudente in doing of feates, and well made, and the Lord is with him. Wherfore Saul sent messengers vnto Isai, and said: sende me Dauid thi sonne, which is with the shepe.
And Isai toke an asse laden with bread and a flackete of wine, and a kyd, and set them by Dauid hys sonne vnto Saul.
And Dauid came to Saul, and stode before him, and he loued him very well, and he was made his harnesbearer.
And Saul sent to Isai, saying: let Dauid remaine with me, for he hath founde fa-uour in my sight. And so it fortuned, that when the euill spirite sent of god came vp-on Saul. Dauid toke an harpe & played with his hande, and so Saul was refres-shed, and did amende, and the euill spirite departed from him.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Dauid ouercometh great Goliath.

The

A The Philistines gathered their host to battail, & came together to Socoth whiche is in Juda, & pitched betwene Socoth and Azekah, in the coast of Dãmin: And Saul & the men of Israel came together, & pyt-ched in the oke valley, & put themselues in aray to fight against the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hil on ÿ other side, & there was a valley betwene them.
And there came a man betwene thẽ both, out of the tentes of ÿ Philistines, named Jos.xi.b. Goliath ✦ of Gath, vi. cubites and an hãd bredth long, and had an helmet of brasse vpon his head, and a coate of maile about him. And the weight of his coate of maile was v. M. sicles of brasse. And he hadde bootes of brasse vpon hys legges, and a shielde of brasse vpon his shoulders. And ÿ shafte of his speare was like a weauers beame. And his speare head weyed syxe hundred sycles of yron. And one bearing a shielde went before hym.
And he stode and cryed against the host of Israel, and saied vnto them: Why are ye come out in araye to battell? am not I a Philistine, and you seruauntes to Saul? chose you a man from amõg you, and let him come down to me. And yf he be hable to fight with me, & to beate me: then will we be your seruauntes. But yf I can o-uercome him, & beate him, then shal ye be B oure seruauntes, and serue vs. And the Philistines said; I defie the host of Israel this daye: geue me a man, that we maye fight together. Whẽ Saul and all Israel heard those wordes of the Philistine, thei were discouraged, and greatly afraide.
Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite (of whom mention is made afore) of Bethlehẽ Juda, named Isai, which had eight son-nes. And was an old man in the dayes of Saul, and came to age amonge men. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai went, and folowed Saul to the battaile. And the names of his thre sonnes that wẽt to battell, were Eliab the eldest, and the next Abinadab, and the thirde Samma: and Dauid was the least. And the thre eldest went after Saul. Dauid also went, and departed from Saul to feede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine came forth in the morning, and euening, and continued forty dayes.
And Isai said vnto Dauid his sõne: take for thy brethren an Epha of this parched corne, and these ten loues: and bring it vnto the host to thy brethren. And cary these
x. fresh cheses vnto the captaine, and loke how thy brethren fare, and set oute their C pledge. And Saul and they, and all the men of Israell were in the oke valleye, fightyng with the Philistines. And Da-uid rose vp early in the morning, and left the shepe with a keper, and toke and went as Isai had commaunded him, and came within the compasse of the hoste. And the hoste went out in araye, and shouted in the battaile: for Israel and the Philistines had put themselues in araye, the one against the other. And Dauid toke down the geare from him, and put them vnder the handes of the keper of the vessels, and ran into the hoste, and came and saluted his brethren. And as he talked with thẽ: Beholde, there stode a man in the middes (Goliah the Philistine by name) of Gath oute of the araye of the Philistines, and spake of the maner aboue rehearsed, that Dauid heard it. And al the men of Israel when they saw the man, ran awaye from hym, and were sore afrayed. And euerye man of Israel saide: Sawe ye this man come forthe, euen to reuile Israell is he come. ✦ And to him that beateth him will Jos.xv.c. the kyng geue greate richesse, and will geue him his daughter thereto: yea, and make his fathers house free in Israel.
And Dauid spake to the men that stode by and said: What shalbe done to the man D that beateth this Philistine, and taketh awaye the shame from Israel? And what is this vncircumcised Philistine, that he should reuile the hoste of the liuyng god?
And the people answered hym (after this maner) saying: so shal it be done to the mã that beateth him.
And Eliab his eldeste brother heard whẽ he spake vnto the menne, and Eliab was angrye with Dauid, and saide: why camest thou downe hither? and with whom haste thou lefte those fewe shepe in the wildernesse? I knowe thy pryde and the malice of thine heart, that thou art come downe to se ÿ battaile. And Dauid said: And what haue I now done? is there not a worde? And he departed from him into the presence of an other, and spake of the same maner: and the people aunswered him againe as before.

And they that heard the wordes which Dauid spake, rehearsed thē before Saul, which caused him to bee fette. And Dauid saide to Saul: Let no mans hearte faile him because of him. Thy seruaūt will go, and fight with yonder Philistine. And Saul saide to Dauid againe: thou art not able to go agaynste yonder Philistine to fight with him: For thou arte but a child, but he is a man of warre, euen from hys youth. Dauid answered vnto Saul: Thy seruaunt kept his fathers shepe, and there In xiiii b came a * lion, and likewise a Beare, and Heb.xi.f. toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I went E out after him and smote him, and toke it out of his mouthe. And when he arose against me, I caught him by the beard, and smote hym, and slew him. And so thy ser-uaunt slew the lion, and the Beare (also) hath thy seruaunt slaine. And truly this vncircumcised Philistine shalbe as one of them (Nowe will I go, & take away the rebuke of the people: for what is this vncircūcised Philistine?) seyng he hath railed on the host of the lyuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer: ÿ lord ÿ deliuered me out of the hand of the lion, and out of the hand of the Beare, he shal deliuer me also out of the hand of the Philistine. And Saul saide vnto Dauid: go, and the Lord shal bee with thee. And Saul put his raiment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpō his head, and put a coate of maile vpon him, and girded Dauid with his owne swearde vpon hys rayment. And he assayed to go. And because he neuer proued it, Dauid sayd vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my self therto. And Dauid put them of him, and toke his staffe in his hand, and chose him fiue smoth stones out of a broke, and put them in a shepheardes bag whiche he had, and in a slyng poke: & his slyng was in his hand, and he went to the Philistine.
F And the Philistine came and drew neare against Dauid, and the mā that bare the shyelde wente before him. And when the Philistine loked aboute and saw Dauid, he disdayned him, for he was but yōg, and wel coloured, and goodly to looke vpon.
And the Philistine sayd vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou comest to me with a staffe? And the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his Goddes.
And the Philistine sayd to Dauid: come to me, and I will geue thy flesh vnto the foules of the aire, and to the beastes of the felde. Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me with a sweard, a speare, and a shield: But I come to thee in the name of the Lorde of hostes, the God of the hoste of Israel, whome thou hast railed vpon. This daye shal the lorde deliuer thee into my hande, and I shall smite thee and take thine head from thee, and will geue the carkasses of the hoste of the Philistines this daye vnto the foules of the aire, and to the beastes of the earth, that all they whiche bee in the world may knowe that there is a God in Israell.
And all this congregation shall knowe, that the lord saueth not with sweard and speare. For the battaile is the Lordes, and he shall geue you into oure handes.
And when the Philistine arose to come and drawe nye vnto Dauid, Dauid hasted and ranne into the battaile euen againste the Philistine. And Dauid put his hande in his bagge, and toke out a stone, & slang it, and smote the Philistine in his fore-heade, that the stone sonke into his fore- Eccli.xl head, * and he fell groueling to the earth. a.
And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine with a slyng and a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him, euen when Da-uid had no sweard in his hand. But Da- G uid ranne, and stode vpon the Philistine, and toke his swearde, and drew it oute of his sheath, and slewe him, and cut of his head therewith. And when the Philistines sawe, that their champion was dead, * they fled. And ÿ men of Israel & of Iu- Iud.xii da arose, and shouted, and folowed after the Philistines, vntill they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Akarō. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by ÿ way to Saaraim, euē vnto Gath and Akaron. And the children of Israell returned from chasyng after the Philistines, & spoiled their tentes. And Dauid toke the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Ierusalem: But he put his armoure in his tent. Whē Saul saw Dauid go forthe agaynst the Philistine, he said vnto * Ab- i.Re.xiiii ner the captaine of his host: Abner, whose g. sonne is this yong mā? Abner answered: as truly as thy soule liueth (O kyng) I cannot tel. And the kyng sayde: Enquire thou whose sonne the yonglyng is.

And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke him, and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand.
And Saul said to him: whose sonne arte thou, thou yong man? Dauid aunswered: I am the sonne of thy seruaunt Isai the Bethlehemite.

The .xviii. Chapter.

The bonde betwene Dauid and Jonathas. Saul goeth about to slaye Dauid.

A AND when he had made an end of speakyng vnto Saule, the soule of Jonathas was knyt with the soule of Dauid, and Jonathas loued him as hys owne soule. And Saule toke hym that day, & would let him go no more home to his fathers house. And Jonathas made a couenaunt with Dauid because he loued him as his owne soule. And Jonathas put of his owne coate that was vpõ hym, and gaue it Dauid, and therto his cloke, his swearde, his bow and his girdle. And Dauid went out whither soeuer Saul set him, and behaued him selfe wyselye. And Saul set him ouer his men of warre, and he was accepted in the sight of al the people, and in the sight of Sauls seruaũtes.
B And it happened as they wente, when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, the women came oute of al cities of Israel, singyng and dauncing against kyng Saul, and with timbrels, with ioye, and with instrumentes of musike. And the women answered one another in their play, and sayd: * Saul hath slayne his thousande, and Dauid hys ten thousande. And Saule was exceding wroth, and the saying displeased him, and he saide: they haue ascribed vnto Dauid x. thousand, and to me but a thousãd: and what can he more haue, saue ẏ kingdome? Wherfore Saule loked on side of Dauid from that day foreward. And it happened on the morawe, that the euil spirite sente of God came vpon Saul, and he prophecied in the middes of the house. And Dauid played with his hand like as at other C times, & there was a iaueling in Saules hande. And Saule toke the iauelyng, and said: I will nayle Dauid to the wall with it. And Dauid auoyded oute of hys presẽce two tymes. And Saule was afraied of Dauid, because ẏ Lord was with him, and was departed from Saule. Therfore Saule put him from him, and made him a captaine ouer a thousande, and he went out and in before the people. And Dauid behaued himselfe wiselye in al his wayes, and the Lorde was with him.
Wherfore when Saul sawe that he was D so excedyng wise, he was afrayde of him. But al Israel and Juda loued Dauid bicause he went out and in before them. And Saule sayd to Dauid: Beholde my eldest daughter Merob, her I will geue thee to wife. Onelye playe the man with me, and fight the Lords battailes. For Saule thoughte: myne hand shal not be vpon hym, but the hand of the Philistines. And Dauid answered Saul: what am I? and what is my life, or the kynred of my father in Israell, that I shoulde be sonne in lawe to the king? Howbeit whẽ the time was come that Merob Saules E daughter shoulde haue been geuẽ to Dauid, she was geuen vnto Adzeel a Meholothite, to wife. Howbeit, Michol Sauls daughter loued Dauid. And they shewed Saul; and the thyng displeased him not. And Saul sayd: I will geue him her that she maye bee a snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistines maye be againste him. Wherefore Saule saide to Dauid: thou shalt this day be my sonne in law in the other daughter. And Saul commaũded his seruauntes to common with Dauid secretly, and to saye: Behold, the kyng hath a fauoure to thee, and al his seruaũtes loue thee: be now therfore the kynges sonne in lawe.
And Sauls seruauntes spake these F wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Dauid sayde: semeth it to you a light thyng to be a kinges sonne in lawe? I am a pore man, and of small reputation. And ẏ seruauntes broughte Saul worde againe, saying: of this maner spake Dauid. And Saul sayde: this wise shal ye saye to Dauid: the kyng careth for no nother dowry, but for an hundred foreskinnes of ẏ Philistines, to be auenged of the kynges enemies. But Saul thought to make Dauid fall into the hãdes of the Philistines. And when hys seruauntes tolde Dauid these wordes, it pleased Dauid well to be G the kynges sonne in lawe. And or ẏ dayes were expired, Dauid arose with his men, & went and slew of the Philistines, two hundred men: and Dauid brought their foreskynnes, and satisfied the kyng therof, to bee his sonne in lawe. * Wherefore Saul gaue him Michol his daughter to wife. And Saul saw and vnderstode how that the Lord was with Dauid, and that

Michol his daughter loued him, and he was the more afrayed of Dauid: & Saul became alwaye Dauids enemy. The lor-des of the Philistines vsed to go forth.
And it fortuned, that whē they wēt forth, Dauid behaued him selfe wiselier than all the seruauntes of Saul: so that his name was muche set by.

The .xix. Chapter.

Saul commaundeth to slaye Dauid. Michol his wife saueth hym.

A SAul spake to Jonathas hys sonne, and to all his seruaūtes, that they should kil Dai Regum xxviii. a. uid. *But Jonathas Sauls sonne had a great fauour to Dauid, and Jonathas tolde Dauid, saying: Saul, my father goeth about to slaye the. Nowe therfore, take hede to thy selfe vntil the mornyng, and abide in some secret place. & hide thy selfe. And I will go oute and stand by my father in the fielde. where thou art, and wil cōmune with my father of thee, and whatsoeuer I see, I wil tell thee. And Jonathas spake good of Dauid, vnto Saule his father, and sayde vnto him: let not the kyng sinne againste his seruaunt Dauid, for he hath not synned against thee, and his workes haue been to theewarde very good. For he dyd Jud. xii. a Ps. cxix. d *put his life in his hand, & slew the Philistine, and the Lorde broughte to passe a great health for all Israel. Thou sawest it, and thou reioicedst: wherfore then wilt thou sinne against innocent bloude, and slaye Dauid without a cause? And Saule hearkened vnto the voice of Jonathas, B and sware: as truely as the Lorde liueth, he shall not dye. And Jonathas called Dauid, and shewed him all those wordes & brought Dauid to Saul. And he was in his presence as in times paste. And the warre began againe, and Dauid wente out and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter, & they fled from him. And the euell spirite sente of the Lorde was vpon Saul as he sat in his house hauyng a iaueling in his hand, and Dauid played with his hande. And Saule entended to naile Dauid to ÿ wal with the iaueling. But he rid himselfe out of Sauls presence, as he smote the speare (with a vaine stroke) in to ÿ wal. And Dauid fled, and was saued ÿ same night. Saul also sente messēgers vnto Dauids house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning. And Michol Dauids wife tolde it him, saying: Yf thou saue not thy selfe this night, to morow thou wilt be slaine. And so *Michol let Dauid downe thorow a window, & he went and fled, & was saued.
And then she toke an image and layed it in the bed, and put a pillow stuffed with goates heere vnder the heade of it, and co-uered it with a cloth. And when Saul sēt messangers to fetche Dauid, she sayde: he is sicke. And Saul sente the messengers againe to see Dauid, saying: bryng hym to me, bed and all, that I may slaye hym.
And when the messengers were come in:
Beholde, there laye an image in the bed, with a pillowe of goates heare vnder the head of it. And Saul saide vnto Michol: why hast thou mocked me so, and sente away mine enemy, that he is escaped? Michol answered Saul: For he sayde vnto me: let me go, or els I will kill thee. And so Dauid fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Rama, and tolde him all that Saul had done to him. And he & Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.
And one tolde Saul, saying: Beholde, Dauid is at Naioth in Rama. And Saul D sent messengers to fet Dauid. And when they saw a company of prophetes prophecy ing, and Samuel standing fast by the, the spirite of God fel vpō the messengers of Saul, & they prophecied to. And when it was tolde Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophecied likewise. And Saul sent messengers yet againe ÿ third time, & they prophecied also. Then went he himself to Rama, and came to a great well that is in Sechu, and he asked and sayd: where are Samuel & Dauid? And one saide: beholde, they be at Naioth in Rama and he went thither, euen to Nai-oth in Rama, and the spirite of God came vpon him also, and he went prophecying vntill he came to Naioth in Rama. And he strypte of his clothes, & prophecied before Samuel in like maner, and fel naked al that day and al that night. *And ther-of it is, that they saye: is Saul also among the prophetes?

The .xx. Chapter.

Dauid complaineth vnto Jonathas.

AND Dauid fled from Naioth whiche is in Rama, & came & B said before Jonathas: What haue I done? Wherin am I faultie? what is the sinne that I haue committed before thy father, that he seketh my life? He sayd vnto him. God forbid, thou shalt not dye. Behold, my father wil do nothing either great or small,
but but ye he wil shew it me. And how shoulde my father hide this thing fro me? He will not do it. And Dauid sware againe and saide: thy father knoweth yt I haue found grace in thine eies, and therfore he saith: Jonathas shall not knowe it, lest he bee sory. And in very dede, euen as truely as the lord liueth, & as truly as thy soule lyueth, there is but a step betwene me and death. Then said Jonathas vnto Dauid: whatsoeuer thy soule desireth, that I wil do vnto thee. And Dauid said vnto Jona-thas: Behold, to morow is the beginning B of the moneth, and I shoulde syt with the king at meate. But let me go, that I may hide my selfe in the feldes vnto the third daye at euen. Yf thy father speake of me, then saye, Dauid asked leaue of me, that he might go to Bethlehem to his own ci-tie, for there is holden a yerely feast for al the kynred. And yf he say: it is well done, then thy seruaunte shall haue peace. But & if he be angry, then be sure that wickednesse is vtterly concluded of him. And thē thou shalt shew mercy vnto thy seruaunt Re.xviii * for thou hast made with me thy seruaūt a bond in the Lord. Notwithstanding, if xviii.c. there be in me any trespasse: then slay me thy selfe, and bring me not to thy father.

And Jonathas answered: God kepe that from thee (neither is it possible to come to passe.) For if I know that wickednesse were cō-cluded of my father to come vpon thee, thinkest thou, yt I should not tel it thee?
Then said Dauid: who shall tell me if thy father answer cruelly? And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid: come, & let vs goe oute into the felde. And they went out both of thē into ye fielde. And Jonathas saide vn-C to Dauid: the Lord god of Israel loke vn it, whē I haue groped my fathers minde one time or other within this .iii. dayes yt it stande wel with Dauid: yf I then send not vnto thee, and shewe it thee, the lord do so & so vnto Jonathas. But yf my father haue any pleasure to do thee euill, I will shew thee also, and sende thee awaye that thou mayest goe in peace. And ye lord be with thee as he hath been with my father. And I doubt not but that thou wilt perfourme vnto me the mercy of the lord, not onely while I liue, but euen when I am dead, and pluck not thy mercy awaye fro my house for euer: No, not whē ye lord hath destroyed the enemyes of Dauid, e-uery one frō the face of the earth. And so Jonathas made a bond with the house of Dauid, desiring that the lord should seke it out by the handes of Dauids enemyes, (yf it wer brokē.) And with other wordes did Jonathas sweare vnto Dauid, bee-cause he loued hym. For he loued him as his owne soule. Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid: to morow is the first day of the moone. And thou shalt be missed, because ye place where thou wast wont to sit, shall be empty. Therfore this day thre dayes, come downe in any wise vnto the place where thou didst hide thy self, when ye businesse was in hand: euen by the stone E- D sel. And I wil shote thre arowes by ye one side thereof, as thoughe I shot them at a marke, and wil send a lad and byd him go seke the arowes. And yf I say vnto ye lad: see, ye arowes are on this syde thee, bring them: then come thou: for it is peace & no hurt, as sure as the Lord liueth. But and if I say vnto the lad: behold, ye arowes are beyōd thee, then go (in peace) for the lorde hath sēt thee away. And as touching this which thou and I haue spoken: behold, ye Lord be betwene thee & me for euer. And so Dauid hid him self in ye field? And whē the new moone was come, the kyng sate him downe to eate meate. And the kyng sat him downe after ye olde maner, in hys seate by the wall. And Jonathas arose, & Abner sat by Sauls side, & Dauids place was emptie. Neuerthelesse. Saul sayde nothing at al ye day. For he thought: some thing hathe chaunced him, that he is not cleane. But on ye morow whiche was the second day of the new mone, it happened, that Dauids place was emptie agayne.
And Saul said vnto Jonathas his sōne: Wherefore cometh not the sonne of Isai to meate, neyther yesterday nor to daye? E And Jonathas answered vnto Saul: Dauid asked licence of me to go to Bethlehem, for he sayd: let me go, I pray thee, for oure kynred doeth holde an offeryng in the citie, and my brother hath sente for me. And therfore if I haue found fauour in thine eies, let me go, & see my brethren.
This is the cause that he cometh not vnto the kynges table. Thē was Saul angry with Jonathas, and sayde vnto him: Thou wicked rebel, do not I know, that thou hast chosen ye sōne of Isai vnto thine owne rebuke, & vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother? For as lōg as ye sōne of Isai liueth vpō the earth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor yet thy kingdom: wherfore i Re.xxi.c now send & fet him vnto me, * for he is ye ii. Re.xii. child of death. And Jonathas answered d. vnto Saul his father, and said vnto him:

Wherefore shoulde he dye? what hath he done? And Saul lift vp a spere to hit him, wherby Jonathas wist well that it was vtterly determined of his father to slaye Dauid. And so Jonathas arose from the table in a greate anger, and did eate no meate the secounde daye of the moneth, for he was sory for Dauid, because his father hadde done him shame. On the next morning, Jonathas wẽt out into yͤ field, at the time appointed with Dauid, and a litle lad with him. And he saide vnto hys boy: rũne, ꝛ seke out mine arowes whiche J shot: ꝛ as the boye ran, he shot an arow beyond him. And when the lad was come to the place whither Jonathas had shott G the arow, Jonathas cried after the lad, ꝛ said: Js not the arow beyond thee? And Jonathas cried after the lad again: make spede, ꝛ stand not stil. And Jonathas lad gathered vp the arowes, and came to his master. But yͤ lad wist nothing of yͤ matter. Onely Jonathas and Dauid wist it.
And Jonathas gaue his weapons vnto the lad that was with him, and said vnto him: go and cary them to the towne. And assone as the ladde was gone, Dauid arose oute of a place that was towarde the south, ꝛ fel on his face to the ground, and worshipped thre times. And they kyssed eyther other, and wept together so long, til Dauid exceaded in wepyng. And Jonathas said to Dauid: go in peace. And yͤ thiges which we haue sworne both of vs in the name of the Lord, saying: the lord be betwene thee and me, and betwene thy seede and mine, lette them stand for euer.
And he arose and departed. And Jona-thas went into the towne.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Dauid flieth into Nob to Ahimelech the priest, and getteth of him the shewbred to satisfy hys hũger. Afterwarde he flieth to kyng Achis, and there faineth himselfe to be madde.

A Then came Dauid to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. And Ahimelech was astonied at the sodaine coming of Dauid, and said vnto him: Why art thou alone, and noman with thee? And Dauid said to Ahimelech the priest: the kyng hath commaunded me to do a certaine thyng, and hath said vnto me: let no man know wherabout J sẽd thee, and what J haue commaunded thee to do. And J haue appointed my seruaũ-I. Re. xxv b. tes to such and suche places. Now there-
b. fore, if thou hast ought vnder thine hãd, Mt. viii. b * geue me .v. loues of bread, or what cometh to hande. And the priest answered Dauid, and said: there is no cõmon bread vnder mine hande, but here is halowed bread, if the yong men haue kept thẽsel-ues frõ vncleane thinges, especially women. Dauid answered the priest, and said vnto him: of a truthe women haue been locked vp frõ vs about a thre dayes whẽ J came out, and the vessells of the yong men were holye. Howbeit, this waye is vnpure, and how muche more shall there Le. xx bee holinesse in the vessell? * And so the b. priest gaue him halowed bread, for there Mat. x was none other bread there, saue yͤ shewbreades that were taken from before the Lorde, to put freshe bread there, the daye that it was taken awaye.

And there was there the same daye a certaine man of the seruauntes of Saul C abydyng before the Lorde, named Doeg an Edomite, yͤ chefest of Sauls herdmẽ.
And Dauid saide vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thine hande eyther speare or sweard? for J haue neyther brought my sweard nor my harnesse with me, because the kinges busines required hast. And the priest said: the sweard of Goliath yͤ Philistine whom thou slewest in the oke valley: behold, it is here wrapt in a cloth behind the Ephod. Jf thou wilt take yͤ, take it: for there is none other saue that here.
And Dauid saide: there is none to that, geue it me. And Dauid arose and fled the same day from the presence of Saul, and wente to Achis the kyng of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayde of hym: is not this Dauid the king of the lande? dyd they not syng vnto him in daunces, saying: * Saule hathe slayne his thousaund, D and Dauid his ten thousande. i. Regu.

And Dauid put those wordes into hys xviii. b. hearte, and was sore afrayd of Achis, the &. xxix. c. king of Geth. And he chaũged his speche before them, and fained him selfe mad in their handes, and scrabled on the dores of the gate, ꝛ let his spettle fall downe vpon his beard. Then said Achis vnto his seruauntes: Lo, ye see that this mã is beside him selfe: wherfore then haue ye brought him to me? haue J nede of mad men, that ye haue brought this felowe to playe the madde man in my presẽce? Shal he come into my house?

The .xxii. Chapter.

Doeg betrayeth Dauid. Ahimelech is accused of treason and slayne, and .lxxxiiii. priestes mo with him, because they receyued Dauid. Nob is destroyed of Saul. Abiathar flyeth to Dauid.

A Dauid therfore departed thēce, and escaped, and came vnto ẏ caue Odollam. When his brethren also and all his fathers house hearde it, they wente downe thither to him: And there gathered vnto him all menne that wer in com-braunce, and in det, and troubled in their myndes, and he became a captaine ouer them. And there were with him vpon a foure hundred mē. And Dauid wēt thēce to Mizpa in the lande of Moab: & sayde vnto the king of Moab: Let my father & my mother (I pray thee) come foorth vnto you, till I knowe what God will doe for me. And he brought them before the king of Moab. And they dwelte with hym all the while that Dauid kepte him selfe in holde. And ẏ prophet Gad said vnto Da-uid: abyde not in hold, but depart and go into the lande of Juda. Then Dauid departed & came into ẏ forest of Hareth. And Saul heard that Dauid was come abrod, and also the men that wer with him. And Saul sat in Gibea vnder a tree in Rama hauing his spere in his hand, and all hys men stode about him. And Saul said vnto his seruauntes that stode about him.
Heare I pray you ye sōnes of Jemini: will B the sonne of Isai geue euerye one of you fieldes and vineyardes, and make you all captaines ouer thousandes, & ouer hun-dredes: that ye haue also cōspired against me, and there is none that telleth it me in mine eare? And wher as my sonne hath i.Re.xviii. made a bonde with ẏ sonne of Isai, there a. is none of you ẏ mourneth for me, or she-and xx.d weth it in mine eare: behold, my sōne hath stered vp my seruaūt to lie awayt against me this same day. Then answered Doeg the Edomite which also stode by ẏ seruaūtes of Saul, & said: I saw the sonne of Isai when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob, which asked counsail of the Lord for him, and gaue him vitay-les, & the sweard of Goliah the Philistine also. Then the kyng sent and called for Ahimelech the priest, the sonne of Ahitob, and all his fathers house, that is to saye: ẏ C priestes that wer in Nob. And they came al to the king. And Saul said; heare now thou sonne of Ahitob. He aunswered: here I am my lord. And Saule said vnto hym: why haue ye consired against me, thou and the sonne of Isai, in that thou hast geuen him vitaile, and a sweard, and hast asked counsaile of God for him, that he should arise against me, & lie awayt for me this day? Ahimelech answered the king, & said: who is so faithful among all thy seruauntes as Dauid, and therto ẏ kynges sōne in law, & goeth at thy biddīg, & is had in honour in thine house? haue I this day begonne first to aske counsaile of God for him? That be far fro me (if I had knowē it) let not ẏ kyng put suche a thing vnto his seruaunt, in al the house of my father: For thy seruaūt knew nothing of al this, either lesse, or more. The kyng saide: thou shalt surely dye Ahimelech, thou, & all thy fathers house. And the kyng saide vnto ẏ fote mē that stode about him, tourne, and slay the priestes of the lorde, both because their hād is with Dauid, and because they knew whē Dauid fled, and shewed it not to me. But the seruauntes of the kyng would not moue their handes to fal vpon the Priestes of the Lorde. And the kyng said to Doeg: turne thou, and fal vpon the priestes. And Doeg the Edomite tourned and ranne vpō the priestes, and slew that D same day four score and fiue persons that did weare a lynē Ephod. And Nob the ci-tie of the priestes smote he with the edge of the sweard, both men and women, children and sucklinges, oxen, asses, & shepe.
And one of the sonnes of Ahimelech, the sōne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) escaped & fledde to Dauid. And Abiathar shewed Dauid how ẏ Saul had slaine ẏ Lordes priestes. And Dauid said vnto Abiathar.
I wist it the same day, when Doeg ẏ E-domite was there, ẏ he would tell Saul.
And I am cause of the death of all the soules of thy fathers house. Abyde thou with me, and feare not. For if any mā seke my soule, he shall seke thine also: with me thou shalt be in sauegarde.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Dauid flyeth into the wildernesse of Ziph.

THen they tolde Dauid, A saying: Beholde, the Philistines fight against Kei-lah, and spoile ẏ barnes.
Therfore Dauid asked ẏ Lordes aduise, saying:
shal I go and smite these Philistines? And the lord answered vnto Dauid: goe and smite the Philistines, & saue Keilah. And Dauids mē that wer w him, said vnto him: see, we be afraied here in Juda; how much more then if we come to Keilah against the host of the Philistines? Then Dauid asked the lord againe.
And the Lorde answered him, and sayde Arise, & goe downe to Keilah for I wil deliuer the Philistines into thine hand.

And so Dauid & his mē went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, & droue away their cattel, & smot thē with a great slaughter. And so Dauid saued ẏ enhabi-tours of Keilah. And it chaūced whē Abiathar ẏ sōne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah, ẏ he brought an Ephod wt hym in his hand. And it was told Saul ẏ Da-uid was come to Keilah. And Saul said: God hath deliuered him into mine hand.
For he is shut in, nowe that he is come into a towne that hath gates and barres.
And Saule called al the people together to warre, for to goe downe to Keilah, & to besiege Dauid and his men. And Dauid hauing knowlege that Saul imagined mischefe against him, saide to Abiathar the Priest: Bring the Ephod. Thē sayd ii. Regū. xxx. b Dauid: O Lord God of Israel, thy seruāt hath hearde, that Saule is about to come against Keilah to destroy the citie for my sake: wil the men of Keilah deliuer me into his hand? And wil Saule come downe as thy seruaunt hath heard saye? O Lord God of Israel, tell thy seruaunt. And the Lord sayde: he will come downe. Then saide Dauid: will the men of Keilah deli-uer me, and the men that are with me into the hand of Saule? and the Lord sayd: they will betraye you.

Then Dauid & his men which were vpō a sixe hundred, arose, and departed out of Keilah, & went whither they coulde. And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled from Keilah, and he let ẏ iourney alone.
Dauid abode in the wildernesse in strong C holdes, & remained in a mountaine in the wildernesse of Ziph. And Saule soughte him euery day, but God deliuered him not into his hand. And Dauid saw that Saul was come out to seke his life. And Dauid was in ẏ wildernesse of Ziph in a thicket.
And Jonathas Saules sonne arose and went to Dauid into the thicket, and cōfor-ted his hand in God, and saide vnto him: feare not, for the hand of Saul my father shal not finde thee, and thou shalt be king ouer Israel, & I must be next vnto thee.
And that doeth Saule my father knowe.
ii. Regū. xviii, a. and. xx. b. *And they made a bonde both of them together before the Lord. And Dauid tarried still in the thicket, & Jonathas wente to his house. Then came the Ziphites to Saul to Gibea, saying: doeth not Dauid hyde him selfe fast by vs in strong holdes, in a thicket that is by the hill of Hachila, on the right side of the wildernesse? Now therfore, O king, thou maist come downe according to all the lust of thy soule: come downe, and oure parte shalbe to deliuer him into the kynges hande. And Saule said: Blessed are ye in the lord: for ye haue compassion on me. Goe, I pray you, and ordre the matter well: know and see hys haunte, where his fote hath been, & who hath sene him there, for it is tolde me that he is very subtile, and worketh craftylye.
Se therefore, and knowe all the lurkyng places where he hydeth him selfe, & come ye againe to me with the certentie, and I will go with you. And if he be in the land, I will search him out thorowoute all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose and went to Ziph before Saule. But Dauid and his men were in the wildernesse of Maon, in ẏ plaine that is on the right hand of Jesimon. Saul also and his men went to seke, & they tolde Dauid. Wherefore he went vnto a rocke, and abode in the wildernesse of Maon.
And when Saule heard that, he folowed after Dauid in the wildernesse of Maon.
And Saule and his men went on the one side of the mountaine, and Dauid and his menne on the other side. And Dauid toke thought how to geat frō Saul. For Saul and his men compassed Dauid & his men round about, to take thē. But there came a messanger to Saul, saying: hast thee, & come for the Philistines are come into the land. Wherfore Saule returned frō persecuting Dauid, & went against the Philistines. And therfore is it, that they called the place the rocke of separatiō. And Da-uid went thence, and dwelte in strōg hol-des at Engaddi.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

Dauid flyeth vnto Engaddi, and there hideth him in a caue. Saul commeth in thither to do his easement.

WHen Saule was come again frō A folowing after the Philistines, it fortuned ẏ there were which told him, saying: beholde, Dauid is in the wildernesse of Engaddi. Then Saul toke thre thousande chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke Dauid and hys men in ẏ heyght of ẏ Rockes, wher wilde Goates remaine.

And he came to the flockes of shepe in the waye. And Saul went into a caue to couer his feete. And Dauid & his men remained in the inward partes of the caue.
And the men of Dauid said vnto him: see, the daye is come, of which the Lord sayd vnto vnto thee. Beholde, I will deliuer thine enemie into thine hand, & thou shalt do to him, as it shal seme good in thy sight. Thē Dauid arose & cut of a lap of Sauls garment priuelye. And immediatlye Dauids heart smote hym, because he had cutte of a lap of Sauls garment. And he sayd vnto his men: the Lorde kepe me from doyng that thyng vnto my maister the Lordes B annointed, to lay myne hande vpon him, seyng he is the annointed of the Lorde.

(For as truely as the Lord liueth, excepte the Lorde smite him, or excepte his day come, or yf he goe not downe to warre & perish, the Lord be mercifull vnto me, that I lay not myne hand vpon the Lordes an-nointed.) And so Dauid kept of his seruaūtes with these wordes, and suffered them not to rise against Saule.
But Saule rose vp out of the caue, and went away: Dauid also arose, and wente out of the caue, and cried after Saul, saying: My Lorde kyng. And when Saule loked behinde him, Dauid stouped to the earth, and bowed him selfe, and saide to Saul: wherefore geuest thou an eare to mennes wordes that saye: Dauid seketh euil against thee? Behold, this day thyne C eyes haue sene, how that the Lorde hath deliuered thee this day into mine hand in the caue. And some bad me kil thee, but I had compassion on thee, and sayde: I will not laye myne handes on my maister, for he is the Lordes annointed. And moreo-uer my father: beholde, & see yet the lappe of thy garmente in my hand, in as muche as I kylled the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment. Understand therfore and see, that there is neither euill nor wickednesse in me, and that I haue not sinned against thee, And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The Lorde be iudge be-twene thee and me, and the Lord auenge me of thee. But myne hande be not vpon thee. According as ye olde Prouerbe saith: wickednesse proceadeth from the wicked.
But mine hande be not vpon thee. After whom is the Kyng of Israell come oute?
After whom doest thou moue persecutiō? after a dead dogge, and after a flee. The Lord be Judge, and Judge betwene thee and me, and see, and pleate my cause, and auenge me of thine hande.
D Whē Dauid had made an ende of speakyng these wordes to Saul. Saule sayd:
i. Regum xxvi.c. is this thy voice my sonne Dauid? and Saul lifte vp his voice, and wepte, and saide to Dauid: thou art righteouser than I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, wher as I haue rewarded the with euill.
And thou hast shewed this day, how that thou hast dealte louingly with me, for as muche as when the Lorde had locked me in thine handes, thou kylledst me not.
For who shal finde his enemy, and let him departe into a good waye? Wherefore the Lorde rewarde thee with good, for that thou haste done vnto me this daye. And now behold, I wote well that thou shalte be kyng, and that the kyngdom of Israel shall be stablished in thine hande.
Sweare now therfore vnto me by the Lorde, that thou shalte not destroye my seede after me, and that thou shalte not put my name out of my fathers house.
And Dauid sware vnto Saul: and Saul went home. But Dauid and his men gat them vp vnto an holde.

The. xxv. Chapter.

Samuel dyeth. Dauid fleeth into the wildernesse of Pharan.

AND *Samuel dyed, and al the Is- A raelites gathered together, and la- i. Regum xxviii.a. mented him, and buried him in his owne house at Rama. And Dauid arose, and gat him to the wildernesse of Pharā.
And there was a man in Maon, whose possession was in Carmell, and the man was exceding mighty, and had thre thousande shepe, and a thousand goates. And he was sheryng his shepe in Carmell.
The name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife was Abigaill, & she was a woman of a singuler wisdom, and beautifull. But the man was churlishe, & of shrewde cōditions, and was of the kin-red of Caleb. And Dauid heard in ye wil-dernesse that Naball dyd shere his shepe.
And Dauid sente out. x. yong men, & said vnto them: Get you vp to Carmel, & goe to Naball, & grete him in my name. And thus shall you say: peace be to thee, peace be to thy house, and peace be vnto al that B thou hast. Behold, I haue heard say that thou hast sherers. Nowe thy shepeherdes were with vs (in the wildernesse) & we dyd them no spite, neither was there oughte (of the flocke) missing vnto them al ye while they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes and they will shewe thee. Wherefore let these yong men finde fauour in thine eyes (for we come in a good season) & geue I pray i. Regum xxi.a. thee, what soeuer commeth to thine hand vnto thy seruauntes, & to thi sonne Dauid.
And when Dauids yong men came, they tolde Nabal al those wordes in the name of Dauid, and then helde their peace. And Nabal answered Dauids seruaūtes, and saide: what is Dauid? & what is the sonne of Isai? there is plenty of seruaūtes now a dayes, that breake away euery man frō his maister. Shall I then take my bread. my water, and my flesh that I haue killed for my sherers, and geue it vnto menne whom I wote not whence they be? And so Dauids seruauntes turned their way, and went againe, and came and told him C all those sayinges. And Dauid sayd vnto hys men: girde euery man hys sweard about him: And they girded euery man hys sweard about him: and Dauid was gir-ded with his swearde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, & two hundred abode by the stuffe. But one of ỷ laddes tolde Abigaill Nabals wyfe, saying: Behold, Dauid sente messangers vnto oure maister out of the wildernesse to salute hym, and he railed on thē. And yet the men are very good vnto vs, and dyd vs no displeasure, neither missed we any thing as long as we were conuersaunt with them, when we were in the fieldes.

They were a wal of defence vnto vs both by night & day, all the while we wer with thē kepīg shepe. Now therfore take hede, and see what thou haste to do, for there is an occasion of euil geuē against our maister & al his housholde, seyng he is a sōne of Belial, vngratious to speake to. Then Abigail made hast, and toke two hūdred D loaues, and two bottels of wine, and fiue shepe readye dressed, and fiue measures of parched corne, and an hundred frailes of reysinges, and two hundred topnettes of figges, & laded them on asses, & said vnto her yōg men: go ye before me. Behold, I come after you. But she told her husbād Nabal nothing therof. And as she rod on her asse, she came priuily downe ỷ side of the hil: & beholde, Dauid & his men came E downe against her, and she met them.
And Dauid said: in vaine haue I kept all that this folow hath in ỷ wildernesse, so that nought was missed of all that parteined vnto him. And he hath quit me euil for good. So and so doe God vnto ỷ enemies of Dauid, yf I leaue of al that per-teineth to him, by the dawning of ỷ daye, any thing that pisseth againste the wall.
And whē Abigail saw Dauid, she hasted and lighted of her asse, and fel before Da-uid on her face, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and fel at his feete, and said: Let this vnhappy dede bee counted mine, my Lord: and let thine handmayde speake in thine audience, & heare ỷ wordes of thine handmayde. Let not my Lorde (the kyng) regard this vnthrifty man Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, and foly is with him. But I thine handmayde saw not the yong men of my lorde whom thou sentest. Nowe therefore my E Lord, as sure as the Lord liueth, and as thy soule lyueth, the Lord hath withholden thee from cōming to shed bloude, and withdraw thou thine hande from bloodshed. Nowe I pray God, that thine ene-myes, and they that entende to do my lord euil, may be as Nabal. And nowe this is the blessing which thine handmayde hath brought vnto my Lord, and let it be geue vnto the yong men, that folowe my lord.
Forgeue the trespasse of thine hādmayde, for the Lorde will make my Lorde a sure house, because my Lord fighteth the bat-tailes of the Lorde, and there coulde no euil be found in thee in al thy dayes. And yf any man rise to persecute thee, and to seke thy soule, the soule of my Lorde shall be bounde as in the bondell of the liuing with the Lorde thy God. And the soules of thine enemies shall God cast out, euen as out of the myddle of a slyng. And whē the Lorde shall haue done to my Lord all the good that he hath promised thee, and shall haue made thee ruler ouer Israell: then shal it be no decay vnto thee, nor discourage of hearte vnto my Lorde, that thou hast not shedde bloud causelesse, nor auenged thy selfe.
But when the lord shall haue deale well with my lord, then thinke on thine hand- F maide. And Dauid saide to Abigail: blessed be the lord God of Israel, whiche sent thee this day to mete me. Blessed is thy saying, and blessed arte thou, which haste kept me this daye from comming to shed bloude, and from auenging my selfe with myne owne hand. For in verye deede, as sure as the Lorde God of Israell liueth, whiche hath kept me backe from hurting thee, excepte thou haddest hasted and met me, thinkest thou there had bene left vnto Nabal by the dawning of the daye, a pis-ser against the wall? And so Dauid recey-ued of her hād that which she had brought him, & saide to her: go vp in peace to thine house. Beholde, I haue hearde thy voice, and haue accepted thy person.
And Abigail came to Naball: and be-holde, he helde a feaste in his house, lyke the feast of kyng, and Nabals heart was merry merye within him, for he was very dronken. Wherfore she told him nothing, neyther lesse nor more, vntil the morow day.

But in the morning when the wine was gone out of Nabal, his wife told him these wordes, & his hearte died within hym, G and he became as a stone. And vpon a ten dayes after, the Lord smote Naball, that he died. And when Dauid heard that Nabal was dead, he saide: Blessed bee the Lorde that hath iudged ŷ cause of my rebuke of the hād of Nabal, & hath kept his seruaunt from euill, & hath recompensed the wickednesse of Nabal, vpon his owne head. And Dauid sente to commune with Abigail, to thinkē to take her to his wife.
And when the seruaunts of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake vnto her, saying: Dauid sent vs vnto the, to take the to his wife. And she arose, and bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, & said: beholde, let thy handmayde be a ser-uaunt, to washe the feete of the seruauntes of my lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, & gatte her vp vpō an asse, with fiue damsels of hers, that went at her feete, & she went after the messangers of Dauid, and became his wyfe. Dauid also toke Ahinoam of Jezrahel, & they were bothe ii.Re.iii. his wiues. But Saul gaue * Michol his daughter Dauids wife to Phalti, ŷ sonne of Lais, which was of Gallim.

The.xxvi. Chapter.

Saul sleapeth in his tente, & Dauid taketh away his speare, & a cruse of water that stode at his head.

A The Ziphites came vnto Saul to Gibea, saying: Doeth not Dauid hyde him selfe in ŷ hyll of Hachila which is before Je-simon? Saul arose, and went downe to the wyldernesse of Ziph, hauing thre thousand chosen men of Israel wyth hym for to seke Dauid in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul pytched in ŷ hil of Ha-chila, whiche lyeth before Jesimon by the wayes syde: But Dauid dwelt in the wyl-dernesse. And he saw that Saul came after hym into the wyldernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spies, and vnderstode, that Saul was come in very dede.
And Dauyd arose and came to the place where Saul had pytched, and Dauid be-helde the place where Saul laye and Abner the sone of Ner which was his chiefe captaine. Saul laye within, & the people and the host round about him. Then answered Dauid, and spake to Abimelech the Hethite, and to Abisai ŷ sonne of Zar-uia, and brother to Joab, saying: who wil go downe with me to Saule to the hoste?
And Abisai said: I wil go down with the.
And so Dauid and Abisai came downe B to the people by night. And behold, Saul lay sleping within the hoste, & his speare sticke in the ground at his head. But Abner and the people lay rounde about him.
Then saide Abisai to Dauid: God hath deliuered thine enemye into thine hande this daye. Now therefore, lette me smyte him once with my speare to the earth, and I wyll not smite him the seconde tyme.
And Dauid saide to Abisai: destroye him not. For who can laye his hande on the Lordes annointed, and be giltlesse? And Dauid saide furthermore: as sure as the Lord liueth, the Lord shall smite hym, or his day shal come, to dye: or he shal descēde into battaile, and there perishe.
The Lord kepe me from laying mine C hande vpon the Lordes annointed. But take thou now ŷ speare ŷ is at his hearde and the cruse of water, & let vs goe. And so Dauid toke the speare and the cruse of water from Sauls head, and they gat thē away, and no man sawe it, or marked it, or awaked. For they were all a slepe, because the Lorde had sent a dead slepe vpō them. Thē Dauid went ouer to the other side, and stode on the top of an hill a farre of (a greate space beyng betwene them) and Dauid cried to the people, and to Abner ŷ sonne of Ner, saying: Hearest thou not Abner? Abner aunswered, and saide: What arte thou that criest to the kynge?
And Dauid sayde to Abner: arte not thou a man? & who is like thee in Israel? Wherfore then hast thou not kept thy Lord the kyng? For there came one of the folke in to destroy the kyng thy Lorde. It is not good that thou hast done. As truly as the Lorde liueth, * ye are worthy to dye, be- i.Re.xx.c. cause ye haue not kepte youre maister, the Lordes annointed. And nowe see where the kyngs speare is, and the cruse of water that was at his head.
And Saul knewe Dauids voice, and D saide: * is this thy voice my sonne Dauid? i Regum xxiiii.b. and Dauid sayde: it is my voice, my Lord, O kyng. And he said: wherfore doeth my Lorde thus persecute his seruaunte? for what haue I done? or what euill is in mine hande? Now therfore let my Lorde the kyng heare ŷ wordes of his seruaūt, yf the Lorde haue stirred thee vp agaynst me, let him smel the sauoure of a sacrifice.
But & yf they be the children of men, cursed

XUM

sed are they before the lord. For they haue cast me out this daye from abyding in the inheritaunce of the Lorde, saying: hence, and go serue other gods. Nowe therefore let not my bloud fall to the earth before ye face of the Lord. For the Kyng of Israel is come out to hunte a flye, as when one doeth hunte a partrige in the moūtaines.
Then said Saul: I haue sinned: come againe my sonne Dauid, for I wil do thee no more harme, because my soule was precious in thine eyes this day. Behold, I haue played the foole, & haue erred excedingly. And Dauid aunswered, & sayd: Behold the kynges speare, let one of the yongmen come ouer, & fet it. The Lorde reward euery mā according to his rightteousnesse and faith: for the Lord deliue-red thee into my hande this daye, but I would not laye mine hand vpon ye lordes annointed. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was much set by this day in mine eyes: so be my life set by in the eyes of the Lorde, that he deliuer me out of all tribulation.
Then Saul said to Dauid: Blessed arte thou my sonne Dauid, for thou shalt be a doer, and preuaile. And so Dauid wente his way, and Saule turned to his place againe.

The.xxvii.Chapter.

Dauid flieth to Achis king of Geth.

A And Dauid sayde in his heart: I shal perish one day or other by the hand of Saul. Therfore is there nothing better for me, thā to flye & saue my selfe in the land of the Philistines: & Saul shall ceasse, and seke me nomore in all the coastes of Israell, and so shall I escape out of his hand. And Dauid arose, and he and ye sixe hundred men that were with him wente vnto Achis the sonne of Maoch, king of Geth. And Dauid dwelt with Achis at Geth, both he and his mē, euery man with his houshoulde, and Da-uid with his two wyues, Ahinoam the Iezrahelite, and Abigail Nabals wife of Carmel. And it was told Saul that Da-B uid was fled to Geth, and he sought no-more for him. And Dauid sayde vnto A-chis: Yf I haue now found grace in thine eyes, let them geue me a place in some towne in the fieldes, that I maye dwell there. For why should thy seruaunt dwell in ye head citie of the kyngdom with thee?
Then Achis gaue him Zikleg that same daye, for which cause Zikleg perteineth vnto the kynges of Iuda vnto this day.
And the time that Dauid dwelt in ye coū-trey of the Philistines, was foure mone-thes and certaine dayes. And Dauid and his men went vp, and ran vpon the Gesurites, ye Gerzites and the Amalekites: For those nations were from the begyn- C ning the inhabitours of the land, as men go to Sur, vnto the lande of Egipt. And Dauid smote the lande, and lefte neither man nor woman aliue, and droue awaye the shepe, the oxen, the asses, camels, and clothes and retourned & came to Achis.
And Achis sayde: where haue ye been a rouyng this day? And Dauid answered: Toward the south of Iuda and towarde the south of ye Iezrahelites, & toward the south of the Kenites. And Dauid saued neither man nor woman aliue, nor suffred thē to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) lest they should tel on vs, saying: so did D Dauid, & so wil hee his maner all ye whyle he dwelleth in ye countrey of the Philistines. And Achis beleued Dauid, saying: He abhorreth his people of Israell, and therfore he shalbe my seruaunt for euer.

The.xxviii.Chapter.

The Philistines moue warre against Saul, which seketh after an enchaunter.

And it chaunced in those dayes, A that the Philistines gathered their hoste together to warre, to fight wt Israel. And Achis sayd to Dauid: Be sure, thou shalte go out with me to the battaile, thou and the men that are with thee. And Da-uid saide to Achis: then thou shalt knowe what thy seruaunt can do. And Achis said againe to Dauid: Then I will make thee keper of my head for euer. ✠ Samuell 1.Re.xxv. a. was then dead, and all Israel had lamented him, & buried him in Rama his owne citie. ✱ And Saul had put the women Ex.xxii. that hadde spirites of prophecye and the southesayers out of the lande.
And the Philistines gathered together, and came, and pitched in Sunem. And Saull gathered all Israell together, and they pitched in Gilboa: And when Saul sawe the hoste of the Philistines, he was afrayed, and his hearte was sore astonyed. And when Saul asked coūsaile of the Lorde: the Lorde aunswered hym not, neither by dreames nor by Urim, nor yet by prophetes.
Then saide Saul vnto his seruauntes: ✠ seke me a woman that hath a spirite of Le.xx.c. prophecie, that I may go to her, & aske of her. And his seruauntes sayde to hym: Behold,

Beholde, there is a woman that hathe a spirite of prophecie at Endor.
And Saul chaunged him selfe, and put B on other raiment, and then wente he and two men with hym, and they came to the woman by night. And he saide: prophecie vnto me by the spirite, and bryng me hym vp whom I shall name vnto thee. And the woman sayd vnto hym: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath doone, how he hath destroyed the women that had prophecying spirites, and the sorcerers oute of the lande. Wherefore then sekest thou an occasion against my soule, that he may kill me. And Saul sware to her by the Lorde, saying: As surelye as the Lorde liueth there shall no harme chaunce thee for this thing. Then sayde the woman: whom shall I set vp vnto thee? He aun-swered: Bring me vp Samuel. When the woman sawe Samuel she cryed with a loude voice, and spake to Saul saying:
why hast thou disceyued me? for thou art Saul. And the king said vnto her: be not afrayed. What seest thou? The woman sayd vnto Saul: I see gods ascending vp out of the earth. He saide vnto her again: what fasshion is he of? She answered: there cometh vp an olde man with a mantel vpon him. And Saul perceiued that it was Samuel, and he stouped with his face to the ground, and bowed hym selfe. And Samuel sayde to Saul: why hast thou disquieted me, to make me bee brought vp? Saul answered: I am sore encombred. For the Philistines make C warre against me, and God is departed fro me, and aunswereth me no more, neither by prophetes neither by dreames.
And therefore I haue called thee ỹ thou maiest tel me what I shall do. Then sayd Samuel: wherfore doest thou aske of me, while the Lorde is gone from thee, and is become thine enemie? Truly the Lorde hath done for him selfe, euen as he spake by my hand. * For the Lorde hath rente the kyngdome out of thine hand, and geuen it thy neighboure Dauid. Because thou obeyedst not the voice of the Lorde, nor executedst his fearce wrath vpon the Amalekites, therefore hathe the Lorde done this vnto thee this day. And moreo-uer, the Lorde will deliuer Israell with thee into the handes of the Philistines.
* To morowe shalt thou and thy sonnes be with me, and the Lorde shall geue the host of Israel into the handes of the Philistines. Then Saul fell streyght waye flat on the earth as long as he was, and was sore adread because of the wordes of Samuel. And there was no strengthe in hym, for he had eaten no bread al the day D and ỹ night before. And the woman came vnto Saul, & saw that he was sore troubled, and said vnto him: See, thine hand- Jud.xii.a maide hath obeyed thy voice, and * haue i.Re.xix,a. put my soule in myne hand, & haue herkened vnto thy wordes which thou saydest Ps.cxix.a vnto me: Now therefore hearken thou also vnto the voice of thine handmayd, and let me set a morsell of bread before thee, that thou maist eate and get thee strẽgth, and then goe on thy iourney. He refused, and sayde: I will not eate. But hys seruauntes and the woman together compelled him, and he hearkened vnto their voice. And so he arose from the earth, and sat him on a bedde. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she hasted, and kyl-led it, and toke floure and kneded it, and did bake swete cakes therof, and brought the before Saul & before his seruauntes.
And when they had eaten, they stode vp, and wente awaye the same night.

The.xxix.Chapter.

Dauid goeth with king Achis to fight against Saul.

THe Philistines were gathered together with all their armies A vnto Aphek: And the Israelites pitched in Ain, which is in Jesrahel. And ỹ lords of the Philistines wet forth with ỹ hundredes and thousandes.
But Dauid & his men came behinde with Achis. Then said the lordes of the Philistines: what are yonder Hebrues? Achis sayde vnto the lordes of the Philistines: Is not this Dauid the seruaunt of Saul the king of Israel, which hath been with me these dayes or yeares? I haue founde no faute in him, since he fled vnto me vnto this day. And the lordes of the Philistines were wroth with him, & saide vnto him. Make this felow returne, ỹ he maye B go again to his place which thou hast appointed him, & let him not goe down with vs to battaile, lest in the battaile he be an aduersary to vs. For wherwith coulde he better obteine the fauour of hys master, than with the heades of these menne? Is not this Dauid, to whõ they sang in daũces, saying: * Saul slewe his thousand, & i.Re.xviii.
Dauid his ten thousand? Thé Achis cal- a. led Dauid, and said vnto him: As sure as and.xxi.b the Lorde lyueth: thou hast been honest & C good good in my sight, when thou wentest oute & in with me, in the host: neither haue I founde euill with thee since thou camest to me vnto this daye: Neuerthelesse, the Lordes of the Philistines fauoure ye not.

Wherfore now returne, and go in peace that thou displease not the lordes of the Philistines. And Dauid said vnto Achis: And what haue I done, what haste thou found in thy seruaunt as long as I haue ben with thee vnto this day, that I may not goe fight against the enemyes of my Lord the kyng? Achis answered, and said to Dauid: I knowe that thou arte good, and arte in my syghte, as an Aungell of D God. Notwithstanding, the Lords of the Philistines haue saide: Let him not goe vp with vs to battaile.
Wherfore nowe, rise vp early in the mornyng with thy masters seruauntes that are come to thee: and when ye be vp earli (as sone as ye haue light) depart. And so Dauid and his men rose vp early to depart in the morning, and to returne into the land of the Philistines. And the Philistines went vp to Jesrahel.

The. xxx. Chapter.

Dauid returning from kyng Achis, findeth Ziklеg burnte.

A But when Dauid and hys men were come to Zikleg the third day, ye Amalechites had rushed in vpõ the south, and vpon Zikleg, and had smitten Zikleg, and burnt it with fire, and had taken the women (that were therein) prisoners, both small and great: but slew not a man, saue caried thẽ with them, and went their wayes. So Dauid and his men came to the citie, and beholde, it was burnt with fire, and their wiues, their sonnes and their daughters wer carryed awaye. Then Dauid and the B people that was with him, lifte vp their voyces and wepte, vntill they could wepe no more. And Dauids two wiues were taken prisoners also: Ahinoam the Jesrahelite, and Abigael the wife of Nabal ye Carmelite. And Dauid was in a shrewd combraunce: for the people intended to stone him, because the heartes of all the people wer vexed for their sonnes & their daughters. But Dauid toke a good courage to him in the lord his god, & * sayde to Abiathar the priest Ahimelechs sonne: (i. Re. xxiii b.) I praye thee bring me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought the Ephod to Dauid.
And Dauid asked counsaile at the Lord, saying, Shall I folow after this companye; and shall I ouertake them? And he answered him: folow, for thou shalt ouertake them, and recouer the praye. C So Dauid and the sixe hundred menne that were with him, went and came to ye ryuer Besor, where a part of them abode.
But Dauid and foure hundred men folowed: For two hundred abode behynde, being to wery to go ouer the riuer Besor.
And they founde an Egiptian in ye felde, and brought him to Dauid, * and gaue (Psal. i.) him bread to eate, and water to drynke, and gaue him a few figges, and two clusters of reysynges. And when he had eaten, his spirite came againe to him: for he had eatẽ no bread, nor dronke any water in thre dayes, and thre nyghtes. And Dauid sayde vnto him: To whom belongest thou: and whence art thou: he said. I am a yong man of Egipt, and seruaunt to an Amalechite, & my master lefte me behind because it is thre dayes agone that I fell sicke: we came a royyng vpon the southe of Chretus, and against Juda, & towarde D the south of Caleb. And we burnte Zikleg with fire. And Dauid saide to him: canst thou bring me to this companie? And he sayd: sweare vnto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliuer me into the handes of my master, and I wil bring thee to the companye. And when he had broughte him thither, beholde, they laye scattered abrode vpon the earth, eatyng and drynkynge, and dauncyng, because of the plenteous & great pray that they had caried awaye oute of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Juda.
And Dauid layed vpon them from the E euen vntill the twylyght on the morowe so that there escaped not a man of them, saue foure hundred yongmen, which rode away vpon Camels, & fledde. And Dauid recouered all that the Amalechites hadde caried away, and Dauid receued his two wyues: so that there was no persone of them lackyng, small or greate, sonne or daughter, or of the spoyle of all that they had taken awaye: Dauid recouered them all agayne. And Dauid toke all the shepe, and the oxen: and they draue them before his cattel, and sayd: this is Dauids pray.
And Dauid came to the two hundred mẽ that were to werye for to folowe Dauid, whom they had made also to abide at the riuer Besor. And they came to mete Dauid, and the people that wer with him. F And when Dauid came to the people, he salusaluted them. Then answered al the wicked and the vnthriftes (of the menne that wente with Dauid,) and sayde: because they went not with vs, therfore will wee geue them none of the pray, that we haue recouered. But let euery man take hys wife and his children: Those let them ca-rye awaye and be walkyng.

Then sayde Dauid: ye shall not doe so (my brethren) with that which the Lord hath geuen vs, and hath preserued vs, & deliuered the company that came against vs, into oure handes. For who shoulde ...xxxi.c hearken vnto you in this matter? * But as hys parte is that goeth downe and fighteth, so shal his parte bee that tarieth by the stuffe, that it may bee parted alike.
And so from that day forewarde was that made a statute and a law in Israel, vntil this daye. When Dauid therefore came to Ziklag, he sent (giftes) of the pray vnto the elders of Juda, and to his frēdes saying: see, there is a blessing for you, of ẏ spoile D of the enemies of the Lord. He sent to thē of Bethel: to thē of south Ramoth: to thē of Jathir: to them of Aroer: to thē of Se-phamoth: to them of Esthemaa: to them of Rathel: to them of the cities of Jerah-meel: to them of the cities of the Kenites: to them of Horma: to them of Borasan: to them of Athach: to thē that are in Hebron, & in al places where Dauid and his men were wonte to haunte.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

Saul killeth him selfe: and his children are slaine in the battaile.

1 Par.x.a The * Philistines fought against Israell, and the mē of Israel fled awaye from the Philistines, and fell nes preased sore vpon Saul and his son-nes, and slew Jonathas, Abinadab, and Melchisua, Sauls sonnes. And whē the battaile went sore against Saul and his sonnes, and slewe Jonathas, Abinadab, thy sweard, and thrust me thorowe ther-with: lest these vncircumcised come and thrust me thorowe, and make a mockyng not, for he was sore afrayed. And Saul toke a swearde and fel vpon it. And when his harnesbearer sawe that Saul was B dead, he fel likewise vpon his swearde, & dyed with him. And so Saul died, & hys thre sonnes and his harnesbearer, and al his men, that same daye together.

And when the menne of Israell that wer on the other side of the valley, & they of the other side Jordan hearde that the men of Israel were put to flighte, & that Saul and his sonnes were dead, thei left C the cities, and ranne away: and the Philistines came, and dwelte in them. * On ẏ 1 Par.x.c stripped him out of his harnesse, and sent into the land of the Philistines on euery side, that they should publishe it in the tēple of their idols, and among the people: and they layed vp his harnesse in the temple of Astharoth, but they hanged vp hys

The first Chapter.

The lamentation of Dauid for Saul and Jonathas.

A After the deathe of Saul, when David was returned i.Re.xxx. b from the * slaughter of the Amalekites, and had ben.
ii.dayes in Zikleg: Behold, there came a man the third daye out of the hoste from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth vpon hys head.
And when he came to David, he fell to the yearth, and did obeisaũce. David sayed vnto him: whence comest thou? He sayde vnto hym: Out of the hoste of Israell I am escaped. And David saide vnto hym: And what is chaunced? tell me. He sayde: the people is fled from the battaile, and many of the people are ouerthrowen and dead: and Saul and Jonathas his sõne are dead also: And David saide vnto the B yongman, that tolde him these tidinges, how knowest thou that Saul and Jona-thas his sonne be dead? The yongman y tolde him, answered: I came by chaunce to mount Gilboa, and behold, Saul leaned vpon his speare. For the charrettes & companies of horsemen folowed hard after hym. And when he loked backe he saw me, and called me: And I answered: here am I. And he said vnto me: what arte y?
I answered him: I am an Amalekite.
He sayde vnto me againe. Stande vpon me, and slaye me. For anguyshe is come vpon me, though my life bee yet al in me.
And so I stode vpon him, and slew him, for I was sure that he could nat liue after that he hadde fallen. And I toke the crowne that was vpon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arme and haue broughte them hyther vnto my Lorde.
Then David toke holde on his clothes ii.Re.iii.f *and rente them, and so did all the men and xiii.f that were with him. And they mourned and wept, & fasted vntill euen, for Saul and Jonathas his sonne, and for the people of the Lorde, and for the house of Israel, because they were ouerthrowen w the sweard. And David said vnto y yong C manne that brought him these tidinges: Whence arte thou? And he aunswered: I am the sõne of an aleaunt an Amalekite.
And David saide vnto him: Howe is it y thou wast not afrayed, to laye thine hand on the lordes annointed, to destroye him.
And David called one of his yong men, and saide: Go to, and runne vpon him.
And he smote him that he died. Then said David vnto him thy bloud be vpon thine owne head. * For thine own mouth hath [illegible] testified agaynste thee, saying: I haue [illegible] slaine the Lordes annointed.
And David mourned with this lamen-tatiõ ouer Saul and ouer Jonathas his sonne, and bad teache the children of Israel the vse of the bowe. And beholde, it is written in the boke of the righteous.
(And he said: Consider, O Israel, these that be dead and wounded vpon thy hye hilles) O noble Israel, the wounded are slayne vpon thy hil-les: Oh, how are the mighty ouerthrowẽ? Mich.i.
* Tel it not in Gath, nor publish it in the stretes of Askalon: lest the daughters of the Philistines reioyce, and lest y daughters of the vncircumcised, triumphe. D Ye mountaines of Gilboa, vpon you bee neyther dewe nor rayne, nor vpon the fel-des of offringes. For there the shield of y mighty is cast downe: the shilde of Saul, as though he had not been annoynted w oyle. The bow of Jonathas & the sweard of Saul turned neuer backe again empty, from the bloud of the slayne, and from the fatte of the mighty warriours, Saul and Jonathas were louely and pleasãt in their liues, and in their deathes they were not deuided. They were swyfter thã Egles, & stronger than lions. Ye daughters of Israel wepe ouer Saul, whiche clothed you in purple, with pleasures, and hanged ornamentes of golde vpon youre apparel. How were the mighty slayne in battaile? Jonathas is dead on the hye hilles. Wo is me for thee (my brother Jonathas) verye kynd hast thou been vnto me. Thy loue to me was wonderfull, passyng the loue of woman. (As a mother loued her onely childe, euen so did I loue thee.) O how are the mighty ouerthrowen, and y weapons of warre destroyed?

The .ii. Chapter.

David is annointed in Hebron. The battaile of the seruauntes of David and of Isboseth.

After

AFter this it fortuned, that Dauid A asked counsaile at the Lord, saying: shal I go vp into any of the ci- 1.Re.xxiii ties of Iuda? And the lord said vnto him: a. go. And Dauid said again. Whither shall 2.Re.v.c I go? He aunswered: Unto Hebron. And so Dauid wēt thither with his.ii. wiues, Ahinoam the Iesrahelite, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite. And the mē that were with him, did Dauid carye vp also, euery man with his housholde. And they dwelte in the townes of Hebron.
And the mē of Iuda came, and there they annoynted Dauid king ouer the house of Iuda. And they tolde Dauid, saying: It 1.Re.xxxi c. is * the men of Iabes in Gilead that buried Saul. And Dauid sent messengers B vnto the men of Iabes in Gilead, and sayde vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lorde, that ye haue shewed suche kyndnesse vnto your Lorde Saul, and haue buried him. And nowe the Lorde shewe mercy and truth vnto you. And I wil do you also suche kyndesse as ye haue done in this thing. Therfore now let your hādes be strong, and playe ye the men: For your master Saul is dead. And they that are of the house of Iuda haue annointed me kyng ouer them. But Abner the sonne of Ner that was captaine of Saul hoste toke Isboseth the sonne of Saul, and broughte hym to Mahanaim, and made C him king ouer Gilead, and ouer the Assu-rites, and ouer Iesrahel, Ephraim, Ben Iamin, and ouer al Israel. And Isboseth Saules sonne was fourty yere olde whē he began to raign ouer Israel, and rayg-ned two yere. But the house of Iuda fo-1.Re.v.a lowed Dauid. * And the time which Da-uid reigned in Hebron ouer the house of Iuda, was seuen yere and sixe monethes.
And Abner the sonne af Ner, and the seruauntes of Isboseth the sonne of Saul went out of Mahanaim, to Gibeon.
And Ioab the sonne of Zaruia and the seruauntes of Dauid wente oute, and met them by the poole of Gibeon.
And they sate downe, the one on the one side of the poole, and the other on the other syde. And Abner sayde to Ioab: lette the yong men arise, and playe before vs.
And Ioab sayde: Let them aryse. Then there arose and went ouer, twelue of D Ben Iamin by numbre, whiche pertayned to Isboseth the sonne of Saul, and twelue of the seruauntes of Dauid.
And euery one caught hys felowe (that came agaynste hym) by the head, & thrust hys swearde in his side, and so they fell downe together. Wherfore the place was called: The felde of the mighty. And it is in Gibeon: And there began an exceding cruell battaile that same daye. For Abner and the men of Israel, fell before the seruauntes of Dauid. And there were three sones of Zaruiah there: Ioab, Abi-sai, & Asahel: And Asahel was as light of fote as a wilde roo: and Asahel folowed after Abner, and * turned neither to the Ge.xxiiii righte hand nor to the lefte, from Abner. f.
Then Abner loked behynd him, and said: arte thou Asahel? He aunswered: yea, that I am. Abner sayed: turne thee eyther to the ryghte hande or to the lefte, and catch E one of the yong menne, and take thee his weapons. But Asahel would not depart from him. And Abner sayed agayne to Asahel: departe fro me. Wherefore should I smite thee to the grounde, and not bee hable to hold vp my face to Ioab thy brother? Howbeit, when he would in no wise departe, Abner with the hynder ende of the speare, smote hym vnder * the shorte ii.Re.xx. ribbes, that the speare came out behinde c.
him: that he fell downe in the same place, and dyed there. And as many as came to the place where Asahel fell downe & died, F stode still. Ioab also and Abisai folowed Abner. And the sunne went downe, when they were come to the hill Ama that lieth before Giah, by the waye that goeth tho-rowe the wildernesse of Gibeon.
And the children of Ben Iamin gathered themselues together on an heape, to Abner, and stode on the toppe of an hill.
Then Abner called to Ioab, and sayde: shall the swearde deuoure still for euer? knowest thou not, that it will be bitter-nesse in the latter ende? how long shall it bee, or thou byd the people returne from folowyng their brethren? And Ioab said: as truely as God liueth, yf thou haddest G not spoken in the morning, the people had been departed euerye one from persecu-tyng hys brother. And so * Ioab blewe a 2.Re.xx.g trompet, and all the people stode still, and pursued after Israell nomore, neyther foughte they any more.
And Abner and his men walked all that night thorow the plaine, and wente ouer Iordan, and passed thorow al Bethhoron till they came to Mahanaim. And Ioab returned from persecuting Abner. And whē he had gathered al ÿ people together there lacked of Dauids seruauntes ninetene men, and Ashel. But the seruaūtes

of Dauid had slaine of Ben Iamin, and of Abners men, thre hundred & threscore men. And thei toke vp Asahel, and buried him in ÿ sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem. And Ioab and his men wente all night, vntil the dauning of the daye, and came to Hebron.

The.iii.Chapter.

Abner cometh to Dauid, and bringeth him hys wife Michol. Ioab killeth Abner.

A There was long warre betwene the house of Saul, and the house of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger, and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker & weaker. i.Par.iii c. *And vnto Dauid were (sixe) children borne in Hebrō: his eldest sonne also was Ammon, of Ahinoam the Iezrahelite: the second, Cheleab of Abigail ÿ wife of Nabal the Carmelite: the third Absalom, the sonne of Maachah the daughter of Thalmai, ÿ king of Gessur: the fourth, Adonai the sonne of Hagith: the fifth, Sephatia the sonne of Abital: the sixth, Iethreā, by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And it fortuned, that while there was warre betwene ÿ house of Saul, and the house of Dauid, Abner B helde vp the house of Saul. And Saul had a cōcubine named Rizpa, the daughter of Ahia. And Isboseth sayd to Abner: Wherfore hast thou gone into my fathers concubine? Then was Abner very wroth for the wordes of Isboseth, and sayd: Am house of Saule thy father, and to his brethren and frēdes, and haue not deliuered as the Lorde hathe sworne to Dauid, so will I be on his side, to bring the kingdome from the house of Saule, that the C throne of Dauid may bee stablished ouer Israel, and ouer Iuda, euē from Dan to Beersaba. And he coulde geue Abner neuer a worde to answer, because he feared him. And Abner sēte messēgers to Dauid secretly, saying: Whose is ÿ lande? Make a bonde with me, and behold, mine hande is with thee, to bring al Israel vnto thee.

He said: It is good that I make a bonde with thee. But one thig I require of thee, that thou see not my face except thou first D bring Michol Sauls daughter whē thou commest to see me.
And Dauid sent messengers to Isboseth Sauls sonne, saying: * deliuer me my i.Re. g. wife Michol, whiche I maried with * an i.Reg. xviii.g. hundred foreskinnes of the Philistines.
And Isboseth sent, and toke her from her husband * Paltiel the sonne of Lais. And i.Re. g. her husband went with her and came we-ping behinde her, till they came to Bahu-rim. Then said Abner vnto him: goe and returne. And he returned. And Abner hadde communication with the elders of Israell, saying: ye soughte for Dauid in times paste, that he might be your kyng.
Now then do it: for the Lord hath said of Dauid. By the hand of my seruaunt Da-uid I will saue my people Israel oute of the handes of the Philistines, and out of the hand of al their enemies. And Abner spake in the eares of Ben Iamin, and wente to tel in the eares of Dauid in Hebron, all that Israel was contente with, and the whole house of Ben Iamin. And so Abner came to Dauid to Hebron, hauing twentye men with him, and Dauid made him and the men that wer with him a feast. And Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I E will vp and goe gather al Israel vnto my lord the king that they may make an ap-pointmēt with thee, and that thou mayest commaunde all, as thine hert desireth.
And when Dauid had let Abner departe, he went in peace. And behold, the seruaūtes of Dauid and Ioab came from chasing the robbers, and broughte a greate pray with thē. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebron: for he had sente him awaye to departe in peace. When Ioab & all the host that was with him wer come, men tolde Ioab, saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, that he is gone in peace.
Then Ioab came to the king, and sayde: what haste thou done? Beholde, Abner came vnto thee, and why hast thou sent him awaye, that he should escape quite?
Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner, for he came to disceiue thee, and to know thy outgoing and ingoing, and to know all that thou doest. And when Ioab was come out from Dauid, he sente messengers after Abner whiche brought him againe from the wel of Sira vnknowing to Dauid. And when Abner was come againe to Hebron, Ioab toke him asyde in the gate * to speake wyth hym secretely, Iud.iii.c and smote hym vnder the shorte ribbes: that he dyed: for the bloud of Asahell hys brother. And when afterwarde it came to Dauids eare, he sayed: I and my king- F dom are giltlesse before the lorde for euer concerning the bloud of Abner the sonne of Ner. Let the bloud remaine on the head of Joab, and on al his fathers house, that the house of Joab be neuer without one or other that hath running issues or leprie, & that leaneth on a staffe, and that doeth fal on the sweard, and lacketh bread. And the cause why Joab and Abisai slew Abner, was, that Abner had *slaine their brother ij.Re.ii.f Asahel at Gibeon in battaile. And Dauid sayd to Joab, and to al the people that wer with him. * Rent your clothes, & put on ij.Re.i.b. sackecloth, & mourne before Abner. And king Dauid himselfe folowed the corse.

And whe thei buried Abner in Hebro, the king lift vp his voice, and wept, beside the sepulchre of Abner, & so dyd al the people.
And the king lamented ouer Abner, and said: dyed Abner as a fole dieth? thy han-des wer not bound, nor thy feete brought into cheines; but as a man falleth before wicked childre, so fellest thou. And al they that wer of the people wept yet more ouer him. And when al the people came to eate G meate with Dauid, while it was yet day, Dauid sware, saying: So and so doe God to me, if I taste bread, or ought els til the sunne be down. And the people wist it, & it pleased the. And whatsoeuer the kyng did, it pleased al the people. For all the people and al Israel vnderstod that day, how that it was not the kinges dede that Abner the sonne of Ner was slaine. And the king said vnto his seruauntes: knowe ye not, how that there is a lord and a great ma fallen this daye in Israel? And I am this day tendre and annointed king. And these men the sones of Zaruia be to hard for me. The lord reward the doer of euill according to his wickednesse.

The.iiii.Chapter.

Baanah and Rechab slaye Isboseth the sonne of Saul.

A When Sauls sonne heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hades were feble, & all the Israelites wer afrayed: & Sauls sonne had two men that wer captaines ouer the soul-diors, the one called Baanah, & the other Rechab, the sonnes of Rimmon a Bero-thite of the children of Ben Jamin: for Beroth was reckened to Ben Jamin.
B And those Berothites fled to Gitthaim, & ij.Re.ix.b soiourned there vntil the same time. * And Jonathas Sauls sonne had a sonne that was lame on his fete. And he was .v. yere olde when the tidinges came of Saul and Jonathas out of Jesrahel. And his nurse toke him vp, and fled awaye. And as she made hast to flee, the childe fel, and began to halte, & his name was Miphiboseth.
And the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, Rechab and Baanah went, & came in the heate of the day to the house of Isboseth, C whiche slepte on a bed at noone. (And the woman that was the keper of the dore and clensed the wheate was a slepe.) And they came into the middes of the house as though they woulde haue feched wheate: & Rechab & Baanah his brother smote him vnder the shorte ribbes, & fled. For when they came into the house, he slept on his bed in hys resting chambre: and they smote him, and slew him, and beheded him, and toke his head, and gatte them awaye thorowe the plaine al the night: And they brought the head of Isboseth vnto Dauid, to Hebron and sayed to the king: Beholde, there is the head of Isboseth Sauls sonne, thine enemie which soughte after thy life. And the Lord hath auenged my lord the king this daye, of Saul and of his sede.
D And Dauid answered Rechab and Baa-nah his brother, the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, and saied vnto them: * as i.Regum xxvii.d. surely as the Lorde liueth, whiche hath deliuered my soule oute of al aduersities, when one * told me, and sayed that Saul ij.Reg.i.c was dead, thinking to haue brought good tidinges, I caught him, and slewe hym in Ziklag: which thought that I would haue geuen hym a rewarde for his tidinges bringing. How much more when wicked men haue slaine a righteous person, in his own house, and vpon his bed? Shall I not require his bloud of your hande, & take you from the earth? And Dauid comaunded his yong men, & they slew them and cutte of their handes and feete, and hanged them vp ouer the poole in Hebro.
But they toke the head of Isboseth, and buried it in the sepulchre of * Abner in ij.Re.iii.f Hebron.

Dauid is yet agayne annointed kyng, and taketh the arke from Syon.

A Then came al the tribes of Israell * to Dauid vnto Hebron, and i.Par.x. saied: Beholde: we are of thy bone & of thy flesh. And in tyme past when Saul was our king, thou ledest Israel in & out. And the lord hath said to thee: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captaine ouer Israel.

And so al the elders of Israel, came to the 1.Re.ii.c * king to Hebrō. And king Dauid made a couenaunte with thē in Hebron before the lord. And they annointed Dauid king ouer Israel. Dauid was thirtie yere olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned fourtye yere. In Hebrō he raigned ouer Juda seuen yere, and sixe monethes. And in Jerusalem he raigned thirty and three yeares ouer all Israell and Juda. The king also and his men went to Jerusalē vnto ẏ Jebusites, the inhabitours of the B lande, Whiche spake vnto Dauid, saying: excepte thou take awaye the blynde and the lame, thou shalte not come in hither.
For they saied: Thou art not able to come in hither. Neuerthelesse, Dauid toke the strong hold of Sion. The same is the ci-tie of Dauid. And Dauid saide the same day: whosoeuer smiteth ẏ Jebusites, and getteth vp to the gutters of the houses & smiteth the lame and blynd that hate Da-Le.xxi.b. uids soule: * Wherfore they said: the blind and the lame shal not come into the house.
And so Dauid dwelt in the towre, and called it the citie of Dauid, and builte round about it from Millo inward. And Dauid prospered and grewe, and the Lord God of hostes was with him. And Hiram king C of Tire sente messengers to Dauid, and Cedar trees, and Carpenters, and Masōs for walles: and they builte Dauid an house. And Dauid perceiued, that the Lorde had stablished him king ouer Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke him moe concubines and wiues out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron, and moe sonnes and daughters were yet 1 Par.iii borne to Dauid* And these be the names of the sonnes that wer borne vnto him in Jerusalem. Sammua, Sobab, Nathan, and Salomon. Jibhar also, and Elisua, Nepheg, and Japhia, Elisama, Eliada, & Eliphelet. But whē ẏ Philistines heard that they hadde annointed Dauid kyng ouer Israel, they came all vp to seke Da-uid. And as soone as Dauid heard of it, he gate him to an holde. And when the Philistines came they layed them along in the valley of Raphaim.
1.Re.xxiii.a. * And Dauid asked counsaile of the lord, saying: Shal I go vp to the Philistines? ii Re.ii a wilt thou deliuer thē into myne handes?
And the Lord answered vnto Dauid: goe vp, for I wil doubtelesse deliuer the Philistines into thyne handes. And Dauid D came to the plaine of Perazim, and smote them there, and said: the Lorde hath deui-ded myne enemies asondre before me, as waters be deuided asondre. And therfore the name of the place was called: The playne of Perazim. And there they lefte their images, and Dauid & his men toke them vp. And the Philistines came yet againe, and layed themselues in the valley of Rephaim. And when Dauid asked at the Lord: (Shall I goe vp againste the Philistines? and wilte thou deliuer them into my handes?) He answered: Thou shalt not goe vp, but compasse them on the backside, and come vpō thē ouer against the pearetrees. And when thou hearest the noyse of a thyng going in the top of the peretrees, then remoue. For then shal the lord go out before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.
And Dauid did as the lord had commaūded him, and smote the Philistines from Gibea vntil thou come to Gazer.

The .vi. Chapter.

The arke is brought furth of the house of Abinadab. Uza is stryken and dieth Dauid daunceth before it & is therfore despised of his wife Michol.

AGaine, Dauid gathered together all the chosen men of Is- A rael, euen thirty thousand and arose and went with al ẏ folke that were with him of the mē of Juda, to fet away from thence the arke of God, whose name is called, the name of the Lord of hostes that dwelleth vpon it, betwene the Cherubins. And they put the Arke of God vpon a newe carte, and brought it out *of the house of Abinadab ii.Re.vi a. that was at Gibea. And Uza and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab draue the newe carte. And when they broughte it oute of ẏ house of Abinadab that was at Gibea with the arke of God: Ahio wente before the arke. And Dauid and all the house of Israel played before the Lorde in sondry instrumentes made of Cedre wood, with harpes, psalteries, tymbrels, fedels, and symbals.
And when they came to Nachons thres- B shyng flore: Uza put his hand to the arke of god, and helde it, for the oxen stombled.
And the Lord was wroth with Uza, and God smote him in the same place for hys faulte, and there he dyed before the arke of god: And Dauid was displeased, bee-cause the Lord had smitten Uza. And the name of the place was called Perez: The renting of Uza, vntil this daye. And Da-uid was thē afrayed of the lord, and saide: how shal the arke of the lord come to me?

And

And so Dauid woulde not bring the arke of the lord vnto him into ỳ citie of Dauid.
But Dauid caried it into the house of O-beth Edom a Gethite. And the arke of the Par. xvi. a. lord continued in the house of * Obeth Edom the Gethite, thre monethes: and the lord blessed Obeth Edom, & all his houshold. And one told king Dauid howe that the lorde had blessed ỳ house of Obeth Edom and al that perteined vnto him, bee-cause of the arke of god. And Dauid went C & brought the arke of god from the house of Obeth Edom, into the citie of Dauid with gladnesse. (And there were with Dauid seuen sortes of dauncers and calues for sacrifice.) And when they that bare the arke of the lord had gone .vi. spaces, he offred an oxe and a fat shepe. And Dauid (played on harpe stringes and) daunced before the lorde with al his might, & was girded with a linnen Ephod. So Dauid and all the house of Israel, broughte the arke (of the couenaunt) of the Lorde, with shouting and trompet blowing. And it fortuned, that as the arke of the lord came into the citie of Dauid.
Michol Sauls daughter loked thorowe a windowe, and sawe king Dauid spring & daūce before the lord: and she despised him in her herte. And when they brought in ỳ arke of the lord, they set it in his place, euē in the middes of ỳ tabernacle that Dauid hadde pitched for it. And Dauid offred burntoffringes and peaceoffringes before the lord. And as sone as Dauid had made an end of offring burntoffringes & peaceoffringes, he blessed ỳ people in the name of the Lord of hostes, and gaue among al the folke, euen among ỳ whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to euery one a cake of bread, and a pece of flesh, and a flacket of drinke. And so al the people departed euery one to his house.
Then Dauid returned to blesse his houshold, and Michol the daughter of Saul D came out to mete Dauid, and said: O how glorious was the king of Israel this day whiche was vncouered to daye, in ỳ eyes of the maydens of his seruauntes, as yf it had bene a lighte brayned felow vncouered? And Dauid said vnto Michol: I thought to daunce before the lord, whiche chose me rather than thy father, and al his kin, and commaūded me to bee ruler ouer all the people of the lord, euē ouer Israel.
And therfore wil I play, before the lorde.
And wil be yet more vile than so, & wil be meke in mine own sight: and of the veray same mayde seruauntes, which thou hast spoken of, shal I be had in honour. Therfore Michol the daughter of Saul hadde no childe, vnto the day of her death.

The .vii. Chapter.

Dauid would builde god an house, but is forbidden of God.

IT fortuned, that as the kyng A satte in his house (after that the lord had geuen him reste round about from al his enemies) he said vnto Nathā the prophet: behold, I dwel now in an house of Cedar trees: but the arke of god dwelleth within the curtaine. And Nathan said vnto the king: go, and do all that is in thine heart, for the lorde is with thee. And it fortuned the same night, that the worde of the lord came vnto Nathan, saying: go, and tell my seruaunt Dauid, thus saith the lord: shalt thou build me an house to dwell in? For I haue not dwelte in any house since ỳ time that I broughte the children of Israel out of Egipte vnto this daye: but haue walked in a tent and tabernacle. In all the places wherein I haue walked with all the children of Israel, spake I one worde with any of the tribes of Israel (since I commaunded the iudges to fede my people Israel) saying: why builde ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Now therfore, so saye vnto my ser-uaunt Dauid: thus saith the Lord of hos- B tes. * I toke thee from the shepe cote (as i. Re. xvi. thou waste folowyng shepe) ỳ thou migh- c. test be ruler ouer my people Israel.
And I was with thee in al that thou we-test to, & haue destroyed al thine enemies out of thy sight, & haue made thee a great name, like vnto the name of the great mē that are in the world. And therfore I will appoint a place for my people Israel: and wil plant it, that they may dwel in a place of their own, and moue nomore, neyther shal wycked people trouble thē any more as they did at the begynning, since ỳ time that I set iudges ouer my people Israel.
And I will geue thee reste from all thyne enemies. And the Lorde telleth thee, that he wil make thee an house. And when thy dayes be fulfilled, thou shalte slepe with thy fathers, and I will set vp thy seede after thee, which shall procede out of thy body, & will stablish hys kingdome. * He shal 2. Re. v. a. seate shalbe stablished for euer. According to all these wordes, & according to al this vision, did Nathan speake vnto Dauid.

Then went Dauid in, & sette him downe before the lord, and saide: what am I. O Lord god? & what is my house, that thou shouldeste haue broughte me thys farre forth? And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O lord god, but thou haste spokē also of thy seruauntes house for a greate while to come: For this is the vse of man, O lord god. And what cā Dauid say more vnto thee? for thou, lord god knowest thy seruaunt. Euen for thy wordes sake, and

The. viii. Chapter.

David ouercometh the Philistines.

After this it fortuned, ẏ Da-uid smote the Philistines, and A subdued thē, & tooke the bridle of bondage out of the hand of ẏ Philistines. * And he smote the Moabites, and measured thē with a Nu. xxiiii. c. line, & cast them down to the ground. Euē with two lines measured he them whome he slewe, and the length of one line saued he aliue. And so beecame the Moabites Dauids seruauntes, and payed tribute.
Dauid smote also Hadarezer the sonne of Rehob king of Zoba, as he wente to recouer his border at the riuer Pherat. And Dauid toke a thousand and seuen hūdred horsemen of his host, & .xx. thousand fote- B men, & cut of the hose of all his charethor-ses, reseruing only one hundred charets.
And whē the Sirians of Damascon came to succor Hadarezer king of Zoba, Dauid slew of ẏ Sirians two & twenty thousād men, and put souldyars in Siria Damas-con. And the Sirians became seruauntes to Dauid, paying tribute. And thus the lord saued Dauid, in al that he wēt vnto.
And Dauid toke the shieldes of gold that belonged to the seruaūtes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalē. And oute of Beta, & Berothai (cities of Hadarezer) did Dauid bring exceading muche brasse: (wherof Salomon made al the brasen vessel in the Temple, and the brasen lauatorie, and the piller, and the aulter.) * When Thoi king of Ha- C math heard how Dauid had smittē al the 1 Par. xviii. host of Hadarezer, he sent Jorā his sonne vnto king Dauid, to salute him wẏ peace & to blesse him, because he had fought agaīst Hadarezer, and beaten him: for Thoi had great warre wẏ Hadarezer: which (Jorā) brought with him vessels of siluer, vessels of golde, & vessels of brasse. Whiche brasse king Dauid did dedicate vnto the Lorde. with the siluer and golde that he had con-secrasecrated of nations, which he subdued: of Siria, of the Moabites, and of ẏ children of Ammon, of the Philistines, and of Ha-D malek, & of the spoile of Hadarezer sonne of Rehob king of Zoba. And Dauid gatte him a name after that he returned, & had smiten of ẏ Sirians in the valley of Salt.

Pa.xviii. a. eyghtene thousand men. *And he put kepers in Edō: euē thorowout al Edom put he souldiers, & all they of Edom became Dauids seruaūtes. And ẏ lord kepte Da-uid whatsoeuer he toke in hād. And Da-uid raigned ouer al Israel, and executed right & iustice vnto all his people. And * ii.Re.xx.c Joab the sonne of Zaruia was ouer the host, & Jehosaphat ẏ sōne of Ahilud was recorder. And Sadok ẏ son of Ahitob, & Ahimelech the sōne of Abiathar were the Priestes, & Saraia was the scribe. And Banaiahu ẏ sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites & the Phelethites: and Da-uids sonnes were chiefe rulers.

The .ix. Chapter.

Dauid restoreth al the fieldes of Saul, to Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas.

A And Dauid said: is ther yet any mā left of ẏ house of Saul: For I will shewe hī mercy for Jonathas sake.
And there was of ẏ houshold of Saul, a seruaunt whose name was Ziba: & when they had called hī vnto Dauid, ẏ king said vnto him: art ẏ Ziba: He said: Thy seruaūt is he. And the King said: remaineth there yet any mā of ẏ house of Saul, whome I ii.Re.iiii. b. swered the king: * Jonathas hath yet a sonne which is lame of his fete. The king said vnto him: wher is he: Ziba said vnto the King: behold, he is in ẏ house of Ma-chir ẏ sonne of Amiel of Lodeber. Then king Dauid sent, & fet him oute of ẏ house B of Machir the sōne of Amiel out of Lode-ber. Now whē Miphiboseth ẏ sōne of Jonathas, the sōne of Saul, was come vnto Dauid, he fel on his face, & did reuerence.

And ẏ king said: Miphiboseth: He answered: Behold thy seruaūt. Dauid said vnto him: feare not, for I wil surely shewe thee kyndnesse, for Jonathas thy fathers sake & will restore thee all the fieldes of Saul thy father, & thou shalt eat bread on mine C own table cōtinually. And he bowed him selfe, & said: What is thy seruaūt that thou shouldest vouchsafe to looke vpon suche a dead dogge as I am: Then the King called vnto ziba Sauls yōg man, & said vnto him: I haue geuen vnto thy maisters sonne, al that pertained to Saul, & to all his house. See therfore ẏ thou & thy son-nes, & thy seruaūtes til the lande, & bring in, that *thy maisters sōne may haue fode Micha. to eat. But Miphiboseth thy maisters son shal eat bread alway vpon my table. For Ziba had fiftene sonnes, & twenty seruaūtes. Then said ziba vnto the King: According to all that my lord the king hath cōmaūded his seruaūt, so shall thy seruaunt do. Wel (said the King,) Miphiboseth shall D eat vpon my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Miphiboseth had a sonne ẏ was yong, named Micha, & all that dwelled in the house of ziba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem, for he did eate euer at the kinges table: * & was lame on both his fete. ii.Re.iiii. b.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

The messengers of Dauid are vilaynously entreated of the Kyng of Moab.

It happened after this, that ẏ A king of the children of Ammon died, & Hanon his sonne raygned in his steade. Then said Dauid: I wil shew kind-nesse vnto Hanon the sōne of Nahas, as his father shewed kyndnesse vnto me. And Dauid sent to comfort him by ẏ hand of his seruaūtes, ouer (ẏ death of) his father. And Dauids seruantes came into the land of the childrē of Ammō, and the lordes of ẏ childrē of Ammō said vnto Hanon their lord: thinkest thou that Da-uid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent conforters to thee: Hath not Dauid rather sente his seruauntes vnto the, to searche the citie, & to spye it out, & to ouer-throw it: Wherefore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, & shaued of the halfe of euery mās beard, & cut of their garmētes in the middle, euē hard to ẏ buttockes of them, & sent them away. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sent to mete them (for they wer men exceedingly ashamed) & the king said: tarye at Jericho vntill your beardes bee growen, & thē returne. And whē the children of Ammō saw, that they stāke in the B sight of Dauid, they sent & hired the Si-rians of the house of Rehob, & the Siriās of zoba, twentye thousande fotemen, & of king Maacha a thousād men, & of Istob, xii. thousand men. And whē Dauid heard of it, he sent Joab & all the hoste of strong men. And the children of Ammon came out, & waged battaile at the entring in of the gate. and the Sirians of Zoba, of Rehob, Istob, and Maacah were by them selues in the fielde. Whē Joab sawe that the fronte of the battail was against him, before & after, he chose of al the fresh yõg men of Israel, & put them in aray against the Sirians. And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abisai his brother, that he might put thẽ in aray agaĩst the children of Ammon. And he said: if the Sirians be stronger than I, thou shalte help me. But if the children of Ammon be to strong for thee, I will cõme & succoure C thee. Therfore quite thee like a man, and let vs stand stiffe for oure people, and for the cities of our God. And the Lorde doe that which is good in his owne eies. And Joab proceded forth, and the people that was with him to fight with the Sirians.

But they fled before him. And when the children of Ammõ saw that the Sirians were fled, thẽ fled they also before Abisai, & entered into the citie. And so Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem. And when the Sirians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they gathered thẽ together and Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Sirians that were beyond the river. And they came with their armye, and Sobah the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them.

And when it was shewed David, he ga-D thered all Israell together, & passed ouer Jordan & came to Helam: And y Siriãs set them selues in aray against David, & fought with him: & the Sirians fled bee-fore Israel. And David destroyed. vii. hũdred charettes of the Siriãs, and fourty thousand horsemẽ, and smote Sobah the captaine of their hoste, whiche also dyed there. And when al the kinges (that were seruauntes to Hadarezer) sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with them, and serued them.
And so the Sirians feared to helpe the children of Ammon any more.

The. xi. Chapter.

The aduoutrye of David with Bethsabe, the wife of Vrias.

A AND it came to passe that (after the yere was expired) in the time when kinges vse to go forth to battaile, David sent Joab & hys seruauntes 1.Pa.xx.a with him, & al Israel, which *destroyed y children of Ammon, and besieged Raba.
But David taried stil at Jerusalem. And it chaũced in an euening, that David arose out of his bed, and walked vpon y rofe of the kinges palace: and from the rofe he sawe a woman *washyng her selfe: and Cant. the woman was very beautiful to loke vpon. And he sente to enquire what womã it should be, saying: is it not Bethsabe the daughter of Eliam, and wife to Vrias y Hethite? And David sent messengers, & fet her. And she came in vnto him, * & he Leui.xv.c. lay with her. And (immediatly) she was purified from her vnclennesse, and returned vnto her house. And the woman cõceiued, and sente and told David, and said: I am with childe. And David sente to Joab (saying,) send me Vrias the Hethite. And Joab sent Vrias to David. And when B Vrias was come vnto him, David demaunded of him, howe Joab dyd, & howe the people fared, & how the men of warre prospered. And David said to Vrias: goe downe to thine house, and wash thy feete.
And Vrias departed oute of the kynges palace, and there folowed him a seruice from the kinges table. But Vrias slepte at the doore of the kinges palace, with all the seruauntes of his lorde, and went not downe to his house. Which when they had tolde David, (saying: Vrias went not downe into his house.) David sayd vnto Vrias: Camest thou not frõ thy iourney? why diddest thou not goe down thẽ vnto thine house? Vrias answered David.
The arke, & Israel, & Juda, dwel in paui-liõs: & my lord Joab, & the seruauntes of my lord, lye vpon the flat earth: & shall I then go into myne house, to eate & drinke, & lye with my wife? * By thy life, & by the 1.Re.xiii.c. life of thy soule, I will not do this thing.
And David said vnto Vrias. * tarye here Ju.xix.a. this daye also, and to morowe I will let C the depart. And so Vrias abode in Jeru-salẽ that day, and the morow. And when David had called him, he did eate & drink before him, and he made him dronke. And at euen he wente out to lye on his couche with the seruauntes of his lord, but went not downe to his house. On the morowe David wrote a letter to Joab & sent it by the hãd of Vrias. And he wrote thus in y letter, saying: put Vrias in y forefront of the sharper battaile, & come ye backe from him, that he may be smytten, and dye. So when Joab besieged the citie, he assigned Vrias vnto a place, where he wiste that strong men were. And the men of y citie came out, & fought with Joab. And there were certaine ouerthrowen of the people and of the seruauntes of David, & Vrias the Hithite died also.

Then Joab sent, & tolde David all the thin-

thinges concerning the warre, and charged the messenger, saying: whē thou haste made an ende of telling the matters of warre vnto the kyng, yf he beginne to fume, and say vnto thee: Wherfore approched ye so nye vnto the citie, when ye dyd fight? wyst ye not that they would hurle & shote from the wall? Who smote Abime-D lech sone of Jerobosheth? Did not a wo-Jud.ix.g man caste a piece of a milstone vpon him from of the wall, and he dyed in Thebes? Why went you nie the wall? Thē say thou thy seruaunte Urias the Hethite is dead also. So the messenger went, & came and shewed Dauid al that Joab had sent him for: & the messenger said vnto Dauid: the men preuailed against vs, & came out vnto vs into the fielde, and we (with violence) stacke vnto thē, euen vnto the entring of ÿ gate. And the shoters shot frō the walles vpō thy seruauntes, and some of the kinges seruauntes be dead. And thy seruaunt Urias ÿ Hethite is dead also. And Dauid said vnto the messēger: thus shalt thou say vnto Joab: let not ÿ thing troble the. For (the chaunce of warre is diuers, and) the sweard deuoureth one as wel as another: make thy battaile more strong against ÿ citie to ouerthrow it, & see ÿ thou courage Joab. And whē ÿ wife of Urias heard that her husbande was dead, she mourned for him. And whē the mournig was past, Dauid sent & fet her to his house and she became his wife, and bare him a sonne. But this thing that Dauid dyd, displeased the Lord.

The.xii.Chapter.

Dauid is reproued for the slaughter of Urias. The childe conceiued in aduoutry dieth. After it is Salomon borne.

A And the lord sent Nathā vnto Dauid. And he came vnto him & tolde him, there wer two men in one citie, ÿ one riche & the other pore: ÿ riche mā had exceading many shepe & oxē. But the poore had nothing, saue one litle shepe which he had boughte, & norished vp. And it grew vp w him & with his childrē also, and did eate of his owne meate, & drake of his owne cup, & slept in his bosome, & was vnto him as his daughter. And there came a strāger vnto ÿ riche mā, And he could not finde in his hert to take of hys
B owne shepe, & of his own oxen to dresse for the straūger ÿ was come vnto him. But toke ÿ poore mans shepe, & dressed it for ÿ man ÿ was come to him. And Dauid was exceading wroth with ÿ man, and sayd to Nathan: as surely as the Lord liueth, the man ÿ hath done this thing * is the childe of death. He shall restore the lābe * foure folde, because he dyd this thing, & had no pitie. (ii Re.xx f / Ex.xxii.a) And Nathā said to Dauid: thou art the man. Thus saith ÿ lord God of Israel, * I annointed thee king ouer Israel, and I rid thee out of the hand of Saul, (i.Re.xvi.c.) I gaue thee thy maisters house, and thy maisters wiues into thy bosome, & gaue thee the house of Israel & of Juda, & might (if that had bene to litle) haue geuē thee so muche more. Wherfore thē hast thou despised the cōmaundement of the lord to do wickednesse in his sight: thou hast killed Urias ÿ Hethite with the sweard, & hast taken hys wife to thy wife, & haste slaine hym with the sweard of the childrē of Ammon.

C Now therfore the sweard shal neuer depart frō thine house because thou hast despised me, & taken the wife of Urias ÿ Hethite to be thy wife. Wherfore thus sayth the Lord: beholde, I will stirre vp euill against thee, euē out of thine owne house, & will * take thy wiues before thine eyes, & geue thē vnto thy neighbour, & he shal lie with thy wiues in the sight of the sunne. (De.xviii c.) For thou diddest it secretely. But I will D do this thing before al Israel, & in ÿ open sūne light. And Dauid said vnto Nathā. (Ec.xlvii. a.) * I haue sinned against the Lorde. And Nathan said vnto Dauid: the Lorde also hath put away thy sinne, thou shalte not dye. Howbeit, because in doing this dede, thou hast geuen ÿ enemyes of the Lord a cause to raile, the child that is borne vnto the, shal surely die. And Nathan departed vnto his house. And the Lorde stroke the childe ÿ Urias wife bare vnto Dauid, & it sickened sore. Dauid therfore besought God for ÿ childe, & fasted, and went in, & lay all night vpon the earth. And ÿ elders of his house arose, & went to him to take him vp from the yearth. But he woulde not, neither dyd he eate meate with them.
E And it happened the seuēth daye, that the childe died. And the seruauntes of Dauid durst not tell him that ÿ childe was dead. For they said: beholde, while ÿ childe was yet aliue, we spake vnto him, & he woulde not hearkē vnto our voice. How wil he the vexe him selfe, if we tell him ÿ the childe is dead? But Dauid seyng his seruauntes whysperyng, perceiued that the childe was dead. And Dauid said vnto his seruaūtes: is ÿ child dead? They said: yea. And Dauid arose from the earth, & washed & annoynted him selfe, & chaunged his apparel, and came came into the house of the lord, & worshipped, & afterward came to his own house, and bad that they should set bread before F him, and he dyd eate. Then saide his seruaũtes vnto him: what thing is this that thou hast done? Thou diddest fast & wepe for the childe, while it was aliue: & assone as it was dead, thou dyddeste rise vp, and eate meate. He said: while ẏ child was yet aliue, I fasted, and wepte: For this I thought: who can tell, whether God will haue mercye on me, that the childe maye liue? * But nowe seyng it is dead, wher-Eclesia. xxxviii.d. fore should I fast? can I bring him again any more? I shal go to him, rather than he shall come againe to me. And Dauid con-Peacea-ble. forted Bethsabe his wife, and wẽt in vnto her, & lay with her, & she bare a sonne, Math.i.a i.Par.iii b. and called his name * Salomon, and the Lord loued him. And he sent by the hande Beloued of ẏ lord. of Nathã the prophete, & called his name * Jedidia, of the lordes behalfe. Joab G fought against Raba the citie of the childrẽ of Ammon, & toke the citie of ẏ kingdom. And Joab sente messengers to Da-uid, saying: I haue made assault to Raba, and haue taken the citie of waters. Now therfore gather ẏ rest of the people together, & besiege ẏ citie that thou maist take it, lest I take it, and it be called after my name. And Dauid gathered al the people i.Par.xx b. together, & went against Raba, & besieged it, and gat it. * And he toke their kinges crowne frõ of his head, whiche weyed an C. weyght of golde, & in it were precious stones. And it was set on Dauids head: & he brought out the spoile of ẏ citie in exceding great aboundaunce. And he caried out the people that was therin, & put thẽ vpon sawes, & vpõ yron harowes, & vpon axes of yron, and thust them into the tyle kell. Thus dyd he with al the cities of the children of Ammon. And so Dauid and all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

The.xiii.Chapter.

Amnon Dauids sonne defileth his sister Tha-mar. Absalom therfore killeth Amnon.

A After this, it chaunced that Absalõ the sõne of Dauid had a faire sister, named Thamar, whom Amnõ the sõne of Dauid loued: And he was so sore vexed, that he fell sicke for the loue of his sister Thamar: for she was a virgin, & he thought it hard for him, to haue his purpose of her. But Amnon had a frende called Jonadab, ẏ sõne of Simeah Dauids brother: & Jonadab was a very wise mã.
And he sayd vnto him: howe cometh it, ẏ thou being the kinges sonne art thus cõsumed euery daye? Wilt thou not tell mee?
Amnon aunswered him: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms sister. Jonadab said vnto him: laye thee down on thy bed, and make thy selfe sicke. And when thy father is come to see thee, saye vnto him: Oh, let my sister Thamar come, and geue me meate, & dresse it in my sighte, that I B may see it, and eate it of her hand. And so Amnon laye down, & made him self sicke.
And when the king was come to see him, Amnon sayde vnto him: Oh, let Thamar my sister come, and make me a couple of fritters in my syght, that I maye eate of her hand. Thẽ Dauid sent home to Tha-mar, saying: go nowe to thy brother Amnons house, & dresse him meate. So Tha-mar went to her brother Amnõs house, & he was layed downe. And she toke floure and mad paste, and dressed fritters in hys sight, & dyd bake them, & toke a platter, & poured thẽ out before hym: but he woulde not eate. And Amnon saide: Haue out all men fro me. And thei went al out frõ him.
And Amnon said vnto Thamar: bring ẏ C meate into ẏ chamber, that I may eate of thine hande. And Thamar toke the fritters, which she had made, & brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.
And when she had set them before him to eate, he toke her, and said vnto her: come lye with me my sister. And she answered him: naye my brother, do not force me, for there hath no such thing be done in Jsra-el: doe not thou this abhomination. For whither shall I bee able to goe with my shame? And thou shalte bee as one of the fooles in Jsrael. O speake vnto the kyng, and he shall not denie me vnto thee.
Howbeit he would not hearken vnto her voice, but tooke her, and * forced her, and Genesi. xxxiiii. lay with her. And then Amnon hated her Le. xviii. a. exceadingly: so that the hate wherewith he hated her, was greater than the loue with which he before loued her. And Amnõ said vnto her: vp, and geat thee hence.
She aunswered him: thou haste no cause.
This euil that thou puttest me awaye, is greater than the other, ẏ thou diddest vnto me. Neuerthelesse, he would not heare D her, but called his boye that serued hym, & said: put away this woman fro me, and bolt the dore after her. And she had a kirtle of diuers colours vpon her: for with such were the kinges daughters (ẏ were virgins) apparelled. Then hys seruaunte brought her out, and locked the dore after her.

her. And Thamar toke and put asshes on her head; ⁊ rent her gaie kirtle that was on her, and layed her hand on her head, ⁊ so went: ⁊ as she went, cried. And Absalō her brother said vnto her: hath Amnō thy brother been with thee? Now yet be still my sister: he is thy brother. Let not this thing greue thine heart. And so Thamar remained desolate in her brother Absaloms house. But when king Dauid heard of al these thinges: he was very wrothe.
(And he would not vexe the spirite of Amnon hys sōne for he loued hi, because he was his first borne.) E And Absalom said vnto his brother Am-non neither good nor bad. Howbeit, Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Thamar. And it happened Ge.xxxi.c after two yeare, that Absolom had * she-…xxxviii.c pesherers in the plain of Hazor, beside the tribe of Ephraim, and bad all the kinges sonnes, and came to the king and said: behold, thy seruaunte hath shepesherers, let the king with his seruauntes come to thy seruaunt: The king answered Absalom: nay my sonne. We will not go all, nor bee chargeable vnto thee. And Absalom laye sore vpon him: howbeit, he would not go, but blessed him. Then sayde Absalom: Yf thou wilt not come, then let my brother Amnon go with vs. And the king answered him: What nedeth it, that he go with thee? But Absalom made suche instaunce, that he let Amnon ⁊ all the kinges children go with him. Now had Absalom cōmaūded his yongmen saying: marke whē Amnons hert is mery with wine, ⁊ when I bid you smite Amnō, then kil him, and feare not: haue not I bidden you? be bold therfore, ⁊ playe the men. And the young F mē of Absalom did vnto Amnon, euen as Absalō had cōmaunded. And all ẏ kinges sonnes arose, ⁊ euery mā gat him vp vpō his mule, ⁊ fled. And it fortuned, ẏ while they wer yet in the way, tidinges came to Dauid, saying: Absalō hath slaine all the kinges sonnes, ⁊ there is none left aliue.
i. Re.i.b. Thē Dauid arose, ⁊ * tare his garmētes and.iii.f. ⁊ lay along on ẏ earth, ⁊ al his seruaūtes stode by with their clothes rent. And Ionadab the sōne of Simeah Dauids brother, answered ⁊ said: let not my lord suppose ẏ they haue slaine all ẏ yongmen the kinges sōnes, saue Amnon onely is dead.
For ẏ hath ben determined in Absaloms mind, since he forced his sister Thamar.
Now therfore let not my lord ẏ king take the thing so greuously, to think that al the kinges sōnes are dead, saue Amnō onely is dead. But Absalom fled. And the yongman ẏ kept the watche lift vp his eyes, ⁊ loked. And behold, there came much people by a way, a long by the hinder part on an hilles side. And Ionadab saide vnto ẏ king: behold, ẏ kinges sōnes cōme. As thy G seruaunt said, so it is. And as soone as he had lefte speaking: behold, the kinges sōnes came, and lift vp their voices, ⁊ wept.
The king also ⁊ all his seruauntes wept exceedingly. But Absalom escaped ⁊ went to Thalmai the sonne of Amihur king of Gesur. And Dauid mourned for his sōne euery day. And so Absalom escaped ⁊ wēt to Gesur, and was there thre yeres. And king Dauid desired to go forth vnto Absalom: For where as Amnon was dead, he was comforted ouer him.

By the wisedom of the woman of Thekoā, Absalom is called againe.

IOab the sōne of Zaruia perceiued, that the Kinges heart A was toward Absalō, ⁊ he sent to Thekoa, ⁊ fet thēce a wyse womā, ⁊ said vnto her: fayne thy self to be a mourner, and put on mourning apparel. And annointe not thy self wt oile. But be as a woman ẏ had lōg time mourned for some dead body. And come to ẏ king, ⁊ speake of thys maner vnto him. And so Ioab taught her what she should say. And whē the womā of Thekoa had fallen on her face to the groūd, ⁊ done obeisaūce, she said vnto the B king: helpe me, O king. The king said vnto her: what aileth thee? She āswered: I am a widdow, ⁊ my husbād is dead. And thy hādmayde had two sōnes, ⁊ they two fought together in ẏ field (where was no mā to go betwene thē) but ẏ one smot the other, ⁊ slew him. And beholde, ẏ whole kinred is risen against thine hādmayde, ⁊ they said: * deliuer vs him, that smote his De.xix.c brother: ẏ we may kil him, for the soule of his his brother whom he slewe. We will destroy the heire also. And so they shall quenche my sparkle which is left, that he shall stirre vp (to my husbād) neither name nor issue vpon ȳ earth. And the king said vnto the womā: go home to thine house, I will C geue a charge for thee. And the woman of Thekoa sayd vnto the kyng: My lord, O kyng, this trespasse be on me, and on my fathers house, and the king and hys seate be giltlesse. And the king saide: yf any man say ought vnto thee: bring hym to me, and he shal hurt the nomore. Then sayd she: Let the king remembre his lord God, that the auēger of the bloud gather not on heapes together to destroye, and that they slaye not my sonne. And he answered: as sure as the Lorde liueth, 1.Re.xiiii g. * there shal not one heere of thy sonne fal to the earth. The woman saide: let thine handmaide speake one word more wt my lord the king. And he said: say on. The woman said: wherfore then hast thou deter-D mined suche a thing against the people of God? For ȳ king doeth speake this thing as one which is fautye, that he should not fet home again his banished. For we must nedes dye, and perishe as water spilte on the ground, which can not be gathered vp again. Nether doth God spare any soule.

Let the King therefore find the meanes, that his bannished be not vtterly expelled from him. Nowe therefore I am come, to speake of this thing vnto the King my lord. For they that be of that people haue feared me. And thy handmayde said. Now wil I speake vnto the king, peraduēture the king will perfourme the request of his handmayde. And the king shall heare his handmayde, to deliuer her out of the hād of the man that would haue destroied me, and also my sonne, out of the enheritāce of God. And thine handmayde saide: the E worde of my Lord the King shall now be comfortable. For my Lord the King is as an aungel of God in hearing of good and bad: therfore ȳ lord thy God be with thee.
Then the king aunswered, and said vnto the womā: hide not fro me (I pray thee) ȳ thing that I shal aske thee: And ȳ woman said: let my lord ȳ king now say on. And ȳ King said: Is not the hand of Joab with thee in al this matter? The woman aun-2.Re.xi.b swered, & said: * as sure as thi soule liueth my lord king there is els no man (on the right hand nor on the left) but as my lord the King hath spoken, thy seruaunt Joab he bad me: & he put al these wordes in the mouth of thine handmaide. For to the intent that I should alter my cōmunicatiō, hath thy seruaunt Joab done this thing.
And my Lord is wise euen as an aungell of God, to vnderstāde al thinges that are in the earth. And ȳ king said vnto Joab: beholde, I am contente to do this thing. F Goe and fet home the childe Absalom againe. And Joab fell to the grounde on his face, and bowed him selfe, and blessed the King. And Joab saide: nowe thy ser-uaunt knoweth, that I haue found grace in thy sight (my Lord O King) in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his seruaunte. And so Joab arose, and went to Gesur, and brought Absalō to Jerusalē.
And the King saide: let him turne to hys owne house, & not see my face. And so Absalō returned to his owne house, and saw not the kinges face. But in al Israel ther was not so goodly a man as Absalom, for he was very beutyful: in so much that frō the soule of his foote to the toppe of his head, there was no blemishe in him. And when he shaued his head (for at euerye yeares ende he shaued it, because ȳ heere was heauy on him, and must nedes shaue it) the heere of his head weyed two hundred sicles after the Kinges weyghte.
And this Absalom had three sones borne him, and one daughter named Thamar: G which was a faire woman to looke vpon.
So Absalom dwelte two yeare in Jerusalem, and saw not the Kinges face.
Therfore Absalom sent for Joab, to haue sente him to the King. But he woulde not come to him. And when he sente againe, he would not come. Therfore he said vnto his seruauntes: beholde, Joab hath a parcell of land fast by my place, and hath barly therein: Goe, and set it on fire.
And Absoloms seruauntes set it on fire.
(And Joabs seruaunts came with their garmentes rent, and said: Absaloms seruaūtes haue burnt the piece of land with fire.) Thē Joab arose, and came to Absolom vnto his house, and said vnto him: wherefore haue thy seruauntes burnte my fielde with fire?
And Absolom answered Joab: behold, I sent for thee, desiring thee to come, because I would haue sente to thee king, for to say: wherfore am I come from Gesur? It had been better for me to haue been there stil. Now therfore would I se the kinges face. And if there be any trespasse in me, kil ȳ me. And so Joab came to the king, & told him: which when he had sent for Absalom, he came to the King, and fell to the ground ground on his face before hym. And the kyng kyssed Absalom.

The.xv.Chapter.

Absalom maketh insurrection against his father. Dauid is faine to flee for feare of him.

After this it fortuned, that A Absalom gat him charettes and horses, and fiftye men to runne before him. And he arose vp early in the morning, and stode in the place of the entring in of the gate. And euerye man that had any matter, and came to the kyng for iudge-ment, him dyd Absalom cal vnto him, and saide: of what citie art thou? He aunswe-red, thy seruaunt is of one of the tribes of Israel. And Absalom said vnto him: see, thy matter is good & righteous, but there is no man deputed of the kyng to heare the. Absalom sayd moreouer: Oh that I were made iudge in the land, that euery man which hath any plea & matter in the law, might come to me, & that I might do him iustice? And when any man came nie to him, & dyd him obeisaunce, he put forth his hād and toke him to him, & kissed him.
B And on this maner did Absalom to al Israel, that came to the king for iudgement: and he stale the heartes of the men of Israel. And after fourty yeares it fortuned, that Absalom sayd vnto the kyng: let me go now to Hebron, & paye my vow which ii.Re.xv. c. I haue vowed vnto the Lord, for thy ser-uaunt vowed a vowe * (when I was in Gesur, in the land of Siria) saying: yf the Lord shall bring me againe to Ierusalē, I will serue the Lord. And the kyng sayd vnto him: go in peace. And so he arose, & went to Hebron.
But Absalom sent spies thorowout all the tribes of Israel, saying: as soone as ye heare the voice of the trompette blow, ye shal say: Absalom raigneth king in Hebrō.
And with Absalom went two hūdred mē out of Ierusalē, that wer called. And they C went with pure heartes, not knowing of any thing. And Absalō sent also for Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids coūsaller, y he should come out of his citie Gilo, while he offred sacrifices. And there was wroughte strong treason. For the people wēt & increased with Absalō in multitude.
And there came a messenger to Dauid, & said: the heartes of the men of Israel are turned after Absalō. And Dauid said vnto al his seruaūtes that were with him at Ierusalē: vp, that we may be gone, for we shal not els escape from Absalom. Make spede, to departe, least he come sodaynly & catche vs, & bring some myschiefe vpon vs, & smite the citie with the edge of the swearde. And the kinges seruaūtes sayd vnto him: behold, thy seruaūtes are ready to do what soeuer my lord the kyng shall appointe. And the king & al his houshold, departed on fote. And he left behind him D * ten concubines to kepe the house. And ii.Re.xvi so the kyng & all the people went out on b. fote, & taried in a place that was farre of. and xx.a.
And all his seruauntes went about him.
And al y Cerethites, & all the Phelethites, & al the Gethites (myghtie men of warre) (euen sixe hundred men which were come on fote frō Geth) went before the kyng. ii.Regū.
Then said the king to * Ithai y Gethite: xviii, b, wherfore cōmest thou with vs? Returne & abide with y king, for thou art a straū-ger, & art remoued frō thine owne place.
Thou camest but yesterdaye, and should I disquiet thee to daye to goe with vs?
I will goe whither I can. Therefore returne thou, and carye againe thy brethren. Mercy and truthe (shal the Lord shew vnto thee.) And Ithai answered the king, and said: as truely as God liueth, and as my lord the king liueth, in what place my Lord the king shal be, whether in death or life, euen there also will thy seruaunte be. And Dauid the king saide to Ithai: come thē, and goe forewarde. And Ithai y Gethite went forth, and all his men, and all the children that were with hym. And all the countrey wept with a loude voice, and so dyd all the people that went forth.
The kyng also him selfe passed ouer the E brooke Kydron. And all the people wente towarde the way that leadeth to the wil-dernesse. And Sadok and all the Leui-tes were with him, and bare the Arke of the appointement of God. And there they set down the arke of God. And Abiathar went vp, vntill the people were all come ouer, out of the citie. And the kyng sayde vnto Sadok: Carye the arke of God againe into the citie. Yf I shal find fauour in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me again, & shew me both it and the Tabernacle thereof. But and yf the Lorde thus say: I haue no lust vnto thee, behold, here am I: let hym do with me, what semeth good in his eyes.
The kyng sayde also vnto Sadok the F Priest: Art not thou a * seare? Returne into ii.Re.ix, the citie in peace: & take your two sonnes b, with you, Ahimaaz thy sonne, and Iona-thas the sōne of Abiathar. Beholde, I wil tarry in the fieldes of the wildernesse, vntil there come some worde frõ you to bee tolde me. Sadok therfore & Abiathar caried the Arke of God againe to Jerusalẽ, and they taried there. And Dauid wentẽ vpon mount Oliuete, & wept as he went & had his head couered, & went barefoote.

And al the people that was with him had euery man his head couered, and as they wẽt vp, they wept also. And one told Da-uid saying: Ahithophel is one of thẽ that haue conspired with Absalom. And Da-uid saide: O Lorde turne the counsaile of Ahithophel into foolishnesse.
G When Dauid was come to the top of the mount, he worshipped God: & behold, Hu-sai ye Arachite came against him with his coate torne, & hauing earth vpõ his head.
Unto whom Dauid said: if thou go with me, thou shalt be a burthen vnto me. But if thou returne to the citie, and saye vnto Absalom: I wil be thy seruaunt. O king: (as I haue this long bene thy fathers seruaũt, so am I now thy seruaunt) ye mayest
i. Re. xvii a.b.c. for my sake destroy the counsail of * Ahithophel. And thou haste there with thee, Sadok and Abiathar the Priestes, vnto whom thou shalt shewe al that thou canst heare out of ye kynges house. And behold, they haue there with thẽ their two sõnes: Ahimaaz Sadoks sonne, and Jonathas Abiathars sonne: by them also shal ye sẽd ii Re. xvii b. me al that ye can heare. And so * Husai Dauids frende gat him to the citie. And Absalom also entred into Jerusalem.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Ziba bringing presentes to Dauid, doeth falsely accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid, & hurleth stones at him. Absalom (by the counsaile of Ahithophel) lieth with his fathers concubines.

A And when Dauid was a little past the top of the hil, beholde, Ziba the seruaunt of Miphibo-seth came to mete him, with a couple of asses sadled, & vpon thẽ two hũdred loaues, and one hundred bũches of reysinges, & an hundred frai-les of dryed figges, and a bottell of wyne.
And the kyng saide vnto Ziba: what meanest thou with these? And Ziba said: They be asses for the kings houshold to ride on, & bread & fruite for the yong men to eate: & wine, that suche as be faint in the wil-dernesse may drinke. And the kyng sayd: where is thy masters sonne? Ziba answered vnto the King: beholde, he tarieth still at Jerusalẽ. For he said: this day shall the house of Israel restore me the kingdom of my father: Thẽ said the king to Ziba: behold, thine are al ye pertained vnto * Mi- ii. Re. xix phiboseth. And Ziba saide: I do homage to thee: I besech thee, that I may find grace in thy sighte, my Lorde, O kyng.
And whẽ king Dauid came to Bahurim, B beholde, thence came out a mã of ye kynred of the house of Saul, named * Semei, the ii. Re. xix sonne of Gera & he came out cursing. And he cast stones at Dauid, & at al ye seruãtes of king Dauid. And all the people also, & al the mẽ of warre wer on his right hand, & on his left. And thus said * Semei whẽ iii. Re. ii he cursed: come forthe, come forth ye bludshedder, & thou man of Belial. The Lord hath brought vpon thee all the bloud of ye house of Saul, in whose steade thou hast raigned, and the Lord hath deliuered the kingdom into ye hand of Absalõ thy sonne.
And beholde, thou art come to thy mischefe because thou art a bloudshedder.
Thẽ said Abisai the sonne of Zaruia vnto C the king: why doeth this dead dogge curse my lord the king? let me go now & take of ye head of him. And ye king said: what haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of Zaruia? let him curse: for ye lord hath bidden him curse Dauid. Who dare then say: wherfore hast thou done so? And Dauid said to Abisai, & to al his seruaũtes: behold my sõne which came of myne owne body, seeketh my life, How much more thẽ may this sõne of Je-mini do it? Suffre him to curse, * for ye lord iii. Re. ii b. hath biddẽ him: hapily the lord wil loke on my weping eyes & wretchednesse, & do me good for his cursing this day. And as Da-uid and his men went by the way, Semei went along on the hilles side ouer against him, & cursed as he went, & threw stones at him: & cast dust. And ye king & all ye wer wt him came werye, & refreshed thẽ selues * there. And Absalõ & al the people of the At Bahurim men of Israel came to Jerusalem, and A-hithophel was with him. And as sone as D Husai ye Arachite, Dauids frẽd was come vnto Absalom, he said vnto him: God saue the king, God saue the kyng. And Absalõ saide again to Husai: is this the kindnesse thou owest to thy frende? Why wentest thou not with him? Husai aunswered vnto Absalom: nay not so, but whom the lord and this people and all the men of Israel chose: his will I bee, and with him will I dwel. Moreouer, vnto whom shall I doe seruice, but euen to his sonne? And as I was a seruaunte beefore with thy father, euen so shall I bee with thee.
Thẽ spake Absalom to Ahithophel: geue councounsaile what is best for vs to doe. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom: geat thee in vnto thy fathers * concubines, whiche he hath left to kepe the house. And all Israel shal heare, that thou arte caste out of B thy father: then shal the handes of al that are with thee be strong. And so they pitched Absalom a tente vpon the toppe of ẏ house. And he wente in vnto his fathers cōcubines in the sight of al Israel. And ẏ cōusel of Ahithophel which he cōusailed in those daies, was as a man had asked cōū-sail of god: euē so was al ẏ cōusail of Ahithophel, both w Dauid and with Absalō.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Ahithophel seeyng his counsell disalowed of Husai, and forsaken, hangeth himselfe.

A Hithophel said vnto Absalō: A let me chose out now twelue thousand men. And I wil vp and folow after Dauid thys night. And I wil come vpon him while he is wery & weake handed, & wil feare him: And all the people that are with him shal flee. And so I will smite the king only, & wil bring again al the people vnto thee, euē as easily as if I would brīg any other thing. And when I haue slaine the man whom thou sekest, all the people shal haue rest. And ẏ saying pleased Absalō wel, & al the elders of Israel. Thē saide Absalō: cal also Husai the Archite, & let vs heare his cōsaile. Whē Husai was come to Absalō, Absalō spake vnto him, saying: Ahithophel hath geuen such cōūsel: Shall we doe after his saying, or notel thou.
B Husai answered vnto Absalō: the cōūsaile that Ahithophel hath geuen, is not good at this time. For (saide Husai) ẏ knowest thy father, & his men, howe that they bee strōg. And thei be chafed in their mindes, and are euen as a * beare robbed of her whelpes in the fielde. Thy father is a mā also practised in warre, and maketh no tarying with the people. Beholde, he lur-keth nowe in some caue, or in some other, (strong place.) And though some of hys men be ouerthrowē at the first brunt, yet they that heare it, wil saye: The people ẏ folow Absalom be put to the worse. And the best men thou haste, whose hertes are as ẏ hertes of lions, shall shrinke therat.
For al Israel knoweth, that thy father is a mightye man: and they whiche be with C him, are all men of warre. Therefore my cōūsail is, that all Israel be gathered vnto thee, from Dan to Beerseba (whyche are as the sande of the sea in numbre) and that thou go to battail in thine owne person. For so shal we come vpon him in one place or other, where we shall finde him, and we will fall vpon him euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on the grounde. And of all the men that are with him, we shall not leaue him on. Moreouer, if he be gotten into a town, thē shal al the men of Israel bring ropes to that citie, and we will drawe it into the riuer, vntill there be not one stone founde there. And Absalom & al the mē of Israel said: the counsaill of Hu-sai ẏ Archite, is better thā the counsaill of D Ahithophel. * For it was euen the lordes determination to destroye the good coun-saill of Ahithophel, that ẏ lord might brīg euil vpō Absalom. Thē said * Husai vnto Sadok and Abiathar the priestes: of this and that maner did Ahithophel and the elders of Israel counsaill Absalom. And thus and thus haue I counsailled. Nowe therfore sende quickely, and shew Dauid, saying: tary not al night in the feldes of ẏ wildernesse, but geate thee ouer, least the king be deuoured, and all the people that are with him. Now Jonathas and Ahi-maaz abode by the well Rogel: (for they might not bee sene to come into the citie.) And a wenche went, and tolde them. And they went and shewed king Dauid. Ne-uerthelesse, a lad saw them, and tolde it to Absalom. But they went both of them a- E waye quickly, and came to a mans house in Bahurim, which had a wel in his yard, into the whiche they went downe. And a womā toke and spred a couerlet ouer the welles mouth, and strawed fourmenty corne theron. And the thing was not espied. And when Absalōs seruaūtes came to the wife, to the house, they said: Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathas? The womā answered them: they be gone ouer the litle broke of water. And whē they had sought thē, & could not find thē, they retourned to Jerusalē. And as sone as thei wer departed, the other came out of the well, & went & told king Dauid, and said vnto him: vp, and get you quickely ouer the water, for suche counsaill hath Ahithophel geuen against you. Then Dauid arose, and all the people that were with him, and they were come ouer Jordā by that it was day: so ẏ there lacked not one of thē, that was not come ouer Jordan. And whē Ahithophell saw, that his cōūsail was not folowed, he sadled his asse, & arose, & gat him home to his own house, & to his own citie, and put his houshold in order, & hanged him self, & died: & was buried in the sepulchre of hys father. Then Dauid came to Mahenaim.

And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he and al the mē of Israel with him. And Absalō made Amasa captaine of ỷ host in ỷ stede of Joab, which Amasa was a mans sōne named Jethra, an Israelite, that went into Abigail the daughter of Nahas, sister, to Zaruia, Joabs mother. So Israel and Absalom pitched in the land of Gilead.
G And whē Dauid was come to Mahana-ii.Re.xi.a im, Sobi the sōne of Nahas out of *Rab-ba the citie of the children of Ammon, and Machir the sonne of Ammiel oute of Lo-deber, and * Berzelai the Gileadite out of 3.Re.ii.b sels, wheat & barly, floure, & parched corne, beanes, rice, otemele, hony, butter, shepe, and chese of kyne, for Dauid and all the people that were with him, to eate. For thei saied: the people is hungry, wery, and thirsty in the wildernesse.

¶The .xviii. Chapter.

Absalom is ouercome in battaile. He hangeth by the heare in an oke. He is killed and put in a ditche. Dauid is so sorowful for the death of Absalom, that he wepeth.

A AND Dauid numbred the people that were with him, and set captaines of thousandes and of hundreds ouer thē. And Dauid sent forth the third part of the people vnder the hand of Joab, and an other part vnder the hande of Abisai the sonne of Zaruia Joabs brother, and the other thirde part vnder the hand of Ithai the Gethite. And the kyng said vnto the people: I wil go with you also. And the people aunswered: Thou shalt not go forth: for if we flee, our aduersaries wyl not care for vs: neither shall they re-garde vs though halfe of vs were slayne: but thou art worth .x. M. of vs: Wherfore it is better, that thou succour vs out of the citie. And the king said vnto thē: What semeth you best, that will I do. And ỷ king stode by the gate side, and all the people came oute by hundrethes and by thousandes. And the king commaūded Joab and B Abisai and * Ithai, saying: entreat the 2.Re.xvi.b. yong man Absalom gently for my sake.
And al the people heard that the king ga-ue all the captaines charge concerning Absalom. And so the people went out into the fielde against Israel, and the battaile was in the woode of Ephraim, where the people of Israel wer put to the worse before the seruauntes of Dauid, and there was a great slaughter that daye, euen of xx. M. men. For ỷ fielde was fought there in diuers places, al abrode vpon the earth.
And the wood deuoured mo people that day thā did the sweard. And Absalō came before the seruauntes of Dauid, ryding vpon a mule, whiche caried him vnder the thicke boughes of a great oke. And hys head was caught of the oke, and he was lift vp betwene heauen and earth: and the mule that was vnder him went his way.
And one that sawe it tolde Joab, saying: Behold, I saw Absalom hang in an Oke. C & Joab said vnto the man that tolde him: yf thou diddest see him, why diddeste not thou there smite him to the grounde, and I woulde haue geuen thee .x. sicles of siluer, and a girdle. The man said vnto Joab: though thou wouldest laye a .M. sicles of siluer in mine hande, yet woulde I not stretch out mine hand against the kinges sonne. For we heard with our eares, whē the king charged thee, and Abisai, & Ithai saying: Beware, that none touche ỷ yong man Absalom. Moreouer, if I had done it, I should haue done against mine owne life: for there is no matter hidde from the king: yea, and thou thy self wouldest haue bene against me. Then said Joab: I may not stande thus taryng with thee.
And he toke thre speares in his hand, and thrust them thorowe Absalom, while he was yet aliue on the body of the tre. And ten seruauntes that bare Joabs weapōs, turned and smote Absalō, and slew him.
And when Joab blew the trōpet, the people returned from folowing Israell. For Joab spared the people. And they toke D Absalom, and caste him into a great pit in the wood, and layed a mighty great heape of stones vpō him. And all Israell fled to their tentes. And this Absalō yet in hys life time * toke counsaill, and reared vp a i.Re.xv.c piller, which is in kīges dale. For he saied I haue no sōne. And therfore, to kepe my name in remembraunce do I it. And he called the piller after his owne name.
And it is called vnto this day: Absaloms piller. Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadok: let me runne now, and beare the king tidinges howe that the Lorde hath iudged him quite out of ỷ hand of his enemies. And Joab said vnto him: thou arte no man to beare good tidinges to daye: thou shalt beare tidinges an other tyme, but to day thou shalt beare none: because the kinges sonne is dead. Thē saide Joab to Chusi: go, and tel the kyng, what thou hast sene. And Chusi bowed himself vnto E Joab,

Joab, and ranne. Then saide Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadok againe to Joab: come what come will, let me also runne after Chusi. And Joab saide: Wherefore wilt þ runne my sonne? seyng that for the tidin-ges thou shalt haue no reward: wel (sayde he) come what wil, let me runne. He sayd vnto him, runne. Thē Ahimaaz ranne by the plaine way, and came before Chusi.
And Dauid sat betwene the two gates.
And the watcheman went vp to the roofe F ouer the gate vnto the wall, and lifte vp his eyes, and saw: and behold, there came a man running alone. And the watchemā cried, and tolde the kyng. And the kyng said: if he be alone, there is good tidinges in his mouth. And he came, and drew nie.
And the watcheman saw another manne running, and he called vnto the porter, and saied: beholde, there cōmeth an other man running alone. And the king sayde: he is also a tidinges bringer. And the watchman said: me thinketh the running of the formost is like the running of Ahi-maaz the sonne of Sadok. The king said he is a good man, and cōmeth with good tidinges. And Ahimaaz called, and sayde vnto the king: good tidinges, and he fell down flat to þ earth vpon his face before the king, and saied: blessed be the lord thy god, which hath shut vp the men that lifte vp their hands against my lord the king.
And the king saied: is the yong man Absalom safe? Ahimaaz answered: whē Joab sente (Chusi) the kynges seruaunt, & me thy seruaunte, I sawe much ado: But I wot not what it was. And the king sayed vnto him: turne, and stande here. And he turned, and stode still. And behold, Chusi G came also, and sayed: Good tidinges my Lorde the kyng, for the Lord hath quitte thee this daye out of the hande of al them that rose against thee. And the king saide vnto Chusi: Is the yong man Absalom safe? Chusi answered: The enemies of my Lorde the king, and all that ryse agaynste thee, to do thee hurte, be as that yong mā is. And the king was moued, and wente vp to a chambre ouer the gate and wept.
And as he wente, thus he saied: O my sonne Absalō, my sonne, my sonne Absalom, woulde god I had died for thee: O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

The .xix. Chapter.

Dauid is restored to his kingdome and brought againe to Jerusalem.

AND it was tolde Joab: Be- A hold, the king mourneth and wepeth for Absalom. And the victorie of that day was turned into mourning vnto all the people. For the people heard saye that day how the kyng sorowed for his sonne.
And the people stale away that daye from going into the citie, as people confounded do steale away when they flee in battaile.
But the king hid his face, and cried with a loud voice: O my sonne Absalom, O Absalom my sonne, my sone. And Joab came into the house to the king, and sayed: thou haste shamed this daye the faces of all thy seruauntes, whiche this daye haue saued thy life, and the liues of thy sonnes and of thy daughters, and þ liues of thy wiues, and of thy concubines, in that thou louest thine enemies, and hatest thy frendes.
For thou hast declared this day, that thou regardest neither thy lordes nor seruauntes. And this daye I doe perceiue, that yf B Absalom had liued, and all we had dyed this day, that had pleased the well. Nowe therfore, vp and come out, & speake kindely vnto thy seruauntes: For I sweare by the Lord, except thou come out, there will not tarry one man with thee this nighte.
And that wil be worse vnto thee, than all the euil þ fell on thee from thy youth vnto this houre: Then the king arose, and sat down in the gate. And they tolde vnto all the people, saying: Beholde, the kyng doeth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the king: But Israel fled e-uery mā to his tent. And it fortuned, that all the people wer at strife thorowout all the tribes of Israell, saying: the king saued vs oute of the hand of oure enemies, he deliuered vs oute of the hande of the Philistines, and nowe he is fled oute of the land for Absalom. But Absalom whō we anointed ouer vs, is dead in battaile.
Therfore why are ye so still, that ye bring C not the kyng agayne? And kyng Dauid sente to Sadok and Abiathar þ priestes, saying: speake vnto the elders of Juda and saye: why are ye behinde to bring the kyng again to his house, seyng that suche tidinges is come from all Israel vnto the kyng, euen to his house? (For the kyng hadde said. Thus shall ye saye vnto the people of Juda.) Ye are my brethren, my bones and my fleshe: wherefore then are ye the laste that bring the king home againe?
And saye ye to Amasa: art thou not of my bone and of my fleshe? God do so and so to me, yf thou be not captaine of the hoste to me for euer in the roume of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of all the men of Juda, euen as the heart of one man: so that thei sent this worde to the king: Returne thou with all thy seruauntes. So the king returned, and came to Jordan. And Juda came to Gilgal, for to goe downe to mete the kyng, and to conuey him ouer Jordã.

ii. Re. xvi. b. And Simei *the sonne of Gera, the sõne of Jemini, whiche was of Bahurim, hasted and came with the menne of Juda to mete kyng Dauid: and there wer a thousande men of Ben Jamin with him, and

ii Re. xvi. a. * Ziba the seruaunt of the house of Saul and his .xv. sonnes and twentie seruauntes with him. And they went quickelye ouer Jordan before the king. And there wente ouer a boate that caried ouer the kynges housholde, and they did him pleasure. And Simei the sonne of Gera fell before the kyng (as he was come ouer

D Jordan) and sayed vnto him: let not my Lorde impute wickednesse vnto me, nor remembre the thinges that thy seruaunt dyd wickedly (when my Lorde the kyng departed out of Jerusalem) that the king should take it to heart. For thy seruaunt doth know, how that I haue done amisse. And therefore beholde, I am the first this daye of all the house of Joseph, that am come to goe downe, to mete my Lord the king. But Abisai the sonne of Zeruia answered, and said: shall not Simei die for this, because he cursed the Lordes anointed? And Dauid sayed: what matter is betwene you and me, ye sonnes of Zeruia? For this daye ye be aduersaries vnto me. Shall there any man dye this day in Israel? Do not I know, that I am this day king ouer Israel? And therfore the kyng sayed vnto Simei: thou shalt not die, and

E the king sware vnto him. And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul came also to mete the kig, and had neither washed his fete, nor shauen his bearde, nor washed hys clothes from the time the kyng departed, vntill he came againe in peace.

And it fortuned that when he was come to Jerusalem, and met the kyng, the king said vnto him: wherfore wentest not thou with me Miphiboseth? He answered: my Lord, O king, my seruaunt deceiued me. For thy seruaunt sayde: I woulde haue mine asse sadled to ryde theron, for to goe to the king, because thy seruaunt is lame. And Ziba hath falsely reported of thy seruaunt vnto my Lorde the kyng.

And my Lord the king is as an angell of God: doe therefore what semeth good in thine eyes. For all my fathers house were but dead menne before my Lord the king and yet diddeste thou put thy seruaunte among them that dyd eate at thine owne table. What right therfore haue I yet, to crye any more vnto the king. And ye king sayde vnto him: why speakest thou yet in thine owne cause? (It is determined that) I haue said: thou and Ziba deuide the landes betwene you. And Miphiboseth sayd vnto the king: yea, let him take all: forsomuche as my Lorde the king is come againe in peace vnto his owne house.

And Berselai the Giliadite came downe F from Roglim, and wente ouer Jordan with the king, to conuey him ouer Jordã. Berselai was a very aged man, euẽ foure score yere olde, and prouided the kyng of sustenaunce, while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a man of veri great substance. And the King said vnto Berselai: come thou with me, and I will feede the with me in Jerusalem. And *Berselai said vnto the kyng: I am thus olde, and how am iii. Re. ii. b. I hable to goe vp with ye kyng vnto Jerusalem? I am this daye foure score yere olde: and can I discerne betwene good and euill? Hath they seruaunt any tast in that he eateth or drynketh? Can he heare any more the voice of singing menne and women: Wherefore then shoulde thy seruaunte be yet a burthen vnto my Lorde the king? Thy seruaũt will go a litle way ouer Jordan with the king, and why will the king recompence it me with such a reward? O let thy seruaunt turne backe againe, that I maye dye in mine owne citie, and (be buried) in the graue of my father and of my mother: Beholde, here is thy seruaunt Chimeam, let him goe with my Lorde the king, and doe to him what shall please thee.

And the king answered: Chimeam shall goe with me. And I will doe to him that G thou shalt be content with. And whatsoeuer thou shalte require of me, that same wil I do for thee. And al the people went ouer Jordan. And when the kyng was come ouer Jordã, he kissed Berselai, and blessed him, and he wente backe agayne vnto his owne place. And then the kyng went to Gilgal, and Chimeam went with him, and so did al the people of Juda, and brought ouer the king, and there wer but halfe the men of Israel.

And behold, all the men of Israel came to the the king, & saide vnto him: why haue our brethrẽ the men of Juda stolẽ thee away, & haue brought the king & his housholde, & al Dauids men with him ouer Jordan?

And all the men of Juda aunswered ỹ mẽ of Israel: the king is nere of kyn to vs: wherfore be ye angry for ỹ matter? think ye that we eate of the kinges coast, or that we take vs anye giftes? And the men of Israel answered the mẽ of Juda, & sayde: we haue ten partes in ỹ king, & haue ther-to more right to Dauid than ye. Why thẽ did ye dispise vs, ỹ our aduise shoulde not be first had, in restoring our king againe?
And ỹ wordes of the men of Juda were fearcer thã the words of the mẽ of Israel.

The..xx.Chapter.

Seba the sonne of Bichri raiseth Israel against David, Joab killeth Amasa traiterously. The head of Seba is deliuered to Joab. Dauids receiuers are numbred.

A W Hen ther came thether a certaine mã of Belial (named Seba, the son of Bi-chri, a man of Jemini) he blew a trompet, & said: we haue no parte in Dauid, nether haue we inheritaunce in ỹ son of Isai, let the men of Israel depart vnto their tẽtes. And so euery mã of Israel wẽt frõ Dauid, & folowed Se-ba the son of Bichri. But the mẽ of Juda claue fast vnto their king frõ Jordã vnto Jerusalẽ. And Dauid came to his house ii.Re.15.b. to Jerusalẽ, & toke the ten womẽ his cõcubines, that he had left behind hi to kepe and.xvi.d the house, & put thẽ in warde & fed thẽ: but lay no more with thẽ. And so they wer inclosed vnto the daye of their death, liuing in wydowhode.
B Then said the king vnto Amasa: call me the men of Juda together against ỹ third day, and be thou here also. And so Amasa went to gather the mẽ of Juda together: but taried lõger thã the time which he had appointed him. And Dauid said to Abisai: now shal Seba the sonne of Bichri do vs more harme, thã did Absalom. Take thou therefore thy lordes seruauntes & folowe after him, leste he get him walled cities, & C escape vs. And there went out after him Joabs mẽ, & the Crethites & the Phelethites, and al the mightiest men. And they departed out of Jerusalem to folow after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And whẽ they were at the great stone in Gibeõ, Amasa went before thẽ. And Joabs garmẽt (that he had about him) was girded vnto him, & he had girded theron a knife: which was girded fast to his loines in such a sheeth, that (as he wẽt) it fel somtimes oute. And Joab said to Amasa: art thou in health my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by ỹ chin Pro.27.a with ỹ right hãd to *kisse him. But Amasa toke no hede to ỹ knife that was in Joabs hãd, for therwith he smote him *in the ii.Re.ii.f shorte ribbes, & shed out his bowels to the groũd, & thrust at him no more, & he died.
And Joab, & Abisai his brother folowed after Seba the son of Bichri: & on of Jo- D abs men stode by him, & said: he that beareth any fauour to Joab or good will to Dauid, let him go after Joab. And Amasa lay walowed in bloud in the middes of the way. And there was a mã, which whẽ he saw * that al ỹ people stode stil, he row- 2.Re.ii.g led Amasa out of the way into the felde, & cast a cloth vpon him, because he saw that euery one that came stode stil by him. And assone as he was tõbled out of ỹ waye, al the people wẽt after Joab, to folow after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And he went thorow al the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, E & Bethmaacha, & al the places of Barim.
And thei gathered together, & went after him. And they came, & besieged him in Abel, & in Bethmaacha. And they cast vp a bãke agaist ỹ citie ỹ stode in the valley. Al the people that was with Joab, thrust at ỹ wal to ouerthrow it. Thẽ cried a wise womã out of the citie, heare, heare, bid Joab come hither that I may speake with him.
Whẽ Joab was come vnto her, the womã said: arte ỹ Joab? he answered: I am he.
She said vnto him: heare the wordes of thine handmaid. And he answered: I do F heare: & she said again. They spake in the olde time, saying: mẽ must aske peace first, how much rather shuld thei so do to Abel?
For so haue they continued (hitherto:) I am one of thẽ, that are peaceable & faithful in Israel: & ỹ goest about to destroye a citie, & a mother in Israel. Why wilt thou deuoure the inheritaunce of the Lorde?

And Joab answered, & said: God forbid, God forbid it me, ÿ J shuld either deuour or destroy. The matter is not so: but a mã G of mount Ephraim (Seba ÿ sõne of Bichri by name) hath lift vp his hãd against the king, euen against Dauid. Deliuer vs hi only, & J wil depart frõ the citie. And the woman said vnto Joab: Beholde, his head shalbe throwen to thee ouer the wal. And then the womã went vnto all the people with her wisedom. And they smote of the head of Seba the son of Bichri, & caste it ii.Re.ii g. out to Joab * And he blewe a trompet, & they scattred frõ the citie, euery mã to his tente. And Joab returned to Jerusalem vnto the king. Joab was ouer al ÿ host of Jsrael. And Banaia the son of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites, & Phelethites.
And Adurã was ouer ÿ tribute. And Je-hosaphat the sonne of Ahilud was recorder. Seua was scribe. And Sadok and Abiathar were the priestes. And Jra the Jarite was Dauids priest.

The.xxi.Chapter.

Thre deare yeres. The vengeaunce of the sinnes of Saul lighteth on his.vii. sonnes which are hanged. Foure great battailes which Dauid had agaist the Philistines.

A] THen there fell an hunger in the dayes of Dauid, thre yeares together. And Dauid inquired of the lord. And the lord answered: it is for Saule, & the house of bloud i.Re.xxii g. because he slew the * Gibaonites. And the king called ÿ Gibaonites, & sayd vnto Jos.ix.c. thẽ: (Now the Gibaonites wer not of the
* childrẽ of Jsrael, but a remnaũte of the Amorites, & the children of Jsraell sware vnto thẽ: And Saule sought to slay them for a zele that he had to the childrẽ of Js-rael & of Juda.) Wherfore Dauid sayde vnto thẽ: what shal J do for you, & wherwith shal J make the attonemẽt ÿ ye may blesse the inheritaunce of the lord? The Gibaonites answered him: We wil haue no siluer nor golde, of Saul, nor of hys house: neither is it our minde ÿ ÿ shuldest kil any mã in Jsrael. He said: what say ye then ÿ J shal do for you? They aunswered the king: the man ÿ consumed vs, & imagined to bring vs to nought, him will we destroy, ÿ nought of him cõtinue in any of the coastes of Jsrael. Let seuen mẽ of his sõnes be deliuered vnto vs, and we will hang thẽ vp vnto the Lord, in Gibeah of Saul, whom the Lord dyd chose. And the king sayd: J will gyue them you. But the king had compassion on Miphiboseth the son of Jonathas, the son of Saul, because of the lords othe, that was betwene thẽ euẽ betwene Dauid & Jonathas the son of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa the daughter of Aiia (whõ she bare vnto Saule) euen Armoni & Miphibo-seth, & the fiue sõnes of Michol (ÿ daughter of Saule) whõe she bare to Adriel the son of Berselai, the Meholathite. And he deliuered thẽ vnto ÿ hãdes of ÿ Gibaonites, which hãged them in the hil before ÿ lord. And they fel al seuen together, & wer slaine in the dayes of haruest: euen in the first dayes, and in the beginning of barly haruest. And Rizpa the daughter of Aiia toke sackecloth, & hanged it vp for thẽ vpõ the rocke, euen from the beginning of haruest, vntil raine dropped vpon thẽ out of heauẽ: & suffered neither ÿ birdes of the aire to fal on them by day, nor beastes of the felde by night. And it was told Dauid what Rizpa the daughter of Aiia the cõ-cubine of Saul had done: & Dauid went & toke the bones of Saul, & of Jonathas his son from the men of Jabes in Gilead (which had stollen them frõ the strete of C Bethsan, where the Philistines had hanged thẽ, when the Philistines had slayne Saul in Gilboa.) And he brought thence the bones of Saul, & the bones of Jona-thas his son, & they toke vp the bones of them that were hanged. And ÿ bones of Saul, & Jonathas his son, buried thei in the countrey of Ben Jamin in Zela, in ÿ sepulchre of Cis his father. And whẽ thei had perfourmed al ÿ the king cõmaũded, God was then at one with the lande.
Jt fortuned, that the Philistines had yet war again with Jsrael. And Dauid went downe, & his seruauntes w. him, & fought against the Philistins. And Dauid waxed fainty, & Jesby of Nob, one of the son-nes of ÿ giaũtes (the yrõ of whose speare wayed thre hundred sicles, & he being gir- D ded with a new swearde) thought to haue i.Re.xxi c. slaine Dauid. * But Abisai the sonne of Zaruia succoured him, & smote the Philis-tine, & killed him. Then the seruaũtes of Dauid sware vnto hi, saying: Thou shalt go no more out w. vs to battaile that thou quenche not ÿ light of Jsrael. And yet after this, there was a battaile with ÿ Philistines at Nob, & then Sibbechai ÿ Husathite slue Saph, which was one of the sõnes of the giaũtes. And there was yet an other battaile in * Nob w. the Phili- i.Par.xx stines, wher Elhanã the sõ of Jaare, Or- a. gin,

gin, a Bethlehemite slue one Goliath a Gethite: the staffe of whose speare was as great as a weuers cloth beame. And there was yet an other battaile in Geth, where was a man of great statute, ⁊ had on eue-ry hand. vi. fingers, and on euery fote. vi. toes. xxiiii. in al. And was borne also of ỹ kinred of the giauntes in Geth. And whẽ he defied Israel, Jonathas the sonne of Simea the brother of Dauid slue hym.
These foure giaũtes were borne in Geth and fel into the hand of Dauid, and into the handes of his seruauntes.

The. xxii. Chapter.

The song of Dauid for his deliueraunce from his enemyes.

AND Dauid spake the wordes of his song vnto the Lord, what time the A Lord had deliuered him oute of the hande of all his enemyes, and oute of the hand of Saul. And he saide: the Lorde is my rocke and my castel, and my deliuerer.
God is my strength, in him wil I trust: he is my shield, and the horne of my saluatiõ: my worship ⁊ my refuge: my sauioure, ỹ Ps. xviii. a. shalt saue me frõ wrong. * I will cal on ỹ Lord which is prayse worthy, ⁊ so shal I be saued from mine enemies. For the cor-ruptions of death closed me about: ỹ floudes of Belial put me in feare. The sor-owes of hel compassed me aboute: ỹ snares of death ouertoke me. In my tribulation wil I cal vpõ the Lord, ⁊ crye to my God.
And he shal heare my voice oute of his tẽ-ple, and my crie shal enter into his eares.
The earth trẽbled ⁊ quaked: ỹ foũdatiõs of heuẽ moued, ⁊ shuke, whẽ he was ãgry.
Smoke wẽt vp in his wrath, ⁊ cõsuming B fire out of his mouth, coles were kyndled therof. And he bowed heuẽ, ⁊ came down and there was darkenesse vnder his fete.
And he sat vpõ Cherub, ⁊ dyd fly, he was sene caried vpõ the wynges of the wynde.
He made darkenesse a tabernacle rounde about him, wt waters gathered together in thicke cloudes. Thorow the brightnesse of his presence were ỹ fire coales kindled.
God thondred from heauen, ⁊ he that is most hie, doth put out his voice. He shot arowes, ⁊ scatered them: he hurled lightening, ⁊ ouerthrew thẽ. The flowinges of the sea appeared, ⁊ the foundations of the world wer sene, by ỹ reason of ỹ rebuking of the Lorde, ⁊ thorow the blasting of the breath of his nostrelles. He shal sende frõ heauen, ⁊ fet me, he shall plucke me out of many waters. He shall deliuer me frõ my mighty aduersary, ⁊ from mine enemies, for they are to strõg for me. Whẽ they had ouertaken me in the day of my calamite, the Lorde stayed me vp. For he broughte me oute into roumth, he deliuered me, because he hadde a loue vnto me. C
* The Lord wil rewarde me according to Rom. ii. b my righteousnesse: according to the pure-nesse of my hãdes wil he recompence me.
For I haue kept the wayes of the Lord, ⁊ done no wickednesse against my God. For al his lawes are in my sight, and his statutes wil not I put away frõ me. In hys sight also haue I bene vndefiled, ⁊ haue kept me fro mine owne iniquitie.
And the Lord did to me againe, according to my righteousnesse, euen after my pure-nesse in his eye sight. With the godly thou shalt be godly, ⁊ with the man that is vncorrupte, thou shalt be vncorrupt. With ỹ pure thou shalt be pure, ⁊ with ỹ froward thou shalt be froward. And the poore people that are in aduersity, thou shalt helpe.
And on the proude shalt thou caste thine eyes. Thou arte my light O Lord: ỹ Lord shal light my darkenesse. For wt thy helpe I will runne thorow an host of men, ⁊ in my God wil I spring ouer a wall. God is vncorrupte in his waye: the worde of the lord is tryed in the fire: he is the defender of all them that trust in him. For who is a God saue the Lord: and who is mightie, saue our God: God strengtheth me with power, and ryddeth the waye in battaile cleare before me. He maketh my fete lyke D hartes fete, and setteth me faste vpon my Ps. 144. a hye holde. * He teacheth my handes to fyght, that euẽ a bow of steele is to weake for myne armes. Thou haste gyuẽ me the shield of thy saluation, ⁊ with thy louing mekenesse thou doest multiplie me. Thou shalt make me space to walke in, and my legges shal not faile me. I will folow vpõ mine enemies, ⁊ destroy them, and turne not againe vntil I haue consumed them.
I will waste them, and smyte them, that they shal not be able to arise: yea, they shal fal vnder my fete. Thou hast girded me about with might to battaile and thẽ that arose against me, hast thou subdued vnder me. And thou madest myne enemies, (and them that hated me) to turne theyr backes to me, that I might destroy them.
They loke for helpe, but there is none to saue them: Yea, euen vnto the Lorde doe they crie, but he heareth them not. I will beate thẽ as smal as the dust of the earth: I wil stãpe them as the dirte of the strete, and will spread them abroad. Thou shalte deliuer me from the dissention of my people: thou shalte kepe me to be a head ouer nations: the people whiche I knew not, shal serue me. Straunge children dissēble with me: At the hearing of the eare they obey me. Straunge children wil shrincke away, & they shalbe smitten with feare, in their priuy chābre. God is aliue, & blessed be my maker: magnified be God, my most strong saluation. It is God that auēgeth me, & bryngeth downe the people vnder me. He deliuereth me from mine enemies, thou also shalte lift me vp on hie frō them that rise against me, thou shalt deliuer me from the wicked men. And therfore I wil praise the (O Lord) among the nations, & wil sing vnto thy name. Which sheweth great saluatiō for his king, & dealeth mercifully with his annointed: euē with Da-uid, and with his sede euermore.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

The last communication of Dauid, and the des-A cription of the mighty men to him belonging.

These be the last sayings of Da-uid. Dauid the son of Isai said: And ẏ man (which was made, the annoynted of ẏ God of Jacob, and the noble Psalmiste of Israell) said: the spirite of the Lord spake by me, & his worde was in my tong. The God of Israel spake of me, euen the most mighty of Israel, saide: he that beareth rule ouer men, ought to rule iustely in the feare of God. And as the morning light whē the Sunne is vp, a morning in which are no cloudes to lette the brightnesse, & as the ii. Re. vii. e grasse of the earth is by the vertue of the raine: Shal not my house be so with god?
* For he hath made wt me an euerlasting couenaūt, parfite and sure in all pointes: and this is truly al my healthe, and all my desire, that it growe, but not as grasse. But the vngodlye manne of Beliall shalbe as a thorne cleane plucked vp, which can not be taken with hādes: But the mā that shal touche thē, must haue irō, i. Pa. xi. b. or a longe helue. * Or elles must they be burnt with fire in the same place.

These be the names of the mightye men whom Dauid had: one that sat in the seat B of wisedō, being chiefest amōg thre, pleasaunt was he, & strōg, he slue. viii. hūdred at one time. After him was Eliazar ẏ son of Dodi, the sonne of Ahohi, one of ẏ thre worthies with Dauid, whiche defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battel: when the men of Israell were gone vp. He arose, & laied on ẏ Philistines vntil his hand was wery, & claue vnto ẏ sweard. And the Lord gaue great victory the same day. And ẏ people (which had fled) returned, & went after him to rūne to the spoile. After him was Samma the sonne of Age the Hararite: & the Philistines gathered together beside a towne.
(Where was a parcel of land ful of ryce) & the people fled from the Philistines. But he stode in the myddes of the ground, and defended it, & slue the Philistines. And ẏ Lord gaue great victorie. * These thre i. Par. b.
(which were of ẏ thirty chiefe captaines) went down to Dauid in the haruest time C vnto ẏ caue of Adullam, & the host of the Philistines abode in ẏ valley of giaūtes.
And Dauid was thē in an holde. And the souldiors of ẏ Philistines were in Beth-lehē. And Dauid lōged & said: Oh, that I had of the water ẏ is in ẏ well by the gate of Bethlehem, for to drinke. And the thre mighty brake thorow the host of the Philistines, & fet water out of ẏ well of Beth-lehē ẏ was by the gate, & toke & brought it to Dauid. Neuerthelesse he would not drinke therof, but offred it vnto the lord, & said: Lord forbid ẏ I shuld do so. Is not this the bloud of the mē ẏ went in ieoperdy of their liues? & therfore he woulde not drinke it. And these thinges did these thre mighty mē. * Abisai ẏ brother of Joab, ẏ i. Par. b. son of Zeruiah, was chefe among ẏ three & he lift vp his speare against thre hundred, & slue thē, & had the name amōg the thre. For he was nobler mā thē the thre, & was their captaine. Howbeit he atteined not vnto (the first) thre. But Banaiahu ẏ son of Jehoiada, (the son of a mighty mā) valiaūt in actes, of Kabzeel slue two strōg liōs, euē liōs of Moab. He wēt down also, & slue a liō in a pit in time of snow. And he slue an Egiptian a goodly bygge man, which had a speare in his hād. But he wēt down to him wt a staffe, & plucked ẏ speare out of the Egiptiās hād, & slue him wt his own speare. These thinges did Banaia-hu the son of Jehoiada, & had the name amōg the thre worthies. He was honorable among thirtye, but he atteined not to

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

Dauid causeth the people to be numbred, and therfore is Israel plaged with pestilence so that in thre dayes there dyed .lxx. thousande.

A And again, ẏ lord was wroth against Israel, and he moued Dauid against thē, in that he Chro.xxi.b said: ✚ go & nūbre Israel and Iuda. For ẏ king said to Ioab the captaine of his host: go thou abrode now, thorowout all the tribes of Israell, euē frō Dan to Beer Seba, & numbre ye the people, that I may know the numbre of thē. And Ioab said vnto the king: I be-seche the Lord thy God, to make thy people as many mo as they be: yea, and hundred times so many mo, & that the eyes of my lord the king maye se them. And what is the cause that my lorde the king hath a luste to this thing? Notwithstanding the kinges word preuailed against Ioab, and against the captaines of the hoste.
And Ioab & the captaines of the host, wēt out from the presence of the king, to num-B bre the people of Israell. And they passed ouer Iordan, and pitched in Aroer on the right side of the citie ẏ lieth in the middes of the valley of Gad ouer against Iazer.
And thē they came to Gilead, & to the nether lād, where was a new habitatiō, and frō thence they came to Dan Iaan about to Sidon, & came to the strong holde of Tire, & to al the cities of the Heuites & of the Cananites, and then went out to the South of Iuda euē to Beerseba. And so, when they had bene abroad thorow out al the lande, they returned to Ierusalem againe, after the ende of nyne monethes & twenty dayes. And Ioab deliuered vp the nūbre & sūme of ẏ people vnto ẏ king. And there were in Israel eight hūdred thousand mē of might ẏ drew sweardes. And ẏ men of Iuda were fiue hūdred thousande men. And Dauids hert smote him, after ẏ he had nūbred the people. And Dauid said vnto the lord: I haue sinned exceedingly in ẏ I haue done. And now lord take awaye the trespace of thy seruaunte, for I haue done very foolishly. And whē Dauid was vp in a morning, ẏ word of the Lord came vnto ẏ prophet Gad, Dauids sear, saying: go & say vnto Dauid, thus saieth the lord: I offre the thre thinges, chose the which of C them I shall do vnto thee. So Gad came to Dauid, & shewed him, & said vnto him.
Wilt thou haue seuen yeres hōger to come in thy lande, or wilt thou flee thre mone-thes before thine enemies, they folowing thee, or ẏ there be thre dayes pestilēce in thy lande? Now therfore aduise thee, & see what answere I shal geue to him that sēt me. And Dauid said vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. ✚ We will nowe into the Eccl.ii.c hand of the Lord, for much is his mercye, & let me not fal into the hāde of man. And so the lord sent a pestilence in Israel from the morning vnto the time appointed.
And there died of the people from Dan to Beerseba, seuenty thousād men. And whē the angel stretched out his hande vpō Ierusalē to destroy it, the lord had cōpassion to do ẏ euell, & saide to the angel ẏ destroied the people: it is now sufficiēt, hold thine hande. And the angel of the lorde was by the threshing place of Arefna the Iebu-site. And Dauid spake to the lord (whē he sawe the angel that smote the people) and said: lo, it is I that haue sinned, & I that haue done wickedly, But these shepe, what haue they done? let thine hande (I praye thee) be against me, & against my fathers house. And Gad came the same day to Da-uid, & said vnto him: go vp an rear an altare vnto the lord in the threshing flowre of Arefna ẏ Iebusite. And Dauid (according to the saying of Gad) went vp, as the Lord commaunded. And Arefna loked, & saw the king and his seruauntes coming towarde him. And Arefna went out: and bowed him self before the king, flat on his face vpon the grounde, and Arefna sayd: wherfore is my lord the king come to his D seruaūte? Dauid answered: to by the threshing floore of thee: and to make an altar vnto the Lorde, that the plage maye cease from the people.
And Arefna said vnto Dauid: let my lorde ẏ king take & offre what semeth him good in his eyes: Behold, here be oxē for burnte sacri-

sacrifice, & sleades, & the other instrumen-tes of the oxen for wood. All these thinges dyd Arefua geue vnto the king, and saied moreouer vnto ẏ king: the lorde thy God accepte thee. And the king saied vnto A-refna: not so but I will bye it of thee at a price, & wil not offre sacrifice vnto ẏ Lord my god of that which doth cost me nothig.
And so Dauid bought the threshing flour & the oxẽ for fifty sicles of siluer. And Da-uid built there an aultare vnto the Lord, and offred burnt sacrifices, & peaceoffringes. And so the Lord was intreated for ẏ land. And ẏ plage ceased from Israel.

¶ The ende of the seconde boke of Samuel: otherwise called the seconde boke of the Kynges.

The thirde booke of the Kinges after the rekening of ẏ Latinistes: which .iii. boke & the fourthe also, is but one with the Hebrues.

¶ The firste Chapter.

The yong virgin Abisag kepeth Dauid in his extreme age. Adonia occupieth the realme vnwitting to his father. Salomon is anointed king and so Adonia getteth him awaye.

A AND king Dauid was olde, & striken in yeres: so that when they couered him with clothes he caught no heate: wherfore his seruauntes said vnto him: let there bee sought for my Lord the kyng a yong mayden, to stande before the king, and to cherishe him. And let her lye in thy bosome, that my Lord the king may gette heate. And so they soughte for a faire damosel thorowout al the coastes of Israel, & foũd one Abisag a Sunamite, & brought her to ẏ king. And ẏ damosell was exceading faire, & cherished the king and ministred to him. But the king knew her not.
And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted him self, saying: I wil be king: And he gat him charrettes & horsemen, & fifty menne to rũne before him. And his father would not displease him at any time, nor saide so much to him, as, why doest ẏ so? And he was a goodly man & his mother bare him nexte after Absalõ. And he toke cõusel at Joab the son of Zeruia, & at Abiathar the priest. And they helped Adonia. But Sa-dok the prieste, Banaiahu the son of Je- B hoiada, Nathã the prophet, Simei & Rei, & al ẏ men of might which were with Da-uid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrificed shepe & oxen, & fat catel, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is fast by ẏ well Jo[illegible] of Rogel, & called al his brethrẽ ẏ kinges b. sonnes, & the men of Juda ẏ kinges seruaũtes. But Nathan the Prophet, & Banaiahu, & the other mighty men, & Salomõ his brother he called not. Wherefore Nathan spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomon, saying: hast thou not hearde how that Adonia the son of Hagith doth raigne, & Dauid our lord knoweth it not?
Now therfore come, & I wil giue ẏ coũcel how to saue thine owne life, & ẏ life of thy sõn Salomon. Go & get thee in vnto king Dauid, & say vnto hĩ: diddest not thou (my lord O king) sweare vnto thy hãdmayde saying? Salomon thy son shall raigne after me, & he shal sit vpon my seate: why is thẽ Adonia king? Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I wil come in after thee, & confirme thy wordes.
And Bethsabe went in vnto the king into C the chãber. And the king was very olde, & Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto ẏ kĩg. And Bethsabe stouped & made obeisaũce vnto ẏ king. And ẏ king said: what is ẏ matter? She answered him: my lord, thou swarest by ẏ lord thy god vnto thine hãdmaide? Salomon thy sõn shall raigne after me, & he shal sit vpon my seate. And behold, now is Adonia king, & my lorde ẏ king wotteth not of it. And he hath offred oxẽ, fat cattel, & many shepe, & hath called all the sonnes of the king, & Abiathar the priest, & Joab the captaine of the hoste.
But Salomon thy seruaunt hath he not biddẽ. And now my lord (O king) ẏ eyes of al Israel waite on thee, that ẏ shuldest tel thẽ, who ought to sit on the seat of my lord the king after him. For els when my lord the king shall slepe wᵗ his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe sinners.
And while she yet talked with the kyng,

Nathan the prophet came also. And they told the king saying: beholde, here cometh Nathā ẏ prophet. And when he was come in to the king, he made obeisaūce before ẏ king vpon his face on the groūd, & Nathā said: My lord (O king) hast ẏ said, Adonia shal raigne after me, & he shal sit vpon my seate: For he is gone down this day, and D hath slaine many oxen, & fat shepe, & hath called al the kynges sonnes, & the captaines of the host, & Abiathar the priest. And behold they eate & drink before him, & say: God saue king Adonia. But me thy seruaūt, and Sadok the priest, & Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada, & thy seruaūt Salomō hath he not called. Is this thing done of my lord ẏ king, & thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruaūt, who should syt on the seate of my lord the king after him? Then king Dauid answered, and said: call, me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, & stode before him. And the king sware, saying: As truely as the lord liueth (that hath ryd my soule out of al aduersitye) euē as I sware vnto thee by the lord God of Israel, saying: Salomō thy sonne shal raigne after me, & he shall syt vpō my seate for me, so will I do this daye. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to ẏ earth, & did reuerence vnto the king, & said: I pray God that my lord king Dauid maye lyue euer. And king Dauid said: cal me Sadok the priest, & Nathā the prophet, & Banaia-E hu ẏ sōne of Jehoiada. And they came before ẏ king. The king also said vnto them, take wt you the seruauntes of your lord, & set Salomō my son vpon mine own mule & cary him downe to Gihon. And let Sadok ẏ priest, & Nathā the prophet annoint him there, king ouer Israel. And blow ye with trōpettes, & say: god saue king Salomō. And thē come vp after him, that he may come & sit vpon my seat. For he shall be king in my stead. And I wil cōmaunde hī to be captaine ouer Israel, & Juda. And Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada answered the king, & said: Amē, I pray God ẏ lorde God of my lord the king, say so to. And as God hath bene wt my lord the king, euen so be with Salomon also, & make his seat greater, thā the seate of my lord king Dauid hath bene. And so Sadok the priest, & Nathan the prophet, & Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada, & the Crethites, & Phelethites went down, & set Salomō vpon king F Dauids Mule, & brought him to Gihon. And Sadok the prieste toke an horne of oile out of the tabernacle, & anointed Salomō. And all they of the people blew trōpettes, and said: God saue king Salomō, And all the people came vp after him, pyping with pipes, & reioycyng greatly, so ẏ the earth rang with the sounde of them. And Adonia, & al the gestes ẏ he had called vnto hī, heard it, euē as they had made an ende of eatīg. And when Joab heard ẏ soūde of ẏ trōpet, he said: howe happeneth it ẏ there is suche a noise in the citie? And as he yet spake: behold, Jonathas the son of Abiathar the priest, came. And Adonia said vnto him: come in, for ẏ arte a baliaūt mā, & bringest good tidinges. And Jonathas answered & said to Adonia: Verely our lord king Dauid hath made Salomō king. And ẏ king hath set wt him, Sadok the priest, & Nathā the prophet, & Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada & the Crethites, & the Phelethites, & they haue set him vpon G the kinges mule. And Sadok the priest, & Nathā the prophet, haue anointed him king in Gihō. And they came vp again, & reioyced, ẏ the citie did soūd again. And ẏ is the noise ẏ ye haue hearde. And Salomō sitteth on the seate of the kingdō. And moreouer the kinges seruauntes came to I blesse our lord kīg Dauid, saying: thy God make the name of Salomō more honorable than thy name, & make his seate greater thā thy seate. And the king bowed hym self vpon the bed. And thus said the king: Blessed be the lord God of Israel: whiche hath made one to sit on my seate this day, mine eye seynge it. And all the gestes that were with Adonia were afraied, & rose vp, & went euery mā his way. And Adonia fearing ẏ presence of Salomon arose, & went (into ẏ tabernacle of the lord,) & caught hold on the hornes of the altare. And one tolde Salomon, saying: Behold, Adonia doth feare king Salomon: for he hath * Ex. xxi. b caught holde on the hornes of the altare, saying: let king Salomō sweare vnto me this day that he wil not slay his seruaunt with the swearde. And Salomon saied, if he wil be a childe of vertue, there shall not an heare of him fal to the earth: But & yf wickednes be foūd in hī, he shal dy. And so king Salomō sent, & thei brought hī from the altare. And he came & dyd obeysaunce vnto king Salomon. And Salomō saide vnto him, get thee to thine house.

moreouer: I haue somwhat to saye vnto thee. She said: say on. And he saied, thou knowest that the kingdome was mine, & that al Israel set their faces on me that I should raigne, howbeit the kingdõ is turned away, & geuen to my brother, for it is appointed him of ẏ lord: and now I aske a petitiõ of thee: deny me not. And she sayde vnto him: say on. And he said: Speak, I pray thee, vnto Salomon the king, for he wil not say thee nay, that he geue me Abi-sag ẏ Sunamite to wife. And Bethsabe said: wel, I will speake for thee vnto the king. Bethsabe therfore went vnto kyng D Salomõ, to speake vnto him for Adonia.
And ẏ king rose vp to mete her, & bowed him self vnto her, & sat him down on hys seate. And there was a seate set for ẏ kings mother, & she sat on his right side. Thẽ she said: I desire a litle petition of thee, I pray ẏ saye me not nay. And ẏ king sayed vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I will not say ẏ nay. She said: let Abisag ẏ Sunamite be geuen to Adonia thy brother to wife. And king Salomõ answered & said vnto his mother: why doest ẏ aske Abisag ẏ Sunamite for Adonia? ask for hi ẏ kigdom also: for he is mine elder brother, and hath for him Abiathar ẏ priest, & Joab the son of Zeruia. Thẽ king Salomon sware by ẏ lord, saying: god do so, & so to me, if Adonia hath not spokẽ this word agaiſt his own life. Now therfore as truly as ẏ lord liueth, which hath ordeined me, and sette me on ẏ seat of Dauid my father, & made me an house, as he promised, Adonia shal die this day. And king Salomõ sent by ẏ hand of Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada, & he smote him ẏ he died. And vnto Abia-that the priest, said the king: get ẏ to Ana- C toth vnto thine own feldes: For thou arte worthi of death: but I wil not at this time kil ẏ, because ẏ barest the arke of the lorde God before Dauid my father, & because ẏ hast suffered w my father in all his afflictiõs. And so Salomõ put away Abiathar frõ being priest vnto the lord: ẏ he myght fulfil the wordes of ẏ lord which he spake ouer the house of Eli in Silo. Thẽ tidin-ges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia though he turned not after Absalõ. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of ẏ lord & caught hold on ẏ hor-nes of the altare. And it was tolde king Salomõ, how ẏ Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the lord, & stode by the altare. Thẽ Salomon sent Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada, saying: go and fal vpon him. And Banaiahu came to the Tabernacle of the lord, & said vnto him. Thus saied the kig. come out. And he saide: naye, but I will dye dye euen here. And Banaiahu broughte the king worde againe, saying: thus saide Joab, and thus he answered me. f And the king sayed. Do euen as he hath said, smite him, & burie him, that ẏ mayest take away ẏ bloud which Joab shed causeles, from me, & from the house of my father. And the lord shal bring his bloude vpon his owne head, for he smote two men rightwiser & better thā he, and slue them with the swearde, my father Dauid not knowing therof: euen Abner the sonne of Ner, captaine of the hoste of Israell, and Amasa the sōne of Jether captaine of the hoste of Juda. Their bloud shal therfore returne vpon ẏ head of Joab, & on ẏ head of his sede for euer. But vpon Dauid, and vpō his sede, & vpon his house, & vpō his seat, shal there be peace for euer of ẏ lorde.

So Banaiahu ẏ son of Jehoiada wēt vp, and smote him, & slue him, & buried him in his owne house in the wildernesse. And the king put Banaiahu ẏ sonne of Jehoiada in his rowme ouer the host, & put Sadok the priest in the roume of Abiathar.
And the king sent and called Simei. and said vnto him: builde ẏ an house in Jeru-salē, & dwel there: & se ẏ thou go not forth thēce any whether: For be thou sure, ẏ the day that thou goest out, and passest ouer ẏ riuer of Cedron, thou shalt dye that day, & thy bloud shalbe vpon thine owen head.
And Simei said vnto the king: This is a good thing: as my lord the king hath said, so wil his seruaunt do. And Simei dwelt in Jerusalē many a day. And it chaunced after thre yeres, that two of ẏ seruaūtes of Simei ranne away vnto Achis, sonne of Maacha king of Geth. And they tolde Simei, saying: behold, thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Simei stode vp, and sadled his Asse, and gat him to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruaūtes, & returned, & brought his seruauntes again from Geth.
G And it was tolde Salomō, how ẏ Simei had gone from Jerusalem to Geth, & was come again. And the king sent and called Semei, & said vnto hi: Did I not charge thee by the Lord, with an othe, & testified vnto thee, saying: Be sure, that whenso euer thou goest oute, & walkest abroade any whither, thou shalte dye the deathe?
And thou saidest vnto me: it is good tidin-ges that I haue heard. Why thē hast thou not kepte the othe of the Lord, & the commaundement that I charged thee withal?
2.Re.xvi. b. The king said moreouer to Simei: *thou remēbrest al the wickednesse, which thine heart knoweth that thou diddest to Dauid my father. The Lord also shall bring thy wickednesse vpon thine own head: & king Salomō shal be blessed, & the seat of Da-uid stablished before the lord for euer. So the king commaunded Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada: which went out & smote him that he died. And the kingdome was stablished in the hande of Salomon.

The.iii.Chapter.

Salomon taketh Pharaos daughter to wife. The Lorde appeareth to him and geueth him wisdom. The pleating of the two harlottes who should owe the liuing childe. And Salomons sentence therein.

Salomō made affinitie with Pha- A rao king of Egipte, & toke Pha-raos daughter, & brought her into the citie of Dauid, vntil he had made an ende of building his own house, and the house of the Lord and the wall of Jerusalem rounde about. Onely the people sacrificed in aulters made on hilles, bicause there was no house builte vnto ẏ name of the Lord, vntil those dayes. And Salomō loued the Lord, & walked in the ordinaūces of Dauid his father, saue only that he sacrified and offered incense vpon aulters in hilles.
* And the king went to Gibeon, to offer 2.Pa.i.a. there, for that was a special offerig place.
And a thousand burnt offerings did Salomon offer vpon that aulter: & in Gibeon ẏ lord appeared to Salomon in a dreame by nighte. And God saide: aske what thou wilt that I maye geue it thee. And Salomon saide: thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaūt Dauid my father great mercy, when he walked before the in truthe & righte-ousnesse & in plainesse of heart with thee.
And thou haste kepte for him this greate mercy, that thou hast geuen him a sonne, to sitte on his seate: as it is come to passe this daye. * And nowe, O Lord my God, ii.Re.i.c. it is thou ẏ hast made thy seruaunte king b in steade of Dauid my father. * And I Sap.ix.a am but young, and wote not howe to goe out and in. And thy seruaunt is in ẏ middest of thy people, which thou hast chosen.
And verely the people are so manie that they can not be tolde nor nūbred for multitude. * Geue therfore vnto thy seruaūte Sap. an vnderstanding heart, to iudge thy people, that I maye discerne betwene good and badde. For who is able to iudge this, so mighty a people?

And this pleased the Lorde wel, that Salomon had desired this thing. And God said vnto him because thou hast asked this C thing, and hast not asked long life, neither hast asked riches, nor ẏ soule of thine ene-myes, but hast asked vnderstanding and discretion in iudgement. Beholde, I haue done accordyng to thy petitiō. For I haue geuē thee a wise and vnderstādyng heart, so that there was none lyke thee before thee, neither after the shall any erise lyke vnto thee. And I haue also geuē thee, that whiche thou hast not asked, euen riches & honoure, so that there shalbe no king lyke

1. Par. 1. b beholde, it was a dreame. * And he came to Ierusalem and stode before the arke of the testament of the Lorde, and offered burnt offeringes and peace offeringes, & made a feast to all his seruauntes.
Then came there two women, that were harlottes, vnto the king, & stode before him. And the one womā said: Oh my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house.
And I was deliuered of a childe with her in the house. And the third day after that I was deliuered, she was deliuered also:
and we were together, and no straunger with vs in the house, saue we two.
And this wiues childe died in the nighte, for she smothered it. And she rose at mydnighte, and toke my sonne from my syde, while thine handmayde slepte, and layde it in her bosome, and put her dead child in my bosome. And when I rose vp to geue my childe sucke, behold, it was dead. But when I had loked vpō it in the mornyng, beholde, it was not my sonne, whiche I dyd beare.
The other woman saide: it is not so: but D my sonne liueth, & thy sonne is dead. And she saide againe: No, but thy sōne is dead & my sonne is aliue. And thus thy pleated before the king. Then sayde the king: the one sayeth, this that is aliue is my sonne, and the dead is thine. And ẏ other saieth nay: but thy son is dead, & the liuing child is mine. And the king saide: bring me a swearde. And they brought out a swearde before the king. And the king saide: Deuide the liuing childe in two, & geue ẏ one halfe to the one, & the other to the other.
Thē spake the woman whose the liuing childe was, vnto ẏ king: For her bowells yerned vpō her son, & said: I beseche thee my lord, geue her the liuing childe, and in nowyse slay it. But the other said, let it be neither mine nor thine, but deuide it. The the king aunswered, & said: geue her the liuing childe, & slaye it not: for she is the mother thereof. And all they of Israell heard of the iudgemēt which the king had iudged, & feared ẏ king: for they saw that the wysedome of God was in him to doe iustice.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The princes and rulers vnder Salomon. The purueyaunce for his vitailes. The numbre of hys horses, and of his Parables.

AND so kyng Salomon was A king ouer al Israel. And these were his lordes. Azariahu the sonne of Sadok the prieste, Elihoreph & Ahiah the sonnes of Sisa, scribes. Iehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer the hoste. Sa-dok and Abiathar were the priestes. And Azariahu the sonne of Nathan was ouer the officers. And Zabud the sonne of Nathan was a priest, the kinges companion.
And Abisar stewarde of housholde. And * Adoniram the sōne of Abda, was ouer 3. Re. the tributes.
And Salomon had twelue officers ouer all Israel, which prouided vitailes for the kyng and his housholde: eche manne hys moneth in a yeare, made prouision for necessarie thinges. And these are their names: the sōne of Hur in mounte Ephraim: the sōne of Dekar in Makaz & in Saal-bin and Bethsames, Elon & Bethanan: the sonne of Hesed in Aruboth, to whom perteined Socho and all the lande of Hepher: the sonne of Abinadab in all the region of Dor, whiche hadde Tapheth the daughter of Salomō to wife. Baana the B sonne of Ahilud was ouer Thaanach and Magiddo, and ouer all Bethsan, whiche is by Zarthana beneath Iezraell, from Bethsan, to the plaine of Mehola, euen vnto the place that is ouer against Iechmeam: the sonne of Gaber had Ramoth Gilead, and hys were the townes of Iair: the sonne of Manasse, whiche are in Gilead, and vnder hym was the regiō of Argob, whyche is in Basan three score greate cities wyth walles and barres of brasse.
Ahinadab the sonne of Hiddo had Mahenaim. Ahimaaz was in Nephthalim, & he toke toke Basmath the daughter of Salomon to wife. Baana the sonne of Husai was in Aser and in Aloth. Iehosaphat the sonne of Paruah was in Isachar. Semei the sō of Ela was in Ben Iamin. Gaber ẏ sone of Urye was in the countrey of Gilead, ẏ land of Sehon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Basan, and was officer alone in the lande. And Iuda and Israell were many, euen as the sand of the sea in numbre, eating and drinckyng and ma-C king mery. * And Salomō raigned ouer all kingdomes, from the * riuer vnto the lande of the Philistines: euen vnto the border of Egipte: and they broughte presentes, and serued Salomō all the dayes of his lyfe.

And Salomons bread for one daye, was thirty quarters of manchet floure, & thre score quarters of meale: Tenne stalled oxen, and twenty out of the pastures, & an hundred shepe, beside hartes, buckes and wilde goates, and capons. For he ruled in al the region on the other side Eupra-tes, from Thiphsah to * Asa, ouer all the kinges on the other side the riuer. And he had peace with al his seruauntes on eue-ry side. And Iuda & Israell dwelte without feare, euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his figge tre, from Dan to Berse-ba, all the dayes of Salomon. And Sa-D lomon * hadde fourtye thousande stalles of horses for charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen. And the officers prouided vitaile for king Salomon, and for al that came out of any place to king Salomons table, euery man his moneth so that there lacked nothing. Barlye also and strawe for the horses and mules, broughte they vnto the place where the officers wer, eue-ry man in his office.
* And God gaue Salomon wisdome and vnderstanding exceading muche, and a large heart, euē as the sand that is on the sea shore and Salomons wysdom excelled the wisedome of all the children of the east countrey, & all the wysdom of Egipt.
For he was wiser than al men, yea, than Ethan the Ezrahite, & Heman, Chalcol, & Darda the sōnes of Mahol. And his name was spoken of thorow out all nations on euery side. And Salomon spake thre thousand Prouerbes. And his sōges wer a thousand & fiue. And he spake of trees, euen from the Cedar tre that groweth in Libanō, vnto the Isope that springeth out of the wall. He spake also of beastes, of foules, of wormes, and of fyshes. And there came of al natiōs to heare ẏ wisdom of Salomon, and from all kynges of the earth, which hadde heard of his wisdom.

The. v. Chapter.

Kyng Hyram sendeth Cedar tymbre to the building of the temple. The discription of the workes.

And Hiram king of Tire sent his seruauntes vnto Salo- A mon, for he had hearde, that they had anointed him king in the rowme of his father.
* For Hiram was euer a louer of Dauid.
* And Salomon sent to Hiram, saying: thou knowest * howe that Dauid my fa- a. ther, coulde not builde an house vnto the name of the Lorde hys God, for the war-res, which were about him on euery side, vntill the Lorde putte them vnder the soles of his fete. But nowe the Lorde my God hath geuē me reste on euery syde, so that there is neither aduersary, nor anye euill plague. And beholde, * I am deter- d. mined to builde an house vnto the name of the Lorde my God, as the Lorde spake vnto Dauid my father, saying: thy sonne whome I will set vppon thy seat for thee, he shall builde an house vnto my name. B Now therfore, commaund thou that they hewe me Cedar trees oute of Libanon.
And my seruauntes shall be with thine, and vnto thee will I geue the hier for thy seruanntes, according to all suche thinges as thou shalte appointe: for thou knowest that there are not among vs, that can skil to hewe tymbre, like vnto the Sidones.
When Hiram hearde the wordes of Salomon, he reioyced greatly, and said: Blessed be the Lord this day, whiche hath geuen vnto Dauid a wise sonne ouer thys mighty people. And Hiram sente to Salomon, saying: I haue considered the thin-ges, which thou sentest to me for, and will accomplish all thy desire, concerning tym- C bre of Cedar trees and Firre. My seruauntes shall bring theym from Libanon
to

to the sea. And I wil conuey them by ship, vnto the place that thou shalt shew me, & wil cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receaue thẽ. And thou shalt do me a pleasure again, if thou minister fode for mine house. And so Hirã gaue Salomon Cedar trees, & Firre t.ees, accordig to al his desire. And Salomon gaue Hirã twenty thousand quarters of wheate for foode to his houshold, and twenty buttes of pure oile. Thus muche gaue Salomon to Hiram yeare by yeare.
And the Lorde gaue Salomon wisdom as he promised him, And there was peace betwene Hyram and Salomon, and they two wer confederate together. And king D Salomon raised a summe out of al Israell. And the summe was thirtie thousande men, whom he sent to Libanon, ten thousand a moneth by course, so that whẽ they had bene one moneth in Libanon, they abode two monethes at home. ii.Pa.iii. a And *Adoniram was ouer the summe.
And Salomon had thre score & ten thousande that bare burthens, & foure score thousand masons in the mountaines: besides the lordes, whome Salomõ appointed to ouersee the worke, euen thre thousand and thre hundred, whiche ruled the people (and them) that wroughte in the worke. And the king commaunded them to bring great stones, free stones & hewed stones for the foũdation of the house. And Salomõs masõs, & the masons of Hirã, did hewe thẽ with ỹ workemen of the corners. And so they prepared both tymbre & stones for the building of the house.

The. vi. Chapter.

Howe and when the temple was builded.

A And it came to passe, that in the foure hundred and foure score yeare (after the children of Israel were come out of the land 2.Pa.iii.c of Egypte) and * in the fourth yeare of ỹ raigne of Salomon vpon Israell, and in the moneth Ziffe, whiche is the Acte.7.f. second moneth * he beganne to builde the house of the Lorde. And the house, whiche Salomon builte for the Lord, was thre John.x.e score cubites long, & twenty cubites broad Act.iii.b. and. xxx. cubites hye. And *he made a por-and.v.c. che before the bodye of the temple, whiche was twentie cubites long, after the breadth of the house, and tenne cubites broad euen in the forefront of the house. And in the house he made windowes broye without and narow wythin.
And in the wal of the house, he made chãbers round about, (euen in the walles of the house) rounde aboute the temple and the quere, and made sides rounde aboute.
The nethermoste chambre was fiue cubi-tes broade, and the middle, was syxe cubi-tes broad: ỹ thirde was. vii. cubites broad.
For without in the wall of the house, he layed beames rounde about, that the bea-mes of the chambres would not be fastened in the walles of the house. And the house was builte of stone, made parfite al-readye before it was broughte thither, so that there was neyther hammer nor axe, eyther any tole of yron hearde in the house, whyle it was in buildyng.
The dore of the middle chambre was in B the right side of the house: and men went vp with wyndyng steares into the middle chambre, and oute of the middle, into the thirde. And so he builte the house, and finished it, & roufte it with beames of Cedar tymber. And then he builte chambers to all the temple of fiue cubites heigth, & they were ioyned to the house with bea-mes of Cedar.
And the worde of the Lord came to Salomon, saying: concerning the house, whiche thou arte in building, yf thou wilte walke in mine ordinaunces, and execute my lawes, and kepe all my commaunde-mentes, to walke in thẽ: then wil I make good vnto thee, my promise, * whiche I [illegible] promised Dauid thy father. * And I will [illegible] dwel among the children of Israel, & will not forsake my people Israel. Salomon therefore builte the house, and finished it, and siled the walles of the house within with bordes of Cedar tre: euen from the pauement of the house vnto the roofe dyd he sile the walles of it within, with Cedar tre, and borded the flore of the house with planckes of firre.
And he siled twenty cubites in the sides of the quere of the temple, both floore and C walles, with bordes of Cedar, and dressed it within in the secrete place of the tẽple, euen in the most holy. And the first house, that is to saye, the body of the tẽple with-oute was fourtye cubites long. And the Cedar of the house within was karued in knoppes, & grauen with floures, and all was Cedar tibre, so ỹ no stone was sene.
And the quere that was within ỹ temple he prepared to set there the arke of the appointment of the lord. And the quere before was. xx. cubites lõg. xx. cubites in bredth &. xx. cubites in heygth. And he siled it with pure gold, & borded the alter with Cedar.

Cedar. And Salomon also siled ÿ house within, with pure gold. And he made golden barres run along the quere, which he had couered with gold. And ÿ hole house, he ouerlaid with gold, vntil he had ended it. And the aulter that was in the quere, he ouerlaid with gold also.

And within the quere, he made two *Cherubins of oliue tree, x.cubites hye. Fiue cubites long was a wing of the one Cherub, and.v.cubites long was a wing of the other Cherub: so ÿ from the vtmost part of one wing vnto the vttermost part of the other, were.x.cubites. And ÿ other Cherub was.x.cubites hie also: so ÿ both the Cherubs were of one measure & one sise: For the heigth of the one Cherub was.x.cubits, and so was it of the other. And he put the Cherubs within ÿ inner house.*And the Cherubs stretched oute their winges, so that the one wing of the one touched the one wall, & the one wing of the other touched the other wall. And the other two wynges of them touched one another in the middes of the house. And he ouerlaid the Cherubs with gold. And in al the wals of the house round about, he made figures of carued and spled work: as namely pictures of Cherubs and Palme trees, and grauen floures, both within in the quere, and without in the temple. And the flooꝛe of the house he couered with golde, both within in the quere, and without in the temple. And in the entring of the quere he made two dores of olyue tree: And both the vpper and the two syde postes were.v.square. The two dooꝛes also were of oliue tree, and he graued them with grauing of Cherubs, and paulme trees: and grauen flowers, & couered them with golde, and layed thyn plates of golde vpon the Cherubs and Paulme trees. And in like maner did he in the dooꝛe of the temple, sauing that the postes were of oliue tree, foure square. The two dooꝛes were of fyꝛre tree, and either doꝛe with two folding leaues: he graued theron Cherubs, Paulme trees, and floures, couered them w gold, which was layd thyn vpon the carued worke.

And he built the inner court with thꝛee rowes of hewed stone, and one rowe of Cedar wood.

In the fourth yere was the foundation of the house of the Loꝛd layed: euen in the Moneth Zif: And in the leueth yeare, in the Moneth Bull (which is the eyght moneth) was ÿ house ful finished thꝛough out al the partes therof, accoꝛding to all the fashion of it, and so was he.vii.yeare in building it.

The building of the house of Salomon. The house of Pharaos daughter. The fourme of the pillers of bꝛasse, of the bꝛasen sea.&c.

But Salomō was building his A owne house thirten yere, and finished it all. And he built the house in the wood of Libanon, an hundꝛed cubites long, and fifty cubites bꝛoade, and thirty cubites hye. And (it stode) vpon foure rowes of Cedar pillars, and Cedar beames were laied vpon the pillers. And the roofe was Cedar aboue vpon the beames that lay on the pillers, euen.xlv.beames in.xv. rowes. And there were wyndowes in thꝛee rowes, and ÿ wyndowes were one against another thꝛee folde. And the dooꝛes with the syde postes, and the vpper postes, wer foure square, and had wyndowes one against an other thꝛee folde.

And he made a poꝛche by the pyllers (that bare vp the house) fifty cubites lōg, and thirty cubites bꝛode, and that poꝛche was befoꝛe those, and the other pillers. Foꝛ there was a thicke tre set befoꝛe thē. Then he made a poꝛche to sit and iudge in, siled with Cedar thꝛoughout all the pauements. And hys owne house (that he kept residēce in: and that was in another court without the poꝛche) was made of ÿ same worke. And then Salomon made an house foꝛ Pharaos daughter * (whō 3.Kin.iii.
he had taken to wyfe) lyke vnto the fashion of that poꝛche. a.

And all these were of the best stones, B hewed after a measure, and sawed wyth sawes, within and without, from the foūdation vnto the beames (that lay aboue after the measure) and euē so on the outside toward the great court. And the foūdation was layd vpon rich stones, and ÿ very great stones, whereof some were.x. cubits, and some.viii.cubites. And aboue were good stones, squared after a certain rule, & couered with Cedar. And ÿ great court rounde about was with thꝛe rowes of hewed stones, & one row of Cedar plākes, after the maner of ÿ inner court of ÿ house of the Loꝛd, & of the poꝛche of ÿ temple.*And king Salomō sent, and set one 2.Pa.ii.a and wrought al his worke. For he cast * Jere.lii.e i.Parali. xviii.b 3.Kin.xx.b c — two pillers of brasse, of eightene cubites hie a pece, & a stringe of twelue cubites did compasse eyther of them about. And he made two head peces of molten brasse (after the fashion of a crown)to set on the tops of the pillers. The heyght of the one heade pece conteined.v.cubites, and the height of the other head pece conteined.v cubites also:He made also net worke, and garlandes of chaine worke vpõ the head peces that were on the top of the pillers, C euen.vii.(rowes)vpon the one headpece and.vii.on the other. And so he made the pillers, and two rowes rounde about, in the one wrethen worke to couer ẏ head-peces that were vpon the Pomgranates And thus did he also for the other head pece. And the head peces that were on ẏ tops of the pillers couered he aboue, with a curious worke of roses toward ẏ palace by the space of foure cubites. Likewise vnder the head peces in those two pillers beneth, ouer against the myddes, and before the net worke: and vpon the second head pece there were two hundred Põgranates in two rowes round about And he set vp the pillers in the porche of the temple. And when he had set vp the right piller, he called the name thereof* Joachin: and when he had set vp the left D piller, he called the name therof * Boaz.

Stedfastnesse. Stregth — And in the top of the pillers was a worke of roses, and so was the workemanshyp of the pillers finished.

And he made a molten lauatory, x.cu-bites wyde from brym to brym, round in compasse, & v.cubites hye. And a string of thirtie cubites did compasse it about, & vnder the brym of it there were knoppes round about, x.in one cubite: and they cõ-passed the lauatory round about. And ẏ knoppes were cast with it, in two rowes when it was cast. And it stode on twelue oxen: of which three loked towarde the North, three towarde the West, three to-warde the South, and three toward the East, and the lauatory stode vpon them, and all their hinder partes were inward.
It was an hande breadth thycke, & the brim wrought like the brim of a cup with floures of lilies. And it conteined two thousande Battes.

And he made.x.sockets of brasse, foure cubites long, and foure cubites broade a pece, and three cubites hie, and the worke of the sockets was on this maner: There E had sides, & the sydes were betwene the ledges. And on the sydes that were be-twene the ledges, were Lyons, Oxen, & Cherubs. And likewise vpõ the ledges ẏ were aboue: & beneath ẏ Lions & oxen, were certaine additions made of thyn worke. And vnder euery socket were foure brasen wheles. & bordes of brasse. And in the foure corners therof, were vndersetters (vnder the lauatory)cast eche ouer against his felow.

And the stalke of the lauatory was in ẏ middle of it, (where it is sene on the out syde) one cubite hye, and a cubite and an halfe rounde, and in the height of it wer grauẽ workes whose sydes were made foure square, & not round. And vnder the sydes were foure wheles, & the Axeltrees ioyned fast to the bottome. And the heyght of euery whele was a cubite and a halfe.
And the workmanship of ẏ wheles was like the worke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees, ẏ nauels, spokes & shaftes wer al moltẽ. And there were foure vndersetters in ẏ foure corners of one socket: & the vndersetters were of ẏ very bottom self.
And in the height of ẏ bottom was there a rounde cõpasse of halfe a cubite hye: and in ẏ heyght of ẏ bottome, there proceded both ledges & sydes out of the same. For in the bordes of the ledges, & on ẏ sydes he had grauẽ pictures of Cherubins. Lions & Paulmetrees, one by another roũd about. Thus made he the.x.sockets after thys maner: And they had al one fashiõ of F casting, one measure, and one syse. Then made he.x.lauers of brasse, one lauer cõ-teining foure Battes: & one lauer was foure cubites, & vpõ euery one of ẏ.x.sockets, he put one lauer. And he put.v.of those sockets on the right syde of ẏ house and the other.v. on the left. And he set the lauatory on the right side of ẏ house east-warde, and towarde the south.

And Hyram made pottes, shouels and basyns, and so finished al the worke that he made kyng Salomon for the house of the Lord: that is to say, two pillers, and two rounde headpeces, that wer to be set on the tops of the two pyllers. Two net workes to couer the two rounde head-peces, set vpõ the tops of the pillers, and foure hundred Pomgranates for ẏ two net works(euen two rowes of Pomgranates in one net worke)to couer the two head peces ẏ were to be set on ẏ toppes of ẏ pillers: and the.x.sockets, and.x.lauers on on the backets. The lauatory, and .xii. oxē under it: and pottes, shouels and basens.

And al these vessels, which Hyram made to king Salomō for the house of the lord were of bryght brasse. In yͤ plain of Jordan did the king cast them: Euen in the thicke clay betwene Socoth & Zarthan.
And Salomō left al yͤ vessels unwaied, bicause they wer so exceading many, neither foūd they out the weight of yͤ brasse.
6 And so Salomō made al the vessels that perteined unto the house of the Lord: the golden aulter, and the goldē table wheron the shewbread was: And .v. candelstickes for the right syde, and .v. for the left, before the quere of pure golde: with floures, lampes, and snoffers of golde: and boules, flat peces, basins, spones, & masures of pure gold, & hyndges made he of gold both for the dores of yͤ quere (yͤ place most holy) & for the dores of yͤ temple also And so was ended all the worke yͤ kyng Salomon made for the house of the lord. pa.iiii. And * Salomon brought in the thyngs, which Dauid hys father had dedicated: euen the siluer, golde, and vessels, and layed them up among the treasures of the house of the Lord.

The .viii. Chapter.

The Arke is borne into the temple. A cloude fil-leth the temple. The temple is blessed.

1 pa.v.a. THen * Salomō gathered together yͤ Elders of Jsraell, al the heades of the trybes, (and them yͤ were captaines among the fathers of the childrē of Jsraell) unto hym in Jeru-kin.vi salem, yͤ they might bryng up the Arke of the appointment of the Lord, * out of the citie of Dauid, which is Sion. And al the men of Israel assembled unto king Sa-lomō, to the feast yͤ falleth in the moneth Ethanim, which is the seuenth moneth.
And al the elders of Israel were come, & the Priestes toke up the Arke. They bare the Arke of the Lord, into the tabernacle of witnesse: and al the holy vessels yͤ were in the tabernacle, those did the Pryestes and Leuites beare. And king Salomon and al the congregation of Israell, that were assembled unto hym (and wēt with hym before the Arke) dyd offer shepe and oxen, that could not be told nor numbred for multitude.

And so the Priestes brought the Arke of the appointment of the Lord unto hys place: Euen in the quere of the tēple, and place most holy, under the wynges of the Cherubs. For the Cherubs stretched out their winges ouer yͤ place of yͤ Arke, and couered both it, and also yͤ staues therof a hye upon it. And they drew out yͤ staues, that the endes of thē might appeare out of the holy place win the quere, but they were not sene without. And there they haue bene unto this day, & there was nothing in the Arke, * saue the two tables of stone, which Moses put there at Horeb, B in the which (tables) the Lord made an Deu.x.a. appointment with the children of Israel when he brought them out of the land of Egipt.

And it fortuned yͤ when the Priestes were come out of the holy place, the cloud filled the house of the Lord, yͤ the Priestes could not stand & minister, bicause of the cloude, for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord. Then spake Le.xvi.a.
Salomon: the Lord * sayd that he would dwel in the darke cloud. I haue built thee an house to dwel in, an habitatiō for thee to abide in for euer. And the kyng turned hys face, & blessed al the congregation of Israell, & al the congregation of Israell stode stil, and he sayd: Blessed be the lord God of Israell, which spake with hys mouth unto Dauid my father, * & hath 2.kin.vii with his hande fulfilled it, saying: Since c. the day yͤ I brought my people Israell ii.par.vi. out of Egipt, I chose no citie of al the tri- a. bes of Israel, to build an house yͤ mi name might be therin: But I haue chosē * Da- 2.kin.xvi. uid, to be ruler ouer my people Israell. a.
And it was in the heart of Dauid my father to builde an house for the name of yͤ Lord God of Israel. And the Lord sayd unto Dauid my father: Wheras it was in thine heart to builde an house unto my name, thou dydst wel, yͤ thou wast so minded: Neuerthelesse, thou shalt not buylde the house, but thy sonne yͤ shal come out of thy loynes shal buylde the house unto my name. And the Lord hath made good hys worde yͤ he spake. And I am ryse up C in the rowm of Dauid my father, and sit on the seate of Israel, as the lord promised & haue built an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And I haue prepared therin a place for the Arke, wher-in is the couenaūt of the Lord, which he made with our fathers, whē he brought them out of the land of Egipt. Salomon stode before the aulter of the Lord in the syght of all the congregation of Israell, & stretched out hys handes toward heauē, ii. Para. vi. b. and sayd: ✶ Lord God of Israell, there is no God like thee in heauen aboue, or in the earth beneth, thou ỳ kepest couenaunt and mercy for thy seruauntes ỳ walke before thee with al their heart: thou ỳ haste kept wyth thy seruaunt Dauid my father that thou promysedst hym. Thou spakest also with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thyne hande, as it is come to passe thys day. Therfore, now lord God of Israell, kepe with thy seruaunt Dauid my father, that thou promysedst hym, saying: *

ii. Kin. vii c. Thou shalt not be without a man in my syght to syt on the seate of Israell: so that thy children take hede to their way, that they walke before me, as thou hast walked in my syght. And now (O God) of Israel, let thy word be verified, which thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid my father.

Wil God in dede dwel on the earth? Behold, * ỳ heauens, & the heauēs of al hea-uens are not able to cōteine thee: and how Esa. lxvi. a. should then this house do it, that I haue Act. vii. f. builded? Haue thou therfore respect vnto the praier of thy seruaunt, and to his supplication (O Lord my God) to heare the voice and praier before thee this day, that thine eyes may be open towarde this house, night and day, euen towarde thys Deu. xii. c. place (of which thou hast said: * My name shalbe there.) That thou mayest hearken vnto the praier, which thy seruaunt praieth in this place: And rewarde thou the supplicatiō of thy seruaunt and of thy people Israel, when they pray in thys place: And heare ỳ in heauen thy dwelling place, & when ỳ hearest, haue mercy.
ii. Para. vi. b. * If any man trespasse against his neighbour, and there goe an othe betwene thē, and the one cōpel the other, & come swearing before thine aulter in thys house, then hearken ỳ in heauen, & worke, and iudge thy seruauntes, ỳ thou cōdemne the vngodly to bring his way vpō his head, and iustifie ỳ righteous, to geue him ac-D cording to his righteousnesse. * Whē thy Deu. xxx. a. people Israel be put to the worsse before the enemy, bicause they haue sinned against thee, and afterwarde turne again to thee, and knowledge vnto thy name, & pray, and make supplicatiō vnto thee in this house: then heare ỳ in heauen, to be mercifull vnto the sinne of thy people Israel, and bring them again into the land, which thou gauest vnto their fathers.
iii. King. xvii. a. * If heauen be shut vp, and there be no raine bicause they haue sinned against thee: yet if they pray in this place, and knowledge vnto thy name, and turne fro their sinne, through thy scourging of thē: thē heare ỳ in heauē, & be mercyfull (vnto the synnes,) of thy seruauntes, & of thy people Israel, ỳ thou shew them a good way to walke in, & geue raine vpō the lande, ỳ thou hast geuē to thy people to enherite.
If there be in the lande dearth, or pesty-lence, drouth, blasting, greshopper, or caterpiller, or if their enemy besiege thē in the lande of their cities, or whatsoeuer plage or sickenesse chaunce: * then what praiers and supplicatiō so euer be made of any man of al thy people Israel, which shal knowledge euery man the plague of his own heart, & stretch forth his handes toward this house. Heare ỳ then in heauen, euē in thy dwelling place, & be merciful, and worke, & geue euery mā according to his wayes, (euen as ỳ that only knowest his heart, for thou onely kno-west the heartes of al the children of mē) that they may feare thee as long as they liue in the lande, which ỳ gauest vnto our fathers. And likewise, if a straunger that is not of thy people Israell, * come out of a farre countrey for thy names sake, (for they shall heare of thy great name, and of thy mighty hande, and of thy stretched out C arme, & shal come and pray in this house.
Therfore, heare ỳ in heauē thy dwelling place, and do all that the straunger calleth to thee for, that al natiōs of the earth may know thy name, and feare thee, as do thy people Israell: and that they may knowe that thy name is called vpō in this house, which I haue built.

If thy people go out to battaile agaist their enemies, whither soeuer thou shalt sende them, and shall pray vnto thee (O Lord) * toward the way of the citie, which thou hast chosen, and towarde the house that I haue built for thy name: (heare ỳ in heauen their praier and supplication, and iudge their cause.)

If they sinne against thee, * (for ther is i. Ioh. i. no man ỳ sinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliuer them into ỳ hand of their enemies, so that they cary them away prisoners vnto the lande of their enemies, either farre or neare, yet if they turne againe vnto their heartes in the land (to the which they be caried captiue) and returne and pray vnto thee in ỳ land of their enemies, saying: we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly, and haue cōmit-ted vngodlinesse, & so turne againe vnto thee

thee with all their heart, & al their soule, in the lande of their enemies (which led them away captiue) and pray vnto thee, toward the way of their land, which thou gauest vnto their fathers, and towarde the citie, which thou hast chosen, and to-warde the house which I haue built for Gen.ix.b. thy name: then heare thou theyr * prayer and supplication in heauen thy dwellyng place, and iudge their cause: & be mercy-ful vnto thy people ye haue sinned against thee, and vnto all their iniquities (wher-by they haue done wickedly against thee) and get thou then the fauoure of those, which led them away captiue, yt they may haue compassiō on them. For they be thy people, & thyne enheritaunce, which thou F broughtest out of Egipt, euen from the mydst of the fornace of yrō. And let thine eyes be open vnto the prayer of thy ser-uaunt, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel, * to hearken vnto thē, in al yt they i.Ch.i.b cal for vnto thee. For thou dydst seperate them frō among al ye nations of the earth (to be thine own enheritaunce (as thou saydest by the hande of Moses thy ser-uaunt, when thou broughtest our fathers * out of Egipt, O Lord God.
Exo.xix. a. * And when Salomon had made an end ii.Par. of praying al thys prayer & supplication vii.a. vnto the Lord, he arose from before the aulter of the Lord, and from knelyng on hys knees, and from stretching of hys handes vp to heauen, & stode and blessed al the congregatiō of Israel with a loude voyce, saying: Blessed be the Lord that hath geuen rest vnto hys people Israel, according to all that he promysed: * there iii.Reg. hath not fayled one worde of al the good iii.d. promise which he promised by the hande of Moses hys seruaunt. The Lord our God be with vs, as he was wyth our fathers, & forsake vs not neither leaue vs: but yt we may bow our heartes vnto him that we may walke in al hys wayes, and kepe hys commaundementes, his statutes and his lawes, which he commaūded our fathers. And these my wordes, which I haue prayed before the Lord, be nye vnto the Lord our God, day and night that he defende the cause of hys seruaunt, and the cause of his people Israel (what thīg soeuer chaunce at any tyme) that al nations of the earth may know that the Lord is God, & none but he. Let your heart therfore be perfyt with the lord our god that ye walke in his statutes & kepe hys commaundementes, as thys day.

And the kyng and al Israell with hym, G offred offringes before the Lord. * And ii. Para.
Salomon offred a sacrifice of peace of- vii.a. fringes vnto the Lord, and he offred vnto the Lord .xxii. M. oxen, & an hundred & twenty. M. shepe: And so the kyng & all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the Lord. The same day dyd the kyng halow the myddle of the court, that was before the house of the Lord: for there he offred burntofferinges, meatoffrynges, & the fat of the peaceoffrynges: bicause the brasen aulter that was before the Lord:
was to litle to receiue the burnt offrings meatoffrings, and the fat of the peaceoffringes.

And Salomon helde yt same tyme an hye feast & all Israell with him, a very great congregation, euen frō the entring in of Hemath vnto the riuer of Egipt, before the Lord our God, * vii. dayes, and vii. daies, euen .xiiii. dayes. And ye .viii. De ii.xvi day he sent the people away. And they c. blessed the king, and went vnto their tē-tes ioyous, and with glad heart, bicause of all the goodnesse yt the Lord had done for Dauid his seruaunt, and for Israell his people.

The .ix. Chapter.

The Lord appeareth the second time to Salomon. Salomon geueth townes to Hiram. The Ca-nanites become tributaries. He sendeth shippes for golde. He buildeth many cities.

AND whē Salomō had * fi- A lace, & al that he had in his minde, & was appointed to make: the Lord appeared vnto him againe, as he appeared vnto him at Gibeō. And the lord said vnto him I haue heard thy praier, & thy intercessiō that yu hast made before me: for I haue halowed this house (which yu hast builte) to put my name there for euer, & mine eies, & my heart shalbe ther perpetually. And if yu wilt walke before me (as Dauid thy father walked, in purenesse of heart, & in righteousnesse) to do al yt I haue cōmaū-ded thee, & wilt kepe my statutes, & my lawes, then wil I stablish the seate of thy kingdom vpon Israel for euer, as I promised to Dauid thy father, sayīg: * Thou yeres, Salomō finished ẏ building of the two houses, ẏ is to wete, ẏ house of ẏ lord and ẏ kinges palace. And Hirā the kyng of Tyre brought Salomō timber of Cedar, & fyrretrees, golde, & whatsoeuer he desired. And Salomon againe gaue Hyrā, twenty cities in the lande of Galile.

And *Hiram came out from Tire to see 3 Kin. v. b the cities which Salomon had geuē him, C and they pleased him not. And he sayde: what cities are these, which ẏ hast geuen me, my brother? & he called them ẏ lād of Cabul vnto thys day. And Hirā sent the king. vi. score hundred weighte of golde.
And this is the sum, which king Salomō raysed for a tribute when he builded the house of the Lord, and his own house, & Millo, and the wal of Jerusalem, & Ha-zoer, & Megeddo, & Gazar. For Pharao king of Egipt went vp, & toke Gazar, & burnt it wt fier, & slue ẏ Cananites that dwelt in ẏ citie, & gaue it for a presēt vnto his daughter, Salomons wife. And Salomō built Gazar & Bethhoron the nether: & Baalah, & Thamar in the wil-dernesse, & in the lād: & al the treasure cities ẏ Salomō had, (and wer vnwalled, those he made strong) & cities for his charets, & cities for his horsemen, & all ẏ Salomon desired, & would build in Jerusalē, in Libanon, & in al the lande of his dominion.
And al ẏ people ẏ wer left of ẏ Amorites Hethites, Pheresites, Heuites, & Jebusites, (which wer not of ẏ childrē of Israel) their childrē ẏ wer left after thē in ẏ lād whō ẏ childrē of Israel also wer not able to destroy: Those did Salomō compel to bring tribute vnto this day. But of the childrē of Israel did Salomō *make no bōdmē. But they wer mē of warr, his milers of his charrets, & his horsemē. And these were the lordes, ẏ wer set ouer Sa- D fiftie, & they ruled the people ẏ wrought ẏ worke. And Pharaos daughter came vp out of the citie of Dauid vnto the house which Salomō had built for her. And thē did he also builde Millo. And thrice a yere did Salomō offer burnt offrings & peace offrings vpō the aulter which he built vnto the Lord: And he burnt incēse vpō the aulter that was before the Lord, & so he finished the house. And king Salomon made a nauy of shippes in Azion Gaber, which is beside Eloth, & the brincke of the red sea, in the lād of Edō. And Hirā sente by ship also of his seruaūts that wer shipmē, & had knowledge of ẏ sea, wt the ser-uaūts of Salomō. And they came to Ophir, and fet from thence one & twenty score hundred weight of gold, & brought it to king Salomon.

The. x. Chapter.

The Quene of Saba commeth to heare the wis-dome of Salomō, whose royaltie is here described.

AND the *quene of Saba I hearing the fame of Salo- Math. xii mō (cōcerning the name of b. the Lorde) came to proue 2. Par. ix. him with hard questions. a.
And she came to Jerusalē with a very great traine: with Camels that bare swete odours, and golde exceeding much, and precious stones. And she came to Salomon, & cōmuned with him of al that was in her heart. And Salomō declared vnto her, al her questiōs, so that there was not one thing hid frō the king, which he expoūded not vnto her. And the quene of Saba cōsidered all Salomons wisdom, and the house that he had builded, and the meate of his table, and the sitting of his seruauntes, the order of hys ministers, and their apparel, his drinke, & his burnt sacrifices that he offred in the house of the Lord, and she was astonied.
And she sayd vnto ẏ king. It was a true worde that I heard in mine owne lād of B thy sayings, and of thy wisdom. Howbeit I beleued it not til I came, and saw it wt mine eies. And behold the one halfe was not told me: for thy wisdō and prosperitie exceadeth the fame which I heard of the.
Happy are thy mē: & happy are these thy seruaūtes, which stād euer before the, and heare thy wisdō. Blessed be the Lord thy God, which loued thee, to set thee on the seate of Israel, bicause the lord loued Israel for euer, and made the king to do equitie and righteousnesse. And she gaue
the

the king. vi. score hũdreth weight of gold and of swete odours exceadingmuch, and precious stones. Ther came no more such aboũdaũce of swete odours, as ẏ Quene of Saba gaue to king Salomõ. The na-..ix.c uy also of ẏ *ships of Hiram (that caryed golde frõ Ophir) brought likewise great plẽty of Almuge tree, & precious stones.
And the king made of the Almuge trees, pillers for the house of ẏ Lord, & for the kĩges palace, & made harpes, & psalteries for singers. There came no more such Almuge trees, nor were any more sene unto this day. And king Salomon gaue unto ẏ Quene of Saba according to all her desire whatsoeuer she asked: besydes that he gaue her of a free wil wᵗ his own hand. And so she returned unto her own countrey, both she, and her seruauntes.
The weight of gold ẏ came to Salomon C in one yere, was. vi. hũdred, thre score, & vi. talẽts of gold, besides ẏ he had of chap mẽ, & of marchaũtes, & of poticaries, & of al the kinges of Araby, & of ẏ Lordes of the coũtry. And king Salomõ made two hũdred bouckelers of beatẽ gold, vi. hundred sicles of gold wẽt to a bouckler. And he made thre hũdred shildes of beatẽ gold thre poũde of gold wẽt to one shilde, & the ..kin.vii. a. king put thẽ in ẏ *house of ẏ wood of Libanõ. And ẏ king made a great seate of yuery, & couered it with ẏ best golde. And the seate had. vi. steps. And ẏ top of ẏ seate was round behinde, & there werepomels on either side on the place of the seat, and two Liõs stode beside the pomels. And there stode. xii. Liõs on the steps. vi. on a side. There was none like (worke) sent in De.xvii. a. any kingdom. * And al king Salomons drinking vessels wer of gold, & likewise al the vessels of the house of wood of Libanõ, were of pure golde. And as for siluer, it was nothing worth in the daies of Salomõ. For the kynges nauy of shyps, went on the sea unto Tharsis, wᵗ the na-uy of Hirams ships, euẽ once in thre yere wẽt the nauy to Tharsis, & brought gold and siluer, Elephãtes teeth, apes & pecoc-ii.Pa.i.c kes. * And so king Salomon exceaded al the kinges of the earth both in riches, and in wisdome. And al the world resorted to Salomõ, to heare his wisdom, which god had put in hys heart. And brought hym e-uery man his present, vessels of siluer, & vessels of gold, raimẽt, harnesse, & swete odours, & horses, & mules, yere by yere.
And Salomõ gathered together charets and horsemẽ, & he had a. M. and. iiii. hundred charets, and. xii. M. horsemẽ, whom he bestowed in the charet cities, & with ẏ king at Jerusalẽ. * And the kyng made siluer in Jerusalẽ as plẽteous as stones ii.Pa.i.d and Cedar as plenteous as the wyld fig trees ẏ grow aboundantly in the feldes.
The bringing of horses also out of Egipt and the collectiõ of the wares: did ẏ kings marchaunts take again, & solde the stuffe for a price. A charet came up out of Egipt for. vi. C. sicles of siluer: ẏ is, one horse for an C. & l. And euẽ so for al the kinges of ẏ Hethites and for the kinges of Siria, did they bryng thẽ out, through their handes.

Pharao: and women of the Moabites, Ammo-nites, Edomites, Zidoni-as yet (concerning these nations) the lord sayd unto the children of Israell: * come Exodus. not ye at them, nor let them come at you. xxxiiii. b.

Els wil thei turne your hearts after their Gods. Neuerthelesse, Salomõ claue unto them in loue. * And he had. vii. hundred quenes, & three hundred cõcubins, & hys De. xvii wiues turned away his hart. For it came b. to passe, whẽ Salomõ was old, his wiues turned his heart after other Gods: & hys heart was not perfit with the lord his god as was the heart of Dauid his father: for Salomon folowed Astaroth the God of the Zidons, & Milcom the abhominatiõ of B the Ammonites. And Salomõ wrought wickednesse in the sight of the lord, & folowed not the lord perfectly, as did Dauid his father. For thẽ did Salomõ builde an hye place for Chamos the abhominatiõ of Moab, in the hill ẏ is before Jerusalẽ, & unto Moloch the abhominatiõ of the childrẽ of Ammõ. And likewise did he for all his outlãdish wiues, which burnt incẽse, and offred unto their gods. And the Lord was angry wᵗ Salomõ, bicause his heart was turned frõ the lord god of Israell, * 3. Kin. iii. which had appeared unto him twice, and a. gaue him a charge (cõcerning this thing) and. ix. a. that he shuld not folow other Gods. But he kept not ẏ, which the Lord cõmaunded him: wherfore the lord said unto Salomõ forasmuch as this is done of thee, & thou hast not kept mine appointmẽt, & my statutes (which I commaunde thee,) I will rent the kingdom frõ thee, & wil geue it to thy seruaunt. Notwistãding in thy daies, I wil not do it, bicause of Dauid thy father, but will take it frõ ẏ hande of thy sonne. Howbeit I wil not take away al ẏ kingdom: But wil geue one tribe to thy sõne, bicause of Dauid my seruaunt, and bicause of Jerusalẽ which I haue chosen.

And the Lord stired vp an aduersary vn-C to Salomon: euen one Hadad an Edomite, of the kinges sede, which was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edom, & Joab the captaine of the host was gone vp to bury them ẏ were slaine, he smote al the men childrẽ in Edõ. For six monethes did Joab remaine there, & al Israell, till he had destroied al the men children in Edom. And this Hadad fled, & certain other Edomites of his seruauntes with him, to come into Egipt, Hadad being yet a litle childe. And they arose out of Madiã, and came to Parã, & toke men with them out of Paran, & came to Egipt vnto Pharao king of Egipt, which gaue him an house, and appointed him vitailes, & gaue hym lãd. And Hadad gat great fauour in the D sight of Pharao, so ẏ he gaue him to wife the sister of his own wife, euen ẏ sister of Thahpenes, ẏ Quene. And the sister of Thahpenes bare him Genubath his sõn, whom Thahpenes norished in Pharaos house. And Genubath was of Pharaos houshold amõg ẏ sõnes of Pharao. And whẽ Hadad heard in Egipt, ẏ Dauid was layd to slepe w his fathers, & ẏ Joab the captaine of ẏ host was dead also, he said to Pharao: let me departe, ẏ I may goe to mine own countrey. Pharao sayde vnto him: what hast ẏ lacked here w me, ẏ thou wouldest thus go to thine own countrey?
He answered, nothing: howbeit let me go.
And God stired him vp another aduersary, one Rezõ ẏ sõne of Eliada, which fled from his Lord Hodadezer king of Zoba.
And he gathered mẽ vnto him, & became captaine ouer ẏ cõpany, whẽ Dauid slue E thẽ. And they wẽt to Damasco, & dwelt there, & reigned in Damasco. Therefore was he an aduersary to Israel al ẏ daies of Salomon. And this was the mischief, in ẏ Hadad did abhorre Israel & reigned ouer Siria. And Jeroboã ẏ sõne of Ne-bat an Ephrathite of Zareda (whose mother was called Zaruah, which was a wid dow, & he Salomõs seruaũt) lift vp hys hãd against ẏ king. But this was ẏ cause that he lift vp his hande against the king:

Salomõ built Mello, & mended ẏ broken places of the citie of Dauid his father.
And this felow Jeroboam was a man of warre. And Salomõ saw ẏ yong man ẏ he was able to doe the worke, he made him ruler ouer al ẏ charges of ẏ house of Joseph. And it chaunced at ẏ ceason, that Jeroboã went out of Jerusalem, and the Prophet Ahiah ẏ Silonite met him by ẏ way, hauing a new mantell on him, and they two were alone in the field. Ahiah caught ẏ new mãtel ẏ was on him, & rent it in .xii. peces, & sayd to Jeroboã: take the x. peces. For thus sayth the Lord God of Israel: beholde, I wil rent the kingdome out of the hãdes of Salomõ & wil geue .x.
F tribes to thee, & he shal haue one, for my seruaunt Dauids sake, & for Jerusalem 2.Par. c. the citie which I haue chosen out of al the tribes of Israel: bicause they haue forsaken me, & haue worshipped vnto Astha-roth ẏ God of the Zidõs, & Chamos the God of the Moabites, & Milcom the god of the children of Ammõ, & haue not walked in my wayes (to fulfill my pleasure, my statutes, & my lawes) as dyd Dauid his father. I wil not take the whole kingdom out of hys hãd: but I will make him chief al his life lõg, for Dauid my seruaũ-tes sake, whõ I chose: bicause he kept my cõmaũdemẽts, & mi statutes. But I wil 2.Reg.vii. take ẏ kingdom out of his sõnes hand, & c. wil geue it vnto thee, euẽ .x. tribes of it, & Psalme vnto his sõne wil I geue one tribe ẏ Da- cxxxi. uid my seruaũt may haue a light alwaye before me in Jerusalẽ, ẏ city which I haue chosẽ me, to put my name there. And I wil take thee, & ẏ shalt reigne according to al ẏ thi soule desireth, & shalt be kig ouer Israel. And if ẏ herken vnto al ẏ I commaũd the, & wilt walk in my waies, & do that is right in my sight, ẏ thou kepe my statutes, and my commaundementes (as G Dauid my seruaunt did) then wil I be w thee, & builde thee a sure house ẏ shal cõ-tinue, as I built for my seruaunt Dauid, and wil geue Israel vnto thee. And I wil for this offẽce (which Salomõ hath committed) vexe ẏ sede of Dauid, but not for euer. Salomõ sought therfore to kill Je-roboã, & Jeroboã arose & fled into Egipte vnto Sisak kig of Egipt, & cõtinued there in Egipt vnto ẏ death of Salomon. The rest of ẏ wordes ẏcõcerne Salomõ, & al ẏ he did, & his wisdom: are they not written in ẏ boke of ẏ wordes of Salomon? The time ẏ Salomõ reigned in Jerusalẽ vpõ al Israel, was fourty yere. And Salomõ slept, & he layed hym with hys fathers, & was was buried in ẏ city of Dauid his father & Rehoboam his son reigned in his stede.

The twelfth Chapter.

The kyngdome is deuided, Rehoboam raygneth ouer two tribes, and Jeroboam ouer ten. Aduram is stoned. Jeroboam maketh golden calues.

I AND Rehoboam wente to ...x.a. Sichē: for all Israell were come to Sichē, to make hī king. And Jeroboã the son of Nebat (which was yet in ...xii. Egipt) heard of it: for he fled to Egipt frō the presence of king Salomon, & dwelt in Egipt. So they sente & called him & Jeroboã and all the congregation of Israel came, & spake vnto Rehoboam, saying: thy father made our yoke greuous, now therfore, make thou ẏ greuous seruice of thy father, & his sore yoke which he put vppon vs, lighter, & we wyll serue thee. And he said vnto thē depart yet for the space of three daies, & then come again to me, and the people departed.
B And king Rehoboam toke counsel with the olde men ẏ stode before Salomon his father, while he yet liued, & said: what coū sel geue ye, ẏ I may haue matter to aunswer this people? And they said vnto him: yf thou be a seruant vnto this people this day & folowe their mindes, and aunswer them, & speak kinde wordes to them: they wil be thy seruantes for euer. But he forsoke the counsel that the olde men had geuen him, and called vnto his counsel yong men, that were growen vp with him, and waited on him. And he said vnto them: what counsel geue ye, ẏ we may aunswer this people? for they haue cōmuned with me, saying: make the yoke whiche thy father did put vpon vs, lighter: And ẏ yong men that wer growen vp with him spake vnto him, saying. Thus shalt thou speake vnto this people (ẏ haue said vnto the: thy father made our yoke heauye, but make thou it vs lighter.) Euen thus shalt thou C saye vnto them: My litle finger shall bee waightier than my father was in ẏ loynes. And now wheras my father did lade you, & put a greuous yoke vpō you, I will make it heuier. My father also corrected you with scourges, but I will chastise you with scorpions. And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboã the third day as the king had appointed, saying: com to me again ẏ third day. And the king answe red the people chorlishly, and left the olde mens counsel (that they gaue him) & spake to thē after ẏ counsel of the yong men saying: My father made your yoke greuous & I wil make it greuouser. My father also chastised you with whippes, but I wyl chastice you with scorpions. And the king hearkned not vnto the people: for it was the ordinaunce of God, ẏ he might perfourme his saying, which the Lord spake 3. Kin. xi. f by Ahia the Silonite vnto Jeroboã the son of Nebat. And so when all Israel saw that the king regarded them not, ẏ people D answered the king with these wordes say- 2. Kin. xx. ing: *what portion haue we in Dauid? we a haue no enheritaūce in ẏ son of Isai. *To 2. Pa. x. d. your tēts, O Israel, now se to thine own house Dauid. And so Israel departed vnto their tentes. Howbeit ouer the children of Israel whiche dwelt in ẏ citie of Juda, did Rehoboã reigne stil. The king Rehoboam sēt Adurã the receiuer of ẏ tribute.
And al thei of Israel stoned him to death: But king Rehoboam made spede to get him vp to his charet, & to flie to Jerusalē.
And they of Israell rebelled againste the house of Dauid, vnto this day. And when E al Israel heard ẏ Jeroboam was come again, they sent & called him vnto the multitude, & made him king ouer all Israel & there was no tribe that folowed ẏ house of Dauid, but Juda only. *And whē Re- 2. Pa. xi. a hoboam was come to Jerusalē, he gathered al the house of Juda with the tribe of BenJamin, an. C. lxxx. M. of chosen men (whiche were good warriors) to fyghte against the house of Israell, & to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the son of Salomon. And the word of god came vn- F to Semaia the man of god, saying: speak vnto Rehoboam the son of Salomō king of Juda, & vnto al the house of Juda and BenJamin, & to the remnant of the people saying: Thus saith ẏ lord: Ye shal not go vp: nor yet fight against your brethren the children of Israel, returne euery man to his house, for this thing is my doyng.
They hearkned therefore to the worde of the Lorde, and returned to depart, according to the worde of the lord. Thē Jeroboam built Sichem in mount Ephraim, & dwelt therin. And went from thence, & Iu. viii. d built Penuel.
And Jeroboam thought in his hearte: nowe shall the kingdome returne to the house of Dauid. For yf this people goe vp and doe sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people tourne agayne vnto theyr Lorde Rehoboam king of Juda: and so shal they kyl me, and go again to Rehoboam king

Tobi.i.a. of Juda. * Wherupō the king toke coūsell Ec.xlviii.d. & made two calues of golde, & saide vnto them. It is much for you to go vp to Jeru-Ex.xxxii.d. salem. * Behold, O Israell: these are thy Ex.xxxii.a. gods, which brought you out of the lande of Egipt. And he set the one in Bethell, & the other set he in Dan. And this thyng turned to sin, for the people went (bicause G of the one as far as Dan. And he made an Nu.iii.a 3.Kin.xvii g house of hilaulters, * & made priestes of y lowest of the people, which wer not of the sonnes of Leui. And Jeroboam made a feast y .xv. day of the .viii. moneth, like vnto the feast y is in Juda, & offered on the aulter. And so did he in Bethel, to offer vn to the calues y he made. And he put in Be thel the priestes of the hilaulters, whiche he made. And he offred burnt offryngs vpon the aulter, which he had made in Bethel, the .xv. day of the .viii. moneth: euē in the moneth which he had imagined of his own heart: and made a solemne feast vnto the children of Israel, and offered vppon the aulter, and burnt incense.

The .xiii. Chapter.

Jeroboam doyng sacrifice vnto the calues, is reprehended of the Prophete. His hande drieth vp, while he putteth it out against the prophete. The prophete is killed and buried.

A And behold, ther came a mā of god oute of Juda (by the word of the lord) vnto Bethell, & Jeroboā stode by y aulter to put incense. And he cryed againste the aulter in the word of the Lord & sayd: O aulter, aulter, thus saith the lord: Behold, a chyld shalbe borne vnto y house of Dauid, (Jo-sia by name) and vppon thee shall he offer the priestes of the hil aulters that burnte incense vpon thee, & mens bones shalbee burnt vpon thee. And he gaue a token the same tyme saying: this is the token, that the lord hath spoken it. Behold the aulter B shal rent, and the ashes y are vpon it, shal fall out. And when the kyng heard y saying of the man of god (which had cryed against the aulter in Bethel) he stretched out his hand from the aulter, saying: hold hym. And his hand which he put forth against him, dryed vp, and he could not pul it in againe to him: the aulter also claue a sunder, and the ashes fell out from y aulter, according to the token which the man of god had geuen by the word of the lord.
Nu.xxi.b And the king answered and sayde vnto Ac.viii.e. the man of god. * Oh pray vnto the lorde Ep.viii b thy god, & make intercession for me, y my hand may be restored to me again. And y man of God besought the Lorde, and the kinges hand was restored again, and became as it was afore. And the kyng sayde vnto the man of god, come home with me that thou mayest dine, and I wil geue the a reward. And the man of god said vnto y king: if thou wouldest geue me half thyne house, I wil not go in with thee: neyther wyll I eate bread or drinke water in this place. For so was it charged me, thorowe the word of the lord, saying: eate no bread nor drink water, nor turne agayn by the same way y thou camest. And so he went another way, & returned not by the waye C that he came to Bethel. And there dwelte an olde prophete in Bethel, & his sonnes came and tolde hym all the workes, that the man of god had done that day in Bethel, and the wordes which he had spoken vnto the kyng told they their father also.
And their father saide vnto them: what way went he? And his sonnes shewed him what waye the man of god went, whiche came from Juda. And he sayde vnto hys sonnes, saddle me the asse. Whiche when they had sadled he gat him vp theron, and went after the man of god, and found him sittyng vnder a tree. And he sayde vnto hym: art thou the man of God that camest from Juda? and he said: I am. He said vnto him: come home with me, & eate bread.
He aunswered: I may not retourne with D thee, to go in with thee, neyther wil I eat bread or drinke water with thee in this place. For it was said to me in the worde of the lord. Thou shalt eate no bread, nor drinke water there, nor turne again to go by the way that thou camest. He said vnto him: I am a prophete also as wel as thou and an engel spake vnto me in the name of the lorde, saying: bryng him again with thee into thine owne house, that he maye eate bread and drinke water. And he lyed vnto him. And so he went again with him and did eate bread in his house and drank water. And it fortuned that as they sat at E the table, the word of the lord came vnto the prophet, that brought him again. And he cryed vnto the mā of god y came from Juda, saying: thus sayeth the lord, because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the lord, and hast not kepte the commaundemente which the lorde thy god cōmaunded thee, but camest backe agayne, and haste eaten bread and dronke water, in the place, concernyng the whiche the Lorde dyd saye vnto thee: Thou shalt eate no breade nor drinke water, thy carkasse shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And so it came to passe ÿ when he had eate bread & dronk, the prophet which brought him again sadled him an asse. And whē he
iii. xx. was gone * a lion met him by the waye, & slue him, & his carkasse was cast in ÿ way & the asse stode thereby, & the lion stode by the corse also. And men ÿ passed by, sawe F the carkasse cast in the waye, and the lyon standing therby, & they came and told it in the town where the olde prophete dwelte.
And whē the propher ÿ brought him back again frō the way heard therof, he saide: it is the mā of god. He was disobedient vnto the word of the lord, & therfore the Lorde hath deliuered him vnto the lion, whiche hath rent him & slain him according to the word of the lord which he spake vnto him.
And he spake to his sonnes, saying: saddle me an asse, & so they did. And he went and found his body cast in the way, & the asse & the lion stode by the corse. And the lyon had not eaten the carkasse, nor hurte the asse: and the prophete toke vp the body of the mā of god, & layd it vpon the asse, and brought it again: & the olde prophet came to the citie to lamente & to bury him. And G he layd his body in his own graue, & they lamented ouer hym. (Alas my brother.) And when he had buried him, he spake to his sonnes, saying: When I am dead, see ÿ ye bury me in the sepulchre wherin the mā of god is buried: lay my bones besides his 4. Kinge bones. * For the saying whiche he cryed xxiii. b. at the word of the lord against the aulter in Bethel (and against al the houses of hil aulters which are in the cities of Samaria) shal come to passe. Howbeit for al that Jeroboam conuerted not frō his wicked way: but turned backe & made the lowest of the people priestes of the hylaulters.
And who so pleased him, he filled his hād & became priest of the hilaulters. And this thyng turned to syn vnto the house of Jeroboam, euen to destroy him, and to bring him to nought from the face of the earth.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

Jeroboams wife asketh counsayl of Ahia ÿ prophet Jeroboā dyeth. Sisak kinge of Egipt robbeth the house of the Lorde. Rehoboam dieth, and Abiā succedeth in his rowme.

A AT that time Abia the son of Jeroboam fel sick. And Jeroboam sayd vnto his wife: vp (I pray thee) and disguise thy self that thou be not knowen to be the wyfe of Jeroboam, and get thee 1. Kin. xi. f to Silo. For there is Ahia the Prophete which told me * that I should be kyng ouer this people. And take with thee tenne loues, and cracknels and a cruse of honye and go to him that he may tell thee what shal become of the child. And Jeroboams wife did so: and arose and went to Silo & came to the house of Ahia. But Ahia could not see for his eyes were waxen dim for age. And the lord said vnto Ahia: beholde the wife of Jeroboam commeth to aske a thing of thee for her sonne, for he is sicke.
But thus shalt thou say vnto her: and whē she came in: she fained her self to bee another woman. But when Ahia heard the sound of her feete as she came in at ÿ dore he saide: come in thou wife of Jeroboam, why fainest thou thy self so, to be another?
I am sēt to thee to shew the heuy thynges.
Go tel Jeroboam, thus saith the lord god of Israel. (It repenteth me) forasmuch as 3. Kin. xii. f
* I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince ouer my people Israel: I did rent the kingdom awaye from the house of Dauid, and gaue it thee: Ne-uerthelesse, thou hast not bene as my seruant Dauid, which kepte my cōmaunde-ments, & folowed me with al his heart, to do that which is right in mine eyes: but hast done euil aboue all that were before thee: for thou hast gone & made thee other goddes, & molten ymages to prouoke me, & hast cast me behynde thy backe: therfore behold, I wyll bryng euill vpon the house of Jeroboam and will roote out from Jeroboam euen him ÿ * pisseth againste the 1. Kin. xv wal, and him that is in prison, and forsa- b. ken in Israel, and wil take away the re- C nant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh awaye dong, tyll he hath caryed out al. * Whosoeuer (of Jeroboams house) dye in the towne, hym shal the dogs eate, 3. Kin. xvi and hym that dyeth in the fielde, shall the g foules of the aire eate: for the lorde hathe said it. Up therfore, and get thee to thyne house. Beholde whē thy fote entreth into ÿ city, ÿ child shal die. And al they of Israell shal mourn for hi, & bury hi: for he only of Jeroboā shal com to the sepulchre, because D in him there is founde goodnesse toward the lord god of Israel in the house of Jeroboam. Moreouer, the lorde shall styrre him vp a kyng ouer Israel whiche shall destroy the house of Jeroboam in ÿ daye.
But what is it now? For the lord shall smite Israel, as when a rede is shaken in ÿ water, & he shal wede Israel out of this good lād (which he gaue to their fathers) & shal scatter thē beyond the riuer, bicause they haue made them groues, & angred the Lorde. And he shall geue Israel vp, because because of ÿ synnes of Jeroboam, which dyd synne, & made Israel to synne. And Jeroboās wife arose, & departed, & came E to Thirzah, and when she came to ÿ thresholde of the dore, the chyld was dead. And al Israel buried him, and lamented hym, accordyng to the woord of the lord, which he spake by the hand of his seruaunt Ahia the prophete. And the rest of the woordes that concerne Jeroboam, how he warred and how he reigned: Beholde thei are wri-ten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. And ÿ dayes which Jeroboam reigned wer. xxii. yere. And whē he was laid a slepe with his fathers, Nadab his son reygned in his stede.

Rehoboam the son of Salomon reigned in Juda, and Rehoboam was one & forty yere olde when he began to reigne, and he reigned seuentene yere in Jerusalem (the citie whiche the Lorde dyd chose out of all the tribes of Israell, to put hys name ther.) His mothers name was Na-ama an Ammonite. And Juda wrought wickednesse in the sight of the Lord, and angred him in mo thinges than theyr fathers did in their sinnes whiche they synned. For they also made them hilaulters, ymages and groues on euerye hye hil, & vnder euery thicke tree. And there was a stewes of male children in the lād, & they did accordyng to al the abhominations of the nations whiche the Lord cast oute before the children of Israel. And it fortuned, that in the fifte yere of kyng Rehoboam: Sisack king of Egipte came vp against Jerusalem, and toke away the treasures of the house of the Lorde, & the treasures of the kinges house, and spoiled all that was to be had. And he toke away G the shieldes of golde * whiche Salomon iii.kin.x. had made. In whose stede king Rehoboā made brasen shields, and committed them vnto the handes of the keping of the captains of the gard, which waited at ÿ dore of the kings house. And whē the king wēt into the house of the lord, they of ÿ garde bare them, & brought them again into the garde chamber. The rest of the wordes ÿ concerne Rehoboam, and all that he dyd, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Juda? And there was war betwene Rehoboam & Jeroboā al their liues. And Rehoboam slept with his fathers & was buried beside his fathers in the city of Dauid. His mothers name was Naama an Ammonite. And Abiam his sonne reigned in his stede.

The. xv. Chapter.

Wicked Abiam reygned ouer Juda, and ryghteous Asa succedeth in his rowme. The battail betwene Asa and Baasa. Jehosaphat succedeth Asa. Nadab succedeth Jeroboam. Baasa killeth Nadab.

IN the. xviii. yere of king A * Jeroboam the sonne of ii.par.xiii.a.
Nabat reigned Abiam ouer Juda. Thre yere reined he in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, the daughter of Abisalō. And he walked in all the synnes of his father whiche he had doone before hym: and his heart was not perfect wyth the Lord his God * as the heart of Dauid iii.kin.xi. his father. Neuerthelesse, for Dauids sake c dyd the lord his god geue him a lyghte in Jerusalem, that he set vp his sonne after hym, and to stablish Jerusalem: because Dauid did that which was ryghte in the sight of the lord and turned from nothing that he commaunded him all the daies of his life * saue onely in the matter of Urias the Hethite. And there was warre be- ii.kin.xi. twene Rehoboam & Jeroboam as long a as they liued. The rest of the wordes that B concerne Abiam, and all that he dyd, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And there was warre betwene Abiam & Jeroboam.
And Abiam slept with his fathers: & they buried him in the citye of Dauid. And Asa ii.par. his sonne reigned in his stede: * In the. xx xiiii.a. yere of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Asa ouer Juda. xli. yere reigned he in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Maacha, the daughter of Abisalom. And Asa dyd that semed ryghte in the eyes of the Lorde, as did Dauid his father. * And he iii.kin. toke away ÿ whorekepers out of the land xxii.g & put away al ÿ abhominable idols ÿ his father had made. And he put down Ma-acha * his mother frō bering rule, bicause ii.par.xv. she had made images in groues. And Asa destroyed her images, & burnte thē by the broke broke Cedrō. But the hilaulters were not put down. Neuerthelesse Asaes hart was perfect wyth þ lord al his dayes. He brought in the holy vessels of his father (& that he had dedicate) vnto the house of the Lord: gold & siluer, & iewels. And ther was war betwene Asa & Baasa king of Israell all their daies. *And Baasa king of Israell went vp against Iuda, and builte Rama, so that he would let none goe out or in, to Asa king of Iuda. Then Asa toke all the golde & siluer that was lefte in the trea-D sures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kinges house, and deliue-red them vnto the handes of his seruants and Asa sent them to *Benhadad the son of Tabrimon the sonne of Hezion king of Siria (that dwelt at Damasco) saying: there is a bond betwene thee and me, betwene my father and thy father. And beholde, I haue sent vnto thee a presente of siluer and gold, that thou come & break the bond that thou hast with Baasa king of Israel, that he may depart fro me. So Benhadad hearkned vnto king Asa, and sent the captains of the hostes (whiche he had) against the cities of Israell. & smote E Iiō & Dan, & Abell, Beth, Maacha & all the region of Cenereth, with al the lande of Nepthali. And whē Baasa heard ther-of he left building of Rama, and dwelt in Thirza. Thē king Asa made a proclamation throughout all Iuda, þ none shoulde be excused. And so they toke the stones of Ramah, & the timber (wherewith Baasa had builded) & king Asa built with them þ hil of Beniamin at Mispa. The remnant of al the wordes þ concerne Asa, & all hys might & all that he dyd, & the cities which he builded, are they not written in þ boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Iuda?

F Neuerthelesse, in his olde age he was diseased in his fete. And Asa slepte with hys fathers, & was buried besides his fathers in the city of Dauid his father. And *Ie-hosaphat his son reigned in his stede. And Nadab the son of Ieroboā begā to reign vpon Israel the seconde yere of Asa kyng of Iuda & reigned vpon Israel two yere.
And he did euyl in the sight of the Lorde, walking in the way of his father, & in his sin wherwith he made Israel sin. And Ba-asa þ son of Ahia (which was of the house of Isachar) cōspired against him, & Baa-sa smote him at Gibbethō which is a citye of þ Philistines, for Nadab and al Israel laid siege to Gibbethō. Euen in þ .iii. yere of Asa kyng of Iuda, did Baasa slay hym & reigned in his stede. * And it fortuned þ G when he was king, he smote al þ house of 3. Kin. xiiij Ieroboā & left him nought þ brethed, vn- a. til he had put him cleane out, according to þ saying of the lord which he spake by his seruant Ahia the Silonite: because of the sinnes of Ieroboā wherwith he synned, & made Israel sin, when he wt his prouoca-tion angred the lorde god of Israel. The rest of the wordes þ concerne Nadab and all that he did, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? And there was war betwene Asa & Baasa king of Israel al theyr dayes.

So in the third yere of Asa king of Iu-da, begā Baasa the son of Ahia to reygne ouer al Israel in Thirza .xxiiii. yere. And he did þ which is euill in the sighte of the lord, walking in the way of Ieroboam, & in his sin, which made Israel to sin.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Iehu prophecieth against Baasa, whom Ela suc-cedeth, Zimry killeth his maister Ela, and destroyeth the house of Baasa. Ahab succedeth Amri, and taketh to wife wicked Iesabell.

THen the word of the lorde A came to Iehu the son of Hanani againste Baasa, saying: for as much as I exalted thee out of þ dust & made the captayn ouer my people Israel, & thou hast walked in the way of Ieroboam, and hast made my people Israell to sin, to anger me with their sinnes: Beholde, I wyll roote out the posteritie of Baasa and the posteritie of his house, and wyll make his house like the house of Ieroboam the son 3. Kin. xiiii of Nabat. * That mā of Baasa which dy- c. 4. xxi. f. eth in the city, him shall the dogges eate: & þ mā of him which dieth in the fields, shal the foules of the ayre eate. The rest of the wordes þ concerne Baasa & what he did, & his power, are they not written in the B boke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? And so Baasa slept with his fathers & was buried in Thirza. And Ela his son reigned in his stede. And by the hand of þ prophet Iehu the son of Hanani, came the word of the lord against Baasa, & against his house and against al the wickednesse þ he did in the sight of the lord (in angring him with the worke of his owne handes) that he shoulde bee like the house of Iero-boam, and because he killed him: (That is to saye: Iehu the sonne of Hanani the Prophet.) The .xxvi. yere of Asa kyng of Iuda begā Ela the son of Baasa to reygne ouer Israel in Thirza, two yere. And his seruant

Zimry

Zimri, (which was captain of half his cha rets) conspired against hym, as he was in Thirza drinking: & was drõkẽ in ẏ house of Arza stewarde of his house in Thirza.
And Zimri came & smote him, & killed him in ẏ .xxvii. yere of Asa kĩg of Juda, & reigned in his stede. And it fortuned ẏ whẽ he C was king, * & sat on his seat, he slewe all Ex.xxi.b. the house of Baasa, not leauing thereof i.Kin.ii.b one to pisse against a wal: Yea, he slew his kinsfolkes & frendes also. And thus dyd Zimri destroy all the house of Baasa, ac-cordyng to the worde of the lord, which he spake against Baasa by the hande of Jehu the Prophet, for all the synnes of Ba-asa and sinnes of Ela his son, which they synned & made Israell to syn & anger the Lorde God of Israel with their vanities.
The reste of the wordes that concerne Ela, and all that he dyd: are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronycles of the kynges of Israell?

In the seuen and twentye yere of Asa D kyng of Juda, dyd Zimry reygne seuen dayes in Thirza, and the people was then in the hoste besieging Gebbethon, a cytye of the Philistines. And the people of the hoste heard one saye: Zimry hath conspy-red and slain the king: wherfore, all they of Israell made Amri (the captayn of the hoste) kyng ouer Israel that same day, euen in the hoste. And Amri departed vp from Gibbethon, and al Israel with him & they besieged Thirza, and when Zimri sawe, that the citie must nedes be takẽ, he went into ẏ palace of the kynges house, & burnt hymself and the kinges house with fyer, & so dyed for his synnes whyche he sinned, in doing that whiche is euil in the sight of the lord, & in walking in the waye of Jeroboã & in his sinnes whiche he dyd and in that he made Israell to sin.

The rest of the woordes that concerne E Zimry, & the treason that he wrought, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of ẏ kinges of Israell? Then were the people of Israel deuided into two par-tes, for half of the people folowed Thibni the sonne of Ginath, makyng hym kyng, and the other halfe folowed Amry. But ẏ people that folowed Amry preuayled against the people that folowed Thibni the son of Ginath. And so Thibni died, & Amry reygned. In the .xxxi. yere of Asa king of Juda began Amry to reygne ouer Israel .xii. yere. Sixe yere reygned he in Thirza. He bought the hyl Schomron of one Schemar for .ii. C. talentes of siluer, and built in the hil, & called the name of ẏ citie, which he built after ẏ name of Sche-mar, whiche had bene owner of the hyll, Schomron. But Amry wrought ẏ which was euyl in the eyes of the lorde, and dyd worse than all they ẏ wer before him. For he walked in al the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat & in his sinnes ẏ made Is- F rael sin: to anger the lorde god of Israel with their vanities. The rest of ẏ wordes ẏ concerne Amry, & al that he did, and his strength ẏ he shewed: are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kyngs of Israel? And so Amry slept wyth his fathers, & was buried in Schomron, and Ahab his son reygned in his stede.

In the eyght and thirtye yeare of Asa kyng of Juda, began Ahab the sonne of Amry to reygne ouer Israell: & the same Ahab the son of Amry reygned ouer Israel in Samaria .xxii. yere. And Ahab the G son of Amry did euill in the syghte of the lord aboue al that wer before hym. For it semed vnto him but a light thing to walk in the sinnes of Jeroboam the son of Na-bat. He toke Jezabel also the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Sidonites to wyfe, and * wente & serued Baal and worshypped him. And he reared vp an aulter for Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had buylded in Schomron. And Ahab made groues, & proceded further in angryng the Lord god of Israel, than al the kings of Israel that wer before hym.

In his daies did Hiel of Bethel buylde Jericho. And it * cost him Abiram his eldest son when he layd the foundation and his yongest son Segub, when he sette vp the gates, accordyng vnto the word of the Lord * which he spake by Josua the sõne of Nun.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Elias is norished and fed of rauens, and after is sent to Zarphat (other wise called Sarepha) to a woman whose chylde he raysed to lyfe.

AND Elia ẏ Thesbit (whi- A che was of the inhabitors of Gilead) saide vnto Ahab: * As truelye as the lord god of Israel liueth, before whom I stande, * there shalbe neither dew nor rain these yeres, but accordyng to my word. And the word of the Lord came vnto him saying: get thee hence and tourne the Eastward, & hyde thy self in the broke Cherith, ẏ is it that lieth before Jordan.
Thou shalt drinke of the riuer, and I haue

haue commaunded the rauens to fede the there. And so he went, and dyd accordyng vnto the worde of the Lorde. For he went and dwelt by the broke Cherith that is before Jordan. And the rauens broughte him bread and fleshe in the morning, and likewise bread and fleshe in the euenyng, B and he dranke of the broke. And it chaun-ced after a while, that the broke dryed vp, because there fell no raine vpon ẏ earth.
And the word of the lord came vnto him saying: *vp, & get thee to Sarphath, which is in Sidon, & dwel there. Beholde, I haue commaunded a widdow there to sustayne thee. So he arose and went to Sarphath.
And when he came to the gate of the city, the widow was there gathering of stickes.
And he called to her, and sayd: fet me I pray the a litle water in a vessel, ẏ I may drink. And as she was going to fette it, he cryed after her, and said: bryng me I pray thee a morsell of bread also in thine hand.
She sayd: as truely as the lorde thy God liueth, I haue no bread ready, but euen an handful of meale in a barell, & a litle oyle in a cruse. And beholde, I am gatheryng two stickes for to goe in, and dresse it for me and my sonne that we may eate & die.
C And Elia said vnto her: feare not, come and doe as thou haste saide, but make me therof a litle cake firste of all: and bring it vnto me, and afterward make for the, and thy son. For thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: the meale in the barel shal not bee wasted: neither shal the oile in the cruse be diminished, vntyll the Lorde haue sente rayne vpon the earth. And she went, and dyd as Elia saide. And she and he, and her house dyd eat a good space, and the meale wasted not out of the barel, neither was the oyle spente out of the cruse, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, which he spake by the hande of Elia.
D And after these thinges it happened ẏ the son of the wife of the house fell sycke.
And his sycknesse was so sore, that there was no breath left in him. And she sayde vnto Elia: what haue I to do with thee, O thou man of god: arte thou come vnto me, to call my sin again to remembraunce and to slay my sonne? He sayde vnto her: geue me thy son, and he toke hym oute of her lappe, and caried him vp into a lofte, where he abode, and layde hym vpon hys owne bed, and called vnto the Lorde, and said: O lorde my god, haste thou punyshed also this widowe (with whom I dwell as a straunger) and haste slayne her sonne.
*And he stretched himself vpon the child — 4 Kin. iiij c. thre times, and called vnto the Lord, and sayd: O Lord my God, lette this childes — Acte xx. c soule come into hym again. And the lorde hearde the voice of Elia, & the soule of the child, came in to him again, & he reuiued.
And Elia toke the boy, and brought hym down out of the chaumber into the house, and deliuered hym vnto his mother, and Elia sayd: Beholde, thy sonne liueth. And the woman said vnto Elia: Now I know that thou art a man of God, and that the woorde of the Lorde in thy mouthe is true.

The .xviii. Chapter.

Elia is sent to Ahab. Obadia, otherwise called Abdia, hideth an hundred prophetes. Elia killeth all Baals prophetes, and afterwarde obtaineth raine.

After processe of manye dayes the woorde of the — A Lorde came to Elia in ẏ thirde yeare, saying: goe shewe thy selfe vnto Ahab, and I * wyll sende — Deu. xi. b rayn vpon the earth. And — Jaco. v. c.
Elia went to shewe hymselfe vnto Ahab, and there was a greate famyshemente in Schomron. And Ahab called Obadia, which was the gouernour of his house, & Obadia feared god greatly. For whē Jezabel destroyed the prophetes of the lord, he toke an hundred prophetes and hydde them, fifty men in one caue, & fifty in another, and prouided bread and water for them. And Ahab sayd vnto Obadia: go into the lande, vnto al the fountains of water, and vnto al the brookes, if happily we may find grasse to saue the horses and the mules, and that we destroy not some of ẏ beastes. And so they deuyded the land be-twene them to walke throughe it. Ahab wente one way by hymselfe, and Obadia went another way by hymself.
And it chaunced, ẏ as Obadia was in

B the way, Elia met him. And Obadia knew hym: and fell on his face, and sayd: art not thou my lord Elia? And he answered him I am he. Go, and tell thy lord: behold, Elia is here. And he said: what haue I synned, that thou wouldest deliuer thy seruant into the hande of Ahab to slaye me? As truely as the lord thy god liueth, there is no nation or kingdome, whither my lorde hath not sente to seke thee. And whẽ they said: he is not there, he tooke an othe of the kingdom and nation, when he foũd thee not. And now thou sayest: go and tel thy lord that Elia is here. And as sone as I am gone from thee, the spirit of ẏ lorde shall cary thee into some place that I doe not know, and so when I come and tel Ahab, and he cannot finde thee, he shall slay

C me. But I thy seruaunte feare the Lorde from my youth vp. Was it not tolde my Lorde, what I did when Jesabell slew ẏ Prophetes of the Lorde, how I hidde an hundred men of the Lordes Prophetes, fiftie mẽ in one caue, and fiftie in another, and prouided them of bread and water? And now thou saiest: go thou now & shew thy lord, behold, Elia is here, that he maie slaie me.

And Elia said: as truelye as the Lord of hostes lyueth, before whom I stande, I wil shew my selfe vnto him this daie. So Obadia went to mete Ahab, and told him And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it fortuned, that when Ahab sawe Elia, he said vnto him: arte thou he that troubleth Israel? He aunswered: it is not I that haue troubled Israel, but thou and thy fathers house; in that ye haue forsakẽ the cõmaũdements of the lorde, and thou haste folowed Baal. Now therfore sende & gather to me al Israel vnto mount Carmel, and the prophetes of Baal, *foure hundred & fiftie, and the Prophets of the Idols groues, foure hundred, whiche eate of Jezabels table. So Ahab sent vnto all ẏ children of Israell: & gathered the Prophets together vnto mount Carmel.

And Elia came vnto al the people and said: how long halte ye betwene two opinions? If the Lord be God folow him: but if Baal be he, then go after him. And the people answered him not a woord. Then said Elia vnto the people againe: I onely remaine a Prophet of the Lord: But Baals Prophets, are foure hundred & fiftye. Let them therefore geue vs two oxen, & let them chose the one, and cut him in peces, and lay him on wood, and put no fier vnder, and I wil dresse the other oxe, and laye him on woode, and will put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of your God, & I wil cal on the name of ẏ Lorde: and then the god that answereth by fyre, let him be god.

*And al the people answered and saide: it is well spoken. And Elia saide vnto the Prophetes of Baal: chose you an oxe, and dresse him first, (for ye are many) and call on the name of youre goddes, but put no fier vnder. And they tooke the one oxe ẏ he did geue them and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal, from morning to noone, saying: O Baal heare vs. But there was no voyce for one to aunswer. And they lept vpon the aulter ẏ they had made. And at noone it fortuned that Elia mocked them and said: crie loude, for he is a God, peraduenture he is talking or occupied (in folowig of his enemies) or is in his iourney, or happyly he slepeth, and must be awaked with your crie. And they cried loude, and cutte themselues as their maner was, with kniues and launcers, til the bloude folowed on them. And it chaũced, that when midday was passed, they prophecied vntil the time of the euenyng sacrifice. But there was neither voice nor one to aunswere, nor anye that regarded them.

And Elia said vnto all the folke: come to me. And all the people came to him. And he repaired the aulter of the Lorde ẏ was broken. *And Elia tooke twelue stones, accordyng to the number of ẏ .xii. tribes of the sonnes of Jacob, (vnto whõ the worde of the Lord came) saying: *Israel shalbe thy name. And with ẏ stones he made an aulter in the name of the lord. And he made a ditche rounde aboute the aulter, as brode as two forowes of ẏ corn field. And he put the woode in order, and hewed the oxe in peces, and laied him on ẏ wood and said, fil foure barrels with water, and powre it on the burnt sacrifyce, & on the wood. And he saide, doe so againe. And they did so the second time. And he saide againe, dooe it the thirde time. And they did it yet the third time. And ẏ water ran rounde about the aulter: he filled the pit with water also.

And it fortuned whẽ ẏ time came (wherin the burnt sacrifice of the euening vsed to be offred) Elia the Prophete came, and sayde: Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israell, it shall bee knowen this daye, that thou art the God of Israell, and that

I

I am thy seruaunt, and ỷ I haue done all these thinges at thy commaundement.

wood, the stones and the dust, and lycked vp the water ỷ was in the pit. And when al the people saw it, they fel on their faces G and sayd: the Lord he is God: the Lord he is God. And Elia sayd vnto them: take the Prophetes of Baal, and let not one of them escape. And they toke them, & Elia brought them to the broke Kison, and slue them there. And Elia sayd vnto Ahab: Get thee vp, and eate & drinke, for there is a sounde of much raine. And so Ahab went vp to eate and to drynke, and Elia went vp to the top of Carmel. And he layd himselfe flat vpon the earth, and put his face betwene his knees, & sayd vnto his seruaũt: go vp (I pray thee) & loke to-warde the way of the sea. And he wẽt vp and loked, & sayd: there is nothing. And he sayd: goe againe, vii. times. And it for-tuned, that at the seueth time, he sayd: behold, there ariseth a litle cloude of the sea like a mannes hande. He sayd: Goe, and say vnto Ahab: Make fast thy charet, and get thee downe, that the raine stop thee not. And it came to passe, ỷ in ỷ meane while, the heauen was blacke with cloudes and winde, and there was a great rain. And Ahab gat vp, and came to Iez-raell. And the hande of the Lord was on Elia, and he girded vp his loines, and ran before Ahab, till he came to Iezrael.

The.xix.Chapter.

Elia flying from Iezabell, is nourished of the Angel of god, and is commaunded to annoint Azael, Iehu, and Eliseus, whom the Hebrewes call Elisa.

A And Ahab tolde Iezabell, al that Elia had done, and howe he had slaine all the Prophetes wt the sweard.
Then Iezabell sente a messenger vnto Elia, say ing: * so and so let the Gods do to me, iii.king. xxi.b. if I make not thy soule, like one of theirs by to morow this tyme. When he saw that, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Bersaba in Iuda, and left his seruaunt there. But he hymselfe went a dayes iourney into the wildernesse and came, and sat down vnder a Iuniper tree, and desired for hys soule, ỷ he might dye, & sayd: * it is now ynough (O Lord) Ion.iiii.c.

And as he lay and slept vnder the Iuand sayd vnto him: vp, and eate. And whẽ he loked about hym: behold, there was a lofe of broyled bread and a vessel of water at his head. And he dyd eate & drinke and layd hym down againe to slepe. And the Angell of the Lord came againe the seconde tyme, and touched hym, and sayd vp & eate, for thou hast yet a great iour-ney. And he arose, & dyd eate & drynke, &

For the children of Israel haue forsaken

And after the fier came a smal stil voyce.
And when Elia heard it, he couered hys in the entring in of the caue: and behold, there came a voice vnto him, & sayd: what doest thou here Elia? And he answered: I haue bene gelous for the Lord god of hostes sake, bicause the children of Israell haue forsaken thy couenaunt, cast down thine aulters, and slaine thy Prophetes with the sweard, and I only am left, and they seke my lyfe to take it away. And the Lord sayd vnto him: Go & turne thy way therto * I haue left me .vii. M. in Israel of which neuer mā bowed hys knees vn-

So he departed thence, and founde Eli-with the .xii. And Elia went by him, and cast his mantel vpon hym. And he left the Lu.ix.g. oxen, and ran after Elia, and sayd: let * me I pray thee, kisse my father, and my mother, and then I wil folow thee. He sayd vnto hym: go backe againe, for what is it that I haue done to thee? And when he went backe again from him, he toke a couple of oxen, and slew them, and dressed the flesh with the instrumentes of yͤ oxen, and gaue vnto the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose, and went after Elia, and ministred vnto hym.

The .xx. Chapter.

The first and seconde tyme, that Samaria was besieged of Benhadad king of Siria.

A AND Benhadad the king of Siria gathered al hys host together, hauing
.xxxii. kings with him, and horses, and charets: and went vp, ⁊ besieged Samaria, ⁊ warred against it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kyng of Israel, into the citie, ⁊ sayd vnto him: Thus sayth Benhadad: Thy syluer and thy golde is mine, and the fayrest of thy wiues, and of thy children be mine. And the king of Israel answered, and sayde: My Lord king according to thy saying,
I am thine, and al that I haue.
And when the messengers came again they sayd: thus sayth Benhadad: For as-much as I haue sent vnto thee, saying: thou shalt deliuer me thy siluer and thy golde, ⁊ thy wyues, ⁊ thy children: I wyl therfore sende my seruauntes vnto thee to morow this time: ⁊ they shal search thine house, ⁊ the houses of thy seruaunts. And whatsoeuer is pleasaunt in thyne eyes, they shal take it in their handes, ⁊ bryng it away. Then the king of Israel sent for al the elders of the land, ⁊ sayd: take hede I pray you, ⁊ see how this felow goeth about mischief. For he sent vnto me for my wiues, for my children, for my siluer, ⁊ for my golde: ⁊ I denied him not. And all the elders, and al the people sayd: herken not vnto hym, nor consent.
B Wherfore he sayd vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my Lord the kyng, all that thou didst sende for, to thy seruaunt at the first time yͤ I wil do, but this thing I may not do. And the messēgers departed, and brought answere againe. And Benhadad sent vnto him againe, ⁊ sayd: Thus and thus do the Gods to me, if the dust of Samaria be ynough for all the people that folow me, to take euery man an handful. And the king of Israell answered, and sayd: tel him: let not him that putteth on his harnesse boast himselfe, as he that putteth it of. And it fortuned, that when Benhadad heard that tidinges, as he was with the kinges drinking within the pauilions, he sayd vnto his seruaunts put on your harnesse, and they set themselues in aray against the citie.
And behold, there came a Prophet vn- C to Ahab king of Israell, saying: thus sayeth the lord. Hast thou sene al this great multitude? Behold, I will deliuer it into thine hand this day, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. And Ahab sayd: by whom? He sayd: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Euen by the seruauntes of yͤ gouernours of the shyres. He sayd againe: Who shall order the battel? And he answered: thou.
Then he numbred the seruauntes of the gouernours of the shyres, and they were two hundred and two and thirtie. And after them also, he numbred all yͤ people, all the children of Israell, euen .vii. M.
And they went out at noone: But Behādad did drynke til he was dronken in the pauilions, both he and the kinges: Euen two and thirtie kinges, that holpe hym.
And the seruauntes of the gouernoures of the shires went out first.
And Benhadad sent out, and they shewed him, saying: there are men come out of Samaria. He sayd: Whether they be come out for peace, take them alyue: or whether they be come out to fight, take them yet aliue. And so those yong men of the gouernours of the shyres came out of the citie, and the host after them, ⁊ they slew euery one his enemy yͭ came in hys way. And the Sirians fled, and they D of Israel folowed after them. And Ben-hadad the king of Siria escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the king of Israell went out, ⁊ smote the horses and charets, and with a great slaughter slew he the Sirians.
And there came a Prophet to yͤ king of Israel, and sayd vnto him: goe forth, and play the man, be wise, and take hede what thou doest: for when yͤ yere is gone about

the king of Siria will come vp againste thee. And the seruauntes of the king of Siria said vnto him: The Gods of the hils are their Gods, and therefore they had the better of vs: But let vs fight against them in the plaine, and for what ye wil, we shall haue the better of them. And this do, take the kinges away euery man out of his place, and put Dukes in their rowmes. And do thou number thee an host, like the host ẏ thou hast lost, suche horses, and such charets, & we will fight against them in the plaine, and thou shalt see vs get the better of them. And he herkened vnto their voice, and did euen so.

C And it fortuned, ẏ after the yere was gone about, Benhadad numbred the Sirians, and went vp to Aphek to fight against Israel. And the children of Israell were numbred, and with their whole nūber went they against them, and the children of Israel pitched before them, like two litle flockes of kiddes: but the Sirians filled the countrey: And there came a man of God, and sayd vnto the king of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord: Bicause the Sirians haue sayd: The Lord is but god of the hils, and not God of the valleyes: therfore, wil I deliuer al this great multitude into thine hande, and ye shal know that I am the lord. And they pitched one ouer against the other. vii. dayes, and it came to passe that in the seuenth day the battell was ioyned. And the children of Israell slue of the Sirians an hundred M. fote men in one day. But the rest fled to Aphek into ẏ citie. And there fel a wall vpon. xxvii. M. of the men that wer left. But Bēhadad fled, and came into the citie, from chamber to chamber.

F And his seruauntes sayd vnto hym: beholde, we haue heard say, that the kynges of the house of Israel are mercifull kynges. We wil therfore put sackcloth about our loines, and ropes about our neckes, and go out to the king of Israel: if happily he wil saue thy life. And so they girded sackcloth about their loines, & put ropes about their heades, and came to the king of Israel, and sayd: Thy seruaunt Benhadad sayth: I pray thee let me liue. He sayd: is he yet alyue? He is my brother. And they toke that worde for good lucke, and hastyly caught it out of his mouth, & sayd: yea, thy brother Benhadad. He said goe, bring him hither. And Benhadad came out vnto him, and he caused him to come vp into ẏ charet. And he sayd vnto him: the cities which my father toke from thy father, I wil restore againe. And thou shalt make streates for thee in Damasco, as my father did in Samaria. And I wil make an appointment with thee, & sende thee away. And so he made an appointment with him, and sent him away.

And there was a certaine mā of ẏ children of the Prophetes, which sayd vnto his neighbour in the worde of the Lord: smite me, I pray thee. And the mā would not smite him. Then sayd he vnto him: bicause thou hast not herkened vnto ẏ voice of the Lord: Beholde, as sone as thou art departed fro me, a Liō shal slay thee. And it came to passe, ẏ as sone as he was departed from him, a * Lion founde him, & G slew hym. Then he founde another man, iii. King. xiii. c. and sayd: smite me I pray thee. And the man smote him, so ẏ in smiting he wounded him. So the Prophet went forth, and wayted for the king by the way, and put himselfe out of knowledge with ashes, which he layd vpon hys face. And when the kyng came by, he cryed vnto the king and sayd: Thy seruaunt went out in the middes of the battel: & behold, there went away a man, whom another mā brought vnto me, & sayd: kepe thys man. And if he be missed or lost, thy life shal goe for hys, or els thou shalt pay a talēt of siluer. And as thy seruaunt had here and there to do, he was gone. And the kyng of Israell sayd vnto him: euen so shal thy iudgemēt be, as thou hast defined it thy selfe.

And he hasted, and toke ẏ ashes, away from his face: & the kyng of Israel knew hym that he was of the Prophetes: and he sayd vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lord: bicause thou hast let goe a man that is in my curse, thy life shal goe for his lyfe: and thy people for hys people. And the kyng of Israel went to his house, waywarde & in displeasure, and came to Samaria.

Jezabell commaundeth to kill Naboth, for the vineyarde that he refused to sel to Ahab. Heliah reproueth Ahab, and he repenteth.

After these things it chaūced ẏ Naboth ẏ Jezraelite had a vineyard in Jezraell, hard by ẏ palace of Ahab king of Samaria. A And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying: * Geue i. Kinge. viii. e.

 me

me thy vineyard, that I may make me a garden of herbes therof, bicause it lieth so nie mine house: and I wil geue thee for it a better vineyard than it is: or rather if it please thee, I wil geue thee, the worth of it in mony. And Naboth said to Ahab the Lord forbid that fro me, ŷ I should geue the enheritaunce of my father vnto thee.

B And Ahab came into his house heuy & euil apayed, bicause of the worde whiche Naboth the Jezraelite had spokē to him, for he had said: I wil not geue the the en-heritaunce of my fathers. And he laid him down vpon his bed, and turned away his face (to the wall) and would eate no bread.
But Jezabel his wife came to him, and said vnto him: why is thy spirite so way-warde, that thou eatest no bread? And he said vnto her: For I spake vnto Naboth the Jezrahelite, and said vnto him: Geue me thy vineyarde for monye, or els if it please thee, I wil geue the an other vineyard for it. And he answered: I will not geue thee my vineyard.

C And Jezabel his wife sayd vnto hym: doest thou thus gouerne the kingdom of Israel? vp, and eate bread, and set thine heart at rest. I wil geue thee ŷ vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And so she wrote a letter in Ahabs name, & sealed it with his seale, & sent the letter vnto the elders, & to the nobles that were in hys citie dwelling ŵ Naboth. And she wrote in the letter, saying: proclaime a fast, and set Naboth on hie among the people, and set two vnthriftes before him, to beare (false) witnesse against him, saying: thou didst blaspheme God & the king. And thē cary him out, and stone him to death.

D And the men of his citie, that is to say: which dwelt in his citie, did as Jezabell had sent vnto them: and as it was wrytten in the letter, which she had sent vnto them. They proclaimed fasting, and set Naboth among the chiefe of the people, and there came in two men (the children of Belial) and sat before him. And the two vnthrifty persons witnessed against Na-both in the presence of the people, saying: Naboth did blaspheme God & the king.*
Act. vii. And they caried him out of the citie, and E stoned him with stones, ŷ he died. And then they sent to Jezabel, saying: Naboth is stoned to death. And it fortuned, when Jezabel heard that Naboth was stoned to death, she sayd to Ahab: vp, and take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite, which he denied to geue thee for mony, for Naboth is not aliue, but dead. And when Ahab heard ŷ Naboth was dead, he stode vp to goe down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite, and to take possession of it.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto Elia the Thesbite, saying: vp, & go down to mete Ahab king of Israel, which is in Samaria. For loe, he is gone down to ŷ vineyard of Naboth to take possessiō of it. And therfore shalt thou say vnto hym: thus sayth the Lord: hast thou killed, and gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto him, saying: Thus sayth the Lord: *in the place where dogges licked the f bloud of Naboth, shal dogges licke euen thy bloud also. And Ahab said to Elia: hast thou founde me, O thou mine enemy? he answered: I haue founde thee: for thou art euen solde to work wickednesse in the sight of the Lord. Beholde, I will bring euil vpon thee, and wil make cleane riddaunce of thy posteritie, and wil * destroy from Ahab, euen him that maketh water h against the wall, and him that is shut vp and left behinde in Israell, and wil make thine house like the house of Jeroboam ŷ sone of Nebat, and like the house of Baesa the sonne of Ahia, for the prouocatiō wherwith thou hast prouoked, and made Israell to sinne.

And of Jezabel spake the Lord, saying G dogges shal eate Jezabel, in the possession of Jezrahel. And he ŷ dyeth of Ahab in the town, him shal dogges eate: & he that dieth in the fieldes, hym shall the foules of the ayre eate. But there was none like Ahab, which did euen sell hym selfe, to worke wickednesse in the syghte of the Lord: & that bicause Jezabell hys wife pricked hym forward. He did exceading abhominably, in folowing foule Idols, according to all thinges as did the Ammorites, * whom the Lord cast oute before the children of Israel.

And it fortuned, that whē Ahab heard those wordes, * he rent hys clothes, & put Gene. xxxvii. sackcloth about his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sackcloth, and went bare fote. And the worde of the Lord, came to Elia the Thesbite, saying: Seest thou how Ahab hūbleth himself before me? Bicause he so submitteth himselfe before me, I wil not brig that euil in his daies: but in his son-nes daies, wil I bring euil vpō his house.
And they continued three yere without warre betwene Siria and Israell.

The.xxii. Chapter.

Foure hundred false Prophetes do counsaile Ahab & Iehosaphat to warre against Ramoth. Only Micheas prophecieth the truth, for which he is smitten and put in Prison. Of Ahazia, otherwise called Ochosias.

A AND * in the third yere did Iehosaphat ỹ king of Iu-da, come down to the king of Israel. And the king of Israel said vnto his seruaun tes, know ye not, that Ra-moth in Gilead is ours? And we sit still, and take it not out of the hande of ỹ king of Siria. And he sayd vnto Iehosaphat: Wilt ỹ come with me to battaile against Ramoth in Gilead? And Iehosaphat said vnto the king of Israell: * I will be as thou art, and my people shalbe as thine, & my horses as thine.
And Iehosaphat sayd vnto the king of Israel: *aske counsel, I pray thee at ỹ worde of ỹ Lord to day. And then ỹ king of Israel gathered the Prophetes together, vpon a .iiii. hundred men, & sayd vnto them: shal I go against Ramoth in Gilead to battaile, or shal I let it alone? And B they sayd go vp: for the Lord shal deliuer it into the hande of the king. And Ieho-saphat sayd: is ther here neuer a Prophet of the Lord more, ỹ we might enquire of him? And the king of Israel said vnto Ie-hosaphat: There is yet one man (Michea the sonne of Iimla) by whō we may aske counsel of the Lord. But I hate him, for he doth not prophecie good vnto me, but euil. And Iehosaphat sayd: let not ỹ king say so. Then the king of Israel called a chamberlaine, and sayd: fet Michea the sonne of Iimla hither at once.
And the king of Israell & Iehosaphat the king of Iuda sate either in hys seate: and their apparel on thē, in a voide place beside the entring in of the gate of Samaria, and al the Prophetes prophecyed before them. And Zedekia, the sonne of Canaana, made hornes of yron, & sayde: thus sayth the Lord: with these hornes shalt thou push the Sirians, vntill thou haue made an ende of them. And all the Prophetes prophecied euen so, saying: go vp to Ramoth in Gilead and prosper, for the Lord shall deliuer it into the kynges hande.
And the messenger ỹ was gone to call C Michea, spake vnto him, saying: Beholde, the wordes of ỹ Prophets speake good vnto ỹ king w one mouth: let thy word ther fore (I pray the) be like ỹ worde of euery one of the, to speake ỹ which is good. And Michea said: as truly as the Lord liueth, whatsoeuer the Lord sayth vnto me, that will I speake. And so he came to the king: and the king sayd vnto him: Michea, ought we to go against Ramoth in Gilead to battail: or to be stil? He answered vn to him: *goe, & prosper, the Lord shal de- ii. Paral. liuer it into the hand of the king. And the xviii. king sayd vnto him: So & so many times a.b.c. do I charge thee, ỹ thou tell me nothing, but ỹ which is true in ỹ name of the lord.
He sayd: I saw al them of Israell scattered vpon the hils, as shepe ỹ haue not a shepeheard. And the lord sayd: these haue no maister, let euery man returne to his house in peace. And the kyng of Israell sayd vnto Iehosaphat: did I not tell thee D that he would prophecy no good vnto me but euil? And he sayd againe: heare thou therfore the worde of the Lord. I saw the Lord sit on hys seate, and all the host of heauen stode about hym on his right hād, and on his left. And the lord sayd: * Who ii. pa. xviii shal persuade Ahab ỹ he may goe and fal b. at Ramoth in Gilead? And one sayd on this maner, and another on that. And there came forth a certaine spirit, & stode before the Lord, & sayd: I will perswade him. And ỹ lord sayd vnto him: wherwith?
And he sayd: I will goe out, and be a false spirite in the mouth of al hys Prophetes.
He sayd: thou shalt perswade hym, and preuaile, goe forth then, and do euen so.
Now therfore behold, *the lord hath put Iere. xxiiii. e. a lying spirite in the mouth of all these thy Prophetes, & the Lord hath spoken euil toward thee.
But Zedekia ỹ sonne of Canaana went to, and smote Michea on the cheke, and sayd: when went the spirite of the Lorde fro me, to speake vnto thee? And Michea sayd: behold, thou shalt see in ỹ day, when thou shalt goe from chamber to chamber to hide thee. And the king of Israel said: Take Michea, & cary hym vnto Amon ỹ gouernoure of the citie, & vnto Ioas the kynges sonne, and say, thus sayth ỹ king: Put this felow in the prison house, and fede hym with bread of affliction, & with water of trouble, vntill I returne in peace. And Michea sayd: If thou returne in peace, the Lord hath not spoken by me.
And he sayd: herken you people euery one of you.
E And so the king of Israel and Iehosa-phat the kyng of Iuda went vp to Ra-moth moth in Gilead. And the king of Israell sayd to Jehosaphat, chaunge thee when thou goest to warre: and put on thyne apparel. And the king of Israell chaunged himselfe, & went to battaile. But ye kyng of Siria cōmaunded the. xxxii. captaines (that had rule ouer his charets) saying: fight neither with small nor great, saue onely against the king of Israell. And when the captaines of the charets sawe Jehosaphat, they sayd: surely it is ye kyng of Israel, and they turned to fight against him: And Jehosaphat cryed. And so it came to passe, that when the captaines of the charets saw that he was not the king of Israel, they turned backe from him.

And a certaine man drew a bow ignorauntly, and (by chaunce) smote the king of Israel betwene the ribbes and his harnesse. Wherfore he said vnto the driuer of his charets: turne thine hande, and cary me out of ye host, for I am (sore) hurt. And the battaille encreased that day, and the king stode still in his charet against the Sirians, and died at euen. And the bloud ran out of the wound into the middest of the charet. And there went a proclamation throughout the host, about the going down of the sunne, saying: euery man to his citie, and to his own countrey. And so the king of Israell died: and they came to Samaria, and buried him there. And one washed the charet in ye poole of Sa-3. Kin. xxi f. maria, * and the dogges licked vp hys bloud (and harlots washed by the pooles side) according vnto the worde of the lord which he spake.

The rest of the wordes that concerne F Ahab, and all that he did, and the yuery house which he made, and al ye cities that he builded, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? And so Ahab slept with his fathers: and Ahazia his sonne reigned in his stede.

* Jehosaphat the sonne of Aza began ii. Pa. xx b to raigne vpon Juda in the fourth yeare of Ahab king of Israell: and Jehosaphat was. xxxv. yeare olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned. xxv. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Azuba the daughter of Silhi. And he walked in all the wayes of Asa his father, and bowed not there from: but did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord. Neuerthelesse, the hill aulters were not taken out of the way: for the people offered, and burnt incense yet in the hill aulters. And Jehosaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

* The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehosaphat, and the might that he vsed and how he warred: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of ye kinges of Juda? And the remnaunt of the sinnes of the males which remained in ye dayes of his father, he put cleane out of ye lande.
There was then no king made in Edom.
And Jehosaphat made. x. shippes in the sea, to come through Tharsis to Ophir for golde, but they went not, for the ship-pes brake at Ezion Gaber. Then sayde Ahaza the sonne of Ahab vnto Jehosaphat: let my seruauntes goe with thy seruauntes in the shippes. But Jehosaphat would not. And Jehosaphat did slepe w hys fathers, and was buried wyth hys father in the citie of Dauid his father.
And Jehoram hys sonne reigned in hys steade. Ahazia the sonne of Ahab began to reigne ouer Israell in Samaria, the xvii. yeare of Jehosaphat king of Juda, and reigned two yeres ouer Israel. But he did euill in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the way of his father, and in ye way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israell to sinne. For he serued Baal, and worshipped him, and prouoked the Lorde God of Israel vnto wrath, according vnto al that his father had done.

The ende of the third boke of the kinges, after the rekening of the Latinistes: which the Hebrues call the fyrste boke of the kinges.

The fourth boke of the kinges after the Latinistes: which boke and the three together, is but one with the Hebrues.

The first Chapter.

The captaines ouer fiftie with their souldiors are burnt with fier from heauen, by the prayer of Elia. Ahazia is reproued of Elia and dyeth: and Jehoram his brother succedeth hym.

I And Moab did wickedly against Israell after the death of Ahab. And Aha zia fell through a lattesse windowe of his vpper chamber that he had in Samaria, and while he was in his sickenesse, he sent messengers and sayd vnto them: goe, and enquire of Belzebub the God of Ekron, whether I shal recouer of thys my disease. But the Angell of the Lord spake vnto Elia the Thesbite: aryse, and go vp against the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say vnto them: is there not a god in Israel, that ye go to aske counsaile at Belze-bub the God of Ekron? Wherefore, thus sayeth y Lord: thou shalt not come down from the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dy y death. And Elia departed.
And when the messengers turned backe B againe vnto him: he sayd vnto them: why are ye now come? They answered him: there came a man vp against vs, & sayde vnto vs: go, & turne againe vnto the king that sent you, & say vnto hym: thus sayth the Lord. Is there not a God in Israell, that thou sendest to enquire of Belzebub the God of Ekron? Therfore thou shalt not come down from the bed on whyche thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death.
And he sayd vnto them: what maner of man was y which came vp in your way, and tolde you these wordes? And they an-Zac.iii.b swered him: it was an heary man, * and girde with a girdle of lether about hys loynes. And he sayd: it is Elia the Thes-bite.
C Then the king sent vnto him a captain ouer. l. (with his. l. men) and beholde, he sat on the top of an hill. And he spake vnto him: thou man of God, the king hath sayd: come down. Elia answered, & sayde to the captaine ouer the. l. if I be a mã of God, fyre come down from heauen, and Lu.ix.g. consume thee and thy. l. * And ther came fire of God, and consumed hym and hys
l. And the kyng went agayne, & sent him another captayne ouer. l, with his. l. And he answered, and sayd vnto him: O man of God, thus hath the kyng sayd, make hast, and come down: Elia answered, and sayd vnto them. If I be a man of God, fyre come down from heauen, & consume thee and thy. l. And there came fire of god down from heauen, and consumed hym & his. l.
And the king went againe, and sent the D third captaine ouer. l. with his. l. men. And the thirde captaine ouer. l. went vp, and came, and fel on his knees before Elia, & besought him, and sayd vnto hym: O mã of God, let my lyfe, and the life of the. l. thy seruauntes, be precious in thy syght.
Beholde, there came fyre down from heauen, and burnt vp the two fore captaines ouer. l. with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy sight. And the Angel of the Lord sayd vnto Elia: goe down with hym, and be not afrayd of him And he arose, and went down with hym vnto the kyng.
And he sayd vnto him: thus sayeth the E Lord: forasmuch as thou hast sent messẽgers to aske counsayle at Beelzebub the God of Ekron, as though there had ben no God in Israell, whose worde y migh-test seke after: therefore y shalte not come down of the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And so he died according to the worde of the lord which Elia had spokẽ. And Jehoram (his brother) began to raigne in hys steade, in the seconde yeare of Jehoram the sonne of Je-hosaphat kyng of Juda, bicause he had no sonne. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahazia, what thinges that he did, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israell?

¶ The second Chapter.

Elia deuideth the waters with his mantel. He is taken vp into heauen. The bitter and venemous waters are healed. The children that mocke Eliseus (otherwise called Elisa) are rent in peces.

And it chaũced, that A when the * Lorde Gen.v.c would take vp Elia into heauen by a whirle winde: Elia went wt Elisa, from Gilgal, & Elia sayd to Elisa: tary here I pray the, for y lord hath sent me to Bethell. Elisa sayd vnto i.Kinges hym: * as surely as the Lord liueth, and xx.viii.b.

as thy soule liueth, I wil not leaue thee.
And they came down to Bethell, and the children of the Prophets that wet at Bethel, came out to Elisa, and sayd vnto him knowest thou not, how that the Lord wil take away thy master from thy head this day? He said: I know it also: hold ye your peace.
And Elia sayd vnto him: Elisa, tary here I pray thee, for the Lorde hath sent me to Iericho. He sayd: as surely as the Lord lyueth, and as surely as thy soule liueth, I wil not leaue thee: and so they came to Iericho. And the children of the Prophetes that were at Iericho came to Elisa, and sayd vnto him: knowest thou not, that the Lord wil take away thy master from thine head this day? He answered: I know it also: holde ye your peace.
And Elia sayd vnto him: tary I pray thee here, for the Lord hath sent me to Iordã.
He sayd: as surely as the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee.
And so they two went together. And fifty men of the sonnes of ye Prophetes came and stode on the other syde a farr of, and they two stode by Iordan.
And Elia toke his mantel, and wrapt B it together, and smote the waters, and they were deuided, part the one way, and part the other: so that they two went ouer through the dry lande. And it fortuned, that assone as they were ouer, Elia sayde vnto Elisa: aske what I shall do for thee, yere I be taken away frõ thee. And Elisa sayd: I pray thee, let thy spirite be double vpon me. And he sayd: thou hast asked an hard thing? Neuerthelesse, if thou see me when I am taken away frõ thee, thou shalt haue it so: if thou do not, it shal not be. And it fortuned, that as they went walking and talking: beholde, there ap-Ec.xlviij. peared a charet of fier, and horses of fier a. and parted them both a sonder. * And Elia went vp through the whyrle wynde into heauen. And Elisa sawe, and cryed: O my father, O my father, the charet of Israell, and the horsemen therof, and he saw hym nomore: and he toke hys owne clothes, and rent them in two peces.
C He toke vp also the mãtel of Elia that fell from hym, and went backe againe, & stode by Iordans syde, and toke the mãtell of Elia (that fell from him,) and smote the waters (and they parted not a sonder) & he sayd: where is the lord God of Elia, and he himselfe? And when he had smitten the waters, they parted thys way and that way: and Elisa went ouer. And when the children of the Prophetes which were at Iericho saw him from a farre, they sayd: the spirite of Elia doth rest on Elisa, and they came to mete hym, and fell to the grounde before him, and sayd vnto hym: See, there be with thy seruauntes fiftye strong men, let them go, and seke thy master: happely the spirit of the Lorde hath taken hym vp, and cast hym vpon some mountaine, or into some valley. And he sayd: ye shall sende none. And when they lay vpon him til he was ashamed, he said: Sende. They sent therfore fiftie men, which sought him three dayes, but found him not. And when they came againe to hym, which taried at Iericho, he said vnto them: did not I say vnto you, that ye should not goe? And the men of the citie D sayd vnto Elisa: beholde syr, the dwelling of this citie is pleasaunt, as thou thy selfe seest: But the water is nought, and the groũde barren. He sayd: Bryng me a new cruse & put salt therin. And they broughte it to him. And he went vnto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in thyther, and sayd: thus sayth the Lorde: I haue healed this water: there shall not come henceforth either death, or barrennesse.
So the waters were healed vntyll thys day, according to the saying of Eliseus which he spake.
And he went vp from thence vnto Bethell. And as he was going vp the waye, there came litle children out of the citie, and mocked him, and said vnto him: Goe vp thou baulde head, go vp thou baulde head. And he turned backe, and loked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lord. And there came two she beares out of the wood, and tare .xlii. children of them. And he went from thẽce to mounte Carmell, and frõ thence he turned again to Samaria.

¶ The third Chapter.

The kinges of Israell, Iuda and Edom, lacke water, which they obteine through the praier of E-liseus. The king of Moab fighteth against Israell.

IEhoram the sonne of Ahab A began to reigne vpon Israell in Samaria, the .xviii. yere of Iehosaphat king of Iuda, and reigned twelue yeares. And he wrought euil in ye sight of the lord, but not like his father and lyke
hys

his mother;for he put awaye the ymages of Baal that hys father had made. Ne-uerthelesse, he cleaued vnto the sinnes of Jeroboam, the sonne of Nebat (whyche made Israell to synne) and departed not there from.

And Mesa king of Moab was a Lorde of shepe, and rendred vnto the kyng of Israell an hundred thousande lambes, and an hundred thousand Rammes with the wolle. But when Ahab was dead, it fortuned that the kyng of Moab rebelled agaynst the kyng of Israell. And Kyng Jehoram went out of Samaria the same season, and numbred all Israell and went and sente to Jehosaphat the kyng of Juda, saying: the kyng of Moab hath offended agaynst me, wylt thou come with me against Moab to battayle? He aunswe-red: I wyll come vp: for as I am so arte thou: and as my people be, so are thy people: and thy horses as myne. And he sayde: What way shall we goe vp? And he answered: The way through the wildernesse of Edom.

B And so the king of Israel tooke hys iourney and the king of Juda, & the king of Edom. And when they had compassed the waye seuen dayes, they hadde no water for the hoste, and for the cattell that folowed them. And the kyng of Israell sayde: Alas, the Lorde hath called these thre kynges together, to deliuer them ouer into the hande of Moab. But 3.Ki.xxii. Jehosaphat sayde: * is there not here a b Prophete of the Lorde, that we may enquier of the Lord by hym? And one of the king of Israels seruauntes aunswered, and sayde: Here is Elisa the sonne of Sa-phat, whiche powred water on the hands of Elia. And Jehosaphat sayde: Is not the woorde of the Lorde with hym? And so the kyng of Israell, and Jehosaphat, and the kyng of Edom, wente downe to hym.

And Elisa sayde vnto the kyng of Israell: what haue I to do with thee? Geat thee to the prophetes of thy father, and to the prophetes of thy mother. And ye kyng of Israel sayde vnto hym: Oh, naye. For the Lorde hath called these three kynges together to deliuer them into the hande C of Moab. And Elisa sayde: as sure as the Lorde of hostes lyueth (in whose syghte I stande) and it were not, that I regarde the presence of Jehosaphat the kyng of Juda, I would not looke towarde thee, nor yet see thee.

But nowe bryng me a mynstrel. And when the mynstrell played, the hande of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he sayde: thus sayth the Lorde: Make this playne grounde full of ditches. For thus saith the Lorde, ye shall see neyther wynde nor raine, and yet the broke shalbe filled with water, that ye maye drinke, bothe ye and your beastes, and your cattel. And this is yet but a small thyng in the syghte of the lord: forasmuch as he wil geue ouer ye Moabites also into your handes. And ye shal smite euery strong towne, & euery goodly citye, and shall fell euery pleasaunte tree, and stoppe euerye well of water, & marre euery good plat of grounde with stones.
And in the mornyng when the meate offeryng was offered: it fortuned that there came water by the way from Edom, and the countrey was fylled with water.

And when al the Moabites heard that the kynges were come vp to fight against them, they gathered al together, from the yongest that was able to put on harnesse and so vpwarde, and stode in the border of the lande.

And they were vp early in ye mornyng, D and the sunne shone vpon the water, that the Moabites sawe the water a farre of, as red as bloude, and they sayde: thys is the bloude of slaughter: the kynges are slaine; & one hath smitten another. Now therefore Moab, geate thee to the spoyle.
And when they came to the hoste of Israell, the Israelites stoode vp, and smote the Moabites, so that they fledde before them, but they folowed vppon them, and smote Moab. And they ouerthrew the ci-tyes: and on euery parcell of good lande, caste euerye manne his stone, and fylled it, and they stopt all the welles of water, and felled all the good trees. Onely in the citye of Bricke, left they the stones thereof: howbeit they wente aboute it wyth slinges and smote it.

And when the kyng of Moab sawe that the battayle was sore agaynste hym, he tooke with hym seuen hundred menne that drewe the sweard, to haue gone tho-rowe, euen vnto the kyng of Edom, but they coulde not. And then he tooke hys eldest sonne (that shoulde haue reygned in his stede) and offered hym for a burnte offeryng vppon the wall. And there was greate indignation agaynst Israell, and they departed from hym, and returned to theyr owne lande.

The fourth Chapter.

God geueth a certayne poore woman oyle and floure by Heliseus. Heliseus (whom the text calleth Elisa) obteyneth of God a childe for his hostesse, whiche dyeth, and is after raysed to lyfe. He maketh swete the pottage, and multiplieth the loaues.

A AND there cried a certain woman of the wiues of ye prophets vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruaunt my husbande is dead, and thou knowest that thy seruant did feare the Lorde. And the creditoure is come to fette my twoo sonnes to be his bondmen. Elisa said vnto her: tell me what I shall doe for thee? what hast thou in thine house? She sayd: thine handmaid hath nothing at al in the house, saue a pitcher wt oyle. He sayde vnto her: Goe and borowe vessell for thee, of them that are withoute, euen of all thy neyghbours, emptie vessels, and that not a fewe. And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the dore after thee and after thy B sonnes, and powre oute into all those vessels, and set asyde that whiche is full.
And so the woman wente from hym, & shut the dore after her, & after her sonnes.
And they brought to her, and she powred oute. And it came to passe, that when the vessels were full, she sayde vnto her sonne bring me yet a vessel. And he said vnto her I haue no mo. And the oyle ceased. Then she came and told the man of god. And he saide: goe and sell the oyle, and paye them that thou art in dette vnto, but liue thou and thy children of the rest.
And it fell on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a greate woman that toke him in for to eate breade. And so it came to passe, that from that tyme foorth (as ofte as he came that waye) he turned in thither to eate breade. And she sayde vnto her husbande: Beholde, I per-ceiue that this is an holye manne of God that commeth so oft by our place. Let vs make hym a chamber (I pray thee) wyth walles, and let vs set him ther a bed, and a table, and a stoole, and a candlestycke, that he maye tourne in thyther when he C commeth to vs.
And it fortuned on a daye, that he came thither: and turned into the chamber, and lay therin, & sayd to Gehezi his seruaunt: call this Sunamite. And when he called her, she presented her self before him. And agayne he sayde vnto hym. Tell her: be-holde, thou hast been carefull for vs, and haste made all this prouision, what shall we nowe doe for thee? wouldest thou bee spoken for to the kyng, or to the captayne of the hoste? She aunswered: I dwell among myne owne people. And he saide a-gayne: what is to be done for her? Gehezi answered: Uerely she hath no childe, and her husbande is olde. And he said: call her.
And when he had called her, she stoode in the dore. And he said *by suche a time and Ge.18 b assoone as the fruite can lyue, thou shalte embrace a sonne. And she sayde: Oh, naye Ma.4.a my Lord, thou manne of God, doe not lie vnto thy handmaide. And the wyfe conceyued, and bare a sonne that same season that Eliseus had saide vnto her, assone as the fruite coulde haue lyfe. And when the childe was growen: it fell on a daye, that D he went out to his father, and to the reapers. And he sayde to his father: my head, my head. And he saide to a lad: Cary him to his mother. And when he had taken him, and broughte him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noone, and then died.
And she went vp, and laid him on the bed of the mã of God, and shut the dore about hym, and wente oute, and called vnto her husband, and saide: sende with me (I pray thee) one of the yong men, and one of ye asses. For I wil runne to the man of god and come agayn. And he sayde: wherefore wilte thou goe to him, seing that to daye is neither new moone nor Sabboth daie?
She answered: for health. Then she sad-led an asse, and sayd to her seruaunte: lead awaye the asse, and make her not to goe slowly, (bicause I ride vpon her) but whe I bid thee.
And so she went, and came vnto the mã of god to mount Carmel. And it fortuned that when the man of God saw her farre of, he saide to Gehezi his seruaunte: Be- E holde, yonder is the Sunamyte, Runne therfore to mete her, and say vnto her: Is all well with thee, and with thy husbande and with the lad? And she answered: Al is wel. And when she came to the mã of god vp to the hill, she caught hym by the feete.
But Gehezi wente to her, to thruste her away. And the man of God sayde: let her alone, for her soule is vexed within her, and the Lord hath hid it fro me, and hath not tolde it me. Then she saide: did I desyer a sonne of my Lorde? dyd I not re-quier thee, that thou shouldest not deceiue me.

Then

Then sayde he to Gehezi: girde vp thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hande and goe thy waye. * If thou meete anye man, salute him not. And if any salute the, aunswere hym not agayne. And lay my staffe vpon the face of the chylde. And the mother of the chylde said: as sure as the Lorde lyueth, and thy soule liueth, I wyll not leaue thee. And he arose and folowed her. Gehezi wente before them, and layed the staffe vpon the face of the childe. But there was neyther voyce nor any felyng: wherefore he went agayn to mete hym, & tolde him, saying: the chylde is not awa-F ked.
And when Elisa was come into the house: Beholde, the childe was dead, and layed vpon his bed. He wente in therfore, and shut the dore to the lad and hym, and prayed vnto the Lorde, and wente vp, and laye vppon the ladde, and putte his mouth on his mouth, and his eyes vppon his eyes, & his handes vppon his handes: and when he so laie vppon the childe, the fleshe of the childe waxed warme. And he wente agayne, and walked once vp and down in the house, and then went vp and layed hymselfe vpon him again. And then the childe gasped seuen times and opened his eyes. And he called Gehezi and sayd: Cal for this Sunamite. So he called her.
Whiche when she was come in vnto hym, he said vnto her: Take thy sonne. Therfore she wente in and fell at his fete, and G bowed her self to the ground, and toke vp her sonne, and went out. Elisa came a-gayne to Gilgall, and there was a dearth in the lande, and the chyldren of the Prophetes dwelt with him. And he sayde vnto his seruant, Set a great pot on the fier and make pottage for the chyldren of the Prophets. And one went out into ẏ field, to gather hearbes, and founde (as it were) a wylde vyne, and gathered therof wilde Coloquintidas his lappe full, and came and shred them into the potte of pottage: for they knew it not. So they powred out for the menne to eat. And it fortuned that when they tasted of the pottage, they cried out, and said: O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they coulde not eate therof. But he sayd: bryng meale. And he cast it into the pot, and sayde: Fill for the people that they maye eate: & there was no more harme in the pot.
There came a man from Baal Salisa and broughte the manne of God bread of the first fruites, euen twenty loaues of barley, and newe corne, whyche was yet in his bagges, and he said: geue vnto the people, that they may eate. And his minister aunswered: why, shal I set this before an hundred men? He sayde agayne, geue it vnto the people that they maye Joh. vi. a. eate. For thus sayeth the Lorde: they shall eate, and there shalbe left ouer. And so he did sette it before them, and they dyd eate, and left ouer, according to the word of the Lorde.

The fifth Chapter.

Naaman the Sirian is healed of the leprosy. Gehezi is stricken with a leprousy, because he toke money and rayment of Naaman.

Naaman, captayn of ẏ host A of the king of Siria, was a great man, and honourable in the sighte of hys maister, because that by him the lorde had geuen health vnto Siria. He also was a mightie man, and expert in war, but he was a leper. And the Sirians had gone out by companies, & had broughte out of the countrey of Israel a litle maid, and she was with Naamans wife. And she sayd vnto her Lady: I would to God my Lorde were with the Prophete that is in Samaria: for he would deliuer him of his leprousy. And he went in, and tolde his Lorde, saying: thus and thus sayd the mayde that is of the lande of Israel.
And the king of Siria sayde: Come B and enter in, and I will sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israell. And he came, and tooke with him ten talentes of siluer, and vii. thousande peces of gold, & ten change of raimentes, and broughte the letter to the king of Israel conteyning this tenour: Now when this letter is come vnto thee, beholde, I haue sent there with Naaman my seruaunt to thee, that thou maiest ryd hym of his leprousy. And it fortuned, that when the king of Israel had red ẏ letter, he rent his clothes, and said: * am I God, De. xxxii. f. that I should slay and make aliue? For he dothe sende to me, that I shoulde delyuer a man from his leprousy. Wherfore consider (I praye you) and see howe he seketh a quarell against me. Whiche when Elisa the man of God had heard howe that the kyng of Israell had rent his clothes, he sent vnto the kyng, saying: wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? Let him come now

to me, and he shall knowe that there is a Prophete in Israel.

C And so Naaman came with his horses and with his charrettes, and stoode at the dore of the house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messanger vnto hym, saying: goe and washe thee in Jordan .vii. times, and thy fleshe shall come agayne to thee, and thou shalt bee cleansed. But Naaman was wrothe and wente awaye, and sayde: Beholde, I thought with my selfe, he would surely come oute, and stande and call on the name of the Lorde his God, and put his hande on the place, that he myghte heale the Leprousie. Are not Abana and Pharphar riuers of Damasco, better thã all the waters of Israell? If I washe me also in them, shall I not be cleansed? And so he turned him and departed wyth dyspleasure. And his seruauntes came, and commoned with him, and sayde: father, if the Prophete had bidden thee doe some greate thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? Howe much rather then, when he saith to thee: washe and bee cleane? Then went he downe and washed hymselfe .vii. tymes in Jordan, accordyng to the saying of the manne of God: and his fleshe chaunged, lyke vnto the fleshe of a lytle

D childe, + and he was cleansed.

Lu.iiii.e. And he turned agayne to the manne of GOD, he and all his companye, and stode before hym and sayde: Beholde, I knowe nowe that there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israell. Now therfore take a blessing of thy seruaunte. But he

3.Kin.xvii.a sayde: + as surely as the Lorde liueth (before whom I stande) I wil receiue none. And when the other woulde haue constrayned hym to receiue it, he would not. And Naaman sayde: (euen as thou wilt: but I beseche thee,) shall there not bee geuen to thy seruaunte, as muche of this earth as two mules maye beare. For thy seruaunte wyll henceforth offer neyther burnte sacrifyce nor offeryng vnto anye other God saue vnto the Lord. But herin, the Lorde be mercyfull vnto thy seruaunte, that when my maister goeth into the house of Rimmon, and doeth worshyppe there, and leaneth on mine hande,

E and I also worshyp in the house of Rimmon: (When I doe worshyppe, I saye) in the house of Rimmon, the Lorde be mercifull vnto thy seruaunte because of thys thing. Unto whom he sayde: goe in peace. And when he was departed from hym, as it were a furlong of grounde, Gehezi the seruaunte of Elisa the man of God sayde: Beholde, my mayster hath spared Naaman this Sirian, that he woulde not receyue of his hande those thynges, that he offred. As surely as the Lorde liueth, I wyll runne after hym, and take somewhat of hym. And so Gehezi folowed Naaman. And when Naaman sawe hym running after hym, he lighte downe from the charret to mete hym, and sayde: *is al well? He aunswered: All is well.

B Behold, my maister hath sent me, saying: Se, there be come to me, euen now from mount Ephraim, two yong menne of the children of the Prophetes: geue them I praye thee, one talente of syluer, and two chaunge of garmentes. And Naaman said: with a good will. Take two talentes: and he compelled hym to bynde two talentes of siluer in two bagges, with two chaunge of garmentes, and layde them vppon two of his seruauntes, to beare them before hym. And when he came into a secrete place, he tooke them from their hande, and bestowed it in the house, and the men were let go, and they departed. But he went in, and stode before hys

G master. And Elisa saide vnto him: whence commeste thou Gehezi? He sayde: thy seruaunte wente no whyther. But he sayde vnto hym: wente not myne hearte wyth thee when the man tourned agayne from his charret to meete thee? Is it nowe a tyme to receyue money, to receyue garmentes, Olyue trees, vyneyardes, shepe, and oxen, mẽ seruauntes, and maide seruauntes. The leprousy therfore of Naaman shall cleaue vnto thee, and vnto thy seede for euer. *And he wente oute from his presence a lepre, as white as snow.

The .vi. Chapter.

Eliseus maketh yron to swimme aboue the water. The Sirians besiege Israel, so that two women agree together to eate their own children.

A The chyldren of the Prophetes saide vnto Elisa: Behold, ẏ place wher we dwel with thee is to lytle for vs. We will therefore go vnto Jordan, and take thence euery man a beam and buylde vs a place to dwell in. And he aunswered goe. And one sayde: be contente (I praye thee) and come wyth thy seruauntes. And he aunswered, I wyll come: and so he wente with them. And when they came to Jordane, they cutte downe woode. But it fortuned, that that as one was felling downe of a tree, the axe head fell into the water. And he cryed and sayde: alas maister it was lent me. And the man of God sayde: where fel it? And he shewed him the place. And he cut downe a sticke, and caste it in thither, and immediately the yron dyd swymme. Therefore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hande and toke it vp.

B But the Kyng of Siria warred agaynst Israell and toke counsayle wyth his seruauntes, and sayde: In ponder secret place shalbe my remainyng. And the manne of God sente vnto the King of Israel, saying. Beware that thou goe not ouer to suche a place, for there the Syrians are lurkyng. Therefore the Kyng of Israell sente to the place which the man of GOD tolde hym and warned hym of, and saued hymselfe from it, not once, nor twyce.

C And the heart of the Kyng of Siria was troubled for thys thyng, and he called for his seruantes, and said vnto them: Will ye not shewe me whiche of our men (betrayeth me) to ye kyng of Israel? And one of hys seruauntes sayde: none my Lorde, O kyng, but Elisa the Prophete, that is in Israell telleth the Kyng of Israell, yea euen the wordes that thou spakest in thy priuye chamber. He sayde: goe and espye where he is, that I maye sende and fette hym. And one tolde hym, saying: beholde, he is in Dothan. Therefore sente he thither horses and charrettes, and a mighty hoste. And they came by nyght, and compassed the citie about.

And when the seruant of the man of God rose vp earelye to goe oute: beholde: there was an hoste rounde aboute the towne with horses and charrettes. And hys seruaunte sayde vnto hym: Alas master what shall we doe? He aunswered: * feare not, for they that be with vs, are mo than they that be with them. And Elisa

D prayed, and sayd: Lord (I beseche thee) open his eyes that he may see. And the Lorde opened the eyes of the yong man. And beholde, the mountayne was full of horses and charrettes of fyer rounde about Elisa. And when they came down to hym, Elisa prared vnto the Lord, and sayde: Smite this people (I praye thee) * with blindnes. And he smote them wyth blindenesse according to the desier of Elisa. And Elisa sayde vnto them: this is not the way, neither is this the towne: folow me, & I wyll bring you to the man whom ye seke. But he led them to Samaria.

E And it fortuned, that when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayde: Lorde, open theyr eyes, that they maie see. And the Lorde opened theyr eyes, and they sawe. And beholde, they wer in the middest of Samaria. And the Kyng of Israell sayde vnto Elisa when he sawe them. My father, shall I smyte them? And he answered, thou shalt not smite them. But smyte those that thou haste taken wyth thine owne swearde, and with thine owne bowe. But rather sette bread & water before them, that they may eate and drinke, and go to their maister. And he prepared a greate refection for them. And whe they had eaten & dronke, he sente them away: and they went to theyr master. And so the souldyors of Siria came no more into ye lande of Israel.

After this it chaunced that Benhadad king of Siria gathered all his hoste, and wente vp, and besieged Samaria. But

F there was a greate dearthe in Samaria: and beholde, they besieged it, vntil an asses head (was solde) for foure score syluer pence: and the fourth parte of a cabbe of doues dong: for fyue sicles. And as the kyng of Israell was goyng vppon the wall, there cryed a woman vnto him, saying: helpe, my Lorde, O kyng. He sayde: yf the Lorde doe not succoure thee, wherwith can I helpe thee? with the barne, or with the vynepresse? And the Kyng sayde vnto her: what wylte thou? She aunswered: yonder woman sayde vnto me: bryng thy sonne, that we maye eate hym to day and we wyll eate myne to morow. * And so we dressed my sonne, and dyd eate hym. L e. xxvi. d Deuter xxviii. f.

G And I sayd to her the other daye: bring thy sonne that we maye eate him, and she hath hid her son. And it came to passe that when the kyng heard the wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, & went vpon the wall. And the people loked & beholde, he had sackclothe vnder vppon his fleshe. Then he sayd: * God doe so and so to me, if the head of Elisa the sonne of Saphat shall stande on hym this daye. But Elisa 3 Reg. xix. a. sat in his house, & the elders satte by him, and the kyng sent a man before him. But yer the messanger came to hym, he sayde to the elders: haue ye not seen howe that the sonne of this murtherer hath sente to take awaye mine heade? bee circumspecte when the messanger commeth, and shutte the doore, and holde hym at the doore: is not not the sounde of his masters fete behind hym? Whyle he yet talked with them: be-holde, the messenger came downe vnto hym, and sayde: beholde: thys euyll is of the lorde, and what more shall I loke for

of the lorde?

The seuenth Chapter.

Elisa prophecieth plenteousnesse of vittailes and other thinges to Samaria. The Sirians runne away and haue no man folowing them. The Lorde that would not beleue the worde of Elisa is troden to death.

A Then Elisa said: heare ye yͤ worde of the lorde: thus saith the lord: * to morow iiii.kyn. vii.d this time shall a bushel of fine floure be solde for a sicle, and two bushels of barley for a sicle, in yͤ gate of Samaria. Then a certayne Lorde (on whose hande the king leaned) aunswered the man of God, and sayde: beholde, yf the Lorde would make windowes in heauē, might this saying come to passe? He said: beholde, thou shalt see it with thyne eyes, but shalt not eate therof.

And there were foure leperous menne at the entryng in of yͤ gate. And they sayd one to another, why sitte we here vntyl we dye? If we say we wyl enter into the citie: behold, the dearth is in the citye, and we shal dye therin. And if we sit styl here, we dye also. Nowe therefore come, and let vs fal vpon the hoste of the Sirians: yf they saue our liues, we shall lyue: yf they kil vs then are we dead. And so they arose in the nyghte, to goe to the hoste of the Sirians. And when they were come to the vtmoste part of the hoste of Siria, behold, there was no man there. For the Lorde had made the hoste of the Sirians B * to heare a noyse of charrettes, and a Mac. v.a. noyse of horses, and the noyse of a greate Esa. xiii.a hoste. In so muche that they sayde one to another. Loe, the kyng of Israel hath hy-red agaynst vs the kinges of yͤ Hethites, and the kynges of the Egiptians to come vpon vs. Wherfore they arose, and fled in the night, and left their tentes, theyr horses and their asses, and the fielde whiche thei had pitched, euen as it was, and fled for theyr liues. And when these lepers came to the edge of the hoste, they wente into a tente and dyd eate and drinke, and caried thence siluer and gold & rayment, and wente and hyd it: came agayne and entred into another tent, & caryed thence also, and went and hyd it.

Then sayd one to another: We doe not well this daye, forasmuche as it is a daye to bring good tidynges, and we holde our peace. Yf we tary tyll the day lyght, some mischiefe will come vpon vs. Now therefore come, that we maye goe, and tell the kynges housholde. And so they came, and called vnto the porter of the citye, and tolde them, saying: we came to the paui-lions of the Sirians and see, there was no man there, neither voyce of manne, but horses and asses tyed, and the tentes were euen as they were wont to be.

And so the mā called vpon the porters, C and they tolde the kynges house within.
And the kyng arose in the nyghte, and sayde vnto his seruauntes. I wyll shewe you nowe, what the Sirians haue doone vnto vs. They know that we be hungry, and therefore are they gone out of the pa-uilions, to hyde themselues in the fyelde, saying: when they come oute of the citye, we shall catche them alyue, and geate into the citie. And one of his seruauntes aunswered, and sayde: Let men take (I praye you) fyue of the horses that remayn and are left in the multitude. Behold, they are euen as all the multitude of Israell that are left in the citie: beholde (I say) they are euen as al the multitude of yͤ Israelites that are consumed, and we wil sende and see. They tooke therefore the horses of two charrettes, and the kyng sent after the hostes of the Sirians, saying: go and see. And they went after them euen vnto Jordan, and loe, all the waye was full of clothes and vessellès whiche the Sirians had cast from them in theyr haste.

And the messengers returned, and told the king. And the people wente oute, and D spoiled the tentes of the Sirians. And so it came to passe, yͭ a bushell of fyne floure was solde for a sicle, and two bushels of barley for a sicle * according to the worde of the Lorde. And the king appointed the Lorde, on whose hande he leaned, to bee at the gate. And the people trode vpō hym in the gate, and he dyed, accordyng to the worde of the man of God, whiche he sayd when the kyng came downe to hym. And so came the thing to passe, that the man of God had spoken to the kyng, saying: two bushels of barley for a sicle: & a bushell of fine floure for another shalbe to morowe this time in the gate of Samaria. Wher-

vnto that lord answered the man of god, and saide: yea and if the lorde made wyndowes in heauen, might it come to passe? And he said: Beholde, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, and shalt not eate therof. And euen so chaunced it vnto him, for the people trode vpon him in the gate, & he died.

The eight Chapter.

Elisa prophecieth vnto the Sunamite the dearth of seuen yere. After the death of Benhadad reigneth Hazael in Siria. Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat reigneth in Juda. Edom falleth from Juda, Ohosiah succedeth Jehoram.

Then spake *Elisa vnto ẏ woman (whose son he had restored to life again) saying: vp and goe, thou and thine house, and soiourne wher soeuer thou canst: for the lorde hath called for a dearth, and the same shall come vppon the land seuen yeres. And the woman arose, & did after the saying of the man of God & went, both she and her housholde, and soiourned in the land of the Philistines. vii yere. And at the seuen yeres ende it fortuned that the woman came again out of ẏ land of the Philistines, and went oute to call vpō the king for her house and for her land. And the king talked with Gehezi ẏ
B seruant of the man of God, saying: tell me (I pray thee) all the great dedes that Elisa hath done. He tolde ẏ King, how he had restored a dead man to life again: but in ẏ meane time the woman (whose sonne he had raysed vp againe) cried to the Kyng for her house and for her land. And Gehezi said: My Lord O King, this is the woman, and this is her sonne whom Elisa raised vp againe. And when the King asked the woman, she tolde him. And so the King deliuered her a chamberlayne, saying: restore thou vnto her all ẏ are hers, and all the fruites of the fyelde synce the day that she left the land, vntil this time.
iii. rix. f And *Elisa came to Damascon, and Ben-C hadad the king of Siria was sycke. And one tolde him, saying: The man of GOD is come hither. And the kyng sayde vnto
3. Kinge. xiiii. a Hazael: *take a presente in thyne hande, and goe mete the man of GOD, that thou mayest aske the Lorde by him, whyther I shall recouer of this disease. And so Hazael wente to meete him, and tooke the presente with him, and of euery good thyng of Damascon. euen as muche as fourty camelles coulde beare, and came and presented hymselfe before hym, and said: Thy sonne Benhadad King of Syria hath sente me to thee, saying: shall I recouer of this disease.
And Elisa sayd vnto hym: go and say vnto hym: thou shalt recouer, howbeit, the Lorde hath shewed me, that he shall surely die. And he looked aside, and was ashamed, and the man of God wept. And Hazaell sayde, why wepeth my Lorde?

He aunswered: for I knowe the euyll thynges that thou shalt do vnto the chyldren of Israell: for theyr strong cityes shalte thou sette on fier, and theyr yong menne shalte thou staye with the sweard, and shalte dashe out the braines of theyr sucking children, and al to teare their women with childe.

But Hazaell sayde: what, is thy seruaunt a dog, that I should doe this great thing? And Elisa aunswered: the Lorde hath shewed me that thou shalt be Kyng of Siria. And so he departed from Elisa, and came to his maister, which sayde to hym: what sayd Elisa to thee? He aunswered, he tolde me that thou shouldest recouer. And on the morowe it fortuned, that he toke a thicke clothe, and dipte it in water, and spred it on his face, and he died: and Hazaell reygned in hys stede.

vnto this daye. And then Lobnah began to be disobedient euen that same time.

F The reste of the wordes that concerne Jozam and all that he dyd, are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronycles of the kynges of Juda? And Jozam rested with his fathers, and was buried besyde his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And *Ahaziahu his sonne reigned in his stede. In the twelfth yere of Jozam the sonne of Ahab king of Israel, dyd Ahaziahu the son of Jehoram kyng of Juda, begynne to reigne. Two and twentye yere olde was Ahaziahu when he began to reygne: & he reygned one yere in Jerusalem, and hys mothers name was Athaliahu ye daughter of Omry king of Israell. But he walked in the waye of the house of Ahab, and dyd euill in the syght of the Lorde, euen as did the house of Ahab. For he was the

And he went with Jozam the sonne of Ahab to warre agaynst Hazaell kyng of Siria in Ramoth Gilead, and the Syryans wounded Jozam. And *king Jozam went backe againe to be healed in Jezraell of the woundes whiche the Sirians had geuen him at Ramoth, whẽ he fought against Hazael king of Siria. And Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehoram kyng of Juda, went down to see Jozam the sonne of Ahab in Jezrael, because he was sicke there.

The ninth Chapter.

Jehu is made kyng of Israel, and killeth Jehoram the king therof: and Ahasiahu, otherwise called Ochosias the kyng of Juda also, and causeth Jesabel to be cast downe oute of a window, and the dogges eate her.

A AND Elisa the Prophete called one of the chyldren of the Prophetes, & sayde vnto hym: *girde vp thy loines, and take this boxe of oyle in thy hande, and geat thee to Ramoth in Gilead. And when thou commest thither, loke where is Jehu the sõne of Jehosaphat, the sõne of Nimsi, and goe to hym, and make hym aryse vp from among hys brethren, and cary hym to a secrete chamber. Then take the boxe of oyle, & powre it on his head and saye: thus sayeth the Lorde: I haue annoynted thee to be kyng ouer Israell. And then open the dore, and flee without any taryng. And so the seruaunte of the Prophete gate hym to Ramoth Gilead, and when he came in, beholde, the captayns of the hoste were syttyng together. And he sayd: I haue an erande to thee, O captaine. And Jehu said vnto whiche of all vs? He saide: to thee, O captayn. And he arose, and went into the house.

And he powred the oyle on his heade, B and sayd vnto hym, thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: *I haue annointed thee to be kyng ouer the people of the Lorde, euen ouer Israell. Thou shalte smite the house of Ahab thy mayster, that I maye auenge the bloude of my seruauntes the Prophetes, and the bloude of all the seruauntes of the lord, of the hande of Jezabel, for the whole house of Ahab shall bee destroyed, & *I will destroy from Ahab, euen him ye maketh watch against ye wall, and hym that is prisoned and forsaken in Israell: and I wyll make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam the sõne of Nabat, and like the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahia. And as for Jezabel, *the dogges shall eate her in the fielde of Jezrael, and there shall be none to burye her. And he opened the dore and fled.

iii. kyng. xix.c · iii. kyng. xxi.d · iii. kyn. xxi.f

Jehu came out to the seruaunts of his Lorde, and one sayd vnto him: is all welle? Wherefore came this mad felow to thee? C And he sayde vnto them: ye know what maner of man it is, and what his communication is. They sayde vnto hym agayn: it is not so, tell vs. He said: thus and thus spake he to me, saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde: I haue annointed thee to be king ouer Israel. Then thei beside the horology hasted, and toke euery manne his garmẽt, and put it vnder hym, and blew with trompettes, saying: Jehu is king. And so Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat the son of Nimsi, conspired againste Jozam. Jozam kept Ramoth Gilead, he and al Israel, because of Hazael king of Siria: and *kyng Jozam returned to bee healed in Jezrael of the wounds which the Sirians had geuen hym, when he fought with Hazael king of Siria.

iiii. kyn. viii.g

And Jehu sayd: if it be youre myndes, D then let no man depart and escape out of the citie, to goe and tel in Jezrael. So Jehu gat vp into a charret, and went to Jezraell where Jozam laye, and Ahaziahu kyng of Juda was come downe thyther to see Jozam. And the watcheman that stode on the towre in Jezraell, spyed the company of Jehu as he came, and sayd: I see a company. And Jehoram sayde: take a horseman and sẽd to mete them, that he may may se whether it be peace. And so ther went one on horsebacke to mete him, and said: thus saith the king: is it peace? and Jehu said: what hast thou to do wt peace? turne thee behinde me. And the watche-man tolde, saying: the messenger came to them, but he commeth not againe.

C Then he sent out an other on horse backe, which came to them, and said: thus saith the king: is it peace? Jehu answered what hast thou to doe with peace? turne thee behinde me. And the watcheman tolde, saying: he came to them also, and commeth not againe: and the driuing is like the driuing of Jehu the sone of Nim-si: for he driueth ye charet as he wer mad.
And Jehoram sayd: make ready, and the charet was made ready. And Jehoram king of Israel, and Ahaziahu king of Iu-da went out either of them in hys charet, against Jehu, and met him in the forlong of Naboth the Jezraelite. And it fortuned, that when Jehoram saw Jehu, he said: is it peace Jehu? He answered: What peace should there be, so long as the whoredomes of thy mother Jezabel, and her witchecraftes are so great? And Je-horam turned his handes and fled, & said to Ahaziahu: there is falshed, O Ahazia-hu. And Jehu toke a bowe in his handes, and smote Jehoram betwene the armes, and the arowe wente through his heart.
And he fel down flat in his charet. Then sayd Jehu to Bidkar a captaine: take him and cast him in the plot of groūde of Na-both the Jezraelite. For I remēber that when I and thou rode together in a cha-ret after Ahab his father, the Lord layed this heauy burthen vpon him. I haue sene yesterday the bloud of Naboth, and the bloud of his sonnes, said the Lorde: & F I wil quite it thee in this grounde: sayth the Lord. Now therfore take hym and cast him in the plot of grounde, according to the worde of the Lord. But when Ahaziahu the king of Iuda saw this, he fled by the way of the garden house. And Jehu folowed after him, and said smite him, also in the charet: (and they smot hym) in his charet at the going vp to Gur by Jibleā, and he fled to Magiddo, and there dyed.
And his seruauntes caried him in a cha-ret to Jerusalem, and buried him there in his Sepulchre with his fathers, in the ci-tie of Dauid. And in the .xi. yere of Jorā the sonne of Ahab, began Ahaziahu to reigne ouer Juda. And when Jehu was come to Jezrael, Jezabel heard of it, and starched her face, and tyred her head, and loked out at a window. And as Jehu en-tred at the gate, she sayd: had Zimri peace which slew his master? And he lift vp hys eyes to the window, and sayd: who is of G my syde, who? And there loked out to him two or three chamberlaines, and he said throwe her down. So they threwe her down, and her bloud dashed towarde the wall, and towarde the horses, and he trode her vnder fote.
And when he was come in, he did eate and drinke, and said: goe & visite I praye you, yonder cursed creature, and bury her for *she is a kinges daughter. And so 3. Kin. xvi g. when they came to bury her, they founde no more of her than the skul and the fete, and the palmes of her handes. Wherfore they came againe and tolde him. And he sayd: this is the worde of the Lord, which he spake by the hande of hys seruaunte Elia the Thesbite, saying: * in the fielde of Jezrael shal dogs eate the flesh of Je- 3. Kin. xxi f. zabel. And so the carkas of Jezabel was euen as dung vpon the earth in the field of Jezrael, so that no man might say: this was Jezabel.

The tenth Chapter.

Jehu causeth the .lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slaine and after that .xlii. of his brethren. He fyndeth a meane also to kil all the Priestes of Baal. After his death his sonne reigneth in his steade.

AHab had .lxx. sōnes in Sa- D maria. And Jehu wrote let- Jo. viii. g ters, and sent to Samaria vnto the rulers of Jezrael to the elders, & to thē yt brought vp Ahabs children, saying: Nowe when this letter commeth to you, ye yt haue with you your maisters sonnes, ye haue wyth you both charets and horses: a strong ci-tie haue ye also, & harnesse: looke which of your masters sonnes is best, and moste mete, & set him on his fathers seate, and fight for your Lordes house. But they were exceadingly afrayd, & sayd: see, two kynges wer not able to stand before him how shal we thē be able to stande? And he that was gouernoure of Ahabs house, & B he yt ruled the citie, the elders also, & the tutours sent to Jehu, saying: we are thy seruauntes, & wil doe all that thou shalte byd vs: we wil make no man king, therefore doe thou what semeth good in thine eies. Then he wrote another letter to B them, saying: if ye be mine, and will hearken vnto my voice, then take the heades of the men that are your masters sonnes, and come to me to Jezraell by to morow this time. And the kinges sonnes were .lxx. persons, and they wer with the great men of the citie, which brought them vp: and when the letter came to them, they toke the kinges children and slew them, euen .lxx. persons, and layed their heades in baskets, and sent thẽ vnto him to Jezrael. And there came a messenger and tolde him, saying: they haue brought the heades of the kinges sonnes. And he said let them lay them on two heapes in the entring in of the gate, vntill ẏ morning.

And when it was day he went out, and C stode, and said to al ẏ folke: ye be righteous. Beholde, I conspired against my master, & slewe him. But who slew al these: Learne here, that there shal fal vnto the earth nothing of the worde of the Lorde which he spake concerning the house of Ahab. For the lord hath brought to passe the thinges that he spake by the hande of his seruaunt * Elia. And so Jehu slew al 3.Re.xxi.f. that remained of the house of Ahab in Jezrael, and al that were great with him and his kinsfolkes and Priestes, so that he let nothing of him remaine. And he arose and departed, and came to Samaria. And when Jehu was in the way to ẏ house where the shepeheardes did sheare their shepe, he met with the brethren of Ahaziahu king of Juda, and sayd: what are ye? They answered: the brethren of Ahaziahu are we, and go down to salute the children of the king and of ẏ Quene. And he said: take them aliue. Whõ when they had taken them aliue, they slew thẽ at the well which was beside the house where the shepe are shoren, euen .xlii. mẽ, neither left he any of them.

And when he was departed thence, he D met with Jehonadab the sonne of * Re-Ie.xxv.a chab cõming against him. And he blessed him, & sayd to him: is thine heart right, as my hart is true with thine? And Jehonadab answered: yea ẏ it is. (If it be saith he) then geue me thine hand. And when he had geuen him his hand, he toke him vp to him in the charet, & sayd: come with me and see the zeale ẏ I haue for the Lorde, and so they made him ride in his charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slew al that remained vnto Ahab in Samaria, till he had wiped him out, accordig to ẏ saying of the Lord which he spake to Elia. And Jehu gathered all the people together, and sayd vnto them: * Ahab serued Baal a litle: but Jehu shal serue him more. Now therfore call vnto me all the Prophetes of Baal, al such as serue him and al his Priestes, and let none be lacking. For I haue a great Sacrifice to do to Baal, and therfore whosoeuer is missed he shall not liue. But Jehu did it for a subtiltie, to thintẽt that he might destroy the seruauntes of Baal. And Jehu sayd: proclaime an holy conuocation for Baal. And Jehu sent vnto all Israel, and al the seruauntes of Baal came, that there was not a man left behind that came not. And they came into the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was full from one ende to another.

And he sayd to him that was the keper of the vestery: bring forth garmentes for al the seruaũtes of Baal. And he brought them out garmentes. And when Jehu went with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab into the house of Baal, he sayd vnto the seruauntes of Baal: search and loke that there be here with you none of the seruauntes of the Lord, but the seruauntes of Baal only. And when they went in to offer Sacrifice and burnt offring, Jehu appointed eightie men without, and sayd: If any of the men whom I haue brought vnder your handes, escape, he that letteth him goe, shal dye for hym.

And it fortuned, that assone as he had made an ende of offering the burnt Sacrifice, Jehu sayd to the men of warr, and to the captaines: go in and slay them, let none come out. And they smote them wt the edge of the sweard. And the men of warre and the captaines cast them out, & went vnto the citie of the tẽple of Baal, and fet the ymages out of the temple of Baal, and burnt them. And they brake ẏ ymage of Baal, and brake the house of Baal, and made a draft house of it vnto this day. And so Jehu destroied Baal out of Israell. But from the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, whiche made Israell to sinne, Jehu departed not, neither frõ folowing of thẽ (neither forsoke he) the golden calues that were in Bethell & in Dan.

And the Lord sayd vnto Jehu: bicause thou hast done right well in bringing to passe the thing that is right in mine eyes and hast done vnto the house of Ahab according to all thinges that are in myne heart, therefore shall * thy children vnto 4.Re.xv.c

the fourth generation, sit on the seate of Israel. But Jehu cared not for this, to walke in the law of the Lord God of Israel with al his hart, for he departed not from the sinnes of Jeroboã, which made Israel to sinne.
C In those daies the Lord began to cut Israel short: * and Hazaell smote them in al the coastes of Israel, from Jordã Eastward, euen al the land of Gilead, the Ga-dites, the Rubenites, and them ẏ wer of Manasses, frõ Aroer vnto the riuer Ar-non: euen Gilead and Basan. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehu, and all ẏ he did, and al his power: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israel. And Jehu slept wt hys fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his sonne reigned in his steade. And the time that Jehu reigned vpon Israel in Samaria, is. xxviii. yeares.

The eleuenth Chapter.

Athalia putteth to death al the kinges sonnes except Jehoaz the sonne of Ohoziah, which is hydden and after her death is made king.

A AND Athalia ẏ mother of Ahaziahu when she saw that her sõne was dead, she arose, & destroi-

But Jehosaba the daughter of king Joram, and sister to Ahaziahu, toke Joaz the sonne of Ahaziahu, and stale him frõ among the kinges sonnes that were slaine, and his nourse with him, out of a sleping chamber, and hid him from Athalia, that he was not slaine. And he was with her hid in the house of the Lord. vi. yere. And Athalia did reigne ouer the lande.
And the. vii. yere Jehoiada sent and fet the rulers ouer the hũdreds, with the captaines, & them of the garde, & toke them to him in ẏ house of the Lord, & made a bonde with them, & toke an othe of them in ẏ house of the Lord, & shewed them the kinges sonne. And he commaunded them saying: this is it ẏ ye must do: one thirde part of you, whose dutie is to come on the Sabboth day, shal kepe the watch of the kings house. And an other third part shal B kepe the gate of Sur: and an other thirde part shal kepe the gate which is behinde them of the garde: and so shal ye kepe the watche of the house of Messah: and two partes of you, that is, all ẏ goe out on the Sabboth day, shal kepe the watche of the house of the Lord about the king, and ye shall compasse the king rounde about, and euery man shal haue his weapon in hys hande, and whoso commeth within the raunges, let him be slaine. And see that ye be with the king, as he goeth out & in.
And the captaines ouer the hundredes ii. Parali. xxiii. a did according to all thinges that * Jehoiada the Priest commaunded, & they toke euery man his men that were to come in on the Sabboth day, with them ẏ should go out on the Sabboth, and came to Jehoiada the Priest. And to the captaines ouer hundredes did the Priestes geue kĩg Dauids speares and shieldes that wer in the Temple. And they of the garde stode and euery man had his weapon in hys hande rounde about the king, from the right corner of the temple to the left, alõg by the aulter & the tẽple. And he brought out the kinges sonne, and put the crown C vpon him, & deliuered him * the witnesse, De. xvii. d and made him king, and annointed him.
And they clapt their handes, and sayde: God saue the king. * And when Athalia ii. Parali. xxiii. b heard the noise of the running of the people, she came to the people into the Temple of the Lord. And when she loked, behold: the king stode by a piller, as ẏ maner was, and the singers and the trõpet-ters by the king, and all the people of the lande reioyced, and blew with trompets.
And Athalia rent her clothes and cryed, treason, treasõ. But Jehoiada the Priest commaunded the captaines of the hun-dredes that had the rule of the host, and sayd vnto them: haue her out without the temple, that she may be within the raunges, and if any folow her, kil him with the sweard: for the Priest had sayd: she maye not be slaine in the house of the Lorde.
And they layed handes on her til she came into the way, by the which the horses wer into the kinges palace, and there was she slaine.

D ✱And Jehoiada made a bonde be-
ii. Parali. xxiii.c twene the Lord and the kyng, & the people, that they should be the lordes people: and also betwene the kyng and the people. And al the people of the lande went into the house of Baal, and destroyed it, hys aulters also, and hys ymages brake they down lustely, and slew Mathan the Priest of Baal before the aulters. And the Priest set watche ouer the house of ye Lord: and toke the rulers ouer hũdredes the captaines, and them of the garde, and al the people of ye land. And they brought the kyng from the house of the Lord, and came by the way of the gate of them of the gard, to the kynges palace. And he sat hym down on the seate of the kynges.
And al the people of the lande reioyced, & the citie was in quiet. And they slew A-thalia with the sweard beside ye kynges palace. Seuen yere olde was Jehoas when he began to raigne.

Jehoas maketh prouision for the repayryng of the temple, he is killed by two of his seruauntes, & Amaziahu reigneth in his steade.

man wt a willing heart geueth and bringeth into the house of the Lord, let the Priestes take it to thẽ: euery man of hys acquaintaunce, to repaire the broken places of the house, wheresoeuer any decaye is foũde. And so it came to passe, ye vnto ye xxiii. yere of king Jehoas, the Priestes had mẽded nothing ye was decayed in the temple. Then king Jehoas called for Je-B hoiada the bishop, & the Priestes, & sayde vnto thẽ: why repaire ye not the broken places of the tẽple? Now therfore, see that ye receiue no more mony of your acquai-taunce, except ye deliuer it to repaire the temple withall. And the Priestes consented to receiue no more mony of the people except to repayre the decayed places of ye temple.
But Jehoiada the Prieste toke a chest, and bored an hole in the lyd of it, and set it beside the aulter on the ryght syde, as euery mã commeth into the temple of the Lord. And the Priestes ye kepte the vessels, put therin all the money that was brought into the house of the Lord.
And it fortuned, that when they saw ther was much mony in the chest, ✱ the kinges 4.Re.
Scribe and the hye Priest came vp, and C tolde the mony that was founde in the house of the Lord, and put it into a bagge And they gaue the money sealed into the handes of them that executed the worke, and that had the ouersight of the house of the Lord: and they brought it out to the carpenters and builders (that wroughte vpon the house of the Lord) and to masõs and hewers of stone. And they bought timber and frestone, to repayre the decay in the house of the Lord, and to all that went out to mende the temple: howbeit there was not made for the house of the Lord, bowles of siluer, instrumentes of musike, basons, trompets, or any vessels of golde, or vessels of syluer, of the money that was brought into the house of the Lord. But they gaue that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the house of the Lord. Moreouer, they rekened not with the men, into whose handes they de-liuered ye mony to be bestowed on worke-men: for they did their businesse faithfully. Howbeit, trespasse money, and synne mony was not brought into the house of the Lord, for it was the Priestes. D Then came Hazaell kyng of Syria vp, and fought against Geth and toke it, and Hazaell set hys face to goe vp to Jerusalem. And Jehoas kyng of Juda toke al the halowed thinges that Jehosa- 4.Re. b phat, Jehoram, and Haziahu his fathers kynges of Juda, had dedicate, and that he himselfe had dedicated, and all the golde that was founde in the treasures of the house of the Lord, and in the kinges house, and sent it to Hazaell kyng of Syria, and so he departed from Jerusalem.

of the kinges of Juda. And his own seruauntes arose and wrought treason, & slew Jehoas in the house of Millo, when he came down to Silla. Jozaber ye sonne of Semeath, and Jehozabad the sõne of Somer, his seruauntes smote him, & he died. And they buried him wt his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Amaziahu his sonne reigned in his steade.

The.xiii.Chapter.

Jehoahaz the sõne of Jehu, is delivered into the handes of the Sirians, and dyeth. Joas his sonne reigneth in his steade. Elisa dyeth.

A In the.xxiii. yere of Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu king of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu began to reigne ouer Israell in Samaria.xvii.yere. And he wrought yt which was euil in the sight of the lord, and folowed the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Ne-bat, which made Israell to sinne, & departed not therfrom. And the Lord was angry with Israel, and deliuered them into the hand of Hazael king of Siria, and in to the hand of Benhadad the sõne of Ha-zael, al their dayes.

And Jehoahaz besought the Lord, and B the Lord heard him. For he considered ye trouble of Israell, wherwith the kyng of Siria troubled them. And the Lord gaue Israel a deliuerer, so that they went oute from vnder the subiection of the Siriãs.
And the children of Israell dwelt in their tentes as before time. Neuerthelesse, they departed not frõ the synnes of the house of Jeroboam which made Israel synne, but walked in them.

And there remained an idolls groue still also in Samaria. Neither did he leaue of the people to Jehoahaz, but.l. horsmen.x.charets, & x.M.fotemẽ: *for 4.ki.viii b the king of Siria destroied them, & made the lyke threshed dust. The rest of the words yt cõcerne Jehoahaz & al yt he did, & his power: are they not writtẽ in ye boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israel: And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, & Jo-as his sonne reigned in hys steade. In ye xxxvii.yere of Joas king of Juda began Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria.xvi.yeare, and did that which is euil in the sighte of the Lord, and departed not from al the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat (yt made Israell synne) for he walked therin.

The remnaunt of the wordes that con- C cerne Joas and al that he did, and his power wherwith he fought against Ama-ziahu king of Juda: are they not written in the Chronicle booke of the kinges of Israel? And Joas slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sat vpon his seate.
And Joas was buried in Samaria among the kinges of Israel. When Elisa was fallen sicke of his sickenesse (wherof he dyed) Joas the king of Israel came down vnto hym, & wept before hym, and sayd: *O my father, my father: the charet 4.ki.ii.c. of Israel, and the horsemen of the same.
Elisa sayd vnto him: take bow & arowes.
And he toke vnto him bow and arowes.
And he sayd to ye king of Israel: put thine hande vpon the bow, and he put his hand vpon it. And Elisa put his handes vpon the kinges hande, and sayd: open a wyn-dow eastwarde: and when he had opened it, Elisa sayd: shote, and he shot. And he sayd: the arrowe of health of the Lorde, and the arrow of health against Siria: for thou shalt smite Siria in Aphek, tyll thou haue made an ende of them.

And he sayd: take the arrowes: and he D toke them. And he sayd vnto the kyng of Israel: smite the grounde: and he smote thryce, and ceased. And the man of God was angry with him, & sayd: thou shouldest haue smittẽ.v.or.vi.times (or.vii.times) and then thou haddest smitten Siria, till thou hadst made an ende of them: where now thou shalt smite Siria, but thryce.
And so Elisa died, and they buryed hym: and the souldiours of ye Moabites came into the lande the same yere. And it chaũ-ced as some of them were burying a mã, and spied the souldiors, they cast the mã into the sepulchre of Elisa. And when the mã was rolled down, and touched the body of Elisa, *he reuiued, and stode vp on Ec.xlviii hys fete. a.

But Hazael vexed Israel all the dayes C of Jehoahaz. And the Lord had mercy on them, and pitied thẽ: and had respect vnto them, bicause of his appointment made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and would not destroye them, neither cast he them from hym as yet. So Hazaell the kyng of Siria dyed: and Benhadad hys sonne raigned in hys steade. And Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz went againe: and toke out of the hande of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael, the cities which he had taken away out of the hande of Jehoahaz his father, in warr: for thre times did Joas beate him, and restored the cities vnto Israel againe.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Amaziahu the king of Juda putteth to death the manquellers of his father, and after smyteth Edō. Joas dyeth, and Jeroboam his sonne succedeth in his rowme, and after him reigneth Zachariah. Amazia is killed in Lachis, and Azaria reigneth in his steade.

2 Pa.xxv a
The. ii. yere of Joas, sonne of Jehoahaz king of Israel, reigned Amaziahu the sonne of Joas king of Juda: *he was. xxv. yere olde when he began to reigne, and reigned. xxix. yere in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Jehoadan, of Jerusalem. And he did that which is good in the sight of the Lord, yet not like Dauid his father, but did according to al thinges as Joas hys father did. Neither were the hilaulters taken away. For as yet the people did sacrifice, & burnt incense on the hilaulters.

In the. xv. yere of Amaziahu ẏ sonne of Joas kyng of Juda, was Jeroboam the sonne of Joas made kyng ouer Israell in Samaria, and reigned. xli. yere, and wrought that which was euill in the syght of the Lord. Neither turned he F away from all the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, whiche made Israell to synne. He restored the coaste of Israell from the entering of Hemath, vnto the sea of the wildernesse according to the worde of the Lord God of Israell, which he spake by the hãd of his seruaũt* Jonas the sonne of Amithai ẏ Prophet, which was of Geth Hepher . For the Lord saw how that the afflictiõ of Israell was exceading bitter, in somuch ẏ the prysoned and the forsakẽ were at an end.

G And there was none to helpe Israell. *
And the Lord sayd not, that he would put out the name of Israell frõ vnder heauẽ, but he helped them by the hande of Jero-

¶ The.xv.Chapter.

Azaria the king of Juda becommeth a leper. Of Jothan, Sallum, Menahem, Pekahia, Uriah, Jotham, and Ahaz.

A IN the.xxvii. yeare of Jeroboam king of Israell, began Azaria sonne of Amazia, king of Juda to reigne . Sixtene yere old was he whẽ he was made kyng : & he reigned.lii. yere in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Jecholiahu of Jerusalẽ. And he did that which was righte in the sight of the Lord, according to al thinges as did hys father Amaziahu, saue ẏ the hillaulters were not put away: for ẏ people offered, & burned incense stil on ẏ hilaulters. And ẏ B Lord smote ẏ king, & he was a leper vnto the day of his death, * & dwelt in a seue-ral house at libertie: & Jothã the kinges sõne gouerned ẏ palace, & iudged the people of ẏ lande. The rest of the words that cõcerne Azaria & al ẏ he did: are they not written in ẏ boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And so Azaria slept with his fathers, & they buried him with his fathers in the citie of Dauid, and Jotham his sonne reigned in his steade. In the.xxxviii. yere of Azaria king of Juda, did Zacharia the sõne of Jeroboã reigne vpõ Israel in Samaria.vi. monethes: & wrought ẏ which was euil in ẏ sight of ẏ Lord, as did his fathers : & turned not a- C way from the synnes of Jeroboã ẏ sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to synne.
And Sallum the sonne of Jabes conspi-red against him, & smote him in the sighte of ẏ people, & killed him, & reigned in his steade. The rest of the wordes ẏ concerne Zacharia: behold, they are written in the boke of ẏ Chronicles of the kinges of Israel. These be also the wordes of ẏ lorde, which he spake vnto Jehu, saying: * thy 4.Kin.x.f sõnes shal sit on the seate of Israell in the fourth generation after thee. And it came so to passe. Sallum the sõne of Jabes began to reigne in the.xxxix.yere of Azaria kyng of Juda : and he reigned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahem the sõne of Gadi, went vp from Thirza, and came to Samaria, and smote Sallum the sõne of Jabes in Samaria, and slew him, & reigned in his steade. The rest of the wordes that concerne Sallum, and the treason which he conspired: behold, they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell. The same tyme Menahẽ destroied Thipsah, & al ẏ wer therin, and the coastes therof from Therzahi. D And (bicause they opened not to him) he smote it, & rypt vp al their wemen wyth childe. The.xxxix.yere of Azaria king of Juda, began Menahem the sõne of Ga-di to reigne vpon Israel.x. yere in Samaria. And he did euil in the sight of the Lord, & turned not away al his dayes frõ the synne of Jeroboã, the sonne of Nebat which made Israel to synne . And Phul the king of Assiria, came vpõ the lãd. And Menahem gaue Phul a.M.talentes of siluer, ẏ his hãde might be with him, and stablish the kingdom in his hande. And Menahem made a proclamatiõ for ẏ mo-ny in Israel, ẏ al men of substance should geue the kyng of Assiria.l.sicles of siluer a pece. And so the kyng of Assiria turned backe againe , & taried not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes ẏ concerne Menahem, & al ẏ he did: ar they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Menahem slepte with hys fathers , & Pekahia hys sonne did in hys steade succede hym in the kingdome. In the fiftieth yeare of Azaria kig of Juda , began Pekahia the sonne of Menahem to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria two yere, & did ẏ which was euil in the sight of the Lord, & left not of frõ the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat which made Israel synne. But Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, which was a captaine of his, conspired against hym, and smote hym in Samaria, euen in ye place of the kynges house with Argob and Aria: and with him were .l. mē of the Gileadites: and he kylled hym, and reigned in his rowme. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekahia, and al that he did: behold, they are written in the booke of the F Chronicles of the kinges of Israel. In ye lii. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda, began Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria .xx. yere, and did euil in the sight of the Lord, and turned not away from the synnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat that made Israel sin.

In the dayes of Pekah kyng of Israell, came Thiglath Pelesar kyng of Assiria, and toke Iion, Abel, Bethmaacha, Ianoah, Kedes, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, and all the lande of Nephthali, & caryed them away to Assiria. And Hosea the sonne of Ela conspired treason against Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, and smote hym, and slew hym, and reigned in his steade in the .xx. yere of Iotham the sonne of Uziahu.
The rest of the wordes that concerne Pe-kah and all that he did: beholde they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell. The seconde yere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu kyng of Israell, began Iotham the sonne of Uziahu king of Iuda to reigne. Fiue and twenty yere olde was he when he began to reigne: & he reigned .xvi. yere in Ieru-G salem. His mothers name was Ierusa, the daughter of Zadok. And he did that which is right in the syght of the lord: euē according to all as did hys father Uziahu so dyd he. But the hilaulters wer not put away: for the people offered and burnte incense still in the hilaulters: he builte the hyther doore of the house of the Lorde.
The rest of the wordes that concerne Io-tham, and al that he dyd: ar they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? In those dayes the Lord began to sende into Iuda, Rezin ye kyng of Siria, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu. And Iotham slept with hys fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid his father, and Ahaz his sonne reigned in his steade.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Ahaz king of Iuda cōsecrateth his sonne in fier, and hath many battailes against the king of Israell. In the steade of Ahaz reigneth Hezekia hys sonne.

THe .xvii. yere of Pekah ye sonne of Remaliahu king of of Israel, * Ahaz the sonne of Iotham king of Iuda, began to reigne. Twenty yere olde was he, when he was made king, & reigned .xvi. yere in Ierusalem, and dyd not that which was right in the eyes of the Lord his God, like Dauid his father: but walked in the way of ye kinges of Israel, yea, and made * his sonne to go through the fier, after the abhominations of the heathen, whom the Lord cast out before the children of Israel. And he offred and burnt incense in the hilaulters, & on the hils, and vnder euery thicke tree. * Then came Rezin king of Siria, and Pekah sonne of Remaliahu king of Israell came vp to Ierusalem to fight. And they fought agaist Ahaz, but could not ouercome him.
At thesame tyme Rezin king of Siria brought Elath againe to Siria, and drou the Iewes thence. And the Sirians * came to Elath, & dwell therein vnto this day.

So Ahaz sent messengers to Thiglath Peleser, king of Assiria, saying: I am thy seruaūt and thy sonne, come vp and deli-uer me out of the hande of the kyng of B Siria, and out of the hande of the king of Israel which rise vp against me. And Ahaz toke the siluer and the golde that was founde in the house of the Lord and in the treasures of the kynges house, and sent a rewarde vnto the kyng of Assiria.
* And the king of Assiria cōsented vnto him. For ye king of Assiria wēt vp against Damasco. And when he had taken it, he caried the people away to Kir, and slewe Rezin. And kyng Ahaz went to Damasco to mete Thiglath Peleser kyng of Assiria. And when kyng Ahaz saw an aulter that was at Damasco, he sent to Uria ye Priest the paterne of the aulter, and the fashion of it, and all the workemanshyp therof. And Uria the priest made an aulter in al pointes lyke to the paterne which C kyng Ahaz had sent from Damasco. Euē so did Uria the Priest make it against kīg Ahaz came from Damasco. And so when the kyng was come from Damasco, he saw the aulter: and the kyng went to it, & offered theron. And he burnte hys burnt offeryng, and hys meate offeryng, and powred hys drynke offering and sprinkled the bloud of hys peaceofferynges besyde the aulter that was by the brasen aulter

aulter which was before the lord, and set it without the temple betwene the aulter & the temple of the Lorde, and put it on the northside of ye aulter. And king Ahaz commaunded Vria the priest and said: vpon ye great aulter set on fier in the morning the burnt offering, and in the euẽ the meatoffryng, and the kinges burnt sacrifice, and his meate offring, wt the burntoffryng of al the people of the land, and their meat offring, and their drink offrings: & powre therby, al ye bloud of ye sacrifice offringes. But the brasen aulter wil I come and se. And Vria the priest dyd accordyng to all thyngs as kyng Ahaz commaunded him.
D *And king Ahaz brake the sides of the botomes, and toke the lauer from of them, & toke downe ye lauatory frõ the of brasẽ oxen that wer vnder it: & put it vpon a pauement of stones. And the vail for the Sabboth (that thei had made in the house) and the kinges entrye without turned he to ye house of the Lord, for feare of the king of Assiria. The rest of the wordes ye cõcerne Ahaz, what he did: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the Kinges of Iuda? And Ahaz slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in ye citie of Dauid: and Hezekia his son reigned in his stede.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Hozea king of Israel is taken. And he and al his realme brought to the Assirians.

A In the .xii. yeare of Ahaz king of Iuda, begã Hozea the sonn of Ela to reigne in Samaria vpon Israel ix. yere, and did ye whiche was euil in the sight of ye lorde, but not as the kinges of Israell that wer before hym. And Salmanaser kyng of Assiria came vp against him: and Hozea became his seruãt and gaue him presents. And the kyng of Assiria found treason in Hozea: for he had sent two messegers to So, kyng of Egipt, and brought no present vnto the Kyng of Assiria, from yeare to yeare and therefore the king of Assiria toke him, and put him in prison. *And then the king of Assiria came vp throughout all the land, and gat vp against Samaria, & besieged it .iii yere. In the ninth yere of Hozea, ye king of Assiria toke Samaria, & caried Israel away vnto Assiria, & put them in Hala in Habor by the riuer of Goza, & in the cities of Medes. For it came to passe, ye the children of Israel sinned against the Lorde their god, which had brought them out of B the land of Egipt, from vnder the hand of Pharao king of Egipte, and feared other gods. And they walked in ye ceremonyes of the heathen, whom the lord cast out before the childrẽ of Israel: & in the ceremonies which the kings of Israel had made. And the children of Israel went about to hide those things ye wer not wel, from the lord their god. And they built them hilaulters in al their cities, bothe in the towers where thei kept watch, and also in the strong townes. And they made them Images & groues in euery hie hill, & vnder euery thick tree. And there they burnt incense in all the hilaulters, as did the heathen (whom the lord caried awaye before thẽ) & wrought wicked thinges to anger the lord withal. For they serued most vile ydols: wherof the lord had said vnto thẽ: Ye shal do no such thing. And the lorde testified in Israel, & in Iuda by all the prophetes, & by al the sears, saying: *Turne from your wicked waies, & kepe my commaundementes & my statutes, accordyng to all the law which I commaunded your fathers, & which I sent to you by my seruauntes the prophets. Notwithstanding, they would not heare, *but rather hardened their neckes, like to the stubbornes of their fathers, ye did not beleue in the lorde C their god. For they refused his statutes & his appointment ye he made with their fathers, & the witnesses (wherwith he wytnessed vnto them) and they folowed vanitie and became vain, & went after the heathen that were round about them: concerning whom, the lord had charged them, ye they should not do like them. But they left the commaundementes of the Lord their god, & made them ymages of metal, *euẽ two calues and made ydol groues, & worshipped al the host of heauẽ, & serued Baal. *And they sacrificed their sonnes and their daughters in fier, & vsed witchcraft, & enchantments, euen selling themselues to worke wyckednesse in the syght of the lord and to anger him. And the lorde was exceding wroth with Israel, and put them out of his sight, *that there was left but the tribe of Iuda only: Neuertheles, Iu- D da also kept not the commaundements of the Lorde their God, but walked in the ceremonies of Israell, whiche they made. And the Lorde cast vp all the seede of Israel, and vexed them, and delivered them into the handes of spoylers, vntyl he had cast thẽ out of his sight. For Israell deui-ded themselues from the house of Dauid, & made them a kyng, euen Jeroboam the sone of Nebat. And Jeroboam drew Israel away (that they should not folow the Lorde) and made them sin a great sin: for þ children of Israel walked in al þ sinnes of Jeroboam whiche he did, and departed not therfrom, vntyll the Lorde put Israel away out of his sight, as he had sayde by all his seruauntes the prophetes. And so was Israel caried away out of their own land to Assiria, euen vnto this day.

And the kyng of Assiria brought men from Babilon, from Cutha, from Aua, frõ Hanath, and from Sepharuaim, and put them in the cities of Samaria, in stede of the chyldren of Israel. And they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.
E And it fortuned, that at the beginning of theyr dwellyng there, they feared not the Lorde. And the Lorde sent lyons among them, whiche slew them. Wherefore men sayde to the kyng of Assiria: The nations which thou hast translated & put in the cities of Samaria, know not the law of the god of the land, therfore he hath set lions vpon them, & behold they slay thẽ because they know not the maner of worshippyng of the God of the lande. Then the king of Assiria commaunded, saying: cary thither one or twayne of the Priestes whom ye brought thence, and let them go and dwel there, and teache them the fashion how to serue the god of the countrey. And thẽ one of the priestes which they had caried thẽce came & dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they should feare the lorde. Howbeit euery nation made them Goddes of theyr own, & put thẽ in the houses of the hilaulters, which the Samaritans had made, e-uery nation in their cities, wherein they dwelt. The mẽ of Babilõ made Socoth, F Benoth, & the men of Cuth made Nergal and the mẽ of Hamath made Asima. The Auites made Nibbas, & Tharthak: And the Sepharuites burnt theyr chyldren in fyer for Adramelech and Anamelech: the Goddes of Sepharuaim. And so thei feared the Lorde and made them priests of þ hilaulters which sacrificed for them in the houses of þ hilaulters. And so they feared the Lorde and serued their own gods after the maner of the people whom thei caried thence. And vnto this day they do after the olde maner, and neither feare god, neyther do after their ordinaunces & customes, and after the lawe & commaunde-ment which the Lord cõmaũded the children of Jacob, * whom he called Israel.
And the lorde made an appointment with them, & charged them, saying: * feare none other gods, nor bow your selues to them, nor serue them, nor sacrifice to them: but feare the Lorde whiche brought you out of the lande of Egipt with great power, & a stretched out arme: hym feare, & to hym bow, & to hym do sacrifice. The statutes ordinaunces, lawe and commaundement which he wrote for you, see that ye be diligẽt to do for euermore: and feare not any other Gods. And the appointment that I haue made with you, see ye forgeat not, & feare none other gods: but the Lord your god ye shal feare, & he shal deliuer you out of the hands of al your enemies. Howbeit they did not hearken, but did after their olde custome. And so these nations feared the Lorde, and serued theyr ymages also, lyke as did their children, & their childres children. Euen as dyd theyr fathers, so do they vnto this daye.

The .xviii. Chapter.

Hezekia king of Juda putteth downe the brasen serpent, & destroyeth the ydols. Salmanasar bringeth Israel to the Assirians. The blaspheme of Sennacherib, or Sanherib.

IN the third yere of Hozea son of Ela king of Israel it came to passe, that Hezekia the son of Ahaz kyng of Juda dyd reygne. *
Twenty and fyue yeare olde was he when he began to reygne, and reygned .xxix. yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Abi, the daughter of Zacharia, and he did þ which is right in þ sight of þ lord, accor-dyng to all as dyd Dauid his father: * he B put away the hilaulters, and brake the ymages, and cutte downe the groues, & all

all to brake the * brasen serpent that Moses had made. For vnto those dayes the chyldren of Israell did burne sacrifyce to it, and he called it Nahestan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israell, so that after him was none lyke hym among all the kynges of Juda, neyther were there any suche before hym. For he claue to the lord and departed not from hym, but kept hys commaundementes, whiche the lord commaunded Moses. And the lord was with him, so that he prospered in all thynges whiche he tooke in hande. And he rebelled against the kyng of Assiria and serued him not. He smote the Philistines euẽ vnto Aza, and the coastes thereof, bothe castels where they kept watches, and strong cities.
C * And in the fourth yeare of king He-
4. Kinge xvii. a. zekia (which was the seuenth yere of Hozea, sonne of Ela kyng of Israel) it fortuned yͤ Salmanazer kyng of Assiria, came vp against Samaria and besieged it. And after .iii. yeres they toke it, euen in the .vi. yeare of Hezekia, that is to say, the nynth yeare of Hozea kyng of Israel. And Samaria was wonne. And the kyng of Assiria, did cary awaye Israel vnto Assiria, & put them in Halath and in Habor by the riuer of Gosã, & in the cities of the Me-des, because they would not herken vnto the voice of the lord their God, but transgressed his appoyntmente, and all that Moses the seruaunte of the Lorde commaunded, and would neyther heare them nor do them.
2. pa. xxxii. a * Therfore, in the .xiiii. yeare of kyng Hezekia, did Sennacherib kyng of Assy-Esay. xxxvi. a ria come vp againste all the strong cityes Ecclesia. xlviii. b of Juda, & toke them. And Hezekia kyng of Juda sent to the kyng of Assiria to Lachis, saying: I haue offended, depart from me, and all that thou puttest on me, that wyll I beare. And the king of Assiria appointed vnto Hezekia kyng of Juda, thre hundred talentes of siluer, and thirtye ta-lentes of gold. * And Hezekia gaue hym 4. Ki. xii. d al the siluer that was founde in the house of the lord, & in the treasures of yͤ kynges house. At the same seasõ did Hezekia rent of the doores of the temple of the lorde, & the pillers (which the said Hezekia kyng of Juda had couered ouer) and gaue thẽ to the kyng of Assiria.
And the king of Assiria sent Tharthan D and Rabsaris, & Rabsake, frõ Lachis to king Hezekia, with a great hoste agaynst Jerusalem. And they wente vp, and came to Jerusalem, and gat them vp, & stode by the condite of the vpper poole, whiche is in the way of the fullers field. And when they had called to yͤ king, there came oute to them, * Eliakim the sonne of Elkia, Mat. i. b. whiche was stewarde of housholde, and Sobna the Scribe, and Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder. And Rabsake sayde vnto them. Tell ye Hezekia, I praye you, thus sayeth the great kyng, euen the king of Assiria: What confydence is this that thou haste? Dooest thou speake suche a lyght woorde in dede? By counsel and power I wyll be ready to make warre. On whom then doest thou trust, that thou re-bellest agaynst me, * dooest thou truste to the staffe of this broken rede Egipte, on Es. xxxvi a whiche if a man leane, it wyll go into his Ez. xxix. a hande, and pearce it? Euen so is Pharao kyng of Egipte vnto al that trust on him. E * If ye say vnto me: we trust in the Lord 2. Paral. our God: Is not that he whose hilaulters xxxii. c and his other aulters, Hezekia hath putte downe? and hath sayde to Juda and Je-rusalẽ: ye shall worship before this aulter here in Jerusalem. Now therfore deliuer the wardes to my lord the king of Assiria that ye rebel not, and I wyl deliuer thee two thousand horses if thou be able to set riders vpon them. Why thynkeste thou scorne at the presence of one of the leaste Dukes of my masters seruants, & trustest to Egipt for charrettes and horsemenne?
Moreouer, am I nowe come without the bydding of the Lorde to this place, to destroy it? The Lorde sayde to me, goe vp to this lande and destroy it. And Eliakim the son of Elkia, and Sobna, and Joab, sayd vnto Rabsake: speake (I pray thee) to thy seruauntes in the Sirians language, for we vnderstande it: and talke not with vs in the Jewes tongue, in the eares of this people that are on the wall. And Rabsake sayde vnto them: hath my master sent me to thy maister and to thee, to speake these F woordes? Hath he not sent me because of yͤ men whiche sit on the wal, that they may eate their own dong, and drink their own pisse with you?
And so Rabsake stoode, & cried with a loude voyce in the Jewes language, and spake, saying: heare the saying of yͤ great king of Assiria. Thus saith yͤ king: let not Hezekia begile you, for he shal not be able to deliuer you out of my hande: neither let Hezekia make you to truste in the Lorde, saying: the Lord shall surely deliuer vs, & this citie shall not be geuen ouer into the hande

hande of the king of Assiria. Hearken not vnto Hezekia, for thus sayeth the kyng of Assiria. Deale kindly with me, and come out to me. And then eate euery mã of hys own vine, and of his own figge tree, and drinke euery mã of the water of his own well, till I come and fet you to as good a land as yours is: a land of corne and wine a lande of bread and vineyardes, a lande of oyle, of Oliue trees, & of honye, that ye may liue and not die. And hearkẽ not vnto Hezekia, for he begyleth you, saying: G the Lorde shall deliuer vs. * Hath euerye Esa. xx. b one of the Gods of the nations delivered his lande oute of the hande of the king of Assiria? Where is the god of Hamath, and of Arphad? and where is the God of Se-pharuaim, Hena and Iua? did thei deliuer Samaria oute of myne hande? and what God is among all the goddes of the nations, that hath deliuered his lande out of myne hande? Shall the Lord deliuer Jerusalem out of myne hand? But they that wer of the people helde theyr peace, and answered him not a worde, for ẏ king had commaunded, saying: aunswere hym not.
Then Eliakim which was the steward of housholde, and Sobnah the Scribe and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekia with their clothes rent, & tolde him the wordes of Rabsake.

The. xix. Chapter.

The Aungell of the Lord killeth an hundred and foure score and fiue thousand men of the Assirians. Sennacherib is killed of his owne sonnes.

SO it came to passe, ẏ whẽ A king Hezekia heard it, he rent his clothes, and put on sacke cloth: & cam into the house of * the Lorde, Esay. xxxvii and sent Eliakim whiche was the steward of hous-holde, and Sobna the Scribe, and the elders of the Priestes clothed in sacke, to Jsai the Prophete, the sonne of Amoz. And they sayde vnto hym, thus sayth Hezekia this daye is a day of tribulation and of rebuke and blasphemy. For the children are come to the birth, & there is no strength to be deliuered. Peraduenture ẏ lord thy god wyl heare al the wordes of Rabsake, whõ the king of Assiria his maister hath sente to raile on the liuing God, and to rebuke him with wordes which the lord thy God hath heard. And lifte thou vp thy prayer for the remnant that are left. So the seruauntes of king Hezekia came to Isai. B And Isai said vnto them: So shal ye saye to your maister. Thus saith the Lorde: be not afrayde of the woordes whiche thou hast heard, with which the yong mẽ of the king of Assiria haue railed on me. Behold I wil put him in another mynde, & he shal heare tidinges, and so returne to his own lande. * And I wil bring to passe, that he shal fal vpon the sweard, * euẽ in his own lande. And Rabsake wente backe againe, and founde the king of Assiria fighting against Libna: for he had heard howe that he was departed from Lachis. And when he heard men say of Thirhaka king of the blacke Moores: Behold, he is come out to fyghte agaynst thee, he departed and sent messengers vnto Hezekia, saying: Thus speake to Hezekia kyng of Juda, saying: let not thy God deceiue the in whom thou trustest, saying: Jerusalem shal not be de-liuered into the hand of ẏ king of Assiria.
Behold, thou hast heard what the kinges C of Assiria haue done to al lãdes, how they haue vtterly destroyed them And shalte thou (alone) escape? Haue the Gods of the heathen deliuered them which mine aun-cestries haue destroyed? As Gozan, and Haran, Rezeph, and the childrẽ of Eden, whiche were in Bithlasar? where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arphad, the king of the citie of Sepharuaim, and of Hena and Iua.
So Hezekia receyued the letter of the hande of the messengers, and red it: And Hezekia went vppe into the house of the Lorde, and layed it abroade beefore the lord. And Hezekia praied before the lord, and sayd: O Lord God of Israel, whiche dwellest betwene the Cherubs, thou arte God alone ouer all the kyngdomes of the earth: thou hast made heauen and earthe: Lord: bow downe thyne eare and heare.
Open Lorde thyne eyes (I beseche thee) and see: and heare the woordes of Sena-cherib whiche hath sent this man to raile on the liuing God. Of a truthe Lorde, the kinges of Assiria haue destroyed nations and theyr landes, & haue set fyer on theyr goddes: For they were no goddes, but the worke of the handes of mã, euen of wood D and stone. And they destroyed thẽ. Nowe therfore, O Lord our god, I besech thee, saue thou vs out of his hande, that all the kingdomes of the earth may knowe, that thou onely art the Lorde God. And Isai the son of Amos sente to Hezekia, saying: thus sayeth the Lord God of Israell: that whiche

whiche thou haste prayed me, concernyng Sennacherib kyng of Assiria, I haue heard it. This is therfore the worde that the lorde hath sayde of hym: The virgin, euen the daughter of Sion, hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne, (O thou king of Assiria) the daughter of Ierusalē hath shaken her head at thee. *Whō hast thou railed on, and whom hast thou blas-phemed: Against whom hast thou exalted thy voyce, and lifted vp thine eyes so hye: Euen againste the holy of Israell. By the hande of thy messengers thou hast rayled on the Lord, and sayd: with the multitude of my charrettes I am come vp to the toppes of the mountaines, euen a long by the sides of Libanon, and I wil cut down C the hie Ceder trees, and the lustye fyrre trees therof: and I will goe into the lodging of his nest, and into the wood of his plaine. I haue digged, & dronke straunge waters: and with the steppe of my goyng will I drye all the water pooles that are besieged. Hast ẏ not heard, howe I haue ordeyned suche a thyng a great while ago & haue prepared it from the begynnyng: And shal I not now bryng it forth, that it may destroye, and to bryng strong cities into waste heapes of stones: and the inhabitors of them shalbe of litle power, and faynt hearted, and confounded, & *shalbe lyke the grasse of the field, or grene herbe, or as the hay on the toppes of the houses: or as the corne that is vnripe, and smittē with blastyng. I know thy dwellyng, thy commyng out & thy going in, (and thy way) & thy fury agaynst me. And because thou ragest against me and thinkest thy self so blessed: this is come vp vnto mine eares, & I will put mine hoke in thy nostrelles, and my bit in thy lippes, & will bring thee backe agayne the same way thou camest.
And this shalbe a signe vnto thee (O Hezekia) ye shall eate this yeare of suche thinges as growe of themselues: and the next yeare, such as come vp of those that did growe of their owne accorde. And the third yere sowe ye and reape: plant vyneyardes, and eate the fruites therof. And it that is escaped and left of the daughter of Iuda, shal yet again take rooting down-warde, and beare fruit vpward. For oute of Ierusalem shal goe a remnaunt, and a number ẏ shal escape out of mount Sion, the zeale of the lorde of hostes shall bryng this thyng to passe. Wherfore, thus sayeth the lord concernyng the king of Assiria: he shal not come to this citie, nor shote an a-row into it, nor come before it with shield, G nor cast banke against it: but shal go back againe the way he came, & shall not come into this citie, saith the lord. For I wil defende this citie to saue it, for myne owne sake, and for Dauid my seruauntes sake.

And it came to passe, that the selfsame night the aungel of the Lorde wente out, and smote in the hoste of the Assirians, an hundreth foure score and fyue thousande.
And when the remnaunte were vp earlye in the mornyng, they sawe they were al Tobi.i.d. dead corpses. *And so Sennacherib king of Assiria auoided and departed, & wente agayne, and dwelt at Niniue. And it for-tuned ẏ as he was in a temple woorshippyng Nisroch his God, Adramelech, and Sarezar his own sonnes smote him with ẏ sweard. And they escaped into the lande of Armenia, and Asarhaddon hys sonne reygned in his stede.

The .xx. Chapter.

Hezekia is sicke and receiueth the signe of hys health. He receiueth rewards of Benhadad, and is reprehended of Isai, because he shewed him the tre-sure. He dyeth, and Manasse his sonne reygneth in his stede.

ABout that time *was He- A ii. Parali. zekia sick vnto the death. xxxii.f And the Prophete Isai Esaye the son of Amoz came to xxxviii.a. hym, and sayde vnto him.
Thus sayth the lorde, put thy housholde in an order for thou shalt dye, and not liue. And Hezekia turned his face to the wal, and prayed to the lord saying: I beseche thee nowe, O lorde, remember howe I haue walked before thee in truthe, & with a perfect heart, and haue done that whiche is good in thy syght: and Hezekia wept sore.

And it fortuned, that afore Isai was gone out into the middle of the courte, the woorde of the Lorde came to hym saying: turne agayne, and tel Hezekia the captain of my people. Thus sayeth the Lorde god of Dauid thy father: I haue hearde thy prayer, and sene thy teares and behold I wil heale thee, so that on the thirde daye, thou shalt goe vp into the house of ẏ lord.
And I wil adde vnto thy daies yet fiftene B yeare, and wyll delyuer thee and thys ci-tie out of the hande of the kyng of Assiria and wil defende this citie for myne owne sake, and for Dauid my seruauntes sake.
And Isai sayde: Take a lompe of figges.

And they toke it, and layed it on the sore, and he recouered.

And Hezekia said vnto Isai: what shall be the signe that the lord will heale me, & that I shall goe vp into the house of the lorde the thirde daye? Isai answered: thys signe shalt thou haue of the lorde, that the

Eccles xlviii.c. lord wil doe that he hath spoken. *Shall the shadow goe forward ten degrees, or goe backe agayne ten degrees? Hezekia aunswered: it is a light thyng for the shadow to goe down ten degrees: (neyther is that my desier) but yf the shadowe goe backwarde ten degrees, it is no lyghte thyng. And Isai the Prophete called vnto ye lord Eccle. xlviii.c. * and he brought the shadow ten degrees backewarde, by which it had gone downe in the diall of Ahas.

Esaye xxxix.a *The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan Kyng of Babilon,

C sent letters and a present to Hezekia, for he had heard how that Hezekia was sick. And Hezekia was glad of them, and shewed them all his treasure house, siluer, golde, odours, precious oyntment, all the house of hys armourye, and all that was found in his treasures: ther was nothing in his house, and in all hys realme, that Hezekia shewed them not. And Isai the Prophete came vnto kyng Hezekia, and sayd vnto him: What said these men, and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekia said: they be come from a farre countrey, euen from Babilon. And he sayde agayn: what haue they sene in thine house. Hezekia answered al the thinges that are in my house haue they seene: there is nothyng among my treasures, that I haue not shewed them. And Isai said vnto Hezekia: Heare the worde of the Lorde. Beholde the daies come, that al that is in thy

And Hezekia sayd vnto Isai: welcome be the worde of the Lord, which thou hast spoken. And he said: shall there not be peace and truth in my daies? The remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Hezekia and all his power, & howe he made a poole and a condite, & brought water into the citie: are they not writte in

ii. Paral xxxii. f. the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Iuda? *And Hezekia slept with his fathers, and * Manasse his sonne reygned in his stede.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Wicked Manasse restoreth agayn the Idols and after dyeth: in whose stede Amon his sonne succedeth, whiche is killed of his owne seruauntes. After him reigneth faithfull Iosia, whō we vse to cal Iosias, or Iosiahu.

Manasse* was .xii. yere old when he began to reigne and reigned fiftye & fiue yeare in Ierusalem: hys mothers name also was Hephziba: and he did euil in the syght of the Lord, euen after the abhominations of the heathen whom the * lorde cast out before the children of Israel. For he went & built vp the hilaulters *which Hezekia his father had destroyed. And he reared vp aulters for Baal, & made ydoll groues (as did Ahab king of Israel,) & worshipped all the host of heauen, & serued thē. And he built aulters in the house of the lord, of whiche the lord said: *In Ierusalem will I putte my name. And he built aulters for all the hoste of heauē, euen in two courtes of the house of the lord. *And he offred his sōnes in fyer, and gaue hede vnto witchecraft & sorcerye, and maynteyned workers wyth spirits, and tellers of fortunes, & brought much wickednesse in the sight of the lorde to anger hym. And he put an ymage of a groue (that he had made) euen in the temple, of whiche the lord had sayd to Dauid,

B and to Salomon his son: * in this house, and in Ierusalem (whiche I haue chosen out of all tribes of Israell) wyl I put my name for euer. Neyther wyll I make the feete of Israel moue any more oute of the lande which I gaue their fathers, so that they wyll obserue and doe all that I haue cōmaunded them, and accordyng to al the law that my seruaunt Moses commaunded them. But they herkened not, & Manasse ledd thē out of the waye to doe more wickedly than did ye heathen people, whō the Lord destroyed before the children of Israel. And ye lord spake by his seruaunts the Prophetes, saying: because Manasse king of Iuda hath done suche abhominations and hath wrought more wickedlye than al that the Amorites (which were before hym) dyd, and hath made Iuda sinne also with his ydols: Therfore, thus sayth the lorde God of Israel. *Beholde, I will

beyng suche euyl vpon Jerusalem & Juda, that whoso heareth of it, bothe hys eares shall tyngle. And I wyll stretche ouer Jerusalem, the squaryng line of Samaria, and the plommet of the house of Ahab. And I will wipe out Jerusalem, as a manne wipeth a dishe, and whẽ he hath wiped it, turneth it vpside downe. And I will leaue the remnaunt of mine enherytaunce, and deliuer them into the hand of theyr enemies, and they shall bee robbed and spoiled of all their aduersaries, euen because they haue done euill in my syghte, and haue angred me, since the time theyr fathers came out of Egipt vntil this day. And Manasse shed innocent bloude excedyng much, till he replenished Jerusalem from corner to corner, besyde his sinne wherewith he made Juda to synne and to doe euill in the syght of the Lord. The rest of the wordes that concerne Manasse, and all that he did, and his sin that he synned: are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Manasse slept with his fathers, and was buried in his own house, euen in the garden of Vsa: and Amon his son reygned in his stede.

Amon was .xxii. yeare olde, when he beganne to reygne, and he reygned twoo yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Mesumeleth ẏ daughter of Harum of Iotba. And he dyd euil in ẏ syght of the Lorde (as his father Manasse did) and walked in all the way that his father walked in, and serued the ydols that his father serued, and worshipped them. And he forsooke the Lorde God of his fathers, and walked not in the waye of the lorde. And the seruauntes of Amon conspired agaynste hym, and slewe the Kyng in hys owne house. And the people of the lande slewe all them that had conspired against kyng Amon: and the people made Josia his sonne king in his stede. The reste of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thynges he did: are they not written in ẏ booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And they buryed him in his sepulchre, in the garden of Vsa: and Josia his sonne reigned in his stede.

faithfully. *And Helkia the hie priest said ii. Parali vnto Saphan the Scribe: I haue founde xxxiiii. c.
the boke of the law in ẏ house of the lorde; and Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan, & he red in it. And Saphan ẏ Scribe came to the king, and brought him word again and sayde: thy seruauntes haue bestowed the money (that was found in the temple) and haue deliuered it vnto them that do ẏ worke, and that haue the ouersight of the house of the lord. And Saphã the Scribe shewed the king, saying: Helkia the priest hath deliuered me a booke. And Saphan red in it before the kyng. And it fortuned, C that whẽ the king had heard the wordes of the boke of the law, he rent his clothes.
And the Kyng commaunded Helkia the priest, and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan and Achbor the son of Michaia, and Saphan the Scribe, and Asahia a seruant of the kynges, saying: go ye and enquire of Jer. xxi. a the lord for me and for the people, and for all Juda, concernyng the wordes of thys booke ẏ is founde. For great is the wrath of the lorde that is kyndled agaynst vs, because our fathers haue not herkned vnto the words of this boke, to do according vnto all that, which is written therin for vs.

vs. So Helkia the hie priest, and Ahikam Achbor and Saphan, and Asahia wente vnto Hulda the Prophetesse, the wyfe of Sullam, the son of Thikua, the sonne of Harhan keper of the Wardrope: whiche prophetesse dwelt in Jerusalem in þ house of the doctrine, and they commoned with D her. And she aunswered them: thus sayth the Lord God of Israel. Tell the manne that sent you to me, thus sayeth the lord: beholde, I wil bring euill vpon this place and on the inhabitors therof: (euen al the wordes of the boke which þ king of Juda hath read) because they haue forsaken me and haue burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger me with all the workes of theyr handes. My wrath also shalbe kindled against this place, and shal not be quēched.
But to the king of Juda (whiche sent you to aske councell of the Lord) so shal ye say thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israell, as touching þ wordes which ye haue heard: Because thyne heart did melt, and because thou hast humbled thy selfe before me the Lorde, when thou heardest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabitors of the same (howe that they should be destroyed and accursed,) and hast rent thy clothes & wepte before me: of that also haue I heard, sayeth the Lorde. Beholde therefore I wyll receiue thee vnto thy fathers, and thou shalt be put into thi graue in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the euill whiche I wyll bring vppon this place. And they brought the kyng word again.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

Josia readeth Deuteronomy before the people. He putteth downe the Idols after he had killed the Priestes therof. He kepeth Passeouer. He was kylled in Mageddo, and his sonne Jehoahas reygneth in his stede. After he was taken his sonne Jehoakim was made kyng.

A ij. Paral. xxxiiii. f. AND * then the kyng sente, and there gathered vnto him all the elders of Juda and of Jerusalem. And the king wente vp into þ house of the Lord, with al þ men of Juda and all the inhabitours of Jerusalem, with the priestes and Prophetes, & all the people bothe small and great. And ij. Esd. viij a he read in the eares of them * al þ wordes of the boke of the couenaunt, whiche was Jo. xxiiii. f. founde in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stoode by a piller, * and made a couenant before the lorde that they shoulde walke after the Lorde, and kepe his commaundementes, his witnesses and his statutes, with all their hearte, and all theyr soule, and make good the wordes of this appointment that were written in þ fore-sayd boke. And al the people consented to the appointment.

And the king commaunded Helkia the hie Prieste, and the inferioure priestes, and the kepers of þ ornamentes, to bryng out of the temple of the lord, al the vessels that were made for Baal, for the ydols groues, and for all the hoste of heauen.
And he burnt them withoute Jerusalem in the fieldes of Cedron, and caried the ashes of thē into Bethel. And he put down the mynysters of Baal, whom the kynges of Juda had founded to burne incense in the * hilaulters and cities of Juda, þ were rounde about Jerusalem: and also them þ burnte incense vnto Baal to the sunne, the Moone, to the planettes, and to all the host of heauen. And he brought out the ydols groue from the temple of the Lord without Jerusalem vnto the broke Cedrō, & burnt it ther at the broke Cedrō, and stampt it to poudre, and cast the duste therof vpon the graues of the childre of þ people. And he brake down þ selles of the males stues þ wer by the house of þ lorde wher þ women woue hanginges for þ Idols groue. And he brought al the priests out of the cities of Juda, & defiled the hilaulters where the priestes had burnte incense, euen frō Geba to Beer Seba: & destroyed the aulters of the gates, that wer in the entring in of the gate of Josua the gouernour of the citie, whiche were (as a man goeth in) on the left hand of the gate of the citie. Neuerthelesse, the Priestes of the hilaulters came not vp to the aulter of the Lorde in Jerusalem, saue onelye they did eate of the sweete bread among theyr C brethrē. And he defyled * Topheth, which is in the valley of the childrē of Hinnom: because no man shoulde offer his sonne or his daughter in fyre to Moloch: he putte down the horses that the kings of Israell had geuen to the sunne, at the entring in of the house of the Lorde, by the chamber of Nathanmelech the chamberlayn, whiche was ruler of the suburbes, and burnt the charrettes of the sunne with fyer. And the aulters that were on the toppe of the parloure of Ahaz (whiche the kynges of Juda had made) and the * aulters whiche Manasse had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lord, did the king break down, down, and ran thence, and caste the dust of them into the broke Cedron.

And the hilaulters that were before Jerusalem on the right hand of the mounte Oliuete, *(which Salomon the king of Israel had builded for Asthatoth the idol of the zidons, and for Chamos the ydol of the Moabites, and for Milchom the abhominable ydol of the children of Ammō) those the king defiled, and brake the ymages, & cut down the ydoll groues, & filled their places with the bones of mē.
Moreouer * the aultare ÿ was at Bethel, ÿ hilauter made by Jeroboam, the sonne of Nebat (which made Israel sin) both the aulter and also the hil, he brake down, & burnt the hilaulter and stampt it to powder, and burnt the ydol groue.
And as Josia turned himselfe, he spyed the graues that were in the mount, and sent, & fet the bones out of the graues, & burnt them vpon the aulter to polute it, according to the worde of the lord, ÿ the man of God proclaimed * which told the same wordes. Then he said: what graue stone is yonder that I see? And the mē of the city told him: it is the sepulchre of the man of God, whiche cāme from Juda, & told the self same thinges that thou hast done to the aulter of Bethel. And he said, lette him bee: see that no man moue hys bones. And so his bones wer saued with the bones of a Prophet that came out of Samaria. And all the houses of the hilaulters in the cities of Samaria, which the kinges of Israel had made to anger (the Lord) withal, those Josia put out of ÿ waye, & did to them according to all the actes that he had done in Bethel. And he sacrificed all ÿ priestes of the hilaulters that were there, euen vpon the aulters, and burnt mens bones vpon thē, and returned to Jerusalem. And the king commaunded al the people, saying: * kepe the feast of the passeouer vnto the lord your God, as it is written in the booke of his couenaūt. * There was no passeouer holden like that from ÿ dayes of the Judges that iudged Israel, and in all the dayes of the kinges of Israell, & of the kinges of Juda. In ÿ .xviii. yeare of king Josia, was this passeouer holden to the lord in Jerusalē. And therto workers with spirites & sothsayers, images, idols & all the abhominations that were espied in the land of Juda & in Jerusalē, those did Josia put out of the way, to perfourme the wordes of the law which wer written in the boke ÿ Helkia the priest founde in ÿ house of the lord: like vnto him was there no king before him, that turned to the lord with all his heart, with all hys soule, & al his might, according to al the law of Moses, neither after him arose there any such as he. Notwithstanding, the lord turned not frō the fearcenesse of his great wrath (wherwith he was angry against Juda) because of al ÿ prouocation that Manasse had prouoked hym withal. And the lorde saide, * I will put Juda also oute of my sight, as I haue done away Israel: & wil cast of this citie Jerusalē, which I haue chosen, and the house of which I saied, my name shal be there. The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Josia, and al that he did: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? * In his daies Pharao Necho, king of Egipt wēt vp against the king of Assiria to ÿ riuer of Euphrates. And king Josia went against him, & was slaine of hī at Magiddo, whē he had seen him. And his seruauntes caried him dead frō Magiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, & buried him in his owne sepulchre. And the people of the land, toke Jehoahaz the son of Josia, & annoynted him, and made him king in his fathers steade. Jehoahaz was .xxiii. yeare olde when he began to raigne, & raighed thre monethes in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Hamiel the daughter of Jeromia of Libna. And he did euil in the sight of the lord, according to all thinges as his fathers hadde done. And Pharao Necho put him in bondes at Ribla in the lād of Hamath, that he should not raigne in Jerusalē: and put ÿ land to a tribute of an hundred talentes of siluer, & a talente of gold. And Pharao Necho made Eliakim the sōne of Josia king in ÿ rowme of Josia his father, and turned his name to Jehoakim, and toke Jehoahaz awaye, which whē he came to Egipt, died there.
And Jehoakim gaue the siluer and the gold to Pharao, & taxed the lād, to geue the mony according to ÿ request of Pharao requiring of euery man (accordig to their habilitie) siluer & golde, euen of the people of the land, to geue vnto Pharao Necho, Jehoakī was .xxv. yere olde whē he began to raigne, & he raigned .xi. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Zebuda the daughter of Pedaia of Ruma. And he did that which was euill in the sight of the Lord, according to al thinges as his fathers had done.

¶ The.xxiiii.Chapter.

Jehoakim dieth. Jerusalem is besieged of the Babilonians. Jehoakim yeldeth himself to the king of Babilon. And in his rowme came Mathaniah, which was called Zedekiah.

In his daies came Nabuchodonozor, king of Babilon vp, and A Jehoakim became his seruaūte thre yere, & then turned & rebelled against him. And the lord sent vpō him men of warre from among the Caldees, from among the Sirians oute of the Moabites, and from the children of Ammon: and sent them against Juda to destroye it, according to the saying of the Lorde, which he spake by his seruaūtes the Prophetes. Onely at the bidding of the Lorde happened it so to Juda, to put them oute of his sight, for the sinnes of Manasse, according to all that he did, & for the innocente bloud that he shed, and filled Jerusalem with innocente bloude, and the lord would not be reconciled.

The rest of the wordes that concerne
B Jehoakim and all that he dyd: are they not writte in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And so Jehoakim slepte with his fathers: & *Jehoachin his sonne raigned in his steade. And the king of Egipte came nomore oute of his lande: for the king of Babilon hadde taken from the river of Egipt, vnto the river of Euphrates, all that pertained to the king of Egipte. Jehoachin was eightene yere olde, and raigned in Jerusalē thre monethes. His mothers name also was Nehusta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which was euil in the sight of the Lord, according to all as his father had done.

2.Par.36.a. Jer.37.a. Jer.lii.

The.xxv.Chapter.

Jerusalem is besieged of Nabuchodonozor otherwise called Nabuchadnezer, and it and the temple are both burnte. The sonnes of Zedekia are slaine before his eyes, and after are his owne eyes putte oute. Juda is brought to Babilon, and after is Jehoachin exalted.

And it fortuned, ✠ that in the ninth year of his raigne, the tenth daye of the tenth moneth: Nabuchadnezer king of Babilon came, he and all his host against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and made engins againste it on euerye side. And the citie was besieged vnto the eleuenth yeare of king Zedekia. ✠ And the.ix.daye of the monethe, there was so great hunger in the citie, that there was no bread for the people of the lande. And the citie was broken vp and all the men of armes fled by nighte, by a waye thorowe a gate, whiche is betwene two walles by ȳ kings gardein, B the Chaldees lying about the Citie. And the kyng wente the waye towarde the plaine.

plaine. And the souldiers of the Chaldees folowed after the king, and toke him in the plaine of Jericho: and all his armye wer scattered awaye frō him, (and lef him) So they toke the king, and brought him to Nabuchadnezer the king of Babilon to Ribla, wher they reasoned with him.
And they slew the sonnes of Zedekia before his eyes: and he put oute the eyes of Zedekia, and fettered him with two chaines, and caried him to Babilon.
C And the .vii. day of the .v. moneth whiche is the .xix. yeare of king Nabuchadnezer king of Babilō, came Nabusaradā a seruaunte of the king of Babilon, and chief captaine of the men of warre, unto Jerusalem, and burnt the house of the lord, & the kinges house, and al the houses of Jerusalem, and all great houses burnt he w fire. And all ẏ souldiars of ẏ Chaldees that were with the chiefe captaine of the mē of warre, broke down the wal-les of Jerusalem rounde about. But the reste of the people that were lefte in the citie, and them that were fled to the king of Babilon, with the remnaunt of the cō-men people, did Nabusaradan the chiefe captaine of the men of warre cary awaye but the captaine of the souldiers lefte of the poore of the land to dresse the vines, and to till the grounde.
¶ And the pillers of brasse that were in the house of the Lorde, and the sockets, & the brasē lauatory that was in the house of the Lord, did the Chaldees breake, & D caried al the brasse of them to Babilon.
And the pottes, shouels, dressing kniues, spones, and al the vesselles of brasse that they ministred in, tooke they awaye.
And the fire pannes, and basens, & suche thinges as were of golde, and of siluer, them toke the chiefe captaine away: euē two pillers, on lauatory, and the sockettes whiche Salomon had made for the house of the Lord. The brasse of al these vessels was without weight. The heigth of the one piller was .xviii. cubites, and the head thereon was brasse, and three cubites hie: and upō the head was there a wrethen worke, and pomegranates rounde aboute, all of brasse. And of the-same fashion was the second piller, with a wrethen worke.
E And the chiefe captaine of the menne of warre, toke Saraia ẏ chief Priest, and Zephoniah the hiest Priest saue one, and the thre kepers of the holy thinges. And out of ẏ citie he toke a chamberlain, that had the ouersight of the men of warre, & v. men of thē that were euer in ẏ kinges presence, whiche were found in the citie:
and him that was Scribe to the captain of the hoste, which brought out the people of the land to warre, and three score men of the people of the land, that were founde in the citie. And Nabusaradā the chiefe captaine of the men of warre toke these, and brought thē to the king of Ba-bilon to Ribla. And the king of Babilon smote them, and slew them at Ribla in the hande of Hanath. And so Juda was caried awaye out of their lands.
Howbeit, there remained people in the F lande of Juda, whom Nabuchadnezer, king of Babilon lefte, and made Gedalia the son of Ahikam the sonne of Saphan ruler ouer them. And al the captaines of the souldiers & other men, heard that the king of Babilon had made Gedalia go-uernour: and there came to Gedalia to Mazphah, Ismael the son of Nathania, Johanan the son of Karea, Saraia the sone of Thanhumeth the Nethophatite, and Jazaania the sonne of Maachati, & their men. And Gedalia sware to them, and to the men whom they had with the and said unto them: feare not ye because ye are the seruauntes of the Chaldees:
dwell in the lande, and serue the king of Babilon and ye shalbe wel. But it chaū-ced in the seuenth moneth, that Ismaell the sonne of Nethania, the sonne of Elisama, of the kinges bloud, came, and ten men with him, & smote Gedalia, that he died: and so he did the Jewes, and the Chaldees that wer with him at Mizpa.
And all the people both small and great, and the captaines of warre arose & came G to Egipt, for they wer afraide of ẏ Chaldees. Notwithstādinge, yet in the seuen & thirty year after Jehoachin king of Juda was caryed away, the seuen & twenty day of the twelueth moneth, Euilmero-dach king of Babilon, the same year that he began to raigne, did lift up the head of Jehoachin king of Juda out of the prisō, and spake kindly to him, & set his seat aboue the seate of ẏ kinges that wer with him in Babilon, and chaunged his prisō garmentes. And he did euer eate breade before him, al ẏ daies of his life. His por-cion was a continuall porcion that was assigned him of the king, euery day a certaine as long as he liued.

and of Gad, and ẏ halfe tribe of Manasse were fighting men, & able to beare shild and sweard, and to shote with bowe, exercised in warre, euen foure and fortie thousand, seuen hundred and thre score, ẏ wēt at out the warre, And they fought with the Hagarites, with Jetur Nephis and Nodab. And they wer helped of the Lord against thē, & the Hagarites wer deliuered into their hand, and so wer all that wer with thē. For they cried to god in the battail, and he heard them, because they put their trust in him.
And they toke of their cattell, & of their camels fifty thousand, and two hundred and fifty thousand shepe, and two thousand asses, and of the soules of mē an hūdred thousande, & there fell many wounded, because the warre was of god. And they dwelt in their stedes, vntil the time that they wer caried away. And the children of the half tribe of Manasse, dwelte in the land, from Basan vnto Baal Her- D mon, & Senir, and vnto mount Hermō: for they were growen to a great multitude. And these were the heades of the housholdes of their fathers: Epher and Jesi, Eliel, and Azriel, Jeremia & Hoda-uia, and Jaohdiel, strong men & valiāt, famous men and heades of the houshol-des of their fathers. And they transgressed against the god of their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of ẏ people of the land, whom God destroyed before thē: and god stirred vp the spirite of Phul, king of Assiria and the spirite of Thiglath Pilneser, king of Assiria, and caried thē away: euē the Rubenites, the Gaddites & the halfe tribe of Manasse, & brought thē vnto Halah, Habor, Hara, and to the riuer Gosan, vnto this daye.

and bowmen, and had many sonnes, and sonnes sonnes, and hundred and fifty. Al these are of the sonnes of Ben Jamin.

The .ix. Chapter.

Of the priestes, and Leuites, and of their offices.

A And so al Israel numbred by kinredes, beholde they are written in the booke of the kinges of Israel and of Juda, and wer caried away to Babilon, for their trangression. Euē the olde inhabitors that dwelt in ther owne possessions and cities, the Israelites, the priestes, Leuites, and Nethenei.
And in Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Juda, of the children of Ben Jamin, & of the childrē of Ephraim and Manasse: Uthai the sonne of Amihud, the sonne of Omri, the son of Imri, the sonne of Beni: of the children of Phares, the sonne of I. Esd. xi. a. Juda. And Siloni, Asaia the eldest and his sonnes. And of the sonnes of Zerah, B Jehuel and their brethren. vi. C. & ninty.
And of the sonnes of Ben Jamin: Salu, the sonne of Mesullam, the sonne of Hodauia, the sonne of Senua: and Jibnia the sonne of Jeroham. And Ela the sōne of Uzi, the sonne of Michri. And Mesul-lam the sonne of Sephacia, the sonne of Rahuel the sonne of Jibnia. And their brethren according to their kinredes. ix.
C. lvi. All these wer principal men, and auncient in the housholdes of their fathers. And of the priestes: Jedaia, Jehoiarib, and Jachin. Azaria the sonne of Helkia, the sonne of Mesullam, the sōne of Zadok, the sonne of Maraioth, the son of Ahitob, the chiefest in ye house of god.
And Adaiah the sonne of Jeroham the sonne of Phashur, the sonne of Melchia.
And Maasi, the sonne of Adiel, the sonne of Jehezrah, the sonne of Mesullam, the sonne of Mesillomith, the sonne of Immor. And their brethren which wer hea-des of the auncient housholdes of their fathers. M. vii. C. and thre score actiue men, for the work of the seruice of ye hou-C se of God: And of the Leuites, Semeia the sonne of Haasub, the sonne of Azricā, the sonne of Hasabaia, of the sonnes of Merari. And Bacbaker and Heres and Galal. And Mathania the sonne of Mi-chah, the sonne of Zichri, the sonne of Asaph. And Obadia the sonne of Semeia, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Iduthū.
And Berechia the sonne of Asa, the sōne of Elkana that dwelt in the villages of Netophatites. The porters were Sallu, Acub, Colmon, Ahimon: and their brother Sallum was the chiefe: For they watched hitherto, euen vnto the kinges gate eastward, thorowout the tentes of the children of Leui. And Sallū the sone of Core, the sonne of Abiasaph, the sone of Corah, and his brethren the Corahi-tes (of the house of their father) had their busines and office to kepe the porches of the tabernacle, and their fathers ye host of the Lorde, kept the entring.
And Phinehes the sōne of Eleazar was D their foreguide, and the Lord was with him. And Zacharia the sonne of Meselemia kept the watch before the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. All these were chosen men to kepe the thresholdes, euen ii. C. and. xii. and throughout all the ge-nealogie, were they numbred in their villages. And them did Dauid and Samuel the sear institute, because of their fidelitie. So they and their children had the ouersight of the gates of the house of the Lord, euen of the tabernacle to kepe the.
In foure quarters dyd they kepe ye watche: towarde the easte, weste, north, and E south. And their brethren remained in ye countrey, and came after seuen dayes frō time to time with them. For the Leuites (which had the ouersight of the vestries and treasures of the house of God) were vnder the custodie of foure notable porters: and they lay round about the house of God: because the keping thereof pertained to them, and they had the keyes to open euerye morning. And certaine of them had the rule of the ministring vessels, and brought thē in and out by tale.
Some of them wer appointed to ouersee the vessels and all the ornamentes of the sanctuary, and the floure, wine, oyle, frā-kensence, and swete odours. And certain of the sonnes of the priestes made oint-mentes of the swete odours. And Ma-thathia one of the Leuites, whiche was the eldest sonne of Sallum ye Corathite, F had the ouersight of the thiges that wer made in ye fryingpan. And other of their brethrē the sōnes of Cahath, had ye ouersight of ye shewbred which they prepared euery Sabboth. These are ye singers, euē aūciēt fathers of ye Leuites which dwelt in separate chābers, & wer free: for they had to do (in the tēple) both daye & night: These wer aūciēt fathers of ye Leuites in their their generations, & dwelt at Jerusalē.

And in Gibeon dwelt Abi Gibeon, & Je-hiel, whose wife was called Maacha, his G eldest sonne was Abdon, Themzur, Cis, Baal, Ner, and Nadab, Gedor, Ahia, zacharia and Mikloth. And Mikloth begat Simean. And they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalē, euen hard by thē. And Ner begat Cis, and Cis begat i.Re.xi.a Saul. And Saul begat Jehonathan, i.Pa.8.a Malchisua, Abinadab and Esbaal. And the sone of Jehonathā was Meribbaal.
And Meribbal begat Micah: and ỹ son-nes of Micah wer Pithon, Melech and Thahrea. And Ahaz begat Jahra: Jahra begat Almaneth, Almaneth, zimri: zimri begatte Moza: Moza begatte Binea, whose sonne was Rephaia, and his sōne was Elasa, and his sonne Azel. And Azel, hadde sixe sonnes, whose names are these: Azricā, Bochru, Ismael, Searia, Obadia and Hanan. These are the son-nes of Azel.

The.x.Chapter.

The battaille of Saul against the Philistines: in which he dieth and his sonnes also.

i.Reg.xxxi.a AND ỹ Philistines fought againste Israel. And the mē of Israell fled before the Philistines, and were ouerthrowen and wounded in mounte Gilboa. And the Philistines folowed, & were fierce after Saul and his sonnes, & the Philistines smote Jehonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchisua, the sonnes of Saule. And the battail went sore against Saul and the archers found him, B and he was wounded of shoters. Then Jud.ix.g said Saul to his wepō bearer: *draw thy i.Re.xxxi.b sweard, and thrust me thorow therwith that these vncircūcised come not and do me shame, but his weapō bearer would not, for he feared exceadingly. So Saul caught a swearde and fell vpon it. And when his harnesbearer sawe that Saul was dead, he fell on a swearde also, and died. And thus Saul and his thre sōnes, and all they of his house dyed together.
And when al the men of Israel that wer in the valey saw how they fled, and that Saul and his sonnes wer dead, they forsoke their cities, and ranne awaye, and the Philistines came, and dwelte in thē.
C *And it fortuned, ỹ on the morow when i.Re.xxxi.a the Philistines came (to strip the dead bodyes) they founde Saul and his sōnes ouerthrowen in mount Gilboa.

And when they had stript him, they toke his head and his harnesse, and sent them into the lande of the Philistines rounde about to shew them vnto their idols, & to the people. And they put his harnesse in the house of their God, and set vp hys head in the temple of Dagon. And when al they of Jabes in Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, they arose (all the strongest of them) and fette D away the body of Saul, and the bodyes of his sonnes, and brought them to Jabes, and buryed the bones of them vnder an oke in Jabes, and fasted seuen dayes.
So Saule dyed for his trespas, that he trespassed against the Lorde, in that he kept not the word of the lord, and in that he sought and asked counsaile of a womā that wroughte with a spirite, and asked not of the Lorde. And therefore he slue him, and tourned the kingdom vnto Da-uid the sonne of Isai.

¶ The.xi.Chapter.

After the death of Saul, is Dauid annoynted in Hebron. The Jebusites rebell against Dauid, from whiche he taketh the towre of Sion His men are numbred.

THen all Israel gathered them- A selues to Dauid vnto Hebrō,* ii.Re.v.a saying: behold, we be thy bones and thy flesh. And moreouer in time paste, euen when Saul was king, thou leddest Israel oute and in. And the Lorde thy god said vnto thee: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt bee captaine ouer my people Israel.
Therfore came al the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed Dauid king ouer Israel, according to the word of the Lorde by the hande of Samuel.
And Dauid and all Israel went to Je- B rusalē, whiche is Jebus: where as were i.Re.xvi. the Jebusites the inhabitours of the lād. a.
And the inhabitours of Jebus sayde to Dauid: thou commest not here. Neuer-thelesse, Dauid wanne the castel of Siō, whiche is called the citie of Dauid. And ii.Re.v.b Dauid saide: whosoeuer smiteth the Jebusites firste, shalbee the principall captaine, and a Lorde.
So Joab the sonne of zeruia went firste vp, and was made the chiefe captaine.
And Dauid dwelte in the castel Siō, and therfore they called it the citie of Dauid.
And

And he builte the citie on euery syde, euẽ from Millo round aboute. And Ioab repaired the rest of the citie.
And Dauid prospered, and waxed great.
Re.23.a And the Lorde of hostes was with him.
C These are the principal menne of power whom Dauid hadde, and that claue to him in hys kingdome with al Israell, to make him king: accordyng to the worde of the Lorde vnto Israell. And this is the number of the mighty menne whom Dauid had: Iosobeam the sonne Hach-mont, the chief among thirty: he lifte vp his speare againste thzee hundred and wounded them at one time.
After him was Eleazar his vncles sõne an Ahothite, which was one of the thre myghtiest. He was with Dauid at Pas-dãmin, and there the Philistines were gathered together to battaill. And there was there a parcell of grounde full of barlye, and the people fled before ỹ Philistines. And they, the .iii. aforesayd, stept foorth into the myddest of the fyelde, and saued it from burning, and slew the Philistines. And the Lorde gaue a great victory. And the .iii. of the .xxx. chiefe captaines went to a rock to Dauid, into the D caue Adullam. And the hoste of the Philistines abode in the valey of Rephaim.
And when Dauid was in the holde, the ij.Re 23.c Philistines watch was at Bethlehẽ the same time. And Dauid longed, and sayd: Oh, that one woulde geue me drinke of the water of the wel that is at the gate at Bethlehẽ. And they .iii. brake through the host of the Philistines, & drew water out of the well that was by the gate at Bethlehem, and toke it and brought it to Dauid. Neuerthlesse, Dauid would not drink of it, but rather offred it to the lorde, and said: my God forbid it me, that I shoulde do this thing. Shall I drinke the bloud of these menne, that haue put their liues in ieopardye (for with the ieo-pardy of their liues thei brought it) therfore he woulde not drink it: and this dyd these thzee myghtiest.
And Abisai the brother of Ioab, he also was captaine among thre: for he lifte vp his speare againste thzee. C. & wounded E them, & had a name among the thre: Yea among thre he was more honorable thã the two, for he was their captain. Howbeit he atteined not vnto the firste thre: Banaia the sõne of Iehoiada (the sonne of a very strong manne) dyd greater actes than Cabzeell: for he slue .ii. strong lions of Moab, and went down and slue a lion in a pitte in time of snowe. And he slewe an Egiptian, whose statute was euen .v. cubites long, and in the Egiptians hand was a spere lyke a weauers beame. And the other went down to him F with a waster, and plucked the spere out of the Egiptiãs hand, and slue him with hys owne speare. Such things did Ba-naia the sonne of Iehoiada, and had the name amõg the thre mightiest, and was honorable among .xxx. but atteined not vnto the first .iii. And Dauid made him of his counsail. The other menne of armes were these: Asahell the brother of Ioab, Elhanã his vncles sonne of Bethlehem.
Sammoth the Harodite: Helez the Pe-lonite: Ira the sonne of Ickes the Thekoite: Abieser the Anatothite: Sibacai the Husathite: Ilai the Ahoite: Maha-rai the Nethophathite: Heled the sonne of Baana, the Nethophatite: Ithai the sonne of Ribai of Gibea, that perteineth to the childrẽ of Ben Iamin. Benaia the Phirathonite: Hurai of the riuers of Gaas: Abiel the Arbathite: Asmaneth ỹ Baharumite: Elihaba the Saalbonite.
The sonnes of Hasseu the Gesonite: Ionathan the sonne of Sage an Hararite: Ahiã the sonne of Sacar the Hararite: G Eliphal the sõne of Ur: Hepher the Me-cherathite: Ahia the Pelonite: Hezro the Carmelite: Naari the sonne of Ezbai: Ioell the brother of Nathan: Mibhar the sonne of Hari: zelegan the Ammonite, Naharai a Berothite, the bearer of the harnesse of Ioab, the sonne of zeruia: Ira the Ithrite: and Gared a Ethrite, Uria the Hethite: and zabad the sonne of Ahlai: Adina the sonne of Siza a Rubenite, a captaine of the Rubenites, & .xxx. with him. Hanan the sonne of Maacha and Iosaphat a Mithanite: Uzia an Astherathite, Sama & Iehiel the sonnes of Hothan an Aroerite: Iediel the sonne of zimri, and Ioha his brother and Ha-thizite: Eliel a Mahanite: Ieribai and Iosaia the sonnes of Elnaum, and Ithma a Moabite. Eliel and Obed, & Iasiel a Mesobaite.

The .xii. Chapter.

What they were that went with Dauid when he fledde from Saul,

These are they ỹ came to | and peace be vnto thine helpers, for thy Tob. xii.

Dauid to Ziklег while he yet kept him selfe close, because of Saul the sõne of Cis: and they were verye strõg helpers in battaile.
They were weapened with bowes, and coulde hurle stones with the right hand and with the left, and shote arowes out of a bowe, and wer of Sauls brethren, euen of Ben Jamin. The chiefest were.
Ahiezer and Joas, the sonnes of Simaa a Gibeonite: and Jeziel, and Pelet the sonnes of Asmaueth: Beracah and Jehu of Anathoth. And Ismaia a Gibeonite a mightie man among.xxx. and more thã the.xxx. Jeremiah. Jehaziel, Johanan and Josabad of Gedor, Eleusai, Jerimoth, Bealia, Semaria, and Seaphatia the Haraphites.
B Elcana, Jesia, Azarahel, Joezer, Jo-sebeam Hakorim, Joela and Zebadiah, the sõnes of Jeroan of Gedud. And of ỹ Gadites there seperated thẽselues, some vnto Dauid into the holde of the wildernesse, menne of might, and menne apt for warre and that could handle shielde and speare, whose faces were like the faces of Lions, and they wer as swifte as the Roes in the mountaines: Ezer the firste, Obdia the second, and Eliab the thirde, Masmana the fourth, Jeremia the fifth.
Atthai the sixt. Eliell the seuenthe, Johanan the eight, Elsabad the ninth, Jeremia the tenth, and Mahbaonai the eleuenth.
These wer of the sõnes of Gad, and wer captaines ouer ỹ men of warre, the smal pursued an hundred, & the great a thousand. These are they that wẽt ouer Jordan in the first moneth, when he had filled ouer all his bankes. And they put to C flight al them of the valey, both towarde the east and west. And there came of the children of Ben Jamin and Juda to the hold vnto Dauid. And Dauid went oute to mete them, and answered & saide vnto them. If ye be come peaceably vnto me, to help me, myne heart shalbe knit vnto you: But and if you come to betraye me to mine aduersaries (seyng there is no wickednesse in mine handes) the God of our fathers loke theron, and rebuke it.
And the spirit came vpõ Amasai, which was the chief among thirty, & he sayde: thine are we Dauid, & one thy syde thou sonne of Isai: Peace, peace be vnto thee, and peace be vnto thine helpers, for thy Tob. xii. god is thy helpe. Then Dauid receiued b. them, and made them heades of companies of the men of warre. And there fell D some of Manasse to Dauid, whẽ he came i. Re. 26 with the Philistines againste Saul to a. battail but they helped them not. For ỹ Lordes of the Philistines toke aduisement, and sent him away again, saying: he will fall to his maister Saul, to the ieopardy of our heades. As he went to Ziklег, there fel to him of Manasse: Adna, Josabad, Jediel, Michael, Josabad, Eliu and Zilthai, heades of the thousandes that wer of Manasse. And they holp Dauid against the rouers: For they wer al mighty men of warre, and captaines in the hoste. For at that time there came one or other to Dauid, day by day to help him: vntill it was a great hoste, like the host of God. And this is the number of ỹ chief captains that wer prepared to battaile, and came to Dauid to Hebron to turne the kingdome of Saul to him, according to the worde of the Lord. E The children of Juda that bare shield & speare, were sixe thousand and.viii.hundred ready prepared to the warre. Of the children of Simeon menne of might to warre, seuen thousand and one hundred.
Of the children of Leui, foure thousande and sixe hundred. And Jehoiada was the chiefe of them of Aaron, and with him three thousand and seuen hundred.
And Zadok a yong manne strong and valeaunt, and his fathers housholde, two and twentye captaines.
And of the children of Ben Jamin the brethren of Saul, thre thousande. And a great parte of them dyd (vnto that time) folowe the house of Saul.
And of the children of Ephraim, twenty F thousande and eight hundred myghtye men of warre, and famous menne in the housholde of their fathers. And of ỹ halfe tribe of Manasse.xviii.thousand, which were appointed by name to come & make G Dauid king. And of the children of Isa-car which were menne that had vnder-standing in the right time to know (how to commaunde,) what Israel oughte to doe. The heades of them were two hundred, and al their brethren were at their will. And of Zabulon that went oute to the battaile, and proceded forthe to the warre, with all maner of instrumentes of warre, fiftie thousande that were prepared

pared to the warre without any doublenesse of heart. And of Nephthaly a thousand captaines, & with them (with shield and speare) .xxxvii. thousād. And of Dā, prepared to battaile .xxviii, thousande, & sire hundred. And of Aser that went out to the warre and kept the forefronte of G the battaile, fourty thousand. And of the other syde of Jordan of the Rubenites and Gaddites, and of the halfe tribe of Manaisse with al maner of instrumentes of warre, a hundred and twēty thousād.
All these were menne of warre, kepyng the forefront of the battaile with perfite heart, and came to Hebrō to make Da-uid king ouer al Israel. And al the reste of Israell was of one accorde to make Dauid king. And there they were with Dauid .iii. dayes eating and drinkyng, for their brethren had prepared for thē.
Moreouer they that wer nye them vntil Isacar, Zabulon & Nephthaly, broughte bread on asses, camels, mules, and oxen, & meate, floure, figges, reysinges, wine and oyle, oxen and shepe aboundauntlye.
For there was ioye in Israel.

The .xiii. Chapter.

The arke is brought agayn frō Kariath Jarim, to Jerusalem. Uza, otherwise called Oza, dyeth.

A AND Dauid counsailed wyth the captaines of thousandes and hundredes, and with all the Lordes, and saide vnto al the congregation of Israell: If it seme you good, and to be of the lord oure God, we will take and sende vnto oure brethren, that are left in al the land of Israel: and with thē also, to the priestes and Leuites whiche are in their cities & suburbes, to gather them together vnto vs. And we will bring again the arke of the lord to vs, for we regarded it not in the daies of Saul. And al the congregation was contente that he shoulde do so, for the thyng semed good in the eyes of al the people. So Dauid gathered al Is-B rael together, from Sihor in Egipt, vnto the entring of Hamath, to bring the arke of the Lord from Kariath Jarim.
And Dauid went vp and al Israel to an hie place towards Kariath Jarim, that was in Juda, to fet thence the arke of the lord God that dwelleth betwene the cherubs, where his name is called on.
And they caried the arke of god in a new cart out of the house of Abinadab. And Uza, and his brother guided the cart.
And Dauid and al Israel played before C the arke of god with al their might with singinge and harpes, psalteries and tim-brels and trompets. And whē they came vnto the thresshing flore of Chidon, Uza put forth his hād to hold the arke, for the oxen (being a litle wilde) stumbled. And the Lorde was wroth with Uza, and smote him, because he put his hand to the arke, And there he dyed before god. And Da-uid was out of quiet, because the Lorde had rent a rent in Uza: and he called the name of that place, the renting of Uza: vnto this day, and Dauid was afraid of God that daye saying: how shal I bring D the arke of god home to me? And so Da-uid brought not the arke home to him to the citie of Dauid: but caried it into the house of Obed Edō a Gethite. And the arke of god remayned with Obed Edō, euen in his house, thre monthes. And the Lorde blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

Hiram sendeth wood and workemen to Dauid, which hath two victories of the Philistines.

SO Hirā the king of Tire sent messengers to Da- A uid, and timbre of Ceder trees, with masons and carpenters to build hym an house. And Dauid perceiued that the Lord hadde confirmed him king vpon Israel, and that his kingdom was lift vp on hie because of his people Israel: And Dauid B toke yet mo wiues at Jerusalē, and begat mo sōnes & daughters. These are the names of his childrē which were borne vnto him at Jerusalē: Sammua, Sobab, Nathan and Salomon: Jibhar Elisua and Eliphalet, Noga, Nepheg and Ja-phia, Elisama, Beel iada, and Eliphalet.
And whē the Philistines heard that Da-uid was annoynted king vpon al Israel: al ye Philistines went vp to seke Dauid.
And Dauid heard of it, and went out against thē. And the Philistines came in and praunced thorowe the valey of Re-phaim. And Dauid asked counsaile at C God, saying shal I go against the Philistines, and wilt thou deliuer them into mine hand? And the Lord said vnto him: goe vp, for I wil deliuer them into thine hād. And so they came vp to Baal Perazim, and Dauid smote them there. And Da-

Dauid sayd: god hath deuided mine enemies with mine hand, as a man woulde deuide water. And therfore they called the name of that place, Baal Perazim.
And when they hadde lefte their goddes there, Dauid gaue a commaundement, & they wer burned with fire. And the Philistines came together agayne, and rushed into the valley. And Dauid asked a-D gain at god. And god said to him: go not up after thē, but turne a way from them, that thou mayest come upon them ouer against the peare trees. And when thou hearest a sounde go in the toppes of the pearetrees thē go out to battaile: for god is gone forth before the, to smite the host of the Philistines. Dauid therfore did as God commaunded him: and they smote the hoste of the Philistines from Gibeō to Gazer. And the fame of Dauid went out into al landes: and the lord made all nations feare him.

The .xv. Chapter.

The Leuites bring the arke agayne. Dauid dauncing before it, is despised of his wife Michol.

A AND Dauid made him houses in the citie of Dauid, and prepared a place for ẏ arke of God, and pitched for it a tente. Then Dauid sayd: the arke of God ought not to be caried, but of the Leuites. For them hath the lorde chosen, to beare the arke of the lorde, and to minister unto him for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israell together to Jerusalem, to fetche the arke of the Lorde unto his place whiche he had ordeined for it.
And Dauid brought together the childrē of Aaron and the Leuites. Of the sones of Cahath was Uriel the chefe, & of his brethrē there were an hundred and twety: Of the children of Merari, Asaia the chiefe & of his brethren two hundred and twenty. Of the sonnes of Gersom, Joel the chefe: and of his brethren an hūdred and thirty. Of the children of Elisaphā, Semaia the chefe: & of his brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebron, Eliel the chief, and of his brethren .lxxx. Of the sonnes of Uziel. Aminadab the chefe: and B of his brethren an hūdred & twelue. And Dauid called Zadok and Abiathar the priestes, and the Leuites, Uriel, Asaia, Joel, Semaia, Eliel, and Aminadab, and said unto thē: ye ẏ are the principall fathers of the Leuites, se that ye be holy with your brethren, that ye may bring in the arke of the Lorde god of Israel, unto the place that I haue prepared for it.
For because ye were not there at the first, the Lorde oure god made a rent among us, for that we sought him not, as the fashiō ought to be. So the priestes and the Leuites sanctified themselues to set the arke of the Lorde god of Israel. And the children of the Leuites bare the arke of god upon their shoulders with staues thereon, as Moses commaunded, according to the word of the Lord. And Dauid spake to the chefe heades of the Leuites, C that they should appoint certaine of their brethren to sing with instrumētes of musycke: psalteries, harpes and cymbales: that they might make a sounde, and to syng on hye with ioyfulnesse. And the Leuites appointed Heman the sonne of Joel: and (of his brethren) Asaph ẏ sonne of Berechia: and of the sonnes of Mera-ri and of their brethren, Ethā the sonne of Cusaiahu. And with them their brethren of the second degree, Zacharia, Ben Jaziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Banaiahu, Maasiah, Mathathia-hu, Eliphalehu, Mikniahu, Obed Edō, and Jeiel, porters.
So Heman, Asaph and Ethā the singers made a sounde with simbales, of brasse.
And Zacharia, Aziel, Semiramoth, Je-hiel, Uni, Eliab, Maasiahu, & Banaia-hu plaied with psalteries on an Alamoth.
Mathathiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikniahu, Obed Edom, Jeiel and Azazahu played upon harpes, an eyght aboue with courage. And Chenaniahu the chiefe of the Leuites, was master of the song, for he taughte other to syng, because he was a man of understanding. Berechia and Elcana kept the dore of the arke. And Secaniahu, Jehosaphat, Nethanael, Ama-sai, Zachariahu, Banaiahu, and Eliezer the priestes, did blow with trompettes, before the arke of god. And Obed Edom and Jehia, were the kepers of the dore of the arke.
* And Dauid and the elders of Israell ii. Re. vi. c. and the captaynes ouer thousandes, wēt to fette the arke of the appointmente: of the Lord oute of the house of Obed Edō, with gladnesse. And when God helped the Leuites ẏ bare the arke of the appointment of the Lord, they offred seuen oxen and seuen rammes. And Dauid had on him a linnen garmente, like as hadde also all the Leuites that bare the arke, & so had the singers: & Chenania ẏ ruler of the song with yͤ singers. And Dauid had vpon him and Ephod of linnen. And all they of Israel brought the arke of the lor-des couenaunt with shouting & blowing of the shawme and trompettes, making a noise with simbals, psalteries and har-pes. And as the arke of the appointment of the Lord came into the citie of Dauid, Micholl the daughter of Saul loking oute at a window, saw king Dauid daũcing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Dauid ordeineth Asaph and his brethren to minister before the lorde. He himselfe praiseth the Lorde God of Israell.

A SO they brought in the arke of God, and set it in the middest of the tent, that Dauid pitched for it, and they offered burnt sacrifices & peace offeringes before god. And when Dauid had made an ende of offering yͤ burnte of-fringes and peace offerynges, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde. And he dealt to al Israel (both man & womã) a cracknel of bread, and a good piece of flesh, & a flacket of wine. And he appointed certaine of the Leuites to minister before the lord, & to repete and to thãke and praise the Lord god of Israell. And Asaph was the chefe, & next to hym Za-ii.Re.vi. b. charia, Jeiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel Ma-thathia, Eliab, Benaia, Obed Edom and Jeiel with psalteries and harpes.
But Asaph made a sound with simbals.
Banaiahu and Jahaziel priestes blew with trompets continually beefore the B arke of the couenaunt of god. And yͤ same Ps.ciiii a time Dauid did appoint chefly to thanke Esa.xii.b the lord by Asaph and his brethrẽ. O ge-ue thankes vnto the lord, cal vpõ his name make his actes knowen among the people. Sing vnto him, & play vnto him: talke of al his wondrefull dedes. Reioyce in his holy name: let the hertes of them yͭ seke the lord be glad. Seke the lorde and his strength: seke his presẽce alway. Remembre his maruelles whiche he did, & his wonders, & the iudgementes of hys mouth. The sede of Israell are hys seruaũtes, the childrẽ of Jacob are his chosen. He is the Lord our god, in al landes are his iudgements. Thinke on his appointement for euer: (and on the worde which he commaũded to a thousande generations) which he made with Abrahã, and of his othe to Isahac: which he sette before Jacob for a decree, and to Israell for an euerlasting couenaunt, saying: to thee will I geue the lande of Canaan, to be the portion of your inheritaunce. Whẽ ye were few, and smal in numbre, and soiourners therin. And thei walked frõ nation, to nation, and from one kingdom to an other people. He suffred no man to do thẽ wrong, but rebuked euen kynges for their sakes. Touche not mine anointed, and doe my Prophetes no harme.
*Sing vnto the Lorde al the earth, and C shewe from daye to daye his saluation. Psa.[illegible] b.
Tell of his glorie among the heathen: his wondreful dedes among al nations.
For great is the Lorde, and worthy to be praised excedingly: he is to be feared aboue all gods.
For all the goddes of the people are of no value: But the Lorde made Heauen.
Praise and honour are in his presence: strength and gladnesse are in his place.
Ascribe vnto the Lord ye kinreds of people: Ascribe to the Lorde, glorye and dominion. Ascribe vnto the Lord the glory due vnto his name: bring sacrifices, and come before him, and worship the Lorde with holy honour. Let al the earth feare him, although the compasse of the earth be so stablished that it cannot be moued: let the heauens reioyce, and let the earth be glad, and let men tell among the nations, that the Lord is king. Let the sea thundre, and the fulnesse therof: lette the feldes reioyce and all that is therin. Thẽ shal the trees of the wood reioyce at the presence of the lord, because he commeth to iudge the earth. O geue thankes vnto the lord, for he is good, for his mercy endureth for euer: & say ye: saue vs (O god) of our saluatiõ, gather vs together, and deliuer vs from among the heathen, that we may geue thankes to thy holy name, and triumphe in the praise of thee.

Blessed

blessed be the lord god of Israel for euer and euer: and let al people say Amen and praise the Lorde.
And so he lefte there before the arke of D the Lordes couenaunt. Asaph and hys brethren, to minister before the arke continually, in such thinges as were to be done daye by daye (and that by their courses.) And Obed Edom and his brethren, threscore & eight: and Obed Edom, the sonne of Jeduthun, and Hosa, wer appointed to be porters. And Zadok the priest and hys brethren the priestes, wer before the Tabernacle of the lord, in the hye place that was at Gibeon to offer burntoffringes vnto the lord, vpon the burntoffring alter perpetuallye, in the morning & euening: according vnto all ye which is written in the law of the lord, which he commaunded Israel. And with them were Heman, and Jeduthun, & other yt were chosen (whose names were expressed) to geue thankes to the lord yt his mercy lasteth euer. And with them did Heman and Jeduthun sing with the trompettes & simbals, making a swete melodye with instrumentes of musyke & godly songes. And the sonnes of Jeduthun were porters. And al the people departed, euery man to his house and David returned to blesse his house.

The. xvii. Chapter.

David is forbydden to build an house vnto the Lord. Christ is promised vnder the figure of Salomon.

And it fortuned, yt when David A dwelt* in his house he said to Nathan the Prophet: lo, I dwell in an house of Cedar Reg. 7. a. tree, but the arke of ye lordes couenaunt remaineth vnder curtaynes.
And Nathan said to David: do al that is in thine heart, for god is with the. And ye same night it fortuned, that the worde of god came to Nathan, saying: goe, and tel David my seruaunt, thus saith the lorde: thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in: For I haue dwelte in no house, since the day that I brought out the children of Israel vnto this daye, but haue gone from tent to tente, and from one habitation to an other. And where soeuer I E haue walked with all Israel, spake I e-uer one worde to any of the judges of Israel (whom I commaunded to fede my people) saying: why haue ye not built me B an house of Cedar tree? Nowe therefore thus shalt thou say vnto my seruaunt David: thus saieth the Lorde of hostes: I toke the out of the pastures when thou wentest after shepe, that thou shouldest be captaine ouer my people Israell. And I haue bene with the whithersoeuer thou hast walked, & haue weded out all thine enemies out of thy sight, and haue made the a name, like the name (of one) of ye greatest men yt are in ye earth. And I haue ordeined a place for my people Israel, and made it fast, so that now they may dwell in their place, and moue no more: Neyther shall the children of wickednesse vexe them any more, as at the beginning. And C. since the time yt I commaunded judges to bee, ouer my people Israel, I haue subdued all thine enemies: and I tolde thee, that the Lorde would builde the an house. This also shal come to passe: when thy dayes be expired, that thou must go vnto thy fathers, I will raise vp thy sede after the, which shalbe of thy sonnes, and I will prepare for him the kingdome. He shall builde me an house, and I will sta-bliche his seate for euer. I will be his father, and he shall be my sonne, and I wil not take my mercy away from him, as I toke it from him that was before thee.
But I will set him in mine house, and in my kingdom for euer: and his seate shal-be sure for euermore.
According to al these wordes, and according to all this vision, did Nathan tell king David. And David the king came and sat before the lorde, and saide: what am I (O. Lord God) and what is mine housholde, that thou hast promoted me thus farre? And yet this semed litle in thyne eyes, O god: But thou hast also spoken of thy seruauntes house, for a great whyle to come: and hast loked vpon me as vpon a man of hye degree, (O Lorde God.) What shall David desire more of thee for the honour of thy ser-uaunt: for thou hast knowen thy seruaunt, O Lorde, for thy seruauntes sake, euen D according to thine own heart, hast thou done all thys magnificence, to shewe all greate thinges. Lorde, there is none like the nether is there anye god saue thou: according to al that we haue heard with our eares. Moreouer, what nacion on the earth is lyke thy people Israell, to whom God hath vouchsaued to come and redeme them, to be his own people, to make thee a name of excellencye and terriblenesse, with casting oute nations from before thy people, whom thou hast deliuered oute of Egipt.
Thy people of Israel diddest thou make thine owne people for euer, and thou becamest their god. Therfore now Lorde, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy seruaunt and his house, be true for euer, that thou do as thou hast sayed: let it come to passe, yͭ thy name mayt bee magnified for euer that it may be sayde: the lord of hostes is yͤ god of Israel (euen the god of Israell) & the house of Dauid thy seruaunt endureth stable before thee. For thou (O my god) hast told thy seruaunt, that thou wilte build him an house. And therfore thy seruaunt hath founde in hys heart to pray before thee. And now Lord thou art god, & haste promised this goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt. Nowe therfore, let it be thy pleasure, to blesse yͤ house of thy seruaũt, that it may continue before thee for euer. For whom thou blessest (O Lord) the same is blessed for euer.

The. xviii. Chapter.

The battailles of Dauid against the Philistines.

A ii.Re.viii. a. And after this it fortuned, that Dauid smote the Philistines, & subdued thẽ, and toke Geth and the townes that longed thereto, out of the hãd of the Philistines. And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauids seruauntes and payed him tribute. And Dauid smote Hadarezer king of Zoba vnto Hanath, as he wẽt to stablish his dominion by the riuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke from him a thousand charettes, and seuen thousand horsemẽ, & twenty thousand fotemen: and lamed all the charet horses, and reserued of them an hundred charettes. And when the Siriens of Damasco came to helpe Hadarezer king of Zoba: Dauid slue of yͤ Siriens. xxii. thousande, and Dauid subdued Siria Damasco. And the Siriens became Dauids seruaũtes: and brought him tribute. And the lord preserued Dauid in all that he went to.

B And Dauid toke the shildes of golde that wer on the seruauntes of Hadarezer and brought thẽ to Ierusalem. And from Tebhath, & from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought Dauid exceading muche brasse. Wherwith Salomõ made yͤ brasen lauatory, the pillers & the vessels of brasse. iii.Re.vii. f. Ier.lii. c. And when Tou king of Hemath heard howe Dauid hadde beaten all the strength of Hadarezer kig of Zoba, he sent Haduran hys sonne to king Dauid, to make peace with him, and to blesse hym because he had fought againste Hadarezer, & beate him (for Tou had warre with Hadarezer) & Dauid brought all maner of Iewels of golde, siluer & brasse with him. And king Dauid dedicated thẽ vnto the Lorde, with the siluer and gold that he brought from all nations: frõ Edom, from Moab, from yͤ children of Ammõ, from the Philistines, & from Amalek. D And Abisai the sonne of Zeruia slue of yͤ Edomites in the Salt valley. xviii. M. and put souldiors in Edõ, and all the Edomites became Dauids seruauntes. Thus the Lorde kept Dauid in all yͭ he toke in hand. And Dauid raigned ouer Israell, & executed iudgement & righteousnesse among al his people. And Ioab the sonne of Zeruia was ouer the hoste. And Iehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud recorder and Zadok the sonne of Ahitob, & Abimelech the sone of Abiathar were the priests: and Sauesa was scribe, and Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer the Crethites and the Phelethites: and the eldest sonnes of Dauid were nexte vnto the kyng.

The. xix. Chapter.

Hanon king of the sonnes of Ammon, doeth great iniury to the seruauntes of Dauid.

After this it chaunced, that Nahas the kyng of the children of Ammon died, and his sonne raygned in his stede. A ii.Re.x. And Dauid saide: I will shew kindnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas: because his father dealte kindely with me. And Dauid sent messengers to cõforte him ouer the death of his father. And the seruauntes of Dauid came into the lande of the children of Ammõ to Hanon, to comfort him. But the lords of the children of Ammon said to Hanon: thinkest thou that Dauid doth honour thy father in thy sight, that he hath sent cõforters vnto the? Are not his seruauntes come to search, to loke and espye out the lande? Wherefore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes (and polde them) and shaued thẽ, and cut of their coates hard by their buttockes, and sent thẽ away. And there wẽt certaine and tolde Dauid howe the men wer serued. And the king sent to mete thẽ (for the men wer exceadingly ashamed) B and the king said: tary at Iericho vntill youre beardes be growen: and then returne. And whẽ the children of Ammon saw yͭ they stanke in the sight of Dauid, Hanõ & the childrẽ of Ammõ sent a thousande talentes of siluer to hire them charettes & horsemẽ out of Mesopotamia & out out of Siria Maacha, and out of Zoba.

And they hired .xxxii. thousande charets and the king of Maacha and his people, which came and pitched before Medba.
And the children of Ammon gathered themselues together from their cities, and came to battaile. And when Dauid heard of it, he sent Joab and all the hoste C of strong men. And the children of Ammon came out, and put themselues in a-raye to battaile before the gate of the ci-tie. And the kinges that were come, kept them by themselues backe in the fielde.
When Joab also saw that ye fronte of the battail was againste hym beefore & be-hinde, he chose out of all the chosen men of Israel, & put them in aray against the Sirians. And the reste of the people he delivered vnto the hande of Abisai hys brother, and they put themselues in aray against the children of Ammon. And he said: yf the Sirians be to strong for me thou shalt succour me: & if the children of Ammō preuaile against the, I wil helpe the: Plucke vp thine heart, & let vs playe the men, for our peoples sake and for the cities of our god, & the lorde shal do that which is good in his own sight. So Joab and the people yt were with him, drue nie beefore the Sirians vnto ye battaile: and they fled before him. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Sirians were fled, they ranne away likewise before Abisai his brother, & gate thē into D the citie. And Joab came to Jerusalem.
And when ye Sirians saw that they wer put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers and set out the Sirians that were beyonde the riuer, and Sophach
the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them. And it was tolde Da-uid: and he gathered all Israel and went together ouer Jordan, and came and set vpon them. And when Dauid had putte himselfe in araye against the Sirians, they fought with him. But ye Siriās fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed of the Sirians seuen thousande charettes, and fortye thousands fotemen, and killed Sophach the captaine of the hoste. And when the seruauntes of Hadarezer, saw that they were put to the worse, before them of Israell, they made peace with Dauid, and became his seruauntes. Neither would the Sirians helpe the childr of Ammon any more.

ged Rabba, and destroyed it: But Dauid taried at Jerusalem while Joab smote Rabba and destroyed it. And Dauid toke the crowne of their king frō of his head, and founde that it had the weyght of a ii.Re.xii.c talent of golde, and there were precious B stones in it: and it was ordained for Da-uids head. And he brought also exceding much spoile out of the citie.
And he brought out the people that were in it: and tormented them with sawes, and harowes of yron, and with other sharpe instruments: and so dealte Dauid with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And Dauid, & all ye people came a- C gaine to Jerusalem. After this it fortuned, that there arose warre at Gazer w ii.Re.xxi.d. the Philistines. At which time Sobokai the Husathite slue Sippai, yt was of the children of Rephaim: and they were sub- Ge.xi.ii.a. dued. And there was battaile againe with the Philistines: and Elhanam the sonne of Jair slue Lahemi, the brother of Goliath the Gethite, whose spere was like a weauers beame. And there chaunced yet againe warre at Geth, where as was a man of a great stature with .xxiiii fingers and toes .vi. on euery hand and D
.vi. on euery fote: and was the sonne of Raphah. But when he defied Israel Jehonathan the sonne of Simea, Dauids brother, slue him. These were borne vnto Raphah at Geth, and were ouerthro-wen in the hande of Dauid, & in the hand of hys seruauntes.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Dauid causeth the people to be numbred: and there die .lxx. thousande men of the pestilence.

And Sathā stode vp against Israel & prouoked Dauid to num-bre Israell. And Dauid sayed to Joab, and to the rulers of the people: go ye and numbre Israell from Beerseba to Dan, & bring it to me that I may knowe the nūbre of them. And Joab answered: the Lorde make his people an hundred times so many moe as they be.
But my lord, O king, are they not al my lordes seruauntes? why then doeth my Lorde require this thing? why will my lord be a cause of trespas to Israel? Neuerthelesse, the kinges worde preuailed against Joab. And Joab departed and walked thorowoute all them of Israell, and came to Jerusalem again, and gaue the numbre of the compte of the people unto Dauid.

And al they of Israel were a .M. thousande and an hundred thousande menne that drewe swearde: and Juda was cccc lxx. thousande men that drewe swearde. But the Leuites and Ben Jamin counted he not among them. For the kinges worde was abhominable to Joab. And the Lord was displeased with this thig: and smote Israel. And Dauid saide unto god: I haue sinned exceadingly in doing this thing. And now (I beseche the) do away the wickednesse of thy seruaunt, for

B I haue done very folishly. And the Lorde spake unto Gad Dauids sear, saying: go and tell Dauid, saying: Thus saithe the Lord: I geue thee the choise of thre thinges: chose the one of them, that I maye doe unto the. And Gad came to Dauid, & saide unto him. Thus saith the Lorde: Chose the either thre yeres famishment, or thre monethes to be destroyed before thine aduersaries, and that the swearde of thine enemies maye ouertake thee, or els ẏ sweard of the lord, and pestilence in the lande thre dayes: and the angel of the lord destroying thorowout all ẏ coastes of Israel. And now aduise thy selfe, what worde I shall bring againe to him that sente me. And Dauid sayed unto Gad: I am in an exceding strait. Let me fal now into the hand of ẏ lord, for passing great are his mercies, but let me not fall into

C the hand of men. So the lord sente pestilence upon Israel, and there were ouerthorowen of Israel lxx. thousande men. And god sent the angell into Jerusalem to destroye in it. And as he was about to destroye, the lord behelde, and had compassion on the euill, and said to the angel that destroyed: it is ynough, let now thy hand ceasse. And the angel of ẏ lord stode by the threshing flore of Ornan the Jebusite. And Dauid lifte up hys eyes, and saw the angel of the lorde stand betwene the earth and heauen, hauing a drawen swearde in hys hande, stretched oute towarde Jerusalem. Then Dauid and the elders of Israel, whiche were clothed in sacke, fell upon their faces. And Dauid said unto god: Is it not I ẏ cōmaunded the people to be nūbred? It is I that haue sinned & done euil in dede, & what haue these shepe done? Let thine hand (O lord my god) be on me, & on my fathers house but not on thy people, that thei should be punished. And the angel of the lorde commaunded Gad to say to Dauid, that Dauid should go up, and set up an alter unto the lord in the threshing flore of Ornā ẏ Jebusite. And Dauid went up according to the saying of Gad, whiche he spake in the name of the Lord. And Ornā turned about, & saw ẏ angel: & his foure sonnes wet with him, & hid thēselues: But Ornā was threshing wheate. And as Dauid came to Ornā, Ornan loked & saw Dauid, & went out of the tresshing flore, and bowed himselfe to Dauid with his face to the ground. And Dauid said to Ornā: geue me the place of the threshing flore, that I may build an aultare therin unto the Lorde. Thou shalte geue it me for as much mony as it is worth, that ẏ plage maye ceasse from the people. And Ornan sayde unto Dauid: take it to the, & let my Lorde the king doe that whiche semeth good in his eyes: lo, I geue the oxen also for burnt sacrifices, and the threshing sleades for wood, and what for meatoffring: I geue it all. And king Dauid said D to Ornan: not so, but I will bie it, for as much mony as it is worth. For I wil not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt offringes without coste. And so Dauid gaue to Ornā for ẏ place, sicles of golde. vi. hundred by weight. And Dauid builte there an altare unto ẏ Lorde, and offred burntoffringes, and peace offringes, and called upon the lord and he heard him from heauen in fire, upon the altare of burntoffring. And whē the Lord had spoken to the angel, he put up his sweard again into the sheeth of it. At that time when Dauid sawe that the Lorde had heard hym in the threshing flore of Ornan the Jebusite, he used to offre there: For the tabernacle of the lord whiche Moses made in the wildernesse, and the aulter of burntoffering, were at that season in the hil of Gibeon. And Dauid could not go before it to aske coūsaile at God, for he was afrayd of the sweard of the Angel of the Lorde.

The. xxii. Chapter.

Dauid willeth his sonne Salomon to build the temple of the Lorde: whiche thing he himselfe was forbidden to doe.

A AND Dauid ſaid: this is the house of the lord god: & this is ẏ aultar for the burntoffring of Iſrael. And Dauid cōmaunded to gather together the ſtraunges that were in the land of Iſrael, and he ſet maſons to hewe free ſtone for the building of ẏ houſe of God.
And Dauid prepared plentie of yron for nailes, and dores of the gates, & to ioyne withal, and aboundaunce of braſſe without weight, & Cedre trees without num-bre. For ẏ Zidons & they of Tire brought much Cedar wood to Dauid. And Da-uid ſayd: Salomō my ſonne is yong & tēder, & the houſe that is to be builte for the Lorde, muſt exceade in greatneſſe, that it may be ſpoken of, & praiſed in al landes.
I will therfore make ordinaunce for it.
And ſo Dauid prepared many thinges before his death. And he called Salomō his ſonne, and charged him to builde an B houſe for the Lorde God of Iſraell. And ij.Re.vii. Dauid ſayed to Salomon: my ſonne, I b. thoughte (as it was in myne hearte) to iij.Re.v.a. build an houſe vnto the name of the lord my god. But the worde of the lord came to me, ſaying: thou haſt ſhed much bloud & haſt made great battailles: thou ſhalte therefore not buylde an houſe vnto my name: for thou haſt ſhed much bloud vpō the earth in my ſyght. Behold, a ſonne is borne to thee, & he ſhalbe a man of reſte, for I will geue him reſt from al his enemies round about. For his name is Salomon: and I will ſend reſt and peace v-C pon Iſraell in his dayes. He ſhall buylde an houſe for my name, and he ſhalbe my ſonne, and I wilbe his father, and wyll prepare the ſeate of his kingdome vpon Iſrael for euer. Now therfore my ſonne, the lord be with thee, and proſpere thee, & thou ſhalt build the houſe to the name of the lord thy god, as he hath ſaid of the.
And the lord ſhall geue the wiſedom and vnderſtanding, and ſhall geue thee commaundementes for Iſrael, that ye maye kepe the law of the lord thy god. For thē thou ſhalte proſpere: euen when ẏ takeſt hede, and fulfilleſt the ſtatutes & lawes which the lord charged Moſes with for Iſrael. Plucke vp thy hart therfore, and be ſtrong, dreade not, nor be diſcouraged Beholde, in mine aduerſitie haue I alſo prepared for the houſe of the lorde, an D hundred thouſand talentes of golde, and a thouſande thouſande talentes of ſiluer & as for braſſe & yron it cannot be noumbred, for it is verye muche. And I haue prepared tymbre & ſtone, & thou mayeſt prouide more therto. Moreouer, ẏ haſte workemen with the inowe, and maſons, and carpenters to worke in ſtone & timber, and many men that be actiue for e-uery worke. And of golde, ſiluer, braſſe, and yron, there is no number. Up therfore, & be doing, & the Lorde ſhalbe with the. And Dauid commaunded al the lor-des of Iſrael to helpe Salomō his ſōne, ſaying: Is not the Lord your God with you: and hath he not geuen you reſt on e-uery ſide? for he hath geuen the inhabitours of the lande into my hande and the land is ſubdued before the Lord, and before his people. Now therfore ſet youre heartes and your ſoules to ſeke the lord your god. Up, and build ye the temple of the Lorde God, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the lord, & the holy veſſels of God into the houſe, ſo builte for the name of the Lorde.

¶ The. xxiii. Chapter.

Dauid beeyng olde, ordeyneth Salomon king. He causeth the Leuites to be nūbred, and aſſigneth them to their offices.

SO, when Dauid was olde and ful of dayes, he made Salomon A his ſonne king ouer Iſrael. And iii.Re.i.e thē he gathered together all the Lordes of Iſraell with the prieſtes and the Leuites. And the Leuites were nū-bred from the age of. xxx. yere and aboue, and the numbre and ſūme of them was.
xxx. and. viii. thouſande men. Of whiche xxiiii. thouſande were ſett to further the worke of the houſe of the Lord. And ſixe thouſand were officers and iudges.
Foure thouſand were porters, and foure thouſande praiſed the Lord with ſuch inſtrumētes, as wer made to praiſe withal.
And ſo Dauid put an ordre among them, deuiding them in partes. Of the children of Leui. Gerſon, Cahath, and Merari: Of the Gerſonits was Laadan and Semei. The ſonnes of Laadan, the chefe was Iehiel, Zethan and Ioel, thre.
The ſonnes of Semei: Selomith, Haziel and Haram, thre. Theſe were the auncient fathers of Laadan. And the ſonnes of Semei were Iahath, Zina, B Ieus, and Beria: theſe foure were the ſonnes of Semei. And Iahath was the chefe, Zina ſeconde. But Ieus and Be-ria hadde not many ſonnes, therfore they were in one rekening according to their Z.iiii. fathers fathers houshold, rekened for one aun-cient housholde. The sonnes of Cahath, Ex.vi.c. Amram, Izahar, Hebron & Uziel, foure.

1Pa.vi.a The sonnes of Amram, Aaron and Moses. And Aaron was separated to haue the rule of the holye thynges in the place moste holye, he and hys sonnes for euer, and to burne incense before the Lorde, and to minister vnto him, and to blesse in his name for euer.
Moses also the man of God, and hys children, were named with the tribe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses: Gerson, and Eliezer. Of the sonnes of Gerson, Sebuel was the chefe. The sonnes of Eliezer: Rehabia the chefe. And Eliezer had none other sonnes: But the sonnes of Rehabia were very many. The sonnes of Izahar: Salomith the chefe.
The sonnes of Hebron: Jeriahu the first C Amaria the second, Jahaziel the thirde, and Iecamean the fourth. The sonnes of Uziel: Micha the fyrst, and Iesia the seconde. The sonnes of Merari: Mahli and Musi. The sonnes of Mahli. Eleazar and Cis. And Eleazar died, and had no sonnes, but daughters, and their brethren the sonnes of Cis toke them. The sonnes of Musi: Mahli, Eder and Ierimoth, thre. These are the children of Le-ui after the housholde of their fathers: euen the auncient of the fathers according to their offices, and after the num-bre and summe of the names of thẽ that dyd the worke in the seruice of the house of the Lorde, from the age of twentye yeares and aboue. And Dauid sayde: the Lorde God of Israell hath geuen reste vnto his people, that they maye dwell in Ierusalem for euer. That the Leuites also shoulde nowe nomore beare the tabernacle and all the vessells for the seruice thereof: for accordyng to the laste wordes of Dauid, the Leuites were nũbred from twentye yere and aboue, and theyr office was vnder the hande of the D sonnes of Aaron, for the seruice of the house of the Lorde: in the courtes and celles, and in the purifying of all holye thynges, and in the worke of the seruice of the house of God.
In the shewe bread, in the fine floure, in the meatofferyng, in the waters of swete bread, in the frying panne, in the grydyron, and in all maner of measures and syse, and to stande euery daye in the mornyng to thanke and prayse the Lord, and so lykewyse at euen. And to offer al burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde in the Sabbathes, in the newe moones and on ỹ feasfull dayes by numbre and custome continually (as they were commaunded) before the Lorde. And that they shoulde wayte on the tabernacle of witnes, and on the holy place, & on the sõnes of Aaron their brethren, in the seruice of the house of the Lorde.

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

Dauid assigneth offices vnto the sonnes of Aaron.

THese are the deuisions of the sõ-nes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, A Eleazar, and Ithamar. Nadab also & Abihu died before their Le.x.a. father, and had no children: But Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priests office. And Dauid ordred them on this maner: Zadok of the sonnes of Eleazar and Abimeleck of the sõnes of Ithamar, wer accordyng to their offices, in their ministration. And there were mo auncient menne found among the sonnes of Eleazar, than the sonnes of Ithamar.
And thus were they ordred together.
Among the sonnes of Eleazar there wer sixtene rulers, according to the house-holde of their fathers: and eight among the sonnes of Ithamar, accordiug to the housholde of their fathers. And thus wer they put in order by lot, the one sorte frõ the other, and so were they rulers in the Sanctuary and Lordes before God, as well of the sonnes of Ithamar, as of the B sonnes of Eleazar. And Simeia the sõne of Nathaneel the scribe, of the kinred of the Leuites, wrote them before the king and the Lordes, and before Zadock the prieste, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar, and before the auncient fathers, before the priestes and the Leui-tes: one principall housholde being reserued for Eleazar, & one for Ithamar.
And the first lotte fell to Iehoiarib, and the seconde to Iedaia. The third to Ha-rim, and the fourth to Seorim. The fifth to Melchia, and the sixt to Miamin.
The seuenth to Hakos, and the eighte to were ouer the treasures of the house of the lord. Of the Amramites also and Jzaharites, Hebronites ẏ Ozielites, was Sabuel the sonne of Gerson, the sõne of Moses, a ruler ouer the treasures. And of his brethren the sonnes of Eliezer was Rahabiahu, whose sonne was Isaiahu, whose sonne was Jorã, whose sõne was Zichri, whose son was Selomith, which Selomith & his brethrẽ wer ouer all the treasures of the dedicate things whiche Dauid the king, & the auncient fathers ẏ captains ouer thousãds & hũdreds, & the captains of the host had dedicated out of the spoiles won in battails: they did dedicate thẽ to maintain the house of the lord and all ẏ Samuel the sear and Saul the sonne of Cis, & Abner the sonne of Ner, D and Joab the sonne of Zeruia had dedicated, and whosoeuer had dedicate any thing, it was vnder the hãd of Selomith and of his brethren. Of the Izaharites was Chenaniahu & his sonnes appointed to the busines without forth ouer Is-the monethes of the yere. And in euerye course were.xxiiii.M. Ouer the firste course for the firstmoneth, was Jasoboam the sõne of Zabdiel. And in his course were.xxiiii.M. And the chiefest of all the captains of the host for the firste moneth was of the children of Phares. Ouer the course of the second moneth was Dodai-an Ahohite, and in his course was Mikloth a ruler (his helper.) And in the Parke 2 Re.xxiii course wer.xxiiii.M. The chief captaine of the third hoste for the third moneth, was Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada ẏ hye priest: and in his course wer.xxiiii.M this is that Banaiahu which was moste B mighty among.xxx. and aboue.xxx. And in his part was Amizadad his sonne.

The fourth captaine for the fourth mo-neth, was Azael the brother of Joab, and Zabadaia his sõne after him. And in hys xxiiii.M. The twelueth captaine for the twelueth moneth, was Halday the Netophatite, with Othoniell: and in hys course were foure & twenty.M. And the rulers ouer the tribes of Israell were these. Among the Rubenites was Eliezer the sõne of Zichri. Amõg the Simeo-nites also was Saphathiahu the sõne of Maacha. Among the Leuites: Hasabia C the sonne of Kemuel. Among the Haromites: Zadok. Amõg thẽ of Juda: Elihu of the brethrẽ of Dauid. Among them of Isachar: Omri the sonne of Michael. Among them of Zabulon: Jesmaiahu the sonne of Obadiahu. Amõg them of Nepthali: Jerimoth the sonne of Azriel. Aad: Jiddo ẏ sonne of Zachariahu. Amõg them of Ben Jamin: Jasiel the sonne of Abner. Among them of Dan: Azarel the sonne of Jeroham. These are the Lordes of the tribes of Israel. But Dauid tooke not the number of them vnder.xx.yere: because the Lorde had sayd he would en-crease Israel like vnto the starres of the skie. And Joab the sonne of Zeruia begã i.Pa.xxi. a. to number, but he finished it not, because that ther fell wrath for it against Israel, nether was the numbre put into ẏ chronicles of king Dauid. Ouer the kinges D treasures was Asmaueth the sõne of A-diel. And ouer the treasures of the fieldes in ẏ cities and villages and castels, was Jehonathan the sonne of Uziahu.

And ouer the workmen in the fields that tilled the ground, was Ezri the sonne of Chelub. And ẏ ouersight of the vineyardes had Semei the Ramathite. Ouer the encrease also of the vineyardes and ouer the winesellers, was Sabdi ẏ Hasiphunite: and ouer the oliue trees and mulbery trees that were in the valleis, was Baal Hanã the Gederite. And ouer the tresure of oile, was Joas: Ouer the oxen that fed in Saron was Setary the Saronite. And ouer the oxen that were in the valleys, was Saphat the sonne of Adlai. Ouer the camels, Obil the Isma-elite. And ouer the asses was Johadia-hu the Meronothite. Ouer ẏ shepe was Jazis ẏ Hagerithe. Al these wer the rulers of the substance of king Dauid.
And Jehonathan Dauids vncle, a man of counsail and of vnderstanding, was a scribe: and Jehiel the sonne of Hachmoni was with the kinges sonnes (instructing thẽ.) And Ahitophel was of the kinges cõsail. And Husai the Arachite was the kinges companion. And next to Ahitophel was Jehoiada the sonne of Benaiahu and Abiathar. And the captains of the kinges warre, was Joab.

The.xxviii. Chapter.

Bycause Dauid was forbidden to build the temple, he exhorteth Salomon and the people to perfourme it.

AND Dauid gathered together all A ẏ lordes of Israel: ẏ lordes of the tribes, the lordes of the cõpanies ẏ ministred to the king by course, the captains ouer thousandes & ouer hundreds,

& the lordes that had the ouersight ouer al the substance and possession of Dauid, his sonnes, with the chamberlaines: all the mighty and valiant, and al actiue mē vnto Jerusalem, And king Dauid stode ij.Re.vij.a. vp vppon his fete, and said, Heare me my brethren and my people. I hadde in my heart to build an house of rest for ẏ arke of the couenaunt of the lorde, and for the fotestole of oure god, & had made ready ij.Re.v.a. i.Par.xxij.b. for the building. But god said vnto me: ẏ shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast bene a mā of war, and hast shed bloud: Moreouer the Lorde god of B i Re.xvi.a. Israel chose me before al the house of my father, to bee king ouer Israell for euer: for in Juda would he chose a captaine, & of the housholde of Juda is the house of my father, and among the sonnes of my father he hadde a lust to me to make me king ouer al Israel. And of al my sōnes (for the lord hath geuē me many sōnes) i Pa.xvij a. he hath chosen Salomō my sōne to sit vij.Pa.vi.b. pon the seat of the kingdom of the lord in Israel. And he said vnto me: Salomō thy sōne, he shal builde me an house & courts: I haue chosen him to be my sōne, & I wil be his father. I wil stablish his kingdom for euer, if he will be strong, to do my cōmaundemēts, and my lawes as it goeth this day: Now therfore in the sight of al Israel the cōgregation of the lord, & in ẏ audiēce of our god, kepe & seke for all the commaundemētes of the lord your god, that ye may enioye a good land, & leaue inheritance for your childrē after you for euer. And thou Salomon my sōne, know thou the god of thy father, & serue him wt a pure heart, & with a swete corage. For the lord sercheth al heartes, & vnderstandeth all the imaginations of thoughtes: Ps.vij.c. And if thou seke him, he will be founde of the. But if thou forsake him, he will caste the of for euer. Take hede nowe, for the lorde hath chosen thee, to builde him an C house of a sanctuary. Be strōg therfore, & play the mā. And Dauid gaue Salomon his sonne the paterne of the porche (of the temple also) & of the houses ẏ longed ther-to, of the storehouses, vpper chābers inner parlours, & of the house of the mercy seat: and the example of al ẏ he had in hys mind, for the courtes of the house of the lord, & for al the cels round about, for the tresures of the house of god, & for the tresures of the dedicate thinges, and for the diuisiōs of the priestes & Leuites ẏ way-ted by course, & for all the workmanship ẏ should serue for the house of the Lord, & for al the vessels that should serue in ẏ house of the lorde. For golde, and for the weight of gold, for al vessels of sōdry ministrations, for al maner of vessels of siuer in weight, & for all vessels whatsoe-uer purpose thei serued vnto, the weight of golde for the cādlestickes, & the golde for their lāpes, with ẏ weight for euerye cādlestick, & for the lāpes therof. And for the candlesticks of siluer by waight, both for the cādlestick and also for her lāpes, according to the diuersitye of the vse of euery cādelstick. And by weight (he gaue) golde for the tables of shewbred, euen for euery table, and likewise siluer for the tables of siluer. And gold for fleshhokes, D cups, & drinking pots. And pure golde in weight for bases, euē for euery basē. And likewise siluer by weight for euery basen of siluer. And for the alter of incense pure gold by weight. And gold for the paterne of the charet of the cherubs ẏ stretched oute their winges, and couered ẏ arke of the couenāt of the lord. Al (said he) was geuē me by writing of the hand of ẏ lord which made me vnderstande al the work manship of the paterne. And Dauid sayd to Salomon his sonne: be strong, & doe manfully feare not, nor be faint harted, for the Lorde god, euen my god, is with thee, & he shal not fail ẏ, nor forsake thee vntil thou hast finished al the worke that muste serue for the house of the lord: Be-holde, the priestes & Leuites are deuided in cōpanies for all maner of seruice that pertaineth to the house of god, they are with the for al maner of workmanship, and so are al that excel in wisedō for any maner of seruice. Thou hast also the lor-des and all the people for euerye thing ẏ thou hast nede of.

The.xxix. Chapter.

The offeringes of Dauid, and of the princes, for the building of the temple Dauid dieth: and Salomon his sonne raigneth in his stede.

AND Dauid the king saide I vnto all the congregation: iij.Reg.
God hath specially chosen Salomon my sonne which is yet yong and tendre, and the worke is greate: for the house shall not be for man, but for the Lorde God. Moreouer, I haue prepared with all my mighte for the house of God, golde for vessels of golde, siluer for thē of siluer, brasse for thinges of brasse yron for thinges of yron, and woode for thinges thinges of wood, & Onix stones, & stones to be set, glistering stones, and of diuers colours, & all maner of precious stones, & marble stones in great aboundaūce. And because I haue lust to ẏ house of my god: I haue of mine owne proper good, of B gold & siluer which I haue seuerally geuen to the house of my God, beside all ẏ I haue prepared for ẏ holy house, euē .iii.

M. talētes of gold of Ophir, & .vii. M. talents of tried siluer, to ouerlay the wal-les of the houses withal: the gold for thiges of gold, siluer for thē of siluer, & for al maner of work by the hands of artifi-cers. And whosoeuer is willig may this day cōsecrate his hād vnto the lord. And so the ancient fathers and the lordes of ẏ tribes of Israel, the captains of thousādes & hūdreds, with the lords ẏ were rulers ouer the kings work, wer willing, & gaue for ẏ seruice of the house of god .v. thousād talents of gold, & ten thousande peces of gold, & ten thousand talentes of siluer, & .xviii. M. talents of brasse, & one hūdred. M. talētes of yrō. And they with whō precious stones wer foūd, gaue thē C to the treasure of the house of the lord, by the hād of Jehiel the Gersonite. And the people reioysed whē they were so willing to geue their goods, & with a perfit heart they offred vnto the lord. And Dauid the king reioysed with great gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the lord before all the congregation, and said: Blessed be thou lord god of Israel oure father, frō euer & for euer. Thine (O lord) is gretnesse & power glory, victory and praise: for al that is in heauen & in earth, is thine, & thine is the kingdom (O lord) & thou excellest aboue al, euen as the head of al. And riches and honor come of thee, & thou raignest ouer D all. And in thine hand is power & strēgth, and in thine hand is to make great, and to geue strength vnto al. And now oure god, we thank thee, & praise thy glorious name. But who am I, and what is my people, ẏ we should enforce our selues to Ge.xlvii. Ps.xxxix. c geue these thinges so willingly? But all things come of the, & of ẏ which we re-ceiued at thine hande, we haue geuen the.
Heb.xi. c 1.Pet.ii. b For we be but straungers before the, & soiourners as were all oure fathers.
Our dayes on ẏ earthe also are but as a shadow, & there is none abiding. O Lord oure god all this stuffe ẏ we haue prepapared to build the an house for thine holy name, commeth of thine hand, & is al thine I wote also my god, that thou tryest the hearts, & hast pleasure in vnfainednesse.
And in the vnfainednesse of mine heart,
I haue willingly offred al these thinges.
And now haue I seen thy people whiche are foūd here, to offer vnto thee willingly and with gladnesse. O lord god of Abrahā, Isaac, & of Israel, our fathers, kepe thys for euer as the beginning of the E thoughts of the hearte of thy people, and prepare their hearts vnto the. And geue vnto Salomō my sonne a perfit heart to kepe thy cōmaūdemēts thy testimonies, and thy statutes, & to doe all, & to build ẏ house, for the which I haue made proui-siō. And Dauid said to all the congregation: Now blesse the lord your god. And all the congregation blessed the lord god of their fathers & bowed down their hea-des, & worshipped the lorde and the king.
And they offred offringes vnto the lord.
And on the morow after ẏ said day, they offred burnt offringes vnto the lord, euē a thousand yong oxen, a thousand rammes, & a thousand shepe, with their drink F offringes. Many sacrifices offred they for al Israel, and did eate and drinkē before the lorde the same daye, with greate gladnesse. And they made Salomon the iii.Re.ii.c sonne of Dauid king the second time, and annointed him prince before the lord: and Zadok to be ẏ hie priest. And Salomō sat on the seat of ẏ lord, & was king in stede of Dauid his father, & prospered: and all they of Israel obeyed him. And al ẏ lor-des & men of power, and al the sonnes of iii.Re.iii. a king Dauid submitted thē selues, & wer vnder king Salomon. And the lord ma-gnified Salomon in dignity in the sight of al thē of Israel, and gaue him so glorious a kingdom, as no kyng had before him in Israel. And so Dauid the sōne of Isai, reigned ouer all Israell. And the space that he reigned ouer Israell was .xl. yere: seuē yere reigned he in Hebron, & xxxiii. yere reigned he in Jerusalem: & he died in a good age, ful of dayes, riches & honor. And Salomon his sonne reigned in his stede. The actes of Dauid the kig first & last, behold they are written in the boke of Samuel ẏ sear, and in the booke of Nathan the prophete, & in the boke of Gad the sear, with al his kingdome and power, & times ẏ wēt ouer him, & ouer al Israel, & ouer al ẏ kingdoms of ẏ earth.

¶ The end of the first boke of the Chronicles: otherwise called the first boke of Paralipomenon.

The seconde boke of the Chronicles, whiche in the Hebrue is one with the firste.

The first Chapter.

The offring of Salomon in the hilaulter at Gibeon, where he receiueth an aunswere of god, what wisedome should be geuen him, with the number of his charets and horsemen.

A ANd Salomon the sōne of Dauid wa-red strong in hys kingdō: & the lorde hys god was with iii Re.iii. him, * & magnified
a. him in the dignity.
And Salomon
spake vnto all Israel, to the captaines ouer thousādes, to the captains ouer hūdreds, to the iudges & to euery officer in al Israel, & to the an-iii Re.iii cient fathers. And so Salomon & al ÿ cō-
a. gregation with him * went to ÿ hie place i. Par. ÿ was at Gibeon * for ther was the taxxi.d. bernacle of witnesse of God which Mo-Ex.xxvi ses the seruant of the Lorde made in the xxxvii. & wyldernesse. But the arke of God * had xxxviii. Dauid brought from Kiriath Iarim, in-ii Re.vi to the place whiche Dauid hadde prepa-
a. red therfore.
For he had pitched a tent for it at Ieru-Exo. ii salē. Moreouer the brasen aulter ÿ * Be-xxxviii. a zaleel the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made, was there beefore the tabernacle of the lord. And Salomō & the cōgregatiō went to visite it. And Salomō gat vp ther before ÿ lord, to ÿ brasē aul-B ter ÿ was before the tabernacle of wit-iii Re.iii nesse, & offred a thousād burnt sacrifices
c. vpō it. And ÿ same night did god appere vnto Salomō, and saide vnto him, aske what I shal geue the. And Salomō said vnto god, ÿ hast shewed great mercy vnto Dauid my father, & haste made me to reigne in his stede. Now therfore, O lord god, let thy promise which ÿ madest vnto Dauid my father be true. * For thou hast made me king ouer a people whiche is like the duste of the earth in multitude: wherfore geue me now wisedō & knowlege, ÿ I may be able to goe in & out before this people: for who els (worthely) cā iudge this people ÿ is so greate. And god said to Salomon: because this was in thine heart, & because ÿ hast not asked treasure, riches, & honor, & the liues of C thine enemies, neither yet long life, but haste asked wisedom & knowlege for thy selfe to iudge my people, ouer whiche I haue made the king, wisedō & knowlege is grauted vnto thee, & I will geue ÿ tresure and riches, and glory, so that amōg the kinges that haue been before the or after the, none was or shalbe like the.
And so Salomon came frō the hilaulter (that was at Gibeon) to Ierusalē, from ÿ tabernacle of witnes, & reigned ouer Israel. * And Salomō gathered charets & horsemen, & he had a. M. iiii. C. charets &. xii. M. horsemē, whō he bestowed in ÿ D charet cities, & with the king at Ierusalē. * And the king made siluer & golde at Ierusalē as plenteous as stones: & ceder trees made he as plenty as the mulbery trees ÿ grow in the valleis & the horses which Salomon had, were brought him out of Egipt by the kinges marchaunts ÿ wer together: which beīg of one cōpany, toke thē out at a price. They came also & brought out of Egipt a charet for. vi. C. peces of siluer, euen a horse for an. C. and fifty. And so brought they horses for all the kinges of the Hethites, and for ÿ kinges of Siria by theyr owne hande.

The secōd Chapter.

Salomon sendeth to Hiram the king of Tire for wood and workemen.

AND Salomō determined to build an house for the name of the lord, and an house for his kigdome: and Salomon tolde out. lxx. M. mē to beare burthens. lxxx. M. mē to hewe stones in the mountain, & iii. M. & vi. C. to ouerse thē. And Salomon sent to Hirā the king of Tire, saying: As thou diddest deale wt Dauid my father, & diddest send him Cedre wood to build him an house to dwell
in to, euē so deale with me, For I am about to build an house for the name of the lord my god: to offer vnto him holy thinges, & to burne swete incense, and to sette the w[a]= bred before him continuallye: to offer burnt sacrifices of the morning and eue= ning: on the Sabboth dayes, in the first day of euery new mone, and in the solēne feastes of the lord our god, for it is an or= B dinaunce to be cōtinually kept of Israel.

And ẏ house which I build shalbe great, for great is our god aboue al gods: But who is hable to build him an house, whē that heauē and heauen aboue al heauēs, is not able to receiue him? What am I then that I shoulde builde him an house? naye, but euen to burne sacrifice before him, shal this building be: sende me now therfore a conning man that can worke in gold and siluer, in brasse & iron in pur= ple, cremosin & yelow silk, & that can skil to graue with the conning men that are with me in Iuda and Ierusalem, whom Dauid my father did prepare. Send me also Cedre trees, Pine trees, & Almuge trees oute of Libanon. For I wote that C thy seruauntes can skil to hew tymber in Libanon. And behold, my menne shalbe with thine ẏ thei may prepare me timbre ynough. For ẏ house which I am deter= mined to build, shalbe wonderful great.
And behold, for the vse of thy seruauntes the cutters & hewers of timber, I haue geuē .xx. M. quarters of beaten wheat, & xx. M. quarters of barly, & .xx. M. bates of wine, and .xx. M. bates of oyle. And Hiram king of Tire answered in wri= ting which he sent to Salomon: Because the Lord hath loued his people, therfore he hath made the king ouer thē. And Hi= ram said moreouer: blessed be the Lorde god of Israel which made heauē & earth & that hath geuē Dauid the king a wise sonne, and one that hath discretion, pru= dence & vnderstanding to build an house for the Lorde, and a palace for himselfe.
And now I haue sent a wise man, and a man of vnderstanding (whom my father Hirā did vse) the sonne of a womā of the D daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tire, and he can skill to worke in golde and siluer, in brasse and yron, in stone, and timber, in purple and yelowe silk: in fine white and crismosin; and can graue sundry maner of grauinges, & to find out diuers maner of subtle worke ẏ shalbe set before him, with thy connyng men, & with the conning men of my lord Dauid thy father. Nowe therefore the wheat & barly, oyle, & wine, whiche my lorde hath spokē of, let him sēde vnto hys seruauntes. And we wil cut wood in Li= banō as much as thou shalt nede, & will bring it to the in ships by sea to Iapho, frō whence thou mayst cary thē to Ieru= salē. And Salomon nūbred al the stran= gers ẏ wer in the land of Israel, after ẏ nūber of thē who his father Dauid had nūbred. And they wer foūd an hūdred .liii.
M. & .vi. C. And he set .lxx. M. of them to beare burthēs, & .lxxx. M. to hew stones in the mountain: and thre thousand and
vi. C. officers to set the people a worke.

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

The temple of the Lord and the porch are buil= ded, with other thinges therto belonging.

AND Salomon began to builde ẏ house of the lord at Ierusalem in mount Moria where (the Lord) A. i. Pa. xxi. a. appeared vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place ẏ Dauid prepared in the thre= shing floure of Ornam the Iebusite.
And he *begā to build in the second daye iii Re. vi. a. of the seconde moneth the fourth yere of his reigne. And these are the paternes Act. vii. f. wherby Salomō was instruct to builde the house of god. The length was thre= score cubites after the olde measure, and the bredth .xx. cubites. The porch, that was in bredth as large as the tēple, had xx. cubites: and the heigth was an hun= dred and .xx. cubites. And he ouerlayed it on the inner side with pure gold. And the greater house he silled with firre tree, which he ouerlayed with the best gold, & graued therto palmtrees and chaines.
And he ouerlayed ẏ house with precious stone beautifully. And the gold was gold of Paruaim. The house (I saye) the bea= mes, postes, wales, and dores, thereof, ouerlayed he with golde, & made grauen work vpon the walles. And he made the house moste holye, whose length was .xx. cubites, like to the bredth of the house: & the bredth therof was also .xx. cubites.
And he ouerlayed it with good gold, euē with .vi. C. talentes: And the weight of the nayles of golde was fifty sicles. And he ouerlayed the vpper chambres with golde. And in ẏ house most holy he made ii. Cherubins of ymage worke like chil= iii Re. vi. a. dren, and ouerlayed them with golde.
And the winges of the Cherubs wer .xx. C cubites long. The one wing was .v. cubi= tes reaching to ẏ walle of the house, & the other

other wing was likewise.v.cubites re-ching to the wing of the other Cherub.
And euen so the one wing of the other Cherub was.v.cubites, reching to the wal of the house and the other wing was v.cubites also, and reached to the wing of the other Cherub. So that the wings of the said Cherubs wer stretched oute. xx.cubites, and they stode on their fete and loked inwardes. And he made a fore hanging of yelow silk, purple, crismosin, and fine white, and caused the pictures of Cherubs to be brodred thereon.
And he made beefore the house.ii. pillers of.xxxv.cubites hie. And the head ỹ was aboue vpon the top of euery one of them, was.v.cubites, and he made cheines, of wrethen work for the quere, and put thẽ on the heades of the pillers, and made an hũdred pomegranates, and put them on the chaines. And he reared vp ỹ pillers before the temple one on the right hand, and the other on the lefte: and called the right Jachin, and the left Boaz.

The.iiii.Chapter.

The aulter of brasse, the lauatorye, the vessels to washe with. The candlestickes.&c.

A And he made an aulter of brasse.xx cubites lõg, & xx.cubites broad, & iii Re.vii x.cubites hie.* And he cast a brasẽ
b. lauatory of.x.cubites from brim to brim, round in compas, and fiue cubites hye: & a line of.xxx.cubites did compas it round aboute. And vnder it was the fashion of oxen which did compas it round aboute: with.x.cubites did they compasse the la-uatory round about. and there wer two rowes of oxẽ which wer cast of like moltẽ worke. And it stode also vpon.xii.oxen: iii.loked toward the north.iii.toward the west.iii.toward the south, and three toward the east: and the lauatory was set vpon them, and all their backes wer to-B ward the lauatory. And the thickest of it [iii].Reg.vii was an handbred, and the brim like the brim of a cup, with floures of lilies. And it receiued & held.iii. M.bates.* And he made.x.lauers, and put fiue on the right hand, and.vi.on the left, to wash & cleanse in them such things as they offred for a burnt offring. But the great lauatorye was for the priestes to washe in. And he made.x.candlestickes of gold (according to the patern that was geuen of them) and put them in the temple, fiue on the right hande, and fiue on the left. And he made also.x.tables and put them in the temple.v.on the right side, and fiue on ỹ left. And he made and hundred basens of golde. And he made the court of the pries-tes and the great court and dores [for it] and ouerlayde the dores of them with brasse. And he set the great lauatorye [on] the righte side of the east ende ouer agaynst ỹ south. And Hirã made pottes, shouels and basens, and finished the worke that he was appointed to make for king Salomon in the house of god. The two pil- C lers, the coueringes or two heades on [the] toppes of the pillers, and the two wrethes to couer the two scalpes or heades that were on the toppes of the pillers, & iiii.C.pomegranates on ỹ two wrethes, two rowes of pomegranates on one wreth, to couer the two tops or heades, that wer on ỹ pillers. And he made two bottomes: and lauers made he vpon the botomes: the gret lauatory, and twelue oxen vnder it. Pottes also and shouels, fleshhokes, and all these vessels did Hiram (his father) make to king Salomon, for the house of the lord of bright brasse. In the plaine of Jordan dyd the king cast them, euen in the clay ground that is be-twene Socoth and Zarcdatha. And Sa-lomõ made al these vessels in great abou-dãce, for the weight of brasse could not D bee rekened. And Salomon made all the vessels that wer for the house of god: the golden aulter also, and the tables to set the shewbred vpon. Moreouer, the candlesticks, with their lamps (to burne after the maner before the quere) and that of precious gold: & the floures, and the lampes, & the snuffers made he of golde, & that perfit gold, & the dressing knyues basens, spones, & censers of pure golde.
And (he made) the dore of the temple, and the inner dores within ỹ place most holy, & the inner dores of the tẽple were gilted.
And so was al the work that Salomon made for the house of the lorde, finished.

The.v.Chapter.

The arke is brought into the temple, whiche is filled with the glory of the Lorde.

And so al ỹ work that Sa- A lomon made in the house of the lorde was finished: & Salomõ brought in al the [iii.Re.viii.] thinges that David his fa- [a.] ther had dedicated, with ỹ siluer and golde, and all the iewels, and putte them among the treasures of the house of God. * Then Salomon ga- [iii.Re.viii.] thered the elders of Israell together, [a.] and all the heades of the tribes, and aucients ciente fathers of the children of Israell, unto Jerusalē, to bring the arke of the couenant of the lord out of ỷ citie of Dauid, which is in Siō. Wherfore al ỷ mē of Israel resorted unto the king in the feast, euen in the .vii. moneth. And all the elders of Is-B rael came, & the Leuites toke vp ỷ arke.

And the priestes and the Leuites brought awaye ỷ arke of ỷ tabernacle of witnesse, and al ỷ holy vessels that wer in the tabernacle, & they bare thē. And king Salomō and al the congregation of Israel ỷ were assembled unto him before the arke, offred shepe and oxen, so many, that they coulde not be told nor numbred for multitude.
And the priestes brought the arke of the appointmente of the lord unto his place, euen into ỷ quere of the temple, within ỷ place most holy, and set it under the wyn-ges of the Cherubs, that the Cherubs stretched out their wynges ouer the place of the arke, & the Cherubs couered bothe C the arke, & her barres aboue on hye. And the barres of the arke were so long, that the heads of the barres wer sene without the arke, within ỷ quere, but not without.
3.Re.viii. And there the arke remained unto thys daye. But there was nothing in the arke saue the two tables whiche Moses put therin at Horeb, when the lord made a couenaūt with the children of Israel, after they wer come out of Egipt. And it fortuned, ỷ when the priestes wer come out of the holy place (the Sanctuary was filled with ỷ smoke) for all ỷ priestes ỷ wer present wer sanctified & did not then waite by course, that both the Leuites & the sīgers under Asaph, Hemā, and Iduthū, were appointed to sundry offices, with their D children & brethrē and wer araped in fine white, hauing simbals, Psalteries, & har-pes, & stode at the east end of ỷ alter, & by them an .C. and .xx. priestes blowing with trūpettes. And the trūpet blowers and ỷ singers so agreed that it semed but one voyce, in praysing and thākyng the lorde.
And when they lift vp their voice wt the trōpets, simbales, & other instruments of musike: and when they praised the Lorde (and said:) howe that he is good, & that hys mercy lasteth euer: the house of god was filled with a cloude, so that ỷ priests could not endure to minister by the reason of the cloude. For the maiesty of the Lorde had filled the house of God.

The .vi. Chapter.

The wordes of Salomon to the people, and the prayer that he made unto god.

THen Salomō said: the lorde 3.Re.viii. hath spoken, howe that he b. wil dwel in ỷ cloud. And I haue built an habitatiō for the, & a place for thy dwelling for euer. And the king turned his face, & blessed the whole cōgre-gation of Israel, and al the congregation of Israel stode. And he sayd: blessed be the lord god of Israel, which hath with hys hādes fulfilled it ỷ he spoke wt his mouth 2.Re.vii. to my father Dauid, saying *since ỷ day ỷ a.
I brought my people out of the lande of 3.Re.v.b.

name might be there, neither chose I any man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel: sauing ỷ I haue chosē Jerusalē, that my name might be there, & haue chosē Dauid to bee ouer my people Israel. And when ii.Pa.vii. it was in the heart of Dauid my father to b. and.xii.c builde an house for the name of the Lorde god of Israel, the lord saide to Dauid my father: for asmuch as it was in thine heart 2.Re.vii.a to build an house for my name, thou didst 3.Re.viii. wel that thou so thoughtest in thy heart. e. i.Pa.xxii Notwithstādīg, thou shalt not bylde the b. house, but thy sōne which is proceded out D of thy loines, he shal bilde an house for my name. The lord therfore hath made good his saying that he hath spoken, & I am risen vp in the roume of Dauid my father, & am set on the seate of Israell, as ỷ Lorde promised, and haue built an house for the name of the lorde god of Israel. And in it haue I put ỷ arke, wher in is ỷ couenaunt of the lord ỷ he made with the children of Israel. And ỷ king stode before the altare of the lord, in ỷ presence of all the congregation of Israel, and stretched out his hādes. For now Salomon had made a bra-sen pulpit of .v. cubites lōg, and .v. cubites brode, & iii. of heigth, and had set it in the mids of the great court, & vpon it he stode and kneled down vpō his knees before all C the congregation of Israel, and stretched 3.Re.viii. out his hāds toward heauē, & said: O lord god of Israel, there is no god like thee, in heauē & in earth, which kepest couenaūt, & shewest mercy unto thy seruauntes, that walke before the with all their heartes.
Thou which hast kept with thy seruaunt Dauid my father, the thinges that ỷ promisedst him: ỷ saidst it with thy mouth and hast fulfilled it with thy handes, as it is to se this day. And now Lorde god of Is- 3.Re.ii.c. raell, kepe with thy seruaunte Dauid my and.ix.b. father, the things ỷ thou promisedst hym 2.Pa.vii.
AA.i. saying: b.

saying: thou shalt in my sight not be without a man that shall sit vpon the seate of Israell: so that thy children take heede to their wayes, to walke in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

And nowe Lorde God of Israell, let thy saying be true whiche thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid. And will God in very dede dwell with men on erth? Beholde, heauen, and heauen aboue all heauens do not containe thee: how muche lesse the house which I haue builded? Let it be thy pleasure therefore to turne to the prayer of thy seruaunt, and to hys supplication (O Lord my God) to herken vnto ẏ voice and prayer whiche thy seruaunt prayeth before the: & let thine eyes be opē toward this house, daye & night ouer this place, wherin thou hast said, that thou wouldest put thy name, to herken vnto the prayer which thy seruaunt praieth in this place: herken vnto the praiers of thy seruaunt, and of thy people Israel, which they pray in this place: heare thou (I say) out of thy dwelling place, euen out of heauen, heare and be mercyfull. Yf a man sinne against his neighbour, and take an oth against hī, and make him to sweare, and they bothe come beefore thine aultare in this house: then heare thou from heauen, and worke and iudge thy seruaūts, that thou reward the vngodly and recompence him his way vpon his head, and iustifie the righteous, and geue him according to his righteousnesse. And if thy people Israell be put to the worse before the enemye, because they haue sinned against thee: yet if they turne and geue thankes vnto thy name, and make intercession and pray before thee in this house, them heare thou from heauen, and bee mercyfull vnto the sinne of thy people Israel, and bring them againe vnto the land which ẏ gauest to them and to their fathers. When heauen is shut vp, & there be no raine, because they haue sinned againste the: yet yf they praye in this place, & confesse thy name, & repēt frō their sinne, for the whiche ẏ chastenest thē: then heare ẏ in heauen, and be mercifull vnto the sinne of thy seruaūtes, and of thy people Israel, and guyde thou them in to the good way to walke in, & sende raine vpon the land, whiche thou hast geuen vnto thy people for an inheritaunce. And if ther be derth in the lāde or pestilence, corruption, or blasting of corne, greshoppers, or caterpillers, or that their enemies besiege thē in the cities of their land, (and destroye the countries) or what soeuer plage or sicknesse it be: Then what supplications and prayers soeuer shalbe made of any man, and of all thy people Israell, whiche shall know euery man his own sore, & his own grefe, and shal stretche out their handes toward this house, thou shalt heare from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, and shalt be merciful, & geue euery man according vnto al his wayes, euē as thou doest knowe euery mans heart: for thou onely knowest ẏ hertes of the children of men: ẏ they may feare the & walke in thy wayes as lōg as they liue in the land, which thou gauest vnto our fathers. Moreouer, the straunger whiche is not of thy people Israel, yf he come from a farre land for thy great names sake, & thy mighty hand, and thy stretched oute arme: yf they come (I say) & pray in this house: thou shalt heare frō heauē, euen from thy dwelling place, & shalt doe according to al that the strāger calleth to the for: that all people of ẏ earth may know thy name, & feare the as doeth thy people Israel, and ẏ they may knowe, howe that in this house whiche I haue built, thy name is called vpon. Yf thy people goe out to war against their enemies, by the way that thou shalt send thē, & they praye to thee, in the way toward this citie which thou haste chosen, euen toward the house whiche I haue built for thy name: thē heare thou from heauen their supplication & prayer, & helpe thē in their right. Yf they sinne against the, as there is no man but he doeth sinne, & thou be angry with thē, and deliuer thē ouer before their enemies, & they take them & leade thē away vnto a land farre or nere: yet yf they repent in their hart in the lād where they be in captiuity, and turne & pray vnto thee in the land of their captiuitie, saying: we haue sinned, we haue done euil & wickedly, & turne againe to ẏ with al their heart and al their soule, in the land of their captiuitie, where they kepe them in bondage, and so pray toward their land which thou gauest vnto their fathers, euen towarde the citie which thou hast chosen, & toward ẏ house which I haue built for thy name: Then heare thou frō heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, their supplication and their prayer, & iudge their cause, & be merciful vnto thy people whiche haue sinned against thee. Now my god, let thine eyes bee open, and thine eares attent, vnto the prayer ẏ is made in this place. Now vp O lord god, into thy resting place, thou and ẏ arke

The.vii.Chapter.

The fire consumeth the sacrifice. The lord appeareth to Salomon the second time.

A AND * when Salomon had iii.Re.viii. made an ende of praying, there came down fire from Leui.ix.d heauen and consumed the iii.Re.viii. burnte offringe and the sacrifices. And the house was filled with the glory of the lorde, and the priests could not go into the house of the lorde, because the glory of the lord had filled the lords house. And when al the children of Israel saw how the fier & the glory of the lord came down vpon the house, they fel down flat vpon their faces to the earth, vpon the pauement, and worshipped, & confessed vnto the lord, ẏ he is gra-tious, & that his mercy lasteth euer. And ẏ king & all the people offred sacrifices be-B fore the lord. And kyng Salomon offred a sacrifice of.xxii.M.oxen, and an C, and xx.M.shepe. And so the king and all the people dedicated the house of god And the priests waited on their offices & the Leui-tes had the instrumentes of musike of the lord, which kyng Dauid had made to con-fesse vnto the Lord, that his mercy lasteth euer, playing a Psalme of Dauid with their hande. And the priestes blewe wyth trompettes before them: and al they of Israel stode. Moreouer, Salomõ halowed the middle of the courte that was beefore the lord, for there he offred burntoffringes and the fat of the peace offringes, because the brasen aultar which Salomon hadde made, was not able to receyue the burnt offringes, and the meate offrynges & the fat. So at the same time Salomon kept a iii.Par.vii.g * feast of.vii.dayes, and al they of Israel with him an excedyng great congregatiõ; euen from the entring in of Hamath vnto the riuer of Egipt. And in the.viii.daye they made a gathering: For they kept the dedication of the aulter seuen dayes, and C the feast.vii.dayes. And the.xxiii.day of the vii.moneth, he let the people departe into their tentes, glad and mery in hart, for the goodnesse that the lord had shewed to Dauid and to Salomon, and to Israel iii.Re.ix.a his people. * And so Salomõ finished the house of the lorde and the kinges house: & all that came in his hart to make in the house of the lord, and in hys owne house, went prosperously forewarde. And ẏ lord appered to Salomon by night and sayde to him: I haue heard thy peticion, & haue ii.Pa.vi.g chose this place for my selfe, to be an house of sacrifice. Yf I shut vp heauen that there bee no raine: or if I commaunde the locu-stes to deuoure the land: or if I sende pestilence amõg my people: and yf they that are of my people, among whom my name is called vpon, doe humble them selues, & make intercession, and seke my presence, & turne from their wicked wayes, them wil I heare from heauen, and be mercifull to D their sinne, and will heale their land. And ii.Pa.vi. from henceforth mine eyes shall be open a. and myne eares attent vnto the prayer ẏ is made in this place. And therefore now I haue chosen & sanctified this house, that my name may be there for euer, and mine eies & mine hart shalbe there perpetually.
And if thou wilt walke before me, as Da-uid thy father walked, to do all ẏ I haue cõmaunded the, & shalt obserue my statutes & my lawes: thẽ will I stablish ẏ seate of thy kyngdom, according as I made the couenaunt w Dauid thy father, saying: * thou shalt not be without a man to be ru- ii.Re.ii.a ler in Israel. But & if ye turne away, and and.xx.b. forsake my statutes, and my commaunde- ii.Pa.vi.c mentes which I haue set before you, and shal go & serue other goddes, and worship thẽ: thẽ wil I pluck them vp by the rootes, out of my lãd which I haue geuen them, and this house which I haue sãctified for my name will I cast out of my sight, and wil make it to be a prouerbe and a iest among al natiõs. And euery one that pas- De.xxix. seth by, shall bee astonyed at thys house b. which belonged to the most hye god, and iii.Re.ix.b shall saye: why hath the lorde delt on thys Ier.xxii. fashion with this land, and w this house? c.
And they shall answere: because they forsoke the lord god of their fathers, whiche brought thẽ out of the land of Egipt, and caught holde on other goddes, and worshipped them, and serued them: euen therfore hath he brought al this euil vpon thẽ.

The.viii.Chapter.

The cities that Salomon builded, after that the house of god was finished.

AND * it fortuned, ẏ after.xx.yeare A when Salomon had built ẏ house iii.Re.ix.b of ẏ lord, & his own house: he built the cities ẏ Hirã gaue him, and put of the children of Israel in thē. And Salomon went to Hamath Zoba, and strengthed it.

And he built, Thadmor in ẏ wildernesse, and repaired al the store cities which wer in Hamath. And he bilt Bethoron the vp-per, and Bethoron ẏ nether, strong cities hauing wales, gates & barres. And Baalah, and al the store cities that Salomon B had, and al the charet cities, and the cities of the horsemen, & euery plesaunt place ẏ Salomon had lust to buylde in Ierusalē, and Libanon, and thorowout al the land of his dominion. And all the people ẏ wer left of the Hethites, Amorites, Pheresi-tes, Heuites, and Iebusites, whiche wer not of the children of Israel, but wer the children of them whiche were left after them in the lande, and wer not consumed of the children of Israel, thē did Salomon make to pay tribute vntil this day. But of the children of Israel did Salomon make no bondmen for his worke: but they wer men of warre, & rulers, and great lordes with him, & captaines ouer his charettes and horsemen. And king Salomōs offi-C cers ẏ ouersaw, and ruled the people, wer two hundred and fiftie. And Salomon brought the daughter of Pharao out of the citie of Dauid, into the house ẏ he had builded for her. For he said: my wife shall not dwell in the house of Dauid kyng of Israell, for it is holy: because that ẏ Arke of the lord is come vnto it. Thē Salomon offred burnt offringes vnto the Lorde, on the aultare of the lord, which he had built before the porch, doing euery thing in his Ex.xiii. c due time, & offring according to the com-De.xvi.c maundement of Moses, in the Sabbo-thes, new Mones, & solempne feastes iii. times in the yeare: that is to saye, in the feast of swete bread, in the fest of wekes, & in the feast of Tabernacles. And Salomon set ẏ sortes of priests to their offices as Dauid his father had ordered them: & the Leuites in their watches, for to praise and minister before the priests day by day and the porters by course, at euery gate. i Pa.ix.d For so had Dauid the man of god cōmaū-D ded. And they omitted not the commaun-dement of the king vnto the priestes & the Leuites, concerning any maner of thing, and concerning the treasures. For Salomon made prouision for the charges, from the first day ẏ the foundation of the house of the lord was laid, til it was finished, ẏ the house of ẏ lord was perfit. Then went king Salomon to Ezion Gaber, and to Eloth at ẏ (red) sea side in the land of Edō, And Hirā sent him by the hand of his seruaūtes shippes, and seruauntes that had knowledge of the sea: & thei came with the seruauntes of Salomon to Ophir, & cari-ed thence foure hundred and fyftye talentes of golde, and brought it to kyng Salomon.

The .ix. Chapter.

The communication of Salomon with the quene of Saba, & the gyftes that the one gaue the other. The death of Salomon, after whom succedeth Rehoboam.

AND when ẏ quene of Saba heard of the fame of Salomō, she came A to proue him in hard questions at 3.Re.x.a Ierusalem, with a very great company, Mat.xii. d with camels that bare spices, and plenty Luk.xi. of golde, and precious stones. And when she was come to Salomō, she communed with him of all, that she had in her heart.
And Salomon soiled her al her questiōs, and there was not one word hid frō Salomon, which he told her not. And when the quene of Saba had sene the wisedom of Salomon, and the house that he had built, & the meate of his table, ẏ sitting of his seruauntes, & the standing of his waiters, their apparel, his butlers, their apparel, his going vp, by the which he went into the house of the lord, there was nomore spirit in her. And she saide to the king: the saying which I heard in mine own land, B of thine actes, & of thy wisedom, is true. I beleued not the wordes of them, vntill I came, & mine eyes had sene it. And behold the one half of thy wisdom was not tolde me: for thou exceadest the fame ẏ I heard.
Happy are thy men, & happy are these thy seruauntes which stand before the alway, & heare thy wisdom. Blessed be the Lorde thy god, which had lust to the, to set ẏ king on his seat, that thou mightest be king, or-deyned by the lorde thy god. Because thy god loueth Israell, & hath delite to make thē continue euer therfore made he ẏ king ouer them, to dooe right and equitie. And she gaue the kyng an C. and. xx. talentes of golde, and of spices exceadyng great a-boundaunce, and precious stones, neither was there any more suche spyce, as the Quene of Saba gaue king Salomon. C And the seruauntes of Hyrā, & the seruaūtes of Salomon which brought golde frō Ophir brought also Algume wood & precious stones. And the king made of the Algume wood, steires in the house of the lord, and in the kinges palace, & harpes & psalteries, for sigers. And ther was none suche

such wood sene before in the lande of Juda. And kyng Salomon gaue to ẏ quene of Saba euery pleasaunt thynge that she asked, but not so much as she brought vnto the kyng. And so she turned and went D away to her own land with her seruauntes. The weight of gold that came to Salomon in one yeare, was syxe C.lxvi. ta-lentes of golde, besydes ẏ whiche chapmē and marchaūtes brought: and al the kynges of Arabia and rulers of that contrey, brought gold and siluer to Salomō. And kyng Salomon made two C. bucklers of beaten gold, & sixe C. sycles of beaten gold were spent vnto one buckler: and thre C. shilds made he of beaten gold, & one shild coste thre C. peces of golde: and the kyng put them in ẏ house that was in the forest of Libanon. And the kyng made a greate seate of Juory, & ouerlayde it with pure golde. And there were sixe steppes to the seate, with a fotestole of gold fastened to E the seate, & pommels on eche side of the sitting place, and two lions standing by the pommels. And .xii. lions stode on the one side & on the other vpon the sixe steppes so that ther was no such worke made in any kingdome. And all the drynkyng vessels of kyng Salomon were of golde and all the vessels of the house that was in the forest of Libanon were of precious golde: for siluer was counted nothyng worth in the dayes of Salomon. For the kinges shippes went to Tharsis with the seruauntes of Hyrā: euery .iii. yeare once came the shippes to Tharsis, and brought F golde, siluer, Juory, and apes, and peco-iii.Re.x.d. kes. And king Salomon passed al ẏ kynges of the earth, in rychesse and wisedom.
And al the kinges of the earth sought the presence of Salomon, to heare his wise-dom that god had put in his heart.
And they brought euery man hys present, vessels of siluer, and vessels of golde, ray-ment, harnes, spices, horses & mules, and *whatsoeuer might be gottē yere by yere. iii.Re.iiii. And Salomon had .iiii. thousande stalles
b. for horses, and charettes. & .xii. thousande horsmen, whō he bestowed in the char-ret cities, and some wer with the kyng at Jerusalem. And he raigned ouer all the G kynges that were from Euphrates vnto iii.Re.x.d. the land of the Philistines, and to the bor-ii.Pa.i.d der of Egipte. And the kyng made syluer in Jerusalem, as plenteous as stones.
And Ceder trees as plenteous as ẏ mulbery trees that growe in the valleys. And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egipt, and out of all landes. The reste of the actes of king Salomon first & last, iii.Re.xi.g are they not writtē in the sayings of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahiab the Silonite, and in the visions of Jddo the sear of visions against Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat? And Salomon rayg-ned in Jerusalem vpon all Israell fourty yeares. And Salomon slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid his father: and Rehoboā his sone raigned in his steade.

The. x. Chapter.

The folyshnesse of Rehoboam, and the diuision of his realme.

AND *Rehoboam went to A Sichē: for to Sichē were iii.Re.xii. al Israel come together, a. to make him king. And when Jeroboā the sonne iii.Re.x.g. of Nabat (which was fled into Egipt frō the presēce of Salomon the king) heard it, he returned out of Egipt. And they sent and called hym. And so Jeroboā and all they of Israel came & comuned wt Rehoboā, saying.
Thy father laid a greuous yoke vpon vs, now therfore remit thou somwhat of the greuous seruice of thy father, & of hys heuy yocke ẏ he put vpon vs, & we wil serue the. And he said to them: come againe vnto me after .iii. dayes. And the people departed. And kyng Rehoboam counsailed B with ẏ elders that had stande before Salomon his father, while he yet liued, and he said: what counsaile gyue ye me, to an-swere this people againe? And they tolde him, saying: Yf thou be kinde to this people, & shew thy selfe lowly to them, & speak louing wordes to them, they will bee thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the counsaile which the elders gaue him, and toke coūsaile with the yong men ẏ wer growē vp with him, & that stode in his presence.
And he said vnto thē: what aduise geue ye that we maye answer this people, whiche haue comuned wt me, saying: Abate some- C what of ẏ yocke whiche thy father did put vpon vs. And the yong mē that wer gro-wen vp with him, spake vnto him, saying: Thus shalt thou answere the people that speake to thee, saying: Thy father made our yoke heuy: but make thou it somwhat lighter for vs. Thus shalt ẏ saye vnto thē: my litle finger shalbe heuier than my fathers loines. For where my father put a iii.Re.xii.a heuy yocke vpon you, I will put more to your yocke: my father chastised you with whyppes, but I will chastice you with scorpions. And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third daye as the kyng bad, saying: come againe to me the thirde daye.

And the kyng answered them cruelly: and kyng Rehoboam left the counsell of the aged men and answered them after the aduise of the yõg men, saying: My father made your yocke greuous, and I wil adde therto: my father chastised you wt whyppes, but I wil chastice you with scorpiõs.
And so the kyng herkened not vnto the people, but the occasion came of god, that the Lorde might make good his, saying: whiche he spake, by the hande of Ahia the iii.Re.xi.f. Silonite to Jeroboam the sonne of Na-D bat. And when all they of Israel saw that the kyng would not agre vnto them, the people answered the kyng, saying: what part haue we with Dauid or enheritaũce with the sonne of Isai?
Let euery man of Israell go to his tent.*
iii.Re.xii.d And now Dauid, see to thine own house.
And so all Israell gat them to their ten-tes, so that Rehoboã rayned ouer no moe of the children of Israel, than dwelt in the cities of Juda. Then kyng Rehoboam also sent Haduram that was ruler ouer the tribute. and the children of Israell stoned him with stones that he died. But kyng Rehoboam made spede to get him vp to his charet, to flye to Jerusalem. And they of Israell rebelled againste the house of Dauid, vnto this daye.

The.xi.Chapter.

Rehoboam is forbidden to fight against Jeroboam. He hath.xviii wiues, and lx.concubynes, and by them.xxviii.sonnes and.lx.daughters.

iii.Re.xii e AND when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Juda and Ben Jamin, nine score M.chosen men of warre to fight agaynst Israell, and to bring the kingdom, again to Rehoboã.
And the worde of the Lorde came to Semeiahu ye man of god, saying: speake vnto Rehoboam, the sonne of Salomon kyng of Juda, and to all them of Israel that are in Juda, and Ben Jamin, and saye: thus sayeth the Lord: Ye shall not goe vp B nor fyght agaynst your brethren: returne euery man to his house for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the wordes of the Lorde, and returned from going against Jeroboam. And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built strong cities in Juda. He builded vp Bethleem: and Ethã, and Theko: Bethzur, Socho, and Adul-lam: Gath, & Marthea: and ziph Adura-him. Lachis and Asecha: Zorea, Aialon and Hebron, which is in Juda and Ben Jamin, strong cities. And he repaired the strong holdes, and put captaines in them, C and store of vitayle, and wine, and oyle.
And in all cities he put shildes & speares, and made them excedyng strong hauing Juda and Ben Jamin on hys syde.
And the priests and the Leuites that wer in all Israell, resorted vnto him out of all their coastes. For the Leuites left theyr suburbes and their possession, and came to Juda and Jerusalẽ: * for Jeroboã and ii.Par his sonnes had caste them out from mini- b. string vnto ye lord. * And he ordeined him Priestes for the hilaulters, for the deuils, iii.Re.xi and for the calues, whiche he had made. g And after the Leuites there went out all the tribes of Israell, suche as submitted their heartes so seke the lord god of Israel, and came to Jerusalem, to offer vnto ye Lorde God of their fathers. And so they strengthed the kingdom of Juda, & made Rehoboã the sonne of Salomõ mightye, thre yere long, for.iii. yeare they walked in the way of Dauid and Salomon: And D Rehoboã toke him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the sonne of Dauid to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sonne of Isai, which bare him childrẽ, Jeus, Samaria, and Zaha. And after her iii.Re.xv he toke *Maaka the daughter of Absalõ whiche bare him Abia, Atthai, Ziza, and Selomith. And Rehoboã loued Maacah the daughter of Absalõ aboue all his wiues and concubines, for he toke.xviii.wiues, and.iii.score concubines, and begat.
xxviii.sonnes, and.iii.score daughters.
And Rehoboam made Abiah the sonne of Maacah the chefe ruler among his brethren, & to haue the ouersight of the kingdom. And he played wisely, and scatered al his children thorow out al ye countryes of Juda & Ben Jamin vnto euery strõg citie. And he gaue them aboundaunce of vitayle, and obtained many wiues.

The.xii.Chapter.

Sesack king of Egipte robbeth the temple of the lorde. Rehoboam dyeth, and Abia hys sonne succe-deth hym.

And

I And it came to passe, that 3.Re.xiiii whẽ Rehoboam had stablished the kingdom & became mightie, he forsoke the law of the lord, and al Israell with him. And it fortuned ẏ in the fift yere of king Rehoboã, Sesac the king of Egipt came vp against Jerusalem, because they had transgressed against the lord, with xii.
C. charets, & lx. M. horsemẽ. And the people wer without nũbre, ẏ came with hym out of Egipt, Lubim, Suckim, and the B blacke mores. And they toke ẏ strong cities in Juda, & came to Jerusalem. Then came Semeia the prophet to Rehoboam & to the lordes of Juda, ẏ wer gathered together with in Jerusalẽ for Sesac, & saied vnto them: thus saith the lord: ye haue left me, & therefore haue I also left you in the handes of Sesac. Wherupon the lordes of Israel, & the king hũbled themselues, and said: the lord is righteous. And when the lord saw ẏ they submitted themselues, the word of the lord came to Semeia, saying: They submit thẽ selues, therefore I will not destroy thẽ. But I will deliuer thẽ som-what, & my wrath shal not burne vpõ Jerusalem by the hand of Sesac. Neuerthelesse, they shalbe his seruauntes, to knowe what difference is betwene my seruice, & C the seruice of the kingdome of the world.
And so Sesac king of Egipt came to Je-rusalẽ, and toke awaye the treasures of ẏ house of the lord, & the treasure of the kinges house he toke euẽ al. And he caryed away the shildes of gold, whiche Salomon made. In steade of whiche, king Rehoboã 3.Re.x.a. made shilds of brasse, & cõmitted thẽ to the hãds of the captaines, which had the ouersight of the fote men, and that kepe the entraunce of the kinges house. And it came to passe that whẽ the king entred into the house of the lord, the garde came & set thẽ and brought them againe vnto the garde chamber. And when he humbled himself, the wrath of ẏ lord turned from him, that D he would not destroy all together. And in Juda al was wel. And so king Rehoboam waxed mightye, & raigned in Jerusalem.
And Rehoboã was. xli. yeare olde, when he begã to raigne, & he raigned. xvii. yea-res in Jerusalẽ, the citie which the Lorde had chosen out of all the tribes of Israell to put his name there. And his mothers name was Naama an Ammonitesse. * 3.Re.xiiii f.
And he did euill because he prepared not his hert to seke the lord. The actes also of Rehoboã, first & last, are they not written in the sayinges of Semeia the prophet, & of Iddo the Sear, which noted the genealogy. And there was warre alwaye be-twene Rehoboam and Jeroboam. And Rehoboam slepte with his fathers, & was buried in the citie of Dauid, and Abia hys sonne raigned in hys steade.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The victory of Abia against Jeroboam.

The. xviii. year of king Jeroboam, began Abia to A raigne ouer Juda, and he raigned. iii. yeare in Je-rusalẽ. His mothers name also was Michaiahu the daughter of Uriel of Gi-bea. And there was warre betwene Abia 3.Re.xv.a and Jeroboam. And Abia made pro-uision for warre, hauing valeaunt and expert menne of warre, euen. iiii. C.
M. chosen mẽ. And Jeroboã set himselfe in aray to fight against him with. viii. C.
M. picked mẽ, which wer strong & men of armes. And Abia stode vp vpon Zemaraim an hil, which is in mount Ephraim, & said: heare me thou Jeroboam and all Israel, Doe not you know how that the lord god of Israel gaue the kingdome ouer them of Israell, to Dauid for euer, euen to him & to his sonnes with a salted couenaunt.
And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat ẏ ser- B uaunt of Salomõ the sonne of Dauid, is risen vp, & hath rebelled against his lord.
And ther gathered to him leude men the children of Belial, and preuayled againste Rehoboã the sonne of Salomõ, whẽ Rehoboam was yong & tender hearted, and could not stande before them. And now ye say, that ye be able to preuaile against the kingdome of the lord, which is in the hãde of the sõnes of Dauid, and ye bee a great multitude, & haue ẏ golden calues whiche Jeroboã made you for gods. And haue ye 3.Re.xii.f not cast out the priestes of ẏ lorde the son- Pa.xi.a nes of Aaron, and the Leuites, and haue made you priestes after the maner of the nations of other landes: so that whosoeuer commeth and consecrateth his hand with a yong oxe & .vij. rammes, the same maye be a Priest of them that are no goddes.

But we belong vnto ẏ lord our god whõ we haue not forsaken, & the priestes are ẏ sonnes of Aaron which minister vnto the C lord, and the Leuites waite vpon their office. They burne vnto the lord euery morning & euening, burnt sacrifices & swete incense, the shewe bread set they in order vpon a pure table: and prepare the cãdel-sticke of gold with the lampes of the same to burne euer at euen. And truly, we kepe the watche of the Lorde oure god: but ye haue forsaken him. And beholde, god him selfe is our captaine, and his priests blow Leui.x.a with the trõpettes, & cry alarum agaist you. O ye children of Israell, fight not against the lord god of your fathers, for it wil not prosper with you. But for all that, Jeroboam conueyed men priuyly about, to come behinde them: and so they wer before Juda, and the lyers in wayte wer behind them. And when they of Juda loked about, beholde, ẏ battaile was before and behind, and they cryed vnto the lorde, and the priests blew with the trompettes, and the men of Juda gaue a shoute. And as ẏ menne of Juda shouted, it came to passe, that god smote Jeroboam and all Israel before Abia and Juda. And the childrẽ of Israell fled before Juda, and god deliue-red thẽ into their hand. And Abia and his people slue a great slaughter of them: ther fell down wounded of Israeli .v. C M. chosen men. And so the children of Israel, wer brought vnder at ẏ time: and the childrẽ of Juda preuailed, because thei leaned vnto the lord god of their fathers. And Abia folowed after Jeroboam, and toke cities from him: Bethel, with the townes belonging therto: Jesena, with ẏ townes that belonged therto: and Ephron with her townes. And Jeroboam recouered no strenght again in the dayes of Abia. And the lord plaged him, and he died. But A-bia waxed mightie, & maried .xiiii. wiues, and begat .xxii. sõnes, and .xvi. daughters.
The rest of ẏ actes of Abia, his customes and his sayinges are wrytten in the storye of the prophet Iddo.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

Of Asa kyng of Juda.

SO Abia slept with his fa- 1 thers, & they buryed hym in the cytie of Dauid, and Asa his sonne reigned in his stead: In whose daies the lãd was in quyetnesse ten yeare. And Asa did ẏ was good and right in the eyes of ẏ Lord 3.Re.15 his God: for he tooke awaye straung aulters and the hilaulters, and brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and commaunded Juda to seke the Lord god of their fathers, and to do accordinge to the law and commaundement. And he put away out of all the cities of Juda, the hilaulters and the ymages: and the kyngdom was quiet before hym. And he buylt stronge cities in Juda: because the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeares. For the Lord had geuen him rest.
Therefore he sayd to Juda: let vs builde these cyties and make about them walles, towers, gates, and barres, for the land is B yet in reste before vs, because we haue sought the lord our God: we haue sought him, and he hath geuen vs reste on euery side: and so thei built, and it prospered with them. And Asa had an army of men that bare shilds and speares out of Juda, thre hundred thousande: and out of Bẽ Jamin that bare shyldes, and drue bowes, two hundred and foure score thousãd, all these were valiant men. And there came out a- C gainst thẽ, Zarah the blacke Morian with 2.Par. an host of ten hundred thousand, and thre c. hundred charettes, and came as farre as Maresa. And Asa went out before hym and they ioyned the battaile in the valley of Zephata beside Maresa. And Asa cried vnto the Lorde his god, and sayed: Lorde ther many, or them that haue no power: b. helpe vs therefore, O lord our god, for we trust to thee, and in thy name we goe a gaynst thys multitude.

Thou art the Lorde our god, and no man shall preuaile against the. So the Lorde smote the blacke mores before Asa & Ju- D da and the blacke mores fledde. And Asa and the people that was with hym folo-wed after them vnto Gerer.
And the blacke mores hoste was ouer-throwen, that there was none of thẽ left, but were destroyed before the Lorde and before hys hoste. And they caryed awaye a mightie great praye. And they smote all the cities rounde about Gerer. For the feare of the Lorde came vpon them. And they they spoyled all the cities, and there was excedyng myche spoyle in them: they smote also the tentes of catell, and caryed awaye plenty of shepe and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

The. xv. Chapter.

Kyng Asa by the monition of the prophet Azaria, sacrificeth to the lord. He depriueth his mother of her dominion.

A And the spirit of god came vpon Azaria, the sonne of Obed. And he went oute to mete Asa, and sayd vnto him: heare me Asa, and al Juda, and Ben Jamin. The Lorde is with you, whyle ye be with him, and when ye seke him, he will be founde of you: and agayne when ye forsake hym, he also will forsake you. And truly for a long season in Israel no man soughte the true god, no man regarded the priest that taught thē, no man cared for the lawe. And when any man in his trouble dyd turne vnto the Lord God of Israel and sought him he was founde of them. And in that time there was no peace to him, that dyd goe out and in, but great sedition was there among all the inhabitors of the earth. And nation was destroyed of nation, and citie of citie: For God did moue al aduersity among them. Playe ye therfore the menne, and let not your handes slacke, for your worke shall

B be rewarded. And when Asa heard those wordes, and the prophecye of Azaria, the sonne of Obed ẏ prophet he toke courage, and put awaye the abhominable ydols out of all the land of Juda and Ben Jamin, and out of the cities whiche he wanne in mount Ephraim: and renued the Alter of al the lord, that was before the porche of the lorde. And he gathered all Juda and Ben Jamin, and the straungers with thē out of Ephraim, Manasse, and Simeon. For there fell manye to him oute of Israell, when they saw that the lord his god was with him: So they assembled at Jerusalē the thyrd moneth, the fiftenth yere of the reigne of Asa. And they offered vnto the Lorde the same time of the spoyle whiche they had broughte, vii. hundred oxen and. vii. thousande shepe.

And they made a couenaunt to seke the C Lorde god of theyr fathers, with all theyr heart, and all theyr soule. And whosoeuer would not seke the Lorde god of Israel, shoulde dye for it: whether he were small or great, man or woman. And they sware vnto the lord with a loude voice, shouting and blowing with trompets & shawmes. And all they in Juda reioysed at the othe, for they had sworne vnto the lord with all their heart, and soughte him with all their lust, & he was found of thē. And the Lord gaue thē rest round about on euerye syde. And kyng Asa put Maacha his mother oute of authoritie, because she had made an abhominable ydole (of Priapus) in a groue: & Asa brake down her ydole, & stāped it, & burnt it at the broke Cedrō But all the hyalters wer not taken awaye out of Israell: thoughe the heart of Asa was perfit all his dayes. And he brought into the house of god ẏ thinges that his father had dedicate, and that he himself had dedicate: euen siluer & gold, & iewelles. & And there was no more warre vnto the. xxxv. The. xvi. Chapter.

Asa for feare of Baasa king of Israell, maketh a couenant with Benhadad king of Siria.

In the. xxxvi. yere of the reygne of Asa, came * Baasa kig of Israell vp against Juda, & builte Rama to thentēt that he would let none passe out or in (facile) to Asa king of Juda. And Asa set out gold and siluer, oute of the tresures of the house of the Lorde, and of the kynges house, and sent to Benhadad kyng of Siria that dwelte at Damasec, and sayd. There is a confederation betwene me and the, betwene my father and thine. Behold, I haue sent the siluer & gold, that thou wilt come and breake thine appointmente with Baasa kyng of Israel, that he maye depart from me. And Benhadad graunted vnto kyng Asa, & sent the captains of his army to the cities of Israel. And they smote Jiō, Dā, and Abelmaim, & the strong cities of Nephthaly. And when Baasa heard this, he A iii. Re. xv. c

At that same time Hanani the sear came to Asa kyng of Juda, and sayde vnto him: because thou haste trusted the kyng of Siria, and not rather putte thy truste in the Lorde thy God, therfore is the hoste of the kyng of Siria escaped continued very long. And in his sicknesse, he sought not the lorde, but phisicions.

And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the .xli. yere of his reigne. And they buried him in his owne sepulchre, whiche he had made for himselfe in the citie of Da-uid, and laid him in the bed which he had filled with diuers kindes of spices & swete odours, made by the craft of the poteca-ries. And they burnt very muche spice a-boute him.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Jehosaphat causeth the feare of the lorde to bee renued among the people.

A Math. i. b AND Jehosaphat his sone reigned in his stede, and preuailed against Israel.
And he put souldiors in all the strõg cities of Juda, and set rulers in the land of Juda, & in the cities of Ephraim, whiche Asa hys father had won. And the Lord was with Jehosaphat, because he walked in the olde wayes of hys father Dauid, and sought not Baalim: But sought the lorde god of his father, and walked in his commaundementes: and not after the doynges of Israel. And the lord stablished the kyngdom in his hand, and al they that were in Juda, brought him presents, so that he had aboundãce of ryches and honor. And he lift vp his heart vnto the wayes of the lord, and he put down yet more of the hylalters & groues out of Juda. In the .iii. yere of his reigne, he sent to hys Lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, Zacharia, Ne-B thanel, and to Michaiahu, ye they shoulde teache in the cities of Juda, & with them he sente Leuites: euen Semeiahu, Nethaniahu, Zabadiahu, Asahel, Semiramoth, Jehonathan, Adoniahu, Tobia-hu, and Tubadonia, and with them Eli-samah and Jehoram priestes. And they taught in Juda, and had the booke of the law of God with them, and went aboute throughout all ye cities of Juda, & taught C the people. And the feare of the lorde fell vpon all the kyngdomes of the lãdes that were round about Juda, and they fought not agaynst Jehosaphat: and some of the Philistines brought Jehosaphat giftes & tribute siluer. And therto the Arabians brought him cattel: euen .vii. M. and .vii.
C. rams, and .vii. M. & .vii. C. he goates.
And so Jehosaphat prospered & grewe vp on hye. And he built in Juda, castels, and strong cities, and he had great substaunce in the cities of Juda, but the mẽ of armes and strongest souldiors wer in Jerusalẽ.
And these ar the offices of them in ye houses of their fathers, ye captains ouer thousandes in Juda. Adna the captain, & with him of fighting men .iii. C. M. And next D to his hãd was Jehohanan a captain, and with him .ii. C. & .lxxx. M. And next hym was Amazia the sonne of Zichri, which of his own good wil offred himself vnto the Lord, and with him .ii. C. M. mighty men of war. And of the childrẽ of Ben Jamin, Eliada a man of might, and with him armed men with bowe and shielde .ii. C. M. him an .C. lxxx. M. that wer prepared for the warre. These wayted on the kyng, be-the kyng of Israel said vnto Jehosaphat, there is yet one man, by whom we maye aske the lord. But I hate him, for he ne-

& the same is Michea the sonne of Jimla.
And Jehosaphat saide: let not the kyng the kyng of Israel,and Jehosaphat kyng side the gate of Samaria, and all y Prophetes prophecied before them.

And one Zedechia the sonne of Chanana had made him hornes of yron, and sayde: thys sayeth the Lorde, with these shalte thou ouerthrowe Siria, vntill they bee C brought to nought. And all the prophetes prophecied euen so,saying: Go vp to Ra-moth in Gilead,and it shall prosper wyth thee:for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the hand of the kyng. And the messenger that went to cal Michea,spake to him,saying: behold,the wordes of the prophetes speake good to the kyng with one assent, let thy woordes therefore be lyke one of theyrs, that thou speake that whiche is pleasaunt.
And Michea sayd:as truely as the Lorde liueth,euen what my god saith, that will I speake. And when he was come to the kyng,the kyng sayde vnto him: Michea, shoulde we goe to Ramoth in Gilead to fight,or leaue of? And he sayd:goe vp,and al shalbe well: & they shalbe delyuered into your hand. And the kyng sayde to hym: D So and so many times do I charge thee, that thou say nothing but y trueth to me in the name of the Lord. Then he sayd: I did se al them of Israel scatered in y moūtaines,as shepe that haue no shepeherd.
And the lorde sayd:these haue no maister, let them returne euery man therefore to his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel said vnto Jehosaphat:dyd I not tel y that he would not prophecy good vnto me,but euil? But he sayde agayne:therfore heare 3.Re.xxii. b. ye the word of the Lord:* I saw the lord deceiue Ahab,kyng of Israel:that he may go vp and be ouerthrowen at Ramoth in Gilead? And he sayd:one sayth this, another that. And ther came out a spirite and stoode before the Lorde,and sayd: I will deceiue him. And the lord said vnto hym: wherin? And he sayde I will go oute, and bee a lying spirite in the mouth of all hys prophetes. And the Lorde said,thou shalt disceiue him:and shalt preuaile, go out & do euen so: And now therfore behold, the 3.Re.xxii. c.

kia the sōne of Canana went to, & smote Michea vpon the cheke,and said:by what way went the spirite of the lord from me, to speake with thee?
And Michea sayd:thou shalt see the daye when thou shalt goe in from chamber to chamber for to hyde thy selfe. And y kyng of Israel sayd:take ye Michea,and bryng hym to Amon the gouernor of the citie, F and to Joas the kynges sōne, and ye shal saye,thus sayeth the kyng:put this felow in y prison house,and fede him with bred of affliction and water of trouble, vntil I come again in peace.
And Michea sayd: if thou come agayn in peace, then hath not the Lorde spoken to me. And he sayd:herken to,ye people eue-ry one of you. And so the kyng of Israell and Jehosaphat the kyng of Juda, went vp to Ramoth in Gilead. And the kyng of Israell sayde vnto Jehosaphat: I muste chaunge me, when I goe to the battayle: but see that thou haue thine owne apparel vpō the. And the kyng of Israel chaūged himselfe,and they came to battaile.
But the king of Siria had commaunded the captains of the charets that wer with hym,saying:se y ye fight not against smal or great,saue against the kyng of Israell G onely. And when the captayns of the charetes saw Jehosaphat, they sayd: it is the king of Israel,and therfore they compassed about him to fight. But Jehosaphat cried out,and the Lord helped him, & God chased them away from him. For it came to passe y when the captaynes of the charets perceiued that it was not the king of Israel,they turned back again from him.
And a certain mā drew a bow with al his might,and smote the kyng of Israell be-twene the ioyntes of his habergin. And he said to his charet man:turn thine hand that thou maist carye me out of the hoste:

for I am wounded. And the battaill ceased that daye. Howbeit the kyng of Israell caused his charet to stande stil against the Sirians untill euen. And about the time of the sunne going down, he died.

The. xix. Chapter.

After Jehosaphat was rebuked by the prophete Jehu, he called again the people to the honoring of the Lorde God.

A And Jehosaphat ỹ kyng of Juda cam home again in peace to Jerusalē. And Jehu the sōne of Hanani the sear went out to mete him, & said to king Jehosaphat: Wouldest ỹ helpe the ungodly, & loue thē that hate the lord?
Therfore is wrath come down uppō thee from before the lord. Neuerthelesse, there are some good actes found in ỹ, in ỹ thou haste hewen down the groues out of the lande, & hast prepared thine heart to seke god. And so Jehosaphat dwelt at Jerusalem: & turned & went out to the people frō Beersaba to mount Ephraim, and brought B them again unto the lord god of their fathers. And he set iudges in ỹ lād throughout al the strōg cities of Juda, citie by ci-tie, & sayd to the iudges: take hede what ye doe, for ye execute not the the iudgemētes of mā, but of god: which is with you in the iudgement. Wherefore now let the feare Actes.x.c of the lord be upō you, & take hede, and be sons, or take rewardes. Moreouer in Jerusalē dyd Jehosaphat set of the Leuites, C & of the priests, & of the auncient fathers ouer Israel, in ỹ iudgement & cause of the lord. And they returned again to Jerusalē: And he charged thē, saying: Thus shall ye doe in the feare of the lord, w the trueth and a pure heart: what cause so euer come to you of your brethrē that dwell in their cities, betwene bloud and bloud, betwene law and commaundemēt, betwene statutes & ordinances, ye shal warn them that they trespas not against ỹ lord, & so wrath come upon you & on your brethrē. Thus D do, and ye shal not offende. And beholde, Amaria the hye priest is among you in all matters of the lord, and Zebadia the sōne of Ismael a ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer such businesses as concerne ỹ king there bee officers of the Leuites also before you. Take courage to you therfore, & be doyng manfully: and the Lorde shalbe with such as be good.

The. xx. Chapter.

The marueslous victory that the lord gaue Jehosaphat king of Juda against the Moabites, and the children of Ammon and them of Seir.

After this also it fortuned that A the childrē of Moab & the children of Ammon, & with them, other of the Ammonites came agaist Jehosaphat to battail.
And there came some that tolde Jehosaphat, saying: there commeth a greet multitude against the from the other syde of the sea, and oute of Siria. And beholde, they be in Hasasi Thamar, which is Engadi.
And Jehosaphat feared, & set himselfe to seke ỹ lord, & proclaimed fasting throughout al Juda. And they that wer in Juda, gathered thēselues together to aske counsel of the lord. And they came out of al the cities of Juda to make intercession to the lorde. And Jehosaphat stode betwene the congregation of Juda & Jerusalem, in ỹ house of the lord, before the newe court, & said: O lord god of oure fathers, art not ỹ B god in heauen, & reignest not thou on al ỹ kingdomes of the heathen? And in thine hand is power and might, and there is no man ỹ is able to with stand the. Art not thou our god, whiche diddest cast oute the inhabitors of this land before thy people Israel, & gauest it to the sede of Abraham thy loue for euer? And they dwelt therin, & haue built the a temple therin for thy name, saying: yf euil come upon us, as the Pa.lii swearde of iudgemēt, pestilence, or hunger, then yf we stand before this house in thy presence, for thy name is in this house, & crie unto the in our tribulatiō, heare thou and help. And now behold, the children of Ammon & Moab, & mount Seir, by whō C thou wouldest not let them of Israell go, when they came out of the land of Egipt. but they departed from thē, and destroyed them not. Se howe they rewarde us, to come for to caste us out of the pessession, which thou hast geuē us to inherit. O our god, wilt thou not iudge thē? for we haue no might against this great cōpany that cōmeth against us. Neither wot we what to do but our eyes be unto the. And al Juda stode before ỹ lord with their yōg ones their wiues, & their children, & ther was Jehasiel ỹ sōn of Zacharia, ỹ sōne of Ba-naia, ỹ sōne of Jeniel, ỹ sōn of Mathania a Leuite, of ỹ sonnes of Asaph, & upō him came the spirit of the lord, euē in the mid-des

des of the congregation. And he said: herken all Juda, & ye inhabytours of Jerusalem, & thou king Jehosaphat. Thus saith the lord vnto you: be not afraid, nor faynt herted, by reason of this great multitude:
D for the battail is not yours but gods. To morowe go ye down against thē, for they come vp at Ziz, and ye shall fynde them at the ende of the broke beefore the wildernesse of Jeruel. Ye shal not nede to fighte in this battaile: but step furth and stande, and behold, the helpe of the lord whiche is with you: feare not, nor let your heartes faile you, O ye of Juda, and of Jerusalē. To morow go oute against them: for the Lorde will be with you. And Jehosaphat bowed his face to the earth, and al Juda, and the inhabitours of Jerusalē fell before the lord, worshipping the Lorde. And the Leuites of the children of the Cahathites, and of the children of the Corahites, and stode vp to prayse the lord god of Israel, with a loud voice on hye. And when they arose early in the morning, they gat them out vnto the wildernesse of Thekoa.
And as they went out, Jehosaphat stode, and said: heare me, O Juda, and ye inhabitours of Jerusalem. Put your trust in the E lord your god, that ye may be found faithfull, Geue credence to his prophetes, and so shal ye prosper. And he gaue the people counsel, and set some to sing vnto ye lorde, and to prayse him in ye beauty of holinesse, and to goe out before the army, as they went, and to saye, prayse the Lord, for his mercy lasteth euer.
And what time as they began to laud and praise, then the Lord stirred vp certain of the children of Ammon and Moab, which layed wayt for them that were of mount Seir, which were come against Juda.
And they wer ouerthrowen with strokes among themselues. For the children of Ammon and Moab, rose agaynst the inhabitours of mount Seir. And they slewe and destroyed them. And when they had made an ende of the inhabitours of Seir, euerye one helped to destroye an other among themselues. And when Juda came to the edge of the wildernesse, they loked vnto the multitude. And behold, they wer dead carkases fallen to the erth, and none escaped. And when Jehosaphat and hys people came to take awaye the spoile of F them, they founde among them abundaunce of goodes, raymente, and pleasaūt iewels, whiche they toke for themselues, more than they coulde carye awaye: so that they wer thre dayes in gatheryng of the spoile, it was so muche,
And the fourth daye they assembled in the valleye of blessing, for there they blessed the lord. And therfore they called ye name of the same place, the valley of Blessing, vnto this day. And so all the men of Juda and Jerusalem, returned with Jehosaphat their head, for to goe again to Jerusalem with gladnesse, for the lorde hadde made them to reioyce ouer their enemies. And they came to Jerusalem with psalteries, and harpes, and shawmes, euen vnto the house of the lorde. And the feare of God fell in the kingdomes of all landes, when they had heard that the lord fought against the enemies of Israel. And so the realme of Jehosaphat was in trāquility, and his god gaue him rest on euery side.
G And Jehosaphat reygned vppon Juda, and was .xxxv. yere olde when he began 3.Re.xxii.a. to reigne, and reigned .xxv. yeare in Jerusalem, and his mothers name, was Asuba the daughter of Silhi. And he walked in the way of Asa his father, & bowed not therefrom, doynge that whiche was right in the sight of the Lorde. Howbeit the hilaulters were not taken awaye, for ye people had not yet prepared their heartes vnto the god of their fathers.
The rest of the actes of Jehosaphat firste and laste, beholde, they are written amōg the sayinges of Jehu, the sonne of Hanani, whiche noted them in the boke of the kynges of Israel.
After this dyd Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, ioyne hymselfe with Ahaziahu kyng of Israell, whose mynd was to do wickedly. He coupled hymselfe with hym to make ships to goe to Tharsis. And they made the ships in Ezion Gaber. And Eliezer the sōne of Dodanah of Maresa, prophecied against Jehosaphat, saying: because thou hast ioyned thy selfe with Ahaziahu the Lorde hath broken thy workes. And the ships wer broken, that they were not able to goe to Tharsis.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Jehosaphat dyeth, and Jehoram succedeth him, whiche kylleth his brethren and is oppressed of the Philistines, and dyeth of the flixe.

All these were the sonnes of Jehosaphat king of Juda. And their father siluer, and other special substaunce, with strong cities in Juda: but the kingdome gaue he to Jehorā, for he was the eldest.

4.Re.viii And Jehoram went furth with his Lore. des, and all his charrets were with hym: and he rose vp by night and smote the Edomites, whiche compassed hym in, and the captaines of the charets. But Edom rebelled styll, so that they woulde not bee vnder the hande of Juda vnto this daye.
That same tyme also did Libna departe from beyng vnder his hande, because Je-horam hadde forsaken the Lorde God of hys fathers. Moreouer he made hilaulters in the cities of Juda, and caused the inhabitours of Jerusalem to commit forni-C cation, and prouoked Juda to Idolatrie.
And there came a writinge to him from Elia the Prophete, saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Dauid thy father: because thou haste not walked in the wayes of Jehosaphat thy father, and in the wayes of Asa king of Juda, but walkedst in the wayes of the kinges of Israel, and haste made Juda and the dwellers of Jerusalē to goe a whoring like to the whoredome of the house of Ahab, and haste slayne thy brethren, euē thy fathers house whiche were better than thou: beholde, with a great plage will the Lorde smyte thy folke, thy children, thy wiues and thy goodes.
And thou shalt suffer great payne: euen a disease of thy bowels vntill thy guts fal oute by reason of thy sickenesse, daye by daye. And so the Lorde stirred vp against Jehoram the spirite of the Philistines, D and the Arabians that were beside the blacke Mores.
And they came vp into Juda, and wasted it and caryed away al the substaunce that was founde in ẏ kinges house: & his son-nes, and hys wiues: so that there was neuer a sōne lefte him saue Jehohahas, whiche was ẏe yongest among his son-nes. And after all these thinges, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an vncurable disease. And it came to passe, that in processe of time, euen after the ende of.ii. yeres, his guttes fel oute in hys sicknesse: and so he dyed of very euill diseases. And they made no burning for him, like the burning of his fathers. When he beganne to reigne, he was.xxii.yere old, and reyg-ned in Jerusalem.viii.yeare, and lyued wretchedly: howbeit they buryed hym in the citie of Dauid, but not amōg the Se-pulchres of the kinges.

The.xxii.Chapter.

Ahasiahu reigneth in the rowme of Jehorā. Jehu king of Israel killeth Ahasiahu, Athalia putteth to death all the kinges linage, onely Joas escapeth.

AND the inhabitors of Je- A rusalem, made Ahaziahu 4.Re.viii his yong sōne, king in his stede. For the men of war that came with the host of ii.Par. the Arabians, had slaine b. all his eldest sonnes. And so Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehoram kyng of Juda, was made king. Two and forty yeare old was he whē he began to reygne and he reigned one yeare in Jerusalem.
His mothers name was Athaliahu the daughter of Amri. And he walked also in the wayes of the house of Ahab: for hys mother (by her counsell) entyced him to do wickedly. Wherefore he did that whyche was euil in the sight of ẏ Lord, as did they that wer of ẏ house of Ahab: for they wer his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction. And he walked after their counsel, and went with Jehoram B the sonne of Ahab king of Israel, to fight against Hazael king of Siria at Ramoth in Gilead: & the Sirians smote Jehorā.
And he returned to be healed in Jezrell, of the woundes which wer geuen him at Rama, when he fought with Hazael kyng

of Siria. And Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehoram king of Juda, went down to see Jehoram the sonne of Ahab at Jezrel, because he was deseased. And it came of god that Ahaziahu should bee despised for his comming to Jehoram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram against Jehu the sonne, of Nymsi, whom ÿ Lord hadde annoynted to destroye the house of Ahab. And so it came to passe that when Jehu was executing iustice vpon ÿ house of Ahab, and had founde the Lordes of Juda and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziahu that wayted on Ahaziahu, he slew theim: And he sought Ahaziahu, and they caughte him where he was hydde in Samaria, and brought him to Jehu. And when they hadde slayne him, they buryed him, because (saide they) he is the sonne of Jehosaphat, whiche soughte the Lorde with all his hearte. And the house of Ahaziahu, hadde no power to kepe still the kingdome. But when Athaliahu the mother of Ahaziahu sawe that her sonne was dead, she arose and destroyed all the kynges seede in the kinred of the house of Juda. And Jehosabeth the daughter of ÿ kyng tooke Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, and stale him from among the kings sonnes that were slaine, and putte him and his nurse in a priuye chamber. And so Jehosabeth the daughter of kyng Jehoram the wife of Jehoiada the priest, and the sister of Ahaziahu, hydde him from Athaliahu, that he was not slayne. And so he was with them hid in the house of god. vi. yeare. And Athaliahu reigned ouer the lande.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, is made king. Athaliahu is put to death.

And * in ÿ seuenth yeare, Jehoiada beyng bolde, tooke the captains of hūdredes, Azariahu the sonne of Jehoram, and Jsmaell the sonne of Jehohanam, Azariahu, the sonne of Obed, Maasiahu the sonne of Adaiahu, and Elizaphat the sōne of zichri, and made a bonde with them. And they wente aboute in Juda, and gathered the Leuites out of all the cities of Juda, and the auncient fathers of Jsrael: and they came to Jerusalem. And all the congregation made a bonde with the kyng in the house of God. And he said vnto them: beholde, the kings sonne must reigne, * as the Lorde hath saide of the children of Dauid, Thys is it therefore that ye shall doe: The thyrd parte of you shal (on the Sabboth) of the foundation, and all the people shall bee in the courtes of the house of the lord.

But there shall none come into the house of the Lorde, saue the Priestes, and they that minister vnto the Leuites. They shall goe in, for they are holye: but all the people shall keepe the watche of the Lorde.
And the Leuites shall compasse the kyng rounde about, and euerye manne shall haue his weapon in hys hande: and what other manne so euer dothe come into the house of the Lorde, he shall be slayne: and let them be wyth the kyng, when he commeth in, and when he goeth oute. And the Leuites and all Juda dydde he set all the people, euerye manne hauyng hys weapon in hys hande, from the ryght syde of the temple, to the lefte syde of the temple, along by the aultar and the temple, rounde about the kyng. And they brought oute the kynges sonne, and put vpon hym the crowne, and the testimonie, (and they gaue him in his hande the lawe, that was to be kept) and made him kyng. And Jehoiada and hys sonnes annoynted hym, and sayde God saue the kyng. When Athaliahu hearde the noyse of the people runnynge, and praysyng the kyng, she came to the people into ÿ house of the Lorde, and she loked, and beholde, the kyng stoode in hys place at the betwene hym and all the people, and the kyng, that they shoulde be the Lordes people. And all the people wente to the house of Baal, and destroyed it, and brake hys aulters and his ymages, and slue Mathan, the Prieste of Baall, before the aulters. And Jehoiada putte the offyces of the Priestes and Leuites, as Dauid and.xvi.c had distributed them in the house of the Nu.28.a. Lorde, to offer burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde, as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses, with reioycynge, and syngynge, as it was ordeyned by Dauid. And he set porters by the gates of the house of the Lorde, that none which was vncleane in any thing, should enter in.

And he tooke the captaynes of hundredes, and all the nobles, and the gouernours of the people, and all the folke of the lande, and caused the kyng to come downe out of the house of the Lorde, and they came thorowe the hye gate in to the kynges house, and set the kyng vpon the seate of the kyngdome. And al the people of the lande reioyced, and the citie was in tranquilitye, after that they hadde slayne Athaliahu with the sworde.

The.xxiiii.Chapter.

Joas duryng the life of Jehoiada, kepeth the lawe: but after his death he regardeth it not. He killeth Zachariah the prophete. Joas is killed of hys owne seruauntes, after him reygneth Amasiahu.

A IOas was seuen yeare olde, when he beganne to raygne, and hee raigned fourtye yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Zibia of Beer Seba. And Joas didde ẏ which was righte in the sighte of the Lorde, all the dayes of Jehoiada the Priest.

and Jerusalem, to bring into the Lord the taxation of money, that Moses the Exo. seruaunt of God set vppon Israell in the wyldernesse. And the Lordes and all the people reioyced, and broughte in, and cast C into the cheste, vntill it was full.
And it fortuned, that at the same tyme they broughte in the cheste (vnto them which wer in the kinges businesse) by the hand of the Leuites. And when they saw that there was muche money, the kings scribe (and one appoynted by the hye Priest) came and emptyed the cheste, and tooke it, and caryed it to his place agayn, thus they didde daye by daye, and gathered muche money. And the kyng and Jehoiada gaue it to suche as didde the laboure and worke in the house of the Lord, D and hired masonnes and carpenters to repaire the house of the Lorde, and so did the artificers in yron and brasse, to amēde the house of the Lorde. And so the worke-men wroughte, and the worke mended through their handes, and they made the house of God as it oughte to be, and strengthed it. And when they hadde finished it, they broughte the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, and therewith were made vesselles for the house of the Lorde: euen vesselles to minister withall, and to serue for burnt offe-ringes

...charges, and spoones, vessels of golde and syluer. And they offered burnt offeringes in the house of the Lorde continuallye, all the dayes of Jehoiada: But C Jehoiada waxed olde, and dyed full of dayes. For an hundred and thyrtye yeare olde was he when he dyed. And they buryed hym in the citye of dauid amonge the kynges, bycause he delt well with Israell, and with God, and with hys house. And after the deathe of Jehoiada, came the Lordes of Juda, and made obeysaunce to the kynge. And the kinge hearkened vnto them. And so they lefte the house of the Lorde God of theyr fathers, and serued groues and ydolles.
And then came the wrathe of God vppon Juda and Jerusalem, for thys theire trespasses sake. And he sente prophetes to them, to brynge them agayne vnto the Lorde. And they testified vnto them: But they would not heare. And the spirit of god came vppon zacharia the sonne of Jehoiada the Prieste, whiche stoode vp the people, and sayde vnto them: Thus F sayeth God: why transgresse ye the commaundementes of the lorde, that ye cannot prosper? For bycause ye haue forsakẽ the Lorde, he also hathe forsaken you.
And they conspyred agaynste hym, and stoned him with stones at the commaũde-mente of the kynge: euen in the courte of the house of the lorde. And so Joas the kynge remembred not the kindnes which Jehoiada hys father hadde done to hym, but slue his sonne. And when he dyed, he sayde: the lorde loke vppon it, and require it. And when the yeare was oute, it for-tuned that the hoste of Siria came vp a-gaynste hym, and they came agaynst Juda and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the Lordes of the people from amonge the people, and sent all the spoyle of them vnto the kynge to Damasco: for the Sirians came with a small company of men, G and the Lorde delyuered a very greate hooste in to theyr hande, bycause they hadde forsaken the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And moreouer they serued Jo-as accordyng to hys deedes. And when they were departed from hym, they lefte hym in great dyseases, and * hys owne seruauntes conspired agaynste hym, for the bloude of the chyldren of Jehoiada the Prieste, and slew hym on hys bedde, and he dyed, and they buryed hym in the citye of Dauid: but not in the sepulchres of the kyngs. And these are they that conspyred agaynste hym: zebad the sonne of Simeath an Ammonyte, and Jehosabad the sonne of Symryth a Moabyte.
And hys sonnes, and the summe of þ taxe that was raysed in hys tyme, and the re-payringe of the house of God: beholde, they are wrytten in the storye of the booke of the kynges. And Amaziahu his sonne reigned in hys stede.

The.xxv. Chapter.

Amaziahu ouercommeth the Edomites. And Jo-as kyng of Israell ouercommeth Amaziahu.

Amaziahu was .xxv. yeare olde, whẽ he began to reygne, and he reigned 4.Re.xiiii. a nine and twenty yeare in * Jerusalẽ.
Hys mothers name was Jehodadan of Jerusalem. And he dydde that whiche is ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde: but not with a perfecte hearte. And as sone as he was setled in the kyngdome, he slue hys seruauntes, that hadde kylled the kynge hys father. But he slue not De.xxiiii. c. theyr chyldren, bycause it is wrytten thus 4.Re.xiii. b. in the lawe and booke of Moyses, where the Lorde commaunded, saying: * the Je.xxxi. e. fathers shal not dye for þ chyldren, nether shall the chyldren dye for the fathers, but Eze.xviii. e. euerye man shall dye for hys owne sinne.
And Amaziahu gathered Juda together, B and made them captaynes ouer thousãds, and ouer hundreddes, accordynge to the houses of theyre fathers thorowoute all Juda and Ben Jamyn. And he num-bred them from twentye yeare olde, and aboue, and founde amonge them, thre hundred thousande chosen men, able to go to battayle, and that coulde handle speare and shylde. He hyred also an hundred thousande stronge fyghtynge men oute of Israel, for an hundred talentes of siluer. And there came a man of God to hym, and sayde: O kynge let not the armye of Israell come with thee: for the Lorde is not with Israell, neither with C all the house of Ephraim. But yf thou wylte nedes bee faythlesse, come on, and take the battayle in hande, and God shall make thee fall before the enemye.
For God hath power to helpe, and to caste downe. And Amaziahu sayde to the man of God: what shall we doe then, for the hundred talentes whiche I haue geuen for the hooste of Israell? The man of God aunswered: the Lorde is able to geue thee muche more than they be. And Amaziahu seuered them to the army that was come to hym oute of Eph-raim, to goe home agayne. Wherefore they were exceadynge wrothe with Iu-da and returned home in greate anger.

And Amaziahu tooke hearte and cary-ed oute hys people, and went to the salt 4.Ki.xiiii c. valleye, and * smote of thee chyldren of Seyr, tenne thousande. And other tenne thousande did the chyldren of Iu-da take alyue, and caryed them vnto thee toppe of a rocke, and caste them downe from the toppe of the rocke, that they all to brust: but the soldiors of the armie which Amaziahu sent awaye, that they shoulde not goe with hys people to battayle, fell vpon the cityes of Iuda D from Samaria vnto Bethhoron, and smote three thousande of them, and toke muche spoyle. And it chaunced after that Amaziahu was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the Goddes of the chyldren of Seir, and sette them vp to be his Goddes, and bowed hymselfe before them: and burned incense vnto them. Wherfore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziahu, and sent vnto hym a prophet, whiche sayd vnto hym: why hast thou sought y Goddes of y people, which were not able to delyuer their owne people out of thine hande? And it chaunced that E as the prophete talked with hym, the king sayd vnto hym haue men made the of the kynges counsell? ceasse, why wilt thou be beatene? And the prophet ceased, and sayd: I am sure that God is mynded to destroy thee, because thou haste done this and a-4.Ki.xiiii b. greeste not vnto my cousell. * Then Ama-ziahu kyng of Iuda tooke aduise, and sent to Ioas the sonne of Iehoahaz the sonne of Iehu kyng of Israell, and sayd: come, that we may see either other. And Ioas kyng of Israell sent to Amaziahu kyng of Iuda, saying: a thistle that is in Libanō sent to a Cedre tree of Libanō, saying: * geue thy daughter to my sō to wife. And 4.Ki.xiiii c. their came a wylde beaste of Libanon, & Iudi.ix.c trode downe the thistle. Thou sayest y 4.Es.iiii. b thou hast beaten the Edomytes and thine hearte maketh thee proude to glorifie thy F selfe. Now therefore byde at home: why doest thou prouoke vnto euyll, that thou mayest perysshe, both thou and Iuda with the? But Amaziahu woulde not hearken to hym: for it came of God euen to deliuer them into the hande of their enemyes, bycause they soughte cousell at the Gods of Edome. And so Ioas the kyng of Israell came vp and they sawe either other, both he and Amaziahu kyng of Iuda at Bethsames whiche is in Iuda. And Iuda was put to the worse before Israell, and they fled euery man to hys tente. And Ioas the kyng of Israel toke Amaziahu kyng of Iuda the sonne of Ioas, the sonne of Iohoahas at Bethsames: and brought hym to Ierusalem, and brake the walle of Ierusalem (frō the gate of Ephraim, vnto the gate that was ouer against it) foure hundred cubytes. And he toke awaye also all the golde and siluer, and all the Ie-welles y were founde in the house of God with Obed Edom, and the treasures of the kynges house, and the yong chyldren, and returned to Samaria. And Amaziahu the sonne of Ioas kynge of Iuda, liued after y death of Ioas sonn of Iehoahas kyng of Israel .xv. yeare. The rest of the actes of Amaziahu fyrst and last, are they not written in the boke of y kigs of Iuda and Israel? And after the tyme that Amaziahu did turne awaye from the lord, * they conspired treason agaynst him in Ierusalem: & when he was fled to Lachis, they sent to Lachis after hym, and slue hym there: and brought hym vp with horses, and buryed hym with hys fathers in * the city of Iuda.

The .xxvi. Chapter.

After the death of Amaziahu reygneth Uzia, (otherwise called Osia) which is stryken with the leprie, and Ioatham reygneth in hys rome.

THen all the people of Iu-da toke Uzia (which was xvi. yere old,) and made hym kynge in the roume of hys father Amaziahu.
And he builte Eloth, and brought it agayne to Iu-da after that the kyng was layd to slepe with his fathers. Sixtene yeare olde was Uzia, when he began to reygne: and he reigned .lii. yeare in Ierusalem. Hys mothers name also was Iecholia of Ieru-salem. And he dyd that whiche was right in the syghte of the lorde: according to al, as dyd hys father Amaziahu. And it came to passe that he sought God in y dayes of Zachariahu, (whiche mayntayned the feare of God) and as long as he sought the lorde, God made hym to prosper. And he went to battayle agaynst the Philisti- B nes and brake downe the walle of Geth and the walle of Iabne, and the walle of Asdod, and builte cityes about Asdod
and

and among the Philistines. And God helpe him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians, that dwelt in Gurbaal, and Hammehunim. And the Ammonites gaue tribute to Uzia, and hys name spred abrode euen to the entring in of Egipt: for he played the man exceadingly.

C Moreouer, Uzia built towers in Jerusalem by the corner gate, and by the valley gate, and at the turning of the walle: and made them strong. And he built towers in the wildernesse, and digged many wells: for he had much cattel in the valleyes and plaines, plowmen, and vine dressers in the mountaines, & in Charmell: for he loued husbandry. And Uzia had an host of fighting men that wente oute to warre in the armye, according to the number of their office vnder the hande of Jeiell ye Scribe, and Maaziahu the ruler, and vnder the hande of Hananiahu, whiche was one of the kinges Lordes. And the whole number of the auncient fathers, and of the men of might, were .ii. M. and .vi. C. And vnder the hand of them was the army of the men of warre, euen .iii. C. and .vii. M. and .v. C. that made warre with the power of an army, helpig the king against the enemies. And Uzia prouided them throughout al the host, shildes, speares, helmettes, habergins, bowes and slinges for to caste stones. And he made subtil engins in Jerusalem, which he inuented, and layed on the towers and corners, to shote arowes and great stones withall. And his name spred farre abrode bicause he was helped so excellently, so yt he became very mighty. But in his strength, his hart rose to his destruction. For he transgressed againste the Lord his God, and went into the temple of the Lord, to burne cense vppon the aulter of incense. And Azariahu ye Priest went in after him, & with hym foure score Priestes of the Lord that were valeaunt men. And they stode by Uzia the king and sayd vnto hym: *it perteineth not to thee Uzia, to burne incense vnto the Lord, but to the Priestes the children of Aaron, that are consecrate for to offer incense: come therefore out of the Sanctuary, for thou hast trespassed, and it is no worshyp to thee before the Lord God.

D And Uzia was wroth, and had incense in hys hande to burne it: and so while he had indignation against the Priestes, ye Leprosy sprang in his forehead before the Priestes in the house of the Lord, euen besyde the incense aulter. And Azariahu the chiefe Priest with al the other Priestes, loked vpō him: and beholde, he was become a Lepre in hys forehead, and they vexed him thence. And he was fayne to goe oute, bicause the Lord had smitten him. And Uzia ye kyng continued a Lepre vnto the daye of hys death, and dwelt seuerall in an house, being a Leper and shut out of the house of ye Lorde. And Jotham hys sonne had the gouernaunce of the kynges house, & iudged the people of the lande. The rest of the actes of Uzia first and last, did Esaye the Prophete the sonne of Amos, write. And so Uzia slept with his fathers: and they buried him with his fathers, in the fielde of the buriall, which was beside the Sepulchres of the kynges. For they sayde: he is a Lepre. And Jotham hys sonne reigned in his steade.

The .xxvii. Chapter.

Jotham reigneth, and ouercommeth the Ammonites. Ahas hys sonne reigneth in hys steade.

IOtham was .xxv. yeare olde, when *he beganne to reigne, and reigned .xvi. yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Jerusa the daughter of Zadoc. And he did ye which was right in the sight of the Lord, in all pointes as did his father Uzia, saue that he came not into the temple of the Lorde, and the people dyd yet wyckedlye. He built the hie gate of the temple of the Lorde, and on the wal (where the house of ordinaunce was) he built muche. Moreouer, he builte cities in the mountaynes of Juda, and in the wood countreye he builte castels and towers. He foughte with the kyng of the children of Ammon, and preuayled agaynste them.

B And the children of Ammon gaue hym the same yeare an hundred talentes of siluer: and ten thousande quarters of wheate, and ten thousande of barley. So muche did the children of Ammon geue him the seconde yeare, and the thirde also. So Jotham became mighty, bicause he directed hys way before the Lord hys God.

The rest of the actes of Jotham, and all hys warres, and his conuersation, loe, they are written in the boke of the kinges of Israell, and Juda. He was fyue and twentye yeare olde, when he began to reigne, & reygned sixtene yeare in Jerusalem.

The.xxviii.Chapter.

The wickednesse of Ahas kyng of Iuda. After hym reigneth Hezekia.

4.Re.xvi. a Ahaz was * twenty yeare olde when he beganne to reigne, and reigned sixtene Here xviii. b. yeare in Ierusalem and he did not that whiche is righte in the sighte of ẏ lord, as did his father Dauid, For he walked in ẏ waies of ẏ kin 4.Re.xxi. c. ges of Israel, & made molten ymages for Baalim. He offered incense in the valleye of the sonne of Hinnom, and burnte hys children in fyre, after the abhominations of the Heathen, whom the Lord cast oute before the children of Israell. He offered also, and burnte incense in hillaulters, and vppon mountaines, and vnder euery grene tree.

* Wherefore the LORDE his God delyuered hym into the hande of the 4.Re.xvi. d. king of the Sirians: whiche bet hym, and Esa.vii.a caryed away a greate multitude of hys, captyue, and broughte them to Damasco. And he was deliuered into the hande of the kynge of Israell, whiche smote hym with a greate slaughter. For Pecah the sonne of Remaliahu, slue in Iuda an hundred and twenty thousande in one daye, whiche were all fighting menne: and that bicause they hadde forsaken the Lord God of their fathers. And Zichri a mighti man of Ephraim, slue Maasiahu the kynges son, and Azrica ẏ gouernor of ẏ house, & Elcana ẏ was next to the king. And the children of Israel toke prisoners of their brethren, twoo hundred thousand women, sonnes and daughters, and caryed away muche spoyle of them, & brought the spoyle to Samaria.

But there was a Prophete of the B Lordes (whose name was Obed) and he wente oute before the hoste that came to Samaria, and sayd vnto them: Beholde, bicause the Lord GOD of your fathers is wroth with Iuda, he hath deliuered them into your hande. And ye haue slayne them with cruelnesse, that reacheth vp to heauen. And nowe ye purpose to keepe vnder the children of Iuda and Ierusalem, and to make them bondemenne and bondewemen. And doe ye not lade your selues with sinne, in the syghte of the Lorde youre God? Nowe heare me therefore, and delyuer the captiues againe, whyche ye haue taken of your brethrẽ, for els shall the great wrath of God be vpon you.

Wherefore certaine of the heades of ẏ C children of Ephraim, as Asaria the sonne of Iehohanan, Berechiahu the sonne of Mesillemothe, and Iehezkiahu the sonne of Sallum, and Amasa the sonn of Hadlaye, stode vp agaynste them that came from the warre, and sayed vnto them: brynge not in the captyues hyther. For whereas we haue offended towarde GOD already, ye intende to adde more to oure sinnes and trespasse. For oure trespasse is greate alreadye, and there is a fearce wrathe againste Israell. And vppon that, the menne of armes lefte the captyues and the spoyle beefore the Lordes and all the congregation.

And the menne that were nowe rehearsed by name, rose vp and tooke the prysoners, and wyth the spoyle clothed all that were naked amonge them, and araied them, and shooed them, and gaue them to eate and to drynke, and annointed them, and caryed all that were feble of them vppon asses, and broughte them to Iericho (ẏ citie of Palmetrees) to their brethren and then they returned to Samaria agayne.

* At that same tyme did king Ahaz sende 4.Re.xvi. b vnto the kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of them. And the Edomites came again and slue some of Iuda, and caryed away captiues. And the Philistines inuaded the cities in the lowe countreye, and towarde the Southe of Iuda, and tooke Bethsames, and Aialon, and Gederoth, and Socho, wyth the townes longing thereto, and Thimna wyth the townes of the same: Gimso, and the townes thereof, and dwelt there. For the Lorde broughte Iuda lowe, bicause of Ahaz kyng of Iuda, whiche made Iuda naked, and transgressed sore agaynste the Lorde. And Thilgath Pilneser kynge of the Assirians came vppon hym, and troubled hym, rather than strenghthened hym. For Ahaz tooke awaye a portion oute of the house of the Lorde, and out of the the kinges house, and out of the Lordes houses, and gaue vnto the king of the Assirians, and yet it helped him not. And in D the very tyme of his tribulacion dyd kyng Ahaz trespasse yet more against the lord.

For he offred vnto the Gods of them of Damasco, which bett him, and he said: bi-cause the Gods of the kinges of Siria helpe them, therefore will I offer to them, that they may help me also. But they wer his destruction, and the destruction of all Israell. And Ahaz gathered together the Para. vessels of the house of God, & brake them and shut vp the dores of the house of the Para. Lord, and made him aulters in euery corner of Ierusalem. And in all the cities of Iuda he made hilaulters, to burne incēce vnto other Gods, and angred the Lorde God of his fathers. The rest of hys actes and his works, first and last: behold, they are wrytten in the booke of the kinges of Iuda and Israel. And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Ierusalem: but brought hym not vnto the Sepulchres of the kynges of Israel. And Hezekia hys sonne reigned in hys steade.

The.xxix. Chapter.

Hezekia (otherwise called Esechias or Iehiskiahu) restoreth vnto the Temple of the Lord, al the thyn-ges that had not ben regarded of hys predecessours

I iiii.kin. xviii.a. HEzekia began to reigne when he was fyue and twentye yeare olde, and reigned nine and twenty yeare in Ierusalem. And hys mothers name was Abia the daughter of Zachariahu. And he dyd that whiche was ii. Para. xxviii.b. righte in the sighte of the Lorde in all poinctes, as dyd Dauid hys father. He opened the doores of the house of the Lorde (in the first yeare and first moneth of hys reigne) and repaired them. And he broughte in the Priestes and the Le-uites, and gathered them together into the East strete: and sayd vnto them. Hear me ye Leuites, and nowe be Sanctifyed, and halowe the house of the Lorde God of your fathers, bring filthinesse out of the holy place. For our fathers haue trespassed, and done euill in the eyes of the lorde our God, and haue forsaken him: and turned away their faces from the habitation of the Lorde, and turned their backes on it. And besyde that: they haue shutt vp the dooress of the porche, and quenched the B lampes, and haue neither burnte incence, nor offered burnt offeringes in the holy place vnto the God of Israell.

Wherefore the wrath of the Lorde fel on Iuda, and Ierusalem: and he hath broughte them to trouble, to be wondred on, and to be hissed at, euen as ye see with your eyes. For loe, oure fathers wer ouer-throwen with the sweard, and our sonnes our daughters, and oure wiues were ca-ryed awaye captyue for thesame cause.
And nowe it is in my hearte, to make a couenaunte with the Lorde God of Israell: that he maye turne awaye hys heauy indignation from vs. Now therefore my Nume. xviii.a sonnes, be not negligent: for the Lord hath chosen you to stande before him, and for to minister and serue hym, and to burn incence.

Then the Leuites arose: Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Ioell the sonne of C Asariahu of the children of the Cahathy-tes. And of the sonnes of Merari, Kis the sonne of Abdy, and Asariahu the sonne of Iehalelell. And of the sonnes of the Gersonites, Ioah the sonne of Simma, and Eden the sonne of Ioah. And of the sōnes of Elisaphan, Symri, and Iehiell. And of the sonnes of Asaph, Zechariahu, and Mathaniahu. And of the sonnes of Heman, Iehiell, and Simei. And of the son-nes of Ieduthun, Semaia and Vziell.
And they gathered their brethren, and purified themselues, and came accordyng to the commaundemente of the kyng, and the wordes of the Lorde, for to clense the house of the Lorde.

And the Priestes wente into the inner partes of the house of the Lorde, to clense it, and broughte oute all the vn-clennesse that they founde in the temple of the Lorde, into the courte of the house of the Lorde. And the Leuites tooke it, to carye it oute into the broke Cedron.

They beganne the firste day of the first moneth to purifie, and the eyghte daye of the moneth came they to the porche of the Lorde: and purged the house of the Lorde in eyghte dayes, and in the sixtene D daye of the fyrste moneth they made an ende.

And they went into Hezekia the kyng, and sayd: we haue clensed all the house of the Lorde, the alter of burnte offeringe, with all hys vessells, and the shewbread table, wyth all hys apparell: and all the vessels whiche kyng Ahaz did caste asyde when he reigned, and transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctified: and be-holde, they are before the aulter of ẏ lord.

And Hezekia the kyng rose earlye, and gathered the Lordes of the citye, and wente vp to the house of the Lorde. And they brought seuen Oxen, seuen Rams, seuen shepe, and seuen he goates, to bee a synne offeryng for the kyngdome, for the Sanctuarye, and for Juda. And he commaunded the Priestes, the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the aulter of the Lorde.
E And they slewe the Oxen, and the Priestes receiued the bloude, and sprinkled it vppon the aulter: likewise, whẽ they had slaine the Rammes, they sprinckled the bloude vppon the aulter: they slew also the shepe, and they sprinckled the bloud vppon the aulter. And then they brought foorth the he goates for the synne offering, before the kyng and the congregation, and put theyr handes vppon them.
And the priestes slew them, and with the bloude of them, they clensed the aulter to make satisfaction for all Israell: for the king commaunded that the burnte offering and the sinneoffring should be made for all Israell. And sette the Leuites in the house of the Lorde with Simbals, F Psalteries, and Harpes, * accordyng to
i. Pa. xxv c the commaundemente of Dauid, and of Gad the kinges Sear, and Nathan the Prophete. For so was the commaundemente of the Lorde, through the hand of his Prophetes. And the Leuites stoode, hauing the instrumentes of Dauid, and the priestes helde the trompettes. And Hezekia commaunded to offer ẏ burnt offeryng vppon the aulter. And when the burntoffring began, the song of the lorde beganne also, and the trompets with the instrumentes that were ordeined by the hande of Dauid king of Israel. And all ẏ congregation worshipped, singing a sõg, and blowing with the trompets, and all this continued, vntyll the burnt offeryng was finyshed. And when they had made an ende of offering, the kyng and all that were presente with him, bowed thẽselues and woorshipped. And Hezekia the king, and the Lordes, spake to the Leuites to prayse the Lorde with the wordes of Da-uid, and of Asaph the Sear. And the Le-uites sang prayses with gladnesse, and the other bowed themselues, and woor-shipped.
And Hezekia aunswered, and sayde: nowe ye haue consecrate your handes to the Lorde: goe to therefore, and bryng in the sacrifices and thankeofferinges into the house of the Lorde. And the congre- G gation brought in the sacrifices, & thank-offeringes, and burnt offeringes as many as were of a free liberall heart. And the number of the burnt offerings which the congregation brought, was. lxx. oxen an. C. Rammes, and two. C. shepe: whiche were all for the burnt offering of the Lord. And there were dedicated sixe. C. oxen, and thre. M. shepe. And the priestes were to fewe to slay all the burnte offe-ringes: but theyr brethren the Leuites dyd helpe them, tyll they had ended the woorke: and vntill the Priests wer santified. For the Leuites wer purer hearted to be sanctified, than ẏ priestes. And ther-to the burnt offeringes were many, with the fatte of the peace offeringes, and the drinkeofferings that belong to the burnt offering. And so the seruice pertayning to the house of the Lorde, was finished. And Hezekia reioyced and all the people, that god had made the folk so ready: and that the thyng was so done.

The. xxx. Chapter.

Hezekia renueth the feast of Passeouer.

A AND Hezekia sẽt to al Israel, & Juda, & wrote letters to Ephraim & Ma-nasse, ẏ they should come to the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, and offer passeouer vnto ẏ lord god of Israel. And ẏ kyng held a cõũcel wyth his Lordes and all the congregation of Nu. ix. i.
Jerusalem, * to kepe the feast of Passeo-uer in the seconde moneth. For they could not keepe it at that tyme, because the Priestes wer not sanctifyed sufficiently, neyther was the people gathered together to Jerusalem.
And the thyng pleased the kyng, and all the congregation. And they decreed that it shoulde bee proclaymed throughout all Israell from Beersabe to Dan, that they shoulde come and holde ẏ feaste of Passeouer vnto the Lorde God of Israell at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a greate season as they should haue done by the law. So the postes went wyth letters of the hande of the kyng, and of hys LORDES, throughout out all Israel and Juda, and at the commaundement of the kyng, they saide: Ye children of Israell turne again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and Israell, and let euery one returne to the remnaunte that are escaped you oute of the hand of the kinges of Assur. And be not ye like your fathers and youre brethren, which trespassed against the lord God of their fathers: whiche gaue them up to be destroied as ye see.

B And nowe bee not ye stiffenecked lyke as were youre fathers: but yelde youre selues unto the Lorde, and enter into his holye place, whiche he hathe sanctified for euer: and serue the Lorde your God, and the fearcenesse of his wrathe shall turne awaie from you. For if ye turne agayne unto the Lorde, then shall youre brethren and your children fynde compassion in ye presence of them that tooke them cap-tiue, and they shall come again unto this lande, for the Lorde youre God is gracious and mercifull, and will not turne awaie his face from you, if ye conuert unto him. And so the postes went from citie
...odus. xiiii. c. to citie in the land of Ephraim and Ma-
...xx. b nasse, euen unto Zabulon. But they laugh-
...xxvi. ed them to scorne, and mocked them. Ne-uerthelesse, yet diuers of Aser, Manasse and of Zabulon submitted themselues, and came to Jerusalem. And the hande of God was in Juda, so that he gaue the one heart to doe the commaundement of the king, and of the rulers, according to the woorde of the Lorde. And there assebled to Jerusalem much people, and ther was presente a mightye greate congregation, to holde the feast of swete bread in the seconde moneth. And they arose, ...Parali. and remoued the aulters that wer in Je...xiiii. c. rusalem. And all the vessels of incence C did they awaye, and cast them into ye broke Cedron. And they slewe Passeouer the fourtenth daie of the second moneth. And the Priestes and Leuites whiche were ashamed, sanctified themselues: & brought in the burnte offeringes into the house of the Lorde. And they stode in their office after their maner, and accordyng to the lawe of Moses the manne of GOD.
And the priestes sprinckled the bloude, whiche they receiued of the handes of the Leuites. For there wer many in the congregation that wer not sanctified: and the Leuites did slay Passeouer, for all yt wer not clene, and that might not execute the holy woorke of the Lorde. For many of ye people, and very many oute of Ephraim, Manasse, Isakar and Zabulon, wer not clensed, & yet did eate Passeouer against the lawe appointed. Wherefore Hezekia praied for them, and saide: the good Lord be mercifull unto them. For he sette hys whole heart to seke the lorde god, euẽ the God of his fathers: but all the other dyd not so accordyng to unfayned holinesse.
And the Lord heard Hezekia, and healed the people. And the childrẽ of Israel that wer present at Jerusalem, helde ye feast of swete bread seuen daies with great glad-nesse, and the Leuites and the Priestes praised, and magnified the power of the lord, day by day, upon instrumentes. And Hezekia spake heartilye unto all the Le- D uites that had understanding, and wer of a good minde towarde the Lorde. And they did eate throughout that feast, seuẽ daies long, and offred peace offerynges, & thanked the Lorde God of their fathers.
And the whole assembly toke councell to doe so, other seuen daies, and they helde those seuen daies with gladnesse. For Hezekia king of Juda toke out (from among his cattel) for the congregatiõ, a. M. yõg oxen, and seuen. M. shepe. And ye Lordes gaue out to the congregation, a. M. yong oxen, and. x. M. shepe. And a great number of the priestes wer sanctified. And all the congregation of Juda with the priestes and Leuites, and all the congregation that came oute of Israel, and the straungers that came oute of the lande of Israell, and that dwelte in Juda, reioyced: & there was great gladnesse in Jerusalem. For since the time of Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng of Israell, there was no such ioy in Jerusalem. And the priestes and the Leuites arose, & blessed the people, and their voice was heard of the lord, and theyr prayer came up unto heauen, his holy dwellyng place.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

had vtterly destroyed them all. And all ye chyldren of Israell returned euerye man to his possessions and to their own cities.
And Hezekia appointed sodry companies of the priestes and Leuites after the dy-uersitie of their ministrations, euery mã accordyng to his office, bothe priests and Leuites, for the burnt offeryng and peace offerynges, to minister, and to geue thankes, and prayse in the gates of the hoste of the Lorde. And the kynges portion of his substaunce that he gaue, were daylye burnt offrynges in the mornyng and euenyng, and burnte offerynges for ye Sabbothe dayes, newe Moones, & solemne feasts, accordyng * as it is written in the Numeri. xxviii.b. lawe of the Lorde. And he bad the people that dwelte in Jerusalem, geue the parte to the priestes and Leuites, that they myghte substantially applye themselues B to the lawe of the Lorde. And assoone as the kynges commaundemente came abrode, the chyldren of Israell broughte aboundaunce of fyrste fruites, of corne, wyne, oyle, honye, and of all maner of fruites of the fyelde, and the tythes of all maner of thynges, brought they in, plentuously. And the chyldren of Israell and Juda, that dwelt in the cities of Juda, they also broughte in the tythes of Oxen, and shepe, and other holy tythes whiche were consecrate vnto the Lorde theyr God, they dyd offer, and brought them al by heapes.

In the thyrde moneth they beganne to laye the heapes (in maner of a foundation) and finished them in the. vii. moneth.
And when Hezekia and the Lordes cam, and sawe the heapes, they blessed ye lorde and his people Israell. And Hezekia questioned with the priestes and the Leuits, concernyng the heapes. And Azaria the chiefe prieste of the house of Zadoc, answered hym and sayd: since the people be-ganne to bryng the heueofferynges into the house of the lorde, we also haue had ynough to eate, there remayned somuch, C for the Lord hath blessed his people, and this heape is lefte. And Hezekia bad prepare the chambers in the house of ye lord.
And they dyd prepare them, and caryed in the fyrste fruites, the tythes and the deditate thynges faythfully. Ouer which Conaniahu the Leuite had the rule, and Semei his brother next to hym. And Je-hiel, Asaziahu, Nahath Asaell, Jerimoth, Josabad, Eliel, Jesmachiahu, Mahath, and Banaiahu, were ouerseers ordeyned by Conaniahu, and Semei his brother was an officer of Hezekia the kyng, and Azaria was the ruler of the house of god, (vnto whõ al these things belõged.) And Core the sonne of Imna the Leuite, and the porter of the East dore, had the ouersight of the thynges that wer of-fred of a freewyll vnto God (and wer geuen in maner seuerallye vnto the Lorde) and ouer the thynges moste holy. And vnder his hande were Eden, Miniamin, Jesua, Semeiahu, Amariahu, and Se-chaniahu in the cities of the Priestes ap-poynted of theyr fidelitie to geue to theyr brethren theyr portions: aswell to ye smal as to the greate. Excepte that to ye males that were reckened from thre yere and aboue (among all that wente into ye house of the Lorde) they shoulde geue daye by day, for theyr ministration, and for their geuyng attendaunce, and for their diuers waitynges by course. And to the Priestes and Leuites throughout the houshold of theyr fathers from twentye yeare and a- D boue, to wayte when theyr courses came.

And to the families of all theyr babes, wyues, sonnes, and daughters through all the congregation. For vpon the fidelitie of them were the holye thynges bestowed. And to the chyldren of Aaron, the priestes whiche were in the fieldes & suburbes of theyr cities, citie by citie, the men (whose names were expressed afore) shoulde geue portions, euen to all the males among the Priestes, and to al the Leuites according to theyr number. And of this maner dyd Hezekia throughout all Juda, and wrought it that is good & ryght, and true before the Lord his god.
And in all the woorkes that he began for the seruice of the house of God, for the lawe and for the commaundementes, he sought his God, and that did he withall his heart, and prospered.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

Sennacherib or Sanherib besieging Jerusalē, is stricken of the aungell. Hezekia dyeth, after whō succedeth Manasse.

After that these deedes wer A compassed the strong cities xxxvi.a. and thoughte to wyn them ec.xlviii. for himselfe. And so when Hezekia sawe ye Sennacherib was com, and that he was purposed

purposed to fight against Jerusalem, he toke counsayle with his Lordes and men of mighte, to stopp the water of the fountaynes without the citie: and they did help hym. For there gathered many of the people together, and stopt all the welles, and the broke that ranne throughe the middes of the lande, saying: why shall the kinges of Assur come, and fynde muche water? And Hezekia wente to, lustelye, and builte vp all the wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce vppon the towers and to the other wall withoute, and repaired Millo in the citie of Dauid, and made many dartes and shieldes. And

B he set captaines of warre ouer the people and gathered them together to him in the large strete of the gate of the citie, and spake gently to them saying: plucke vp youre hearts, and be stronge: be not afrayed nor discouraged for the kyng of Assur, and for all the multitude that he hath with him: for there be moe wyth vs than wyth hym. Wyth hym is an arme of flesh. But wyth vs is the Lorde oure God, for to helpe vs, and to fyghte oure battailes. And the people toke a courage throughe the wordes of Hezekia kyng of Juda. After this did Sennacherib kyng of Assur send of hys seruauntes to Jerusalem (but he hymselfe remained besyde Lachis: hauing

C all hys power with hym) vnto Hezekia kyng of Juda, and vnto al Juda that wer at Jerusalem, sayinge: thus sayeth Sennacherib kyng of Assur: wherin do ye trust, O ye that dwel in Jerusalem which is besieged? Doth not Hezekia entice you to geue ouer your selues vnto death, hunger and thirste, saying: the Lorde our god shall ryd vs oute of the hande of the kyng of Assur. Hath not the same Hezekia put downe hys hye places and hys alters, and commaunded Juda and Jerusalem, sayinge: ye shall worshippe before one alter, and burne incence vppon the same? Know ye not what I and my fa-

D thers haue done vnto the people of all landes? Were the Gods of the people of other landes able or mightie to saue their landes out of my hande? whiche of all the Gods of those nations (that my fathers destroyed) could delyuer his people out of myne hande.

And shall your God be able to deliuer you oute of myne hande? Wherfore now, lette not Hezekia deceiue you, nor perswade you of thys fashion, nor yet beleue hym.

For as no God among all nations and kyngdomes was able to rydde hys people oute of my hande, and oute of the hande of my fathers: howe muche lesse shall youre Goddes bee able to kepe you out of my hande? And yet moe thinges did his seruauntes speake agaynst the Lorde God, and againste hys seruaunte Hezekia. And (Sennacherib) also wrote a letter, to raile on the Lorde God of Israell, and spake againste him, sayinge: as y Gods of y nations of other landes haue not bene able to deliuer their people oute of my hande: euen so shall not the God of Hezekia deliuer his people oute of mine hande. And they cryed with a loude voyce in the Jewes speache vnto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall to feare them, and to make them faynte

E hearted, and that they mighte so take the citie. And they spake againste the god of Jerusalem, as againste the Gods of the nations of the earth, which were the workes of the handes of menne. But Hezekia the kyng, and the Prophete Esaye the sonne of Amoz prayed against that blasphemye, and cryed vp to heauen. And the Lorde sente an Angell whyche destroyed all the men of warre, and the Lordes and captaines of the hoste of the king of Assur, that he turned his face againe with shame towarde his own land. (4 Re. xix. g) And when he was come into the house of hys God, they that came of his own body slue him there with the sweard. And so the Lorde saued Hezekia and the inhabitors of Jerusalem, out of the hand of Sennacherib kyng of Assur, and from the hande of all other, and maintained them on euery side. And many brought offerynges

F vnto the Lorde to Jerusalem, and presentes to Hezekia kyng of Juda: so that he was magnified in the sight of all nations from thence forth. In those dayes Hezekia was sycke vnto the deathe, and prayed vnto the Lorde, whiche answered hym, and shewed hym a wonderfull miracle. (4. Re. xx. a Esaye xxxviii. a) But Hezekia did not agayne vnto GOD accordyng to it that he had shewed hym, for hys hearte arose and ther came wrath vppon hym, and vppon Juda and Jerusalem.

Notwithstanding Hezekia submytted hymselfe (after that hys heart was risen vp) he, and the inhabitors of Jerusalem: and the wrathe of the LORDE came not vppon them in the dayes of Hezekia.

And

And Hezekia had exceding much riches & honour. And he gat hym treasures of siluer and golde, precious stones and spices, shildes, and of all maner plesaunte Jewels: and made store houses for the fruites of corne, for wine and oyle, and stalles for al maner of beastes, and foldes G for shepe. And he made hym cyties and had of shepe and oxen great aboundance.
For God had geuen hym substance excedyng much. This same Hezekia stopped the vpper water springes of Gihon, and brought them down to the west side of the citye of Dauid. And Hezekia prospered in all hys workes. And when the princes of Babilon sent vnto him embassadours, to enquire of the wonder ỹ chaunced in ỹ lande, God left him * to try him, and ỹ all De.viii. a. that was in his heart might be knowen.
The rest of the dedes of Hezekia, and hys goodnesse: beholde, they are written in the vision of Esay the Prophet the sonne of Amoz, in the boke of the kinges of Juda and Israell. And Hezekia slept with hys fathers, and they buried him in the moste worthy place of the sepulchres of the son-nes of Dauid: and all Juda and the inhabitors of Jerusalē did him worship at his death. And Manasse his sonne reigned in his steade.

The. xxxiii. Chapter.

Manasse is taken prisoner, and after that he cōmeth out, he destroyeth the ydolles. He dyeth, and after him succedeth Amō, which is killed of his own A people, and Josias hys sonne reigneth in his stede.
4 Ki.xxi.c Manasse was. xii. yere old when he began to reigne and he reigned fiue and fifty yeare in Jerusalem: 4 Ki.xviii a. but did euill in the sighte of the Lord, like vnto the abhominations of ỹ heathen, whom the Lord cast out before the children of Israel. For he wente to, and 2.Ki.vii.b bylt the hilaulters which Hezekia his fa-2.Pa.vi a ther had brokē down. And he reared vp and.vii.c aulters for Baalim, and made groues, and worshipped al the host of heauen and serued them. And he built aulters in the house of the Lord, wheras the Lorde yet had sayd: in Jerusalem shal my name bee for euer. And he builded aulters for al the host of heauen, in the two courtes of the house of the Lord. And he burnt his children in fier in the valleye of the sonne of Hinnon. He was a sorcerer, he regarded the crying of birdes, vsed inchauntmēts, and mainteined workers wyth spirites, and sears of fortunes, & wrought muche euill in the sighte of the Lorde, to anger B him withal. And he put the kerued ymage and an ydoll whiche he had made in the house of God. Of which house God had sayd to Dauid, and to Salomon his son, 2.Ki... in this house and in Jerusalem, whiche I 3.Ki... haue chosen afore all the tribes of Israel, 2.Pa... will I put my name for euer, and will no more bring the seate of Israell frō of the lande, whiche I haue ordained for youre fathers: if so be that they will be diligent, and do all that I haue commaunded them in all the lawe and statutes, and ordinaūces by the hande of Moses. And so Ma-nasse made Juda and the inhabitors of C Jerusalem to erre, and to doe worse than the heathen whom the Lorde destroyed before the children of Israell. And the Lorde spake to Manasse and to his people, but they would not regarde. Wherfore, the Lorde broughte vppon them the captaines of the hoste of the kynge of the Assirians, whiche toke Manasse in hold, and bounde him with chaines, and caryed hym to Babilon. And when he was in tribulation, he besoughte the Lorde hys God, and humbled himselfe excedingly before the God of his fathers, and made intercession to hym and God was entrea-ted of him, and heard his praier, & brought him againe to Jerusalem into his kyngdome. And then Manasse knewe that the Lord was God. After thys he built a wall without the citie of Dauid, on the west side of Gion, in ỹ valey as they came to the fishe gate, and rounde about Ophel and brought it vp of a very great heigth, and put captaines of warre in al ỹ strong cities of Juda. And he toke away strāge Gods & ymages out of the house of god, and all the aulters that he had built in the mount of the house of God, * and Jerusalem, and cast them out of the citie. And he prepared the aulter of the Lorde, and sacrificed thereon peace offeringes, and thanke offeringes, and charged Juda to D serue ỹ Lord god of Israel. Neuerthelesse the people did offer still in the hilaulters, howbeit vnto the Lorde their God onely.
The reste of the actes of Manasse, and hys prayer vnto hys God, and the wordes of the sears, and of them that spake to hym in the name of the Lord God of Israell, beholde, they are written in the sayinges of the kynges of Israell. And hys prayer, and howe that he was hearde, and all hys synnes and hys trespasse, and
the

and yͤ places where he made hilaulters, & set vp groues and ymages (before he was mekened) beholde, they are writtē among the sayinges of the sears. And Manasse slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house. And Amon hys sonne reigned in his roume. Amon was .xxii. yeare olde when he began to reigne, and reigned .ii. yeare in Jerusalem. But he did euil in the sight of the Lord, like as did Manasse his father: for Amon sacrificed to all the kerued ymages, which Manasse his father had made, and serued them, and submitted not himselfe before the lord as Manasse hys father had mekened him selfe. But Amon trespassed greatly. And hys own seruauntes conspired agaynste hym, and slue him in his own house. But the people of the lande slue all them that had conspired against king Amon. And the same people of the lande made Josia hys sonne kyng in hys roume.

The .xxxiiii. Chapter.

Josia destroieth the ydols: and restoreth the temple in which is founde the boke of the law. He sendeth to Hulda the prophetesse for counsayle.

A 4. kings xxii. a Josia was eight yeare olde whē he began to reigne,* and he reigned in Jerusalem .xxxi. yeare. And he did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the waies of Dauid his father, and bowed neither to the righte hande nor to the left. In thē eight yeare of hys reigne (when he was yet a childe) he beganne to seke after the God of Dauid hys father.
And in yͤ twelueth yere he begā to pourge Juda and Jerusalem from hilaulters, groues, kerued ymages, and ymages of metall, and they brake down the aulters of Baalim, euen in his presence: and other ymages, that were in greater honor than B they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kerued images, & images of me-tall he brake, and made dust of them, and strawed it vpon the graues of them that had offered vnto them. And he burnte the bones of the priestes vpon the aulters of them, and clensed Juda and Jerusalem. And euen so did he in the cities of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon, vnto Nephthali. And in the wildernesses of the round about, he plucked a sonder the aulters and the groues, and dyd beate them and stampe them to pouder, and beate down all the ymages throughout all the lande of Israell: and returned to Jerusalem againe. In yͤ .xviii. yere of his reigne when he had purged the land and yͤ temple, *he sent Saphā the sonne of Azali-ahu, and Maasiah the gouernor of the ci- 4. Ki. xxii a. ty, and Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the Lorde his God. And when they came to Helki-ah the hie Priest, they deliuered them the mony that was brought into the house of God, which the Leuites that kept the entries, had gathered of the hande of Ma-nasse, and Ephraim, and of al that yet remained in Israel, and of all Juda & Ben Jamin, and of the inhabitors of Jerusalē.
And they put it in the handes of yͤ worke-men that had the ouersight of the house of the Lord: and they gaue it to the laborers that wrought in the house of the Lorde, to C repaire and amende the house. Euen to masons and carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and timber for couples and for beames of the houses, whiche the kynges of Juda had destroyed. And the men dyd the worke faithfully. And the ouersears of them to courage them forwarde, were Jahath and Obadiahu Leuites of the children of Merari, and Secharia, and Mesullam, of the childrē of the Cahathi-tes, and other of the Leuites: whyche all could skil of instrumentes of musike. And 4. Ki. xxii b ouer the bearers of burthens, and ouer al that wrought, in whatsoeuer workeman-ship it were, were there Scribes, officers and porters of the Leuites. And whē they brought out the mony yͤ was brought into the house of the Lord, Helkia yͤ Prieste founde the boke of the law of the Lord geuen by Moses. And Helkia answered and sayd to Saphan the Scribe, I haue foūde the boke of the law in the house of yͤ Lord and Helkia gaue the boke to Saphā. And Saphan caryed the boke to the kyng, and brought the kyng worde agayne, saying all that was committed to thy seruauntes, that do they. And they haue gathered toge- D ther the mony yͤ was founde in the house of yͤ Lord & haue deliuered it into the han des of the ouerseers of the work, & to the handes of the workemen. And then Saphan the Scribe shewed the kyng, saying Helkia the Priest hath geuen me a boke: and Saphā red in it before the kyng. And it fortuned that when the kyng had heard the wordes of the law, he tare his clothes and the kynge commaunded Helkia and Ahicam the sonne of Saphan, and Abdō the sonne of Micah, & Saphā the scribe, and Asaia a seruaunte of the kynges, saying:

ynge: go and enquire of the Lord for me, & for them that are left in Israel and Juda concerning the wordes of the boke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the lord that is fallen vpō vs, bicause our fathers C haue not kept the worde of the Lorde, to do after all that is written in this booke.
And Helkia and they that the kinge had appointed, went to Hulda a Prophetesse the wife of Sallum, ÿ sonne of Tokhath, the sonne of Hasra keper of the wardrope (for she dwelt in Jerusalem within the seconde wall) and so they communed wyth her. She answered them: thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: tell ye the man that sent you to me: euen thus sayeth the lord: beholde, I will bring euill vpon this place and vpon the inhabitors therof: euen all the curses ÿ are written in ÿ boke whiche they haue red before the king of Juda, bi-cause they haue forsaken me and haue offered vnto other Gods, to anger me with al maner workes of their handes: therefore is my wrath set on fier agaynste this F place, and shal not be quenched. And as for the king of Juda which sent you to inquire of the Lord, so shal ye say vnto him: thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, concerning ÿ wordes which thou hast heard.
Bicause thine heart did melt, and ÿ dydst meke thy selfe before God whē thou hear-dest his wordes agaynst this place and a gainst the inhabitors therof: and hūbledst thy selfe before me, and tarest thy clothes and wepedst beefore me, ÿ haue I heard also, sayth the Lord. Beholde I will take thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thine eyes shall not see al the mischief ÿ I wil bring vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitors of the same. And they brought the kyng worde iiii. King xxii.a. againe. *Thē the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Juda and Jerusalem. And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lord and all the men of Juda, and the inhabitors of Jerusalem, and the Priestes and Leuites, and all the people great and smell: and the king did read in their eares al the wordes of the boke of the couenaunt that was foūde in ÿ house of the Lord. And the king stode at his stāding, and made a couenaūt before ÿ lord, to folow the Lord, and to kepe his commaundements, his witnesses, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soule, and to fulfill the wordes of the ap-poyntment writtē in the sayd boke. And he set in their roume al thē ÿ were founde in Jerusalem and Beniamin, and the inhabitours of Jerusalē did according to the couenaunt of the Lorde God of their fathers. And Josia put away all maner of abhominations out of al landes that pertained to the children of Israel, & brought in al that were founde in Israell, to worship and to serue the Lord their god. And they turned not aside from after the Lord God of their fathers, as long as he liued.

The .xxxv. Chapter.

Josia holdeth passeouer. He fighteth agaynst the king of Egipt, & dyeth. The people bewayle hym. A

AND Josia helde the *feast iiii. king. xxiii. c of passeouer vnto the Lord in Jerusalē, and they slew iii. Esd. i.a. passeouer in the .xiiii. day of the first moneth. And he set the Priestes in their offices and ayded them in the seruice of the house of the Lord. And he sayd vnto ÿ Leuites (that taught all Israell and were sanctified vnto the Lord:) put the holy arke in the house which Salomon the sonne of Dauid king of Israell did builde, there shal no other burthen be layd vpon youre shoulders: but nowe serue the lorde youre God and hys people Israel. And prepare your selues by your aunciēt householdes and companies, according to the writing of Dauid king of Israell, and the writing of Salomon hys sonne, and stande in the holy place according to the deuision of the auncient householders of youre brethren the childrē of the people, and after deuision of the auncient householdes of the Le-uites: kyl passeouer, and sanctify and prepare your brethren that they may doe according to the worde of the lorde by the hande of Moses. And Josia gaue to the people flockes of shepe and kiddes, all for B passeouer, and for all that were presente, thirty thousande by tale, and three thousande oxen, and these were euen of the kynges substaunce. And hys lordes gaue willingly bothe vnto the people and to the Priestes, and vnto the Leuites. Helkia also, Zacaria and Jehiell rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto the Priestes for passeouer offerynges two thousande and sixe hundred shepe and three hundred oxē Conania and Semeiahu and Nathanell hys brethren, and Hasiabu and Jaiell, and Josabad, rulers of the Leuites, gaue vnto the Leuites passeouer offerynges, euen fiue thousand shepe, and .v.C. oxen.
And so the seruice was prepared, and the Priestes

Priests stode in their places, and the Le-uites in their distyncte companyes, at the kynges commaundement. And they slew passeouer, and the Priestes sprinkled the bloud with their hande, and the Leuites pulled of the skinnes of the beastes. And they set away the burnt offerings to geue them vnto the people that were deuyded by auncient houses, and that they should, offer vnto the Lord. * like as it is writtē
...i.a. in the booke of Moses. And so dyd they ...rii.b. with the oxen also. *And they dressed the passeouer with fier, as the maner was.
And the other dedicate beasts, sod they in pots cauldernes, and pannes, and deuided them among all the people. And after-C warde they made ready for themselues & for the Priestes: for the children of Aaron were busied in offring of burnt offeringes and the fat, vntill nighte: therfore the Le-uites prepared for themselues, and for the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron. And the singers the childrē of Asaph stode in their ...rrv. standing *according to the cōmaundemēt of Dauid and Asaph, Heman, and Iedu-...rrvi. thum the kynges sear: and the porters wayted at euery gate, and myght not departe from their seruice: for their brethren the Leuites prepared for them. And so all the seruice of the Lorde was prepared the same day, to offer passeouer, and to offer burnte offerynges vpon the aulter of the lorde, according to the commaundemente of kyng Iosia. And so the children of Israell that were presente, offred passeouer the same tyme, and kept the feast of swete bread seuen dayes, and there was no passeouer like to y, kept in Israel from the dayes of Samuell the Prophete: neither did all the kinges of Israell holde suche a passeouer feast as did Iosia, & y Priestes and Leuites and all Iuda, & Israell that wer present, and the inhabitors of Ieru-salem. Thys passeouer was holden in the rviii. yere of y reigne of Iosia. After * al thys, when Iosia had prepared the tem-D ple Necho kyng of Egipt came vp to fight

...rriii.f. and Iosia went oute against hym: which sent messengers to him, and sayd: what haue I to do with the thou king of Iuda?
Be not thou against thy selfe thys daye: for my warre is against an other house: and God bad me make hast. Leaue of therefore and medle not with God which is with me, least he destroy thee. Neuer-thelesse, Iosia would not turne hys face from hym, but rather toke aduise to fyght with him, and harkned not vnto the wor-des of Necho oute of the mouth of God, & came to fight in the valley of Magedo, & the shoters shotte dartes at kynge Iosia.
And the king sayd to his seruantes: cary me away, for I am sore woūded. Hys seruaūtes therfore had hym out of that cha-ret, and put hym (as a kynge) in another charet that they had. And when they had brought hym to Ierusalem, he dyed, and was buried in y Sepulchre of his fathers. Zac. rii.
* And all Iuda & Ierusalem morned for a.
Iosia. And Ieremia lamented Iosia, and all singing men and singing wemen morned for Iosia in their lamentatyons, to thys day and made the same lamentatiōs an ordinaunce in Israell. And beholde, they are written in y Lamētations. The rest of the actes of Iosia & hys goodnesse which he did in folowing the writing of y law of the lorde, and hys sayinges firste and last: beholde, they are written in the booke of the kynges of Israel and Iuda.

the boke of the kinges of Israel, and Juda and Jehoacin was viii. yere old, when he began to reigne, and he reigned thre monethes and .x. dayes in Jerusalem: and did euil in the sight of the Lord. And whē the yeare was out, king Nabuchodonozor sent, and fet hym to Babilon with the goodly vessels of the house of the Lorde, and made zedekia (his fathers brother) Jere .a. iii. king. xxiiii. d king ouer Juda and Jerusalē. * Zedekia was .xxi. yeare olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned .xi. yere in Jerusalem And he did euill in the sighte of the Lorde his God, and humbled not hymself before Jeremia the Prophete at the mouth of ẏ Lord. And he rebelled against Nabuchodonozor, whiche had receiued an othe of him, by God. But he was stifnecked, and to hard harted to turne vnto the lord god of Israell. Moreouer, al the rulers, the C Priestes and the people, trespassed more, sinning after al maner of abhominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which he had halowed in Jeru-Je. xxv. a salē*. And the Lord God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising vp bytimes, and sending, for he had compassion on his people, and on hys dwelling place. But they mocked the messengers of God and despised hys wordes, and misused his Prophetes, vntill the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, and til ther iiii. king. xxv. a was no remedy. And so * he brought vpō them the king of Caldee, which slue their yong men with the sword in their holy temple, and spared neither yong mā, maiden, olde man, nor hym that stouped for age. He gaue them al into hys hand. And all the vessells of the house of God (both great and small) and the treasures of the house of ẏ Lord, & the treasures of ẏ king and of hys lords: al these caryed he to Ba-D bilō. And they burnte ẏ house of God, and brake down ẏ wal of Jerusalē, and burnt all the places therof wt fire, & destroyed al ẏ goodly iewels therof. And the rest ẏ had escaped the sworde, caried he to Babilon, where they were bounde to hym and hys children, vntill the tyme that Persia had the Empire. To fulfill the worde of the Je. xxv. b Lord * by ẏ mouth of Jeremia, vntil the land had her pleasure of her Sabbothes: for as long as she lay desolate, she kepte Sabbath, vntil seuenty yeres were fulfilled. * And the first yeare of Cirus king of Persia (when the worde of the Lord spoken by ẏ mouth of Jeremia was finished) the Lorde stirred vp the spirite of Cirus king of Persia: that he made a proclamation throughoute all his kingdome, and that by writing, saying: thus sayth Cirus king of Persia, all the kingdomes of the earth hath the lord God of heauen geuen me, and hath charged me to builde him an house in Jerusalē, that is in Juda. Wherfore whosoeuer is among you of all hys people, the lord his God be with him, and let him go vp.

The first Chapter.

Cirus sendeth againe the people that was in cap-tiuitie, and restored them their holy vessels. And commaundeth them to builde againe the temple.

IN the firste yeare of Cirus 1 king of Persia (that ẏ word of the Lorde spoken by the mouth of Jeremy might be fulfilled) the Lord stirred vp the spirite of Cirus king of Persia, that he caused to be proclaimed throughout al his empire, and to be written saying: thus sayth Cirus the king of Persia: the Lord God of heauen hath geuen me all the kingdomes of the earthe, & hath commaunded me to builde hym an house at Jerusalem, which is in Juda.
Whosoeuer now amōg you is of his peo- B builde builde the house of the Lord God of Israel. He is the God that is at Jerusalem.

And whosoeuer remaineth yet in any ma ner of place (where he is a straunger) let ÿ men of that place helpe him with siluer & golde, with good and cattell, beside that which they willingly offer, for the house of God that is at Jerusalem. Then gat vp the principall fathers of Juda & Ben jamin, and the Priestes and Leuites, & all they whose spirit God had raised to go C vp, and to builde the house of the Lorde which is at Jerusalem. And all they that wer about them, strengthned their hand with vessels of siluer and gold, with good and cattel, and iewels: insomuch that eue-ry one shewed himselfe liberall. And king Cirus broughte forth the vessels of the house of ÿ Lord, * which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of Jerusalem, and had put in the house of hys God. Those dyd

AND whē * ŷ. vii. moneth came, and the children of Israell wer now in their cities, the people came together (euen as one man) vnto Jerusalem. And there stode vp Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and hys brethren the Priestes, and zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and hys brethren, and builded the aultar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerynges theron, as it is written in the lawe of Moses the man of God: and the aultar set they vpō hys sockets, (for there was a fearefulnesse among them, bicause of the nations and landes,) therfore they offered burnt offerings theron * vnto the Lord in the morning and at euen. And they helde the feast of tabernacles as it is written: and offred burnt sacrifices daily, according to the number and custome, day by day. Afterward they offred daily burnt offeringes also, and in the new mones, & in al the feast dayes that were consecrate vnto the Lord, and for al them which did (of their own frewil) offer vnto the Lord. From the first day of the seuenth moneth began they to offer burnt sacrifices vnto the Lord: euen when the foundation of ŷ temple of the Lords was not yet layed. They gaue mony also vnto the masons, and carpenters, and meate and drynke & oyle vnto them of zidon and of Tyre, to bryng the Ceder timber from Libanus, by Sea vnto Joppa, according to ŷ graunt that they had of Cirus ŷ king of Persia. now also vnto the kyng, that if this citie be builded, and ẏ walles thereof made vp againe, then shall not they giue tolle, tribute, & custome, and the kings profit shal incurre damage. And now in the meane C season, we haue destroyed the temple, and would no lenger see the kings dishonor.
Therfore sent we out also, and certified the king, that it maye be sought in ẏ boke of the chronicles of thy progenitors, and so shalt thou fynde in the boke of ẏ Chronicles, and perceyue that this citie is sedicious and noisom vnto ẏ kinges & landes, and that they cause other also amōg them to rebell of olde, and for the same cause was this city destroyed. Therfore do we certifie the kyng, that yf this citie be builded againe, and the walles therof made vp, thou shalt herafter haue no portion on this side the water. Then sent the D kyng an aunswere vnto Rehū the recorder, and Simsai the scribe, and to the other of their companions ẏ dwelt in Samaria, & unto the other that wer beyond the water, in Sclam and Chebeth. The letter which ye sent unto us, hath ben openly read before me, and I haue commaunded to make search: and it is found D that this citie of olde, hath made insurrection against kinges, and that rebellion and sedition hath been committed therin.

Ther haue ben mighty kings also at Jerusalem, whiche haue reigned ouer all countreys, beyond the water, and tolle, tribute, & custome was geuen unto thē: Geue ye now therefore cōmaundement, that the same men be forbiddē, and that ye citie be not builded again, till I haue geuen an other cōmaundement. Take hede now that ye be not negligent to doe this, for why should ye king haue harme ther-thorow? Now whē the copy of kyng Arthaxerses letter was red before Rehum and Simsai the scribe, and their companions, thei went up in al ye haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jewes, & forbad them with violence & power. Then ceassed the worke of the house of God at Jerusalē, and continued so unto the second year of Darius kyng of Persia.

The. v. Chapter.

By the exhortation of Aggeus and Zacharye, is the temple builded again.

A The prophetes, Aggeus, 1. Esd. vi. a & Zacharye the sonne of Iddo, prophecied unto ye Agge. i a Jewes ye wer in Juda & Jerusalē, in the name of the god of Israel. Then C gat up Zorobabel the sōn of Salathiel, & Jesua the sonne of Jose-dec, & began to builde the house of god at Jerusalem: & with thē were the prophetes of god, which helped thē. At the same time came to thē, Tathani, whiche was captai on this side of ye water, & Stharbaznai, & their companions, & said thus unto thē: Who hath commaunded you to builde this house, and to make up these walles? Thē told we them the names of the men that made this building. But ye eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jewes, that thei could not cause thē to ceasse, till the matter was brought to Darius, and then they answered by let-B ters therunto. This is the copye of the letter, that Thanai (which was captain on this side the water) & Stharbaznai, & the counsailers of Apharsah (which wer on this side the water) sent unto kīg Darius. And the mater ye thei sent unto him, was written thus within the letter: Unto Darius ye king, al peace. Be it knowen unto the king, that we went into ye lande of Jewrye, to the house of the great god, which is builded with mighty great stones, and beames are layde in the walles and the worke goeth fast forth, and pros- C pereth in their handes. Then asked we the elders, and said unto thē as it folow-eth: Who cōmaunded you to builde thys house & to make up the walles thereof?
We asked their names also, ye we might certify the, & write the names of the men that were their rulers. But they answered us with these wordes, & said. We are ye seruauntes of him that is god of heauen and earth, & build ye house that was buided many yeres ago, which a gret kyng of Israel builded & set up. But after that our fathers had prouoked the god of heauen unto wrath & he gaue thē ouer into the hande of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babilon, and of the Chaldees, whiche brake downe this house, and caryed the B people away captiue unto Babilō. *But in the first yere of Cirus the king of Ba-bilon, the same king Cirus gaue cōmaūdement concerning this house of god, ye it should be builded again. And the vessels of gold & siluer of ye house of god, whiche D Nabuchodonozor toke out of the temple that was at Jerusalem, & brought them into the tēple at Babilō, those did Cirus, the kyng take out of the temple at Babilon, & they wer deliuered unto one Sal-bazar by name, whom he made captaine, and saide unto him: Take these vessels & go thy waye, and set them in the temple that is at Jerusalem, & let the house of god be builded in his place. Then came ye same Salbazar & laid the foundation of the house of God, whiche is at Jerusalē.
Since that time also until nowe hath it ben in buildīg, and yet is it not finisshed.
Yf it please ye king now therefore, let ther bee searche made in the kinges librarye, whiche is there at Babilon, whether it haue been king Cirus commaundement, that this temple of God at Jerusalem, should be builded, and let him send us the kings minde concerning ye same matter.

The. vi. Chapter.

At the commaundement of Darius king of Persia, after the temple was builded and dedicate, the children of Israel kepe the feast of unleuened bread

Then

THen commaunded kyng Darius, and they made A search in the librarie.euē in the place where they layd vp ỷ tresure at Ba- Es.vi.a bilon. And the: was foūd in a coffre (in the palaice that is in the land of Medes) a volume, and therin was it thus writen, & such a memorial: In the first yere of kyng Cirus, gaue the same king Cirus cōmaundement concerning the house of God at Ierusalē, that the same house, shoulde be bulded in the place where they offre the sacrifices, & to ioyne the wals together of threscore cubites heigth, & threscore cubites bredth. Thre rowes of rough stones, & one rowe of timber, & the expē-ces shalbe geuen of the kynges house.
And let the gold & siluer vessel of ỷ house of god, (which Nabuchodonozor toke out of ỷ temple at Ierusalē and brought vnto Babilon) be restored, & brought again vnto the temple at Ierusalem to their B place in the house of god. Get you farre from thē therfore, ỷ Thahnay captaine beyond the water, & Starbuzanai, and your coūsailers, & Apher Sechei, which are beyond the water, get ye away from them. Let the worke of the house of this god alone, ỷ the captain of the Iewes & their elders may build the house of God in his place. I haue commaunded what shall bee done to the elders of Iuda for the building of ỷ house of god, that there shalbe diligent hede taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the rentes beyonde the water & geuen vnto the men, that they be not hindered. And if they haue nede of calues, rammes, & lambes for the burntoffring of the god of heauen, wheat, salt, wine, & oile, after the custom of ỷ priests at Ierusalē, let the same be geuē thē daily without any delaye: that they may offre C swete sauoures vnto the God of heauen, & pray for the kings life, and for his children. And suche a cōmaundement haue I geuen, that what man soeuer he bee that altereth this worde, ther shalbe a beame taken from his house, and set vp, and he shalbe hanged theron, & his house shal-be made a donge hil, for the same thyng.
And the god that set his name there, destroy al kinges & people that put to their hande to alter, and to breake downe the house of God whiche is at Ierusalem. I Darius haue cōmaunded that thys bee done with spede. Thē Thahnai the captain of the country beynd the water, and Starbuzanai with their counsailors (to whom king Darius had sent) dyd their diligence: And the elders of the Iewes builded, & thy prospered thorow the prophecying of Aggeus the prophet, & Zachary the sonne of Iddo: & they builded, and layd vp the foundation, according to the cōmaundement of the god of Israel, & after the commaundement of Cirus & Darius, & Arthaxerses, kiges of Persia.
And the house was finished the .iii. day of the moneth Adar, euen in the .vi. yeare of the reygne of king Darius. ✠ And ỷ chil- ii.Pa.vii b dren of Israel, the priestes, the Leuites, & the other children of the captiuity, helde the dedication of this house of God wyth ioye, and offred at the dedication of this house of God, an. C. oxen, ii. C. rammes, foure. C. goates: and for the reconciling of all Israell .xii. he goates, according to the nūber of the tribes of Israell: & set ỷ priests in their sondry courses: & the Le-uites in their diuers offices, to minister vnto god at Ierusalē: as it is written in the boke of Moses. And the children of ỷ captiuitie helde passeouer vpon the .xiiii. D day of ỷ .i. moneth, for the priests & Leui-tes wer purified, so ỷ they wer all cleane together, & killed Passeouer for al ỷ children of the captiuitie, & for their brethren the priests, & for thēselues. And the children of Israel whiche wer come agayne out of captiuite, & all such as had separated themselues vnto them, frō the filthines of the heathen of the land, to seke the lord god of Israel, did eate, and held the feast of vnleuened bread seuē dayes with ioye: for the lord had made thē glad, and turned the heart of the king of Assur vnto thē, to strengthen their hāds in the worke of the house of god, euē the god of Israel.

The .vii. Chapter.

By the commaundemente of Arthaxerses, Esdras taketh his companions the children of Israel, & returneth to Ierusalem.

AFter these actes, there was in the reign of Arthaxerses king A i.Es.viii. b of Persia, one Esdras the son of Saraiah the sōne of Azaria the sonne of Helkia the sōn of Sallum, the sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sōne of Amaria, the sonne of Azaria, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of Zeraia, the sonne of Vzi, the sonne of Bucki, the sonne of Abisua, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Eleasar, the sone

of Aaron the chefe priest. This Esdras also went vp from Babilon, and was a Exo.xx.a perfite scribe in the law of Moses, which the Lord god of Israel did geue.
And the king gaue him all that he required, bicause the hand of the Lord his God was vpon him. And there went vp certain of the children of Israel, of the pries-tes, Leuites, singers, porters, and of the Nethinims vnto Jerusalem, in the. vii. yeare of kyng Arthaxerses. And he came to Jerusalem in the. v. moneth, euen in the. vii. yere of the king. For vpon the. i. day of the. i. moneth, began he to goe vp from Babilon, and on the first day of the first moneth came he to Jerusalem, because the good hande of god was vppon him. For Esdras prepared his hearte to seke the lawe of the lord, and to do it, and to teache the precept and iudgement in B Israel. And this is the copy of the letter, the kyng Arthaxerses gaue vnto Esdras the priest and scribe, which was a writer of the wordes and commaundements of the Lord, & of hys statutes ouer Israell.
Arthaxerses a kyng of kynges, vnto Esdras the priest and scribe of the law of yͤ God of heauen, peace and salutation.
I haue commaunded, that all they of the people of Israel, and of the priests & Le-uites in my realme (which are minded of their own good wil to go vp to Jerusalẽ) go with thee: and therefore art thou sent of the kyng and of his. vii. counsailors, to visit Juda and Jerusalem, accordyng to the law of thy God, which is in thy hand.
And that thou shouldest take with thee, siluer and gold, which the kyng and hys counsailors offre of their own good will, vnto the god of Israel (whose habitation is at Jerusalẽ,) and al yͤ siluer and golde yͭ thou canst find in al yͤ country of Babilõ, with it yͭ the people offer of their own good wil, & the priests geue for the house of their god which is at Jerusalẽ. Take C thou the same, & bye diligently with the-same mony, oxẽ, rammes, & lambes, with their meatoffringes & drinkoffringes: & thou shalt offer thẽ vpon the aulter of the D house of your god, which is at Jerusalẽ.
And loke what it lyketh thee and thy brethren, to dooe with the remnaunt of the money, that doe, after yͤ wil of your God.
And the vessels that are geuen thee for yͤ ministratiõ in the house of thy god, those deliuer thou before god at Jerusalẽ. And whatsoeuer thĩg more shalbe nedeful for the house of thy god, whiche is necessary for to spend, thou shalt receaue the charges out of the kyngs treasure house.
I kyng Arthaxerses haue commaunded all the treasurers beyond the water, that loke whatsoeuer Esdras the prieste and scribe in the law of the god of heauen, requireth of you, that ye fulfill the same spedyly vntil an. C. talẽts of siluer, and till an. C. quarters of wheate, and till an.
C. Batthes of wyne, & til an. C. Batthes of oyle, and salt without measure. Whatsoeuer also belongeth to the lawe of the god of heauen, let the same be done without any delay for the house of the God of heauen, that he be not wroth against the realme, and against the kyng & his children. And we certifie you, that ye haue no authority to require taxing and custome and yearly rentes vpon any of the priests Leuites, singers, porters, Nethinims, and ministers in the house of hys God.
And thou Esdras (after the wisedome of thy god, that is in thy hand) set iudges & arbitrors by my authority, to iudge al yͤ people that is beyond the water, euen all such as know the law of thy god: & them that know it not, those see that ye teach.
And whosoeuer wil not fulfil the law of thy god, and the kings law, let him haue hys iudgement without delay, whether it be vnto death or to be roted out, or to be condẽned in goodes, or to bee put in prison. Blessed be yͤ lord god of our fathers, which so hath inspired the kinges heart, to garnish the house of the Lorde that is at Jerusalẽ: and hath enclined his mercy vnto me, in the presence of the king & his counsailors, & before all the kynges hye estates. And I was cõforted (euen as the hand of the lord my god was vpon me) & so gathered I the heades of Israel together, that they might go vp with me.

The. viii. Chapter.

The numbre of them that returned to Jerusalem with Esdras.

These are the principal fathers of them, and this is their register that went vp with me from Babilõ what tyme as kyng Arthaxerses reigned. Of yͤ children of Phinehes, Gersom: of yͤ children of Ithamar, Daniel: of the children of Dauid, Hatus: of yͤ children of Zechania: among the children of Pharos, Zacharia, and with him wer numbred an. C. and. l. men. Of yͤ children of yͤ captain of Moab, Elioenay, the sone
of

of Zerahia and with him .ii. C. menne.
Of the children of Zechania the sonne of Jehasiel, and with him .iii. C. men.
Of the children of Adin, Abed the sonne of Jonathan, and with him fyftye men.
Of the children of Elam, Isai the sonne of Athalia, and with him seuenty men.
B Of the children of Saphatia, Zebadia the sonne of Michael, and with hym foure score men. Of the childrē of Joab, Obadia the sonne of Jehyel, and wyth hym. ii. C. and. xviii. menne. Of the children of Selomith the sonne of Jose-phia, and with him an. C. and. iii. score men. Of the children of Bebai, Zacharye the sonne of Bebai, and with hym. viii.
and. xx. men. Of the children of Asgad, Jehanan yͤ sonne of Hakatan, and with hym an. C. and. x. men. Of the children of Adonican, that were the laste, whose names ar these: Eliphelet, Jehiel and Samaiah, and with them. iii. score men.
Of the children of Bignai, Uthai, & Za-bud, and with them seuenty men. And I gathered thē together by the water that runneth toward Ahaua, there abode we three dayes. And I loked among yͤ people and the priests, and found there none of the children of Leui. Then sent I to C Eliezer, to Ariel, Semeia, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathā, Zachary, and to Mesullā the rulers, and to Joiarib & Elnathā, which were men of vnderstanding, and to those gaue I commaunde-ment, vnto Iddo yͤ chefe at Casphia, that they shoulde fetch vs ministers for the house of our god: and I tolde them what they should saye vnto Iddo, and to hys brethren the Nethinims at Casphia.
And (thorow the good hande of our God vpon vs) they broughte vs a wyse man from among the children of Moholi, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel: & Sa-rabia with his sonnes and his brethren, euen. xviii. And Hasabia, and with hym Isai of the children of Merari, with hys brethren, and their sonnes. xx. And of the Nethinims, whom Dauid and the prin-D ces gaue to minister vnto the Leuites. ii.
C. and. xx. of Nethinims, which all were named by name. And euen there at the water, beside Ahaua, I proclamed a fast, that we might humble our selues before our god, and seke of him a right way for vs, & for oure children, & for all oure substaunce. For I was ashamed to require of the kyng, souldiours and horsemen, to helpe vs against the enemy in yͤ waye: but we sayed vnto the kyng: The hande of our god is vpon al them that seke him in goodnesse, and (his dominion) his violēce and wrath is against all thē that forsake him. So we fasted, & besought our God for thys, and he hearde vs. And I toke E out. xii. of the chefe priests, Sarabia and Hasabia, and tenne of their brethrē with them, and weyed them the siluer & gold, and vessels that were appointed for the house of our god, which the kyng & hys counsailors, and hys lordes and all Israel that were there at hande had geuen together. And I weyed vnto theyr hād.
vi. C. and. l. talentes of siluer, and in siluer vessel, an. C. talentes, and in golde an. C. talentes: xx. basens of golde, of a M. pieces, and two costly ornaments, of good brasse, as cleare as golde, & I sayd vnto them: Ye are consecrat vnto yͤ lord, lyke as the vessels are holy also, and the gold and siluer are geuen of a good wil vnto the lord god of your fathers.
Watch, ye and kepe it: for ye shal waye it down before the chefe priests and Leui-tes, and auncient fathers of Israell at F Jerusalē, in the treasuryes of the house of the Lord.
Then toke the priestes and Leuites the weyed siluer and golde, and vessell, to bring it to Jerusalem, vnto the house of our god. And we brake vp from the water of Ahaua on the twelfe daye of the first moneth, to go vnto Jerusalem: and the hande of oure God, was vppon vs, and delyuered vs from the hande of the enemies, and of such as layd wait for vs by the way. And we came to Jerusalem & abode ther thre dayes. But on yͤ fourth day was the siluer & gold & vessel weyed G in the house of our God by the hande of Meremoth the sonne of Uria the priest, & with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehes, & with them was Josabad yͤ sone of Jesua, & Noadia the son of Benoi the Leuites. According to the numbre and weight of euery one, was the weight all written vp at yͤ same time. And yͤ childrē of the captiuity, which wer come out of prison, offred burntofferinges vnto yͤ god of Israel. xii. bullockes, for all Israel, vi.
& ninty rammes. vii. and seuenty lambes twelue he gotes for a sinne offring, al to the burnt offring of the Lord. And they delivered the kings commission vnto the kings officers, and to the captaynes that wer on this side the water. And they promoted the people and the house of God.

The.ix.Chapter.

Esdras complaineth on the people that haue turned them selues from God, and maried with the Gentiles.

A When these thinges wer done, the rulers came to me, & saied: The people of Israell, and the priestes and Leuites ar not separated from the people of the landes (as touching their abhominations) namely, De.vii. a of the Cananites, Hethites, Pheresites, Jos.xxiii. c. Jebusites, Amonites, Moabites, Egip-Jud.iii. a tians, & Amorites. *For they haue takē the daughters of the same to thē selues, & to their sonnes, & the holy sede is mixed with the nations in the land, & the hād of the princes & rulers hath ben principall 1.Es.viii. a in this trespasse. *And whē I heard this saying, I rent my clothes & my garmēt, & pluckt of the heare of my head, & of my bearde, & sat mourning. And there resorted vnto me al such as feared the wordes of the Lorde god of Israel, because of the transgression of the people of ẏ captiuity.
And I sat mourning vntill the euening sacrifice. And about the euening sacrifice, I arose vp frō my heuines, and rent my clothes, & my rayment, and fel vpon my knees, & spred out my handes vnto ẏ lord B my god, & said. My god, I am ashamed, and dare not lift vp mine eyes vnto ẏ my god: for our wickednesses ar growē ouer our head & our trespas is waxed gret vn-De.xviii. d. to the heauen. Sins the time of oure fa-2.Pa.xxix b thers, haue we been in great trespas vnto this day & because of our wickednesses 3.Re.xx. d haue we & our kinges ben deliuered into the hand of the kynges of the nations, vnto the swerd, into captiuity, into shame, & into confusion of face: as it is to se thys daye. And now is there a litle & sodaine graciousnesse come frō the lord our god, in causing some of vs to escape, & that he may geue vs a nayle in his holye place, & that our god may light oure eyes, & geue vs a litle life to take breath in our bon-C dage. For we are bondmen, & our God hath not forsaken vs in our bōdage, and hath enclined mercy vnto vs in the syght of the kinges of Persia, to geue vs lyfe to set vp the house of oure god, and to redresse the desolation therof, & to geue vs a wal in Juda & Jerusalem. And now O our god, what shal we saye after this?
For we haue forsaken thy cōmaūdementes which thou hast commaunded by thy seruauntes the prophetes, saying: The land vnto which ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane land because of the filthinesse of the people of the lands, which with their abhominatiōs haue made it ful of vncle-nesse on euery side. Therfore shall ye not De.vii. geue your daughters vnto their sōnes, & their daughters shall ye not take vnto your sōnes, nor seke their peace & welth for euer, that ye may be strong and enioy the good in the lande, & that ye and youre children may haue the inheritaunce of it for euermore. And after that al these thiges ar come vpon vs (because of our euil dedes, and gret trespasses) thou our god hast thrust downe our wickednesses, and D hast geuen vs a deliueraunce, (as it is come to passe this day.) And if we turne backe againe, to let goe thy cōmaundementes, & make contracte with the people of these abhominations: wilt ẏ not thē be wroth at vs (and not withoute cause) till we be vtterly cōsumed, so that nothing remain, and til there be no deliueraunce? O Lord God of Israell, thou arte righteous, for we remaine yet escaped, as it is to see this daye. Beholde also, in thy presence are we in our trespasses, & because of it may we not stand before the.

The.x.Chapter.

The people repente and turne, and put awaye their straunge wiues.

And whē Esdras prayed after this maner, and knowleged, 1.Esd.ix. a wept, & lay before the house of God, there resorted vnto hym out of Israel a very gret congregation of men & women & children: & the people wept very sore. And Sechanias the sonne of Jehiel one of the children of Elā answered, & saide vnto Esdras: We haue trespassed against our god, & haue taken strāge wiues of the people of the land. Now there is hope yet in Israel cō- 1.Esd.i B cernig this thing: For now we wil make a couenaunt with our god, and put away all the wiues (& such as are borne of thē) according to the counsel of the Lord: and we will be in the feare of the commaun-demētes of our god, that we may doe according to the lawe. Get the vp, for thys matter belongeth vnto the: we also wyll be with the, be of good comfort therfore, and do it. *Thē arose Esdras, & toke an oth of the chefe priestes & Leuites, and of all

al Israel, ẏ they should doe according to this worde: and they sware. And Esdras stode vp from before the house of God & went into the chamber of Johanam the sonne of Eliasib. And when he came thither, he did eate no bread, nor dronke water: for he mourned, because of the transgression of the people that hadde been in captiuity. And they caused a proclamation to go thorowout Juda and Jerusalem, vnto all the children which had been in captiuity, that they should gather thē-selues together vnto Jerusalem.
And that whosoeuer came not within .iii. dayes according to ẏ deuice of the rulers and elders, all his substaunce shoulde be forfait, and he should be put out from the congregation of the captiue. Then al the men of Juda and Ben Jamin gathered themselues together vnto Jerusalem within .iii. dayes, euen the .xx. day of the.
ix. moneth: and all the people sate in the strete before the house of God, and trembled because of this matter, and for the De.vii.a raine. And Esdras the priest stode vp, & Jos.iii.a sayde vnto them: Ye haue transgressed, and haue taken straung wiues, to make the trespasse of Israell yet more: confesse now therfore vnto the Lord God of your fathers and do his plesure, and separate your selues from the people of the lande, and from the straunge wiues.
And all the congregation answered, and said with a loude voice: it shalbe so, & we will doe as thou hast sayed. But the people are many, and it is a rainy wether, & the people are so faint to tarye without in the strete, neither is this a worke of one day or two: for we haue offended very sore in this thing. Let oure rulers stā therfore in al the congregation and let al them which haue taken straunge wiues in our cities, come at the time appointed, and let the elders of euery citie and their iudges be with them, till they haue turned the wrath of our god awaye from vs concerning this matter. Then were ap¶ pointed Jonathā the sonne of Asahel, & Jahasia the sonne of Thekua, ouer thys matter: And Mesullam and Sabathai the Leuites helped them. And the childrē of the captiuity did euen so. And Esdras the priest, and the auncient heades tho-rowe the house of their fathers (all men of great fame,) separated themselues, & sat them down on the .i. day of the .x. mo-neth, to examin ẏ matter. And vntil the .i. day of ẏ first moneth, they wer finishing the businesse, with al the men that hadde taken straunge wiues. And among the children of the priestes there were menne founde that had taken straunge wiues, namely among the children of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and of his brethren, Masiah, and Eliezer, Jarib, and Geda-lia, and they gaue their handes there vpon, that they would put away their wiues, & for their trespasse offring to geue a ramme for their trespasse. And among the childrē in Emer, Honany, & Zabadia.
Among the children of Harim. Maasia, Elia, Semeiah, Jehiel and Usia. Amōg the children of Phashur, Elioenai, Maa-sia, Ismaell Nethanel, Josabad, and Elasa. Amōg the Leuites, Josabad, Semei & Kelata, (whiche same is Kalithah) Pathahiah, Juda and Eleazer. Among the singers, also Eliasib. And among the porters Sellum and Telem and Uzi.
And of Israell. Among the children of Pharhos, Remia, Jesiaha, Malchia, Miamin, Eleazar, Malchia and Banania. Among the children of Ellam, Methania, Zachari, Jehiel, Abdi, Jerimoth and Elia. Among the children of Zathu, Eliomai, Eliasib, Mathania, Jerimoth Zabad, and Aziza. Among the children of Bebai, Jehohanā, Hanania, Zabai, and Athalia. Among the children of Beni, Mesulā, Malue, Adaiah, Jasub, Saal and Jerimoth. Among the children of the captaine Moab, Adna, Cholal, Benaia, Masia Mathania, Bezelel, Benui and Manasse. Among the children of Harim: Eliezer, Jesia, Malchia, Semeia and Simeon, Ben Jamin, Malluch & Samaria. Among the childrē of Hasū, Ma-thania, Mathathah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremy, Manasse, and Semei. Among the childrē of Bani: Madai, Amrā, Huel, Banea, Chelubi, Badaiah, Uaniah, Maremoth, & Eliasib, Mathania, Ma-thanai, Jaesai, Bani, Beni, and Semeiah, Selenia, Nathā, and Adaia, Machnadbai, Sasai, and Sarai, Asarel, Selemiahu, and Samariah, Sallū, Ama-ria, and Joseph. Among the children of Nebo, Jehiel, Mathathia, Zabad, Zabi-na, Jadai, Joel, and Banaia. All these had taken straunge wiues. And among the same, there were some that had children by the wyues.

¶ The ende of the first boke of Esdras.

The second booke of Esdras, otherwyse called the booke of Nehemia.

The first Chapter.

Nehemia butteler to king Artharerses, prayeth to God for the people.

A The wordes of Nehemia the sonne of Hachalia. It fortuned in the moneth Chisleu, in the .xx. yeare, that I was in the castell at Susan: and Hanani, one of my brethren, came with certaine men of Juda, and I asked them how the Jewes dyd that were de-liuered and escaped from the captiuity, & howe it went at Jerusalem. And they sayd vnto me: the remnaunte of the captiuity are there in the lande in great mis-Ne.13. fortune and rebuke. The wal of Jerusa-b lem also is broken down: and the gates thereof are brent with fyre. It fortuned, that when I heard these wordes, I sate B me downe and wepte, and mourned certaine dayes, and fasted and prayed bee-fore the God of heauen, and sayd: O lord Ero.xx.a God of heauen, thou greate and terrible e.xxiiii a God, thou that kepest couenaunte and De.v.i.b mercy for them that loue þ, and obserue thy commaundementes: let thyne eares hearken, I besech thee, and let thine eies be open, that thou mayest heare þ prayer of thy seruauntes, which I pray now before thee daye and night, for the children of Israell thy seruauntes, and knowledge the sinnes of the children of Israel, whiche we haue sinned againste thee. I and my fathers house haue synned, we C haue been vtterlye dispersed frõ thy law, and haue not kept the cõmaundemẽtes, statutes and lawes, whiche thou com-maundedst thy seruaunte Moses. I be-seche thee, cal to reme[m]braunce þ worde that thou commaundest thy seruaunte Moses, and saydst: Ye will transgresse, & I will scater you abrode among the na- Deu.30. tions. But if ye turne vnto me, and kepe a my commaundementes, and doe them: though ye wer cast out vnto þ vttermost part of heauen, yet wil I gather you frõ thence, and will bring you vnto the place that I haue chosẽ, to set my name there.
Thei are thy seruauntes and thy people, whom thou haste deliuered thorowe thy great power and in thy mighty hande.
O Lorde, I beseche thee, let thine eare herken to the prayer of thy seruaunt, and to the prayer of thy seruauntes, whose desire is to feare thy name: and lette thy seruaunt prospere this day, and graunte him mercye in the sight of thys man for I was the kinges butteler.

The .ii. Chapter.

After Nehemia had obtained letters of Artharerses, he came to Jerusalem and builded the walles.

It fortuned, that in the moneth Nisan in the .xx. Marche. yeare of kyng Artharer- A ses, the wine stode before him, and I toke vp the wine, & gaue it vnto the king. And I was heuy in his presence And the king saide vnto me: why lokest thou so sadlye, when thou art not sycke? it is nothing els, but that thou art heauye hearted. And I was sore afraide, and saide vnto the king: god saue the kings life for euer. How should I not loke sadly, when þ citie & place of my fathers burial lieth wast, & the gates ther-of are consumed with fire. And the kyng sayed vnto me: what is thẽ thy request? I made my prayer also to the god of heauẽ, & saied vnto the king: if it please the king, and if thy seruaunt haue found fauour in thy sight, send me into Juda vnto þ citie B of my fathers buriall, that I may builde it. And the king said vnto me (þ quene his wife sitting by him:) how long shall thy iourney continue, & when wilt thou come agayn? And it pleased the king to sẽde me, & I set him a time, and said vnto þ king: if it please the king, let him geue me letters to þ captaines whiche are beyonde þ water, that they may conuay me ouer, till I come into Juda: & letters vnto Asaph þ lord of the kings wood, that he may geue
me

me timber to make beames for ẏ gates of the palace (which is hard by the house) and for the walles of the citie, and for the C house that I shal enter into. And ẏ kyng gaue me according to ẏ hand of my God, which was good vpon me. And when I came to the captaines beyond the water, I gaue them the kings letters. And the kyng had sent captaines & horsemē with me. Sanabalat also the Horonite, & To-bia a seruaunt (the Ammonite) hearde of it & it greued them sore, that there was come a man whiche sought the wealth of the childrē of Israel. And I came to Jerusalē, and was there .iii. dayes, & I gat me vp in ẏ night season, & a few mē with me, neither told I any mā, what god had geuen me in my heart to do at Jerusalē: & ther was not one beast with me, saue it that I rode vpon. And I departed in the night by the valley port, before the drag-gon wel, & to the donge port, & considered the walles of Jerusalem how they were brokē down, & the portes therof cōsumed with the fier. And I went ouer vnto the wel port, & to the kyngs conduite, & there was no rowme for ẏ beast that was vnder me to passe. Then went I on in the night by the broke side, & considered the wal, & turned backe, & came home again D by the valley port. And the rulers knewe not whyther I went, or what I did: neither did I as yet tel it vnto ẏ Jewes, to the priests, to ẏ noble men, to the rulers, & to the other that laboured in ẏ worke.
Then said I vnto thē: ye see the miserie that we ar in, how Jerusalē lyeth wast, and how the gates therof are brent with fire: come therfore, ẏ we may build vp the wal of Jerusalem, & that we be nomore a rebuke. And I told them of the hande of my god, (that it was gracious ouer me) & the kynges wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they said: let vs get vp, and builde: and they strengthed their hand to good. But whē Sanabalat ẏ Horonite, & Tobia ẏ seruaunt (an Ammonite,) and Gese the Arabian heard it, they laughed vs to scorne, & mocked vs, & saied: what is this that ye doe? Wil ye fal away from the king? Then aunswered I them, & said the god of heauē, he it is that hath granted vs prosperity: & we bee his seruauntes. Let vs get vp & build. As for you, ye haue no portion nor right, nor remembraunce in Jerusalem.

The .iii. Chapter.

The number of them that builded the walles.

AND Eliasib the hie priest gat A him vp with his brethrē the priestes, and they builded the shepegate. They repaired it, and set vp the dores of it: euē vnto the towre Mea, repaired they it, & vnto the towre of Hananel. Next vnto Jer. xxxi. a him also builded the men of Jericho. Zach. xiv. c.
And beside him builded Sachur the sōne of Amri. But the fish port did the children of Senaa builde, whiche also layed the beames thereof, and set on the dores, lockes and barres of it. And next vnto him builded Meremoth, ẏ sonne of Uria, the sonne of Hakoz: and next vnto them builded Mesulam the sonne of Berechia the sonne of Meseabeel: and next vnto him builded Zadoc the sonne of Baana.
And next vnto him builded they of The-koa. But the great men that wer amōg them, put not their neckes to the worke of their lorde. The olde gate builded Je- B hoiada the sonne of Paseah, and Mesulam the sonne of Besodia, they layde the beames therof, & set on the dores, lockes and barres of it. Next vnto thē builded Melatiah of Gibeon, and Jadon of Me-rano, men of Gibeon, & of Mispa, where he that was captaine of this side the water had a mansion. Next vnto him builded Uziel the sōne of Harhaiah the goldsmith. Next vnto him also builded Hanania the sonne of Harakaim, and they repaired Jerusalem vnto the brode wall.
Next vnto them builded Raphaiah the sonne of Hur, the ruler of the halfe part of Jerusalē. Next vnto him builded Jedaia the sōn of Harumaph, ouer against C his house: and next vnto him builded Hatus, the sonne of Hasabnia. But Melchia the sonne of Harim, & Hasub the sonne of the captaine of Moab, builded the other pece, and towre beside the fornaces.
Next vnto him builded Sallū a singers sonne, the ruler of the halfe part of Jerusalem, he and his daughters. The valley gate builded Hanum, and the citizens of Zanoa. They builded it, and set on the doores, lockes, and barres therof, and a.
M. cubites on the wall, vnto the donge D port. But the donge port builded Melchiab the sonne of Rechab, the ruler of ẏ iiii. part of Bethcharē: he repaired it, and set on ẏ dores, lockes and barres therof.
But the well gate repaired Sallum the sonne of Cholhosah, the ruler of the .iiii. part of Mispa. He builded it, and layed the beames, and set on the dores, lockes, and barres therof, and the wall vnto the poole of Siloah, by the kynges garden, and vnto the steppes that goe down frō the citie of Dauid. After him builded Nehemiah the sonne of Asboke, the ruler of ŷ half part of Bethzur, vntil the other side ouer against the sepulchres of Da-uid, and to the poole that was repaired, C and vnto the house of the mighty. After him builded the Leuites, Rehum the sōn of Bani: and next vnto him builded Hasabia the ruler of ŷ halfe part of Keilah, in his quarter. After him builded their brethren: Banai the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah: and after him builded Ezer the sonne of Jesua the ruler of Mispa the other pece, harde ouer againste the going vp to the house of ordinaunce that was in the corner. Againe, after him brake foorth Baruch the sonne of Zachai of indignation, and repaired the other pece from the turning corner, vnto the doore of the house of Eliasib the hye priest.

After hym also builded Meremoth F the sonne of Uria the sonne of Hakos, the other pece from the doore of the house of Eliasib, euen as long as the house of E-liasib extended. After hym builded the priestes, the men of the plain. After hym builded Ben Jamin and Hasub, ouer against their house, & after hym wrought Asaria, the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Anania, nexte vnto his house.
After hym also builded Benui the sonne of Hanadad the other pece, frō the house of Azaria vnto the turnyng of the walle, and vnto the corner. After him builded Pala the sonne of Uzai, ouer againste ŷ corner and the hye towre, whiche lyeth out ouer from the kynges house, ŷ was besyde the courte of the pryson. After hym Phedaia the sonne of Pharhos (as for the Nethinims they dwelte in the strong holde vnto the water gate, to-warde the easte, and to the towre that lieth out, After him builded they of Thekua the other pece ouer against ŷ greate towre, that lieth outward, vnto the wall of the strong holde. But from aboue the horse gate forth, builded the priestes, e-uery one ouer against his house.
G And after them builded Zadoc the sonne of Jmmer ouer against his house. After hym buylded also Semeia the sonne of Sechania, the keper of the eastgate.
After hym builded Hanania the sonne of Selemia, and Hanum the sonne of Zalaph the sixte, the other pece. And after hym buylded Mesulam the sonne of Barachia ouer agaynst hys store house.
After hym builded Malachia the gold smithes sonne, vntill the house of Nethinims, & of the marchaūtes ouer against the gate of Maphkad, and to the parlour in the corner. And betwene the parloure of the corner vnto the shepegate, builded the goldesmithes and the mar-chauntes.

The.iiii.Chapter.

The building of Jerusalem is hindered and let, but the Jewes builde it, keepyng ready harnessed lest their enemies shoulde inuade them.

BUt when Sanabalat heard that we builded ŷ A wal, he was wroth in hī selfe, and toke great indignation, and mocked the Jewes, and sayed before his brethren & the souldiers of Samaria: what doo these impotente Jewes? wil the heathen suffer them? shal they offer? shal they perfourme it in one daye? shall they make the stones whole againe that are broughte to duste and brent? And Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and sayd: thoughe they builde, yet if a foxe goe vp, he shall breake down their stony walle. Heare (O thou our God) for we are despised, turne their shame vpon their own heade, and geue them ouer into despising, in the lande of theyr captiuity. Couer not theyr wickednesse, and let not their sinne be put out in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the builders. And so builded we the walle, & it was ioyned whole together vnto the halfe heygth therof. And the people were mynded to labaure. And it fortuned, that B when Sanabalat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, Ammonites, and Asdodites, heard that the walles of Jerusalem wer made vp, and that the gappes began to be stopped, they were very wroth, & conspired altogether to come afight against Jerusalem, & to make the people an hin-deraunce therin. Neverthelesse we made oure prayer vnto our God, and set watchemen by them, whiche builded day and nyghte, ouer againste them. And Juda said: the strengthe of the bearers is to fe-ble, and there is yet muche more morter, and we are not able to builde on ŷ walle.
And our aduersaries said: they shall not know neither see, till we come in the myd-des among them, and slay them, & hinder

the worke. But it fortuned that whē the Iewes (which dwelte beside them) came they told vs as good as .x. times, that in all places where ye goe vnto, they are appointed to fall vpon vs. Therfore sette I y^e people after their kinreds with their swordes, speares, and bowes, beneth in the lowe places behinde the walle: and I loked, and gat me vp, and sayed vnto the chiefe men, to the rulers, and to the other people: be not ye afraide of thē, but thinke rather vpon the great lord, which …ch.i.b ought to bee feared, and fighte for your
…m.xi.f. brethren, your sonnes, your daughters, your wiues, and your houses. Neuer-thelesse, it chaunced that when oure ene-myes heard that we had gotten word of it, God brought their counsel to nought, and we turned all agayne to the walle, euery one vnto his laboure. And frō that tyme foorth, it came to passe, that the halfe parte of the yong men dyd the labour, and the other half part of thē helde the speares, shilds, bowes, and brest plates, and the rulers stode behinde all the house of Iuda, whiche builded on the walle, and bare burthens frō those that laded them. With one hande dyd euerye one worke: and with the other helde he his weapon. And euery one that builded, D had his sweard gird by his thighe, and so builded they. And the trūpet blew beside me. And I said vnto the principall mē, to the rulers, and to the other people: the worke is great and large, and we are se-perated vpon the walle, one farre from another. Loke in what place therfore ye heare the noyse of the trompet, resorte ye Exo.xiiii thither vnto vs, and our god shall fight
c. for vs, and we will be labouryng in the worke. And the half part of them helde the speares from the morning spring, tyl the starres came forth. And at the same time sayde I vnto the people: euerye one abyde with his seruaunt at Ierusalem, that in the night season we may watche, and laboure on the day time.
As for me and my brethren, my seruauntes and the menne of the watche (whiche were behinde me) we put neuer of oure clothes, no more than the other did their harnesse, saue only because of the water.

The. v. Chapter.

The people are vexed with hunger. He requireth not the lyuing of a captaine.

And there arose a greate complaint of the people, A & of their wiues, against their brethrē the Iewes.
For there wer some that said: oure sones & daughters and we ar to many, therfore wil we take corne for them, that we maye eate and lyue.
Some also there were that sayde: let vs set our landes, vyneyardes and houses to pledge, and take vp corne in the dearth. But some there were that sayde: let vs borow money for the kynges tribute, and that vpon oure landes and vy-neyardes. Beholde, our bodyes as the bodyes of oure brethren, and oure children as their children: els should we subdue oure sonnes and daughters vnto bō-dage: & some of oure daughters are subdued vnto bōdage already & no strength is there in oure handes, and other men haue our landes and vyneyardes.
And when I heard their complainte and B suche woordes, it displeased me sore: and I aduised so in my minde, that I rebuked the counsaillours, and the rulers, and sayde vnto them: Euerye one of you is to chargeable vnto his brother. And I brought a greate congregation against them, and sayde vnto them: we (after oure habilitye) haue boughte oure brethren the Iewes, whiche were solde vnto the heathen.
And will you sell youre brethren again vnto the heathen, after that they haue bene solde vnto vs. Then held they their peace, and coulde fynde nothing to aunswer. And Nehemia sayd: It is not good that ye doe. Oughte ye not to walke in the feare of God, because of the rebuke of the heathen that are oure enemyes.
I and my brethren, and my seruauntes doe lend them money & corne: but as for vsurye let vs leaue it. Therefore this same daie I praye you see that ye restore them their landes agayn, their vineyardes, oliegardeins, and their houses. And remitte the hundred part of the money of the corne, wine, and oile that ye haue of of them. Then saide they: we wil restore them againe, and wil require nothing of C them: and will doe as thou hast spoken.
And I called the priestes, & toke an othe of thē, that they would doe so. And I shoke my lappe, and saide: God shake out euery man after the same maner fro his house and laboure, that maketh not thys woorde: euen thus be he shaken out, and voyde. And al the congregation sayde: Amen, and prayse the lorde: And the people dyd so. And from the time foorth that (the kyng) committed vnto me to be a captayne of them that were in the lande of Juda, euen from the twenty yere vnto the two and thirtye yere of the kyng Artaxerxes (that is twelue yeare,) I with D my brethren lyued not of such sustinaunce as was geuen to a captayn. For the olde captaines that were before me, had bene chargeable vnto the people, and hadde taken of them, bread and wyne, and fortye sycles of siluer: yea, and their seruauntes hadde oppressed the people. But so dyd not I, and that because of the feare of God: But I laboured also in the worke vpon the walle, and bought no lande.

And all my seruauntes came thyther together vnto the worke. Moreouer there were at my table an hundred and fyftye of the Jewes and rulers, whiche came E vnto me, from among the heathen, that are about vs.
And there was prepared for me daily an oxe, and syxe chosen shepe, and birds, and euer once in ten dayes a great summe of wine. Yet required not I the liuing of a captayn, for the bondage was grieuous 2.Esd.vi. b vnto the people. Thynke vpon me my and.xiii b god vnto the best, according to al that I haue done for thys people.

The.vi.Chapter.

The building is yet again hyndred and let.

A AND when Sanabalat, Tobiah, and Gesem the Arabian, and the other of our enemies, hearde y I had builded the walle, and that there were no moe gappes therin (howbeit at thesame tyme had I not hanged the dores vppon the gates,) Sanabalat and Gesem sent vnto me, saying: come that we may mete and take counsell together in the villages that are in y plain of the citie, Ono. Neuerthelesse they thought to do me euil. And I sente messegers vnto them, saying: I haue a great businesse to doe, and I cánot come down, The worke shoulde stande styll, yf I were negligent and came down to you.
Howe be it, they sente vnto me, as good as foure tymes, after the same maner.
And I gaue them the same aunswere.
Then sente Sanabalat hys seruaunte againe vnto me the fifth time, with an open letter in his hand, wherin was written: It is told the heathē, and Gesem hath sayde it, that thou and the Jewes thynke to rebel: for the which cause thou buildest B the walle, that thou mayest bee their kyng in these matters, and hast or-dayned the prophetes to preache of thee at Jerusalem, and to saye: He is kyng of Juda.
And now shall this come to the kinges eares, come now therfore and let vs take our counsell together. And I sent vnto him, saying: there is no suche thyn-ges done as thou sayst: for thou faynest them out of thine owne hearte.
For they were all mynded to make vs afraide, saying: they shall withdraw their handes from the worke, that it shall not be finished. Howbeit, I strengthed my hand the more. And I came vnto y house of Semaia the sonne of Delaia the sonne of Mehetabeel, and he had shut hymself within, and sayde: let vs come together into the house of god, euen vnto the mid-des of the temple, and shut the doores of the temple: for they will come to slay thee, yea, euen in the nyght will they come to put thee to death. And I sayd: should any C suche man as I, flye? Who is that beyng as I am, that will goe into the temple, to saue his lyfe?
I will not go in. And I perceyued, that god hadde not sent him. Yet spake he prophecy vnto me, neuerthelesse, Tobiah & Sanabalat hadde hired him for money.
Therfore toke he y money, that through feare I should so doe, and sinne: that they might haue an euil reporte of me, to blaspheme me. My God thinke thou vpon Tobiah and Sanabalat according vnto these their workes, and of the prophete Noadia, and of the other prophetes that D would haue putte me in feare. And the wall was finished on the fiue and twenty daye of the monethe Elul, in two and fifty dayes: And when all our enemyes heard therof, all the heathen that were about vs, wer afraide, and their courage failed them. And they perceiued that this worke came of oure god.
And at y same time wer ther many of the chiefe of Juda, whose letters went vnto Tobiah and agayne from Tobiah vnto them (for there were manye in Juda, that were sworne vnto hym, for he was the sonne in lawe of Sechania, the sonne of Arah, and his sonne Jehonathā had had the daughter of Mesullam the sone of Barachia, and thei spake good of him before me, and told him my wordes) and Tobiah sent letters to put me in feare.

The.vii.Chapter.

After the wal once builded, is the watch he appointed. They that returned fro the captiuitye are nubred.

A Now when the wall was builded, I hanged on the dores also, & the porters singers, & Leuites were appointed. And I commaunded my brother Hanani, and Hanania the ruler of the castel at Jerusalem: for he was a faithfull man, and feared god more than did many other. And I sayde vnto them: let not the gates of Jerusalem bee opened vntil the sonne be whote. And while they wer standing in the watch, thei shut the dores, and barred them.

And we appointed certain citezens of Jerusalem to be watchmen, euery one to kepe his watche, and euery one to be ouer against his house. As for the citie, it was large of roume, and gret: but the people wer few therin, and the houses were not B builded. And God gaue me in my heart, that I gathered together the principall men, and the officers and the people, to number them: and I founde a register of the number of them * which came vp before out of the captiuity, & found written therin: these are the sones of the land that went vp fro the captiuity of the carrying awaye (whom Nabuchodonozor the king of Babilon had brought away) and came agayn to Jerusalem and Juda: euery one vnto his citye. They whiche came with Zorobabel are these, Jesua, Nehemia, Asariah, Raamia, Nahamani, Mardochee, Bellan Mesperah, Benuai, Nahum, and Baanah. This is the number of the men of the people of Israel. The children of Pharaos, wer two. M. an hundred and two & seuenty: the children of Saphatiah, thre hundred and two and C seuenty: the children of Arah, thre hundred and two and fifty: the children of the captain of Moab, among the children of Jesua and Joab two thousande, eight hundred and eightene: the children of Elam, a thousand two hundred and foure and fifty: the children of Zachua, eight hundred & fyue and fourty: the children of Zachai, seuen hundred & thre score, the children of Banui, sixe hundred and eight and forty: the children of Bebai, sixe hundred and eight and twentye: the children of Asgad two thousande, thre hundred and two & twenty: the children of Adonicam, sixe hundred, three score and seuen: the children of Begoai, two thousand three score and seuen, the children of Adin, sixe hundred and fiue and fifty: the children of D Ater of Hezekia, ninety and eyghte. The children of Hason.iii. C. and eyghte and twenty: the children of Besai.iii. hundred and foure and twenty, the children of Hariph, an hundred and twelue: the children of Gibeon, ninety and fiue: the men of Bethlehem and Netophah, an hundred foure score and eighte: the men of Anathoth, an hundred & eight and twentye: the menne of Beth Asmaueth, two and forty: the men of Kariah Jarim, Cephirah and Beeroth, seuen hundred & three and forty: the men of Ramah and Geba sixe hundred and one and twenty: the men of Michmas, an hundred and two and twenty: the menne of Bethel and Ai, an hundred and three and twenty: the men of Nebo, an hundred and two and fifty: the children of the other Elam, a thousand two hundred and foure and fifty the children of Harim, thre hundred and twenty the children of Jericho, three hundred & fiue and fourtye: the children of Lodhadid and Ono, seuen hundred and one and twenty: the children of Sanaa thre thousande, nyne hundred and thirty.

The Priestes. The children of Jedaiah, of the house of Jesua, nyne hundred and three and seuenty: the children of Immer a thousande and two and fiftye: the children of Phashur, a thousande two hundred and seuen and fortye the children of Harim, a thousande and.xvii.

The Leuites. The children of Jesua at E Cadmiel, and of the children of Hoduah, foure and seuenty.

The singers: The children of Asaph, an hundred and eight and fourty. The porters: The children of Sallum, the children of Ater, the children of Talmon, the children of Akub, the children of Hatita, the children of Sobai, all together an hundred and eyght and thirty.

The Nethinims.

The children of Ziha: the children of Hasupha: the children of Tabaoth, the children of Ceros, the children of Sia, the children of Phadon: the children of Lebanah: the children of Hagaba, the chyldren dren of Samai, the children of Hanan: the children of Gidel: the children of Ga-her: the children of Reaia, the children of Rezin: the children of Necoda: the children of Gasam: the children of Usa: the children of Phaseah, the children of Be-sai, the children of Meunim, the children of Nephussim, the childrẽ of Bacbuc, the children of Hacupha, the children of Harhur, the children of Bazlith, the children of Mehida, the children of Harsa, the children of Barcos, the children of Sassera: the childrẽ of Thamah, the children of Neziah, the children of Hatipha.

F The children of Salomons seruantes the children of Sotai, the childrẽ of So-phereth, the children of Pherida, the children of Jaala, the children of Darcõ, the children of Giddel, the children of Saphatiah, the children of Hatil, the childrẽ of Pochered of Zabaim, the children of Amon. Al these Nethinims, and the children of Salomõs seruauntes, were thre hundred, ninetie and two.
And these went vp also of Thel Mela, Thel Harsa, Cherub, Adon and Immer: but they coulde not shewe their fathers house, nor their sede, and that they were of Israell. The children of Dalaiah, the children of Thobia, and the children of Nichoda, sixe hundred and twoo & forty.
And of the priestes of the children of Habaiah: the children of Hacos, the children of Bersilai: which toke one of the daughters of Bersilai the Giliadite to wife, & was named after their name. These soughte their writing in the register of their generation, but they wer not foũd, therfore they wer put frõ the priesthode.
And Hathirsata sayd vnto them, that they shoulde not eate of the moste holye, tyll there came vp a priest whiche should weare Urim and Thumim.
And so the whole cõgregation together was two and forty thousande, thre hundred and thre score, besides their seruaũ-tes and maydens, of whome there were seuen thousande, thre hundred and seuen and thyrtie.
And they hadde two hundred, and seuen and fortye singyng menne and wemen.
G Theyr horses, seuen hundred and syxe and thyrtye, and theyr mules, two hundred and fiue and fortye. The Camels foure hundred and fiue and thyrtye: syxe thousande seuen hundred and twentye asses. And certaine of the auncient fa-fathers gaue vnto the worke.
Hathirsatha gaue to the treasure a thousande peces of golde, fifty basens, fiue hundred and thirtye Priestes garmentes. And some of the chief fathers gaue vnto the treasure of the worke, twenty thousande peces of golde, and two thousande and two hundred pounde of siluer.
And the other people gaue twenty thousande peces of golde, and two thousande pounde of siluer and thre score and seuen priestes garmentes.
And the priestes and Leuites, porters, and the singers and the other of the people, and the Nethinims and all Israell dwelte in their cities. And the seuenth moneth came, and the children of Israell were in their cities.

The .viii. Chapter.

Esdras gathereth together the people, & readeth to them the law. They kepe the feast of the tabernacles or boothes.

Esdras the scribe, that he should fetche the boke of the law of Moses, which the lorde commaunded to Israel. And Esdras ỹ prieste brought the law before the congregatiõ both of men and women: & al ỹ could not vnderstande dydde hearken vnto it, vpon the first daye of the seuenth moneth: and he read therin, in the strete that was before the watergate (from the mornynge vntill the noone daye) before menne and women that dydde hearken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclyned to the booke of the lawe. And Esdras the Scribe stoode vppon an hye pulpyt of woode, whiche they hadde made for the preaching, and beside hym stode Mathi-thia, Sema, Anania, Uriah, Helkia, and B Maasia: on his right hande, on his left hande stode, Pedaia, Misael, Malchia, Hasum, Hasebadana, Zachari, and Me-sullam. And Esdras opened the booke before all the people, for he stode aboue all the people: And when he opened it, all the people stoode vp. And Esdras praysed the Lord the greate God. And all the people answered: Amen, Amen, wyth their handes vp, and bowed themselues, and worshypped the Lord, fallyng down vpon vpon their faces to the grounde. And Jesua, Baam, Serabiah, Jamin, Acub, Sebathai, Hadaia Maasia, Celita, Aza-ria, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaia, and the Leuites, caused the people to geue hede vnto the lawe, and the people stoode in their place. And they reade in the booke of the law of God distinctly and playnely, so that men vnderstode the thing that was read. And Nehemiah (which is Ha-thirsatha) and Esdras the priest & scribe, and the Leuites that caused the people to take hede, sayd vnto al the people: this day is holy vnto the Lorde your god: be not you sory and wepe not.

C For al the people wept, whē they hearde 1.Es.ix.g the wordes of the law. And he said vnto them * goe your waye and eate the fatte, and drinke the swete, and send part vnto them also that haue not prepared themselues: for this day is holy vnto our lord, be not ye sory therfore: for the ioye of the Lorde is youre strengthe. And the Leui-tes stilled all the people, and sayde: holde your peace, for the daye is holye, bere not ye your selues. And all the people wente their way to eate and drynke, and to send parte vnto other, and to make greate mirth: because they hadde vnderstand the woordes that were declared vnto them.
And on the next day wer gathered together the chiefe fathers among al the people, and the Priestes and Leuites, vnto Esdras the Scribe, that they might vnderstande the wordes of the lawe.
And they founde written in the lawe * lem, saying: goe forth vnto the mounte, D and fetche olyue braunches, pyne braunches, mir braunches, palme braunches, and braunches of thicke trees, to make boothes, as it is written.

And so the people went foorth, and fette them, and made them bothes, euery one vpon the roofe of hys house, and in their courtes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the strete by the watergate, and in the strete by porte Ephraim.
And all the congregation of theim that were come againe oute of the captiuitie, made bothes and sate vnder the bothes: for ỳ since time of Josua the sōne of Nu, vnto thys daye, hadde not the children of Israell done so, and there was verye great gladnesse.
And euery daye from the firste daye vnto the laste, read Esdras in the booke of the lawe of God. And seuen dayes helde they the feast, & on the .viii. day, they gathered together, according vnto ỳ maner.

The .ix. Chapter.

The people repent, and forsake their strange wiues. Esdras reciteth the benefites of god, and the sinnes of the people.

on the day. And the Leuites stode on hie, namely Jesua, Bani, Cadmiel, Saba-niah, Buni, Sarebiah, Bani & Chana-

God.
And the Leuites, Jesua and Cadmiell, B Bani and Hasabnia, Serebia, and Hodia, Sebania and Phathahya, sayde:

And the red sea didst thou deuide in sundre beefore them so that they went thorowe the middest of the sea drie shodde: and their persecutors threwest thou into the depe (as a stone) in the mightye waters: and leddest them on the day time in a cloudy piller, and on the night season in a piller of fire, to shew

But they and oure fathers were proude and hardnecked, so that thei folowed not thy commaundementes: and woulde not obey, neyther wer myndefull of the wonders that thou diddest for them: but became obstinate and heady, in so muche that they turned backe to their bondage, for their disobedience.

And thou gauest them kingdomes and nations, and partest them according to theyr portions, so that they possessed * the lande of Sehon kyng of Hesebon: and the lande of Og the kyng of Basan.

And their children multipliedst thou, as the starres of heauen, and broughtedst them into the lande, whereof thou haddest spoken vnto their father, that they shoulde goe into it, and haue it in possession. And the children wente in, and possessed the lande, * and thou subduedst E beefore them the inhabitors of the lande, Jos.i.a euen the Cananites, and gauest them into their hand, with their kynges and the people of the land, that they myght doo with them what they woulde.

And they wanne their strong cities, and a fatte lande, and tooke possession of houses, that were full of al maner of goodes, welles dygged out, vyneyardes, olyegardens, and manye fruitefull trees, and they didde eate, and were filled, and became fatte, and liued in wealth thorowe thy greate goodnesse. Neuerthelesse they were disobediente, and rebelled againste thee, and cast thy lawe behynd theyr backes, and * slue thy Prophetes (which exhorted them earnestlye that they might Mat. b bring them againe vnto thee) and didde great blaphemies. Therefore thou gauest them ouer into the hand of their enemies that vexed them.

And in the time of their trouble when they cried vnto thee, thou heardest them from heauen: and throughe thy greate mercy thou gauest them sauiours which helped them out of the hand of their enemyes. But when they came to reste, they tourned backe again, to dooe euill before thee: therefore leftest thou them in the hande of their enemies, so that they had the dominion ouer them. And when they conuerted & cried vnto thee, thou heardest them from heauen, and many times hast thou delyuered them accordinge to thy greate mercye, and testifiedst vnto them that thou mightest bryng them agayne vnto thy lawe.

Notwithstanding, they wer proude, and hearkened not vnto thy commaun- F demets, but sinned in thy laws, * (which Le.xviii.a if a manne doe, he shal liue in them,) and Rom.x.a turne the shoulder awaye, and were stiffenecked, and woulde not heare. And ma- Ga.iii.b nye yeares diddest thou forbeare them, and

and testifiedst vnto them through thy spi-rite, euen by the hande of thy prophetes: and yet would they not heare. Therfore gauest thou them into the hande of yͤ nations in the landes. But for thy greate mercies sake, thou hast not vtterly consumed them, neyther forsaken them: for thou art a gratious and merciful God.
¶ Now therfore our God, thou great God, mighty and terrible, thou that keepest couenaunt and mercy, regarde not a litle all the trauaile that hathe happened vnto vs, and our kings, our Princes, our Priestes, our Prophets, and our fathers and all thy people, since the tyme of the kinges of Assur, vnto this daye. And truly thou art iust, in all yͭ thou hast brought vppon vs: for thou hast done right. As for vs we haue bene vngodly, and oure kinges, and our Princes, our Priestes, & our fathers, haue not done after thy law, nor regarded thy commaundementes, & thy earnest exhortations, wherwith thou hast exhorted them: and thei haue not ser-ued thee in their kingdome, and in thy great goodes that thou gauest them, and in the large and plentuous lande, which thou gauest before them, and haue not conuerted from their wicked workes.
D Beholde, we are in bondage this daye: and so is the lande that thou gauest vnto our fathers, to enioy the fruits & goodes thereof, beholde, there are we bondmen.
And great is the encrease of it, vnto the kinges whom thou hast set ouer vs, because of oure synnes: and they haue dominion ouer our bodies and cattell (euen as they will themselues) and we are in great trouble. And in all this make we a sure couenaunt, and write it, & our princes, Leuites, and priestes seale vnto it.

The .xi. Chapter.

Who dwelled in Jerusalem after it was builded, and who in the cities of Juda.

A AND the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem:
The other people also cast lottes, that among ten, one part should go to Jerusalem into the holy city to dwell, and nine partes to be in the cities: and the people thanked all the men that were willyng to dwel at Jerusalem. These are the heades of the lande that dwelt in Jerusalem and in the cities of Juda, euery one in his possession and in their cities: thei of Israel, the priestes, Leuites, the Nethinims, & the chyldren of Salomons seruauntes. And at Jerusalem dwelt certaine of the children of Juda and of BenJamin. Of the chyldren of Juda: Athaia, the sonne of Uzia, the sonne of Zachary, the sonne of Ama-ria, the sonne of Saphtia, the sonne of Mahalaleel, of the chyldren of Phares.
And Maasia, the sonne of Baruch, the sonne of Chalhose, the sonne of Hasaia, the sonne of Adaia, the sonne of Joiarib, the sonne of Zacharye, the sonne of Siloni.

All these were the chyldren of Phares that dwelte at Jerusalem, euen .iiii. hundred, thre score and eyght valiaunt men.
These are the chyldren of BenJamin, Salu the sonne of Mesullam, the sonne of Joed, the sonne of Pedaia, the sonne of B Calaia, the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Jehiel, the sonne of Isai. And after hym, Prince in the house of God: and his brethren that performed the worke in the temple, viii. hundred and .xxii. And Adaia the sonne of Jeroham, the sonne of Pelaliel, the sonne of Amzi, the sonne of Zachary, the sonne of Phashur, the sonne of Malchia and his brethren, chiefe among the fathers, two hundred and two & forty. And Amasai the sonne of Azraell, the sonne of Ahasai, the son of Mosolemoth, the sonne of Jmmer: and his brethre were valeaunt men, an hundred and eight and twenty: And theyr ouerseer was Zabdiel a sonne of one of the great men. Of the i.Par.

Leuits: Semeia the sonne of Hasub, the C sonne of Aserikam, the sonne of Hasabia, the sonne of Bunni, and Sabathai, and Josabad of the chief of the Leuites, had the ouersight of the outwarde businesse of the house of God. And Mathania the son of Micha, the sonne of Zabdy, the son of Asaph, was the principall to beginne the thankesgeuing and prayer. And Bakbukia the seconde among his brethren, and Abda, the sonne of Sammua, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Jeduthum. All the Leuites in the holye citie were two hundred, foure score and foure. And ye porters Acub and Talmon, and theyr bre- i.Par. thren that kept the portes, were an hundred and two and seuenty. As for the residue of Israell, the priestes and Leuites, they were in all the cities of Juda, euery one in his inheritaunce. And the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel: and Ziba and Gis-pa, was set ouer the Nethinims. The ouerseer of the Leuites at Jerusalem was Usi, the son of Baany, the sonne of Hasabia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Micha.

Of the children of Asaph there wer singers aboute the businesse in the house of
god,

D god, for it was the kynges commaundemente concerning them: that the singers should deale faithfully every day as was according. And Pathaia the son of Mesabaell of the chyldren of Zerah, the sone of Juda, next the kyng in all matters concerning the people, and theyr villages and landes. And some of the chyldren of Juda that wer without in the townes of their lande, dwelte at Kariah Arbe, and in the villages thereof: at Didon: and in the villages therof: and at Jecabzel, and in the villages therof: at Jesua, Moladath, Bethphalet in the towne of Suall Beersaba, and in their villages, at Sikelag, and Moconah, and their villages, and Enremon, Zarah, Jerimoth, Zonoa, Odollam, and in theyr villages: at Lachis and in the fieldes thereof: at Aseca, and in the villages thereof: & they dwelte from Beersabe unto the valley of Hynnon. The chyldren also of BenJamin, of Geba, dwelte at Machmas, Aia, Bethel, and in their villages. And at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gethaim Hadid, Zeboim, Nabalath, Lod and Ono the carpenters valley. And the Leuites had possession, both in Juda, and in BenJamin.

The. xii. Chapter.

The priestes and Leuites which came with Zorobabell unto Jerusalem are numbred, & the walle is dedicate.

A These are the priestes and Leuites that went up w Zorobabell þ sone of Salathiel, and with Jesua, Sararia, Jeremy & Esdras, Amaria, Maluch, Hatus, Sechania, Rehū Merimoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Meamin, Maaria, Belga, Semeia, Joiarib, Jadaia, Salu, Amocke, Helkia and Judaia: these were the heades among the priestes, and theyr brethren, in the daies of Jesua. The Leuites wer these: Jesua, Bennui, Cadmiel, Sarabia, Juda, and Mathania, whiche was over the offyce of thankesgeuyng, he and his brethren. Bacbukia and Himni, and theyr brethren were aboute them in the watches. Jesua begatte Joakim: Joakim also begatte Eliasib: and Eliasib begatte Joiada: Joiada begatte Jonathan: and Jonathan begat Jadua.

In the dayes of Joakim wer these the chiefe fathers among the priestes: under Sararia, Maraia: under Jeremy Hanania: under Esdras, Mesullam: under Amaria, Jehoanan: under Melico, Jonathan: under Sebania, Joseph: under Harim, Adna: under Maraioth, Helca: under Iddo: Zachary under Genthon, Mesullam: under Abia, Zichry: under Miniamin and Moadia Piltai: under Belga, Samua: under Semeia, Jehonathan: under Joiarib, Mathenai: under Jadaia, Usi: under Selai, Kelai: under Amok, Eber: under Helchia, Hasabia: under Jadaia, Nathanael. And in the time B of Eliasib, Joiada, Johanan and Jadua were the chiefe fathers among the Leuites and the priestes, written under the reygne of Darius the Persian. The chyldren of Leuy, the principall fathers were wrytten in the Chronicles unto the tyme of Jonathan the sonne of Eliasib. And these were the chiefe among the Leuites: Hasabia, Serebia, and Jesua the sonne of Cadmiell, and theyr brethren in theyr presence to geue prayse and thankes, accordyng as Dauid the man of God hadde ordeyned it, one watch over agaynst another: Mathania, Balbukia, Obadia, Mesullam, Talmon and Acub, were porters in the watch at the thresholds of þ gates. These were in the dayes of Joakim the sonne of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and in the dayes of Nehemia the captain, and of the priest Esdras the Scribe. And in þ dedication of the wal at Jerusalem, they soughte the Leuites oute of all their places, that they myghte bee brought to Jerusalem to kepe the dedication and gladnesse, with thankesgeuyng, and singing with Cimbals, Psalteries and Harpes.

And the chyldren of the syngers gathered themselues together from euery syde oute of the playne countrey aboute Jerusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi, from the house of Gilgall, and C out of the countreys of Geba, and Asmaueth: for the syngers had buylded them villages rounde aboute Jerusalem. And the priestes and Leuites were purifyed and cleansed the people, and the gates and the wall.

And I broughte the Princes of Juda uppon the walle, and appoynted twoo greate quiers of menne to geue thankes, whiche wente on the ryghte hande of the walle towarde the donggate, and after them wente Hosaia, and halfe of the Princes of Juda, and Asa-ria, Esdras and Mesullam, Juda, Ben-Jamin, Semia, and Jeremye: and cer-tayne of the Priestes children with trompettes, namely Zachary the sonne of Jonathan, the sonne of Semeia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Michaia the sonne of Zacur, the sonne of Asaph and his brethren, Semeia, Asaruel, Malalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nathanael, and Juda and Hanani, with the musicall instrumentes of Dauid the man of God. And Esdras the Scribe went before them, and besyde the Welgate, they wente vp ouer against them vppon the steppes of the ci-tie of Dauid, at the goyng vp of the wall beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the watergate Eastwarde. The other quier of them that gaue thankes, wente ouer against them, and I after them, and the halfe parte of the people vpon the walle, beyonde the fornace gate vnto the brode walle, and beyonde the port of Ephraim, and beyonde the olde gate, beyond ye fish-gate, & the towre of Hananaell, & the tower of Mea, vntil the shepegate. And thei stode stil in the prisõ gate, and so stode the two quiers (of them that gaue thankes) in the house of God: and I, and the halfe of the rulers with me, and the Priestes, namely Eliakim, Maasia, Miniamin, Michaia, Elioenai, Zachary, and Hanania, with trompettes, and Maasia, Se-meiah, Eleasar, Uzsi, Jehohanã, Mel-D chiah, Elam, and Ser. And the syngers sang loude, hauing Jestahiah for theyr ouerseer. And thesame daye they offered great sacrifices and reioyced: for god had geuen them great gladnesse, so that both the wiues and children were ioyfull, and the mirth of Jerusalem was heard farre of. At the same tyme were there men ap-poynted ouer the treasure houses (wherein were the heueoffringes, the firstlings, and the tythes) that they shoulde gather them out of the fieldes aboute the cityes, to distribute them vnto the Priestes and Leuites, accordyng to the lawe: for Juda was glad of the Priestes and Leuites, that they stode and wayted vppon the office of their god, whiche is a pure offyce.

And the singers and porters stoode after the commaundemente of Dauid, and of Salomon his sonne, *for in the tyme of
i. Para. xxiij.a. Dauid and Asaph, were the chiefe syn-gers founded, and the songes of prayse & thankesgeuing vnto God.

In the tyme of Zorobabel, and Nehemiah dyd al they of Israel geue, portions vnto the syngers and porters, euery day his portion and they gaue tythes vnto ye Leuites, and the Leuites gaue tythes again vnto the chyldren of Aaron.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The lawe is read, and when they haue hearde it, they separate from them, all straungers. &c.

AND that daye dyd they reade in the boke of Moses, and the people heark- A ned thereto, and there was founde written, that the Ammonites and Deute. xxiii.a Moabites shoulde neuer come into the congregation of God, because they met not the chyldren of Israel with bread and water: *but hired Bala- Numeri. xxii.a am against them, that he should curse the and our God turned the curse into a blessing. Nowe when they heard the lawe, it fortuned that they seperated from Israel, euerye one that had mixt himself therin. And before this had the priest Eliasib the ouersyght of the treasury of the house of oure God, and he was kinsman to To-bia: and had made hym a great chamber, and there had they afore tyme layde the offerynges, frankensence, vessell, and B the tythes of corne, wyne and oyle (accor-dyng to the commaundemente geuen to the Leuites, syngers and porters) and the heueofferynges of the Priestes. But in all this tyme was not I at Jerusalem, for in the two and thirty yere of Artharerses king of Babilon, came I vnto the king, and after certain daies obtayned I licence of the kyng to com to Jerusalem.
And I gate knowledge of the euyll that Eliasib did vnto Tobia, in that he hadde made him a chamber, in the courte of the house of God, and it grieued me sore: and I cast foorth all the vessels of the house of Tobia oute of the chamber, and commaunded them to clense the chambers.

And thyther broughte I agayne the vessells of the house of God wyth the meateofferyng and the incence. And I perceyued that the portions of the Leui-tes were not geuen them, and that eue-ry one fledde to hys lande, euen the Le-uites and syngers that executed the worke. Then reproued I the rulers, and sayde: why is the house of god forsaken? And I gathered them together, and set them in theyr place. Then broughte al Juda the tythes of corne and wyne, and oyle, vnto the treasure.

And

And I made treasurers ouer the treasure, euen Selemiah the prieste, and Zadoc the scribe, and of the Leuites, Phadaia, and vnder their hande was Hanan the sonne of Zacur, the sonne of Mathania, for they were counted faythfull, and theyr offyce was to distribute the portiōs vnto theyr brethren. Thynke vpon me, O my God herein, and wype not out my mercye that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offycers therof.
At the same tyme sawe I some treadyng wyne presses on the Sabboth, and bringyng in sheaues, and asses laden wyth wyne, grapes, fygges, and bryngyng all maner of burthens vnto Jerusalem, vppon the Sabboth daye. And I rebuked them earnestlye the same daye that they solde the vitayles. There dwelte C men of Tyre also therin, which broughte fyshe and all maner of ware, and sold on the Sabboth vnto the chyldren of Juda in Jerusalem. Then reproued I the rulers in Juda, and sayde vnto them: what euyll thyng is this that ye doe: and break the Sabboth daye: Did not your fathers euen thus, and our God brought all this plage vppon vs, and vpon this citie: And ye make the wrath more yet vpon Israell, in that ye breake the Sabboth. And it fortuned that when the porters of Jerusalem beganne to bee darke in the euenyng before the Sabboth, I commaunded to shutte the gates, and charged that they shoulde not bee opened tyll after the Sabbothe, and some of my seruauntes sette I at the gates, that there shoulde no burthen be broughte in on the Sabboth daye. Then remayned the chapmen and marchauntes once or twyce ouer nyghte withoute Jerusalem, with all maner of wares. Then reproued I them sore, and saide vnto them: why tarye ye all nyghte about the walle: yf ye doe it once agayn, I will lay handes vppon you. From that tyme foorth came they no more on the Sabboth. And I said vnto the Leuites that they shoulde clense themselues and that they shoulde comme and keepe the gates, to hallowe the Sabboth daye.

Thinke vppon me (O my God) concernyng this also, and spare me accordyng to thy great mercy. And the same time saw D I Jewes that maryed wyues of Asdod, of Ammon, and of Moab, and their children spake halfe in the speache of Asdod and coulde not speake in the Jewes language, but by the tong myght a man per-ceiue euery people.

Then I reproued them and cursed thē, and smote certayne men of them, & made them bare, and tooke an othe of them by God: ye shall not geue your daughters vnto theyr sonnes, neyther shall ye take theyr daughters vnto your sonnes, or for your selues. Dyd not Salomon the king of Israell synne for suche: and yet among many heathen was there no kynge lyke hym, whiche was dere vnto his GOD, and God made hym king ouer all Israel: and yet neuerthelesse, outlandysh women caused hym to synne. Shal we then obey vnto you, to doe all this greate euyll, and to transgresse agaynste our God, and mary straunge wyues: And one of the chyldren of Jehoiada the sonne of Eliasib the hye Priest, had made a contracte wyth Sanabalat the Horonite: but I chased hym fro me: (O my God) thynke thou vpon them that defile the Priesthood, and the couenaunte of the Priesthoode, and of the Leuites. Thus clensed I them from all suche as were outlandishe, and appoynted the courses of the Priestes & Leuites euerye one in his offyce, and to offer the woode at tymes appoynted, and the fyrst fruites: Thynke thou vpon me (O my God) for the beste. Amen.

DD.iii.

The booke of Esther.

The first Chapter.

Kyng Ahasuerus maketh a royall feast, whereunto the Queene Vasthy will not come, for which cause she is deuorsed.

A IT fortuned in the dayes of Ahasuerus, which reig ned from India vnto Ethiopia (ouer an hundred and seuen and twenty lā-des) euen in those dayes, when the kyng Ahasue-rus sat on his seate royall, which was in Susan the chief citie, in the thirde yere of his reigne: he made a feaste vnto all hys Princes and seruauntes. And the mighty men of Persia and Media, the Captains also and rulers of his countreys were before him, and he shewed the riches & glory of his kingdome, and the glorious worship of his greatnesse many dayes long: euen an hundred and fourescore dayes.
And when these dayes were expired, the B king made a feaste to all the people that were in Susan the chiefe citie, both great and small seuen dayes long, in the court of the gardein by the kynges palace: where there hanged white, greene, and yelow clothes, fastned with cordes of fine silk, and purple, in siluer ringes, vpon pillers of marble stone. The benches also were of golde and siluer, made vppon a pauement of greene, white, yelowe, and blacke marble. And thei dranke in vessels of golde. And chaunged vessell after vessell. And the kinges wine was muche ac-cordyng to the power of the kyng. And the drinke was so appointed, that none shoulde compell any man: for so the kyng had commaunded by the officers of hys house, that euery one shoulde doe as liked him. And the Queene Vasthi made a feast also for the women in the palace of Ahasuerus. And on the seuenth day whē the king was mery after the wine, he cō-maunded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagthan, Zethar & Car-chas, the seuen chamberlaines (that dyd C seruice in the presence of kynge Ahasue-rus) to feeche the Queene Vasthi wyth the crowne regall into the kinges presence, that he mighte shewe the peoples Princes her fairenesse, for she was beautifull. But the Queene Vasthi would not come at the kinges worde, by hys chamberlains.
Then was the king very wrothe, and his indignation kindled in hym. And the king spake to the wyse menne, that had vnderstandyng in the ordinaunces of the lande: for the kinges matters muste bee handled before all suche as haue know ledge of the lawe and iudgemente: and the (chiefe and) nexte vnto him, were Car-sena, Sethar, Admata, Tharsis, Mares, Marsena and Mamucan, the seuen princes of Persia and Media, whiche saw the kinges face, and sate aboue in the kyngdome. What lawe (saieth the king) should bee executed vpon the Queene Vasthi because she did not accordyng to the worde of the kyng Ahasuerus, whiche he com maunded by his chamberlaynes? And Memucan answered before the king and D the princes: the Queene Vasthi hath not onely done euill against the kyng, but also against all the princes, and against al the people that are in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus: for this deede of the Queene shall come abrode vnto all women, so that they shall despyse theyr hus bandes before theyr eyes: and shall saye: the king Ahasuerus commaunded Vas-hi the Queene to bee broughte in before him, but she woulde not come. And so shal the princesses in Persia and Media, saye likewise, vnto all the kinges princes, whē they heare of this deede of the Queene: thus shall there aryse to muche despyte-fulnesse and wrathe. If it please the kyng therefore, let there go a commaundemēt from him, and let it be written accordyng C to the lawes of the Persians, and Medians (and not to be transgressed) ÿ Vast hi come no more before kyng Ahasuerus, and let the kyng geue her kyngdome vnto another that is better than she. And when this commaundement of the kinge (whiche

(which shall be made) is published thorowout all his empire, (whiche is greate) all women shall holde theyr husbandes in honoir bothe among great and small.
This pleased the kyng and the Princes, and the king did accordyng to the woorde of Memucan. For he sente letters foorth into all the kynges landes, into euerye lande accordyng to the wrytyng thereof, and to euery people after theyr lãguage, that euery man should bee Lorde in hys owne house. And this caused he to be spoken after the language of his people.

The.ii.Chapter.

After the Queene is put away, certayne godlye yong damosels are searched oute. Edissa, otherwise called Esther, pleaseth the king, & is made Quene.
Mardocheus openeth vnto the kyng those ŷ would betraye hym.

A After these actes, when ŷ displeasure of king Ahasuerus was nowe layde, he thought vpon Wasthi, and what she had done,
and what was concluded against her. Then saide ŷ kinges seruauntes that ministred vnto him. Let there be faire young virgins soughte for the king: and the kyng appointed certaine men in all the landes of his Empire, whom he charged that they shoulde bring together all the fayre young virgins vnto Susan the head Citye, to the womens buildyng, vnder the hande of Hagei the kinges Chamberlain that kepte the women to geue them their apparell, (and other things necessary to be had.)
And that the Damosell which pleased the king should be in Quene Wasthies stede.
And this pleased the king: and he dyd so.
In the citie of Susan there was a Jew, whose name was Mardocheus the sonne of Jair, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis, a man of Jemini, whiche was ca-ryed awaye from Jerusalem, * when Jekonia the kyng of Juda was ledde awaye, (whom Nabuchodonozor the king of Babilon caryed thence) and he nourysshed Hadassa (that is Esther) hys vncles daughter: for shee had neyther father nor mother, and she was a faire & beautifull damosel: whom Mardocheus (when her father and mother was dead) receiued for his owne daughter.

B So it fortuned, that when the Kynges commaundemente and commissyon was published, and manye damoselles were broughte togither in the citie of Susan, vnder the hande of Hagei: Esther was broughte also vnto the kinges house vnder the hand of Hagei the keper of the women, and the damosell pleased him, & she founde fauoure in his sight. And he caused ornamentes to bee geuen her, and such thinges as belonged to her, and appointed her seuen comely damosels out of the kinges house, and fauoured both her and her gentlewomen singularlye in the house of the women. But Esther shewed
